

School Garden a Paying Investment

Boys In Leisure Hours Earn $150

Pupils and teacher connected with the class in School Gardening have been busy during the week winding up the work of the closing season. The young gardeners have handed in their neat little account books showing the net receipts from their summer's work.

Last spring through the efforts of the ladies of the Education Committee of the New Century Club, a lot, which would otherwise have stood idle during the summer, was loaned for the season to the boys by the college trustees. The youngsters immediately got to work, earning by means of a bake and moving picture benefit, fifty-five dollars, which they used in paying for the preparation of the ground and buying seeds and equipment. The first spring day found them hard at work, and as a result of their energy the net receipts of the account books show a total of $86.23 from the one lot. Added to this there is a total of $65.28, made on the home gardens, for that part of the class having ground available at home used that, making the grand total earnings of the entire class $151.51. One individual book—the account of a home garden—showed net proceeds amounting to $30; the highest on the 40 x 50 school garden plot was $11.00.

All the young gardeners are members of the grammar school and their success has placed Newark on the map as school gardening circles.

Unconfirmed Report Of Militia's Return

There is a possibility that the Delaware troops may be sent home before long. Letters state that many rumors are in circulation through the camp relative to the return of the soldiers and that the Deming Board of Trade is arranging to give a farewell reception to the officers. October 1 is the date set for leaving.

No confirmation of these reports could be obtained from Adjutant-General I. Pusey Wickersham. He said he had heard nothing definite about the return of the troops, adding that many rumors were afloat, but that he did not believe the government intended moving any more troops from the border at this time. This was only surmise on his part, not official information, he explained.

It is also said that recruits for the Delaware battalions being enrolled at Fort du Pont are intended to take the places of the Delaware College boys who are serving with the colors in New Mexico, but on this point General Wickersham could not give any information, either.

There are twelve or fifteen college students in Company E, and the college authorities have been in communication with the War Department through Delaware's representatives in Congress relative to having the students dismissed and permitted to return to take up their studies. It is said that the War Department has held out some encouragement to the college officials.

For Better Schools

Under the direction of the State Co-operative Educational Association, assisted by the U. S. Bureau of Education, county mass meetings are being planned for the week of Sept. 25-30. Several meetings will be held each day, at different places afternoons and evenings. The start will be made in Sussex County on Sept. 25. The County Superintendents are organizing local Committees of Arrangement in the places where meetings are to be held. Speakers of local and national fame will address the meetings.

The preliminary survey to ascertain sentiment indicates a wide-spread interest and big crowds at the meetings. It is understood a meeting will be held in Newark. Notice will probably be given later.

A child named Reed, 2430 W. Nineteenth street, 5 years old, was reported Tuesday as having the disease.

The State Board of Health reports two more cases, both being children, one living at Frankford, and the other near Frankford. These are the first cases reported in Sussex county.

DISCIPLINE FIRST, LAST AND ALL THE TIME

New Commandant Talks Plain U. S. To Cadets

"Discipline, first, last, and all the time." This was what Lieutenant W. F. Hoey, U. S. A., the new commandant of Delaware College, impressed on the college cadets, lined up in front of him in company formation for the first time, Friday afternoon. Lieutenant Hoey made it plain he is going to insist on discipline from the cadets as to drills, and those who fail in this respect will be properly punished which punishment will be extra drill periods. He pointed out that all cadets could make the work easy by obeying orders and working together with him. If they fail in this he said it would make it hard for him but he in return would make it hard for them.

Lieutenant Hoey, whose home is in Dover and who some years ago was an officer in the Organized Militia of Delaware, arrived in Newark several days ago, succeeding Capt. Charles C. Herman, Jr., who was commandant at Delaware College for three years. He attended the first meeting of the faculty of which the commandant is a member, on Monday of this week and made it plain that he will insist on the military department of the college getting the proper recognition in every respect.

BOARD OF HEALTH DISCUSSES CLEAN-UP

Nuisances Reported And Condemned

The Board of Health at its regular meeting on Friday evening continued plans of the Health campaign. In view of so many sewer connections ordered the advisability of calling for out-of-town plumbers to assist in the work. The plan originally was to refrain from this but local men are booked for orders practically for months and it is being considered whether it would be advisable to call in extra help, at least temporarily. No action, however, was taken.

Additional notices to dealers in foodstuffs to keep their wares covered, were ordered sent out. Also, some fifty different nuisances were reported and condemned. The nuisances are out-closets, garbage wastes, and sewer connections. Notices were ordered sent. Immediately on arrival of the supply of chloride of lime, a general town wide cleaning will be ordered. Leniency, except in serious cases, has been the policy. After the clean-up, those failing to comply will be prosecuted was the decision reached by the Board.

No new cases of typhoid has been reported this week.

Dr. Mitchell Makes Address At Kennett

Dr. Mitchell addressed the Union Services in the Odd Fellows' Hall at Kennett on Sunday. These services are under the auspices of the community organization. All the churches of the community, Protestant and Catholic, take part. As with all community affairs the work is meeting with success. Illustrative of the spirit of Kennett it was announced at the meeting that this week a reception would be given to the new and returning public school teachers.

No details are given out as we go to press but the state ticket is said to be:

Presidential electors, same as organization ticket; United States Senator, Dr. Hiram R. Burton, Leves; Governor, John G. Townsend, organization; Congressman, Edward G. Bradford, Wilmington; Lieutenant-Governor, Jefferson Cooper, Cheswold; Attorney-General, David J. Reinhardt, Wilmington, organization; State Treasurer, William J. Swain, organization; Auditor of Accounts, A. L. Hudson, Jr., Smyrna; State Insurance Commissioner, George C. Hering.

Continental To Play Series

The Continental Fibre will play a series of three games with Wilder A. C. Team of Wilmington.

The first game will be played Sept. 30, on the Delaware avenue grounds, Newark. Second game, Front and Union street grounds, Wilmington. Third game, to be announced later.

This promises to be an interesting series. The standing is now, Continental won one; Wilder won one, and one game tied. The boys are on their mettle and if ever a Continental "pep" exhibition was given, it will be seen "bigger than ever" at this series. Some good old time "rootin'" will add to the game and help win. All together for the "Cons." Play ball, Wilder, you're out.

College Infirmary For Delaware

For the first time in the history of the institution Delaware College has an infirmary solely for the benefit of the students. The infirmary has been fitted up in what was formerly the home of Daniel Stoll, at the south-east corner of Delaware Avenue and Depot Road, the property now being owned by the college. The location is ideal for the purpose and the building which was erected by Mr. Stoll only three years ago for his home, was easily transformed into a modern infirmary.

The infirmary was opened at the beginning of the college year last week with Miss A. M. Beck, formerly of Middletown, in charge. Miss Beck has had considerable experience in hospital work and is well fitted to take charge of the work. She will remain in the building at all times and already has been called on to treat several students for minor ailments. Dr. Mitchell, president of the college, points out that the purpose of the infirmary is largely to prevent sickness among the students. A student has even a minor complaint is urged to take advantage of the infirmary and go there for treatment at once the same as he would go to his mother should he be at home. With this idea in view it is anticipated that students will often be saved from more serious illness that may take them away from college for at least a short time, by going to the infirmary for treatment as soon as they realize they are sick. A physician will be in attendance when ever desired. There will be no cost to the student for treatment at the infirmary except for small annual dues.

Eben B. Frazer, a trustee of the college, was chairman of the committee that fitted the infirmary up. It has been made modern for the purposes in every detail. On entering the building from the

Baseball, Boxing, and Football Popular At Deming

The Delaware regimental baseball team is leading the Luna Co. N. M. League, and has made a fine record against the First Arkansas, Second Arkansas, and Deming clubs. The Delaware team is composed of the pick of players of the two battalions.

"Mike" O'Daniel, sergeant of E Company, the crack Delaware College catcher, is receiving behind the bat. Norris Price, of Co. E, has been serving up a brand of pitching that has proven unbreakable.

In the outfield Sergeants "Biddy" Bounds and Ferguson, former "Blue and Gold" players, of Co. E, form a speedy and hard-hitting combination.

If the Delaware boys remain on the border long enough a series of games will be arranged between them and the pennant winner of the fast El Paso League. The Delaware contingent in camp is sure the Delaware boys can trim the best that can be produced within a hundred miles of Camp Deming.

Boxing has taken a strong hold on the sporting life among the soldiers. An inter-regimental bill has been arranged for the night of September 30, when five of Delaware's best pugilists will oppose an equal number of Arkansas boxers. Major Reed has agreed that all boxers may be excused from drill during the next ten days to allow them to devote all their energies toward a big Delaware victory on the thirtieth.

With the coming of cooler weather, company football teams are being organized. There is some fine football material in camp, and if suitable grounds can be secured, Delaware should turn out a strong regimental eleven. The candidates include Smart, O'Daniel, and Crothers, of Delaware College. All of the Delaware candidates have had football training either on college gridirons or in regular army games, and should form a formidable aggregation against any other army team on the border.

OBITUARY

Anna Rankin Springer

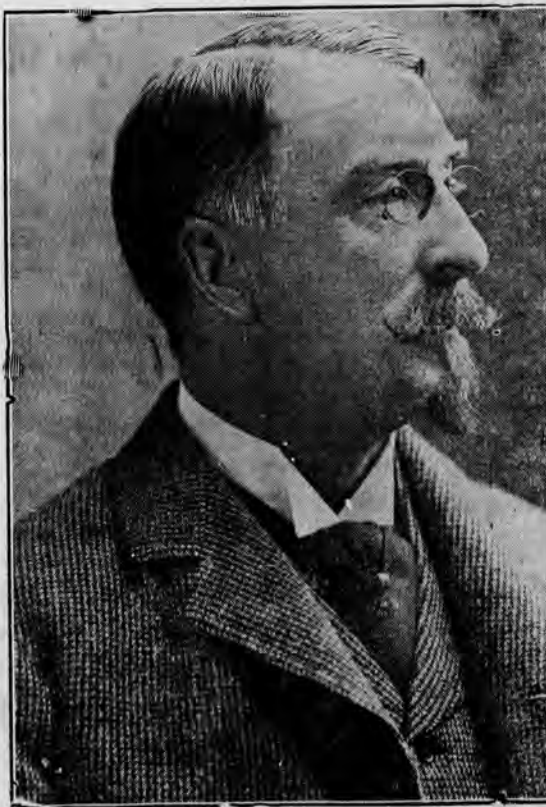

Miss Anna Rankin Springer, daughter of the late James and Sarah Springer, died at her home West Main street, Sunday, September 24th, after a lingering illness. Funeral services were held this afternoon. Interment, White Clay Creek Cemetery.

Miss Springer, with her parents, came to Newark in her early girlhood, since which time she has figured prominently in the social life of Newark. An alumnus of Newark Academy and Delaware College, she has kept in touch with the progress of these institutions until compelled by failing health two years ago to resign such duties, she has been in conspicuous in local church and club work. She was an active member of the women's missionary societies and a teacher in the Sunday School of the Presbyterian church. Miss Springer also became one of the first members of the Newark New Century Club, and for years served on the executive board of that organization.

Two sisters, Miss Margaret Springer, of Newark, and Mrs. Thomas Davis, of Wilmington, survive.

Louisa J. Balling

Louisa J. Balling, 6-year-old daughter of John Balling of 226 Harrison street, Wilmington, and niece of Frank Balling, Master Pressman at Kells, died this morning of infantile paralysis. The little girl was taken sick on Sunday night. Last night (Tuesday) at 10 o'clock, the physician pronounced the case infantile paralysis. At one o'clock the little tot surrendered to the monster.

United States. No wonder the people of Delaware are proud of their Senator. No wonder the Senator enjoys their confidence, their admiration and their support. There is even now a prevailing sentiment among Delawareans for his re-election and a determination on the part of the voters to give him this well-deserved honor.

The following brief outline of his career will give the people of Delaware a picture of a most active and honorable life. He was born at the Eleutherian Mills, Newcastle County, Del.; was educated at private schools; entered the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia in 1855, where he spent a year in the sophomore and junior classes, leaving the university to enter the United States Military Academy on July 1, 1856. He graduated at the head of his class, May 6, 1861; was commissioned second lieutenant, Corps of Engineers, May 6, 1861; first lieu-

WINTER EGGS IN DELAWARE

A. M. Pollard gives the third of a series of practical articles on Eggs and How to get them on the ordinary farm under ordinary conditions. This article tells how to select the layers. He points out the necessity of discarding the "eat their heads off kind" and says every flock has them. But it's easy to remedy.

Farmers and poultrymen at this time are rounding up their pullets, preparatory to putting them into their winter quarters. Some are particular enough and try to put birds of the same size and age in one flock. Others put all sizes and ages together, just because they are pullets. This is a grave mistake. Pullets of different size and ages, never mature as well or as quickly as when selection is made of those of just one size. It is very important that the selection be made at this time. One of the most important points to know is what strain you have, not only as regards laying but also constitutional vigor and stamina. Did the pullets grow up strong and well, or were they delicate in rearing? Were the parents or near relations much troubled during their laying, with regard to their health and did they show any ovary trouble, while in the breeding pens? Did the parent bird lay an average size egg, especially the hens that produced the sires? If not, there might be disappointment as to the size of eggs laid. Select the birds, if possible, to match one another in general appearance, also size, as they look much better than a pen of birds that vary a good deal, both in type and size. Select birds of fine bone and quality, as it is found that they do not waste so much time after broodiness or moulting, as the coarser and larger boned birds. I like to see a nice sized bird of any breed, providing it is fine in bone and quality. It is also much better for the breed, to keep the strain fair in size.

Some of our best strains at the present are much too small owing probably to their early maturity and prolificacy. Age is a very important factor and one that is likely to be upset under different conditions. Some strains can be reared and developed much faster than others, although the same attention is given them; therefore judgment is needed to know when to hatch these different strains, so as to have them mature at the right time. It is always a wise policy to hatch a fair number of chicks together, at a date which will give them plenty of time to mature, as one is better able to select a much more even lot of birds than if hatched out in small numbers. A few years ago, it was not supposed that a person could make a selection from his pullets with any degree of accuracy, as to their probable laying capacity but experience has taught us that we can select our pullets that are six months old, with an absolute degree of certainty. If at six months old, the pullets appear uniform and in a healthy condition, it is almost impossible to make a mistake. The pullets, on examination, should show a width of from one and one-half to two inches between the pelvic bones. This condition should prevail among the Leghorns. The heavy breeds, such as Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, should be selected about a month later and should show a distance of from one and three-quarters to two and one-eighth inches between the pelvic bones. A Leghorn pullet that is six months old and shows only one inch or less pelvic bone development should be relegated to the butcher shop, as they will positively never make profitable layers. The writer has examined thousands of birds in Delaware and has found on an average, that one-fifth of every farmer's flock is not profitable. This one-fifth, of course, will lay some eggs, say 30 or 40 eggs in the year, and the same hens that lay only 30 or 40 eggs, that sell for perhaps 90 cents, eats $1.75 worth of feed. So now, Mr. Farmer, it is up to you to eliminate this one-fifth of non-profitable producers. Do it now, by careful selection. Keep only those that look good to you, and those that, after you have given a physical examination, show themselves to be capable of laying a goodly supply of eggs. I know that if every farmer who keeps poultry, in Delaware, will make a careful selection of his birds, and give them the right kind of feed and plenty of it, and good care, that he can easily get 12 eggs from each hen he keeps for each of these months, November, December, and January, and if he does that, at the end of the year he will find that he has a lot of birds that have laid nearly 200 eggs each. This kind of an egg production can be obtained by most of our farmers, by introducing into their work, a plentiful supply of sticktoitiveness.

Revenue Stamps Discontinued

If you waited until 12:01 a. m. Sunday to make that long distance phone call or to send that telegram, you probably noticed the odd cent you had been paying on either one, was not asked for. And if you took out insurance on your health, life or property any time after midnight Saturday night, you didn't have to pay umpteen dollars plus one or more odd cents.

The reason was that the new revenue bill, passed just before Congress adjourned, automatically repealed all the various stamp tax items that harried you because of the 1914 emergency revenue measure. It went into effect at midnight Saturday night.

There is no stamp tax on anything in the new revenue law. Under the 1914 emergency act there was one cent, or two cents, or three cents—as the case might be—extra charges for lip rouge, perfumery, talcum powder, phone calls, etc.

A penny or three extra on all kinds of express and freight packages had to be paid before. It isn't done any more. There is a modicum of comfort in the new act for folks who chew gum. Under the 1914 act 1-8 of a cent stamp tax was charged on every five-cent package of gum, and gum makers were talking of "shortening the loaf". That's knocked out in the new act.

Some other stamp taxes repealed include: One cent stamp on Pullman tickets, either lower or upper; taxes on custom house receipts for bonded goods; taxes on stock exchange transactions, on all bonds issued by corporations, on all conveyances, deeds of trust, etc.

The tax on the Pullman tickets hundred feet and was killed instantly. Mr. Blackway, who was some steps behind her, had time to leap back from the track but his clothing was brushed by the passing train, and he was taken to Union Hospital senseless from the shock. Miss Bailey's body, which was badly mangled, was taken to the undertakers' where it was viewed by a jury summoned by Coroner Litzberg and later was removed to her parents' home at Cecilton. The inquest was held on Thursday evening. The jury found that Miss Bailey's death was due to negligence on the part of the railroad company's employees in failing to have the inter-track gate closed and locked and also censured the company for the high rate of speed at which certain of its trains are run through the town of Elkton.

Campaign For Better Schools

Plans have been made for a series of meetings in Kent and Sussex counties by Superintendents of Schools Carroll and Hardesty in the interest of improved education. Prominent speakers will attend the meetings and visit remote rural districts in automobiles. Building of better schools will be urged with more liberal support. Changes in the laws covering taxation for school purposes will be advocated. Meetings have been arranged for Harrington, Milford, Bridgeville, Georgetown, Lewes, Frankford, Laurel, Seaford, Frederica, Dover and numerous other smaller rural districts.

Sticky Fly Paper As Rat Catcher

Harley Brewster, a Broad Creek farmer, being greatly annoyed with rats, which made way with his chickens and eggs, and after experimenting with numerous traps with little success, finally tried spreading sheets of sticky fly paper on the floor near the rat holes, after the chickens had gone to roost at night.

Twelve large rats were found rolled up in the sticky paper the first morning, and each additional morning since he has been finding additional rats, all fighting mad, but so stuck up that escape was impossible for them.

The Night Shift

(From the La Crosse-Wis.-Leader-Press.)

"The night shift" is something the community knows little about. Not only the one bright, dependable girl, alert and wakeful while the city sleeps, ready to summon the doctor for you, the fire department or the police, getting you up in time for that early train, even routing you out cheerfully the morning the trout season opens—not only the telephone girl, but the fire department with several men always waiting to spring to the horses' heads—the police force traveling solitary beats night after night, the train dispatchers, the roundhouse men, the train hands, the electricians, the night nurses in the hospitals, mothers of little children, who sleep with one eye open all the time—all these and many others make a list of toilers whose service is all the more remarkable because so little noticed.

Kipling has enshrined "The Night Shift" among the world's best in his "Sons of Martha."

They do not pray to their God that He will arouse them
A little before the nuts work loose;
They do not teach that His pity allows them
To leave their work whenever they choose.

As in the thronged and lightened ways,
So in the dark and the desert they stand,
Wary and watchful all their days,
That their brethren's days
may be long in the land.
Not because of pity for the night toilers, nor in belated words of thanks, but because of their superior quality, trained in unusual forges of service—because their fellowship is good company, one ought to spend some sleepless night making the rounds in imagination, at least, among "The Night Shift." They are fellows good to know.

RURAL SPORTS

WITH SEPTEMBER comes the thought of a day afield with dog and gun. Every rural out-door man has to have his days off for gunning. The boy on the farm will work like fury if he has in view, a rifle, a dog and a day off.

NOW THE TICKET

The Primaries are over. The Republicans have presented their candidates for the consideration of the voters. A glance at this list shows the ticket to be a representative one. As such they will appeal to the rank and file voter. They are representative of party thought, coming not as any man's men, but chosen by the voters themselves. This is true of the ticket throughout the state. It is Republican desiring Republican victory. Any set of men, so disgruntled by personal defeat, as to oppose the ticket will have to face the question—Are you working for self or party? Locally, we are glad to say that those who were defeated are coming out boldly pledging support to the successful nominees. The party with the ticket as it now stands, awaits the challenge. The nominees of the party can well expect the proud support of Republicans. More than that, they can look with confidence expect support from the independent vote. Still more, the Democratic situation promises support. To date, Republican success is assured.

He resigned from the Army March 1, 1875, and was president and general manager of the Wilmington & Northern Railroad Co. from 1879 to 1899; retired from active business a number of years ago and has been chiefly occupied since then in agricultural pursuits. He was elected United States Senator by the legislature June 13, 1906, to serve the unexpired portion of the term beginning March 4, 1905, and took his seat December 3, 1906. He was re-elected January 25, 1911, receiving the entire Republican vote of the legislature.

Just as his bravery and "distinguished gallantry" were recognized by the military authorities and the Government of the United States during the Civil War, so were his abilities and devotion to duty recognized when he entered the Senate. He has been appointed to serve on more important committees than probably any other Senator. He has been a member of the following committees:

Committee of the Census.
Committee on Coast Defenses.
Committee on Military Affairs.
Committee on the Philippines.
Committee on Railroads.
Committee on Education and Labor.
Committee on Expenditures of Department of Justice.
Committee on Expenditures of Department of War.

During the last session of the Senate, when the Committee on Military Affairs was working on the different measures for preparedness, Senator du Pont's long military experience was of the greatest value to the committee, and Senators of both parties, who were members of the committee, expressed themselves in terms of the highest appreciation of the important assistance he has been able to render them, for his advice was sought on every point of military preparedness, from ordnance, coast defenses, organization, discipline to the minutest details of military activity.

As a member of the Philippines Committee he assisted Presidents Taft and Roosevelt in the settlement of the Catholic Church question in the Philippine Islands and himself introduced bills to make these settlements effective.

After the last period, Friday afternoon, which is to be the drill period according to the college schedule this year, Lieutenant Hoy had the entire battalion of cadets line up in company formation on the campus. The cadets were in citizens' clothes, as they have not yet received their uniforms. Lieutenant Hoy was also in citizens' clothes but he took his position in front of the battalion and gave the boys a heart-to-heart talk, bearing especially on the importance of discipline.

Many members of the faculty, as well as the entire student body, were on the campus when Lieutenant Hoy gave his talk to the cadets and all were favorably impressed with it. "He means what he says," was a comment made by more than one student when the companies were dismissed.

The college officials believe that such discipline as Lieutenant Hoy proposes will be of great benefit to the entire student body.

Farm Talk

Dry—Dry—Dry. Beautiful weather as it is, the farmer can scarcely appreciate it. He needs rain for his plowing and fall seeding. Just now he is taking advantage and getting the corn cutting over. The crop promises normal. Wheat is not turning out quite up to the standard years.

Prices of potatoes causes him to scratch around the late plantings but dry soil causes him to look skyward again. Sweet corn is bringing $1.50 per hundred. Cabbage is a luxury at 60 to 75 cents a "monkey."

Celery needs rain; no turnips in sight; fall and winter spinach very questionable.

Sweet potatoes down state promises a good crop. Old New York soup beans quoted at $9.00 a bushel. A few farmers have prepared for the winter. Pork quoted at 14 cents. Sounds good until we reckon cost of production. Milk $1.90 at the creamery and talk of going higher. It simply has got to meet the costs. The farmers organization will see to that. Producing milk is more and more being considered a business proposition. And still it is dry, dry, dry.

main entrance on Depot road there is to be found a modern first-aid room and the office of the nurse in charge. The remainder of this floor is taken up with the private quarters for the attendants, including a private bath and modern kitchen with all equipment.

On the second floor there are four wards for patients. Each of these rooms have been equipped with all modern sanitary furniture and equipment. They are roomy and cheerful with plenty of light and ventilation. There is also a bath on this floor. Nothing has been left undone by the committee to make these rooms as attractive as possible under all the conditions and in fact they are much more comfortable than rooms could possibly be in the ordinary hospital.

One feature of the infirmary is the fact that provisions have been made for an infectious ward entirely isolated from the other part of the infirmary. This infectious ward adjoins the main building, but it can only be entered from the outside and therefore is practically isolated from the other parts of the infirmary. It contains two separate rooms with a private bath.

The benefit of the infirmary has already been demonstrated as there have been several patients. One young student who had a sore throat when he arrived at college last week, was at once placed in the infirmary. He was kept there for several days and has now entirely recovered. Another student was treated for a sty on his eye and a third for a fractured rib. There is hardly a week passes that some one of the two hundred and more students will not require some minor treatment that may save them a spell of illness.

The infirmary was also used yesterday for the inoculation of students against typhoid. Thirty-six students and members of the faculty took this inoculation treatment.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE BEGINS AT DELAWARE

Keen Competition Likely For Positions On Team

The Delaware College football squad was put through the hardest practice of the season Monday and yesterday afternoon when Coach McAvoy had three squads working for some time. The candidates have been provided with uniforms this week and this is also a great help in the practice work. Most of the work this week has consisted of signal drills, this being the first time that the candidates have been divided into squads for this class of practice. There has been no opportunity as yet to judge of the new material and Coach McAvoy will not know much about it until the scrimmages start which will be the last of this week or the first of next week.

In the varsity eleven lined up yesterday there were but three 1915 varsity men namely Captain Fidance, quarter back, and Ernie Wilson and Weldin, tackles. Fitzpatrick, a varsity end last year, was worked on the scrubs as his injuries sustained in an automobile accident last June still bother him some. The varsity team has been lining up in practice as follows: left end, Meyers; left tackle, Weldin; left guard, Johnson; center, Stewart; right guard, Carter; right tackle, Wilson; right end, Marston; quarter back, Fidance; left half back, Selby; right half back, Roach, and full back, Loose. Marston and Meyers played on the scrubs last year while the other five men are members of the freshmen class.

Assistant Coach Keyes had charge of a third squad. In this squad were Marshall, Alexander, L. Plam, M. Plam, Marconetti, Mackey, Chambers, Cantwell, N. Taylor and Gordy.

As there will be at least seven and probably eight positions on the team to be filled, the new men have an incentive to work hard.

Ham Suffers Near-Ptomaine

"Too much of a good thing" resulted in Ham, the Kalem comedian, losing a day and a half from the studio last week. Instead of prancing about before the eye of the camera Ham was jumping around under the hand of a doctor, with a case of near-ptomaine.

It happened this way. The charm of Edith Teare, the persuasion of Bud Duncan and the strategy of Ham had succeeded in securing permission to use Gould's drug store at Hollywood fr scenes in "Ham in the Drug Store." After closing hours the Kalemites took possession of the store and worked half through the night. Ham and Bud were supposed to be expert soda dispensers and as time wore on Ham became so imbued with confidence in his own ability that he kept up a continual sampling of fancy concoctions. As every syrup and ice cream in the shop entered into the making of some of them the result told above need not surprise any one. —Adv.

WANTED—JUST ONE GIRL

Our Bindery Department is growing. We have the stock on hand to do some real binding. A book is in process that will be bound in a dainty purple sheepskin. It will be sewed. There will be a hand illuminated initial. To know how to do this, is a profession. It is Art craft that demands study, thought, and skill. College girls all over the country are taking up this work. It needs the dainty touch of the girl who has the eye for color and symmetry and neatness. An opportunity will be offered to some Newark girl to learn. When the work begins, an artist experienced in the craft will be in charge. A helper, an understudy, will be needed. Here is a chance. In the meantime, we can find work in the department. She can become acquainted with the surroundings, learn the technical lingo of the Shop. Also she will be learning the rudiments of binding.

The hours are short,—48 of them a week.

Don't Want To Go

I don't want to go to school, I wanta play,
I don't wanta be President some day,
Don't wanta be nuthin' but a chauffeur or police,
Then I can do about as I please.
Nuthin' but lessons and books, books, books,—
I don't wanta dress up, don't care how I looks
Even if I do have to go to school, I won't never be nuthin' but a fool.

I read in a book where a man got rich
Who never studied anything, books nor sich,
Made enough money to buy a whole town,
And said no teacher could keep him down.

My dad got married—couldn't read or rite,
But owned two coon dogs, sure they could fite—
And he raised the best pumpkins ever you seen,
And nobody said my dad was green.

Besides, what's the use o' wasting you time?
Schoolin' don't help a man to spread lime;
What a man needs is muscle and grit,
And some of your school teachers ain't got a bit.

My mam got married, could'nt read a word,
And I often listened, and this is what I heard:
"The best washer and ironer in the State,
And as to cookin' she couldn't be bate."

But I s'pose I must go and study and learn;
It's trouble any how whichever way you turn,
But I tell you now, I hate to go to school,
For I won't never be nuthin but a fool!

Long Chase Of Young Bandits

Joseph Wendt, Dennis Leoni and John Clifford, each aged about 15 years, who had escaped from the Ferris Industrial School on Saturday morning, entered the grocery store of E. C. Jarrell, 200 South Market street, Wilmington, and with drawn revolvers ordered Mrs. Jarrell, who was alone in the store to hand over the money in the cash drawer. When she did not comply at once, Wendt fired at her twice. The revolver was loaded with blank cartridges and the wads struck Mrs. Jarrell on the chest, just below the heart. She screamed and the boys, taking $1.30 from the drawer, ran from the store. The police were notified and traced the trio to the marshes in South Wilmington and catching sight of one of them, pursued them through the tall weeds and over the yielding ground. Some railroad hands joined in the chase and the young bandits were captured and returned to the Ferris School in the afternoon. Wendt told the officers that he smashed a show case in front of Levy's pawnshop, at Seventh and Market street, about 2 o'clock in the morning and took from it the revolvers. He added that if he had not fired "blanks" Mrs. Jarrell would have been a "lead one." Wendt escaped from the school on Friday and meeting Leoni and Clifford on the street joined them at a cabin in the marsh to which they were heading when pursued.

Workman's Injury Likely Fatal

While helping in handling a large gum log to be hauled to the veneering machine in the Marvill Packing Company's plant, on Wednesday, Victor Wright, was, it is feared, fatally injured while he was standing at one end of the log waiting for the rope to be fastened which holds the beam of the timber wagon, the rope broke, and an iron bolt from the block swung over, striking him on the head, fracturing his skull. He was hurried to the Salisbury Hospital, where little hope is felt for his recovery.

Auto And Trolley Deal Death

Raymond, alias, "Pete" McFadden, aged 30 years, a cattle driver, was struck by an automobile driven by George Benton, near Avondale, on Sunday night of last week and died within an hour. He was walking along the road when struck and was hurled in front of a passing Wilmington and West Chester trolley car which ran over him. One arm, a leg and several of his ribs were broken.

Winning Odd Fellows Welcomed

For the fourth consecutive time the degree team of Eden Lodge 1, O. O. F. of Wilmington at the annual convention of the Sovereign Grand Lodge in Chattanooga, Tenn., last week won first prize in exemplifying third degree work with a percentage of 99 in competition with other skilled teams. They also won first prize for third degree work with a percentage of 99 3-4. The victorious team was given a fine reception upon its arrival home on Saturday evening. A parade with several bands in line was held followed by a formal reception by Mayor Price and a banquet was served to the team in Eden Hall.

Bridge Opens New Route

The Kent County Levy Court has purchased the trolley bridge across the Brandywine at Pine street, Wilmington, and will erect it over Leipsic Creek at Leipsic, thus opening another fine road route from Dover to Wilmington over improved roads which have not been available for long distance travel owing to lack of connection. From Dover one will be able to travel to Leipsic, across the new bridge, on a fairly good road to Fleming's Landing, on Smyrna River. Thence into New Castle county over improved roads to Taylor's Bridge and Odessa, thence to St. Georges and on to State road through Farnhurst to Wilmington. Sections of the new route not improved will likely be resurfaced. The bridge will be loaded on two barges and transferred to a large railroad car barge and floated down the Delaware to Leipsic Creek.

President of City Council Theodore W. Cavender, who responded to the alarm with the New Castle fire company, is believed to have been injured as a result of being struck in the face by a stream of water, which was suddenly released from a hose he was handling.

Fifteen Years For Burglary
 George Henry, colored, charged with breaking and entering the home of John Manning, on the farm of Eugene Shallcross in St. Georges hundred on June 17 last, was convicted in the General Sessions Court in Wilmington on Friday and was sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment. He admitted having been convicted previously on a like charge in Kent county.

HERE AND THERE

A large auto truck owned by the Hearne Oil Company of Wilmington, loaded with 1200 gallons of gasoline, broke down at Broad and Main streets, Middletown, on Wednesday, and it was stalled and could not be moved until repairs to the street were made.

The largest crowd ever seen in Laurel gathered there on September 19 for the opening of the Firemen's Carnival. The attendance was large on each evening last week. The net receipts had not been reported up to Sunday.

Evelina, daughter of Eugene Cullison, fell into the canal locks at Delaware City on Wednesday afternoon and would have drowned had not Guy Vail and John Boyer hurried to her rescue.

George Hayes, colored, commissary for hands employed on the new bleach mill at Elkton, pleaded guilty in Court on Friday to one of two charges of violating the Cecil county gallon-a-month liquor law and was fined $75 and costs which he paid. The other charge, and one of carrying a deadly weapon, were settled.

A new seven-passenger automobile in which Joseph Benjamin, a grain dealer at Leslie, and members of his family were riding on Thursday night, stalled on the B. & O. R. R. crossing there and was knocked into a ditch by a passing freight train. Fortunately the occupants had left the car before the crash came.

A New York lawyer has recently been seeking to locate the first wife of the self-styled "Lord" Harry Stanley, who some years ago succeeded in inducing Miss Irene Clayton of Calvert, Cecil county, to marry him, and then disappeared. It is said that a legacy of $5,000 awaits the first wife, a former resident of West Grove, Pa.

A new freight house is under construction at the Middletown railroad station, on the west side of the track, 60 x 40 feet in dimensions. The old freight house, opposite the station, will be razed, and the tracks on the west side will be moved ten feet further west giving room for a new concrete platform, covered with an iron shelter shed. The waiting room on the southbound side will be greatly enlarged and, it is said, a subway will be provided to prevent crossing of the tracks at grade.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

For Women Only!

The fall elections are not far off. How many of you women know who were nominated at the recent primaries? Was he the kind of a man for whom you would have voted? Was there a better man who might have received the nomination, on either side? If you do not know who the nominees are, on both sides, please make yourselves familiar, not only with their names, but with their past records. Make a business of finding out whether they are men who are really likely to represent you and your children, as well as the voters of the family. If they are not, be still more curious and try to find out who the propelling force is. Why were they nominated? If they will not represent the entire family unit, just who will they represent?

I heard a woman tax-payer exclaim recently, as the auto in which we rode, bumped, thumped and almost jumped over the road, "Oh! I never saw such roads. We went into Maryland Sunday and the roads there are fine. There was an appropriation made in Delaware, last spring, for road repairing. In June, they were going to be fixed right away. June and July passed and it's almost the last of September and 'nothing doing!'"

Ladies, do you know how your tax money is used? Is it expended as you would have it, had you any voice as to its dispensation. It will be a matter of only a few years, when, with husband's, son's, father's, or brothers' votes for an upright, honorable candidate, your own may be counted. Now, have you such an upright, honorable man in mind, among the present nominees? I know of one such.

Ladies, you have no vote but you have a voice. Will you not proclaim his virtues loudly throughout the land? Talk for the decent man. Be sure that the politicians' tongues are wagging faster than those of any woman or lot of women. (Did I hear somebody remark that greenbanks belonging to these gentlemen (?) are moving with lightning-like rapidity from their pockets to—well, I won't tell what I heard. Anyway, watch out, ladies. Remember about "Little Orphant Annie"—

"And the goblins will git you, if you don't watch out."

I wonder if you have ever heard this anecdote of James Whitcomb Riley. Of course this casts no reflection on persons who do not believe in suffrage for women, not at all.

Fuming in his own peculiar style, about a certain man who had displeased him, "The large, gentlemanly, pearl-gray ass!" he cried. I asked what he meant by a "pearl-gray ass."

"Don't know much about asses, do you?" the poet asked.

I did not.

"Well," he said, "a pearl-gray ass is one that has been an ass a long time."

Are some white men really astute than savages? I quote the following from "The Suffragist."

Red Fox James, Great Chief of the Blackfeet Indians, claims for his race, credit for the idea of woman suffrage.

"In the early days," he says, "before the white man came, the Indian woman had equal voice in the Council and even was elected as chieftain. So you see, this is a real American idea, original from the Indians, before white women had taken it up."

Red Fox James declares that "he always truly in sympathy with the women as concern a voice in ballot. Truly, I regret to say I do not believe in state-right. If a man believe in his own state for women to vote, what is difference in all states?"

Laura C. Pollard,
 Chairman for Newark

Suffrage Meeting

On Thursday, Oct. 5, there will be a suffrage meeting in the Hose House, at 3 p. m. All women welcome. Come and get ready for the vote. "Preparedness"! You know.

Progress On Du Pont Highway

E. C. Humphreys of Hackensack, N. J., has taken the contract to construct the ten mile stretch of the du Pont Highway or Boulevard from Georgetown to a point about one mile north of Ellendale. The right of way for this section of the road has been obtained and nearly reaches the Paul Appenzeller farm, past which construction of the road has been held up pending litigation. The contractor has given bond and work is expected to start forthwith. The building, filling and grading on the entire ten mile stretch is to be finished by January 1, next and laying of the concrete surface is to be started next Spring.

NEW YEAR BEGINS AT WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Freshman Class Welcomed By Dean Robinson

The Women's College of Delaware held its official opening on Thursday. Classes began at 8.45 a. m., as scheduled, but beginning Friday, the first class is at 8.15. Little real work except arranging schedules was done on the opening day. The book store, with Miss Edith McDougle in charge, is now open for those who wish to purchase new books. The upper class girls who have used books to dispose of, sell them at two-thirds of cost.

At noon the first chapel of the year was held in the new chapel in the basement of Science Hall. Dean Robinson welcomed the girls and urged them to be loyal to the college and its student organizations, which she said were opportunities open to all. Announcements were made by the various members of the faculty, most of the notices being essential to the understanding of the work of the semester.

Miss Winslow explained that she would conduct an art lecture during the term, for which work three credits will be given to students attending. The talks, which are to be at the opening of the semester, will be on Italian art, and will be fully illustrated. Outside reading and study of pictures will be required.

Miss Mossop, physical director, announced there will be no physical training for two weeks, and before that time all freshmen must take a physical and medical examination.

After dinner in the evening the house girls held a meeting, at which Miss Selma Bachrach, president of the Student Self-Government Association, explained for the benefit of the new girls some of the rules of the association. It was voted to continue "the pound" this year. "The pound" is the place where all lost articles which are found by those in authority are placed, and from which they can be redeemed only by the payment of five cents. The money goes to some worthy college cause.

The Student Self-Government Association, which is composed of the members of the Women's College, makes rules for the government of the girls, thus binding the girls into closer fellowship, and making them feel their responsibility toward maintaining right behavior.

Miss Edith McDougle, president of the Y. W. C. A., asked for a vote on the time of holding Y. W. C. A. Sunday services. The girls voted for 6.30 p. m.

Quiet hours were observed in the evening, but the proctors were lenient, as it was the first day.

With every year, the Women's College is forging ahead. Even in the student body, there appears a determination to take first place. The girls have the community with them. "College Girls—yes, indeed, and proud Newark is, too," was a remark today of a staid old Newarker.

Following are the names of the members of the freshman class of the Women's College:

D. J. Reinhardt Discusses National Issues

At an open forum meeting held under the auspices of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, in their assembly hall at Third and King streets, last night, David J. Reinhardt, Republican nominee for attorney-general, outlined the issues of the day from the Republican point of view. The open forum is an experiment which the Y. M. H. A. is trying out, the purpose of which is to give all the political parties a opportunity to present their side of the questions of the day.

A large and attentive audience greeted Mr. Reinhardt when he started to speak. First reviewing the history of the formation of the Republican party, and gradually leading up to the present day and the situation which confronts the people, he declared that the Republican party today is the only party which will guarantee the workers of this country a safe existence. Reviewing the record of Hughes as governor of New York, he said: "The record of Charles E. Hughes in the insurance investigation in New York shows that Mr. Hughes is first of all a conscientious, public-spirited citizen, and secondly, that in face of the tremendous opposition with which he had to contend in this investigation illustrates beyond the shadow of a doubt that he has the courage of his convictions."

Mr. Reinhardt throughout his talk refrained from slinging mud at the Democratic party and at the Wilson administration. He gave his audience to understand that he would only attempt to make fair and honorable criticism of the Democratic regime, saying:

"The people of this country have never had the opportunity to vote for two such candidates as Woodrow Wilson and Charles E. Hughes. Both are high-minded men of very high caliber."

In criticizing the present administration, he pointed out the alleged weaknesses of the present cabinet, and the extravagance of the Democratic Congress. After the meeting the people present showed their appreciation by giving the speaker a rising vote of thanks. Louis Topkis presided and he declared after the meeting that he was very much gratified with the showing last night and that he was sure that the experiment of an open forum was a success and an educational feature for the organization.

Next Wednesday night Josiah Wolcott will speak for the Democratic party. The following Tuesday Fred Miller, Socialist party candidate for Congress will speak for the Socialist party.
