Vandals mar CHS at year-end

By MARY E. PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Sometime between the evening of May 24 and the morning of May 25, vandals wreaked havoc on the buildings and grounds of Christina High School.

"Most of the damage was done in the back of the buildings," reported Richard Gregg, assistant principal. "No one was aware of the damage until we arrived at the school on Thursday morning."

According to Gregg, included in the extensive damage was graffiti with the number "95" prominently displayed which suggested to school officials that members of this year's graduating class were responsible.

In addition, bleachers, ticket booths, goalie stands and athletic equipment were moved, overturned and strewn around playing fields. Picnic tables were put up on roofs and two outside lights were broken.

Buildings and walks were covered with toilet paper. Saran wrap, shaving cream and "For Sale" signs. Thirteen windows in a greenhouse were broken, as well as the windows in the overturned ticket booth. Trays and garbage were thrown through the broken skylight.

Most expensive was the $2200 in damages to a CD-ROM inside one of the classrooms.

Capes Riley, assistant superintendent for the Christina School District, stated that the total bill for repair and cleanup came to $8460.00.

"The school is still investigating at this time," Riley said. "We are following the student code of conduct in this matter and that includes provisions for everything."

In response to whether or not the school would pursue arrest and prosecution of the perpetrators, Riley stated emphatically, "The student code covers that, too."

Gregg said that immediately following discovery of the damage a meeting was held in which students were told that school activities could be canceled if the vandals were not identified. Since that time a number of reports have come in and Gregg states that "we're narrowing it down but still investigating."

He said that the school definitely believes some members of the class of 1995 are responsible and will be punished. "But no other measures are being taken against the school as a whole," said Gregg. "The Senior Ball and Banquet is on. The Barbecue on Monday is on."

Public voice sought for 301

By MARY E. PETZAK

In a continuing effort to encourage public participation in the 301 studies and plans, the Wilmington Area Planning Council (WILMAPCO) and DelDOT sponsored a "Route 301 Major Investment Study (MIS) Public Scoping Workshop" at Hodgson Vocational-Technical School on May 24, 1995.

and respond to previously expressed Route 301 concerns. The study seeks the choices of private citizens and communities as well as legislative officials. The study is mandated by law prior to the initiation of any major, Federally-funded transportation projects.

The traditional solution to traffic congestion in Delaware has been widening existing roads or building new ones. However, recent public

Today and tomorrow, Newark welcomes 550 athletes to the Delaware Special Olympics 1995 Summer Games at the University of Delaware Sports Complex on South College Avenue.

Competition will take place throughout the two days starting at 9:30 a.m. on Friday and 8:30 a.m. on Saturday. Athletes have trained throughout the year for events in aquatics, track and field, tennis, gymnastics, softball, powerlifting and boccein anticipation of the games.

Opening ceremonies begin at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Bob Carpenter Center with a parade of athletes, organizational awards, fireworks and the arrival of the Olympic Flame, which has travelled 112-miles in a relay run across the state.

"We hope people will come and bring their families," said Ann Grunert, executive director of Delaware Special Olympics. "Too many of us were taught to look away from persons with disabilities when we were young. These athletes glow with the true Olympic spirit and even inspire us workers to try things we never thought we could do."

Grunert pointed out Len Leshem, who at age 51 became a Special Olympics volunteer and ran 13 marathons in one year to publicize the program after years of being a "couch potato."

"Len has now done the Iron Man triathlon three times," said an amazed Grunert. "That's what the example of persons in Special Olympics does for you."

Admission to all events and the opening and closing ceremonies is free.

Mother, daughter grads follow grandmother's footsteps

By MARY E. PETZAK

LAST SATURDAY'S commencement at the University of Delaware was an exciting day for families of the graduates. But for one local family it was hard to tell what to celebrate first.

Rose Mary Woodrow Rutt and her daughter, Julie Ann Rutt, 28, both received degrees at the ceremony. Rose Rutt, a member of the staff of the board of trustees at the University, received a master of arts degree in liberal studies.

Julie Rutt received her bachelors degree in the dual major of history and international relations.

According to Rose Rutt, she went back to college in 1990 after having obtained an associate degree from Goldey Beacom "at the traditional age."

She got her undergraduate degree at Wilmington College in 1992 and then started on her masters.

"I had hoped to be done by last December," stated Rose Rutt. "We really never thought about graduating at the same time when I was doing this."

Her daughter lived and worked in Florida for a while before coming back to get her degree. "We gave each other advice and read papers for each other," said Rose Rutt. "But scheduling computer time at home got a little tricky."

Applauding at the commencement were Rose Rutt's husband and son as well as her mother, Elizabeth Deakynne Woodrow, a 1936 graduate of the University.

"My son, Thomas, became a journeyman carpenter this spring also," Rose Rutt added proudly. "We have a lot to celebrate."

One killed in 896 accident

By MARY E. PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A MARYLAND WOMAN was killed in an accident at Route 896 and Hopkins Bridge Road north of Newark at 7:43 a.m. on May 26. According to state police, a Chevrolet Camaro driven by Gemma A. Brand, 41, of Elkton, was stopped on southbound Route 896 for a vehicle in front of her that was turning left onto Hopkins Bridge Road.

A tractor trailer driven by Roland C. Brown Jr., 31, also of Elkton, struck the rear end of the Camaro and pushed it into the northbound lanes of Route 896. The Camaro then was struck by a Chevrolet Blazer driven by Kerry A. Oswald, 44, of Lincoln University, Pa.

Brand was trapped in the vehicle for approximately fifteen minutes before Aetna Hose Hook & Ladder Co. of Newark was able to extricate her. She was pronounced dead at the scene by New Castle County paramedics.

Oswald was taken to Christiana Hospital by ambulance where she was admitted in stable condition with a laceration and cardiac contusions. She remained in the hospital as of Tuesday where she was listed in good condition.

Brown was treated and released May 26 at Christiana Hospital.

Route 896 was closed until 12:15 p.m. from Wedgewood Road to the Maryland state line as a result of the crash. According to Corporal David W. Thomas of the state police, the case is under investigation by the Delaware State Police Accident Reconstruction Unit as well as the Delaware State Police Truck Unit. The investigation is expected to take two to three weeks.

Search still on for Exxon baby's mother

STATE POLICE continue to search for the mother of a baby found abandoned April 26 in the rest room of the Exxon station near Pencader Plaza, formerly Castle Mall, at the intersection of Routes 4 and 72 in Newark. According to Corporal David Thomas, the police have followed up all leads and the investigation has gone as far away as Texas with no success as yet.

Jane Pierantozzi, executive assistant at the Division of Services for Children, Youth and Their Families, stated that the baby is in foster care and the division is working with the police in attempts to identify the child and his family. Depending on the outcome of the search, the baby could be put up for adoption or reunited with his family if they are found.

State police encourage anyone with possible information about the baby or his family to call 323-4411.

Public voice sought in Route 301 planning, DeIDOT claims

forums have shown that there is now some preference for solutions other than those that favor the use of private automobiles.

Tigist Zegeye, planner and engineer from WILMAPCO, said that people reviewing proposed strategies at recent forums seem to prefer the one combining increased rail and bus service in addition to automobile travel. This alternative would not require additional roads but would allow for maintenance of current highways.

Zegeye hastens to clarify however that WILMAPCO is looking for a solution which takes into account the transportation resources already available, existing and future use of land in the area, and the transportation needs of the public. "WILMAPCO and DeIDOT are not interested in taking away cars," she insists. "We're offering options."

According to Eugene E. Abbott, director of DeIDOT's Office of Planning, "There are a variety of possible ways to go in any new 301 corridor, especially in the high impact area between Route 40 and I-95 along 896."

Abbott stated that 75 percent of the traffic generated in that area is local which means that public input is especially critical to determine the current and future use of the existing highways and possible alternatives.

Representatives from WILMAPCO, DeIDOT and Vanasse Hangen Brustlin, Inc., the consulting firm preparing the MIS, were on hand listening to public comments and suggestions about what should be looked at in the study and how it should be carried out. Displays and handouts outlined the MIS project as well as draft versions of a problem statement, study goals and the work plan itself.

The workshop was the first of the large public forums planned to discuss the MIS which is expected to take at least 12 months to complete.

University graduates thousands

By MARY E. PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The sun shone and the accolades were loud for the more than 3000 students receiving degrees at the University of Delaware's 146th commencement last Saturday.

Allen H. Neuharth, founder of USA Today, delivered the Commencement address to a crowd of 25,000 graduates and well-wishers at Delaware Stadium.

Graduates from 35 states and 70 countries ranging in age from 20 to 79 were among those earning doctoral, master's, bachelor's and associate degrees this year.

Heather Lynn Patton received the Emalea P. Warner Award as the outstanding woman in the senior class and Eric Allen Nauman and Joseph Michael Salvatore Jr. were joint recipients of the Alexander J. Taylor Award as outstanding senior men.

Surita R. Bhatia, daughter of Dr. Kamlesh K. Bhatia and Kanak R. Bhatia of Newark, was recognized undergraduate research and the Robert L. Pigford Award as well as the Phi Kappa Phi National, National Science Foundation and DuPont Graduate fellowships.

The Commencement exercises also marked a significant milestone for the University itself: one of the members of the Class of 1995 was the 100,000th student to graduate from the university.

It took 146 years for the college to reach this total because early classes often had less than 30 graduates. Laura Jefferson, who earned a bachelors degree in English with a minor in Spanish, was the honored graduate through a combination of alphabetical placement and class size. She came to the University because "basically I'd grown up hearing about it. It was always the big place to be."

Fire brings out generosity from co-workers

The damage from a devastating fire on February 9, 1995, at Albert Gaither's home in Bear is still amply visible. But the experience has given Gaither, a fourth grade teacher at Bayard Elementary School in Wilmington, reason to appreciate other less visible assets in his life.

According to Karen Dixon, staff spokesperson at the school, following the fire, staff and members of the PTA at Bayard rallied around and collected over $2700 to aid the family in their temporary relocation and rebuilding efforts. Gaither was appreciative but embarrassed by the generosity of co-workers, parents and students.

"The PTA and faculty have been extremely good," he stated, "It's almost overwhelming. But there's lots of people worse off—some right here at school."

According to Gaither, he got a call while he was at school that the security alarm had gone off at his house. He rushed home to find the house fully engulfed in flames. "I was not expecting to see a fire at my house, even when I passed the fire trucks on the way," he said.

Generosity was not limited to Gaither's school associates. "During the fire complete strangers and neighbors came by and offered help," he marveled.

Some of the staff from the school also went out one weekend to help him in his clean up efforts. Gaither said that "well-wishers continue to come by" when he is there.

None of the Gaither family were home at the time of the fire and no one was injured.

Building for the future

In the past the University of Delaware and Newark residents have seen their share of disagreements.

Anytime you have a university with 20,000-plus students in a city with 26,000 residents, the potential for conflict is great.

U of D hasn't always helped matters, thanks to projects like the newly opened parking ramp on Main Street: a fortress-like structure that added little to Main Street.

Even though U of D does not always turn out award-winning parking sites, the institution does deserve support in its effort to increase an unrealistically low building budget proposed by the administration of Gov. Thomas R. Carper.

The administration put U of D on a fiscal diet of sorts at a time when other state programs were getting much heftier increases.

The university has a number of pressing building needs in key areas such as its College of Business and its nationally known Chemical Engineering Department.

These projects deserve our support, especially since the university relies heavily on private sources as well as state funds. Additionally, UD does not receive as large a chunk of the state budget as its land grant university counterparts in other states.

Too often, we forget that the university is a $300 million-a-year business, with much of its human and physical assets in Newark.

Maintaining the vitality of this institution, through renovations and new construction, is essential to the future of the Newark area.

I HAVE A PRONOUNCED limp. (Depending upon the weather, the activity, and another factor or two, it is variously pronounced as "Ow!" "Ugh!" or something more emphatic). Ten years ago, a kind student said I walked like John Wayne and claimed she thought it was "cute."

I still walk like John Wayne—but with one of his boots off. Peggy, my wife, who has never put athletics on her top ten thousand things to do, says, "It was all that athletics! That's what caused it!"

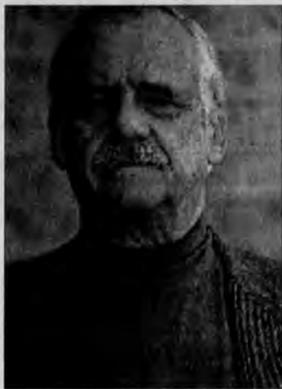

Yet I, who have never put gardening on my top ten million things to do, never complain about her effort to make our property a Shortwood Gardens. And, after she rejected my suggestion that we get the lawn done in green cement, I still mow it; I, the very picture of a one-booted John Wayne!

Of course, athletics was a factor: at least once, my uniform pants were cut off me because the trainers or the doctors thought my knee(s) was too swollen for the more orthodox method of removal. I admit that.

And, I acknowledge that both of my knees, at one time or another, have zigged when I was zagging, thereby requiring me to say, "Draat!" with considerable force.

And, more than once an unprinci-

But there was a little old lady whom I hold equally accountable. On my first visit to an Episcopal Church, the priest bade the congregation to come to the altar to receive the sacrament of Holy Communion. The old lady in the row in front of me went out into the aisle, and I left my pew to follow.

The next thing I remember is doing a double gainer (loser!) over this genuflecting figure and ultimately landing on both knees on the marble floor!!!

Before I could urge the ushers not to cut my grey flannels because I was a graduate student and only had one pair, I heard their solicitous voices fussing over the submarining ENERGY, intelligence, perseverance—these are the attributes of individuals who, in the last half century, have made Newark a better place to live.

I am thinking at the moment of women who have played significant roles in our community. Though my list is by no means complete, I believe longtime residents will recognize these leaders and, perhaps, be motivated to submit the names of others whose achievements deserve recognition.

Making my preliminary list were Edna Dickey, Naomi McCann, Cornelia Mylrea, Mae Carter, Norma Handloff, Betty Hutchinson, Gertrude Johnson, Florence Kershaw, Margo Perkins and Shirley Tarrant. But it occurs to me that a younger, home-grown challenger deserves a place on my roster of community activists.

she was elected to her first leadership positions in the Tri-Hi-Y club sponsored by the Western Branch of the YMCA. She later became secretary of the Newark-Christiana Tri-Hi-Y Council. She played on NHS basketball teams for two years, served two years as team manager, and was elected to the coveted position of Newark Yellowjacket, the mascot for the varsity football and basketball teams.

Her association with Newark High did not end with her graduation. She became a member of reunion committees, the NHS scholarship committee, the football/basketball booster club and the 1993 One Hundredth Anniversary Commencement Committee. Her daughter was a member of that landmark class.

Interest in extracurricular affairs was transferred to her college days at the University of Delaware. She was a senator-at-large in the Student Government Association as a sophomore; became secretary in her junior year; and was one of the first two undergraduates named student representatives to the Faculty Senate.

After graduating from the UD in 1971, Ms. Sullivan worked briefly in the university's admissions office and for the Division of Urban Affairs, and held several non-university jobs. But she maintained her ties with alma mater and friends through membership of the scholarship, nominating and reunion committees, as class representative and as secretary of the Alumni Association's board of directors.

In the summer of 1979 she became an intern in the President's

OUT OF THE ATTIC

THIS WEEK'S "Out of the Attic" photograph shows two very well-known former Newark residents. Miss Alice Leak was a nurse who served the community not only professionally, but in a voluntary capacity as well, by donating her time for numerous medical services. Mr. John Cunningham also donated much of his life to community service. He was an active member of the Aetna Volunteer Fire Company and served as fire chief in 1954 and 1955. These two individuals worked closely together since Miss Leak often assisted Mr. Cunningham in responding to emergency calls. They are standing next to a 1926 Studebaker ambulance once owned by Aetna. The photograph is from the Aetna Fire Company archives with research provided by Olan Thomas for the Newark Historical Society. In an effort to provide more complete descriptions of our "Out of the Attic" photographs, volunteer historians of the society are identifying and researching the historic shots. Readers are encouraged to send old photos to the Newark Post, "Out of the Attic," 153 E. Chestnut Hill Rd., Newark, 19713. Special care will be taken. For more information, call 737-0724.

School choice

■ Due to a production error, Jack Bartley's column last week was not run in its entirety. Here is the complete piece.

By JACK BARTLEY

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

My wife and I finally found the time to rent the movie of the century (not my opinion), "Forrest Gump." This allowed us to leave that exclusive but dwindling club of a thousand or so people in the United States who have not yet seen "Gump" and rejoin mainstream America. Early in the movie, while expounding on his philosophy of life to a captive bus stop bench sitter, Forrest said, "Schools are like a box of chocolates. You never know which one has the cream and which is filled with a bunch of nuts!" Now, don't go out and rent the movie looking for this exact quote. I admit to tailoring it just a bit to make a point. How can parents make a choice about schools when most of them do not know what is going on inside?

Realize that the subject of school choice has been addressed in this column before, but recent developments in Pennsylvania (Governor Ridge's proposal before the state legislature) and several bills in Delaware's current legislative session make it apparent that politicians will continue to propose ideas that cater to a small, but vocal, portion of the community regardless of whether they are educationally sound, practical or good for the general public.

School choice is like a viral flu that returns each year in a slightly mutated but recognizable form. The real question that needs to be addressed by the people in the community is, will parents actually have a real choice? The answer is (insert fanfare and drum roll here): no.

I will use Ridge's proposal as an example since it has been presented to the legislature and the general public in its entirety. This proposal will give "educational grants" (a term they are using to try to avoid the charge of being unconstitutional in giving public funds to religious institutions) of $700 and $1000 to families to send children to middle school or high school, respectively. In the first year, these grants (vouchers) will be made available to families with taxable incomes under $15,000. This income level will increase gradually to $70,000 by the year 2001. Even with income restrictions, the backers of this proposal admit that in the first few years, most of the money will go to families with children already in private school.

Does this "choice" proposal offer low income families an opportunity to send their children to schools normally thought of as schools for wealthy families? I am sure the $1000 dollar windfall to an average family with 2.3 kids and a taxable income of $15,000 will enable them to send their children to any school they choose. After receiving their $2,300 and applying it to the tuition bill at a school, such as The Tatnall School or the Ursuline Academy, they would simply have to use the rest of the family's income for the entire year to pay the remainder of the tuition. It is wonderful to know that people in these circumstances will have the opportunity to make this choice.

There are two other problems that are not addressed in Ridge's proposal and in most other proposals concerning choice. The first involves transportation. How will students have the freedom to choose a school if they have no way to get to the school? Will each school send a fleet of buses all over the county? If transportation is not provided by the school and it is left up to individual families, many low income one-car or no-car families will be excluded. So much for choice.

The second problem concerns how private schools select students. If (and this is a big "if") a family can afford a school, their children should have the same chance of getting into that school as anyone else. This means that each school would have to purge its rolls and all the eligible students selecting that school would be placed in a common pool. Names would be selected from the pool by lottery (conducted by the state) and the school would HAVE to accept those students until the school reaches its capacity. If there is to be school choice, the decision should lie with the parents, not the school.

Finally, a choice is not worth making unless it is based on facts which support the selection of one school over another. How can a family make an informed choice about any school, public or private? There are no articles in "Consumer Reports" delineating the pros and cons of each school. Test results of student achievement levels are inconclusive since private schools already have exclusive student populations and do not have to address the problems of learning disabilities, discipline problems or the broad spectrum of intelligence levels that make up the student populations in public schools. The quality of teachers is difficult to determine. In fact, many private schools do not require teachers to be certified in their disciplines to hold a teaching position in the school. Will schools have to divert dollars from educational purposes to advertisements to tout their "products" as "new and improved" to compete in the cutthroat "business world" of education?

Can a real choice be made? At the present time, no. Should money be given away if real choices cannot be made? Again, the answer is, no. At least Forrest, if he chose to, could follow the inside of the lid on a box of Whitman's Sampler chocolates and make an informed choice.

Newark High's class of '35 holds gala reunion

By NANCY TURNER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

SIXTY YEARS AGO, the girls at Newark High School wore skirts and bobby socks and the boys donned letter sweaters. Those were hard times at the tail end of the great depression, but after-school backyard football games, fishing in White Clay Creek, Friday night dance parties at the New Century Club and other activities of youth made them the best of times for the 65 members of the class of 1935.

On May 25, about 35 members and their spouses of the class of 1935 celebrated their 60 years together with a dinner at the Mendenhall Inn. But this was by no means the first time that the group had gathered. Newark High School's class of 1935 has been meeting faithfully every month since the late 1970's for a luncheon, better known as the "lunch bunch."

"We are a close-knit group," said Harold Tiffany, the reunion organizer who also put together the 50th anniversary party.

"I think this is a very unusual class," said Tiffany. "With members like Eric Mayer, who have been instrumental in holding the group together, they have maintained contact and friendship through all these years."

In as much as the class of 1935 celebrated their current friendships, it was sometimes difficult for members like Tiffany not to comment on how times have changed.

"When we were in school, there was not so much serious trouble for us to get into," he said. "There were no kids hanging around Main Street at 11 o'clock. My father's direction was for us to be clean, honest living citizens who cared about other people."

Of course, this is not to say that members of the class of 1935 completely avoided mischief.

"Our town policeman, the colorful, late Bill Cunningham, was always keeping watch when mischief did occur," Tiffany said. "For many years Bill Cunningham was the only policeman in Newark."

In the winter, they mounted sleds and hung onto the backs of their father's automobiles to be pulled through Newark. When nearly everyone cut class one May for a picnic on Creek Road and were caught by the principal, the students were threatened with not being allowed to graduate.

At the reunion on May 25, fellow classman and master of ceremonies Ott Widdoes celebrated the 1935 graduates with a few jokes and a little old fashioned story telling. Bips Egnor, a locally renowned one-man-band who is always in demand and is the son of the late Robert (Bones) Egnor who was a class member, entertained the group with after-dinner music to bring back memories. No doubt, the camaraderie and friendship will continue to grow toward the future.

"The Mendenhall Inn served a festive buffet fit for a king," exclaimed Tiffany. "A gala time was had by all."

The group is already planning a 65th reunion, and maybe even a 75th!

She has been chosen to chair that committee again in 1997.

CONTACT volunteers spend hours on helpline

By NANCY TURNER
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IN 1974, Dottie Cooke was one of 100 organizers of CONTACT Delaware, Inc. Twelve years later, when he retired from the DuPont Company, her husband, Bill, joined the team. After serving a combined total of more than 2,600 hours answering helpline telephone calls of persons in distress, the Cookes concur that CONTACT offers them a very real avenue for putting Christian principles of brotherly love to work in modern society.

CONTACT is a volunteer agency that provides a 24-hour telephone counseling/crisis helpline. It also offers TDY services for the hearing impaired and a rape crisis hotline for victims of sexual assault.

CONTACT Delaware is in the process of developing a reassurance program wherein volunteers will telephone older people living alone at a prearranged time to make sure that they are okay.

Through nonjudgmental active listening and non-directive problem solving skills, volunteers help callers identify their problem and come to their own resolutions.

CONTACT Delaware is rated in the top ten percent of the 90 CONTACT branches scattered throughout the country.

Through its 21-year history, the agency's lines have never been closed or unmanned. Governor Carper recently honored CONTACT Delaware as an outstanding volunteer agency.

The Cookes, like all active CONTACT volunteers, participated in a mandatory 60-hour training program before joining the helpline team. The couple currently serves two four-hour shifts per month answering calls.

Dottie is one of five remaining active volunteers of the organizing class of 1974 and is the only active founder from Newark.

"I responded to CONTACT because it was a way in which I could express my Christian commitment of listening," said Dottie. "Even the times when you are not very busy answering calls, you can still say, 'I was here if I was needed.' It's being in a position to offer service."

"The tough calls tend to be during the night hours," said Bill. "All calls are confidential and usually anonymous. We get a lot of callers with relationship problems. Some people are just lonely. We get calls from people who are destitute or they say that they are going to lose their electricity or that they are homeless. We have a computerized referral, but we have found that most people would really rather solve their own problems."

"It's a great temptation to give advice," said Dottie. "We are taught not to do it even when the solution seems so evident to us at times."

CONTACT volunteers

UNSUNG HERO

are, first and foremost, good listeners. Silence is golden.

"Real listening is one of the hardest things you can do," said Dottie. "Most of us do it very poorly. I wish that I had been trained in listening years ago. At CONTACT, we listen to the person's feelings and what is behind the words."

As well as being active grandparents, the Cookes share their time generously in their community. Bill is involved with Prison Fellowship Ministry and teaching Bible study at Kingswood United Methodist Church.

Dottie is active with Chapter I of P.E.O. (Philanthropic Educational Organization) and the Republican Party.

Dottie and Bill Cooke would never say that being a CONTACT volunteer is easy.

At the least, it's an absolute commitment; at the most, it is a vehicle for participation in real living that goes beyond sitting on the sidelines. "But the reward of knowing that you are helping another person through a most difficult time," said Dottie, "makes it all worthwhile."

For more information about becoming a CONTACT Delaware volunteer, or if you just need a friend, call the helpline at 761-9100.

Reporter honored by board

AT THE RECENT board meeting held on May 9 the Christina School District Board of Education presented a Certificate of Appreciation to reporter Tonja Castaneda for her dedication in reporting school news in the Newark Post.

Speaking for the entire board, Board president, Dr. James W. Kent, stated, "Tonja Castaneda has always been fair and accurate in covering school news in the Christina District. We especially appreciate her persistence in trying to reach us to check facts in her stories. Other journalists have not always done this."

In presenting the award, Kent joked that "members of the working press in the audience should not think we do this all the time." He explained that the Board felt the recognition was appropriate at this time in view of the fact that Castaneda would be relocating outside of Delaware.

Castaneda, a staff writer for the Newark Post for the last three years, has moved to Colorado where she will be reporting for the The Brighton-Standard Blaze in Brighton, Colo.

Millcroft honors older Americans with movie week

By MARY PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

MILLCROFT Retirement & Health Care Community in Newark recently held "Generations at the Movies" to celebrate National Nursing Home Week and Older American Month.

"Our talented activities staff designed a week of events for residents and family that are based on movie themes from the '20 to the '60s,'" said Kristie Augenblick, director of admissions.

Residents, staff and family members dressed for each day's theme which included:

- Monday, "Scarface", gangsters and flappers;
- Tuesday, "The Wizard of Oz," munchkins and characters from the movie;
- Wednesday, "Top Hat," Astaire and Rogers types;
- Thursday, "Beach Blanket Bingo," shorts, Hawaiian prints and sunglasses; and
- Friday, "Pillow Talk," pajamas all day!

Throughout the week, an afternoon at a speakeasy, a hot air balloon launch, dancing, partying and singing enlivened the festivities.

Residents eagerly await Dorothy's hot air balloon ride on "Wizard of Oz" day during Millcroft's week-long celebration of nursing homes and older Americans.

Beautiful Bulbs for the Summer Garden

NOW THAT THE BURST of color from the spring bulbs is over, let's look at some other bulbs you can grow for flowers. The summer bulbs are a group of plants that do most of their growing and flowering during the warm months of the season.

Some species are of tropical origins, so it's not surprising that many are not cold hardy enough to be left in the ground over winter. To preserve them from one season to the next, you have to dig them up and store them in a cool but freeze-proof place until the following spring. This may seem like a lot of trouble, but some of these are very inexpensive. You may find it just as economical to let them freeze out each winter, and buy new bulbs to plant each spring.

Many gardeners are familiar with cannas and gladioli, so I'm going to feature some others you may not know as well. None of the following plants are reliably cold hardy in our area. You may be lucky to have them persist and resprout in the ground after a mild winter, but sooner or later a deadly winter will come along and you'll lose them all.

Remember these tropical beauties need tropical conditions: soil rich in organic matter; a good supply of soil nutrients; ample moisture, but with no standing water or water-logged soil; and full sun. All three species discussed here are widely available in the trade. If you can't find them locally, ask a gardening friend to loan you some mail-order catalogs.

Ismene, the Peruvian daffodil, is suitable as a potted plant or in the border. It grows to 20 or 26 inches with large funnel-shaped white flowers. If you want to plant them outdoors, you need to give them an indoor start from January through mid-May. Planting too late directly outdoors may not give them enough time to develop fully enough to flower before frost. Whatever you do, don't put them into cold soil—they'll just rot away. Plant Ismene in a mixture of coarse sand and peat moss in a 70 to 80 degree room. Cover them only one inch and keep the soil evenly moist.

As soon as roots develop, move them into 6-inch pots, to grow on in a sunny window or under lights. Either way, wait until after May 10 to plant them outdoors. Ismene will not tolerate dry soil and the species welcomes a little shade in the afternoon. Give Ismene liquid fertilizer every other week throughout the growing season.

As the foliage browns and withers early in the fall, dig up the clumps or move the pot indoors. You may leave the soil clinging to the dug bulbs. Store dug bulbs or dormant potted bulbs in a cool dry place that never goes below 60 degrees. Don't water the pots during this dormant period.

When winter starts to fade into spring, give the pots a drink and move them to a warm lighted spot. They'll soon break dormancy and send up green shoots.

For a steady supply of cut flowers late in the season, montbretia is a good choice. The stems are very long—about 3 feet—and the palette ranges from warm golds and oranges into reds and maroons. Montbretias are heavy feeders, so careful soil preparation a year in advance is key to their success.

This species is less finicky about cool soil than is Ismene, so you can plant in the spring as soon as the soil dries out enough to work. Plant the bulbs in lime-and-fertilizer-amended soil about 6 inches deep and apart.

Planting a group every week or so until early July will give you continuous flowers from August to frost. Keep the bed well-watered and fertilize once more when the new shoots are 8 inches tall. Preserving Montbretia involves digging the bulbs 6 to 8 weeks after they bloom, and washing off the soil. Spread the 1" and larger bulbs on a screen to dry for several days. Store the cured bulbs in ventilated baskets at 35 to 45 degrees. Montbretia is capable of surviving some of our winters in the ground.

There's hardly any bulb that produces flowers as fragrant as tuberose (polianthes).

This week's author: Jo Mercer

Plant them now in a sunny, well-drained site about a foot apart in clumps of 6 or 8 tubers 3 inches deep. Tuberoses also do well in 6 inch pots. Tuberoses are water guzzlers, so be careful not to let them get dry. They also welcome every-other-week applications of liquid fertilizer.

You'll be rewarded in late summer with flowers that are so waxy and perfectly white, you'll almost think they're fake. Tuberoses are not cold hardy below 40 degrees, so be prepared to dig and store them each winter indoors if you want to keep them.

Lunacies

POEMS, PUNS and PROVERBS

By James C. McLaren

An amusing old Rabbit
Had a terrible habit
Of spitting his carrots on lawns.
Then, the troublesome Bunny
Hopped away, quite unfunny,
To shellfishy switch on Prawns.

Tom Collins and friend Bloody Mary
Had some bibulous times, pulled the cork.
They indulged in gin fizz,
And, entranced by show biz,
Had Manhattans on dash to New York.

What do you call drastic political moves in the Persian Gulf?
A sheik - up.

Is there anything wrong with siesta-prone oldsters?
Nodding!

A pacifier in baby's mouth can postpone the unraveling of family ties.

It is never unwise to negotiate the rudeness of a teenager.

■ Author's note: Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws - the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope Post readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

Make summer last at Longwood events

LET ME SEE, what cliché shall I use to begin a column about things going on in the month of June? How about "June is bustin' out all over?" Maybe "What is so rare as a day in June?" Then, if ever, come perfect days? Perhaps I had better leave well enough alone and get on with the column. I remember when spring came this year I had thoughts of wonderment and warm weather and I needed a lined coat several "spring" days!

All that notwithstanding, it is time to think of the arts out-of-doors and, in our area, that means Longwood Gardens. I was talking to Priscilla Johnson, the person in charge of the more than 450 concerts, operas, plays, etc., each year on the former estate of Pierre S. du Pont in Kennett Square. She shared a calendar that is packed with things to suit just about any performing arts taste and today I would share that information with you.

We will begin with opera — imagine that, opera is first in Phil Toman's column! Friday and Saturday of this weekend will find Philadelphia's Savoy Opera Company holding forth with Gilbert and Sullivan's hilarious spoof of

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

Japanese convention, "The Mikado." It will be performed in the Open Air Theater on the grounds of Longwood and feature a full orchestra, great costumes and sets. Curtain both nights is 8:30.

It's difficult to name my favorite from this opera. High on the list, of course, is "A More Humane Mikado." But whatever your favorite aria or ensemble piece, you will find it as you relax in the 2000 seat theater under the stars. As with most all performances, fountain displays are included in the admission price.

A folk concert with Morgan and Phelan is on the books for Tuesday, June 6, at 7:30 p.m. Peggy Morgan and Bette Phelan include guitars, mountain dulcimers, mandolins and banjos with their vocal artistry. The duo has gained great popularity from coast to coast since their founding in 1977. This concert is free with garden admission. Come early and stay late!

Two days later, June 8, at 7:30, "Shakespeare's Greatest Hits" will be on the boards. This is a collage of battles — both figurative and literal — with scenes from the Bard's feistiest and funniest plays. Mark Hallen, director of theater at St. David's College, will be the fight "choreographer." Another free admission.

Ballet will be the order of the evening on Saturday, June 10, with the Brandywine Ballet Company headed by Donna Muzio. There will be a premiere that evening. It is a ballet called "Lumina." The company will also present the pas de deux from "Romeo and Juliet," "The Waltz of the Flowers," "Bolero" and "Phantom Suite." The performance will be in the Open Air Theater and it is free with garden admission.

Now, dear reader, when you read the name of the next group, please believe that I did double check it and it is "Trout Fishing in America." That's the name of the group, not the name of a symposium on fishing for trout. Honest! The name may become more understandable when I tell you they are from Prairie Grove, Arkansas. It's all part of the Family Ice Cream Concert Series at Longwood, so bring the kids. They will be front and center Tuesday, June 13 at 7 p.m. Although the general admission tickets are free, there are some reserved seats for sale.

A program of Indian Classical Music is set for 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 20 featuring Shafaatullah Khan playing the sitar and tabla. Her program is called "Melody of Nature" and will be performed in Longwood's Italian Water Garden. This international artist brings great sensitivity and knowledge to every work. It's free with garden admission.

The Kennett Square Symphony Orchestra under music director Mary Woodmansee Green will present a concert entitled "Broadway Spectacular" in the Open Air Theater on Saturday, June 24 at 7:30 p.m. The orchestra will perform some of the great hits of Bernstein, Gershwin, Kern, Porter and Rodgers. The soloists include Marie Robinson, soprano; Suzanne DePlantis, mezzo; David Price, tenor and Alan Wagner, baritone. A fountain display is included in the admission price.

On the 29th, a Family World Music Concert event will be held. This one presents Namu Lwanga, Ugandan storyteller, musician and dancer. It will take place in the Open Air Theater and is free with garden admission.

This is only a partial list of all the events for June. There is another Ice Cream Concert and more concerts in the classical, folk and contemporary modes. Most of them are free with garden admission! The admission includes a magnificent fountain display after dusk. For more information, please call 610-388-1000. Make Longwood Gardens part of your family's plans for Summer, 1995.

Phil Toman has been a columnist for the Newark Post since 1969. An enthusiastic supporter of the arts locally, he has a vast knowledge of the arts in the mid-Atlantic region. He and his wife Marie are longtime residents of Newark. Toman hosts a weekly radio program on WNRK.

Wellness Fair draws healthy crowd at Senior Center

THE NEWARK SENIOR Center recently held their third annual Wellness Fair. Lectures and demonstrations on health topics and activities, a "heart healthy" lunch and a wealth of information from over a dozen exhibitors were on hand.

Available throughout the day were screenings for vision, hearing, posture/mobility, blood pressure, foot health, oral cancer, cholesterol/diabetes and mammography.

A sampling of the 19 exhibitors included the American Heart Association, ElderInfo, the American Cancer Society, Riverside Hospital, Visiting Nurse Association, Health Care Center at Christiana, AARP 55 Alive Driving, MeadowWood Hospital, Nemours Clinic, Arbors at New Castle the Arthritis Foundation and the Blood Bank of Delaware.

Sandy Drummond, director of social services at the center, said the fair is one of the center's continuing efforts to inform seniors about health issues and options.

It also shows the Newark community that "we do more than play cards and crochet here." Local fundraising continues for the new senior center presently planned to open in the Spring of 1996.

According to Drummond over 150 seniors participated in the fair activities. "There were more people than last year," she stated. "Next year in the new center we expect to have more space for exhibitors and hope more people will attend."

Mary Petzak

"A Melody of Nature" with Shafaatullah Kahn is one of the many interesting musical offerings on tap this month at Longwood Gardens.

Look to attic to ease growing pains

Tips for assessing attic remodeling potential

ATTICS MAKE great storehouses for priceless family heirlooms. But with a little imagination, they can also hold quiet studies, cozy reading rooms and imaginative playrooms.

"Many people tend to overlook the possibilities an attic has to offer.

Waging war in the yard

YOU'VE GOT inchworms and aphids. Blackspot and powdery mildew. Scab and fusarium. You try to do all the right things and still, pests and pestilence persist in bugging you and your plants. What's a gardener to do?

Learn to live with it is the advice of the H. D. Hudson Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of a broad line of quality compression sprayers and dusters. Insects and disease have shown a remarkable ability to adapt to the sophisticated natural and manmade environment we use in our struggle to have beautiful lawns and gardens, according to Hudson.

In fact, it is impractical to attempt to eradicate all pests or plant diseases. It is far better for the gardener to learn to limit the damage they cause. An excellent place to start is in understanding how, when and why to "do battle with dangerous pests.

How to 'do battle'

Most pest-fighting chemicals are formulated to be used in very small quantities. Using more than is recommended may be harmful to the environment and is also expensive. Equipment that applies the precise blend of active ingredient and carrier (usually water) is a must. Versatile compression sprayers, such as those engineered and manufactured by Hudson, are extremely useful. Unlike hose-end sprayers, compression sprayers consistently and dependably spray insecticide, herbicides or fungicide at a consistent pressure and in a precise amount and pattern to strike at the heart of the problem. This precision cuts down on waste, and by doing so, is easier on the environment and will save the user money.

Another benefit of compression sprayers is freedom from dragging a hose around the yard. Compression sprayers come in a variety of sizes and have working capacities from 1/2 to 2.75 gallons of spray.

Yet another benefit: compression sprayers eliminate the need to buy pre-mixed sprays which are mostly water, and are much more costly, ounce-for-ounce. Interestingly, compression sprayers let the gardener reach many trees with insecticide to help ward off Gypsy moth and other pests that feed on early-summer foliage.

Slide-type sprayers are ideal because they create enough pressure to spray up to 40 feet into trees.

Expand living space without expanding your home - remodel the attic.

If an attic can meet basic criteria it can be remodeled into a comfortable addition to the home," said Rick Balabon of Pella Window & Door Company, the local distributor of Pella Windows and Doors. "Installing the right windows can do wonders to open up a dark attic to natural light, making it a viable part of the home at a potentially lower cost than adding on over the garage or in back of the house."

Balabon said homeowners can assess their attics' remodeling potential by looking for a few basic features.

An attic needs about 10 feet of headroom at the peak and sturdy floor joists to be considered for remodeling.

Homeowners should also evaluate the space needed for an attic entrance; a standard stairway requires a three-by-ten-foot space while most spiral stairs require a five-and-one-half-foot circle.

Heating and insulation should also be assessed to ensure adequate attic warmth throughout the year.

Balabon added local building, electrical and fire codes are another consideration. Although requirements vary, building codes in most areas require that window area total at least 10 square feet or 10 percent of the room's floor space.

"If you think your attic has remodeling potential, consult with a certified contractor to verify your assessment," said Balabon. "Together, with the help of an expert, all the options for creating a useful and beautiful getaway room can be better explored."

Local legislators sign Gov. Carper's tough new drinking, driving laws

By RON PEEL
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

LOCAL State Representatives signed legislation that imposes strict penalties on underage drinkers who decide to get behind the wheel.

Governor Thomas R. Carper (D) signed the legislation, sponsored by local Representatives Richard F. Davis (R-Dist. 26), Richard A. DiLiberto (D-Dist. 14) and Pamela S. Maier (R-Dist. 21), into law May 5th. The amendment to the Delaware code relating to driving under the influence of alcohol or controlled substances will upgrade the mandatory license suspension from 30 to 90 days for persons under the age of 21 who are operating a motor vehicle with a blood alcohol level of .02 or higher.

"This is actually more of a change to the underage drinking law," said Davis. "We are making an effort to do whatever we can to stop teenagers from drinking, and then making it worse by driving."

Lawmakers are hoping that the extra period of 60 days added to the license suspension will be a deterrent when underage drinkers are trying to decide if they should risk getting behind the wheel. Previously, an underage drinker who was not above the legal blood alcohol level of .10 could only be charged with underage consumption. There was no added penalty for operating a motor vehicle.

"We need to send a message that any form of drinking and driving will not be tolerated in the state of Delaware," said Maier. "When you look around and see young people drinking at college football games or other events, it makes you wonder how many of them have designated drivers."

The amendment will not replace a driving while intoxicated charge if a minor is found to have a blood alcohol level above .10. That infraction carries a license suspension at least until the minor reaches the age of 21.

The legislators acknowledged that underage drinking will continue to be a problem unless there is a drastic change in the attitudes of underage drinkers.

"This act may stop some people from driving if they have had anything to drink," said Maier. "We most likely will not solve this problem with one law, but if it makes the roads safer for just one person, it will all be worth it."

House brings historic ordinance into perspective

By RON PEEL
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

HAROLD AND ANN Copley sleep and vote in Pennsylvania. However, their home, which straddles the Pennsylvania-Delaware border, is now a Delaware entry in the National Register of Historic Places.

Besides just being an old house that has survived for hundreds of years, there was another reason that the house was added to the National Register. Richard Okie, a well known revivalist architect, was responsible for renovating large sections of the house in 1941.

"One of the big reasons that we feel that our house has historical value is due to the work that Okie did," said owner Harold Copley. "That was part of our reason to put five years of work into the house so that it could be placed on the National Register of Historic Places."

The Copleys maintain a mailing address in both states and are also obligated to pay taxes to both state governments. However, under the terms of the National Register, the home will be listed as a Newark address.

"We vote in Pennsylvania because our bedroom happens to be on that side of the line," explained Copley. "We were told that officially where you sleep is considered your residence, but most of the house is in Delaware."

The proposed historic preservation ordinance now being considered down the road in Newark has the support of the couple.

"I consider myself a preservationist," said Ann Copley "so I am definitely in favor of this proposed law. People who own properties of historical value should do everything that they can to maintain the original look and materials whenever possible."

The Copleys did note that homeowners should retain their rights if the ordinance is passed. The biggest argument against the ordinance as it is currently written, is the provision that allows the city government to dictate how repairs should be done to a private home.

"I understand that most people who live in historic houses would very much like to keep the house as it was when it was built, but those repairs can cost a lot of money when you try to use original materials," said Copley. "There should be some sort of review board set up to rule on what repairs need to be made and in what fashion. People or developers should not be able to use it as an excuse to demolish the building."

By being added to the National Register of Historic Places, the log home will now be protected from demolition from any project that uses federal funds.

Newark, St. Mark's advance

By DAVID G.W. SCOTT
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

NEWARK HIGH combined flawless defense and timely hitting to advance to the high school baseball semifinals by beating Mount Pleasant 6-0.

John Bush gave the Yellowjackets four and a third innings of shutout pitching and that was all Newark needed.

"John Bush gave it all he had," said Newark head coach Harry Davies. "His pitch count was up and he started to short arm it, so I brought in Craig (Witmer)."

Witmer picked up where Bush left off and slammed the drawbridge on the Green Knights. With men on first and second and one out, Witmer got the next batter to bounce into a fielder's choice and got the third out on a long fly ball to center.

ST. MARK'S advanced to the semifinal round of the state high school baseball tournament behind a complete shutout thrown by Doug Fischer. The Spartans beat Middletown 1-0 Tuesday.

Going into the game against Middletown, St. Mark's had relied on a strong, high-scoring offensive lineup. The pitchers could afford to allow a couple of runs, sometimes more. But when they needed the pitching excellence, the Spartans produced, in fashion.

"Doug [Fischer] pitched great ball," St. Mark's coach Tom Lemon said, speaking of his winning pitcher. "He showed a lot of heart today. He showed a lot of courage on a day when we weren't scoring. There wasn't much margin for error in his pitching. He did a great job."

Wizards silence Beach Boyz tune

By DAVID G.W. SCOTT
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE DELAWARE WIZARDS proved the best way to win a game without two important offensive players is with defense.

Peter Pappas and the rest of the Wizards defense shut out the Myrtle Beach Boyz 2-0 in another USISL soccer match at Hoffman Stadium in Newark last Saturday.

Both Kevin Sloan and Rob Smith missed Saturday nights game and their absence was felt in the midfield. Sloan was in England and Smith was playing for the U23 National team.

The Wizards moved the ball out of the back, but then sent most balls straight ahead and long, rather than their usual patient attack through midfield. This made it easy for the Beach Boyz defense to head off dangerous scoring chances.

After collecting seven team fouls, the Beach Boyz gave up a 35-yard shootout chance. Brad Smith's attempt was blocked by Beach Boyz keeper Scott Schweitzer and cleared by the rest of the Boyz.

The Wizards had difficulty getting the ball to Eric Smith all game, but when they finally did, they produced the lone first half goal. Smith drove a ball into the box to the head of Gary Ross. Ross sent the ball off the post and Brad Smith knocked it into the net. Tim Keegan, who filled in up front, was there to finish in case there was any doubt, but Brad Smith was credited with the goal.

The Wizards defense took over after that, turning away shot after shot. Pappas made a spectacular save on an Erwin Assleman shot, and Chris Morgan kicked away another as it was headed for the goal.

The referee called a loose game, allowing a great deal of contact and as well as allowing play to flow. The Beach Boyz pressured Pappas throughout the second half, but he was up to the challenge. With 4:00 minutes left, Pappas saved a dangerous corner kick opportunity by coming off his line to punch the cross away.

Despite the Memorial Day weekend, another large crowd showed up. They were entertained by a highly skilled and quick Myrtle Beach team. The Beach Boyz are currently in last place in the Southern Conference.

"We have a really good team, we've just been unlucky," said Beach Boyz midfielder, Kenny Santos.

St. Mark's shuts out Padua

By CHRIS YASIEJKO

St. Mark's advanced to Saturday's championship game in softball on the strength of Adrienne Maloney's five-hit shutout against arch rival Padua. Here a Spartans batter fouls off a pitch in an earlier game.

St. Mark's softball team advanced to the state championship game with a 5-0 semi-final victory Wednesday over arch-rival Padua in a game played at Caravel Academy.

Adrienne Maloney pitched a five-hit complete game shutout and was backed up by a sound Spartan defense which refused to give up any runs.

The Spartans (19-1) capitalized on five Panda errors, three of which came in the third inning. St. Mark's scored four runs while pounding three hits.

"I'm pitching while relying on my defense," Maloney said. "That's what makes me better out there, that I can let them [opponents] hit anything and they [St. Mark's defense] are going to be there."

► NEWARK HIGH, from 1B

Ahead 3-0, the inspired 'Jackets warmed up their bats. Jason Bedford lead off the inning with a base hit. With two on and one out, Scott Hunt hit a ball to deep right center field, driving in both runs. Sean McCullough hit a scorching liner that appeared to go through the Mount Pleasant shortstop on its way to center field which knock in Bedford.

It wasn't all as easy as it looked. After the third inning coach Davies called his 'Jackets together before they took the field.

"For the first time this season, we seemed tight," Davies said. "We just seemed over-anxious, so I told them to take a strike."

The strategy seemed to work.

Newark scored their first three runs in the bottom of the third, all with two outs. Jason Bedford was hit by Ted Ganderton. Bedford stole second and advanced to third after the ball got away from the Mount Pleasant second baseman. He scored when Mike Young's hot smash down the third baseline got through the defense. Young stole second and scored when Jeff Myers grounder was mishandled at shortstop. Myers scored on Scott Hunt's single to left.

Sean McCullough retired all three batters in the second inning, showing his range and calming the Newark defense.

Mount Pleasant could only get one baserunner against Witmer, who retired the side in the seventh.

Newark advanced to the second round by defeating Tower Hill 6-0. Scott Hunt had two hits, two RBIs and was the winning pitcher. Todd Meredith added two doubles.

Newark played Thursday at Wilson field against William Penn in the state semifinals.

The finals will be played on Saturday at Frawley Stadium in Wilmington. The time of the game is 11 a.m. The early start is because the Wilmington Blue Rocks have a game which begins at 2:05 p.m.

handed pitcher, was the only pitcher this season who returned to the team with varsity experience. With the win, he improved to 6-0 on the season. He allowed just two hits throughout the game, striking out nine batters in the process.

"Nine?" Fischer repeats in a surprised tone. "Well, I tried to get them all. I was off course a little with that curveball. So I had to gas it up a little bit and then throw the deuce and they'd be off track and just swing really early."

The Cavaliers weren't hitting, and neither were the Spartans. St. Mark's managed just four hits. They capitalized on one of those hits. The Spartans' big inning was the fourth, when they scored their lone run.

After Chris Hill lined out to deep left field for the first out, St. Mark's leftfielder Kevin Mench ripped a hard-hit single through the middle and into centerfield. Chambers then walked shortstop Tim Hamberger, and hit rightfielder Will Vanjonack with a pitch. That loaded the bases for designated hitter Andy Burt, who walked on four straight pitches to force in the winning run. First baseman Bob Fad hit into a fielder's choice and second baseman Brian Keane lined out to first to end the inning.

Middletown threatened in the top of the sixth inning, when shortstop Bobby Sartin crushed the first pitch to deep centerfield. The ball rolled down the hill in center, and by the time it was returned to the infield, Sartin had a stand-up triple.

But Fischer prevented that rally from ever taking place. He got the next batter to pop out to center, and then struck out the following batter for the second out. Rightfielder Vanjonack ended the inning when he dashed to the first base side and caught a foul ball.

In the third inning, after the first batter grounded out, Fischer walked Chambers. Greg Sisson was then hit by the first pitch, and then the Cavs' third baseman walked after a full count. The bases were loaded with one out, and the 3-slot and cleanup batters were coming up. Sartin fouled out to Fad at first, and Chris Watson struck out on four pitches, ending the threat. Middletown had almost scored the same way that the Spartans would later score — through walks and a hit batsman. But Fischer crept out of this jam, perhaps more by prayer than by tactical pitching.

"We had everybody; even the people in the crowd were into this game. It wasn't me — it was 30 or 40 people out there helping me pitch."

St. Mark's goes for softball title

► ST. MARK'S, from 1B

St. Mark's had developed a bitter rivalry with Padua over the last few years. Padua had won three straight Catholic Conference titles from '92 through '94. In last year's state tournament, Padua had knocked St. Mark's out in the semifinal round.

Jeanna Tridante, who went four for four with three singles and a double put it succinctly. "Revenge is sweet."

Denise Simpers felt she had turned her own play around in this year's game.

"I've been looking forward to this for a while," she said. "The funniest part was revenge, because it was this situation last year when Padua took us out of the tournament. Last year I had a real bad game against Padua. I made my only errors of the year in that game, and I didn't want to do it again this year."

St. Mark's put four of its runs on the board in the third inning. Simpers lead off with a single. Leslie King was walked and moved around on Tridante's double. Padua then committed two errors which allowed St. Mark's a comfortable cushion.

Padua made a last ditch effort to break the shutout and get some runs across in the seventh when they loaded the bases.

Maloney was able to pitch out of the jam by getting the Paduans to ground into two fielder's choice plays in the inning.

Nicole Zanzoth performed well on the mound for Padua. She pitched six innings giving up nine hits and five runs. She struck out one and walk none.

Maloney went all seven innings, striking out three, walking none, and giving up just five hits.

The championship game will be played between St. Mark's and Sussex Central. The game will take place on Saturday, June 3 at Caesar Rodney with the time to be determined.

St. Mark's last won a conference title in 1986.

ST. MARK'S SCORES WITH SECONDS REMAINING TO MOVE INTO CHAMPIONSHIP GAME.

By DAVID G. W. SCOTT
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

ST. MARK'S and A. I. du Pont staged a brilliant soccer match that was resolved in the last five seconds of the game.

In the first girls soccer tournament in history, St. Mark's guaranteed itself a spot in the finals with the dramatic 1-0 win over A. I. du Pont, which ended its season with an excellent 15-1-2 record.

The Spartans will meet top seeded Dickinson on Saturday in a 7 p.m. game at A. I. du Pont High. The win avenged an early season loss as A.I. du Pont had beaten the Spartans 2-1.

Erin Lindell proved that the game of soccer is built on desire, when she hustled after a loose ball that came through the goal-mouth in the waning moments of the game. Katie Phipps centered the ball and Lindell knocked it in for the win.

"It was just a great hustle play," said head coach Tom DeMatteis. "We had pressured them a great deal. It was a very competitive game. They are an excellent team."

DeMatteis also praised his team's defense. Lead by junior captain Susan Sauer, the defense turned back every opportunity that A. I. du Pont could manage.

"It was back and forth to the end," DeMatteis said. "We put together a great team effort. It was great to see."

DeMatteis singled out defensive wingbacks, Allison LaFazia and Jen Way, as well as stopper Amy Peitlock.

Last year, St. Mark's finished atop the nine teams that fielded a varsity girls soccer team. Because there were not enough teams to have a tournament, St. Mark's had to settle for a league title. This year with competitive teams from Ursuline, Newark, Dickinson and Dover, the tournament has proved exciting.

The championship game will be played at 7 p.m. Saturday night at A.I. du Pont's soccer field.

St. Mark's celebrates its last second victory.
