Fireworks were provided and displayed by the Keystone Fireworks Manufacturing Co., Inc., of Elkton, and Mrs. William Baumgardt won the prize-drawing award during the display.

Four Civil Defense aides were on hand to supervise the fireworks exhibition, and the slim crowd on hand for the event early in the evening, increased to such proportions after dark that the crowd could have used another three Civil Defense men," an official stated.

The program began with a free swimming show at the Brookside pool last Saturday afternoon, followed by games, exhibits, refreshments, and a public band concert.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Pyle, who are moving to Annapolis, Md., were given a "going-away" present by the community for the Pyles' efforts as Brookside leaders.

Teamsters Return After Area Strike Stops Deliveries

Local 107 Walkout Cited
"Work Holiday" Protest
Against Firing Of Four

Local area truckers idled last week by a Teamsters Union Local 107 "work holiday," returned to work Monday.

The walkout ended just in time. A number of food stores, retail outlets and hospitals reported supply shortages that would be "critical" if the "holiday" extended into this week.

Trucking companies reported that scheduled Monday morning deliveries are back to normal.

Local 107's Wilmington office reported a flood of requests on Monday morning for extra men to work, and such requests are expected to continue for several days until stock deliveries are back to normal.

An estimated 5,000 members of the local, a large number of them from Delaware, voted Saturday in Philadelphia to go back to work immediately.

The walkout, termed a "work holiday" by its originators, began June 20 when officials of the 12,000-member local protested the firing of four Teamster employees of Roadway Express, Inc., in Philadelphia.

The walkout was not sanctioned by the International Teamsters Union and President James R. Hoffa ordered the men back to work.

Financial losses suffered because of the "holiday" had not been determined, according to trucking companies. Several also said they cannot estimate how long it will take to catch up on the backlog of shipments that piled up last week.

The newspaper ads for A&P and Food Fair in the Newark Post last Thursday were canceled because of the trucking strike.

"Newark Schools On Parade" To Repeat Prize-Winning Series Starting Sunday

Beginning this Sunday, "Newark Schools On Parade" will rebroadcast the series which won it the George Washington Honor Medal of the Freedom Foundation for the outstanding radio series of 1964, according to Philip A. Toman, producer and director of this series.

Beginning last October, Newark Schools On Parade, presented a series of three broadcasts entitled "Preparing Newark Students for the American Way of Life." Each of the three programs was devoted to a particular grade level of preparation in the Newark district.

The program to be rebroadcast on Sunday, July 18, with guests Myron L. Lazarus and James B. Owen, will feature the social studies program at the senior high level.

The series not only explains what is being taught, but goes into the problems and areas which are not being satisfactorily handled by the present social studies curriculum.

Experimental programs at each level, as well as the new social studies curriculum, are discussed in the series.

Music will be coordinated with the program to show the part music plays in preparation of Newark students for the American way of life.

On this Sunday's program the West Park Place School Fifth Grade Chorus will sing America, the Beautiful, God Bless America, and You're a Grand Old Flag.

Next Sunday, an eighth grade music class at Oglethorpe Junior High will perform "This Land Was Made For You and Me," and on the program of July 18, the Newark High School A-Cappella Choir and Concert Band will be heard in a performance of "This Is My Country."

Five Local Delegates Attend Conference In Minnesota With Hi-Y Youth Of Nation

"What brings 1,000 teen-agers from across the country together for a six-day conference—especially if they don't know beforehand what they're going to do or talk about?"

"We're in search for something," Program Secretary Bob Mason of the Western Branch YMCA said as he addressed delegates representing Delaware and New Jersey last Sunday.

The delegates, including five from Newark, were being oriented before leaving by bus for the 11th National Hi-Y Assembly, July 1-6, at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

"Maybe we just want to meet young people from other parts of the country," Mason said, "or we're looking for a chance to travel and be away from home for a few days."

"Or maybe we want to find out what other young people are thinking these days, or if we face similar problems in growing up."

"For whatever reason, we may have," Mason continued, "one thing is sure—we are going to have a

New Water, Electricity Rates To Become Effective August 1

Council Amends Utilities Charges With Average Bill
To Increase For Water Use, Decrease For Electricity,
Flat Percentage Cost Of Living Pay Increase Deferred

Increased water rates, and a reduction in charges for the average consumer, effective next Aug. 1, were established with two of five ordinances approved at final readings last Monday night at the regular meeting of Newark City Council.

Action on a proposed ordinance presented by City Manager J. Francis Neide to provide a flat 5.5 per cent cost of living increase for all municipal employees, effective today, was deferred pending presentation of a more equitable adjustment for those in the lower income bracket.

Amended water rates and minimum quarterly charges will result in additional average charges of $1.06 and $1.30 for water consumers within and outside the city limits. Finance Director Albert K. Martin reported, with additional municipal annual revenue of $15,000. Current revenue from the sale of water is at "the break-even point" Martin said.

Reduction in charges for electricity for the average consumer, Councilman Olan R. Thomas said, would more than compensate for the increase in water rates. The latter were adjusted to improve the city's competitive position with commercial water users.

Water rates to become effective Aug. 1, include minimum quarterly charges of $6.48 for 1,750-cu. ft. of water with a 5/8-in. meter; $9.88 for 2,670-cu. ft. recorded with a 3/4-in. meter; and $13.58 for 3,670-cu. ft. drawn through a 1-in. meter.

A minimum charge of $6.48 will be made for each group of three apartment units served by a single meter; and an additional charge of 25 per cent plus a quarterly charge of $1 for every unit in excess of three will be levied against all consumers beyond the city limits.

New electricity rates for residential service include $1.25 for the first 15-kwh; and 5c per kwh for the next 150; and 2.75c per kwh for all usage over 10,000.

Non-residential electricity rates include 5c per kwh for the first 50; 4c per kwh for the next 150; and 2.75c per kwh for all usage over 10,000.

Concerning Neide's proposed 5.5 per cent pay increase as a cost of living adjustment for all municipal employees, Councilman William M. Coverdale cited an across-the-board percentage adjustment as "a red flag" to him with his past opposition, stating that "the Indian down the line" against the use of the word "merit" has become a joke.

A new pay scale and proposal for a cost of living increase is to be presented at the July 19 council meeting.

Parking Protest
Petitioners protested proposed two-hour parking limit on Courtney Street, and Herman Wollaston in the audience said that the university was planning to require the parking of scooters on campus property, which would alleviate the Courtney Street problem.

Charles H. Collier, III, said that the two-hour parking limitation would be a hardship on residents of the city, and added "concerning his car that 'I don't want to get up at 3 o'clock in the morning and get up at 5 to move it again.'"

Mrs. Elizabeth Marvel said that she wanted parking to "stay as it is," and James Marvel cited the problem of curbing a two-hour parking limit on Ashley Road had been abandoned, and that the present 24-hour parking limit is not enforced, citing necessity to call police to remove cars blocking the driveway.

"Please continue to do so," Mayor Joseph A. Shields said with Marvel's apology for resorting to police enforcement. "We need the revenue."

Relief Requested
Mrs. Florence M. Shank in the audience asked for relief from cars parked at her residence at 141 Courtney Street, saying that she had no driveway and often was unable to get out in front of her home after shopping with her daughter, because of congested parking.

"Our intent was to alleviate the problem," Mayor Shields said.

Francis E. Reinhart in the audience, pointed out that the overflow from the Student Center parking lot, added to the congestion on Courtney Street, and urged that council seek university aid in providing parking for college personnel. Vice-President George M. Worrirow is to be advised.

Fuel oil dumped accidentally into White Clay Creek Friday night, was stopped from entering the Wilmington Suburban Water Co. system by an emergency straw barrier across the creek.

Trio At Christiana Involved In Space With Planetarium

Even though they have never left the launching pad, Christiana's trio of future astronauts are confronted with problems of space in their own silent realm—the Newark Planetarium in Christiana High School.

For two years, James Dorsman, Charles Eberhardt, and Fred Kingdon have helped maintain the A-3-P Planetarium—their interest in astronomy stemming from their first encounter with a telescope.

A course in modern space science in the planetarium last year gave these boys opportunity to learn the mechanics of the planetarium instrument. Now, they can set the planets for any given date; replace vital light bulbs which are hearts of the instrument; and perform the many other tasks necessary to keep the planetarium in shape for the classes that visit it during the year.

And the boys have assisted with informal lectures to visiting students.

Not all spare time is spent in planetarium upkeep. Jim Dorsman enjoys playing mathematics, and Charles Eberhardt and Fred Kingdon play in the Christiana High School Band.

This summer, when not working as a lifeguard at the Brookside Pool, Charles will probably be found on his parents' boat somewhere on the waters of the North East River. Jim expects to spend most of his summer working, and Fred is attending Newark summer school.

EPILEPSY
Epilepsy is a medical condition which means an altered electrical pattern of the brain. If this results in an excessive electrical discharge—that is, if the brain sends more stimulation to the nerves of the body than is needed—excessive activity of the muscles stimulated by these nerves results, and a "seizure" occurs.

Epilepsy takes many forms, which vary all the way from no symptoms through attacks so severe that the patient has to be hospitalized in order to save his life.

Epilepsy may change during a patient's lifetime. It may be active only during a short period—it may clear up completely—or it may change from one type to another. Epilepsy can be caused by anything that affects the metabolism of the brain cells. This can be due to faulty development of the brain before birth; injury to the brain during birth; complications from a childhood disease, head injuries, brain infections, brain tumors, faulty circulation of the blood, poisoning, or some metabolic disorders. Often, no known cause is found.

Although epilepsy itself is not inherited, susceptibility to it may be. Diagnosis of epilepsy is based on a history of the patient's symptoms; a physical examination; and an electroencephalograph, which is a measurement of the brain's electrical pattern.

A number of medicines which help tremendously in controlling epileptic seizures have been developed. In a majority of patients, medication can stop the seizures completely.

For a large proportion of the others, this medication can reduce the seizures to such an extent that it is possible for the epileptic to lead a normal life and to earn a living.

Most epileptics are in every other way normal people and have no other handicapping condition. Most epileptics whose seizures are under control, are able to work and are capable of doing a good job.

16-Year-Old Boy Sent To Hospital For Glue-Sniffing

A 16-year-old Newark boy was sent to Delaware State Hospital for treatment last Friday, after a New Castle County Family Court hearing on a glue-sniffing charge.

Judge Joseph P. Hurley said the youth is to undergo tests at the hospital and reports will be made to the court before final disposition of the charge.

Newark police arrested the youth on June 4, on a delinquency charge after his actions at a dance where plainclothes officers were on duty.

They said they followed the youth and another boy who went up on an overhead bridge over Capitol Trail. The two returned to the dance, where they were questioned.

Police said the 16-year-old smelled of glue and became belligerent when questioned. He punched at one of the officers and had to be handcuffed, they said.

The man who was identified as Harry G. Wilson of Hyattsville, suffered fractures of both legs, a fractured hip and multiple cuts.

The chase occurred at about 2:30 in the morning after Wilson stopped a car on Chestnut Hill Road near Ogletown, apparently to ask direc-

Shopping Complaints of Women Reported In Survey By Clothing Specialist At UD

Shopping is not always the agreeable experience it should be, and women in Delaware have specifically complained about their problems in buying clothes, says Janet Reed, clothing and textile specialist at the University of Delaware. She recently conducted an informal survey of consumer complaints and suggestions.

Few things are more irritating than trying to buy a bathing suit in mid-July or a wool dress in mid-February, logical as these purchases would seem to be, women complain. It is frequently impossible to anticipate summer needs in March or April, says Miss Reed. Yet by July, racks of summer clothing have been picked over so that shoppers have little or no choice.

Everyone seems to be diet-conscious these days. Nonetheless, women do come in sizes larger than a Misses 16. With the exception of a few style houses, they are the forgotten women of the fashion world, Miss Reed says. Unbecoming styles and unbecoming colors are a major complaint. A wider range of fabrics, colors and styles would be very welcome.

Older women often have trouble finding styles they prefer. Their biggest complaints are about the short, straight skirts and sleeveless dresses.

Trying to find a better dress in a soft color may pose a problem, says Miss Reed. Women who do not want black, navy, beige or the bright color that is the fad for that particular season may well be out of luck.

Usually the new synthetic fibers and fabric finishes have specific care instructions. Women say keeping track of the hang tags with instructions after they buy garments, is enough of a problem. But the problem becomes more difficult when the tags are lost even before they buy. Care instructions should be sewn into the garment, they say.

Quality of clothing construction varies, but not only with price. Clothes that are otherwise acceptable are sometimes made from poor fabric or are cut off the grain, women complain. Construction details may have been overlooked; the seams are puckered or skimpy; or the seam tape is not pre-shrunk.

Minor alterations may be a bugaboo if you do not check construction details before you buy, says Miss Reed. Seams and hems cannot be let out if they are too skimpy to begin with. Darts are often slashed and trimmed or punched, making them impossible to change. Some women complain that linings are put together in such a complicated way that they are extremely difficult to alter.

The final oft-heard complaint concerned salespeople. Some, say the women, push too hard to make a sale; others do not seem to care at all whether a customer buys.

Teachers Of Math To Hear Lecturer From Netherlands

A mathematician from the Netherlands will visit the University of Delaware campus next Tuesday and Wednesday to lecture to a group of secondary school teachers.

Anthony Van Heemert, lecturer in mathematics at the State University at Groningen, is one of 15 European scientists and science teachers on six-week lecture tours of the United States.

The 15 visitors have come to exchange information with U.S. science teachers who are studying at summer institutes across the nation.

Other countries represented by the visiting lecturers are Belgium, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and England. Van Heemert will speak to 35 secondary school mathematics teachers who are attending a six-week institute at the University of Delaware this summer under a grant from the National Science Foundation.

He has contributed articles to professional publications in his field, and served as scientific officer at the National Aeronautics Laboratory in Amsterdam from 1946 to 1951, and taught mathematics and physics in Amsterdam high schools.

Dr. John A. Brown, professor of mathematics and education at the University of Delaware, is director of the summer institute at Newark.

MAY IT RING FOREVER!

WHAT PRICE PATRIOTISM?

They were men of means and well educated—yet they signed the Declaration of Independence knowing full well the price they'd pay. What happened to them?

Five signers were captured by the British as traitors and tortured before they died. Twenty had their homes ransacked and burned. Nine of the 56 fought and died from wounds or the hardship of the war.

Carter Braxton, a wealthy trader, saw his ships swept from the seas by the British navy. He sold his home to pay his debts and died bankrupt.

Thomas McKean was so hounded by the British that he was forced to move his family constantly and to keep in hiding. His possessions were taken and he was reduced to poverty.

British soldiers or vandals looted the properties of William Ellery, George Clymer, Syman Hall, George Walton, Button Gwinnett, Thomas Heyward, Edward Rutledge and Arthur Middleton.

At the Battle of Yorktown, Thomas Nelson Jr. noted that the British General Cornwallis had taken over the Nelson home for his headquarters. Nelson urged General Washington to open fire. The home was destroyed and Nelson died bankrupt.

Francis Lewis had his home and property destroyed. The British jailed his wife and she died within a few months.

John Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she was dying. Their 13 children fled for their lives. His fields and grist mill were destroyed. For more than a year he lived in forests and caves, returning home after the war to find his wife dead and his children vanished. A few weeks later he died from exhaustion.

Robert Morris and Phillip Livingston suffered similar fates. Such are the stories and sacrifices of the American Revolution. These men HAD security, but they valued liberty more.—Sunray News.

SAFE BOATING WEEK

There has been a vast increase in recreational activities of all kinds in this country, a result of the combination of higher family incomes and increased leisure. Boating has been among the leaders. It is enjoying a boom of sensational dimensions just about everywhere there's water enough to float a hull. And boating is a fine and healthful sport—if!

The "if" has to do with safety. For boating accidents and casualties have soared too. And their root cause is ignorance of the basic rules that spell safety.

During the July 4-10 period, National Safe Boating Week is to be observed—and it is needed! Here are a few of the fundamental rules and precautions that every boater, regardless of the size and kind of his craft, should observe. Don't overload. This is one of the surest roads to disaster. Carry at least one Coast Guard-approved life-saving device for each person aboard a motorboat.

Children should always wear buoyant vests. So should everyone else when conditions are hazardous.

Extreme care should be taken in storing paints, varnish removers, waste and rags.

Pouring gas from an auxiliary can into outboard motor tanks may lead to dangerous spills and the release of explosive fumes. Refueling tanks are available to eliminate this danger.

Watch out for other craft and for troubles your wake be causing — you are responsible. Learn various distress signals.

Learn the rules and the laws—and beyond that, use your common sense!

Two Boys Injured Riding Motorbike On Ogletown Road

Two boys were injured when their motorbike and an automobile collided on the Ogletown-Stanton Road at about 10 p.m. last Friday.

Paul Blansfield, 11, of near Bear, suffered multiple bruises, and was held for observation at Wilmington General Hospital. John Edwards, six, Delaplane Manor, was treated at the same hospital for minor injuries and released. Delaware State Police said Blansfield was riding on the rear of a small motorcycle operated by Edwards, which collided with a car driven by Michele M. Warrington of Newark.

Newark Band Music At World's Fair

Music of the Newark High School Concert Band rang out before capacity audiences at the New York World's Fair Tiparillo Pavilion during its four concerts on June 17-18, as Conductor Harley S. Hastings leads the band in performance of Elia's Procession from Lohengrin by Wagner.

The Newark High School Concert Band was selected to play at the World's Fair, because of the band's reputation for musical excellence throughout the State of Delaware.

Dr. Jack R. Vinson Succeeds Hartnett As ME Chairman

Mechanical Engineering Dept. Change Effective July 1; Hartnett To Illinois

Dr. Jack R. Vinson has been appointed chairman of the department of mechanical engineering at the University of Delaware.

Vinson's appointment, effective July 1, was announced by Dr. Edward W. Comings, dean of the school of engineering, and July 1, also is the date on which the school becomes the college of engineering.

The new department chairman, joined the University of Delaware in 1964 after a career as an industrial consultant and engineer. As an associate professor, Vinson teaches courses such as theory of plates, theory of shells, elastic stability, dynamics and vibrations, and advanced mechanics and materials, along with supervising graduate students and their dissertations.

He received his bachelor of mechanical engineering degree from Cornell in 1952; studied at Cambridge University in England for a year on a Rotary International Foundation Fellowship; and received his PhD in engineering mechanics from the University of Pennsylvania in 1961.

During five years with General Electric, Vinson served as functional engineer and directed technical work of a group of 15 engineers and technicians in the performance of a million-dollar advanced structures program on missile and space vehicles.

Vinson was vice-president and senior scientist with Dyna-Structures, Inc., consultant in applied mechanics for firms on the East Coast.

His mechanical engineering department will occupy recently renovated facilities in Evans Hall, including five specialized laboratories for undergraduate instruction and graduate research. The laboratories are in aerodynamics, heat transfer and thermodynamics, vibrations and dynamics, engineering materials, and high pressure.

Within these laboratories are wind tunnels with associated instrumentation; heat transfer equipment; shock test machines; accelerometers and impact devices for dynamics and vibration research; and high pressure cells for gas property measurements.

Vinson will succeed Dr. James P. Hartnett, chairman of the department since 1961. Hartnett has accepted a faculty position at the University of Illinois.

Junior High Youth Topic For Three Public Seminars

A weekly series of three public seminars on disadvantaged junior high school youth will start this Friday at the University of Delaware.

Three educators with national reputations for their teaching, research, and writing on the subject, will speak at Friday meetings sponsored by the university and the State Department of Public Instruction vocational-technical division.

The opening seminar in the Ewing Room of the Student Center at 9:30 a.m. Friday, will be addressed by Dr. Ruth Hayre, district superintendent of Philadelphia Public Schools. Her topic will be "Reaching and Teaching Disadvantaged Youth."

At the July 9, seminar in the Ewing Room at 2 p.m., Dr. Muriel Crosby, assistant superintendent of elementary education in Wilmington Public Schools, will speak on "An Adventure in Human Relations."

The final seminar, at 2 p.m. July 16, will feature Dr. Louis E. Rath, professor at Newark State College, Union, N. J., with his topic "Emphasis in Thinking."

The three seminars, part of a teacher institute at the university, are open to the public without charge.

Richard B. Herr Awarded PhD at Case Institute

Richard Baessler Herr, of West Main Street, Newark, received his PhD in astronomy at Case Institute of Technology's 89th annual commencement on June 15.

Terry Calls For Display Of Flags On July Fourth

In calling for statewide observance this Sunday as Independence Day, Gov. Charles L. Terry, Jr., has ordered that the American and Delaware flags be displayed from all state and public buildings, and requested that bells be rung for five minutes beginning at noon throughout Delaware so that "everyone in this great nation may be fully aware of the historic significance of this occasion."

In a proclamation issued at Dover, Terry pointed out that "the Declaration of Independence proclaimed to all the world that this new nation, conceived in the spirit of freedom under God, guaranteed to all men their inherent right to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness."

Galls On Leaves, Twigs Caused By Insect "Sting"

Plant galls—those peculiar growths found on leaves and twigs of certain trees and shrubs—are usually the result of tiny insects, according to Dave Tatnall, assistant agent in ornamental horticulture. These gall-forming insects "sting" the plant cells, causing an abnormal enlargement of the plant tissues. By this means they are thus provided a protective home while feeding upon the plant.

Many of these galls are little more than curiosities, while others may seriously mar the appearance of ornamental plants. When practical, galls should be pruned out and destroyed. Dormant oil sprays and timely applications of DDT or malathion sprays are sometimes effective.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT

An appeal for volunteers to aid its fall fund drive was made today by the Delaware Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation. "We hope to enroll 30,000 public-spirited men and women," said President Richard C. Cecil. Interested persons may write to the chapter headquarters at 312 Plymouth Road, Fairfax, Wilmington.

Teenagers Attend 4-H Conference On Local Campus

44th Annual State 4-H Conference In Newark Attracts 170 Members

Some 170 teenage 4-H Club members attended the 44th annual Delaware State 4-H Conference at the University of Delaware last week.

The conference is designed to challenge older 4-H members to discover and strengthen the values that make better citizens, said State 4-H Club Leader James O. Baker.

Keynote speaker Herbert Schaller, director of the Delaware State University, told delegates Monday evening that to become well-rounded individuals, they must develop character, knowledge, energy and a positive attitude. Success does not have to be counted in material wealth, he concluded.

"Strangers are friends you have not yet met, and the strangerest person of all is you because you know the least about yourself," said Dorothy Emerson, consultant on leadership and citizenship for the National 4-H Foundation, on Tuesday morning. Take some time to be alone to think and discover yourself.

"Nobody can be you but you," she emphasized. "So do not let anyone live your life for you."

Miss Emerson pointed out the need for self-discipline, which she defined as "doing what you ought to do when you ought to do it."

On Tuesday afternoon, Andy Eure, associate director of the National 4-H Foundation, developed the conference theme "Values in Focus" with his speech on "The Nature of Freedom."

"All human progress derives from the free expression of individual ideas," he said. In a free society the individual is guaranteed economic, social and personal freedom. However, limitations are in the very nature of every human freedom, Eure explained. Self-control, public opinion and laws limit our freedom.

"The really free person learns the laws of life and abides by them," he concluded.

As youth safety spokesman, Carolyn Mignini, Miss Teenage America, added a charming touch to the Wednesday morning conference schedule with her speech "Buckle-In and Be Better Off," stressing the importance of using safety belts when in a moving car.

"Once you travel, you will want to go again," well-traveled teenage panelists agreed in the Wednesday morning youth symposium "Youth Cultures in Other Lands."

Customs of young people of Austria were discussed by Elaine Gibson of Newark, who visited rural Austria as a student representative of American Field Service.

Joanne Vattilana, Glenside Farms, talked about her vacation in rural Italy; Janelle Sloan, Georgetown, spoke about her experiences during the year she spent in Sydney, Australia, with the AFS program, and Tom Sandbach, Wilmington, was moderator of the symposium.

Letters To The Editor

2912 Ogletown Road
June 20, 1965

It is with a great deal of pleasure that I forward to you a copy of a letter received in my capacity as director of baseball for the Greater Newark Recreation Association. I certainly feel that this letter is self-explanatory, but may I add two thoughts.

First—I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Calhoun for taking the time and effort to write such a fine letter, and also to congratulate Bob Curran for doing such an outstanding job.

Second—I feel that perhaps we as adults fail to give proper credit to teenagers of the Newark area who are decent young men and women. I think that this letter is a good example of the dependability of the majority of teenagers in the Newark area.

Sincerely yours,

Ottavio G. Cataldi

GNRA Baseball Director

Ed Note: The letter from Mr. Calhoun to Mr. Cataldi—"Stump," as the former local athlete is known by his many friends—follows.

606 Apple Road

June 15, 1965

Dear "Stump,"

I want you to know the fine performance rendered by one of the Pony League umpires on June 14. I believe his name is Bob Curran—he umpired the Orioles-Angels game at the West Park field.

Bob knows the game; had the situation under control at all times; and reprimanded a group of his peers who were using foul language among the spectators.

He is to be commended for calling an excellent game; for giving the correct interpretation of several unusual situations; and especially for having the initiative to effectively silence a rowdy influence which the adults present were unwilling or unable to counteract.

You are to be commended for having such a fine young man on your staff, and if such a thing were possible, my vote for "Umpire of the Year" would go to Bob Curran. Sincerely,

Thomas Calhoun

AT INDIANA STATE

Willard L. Hunsinger of 1012 Mayflower Drive, Newark, is among 4,000 students registered for the five-week summer session at Indiana State University.

The 4-Hers boarded buses for special interest tours on Wednesday afternoon, visiting the Pioneer Refining laboratories; Hercules agricultural chemistry laboratory; the planetarium at Christiana High School, and Winterthur.

The delegates' dance and conference banquet were additional activities on Wednesday.

Kirby Krams, superintendent of moral and religious education, Delaware Youth Services Commission, spoke Thursday morning, urging 4-Hers to respect adults—and themselves.

"The sheer weight of years has taught adults a few things you, as teenagers, cannot know," he said.

"You are not yet ready to assume the full responsibilities of an adult, so accept the guidance of adults," Louvers.

UD Soph Arrested With Machine Gun In Trunk Of Auto

Summer School Student Charged With Concealed Weapon, Worthless Check

A University of Delaware summer school sophomore is charged with illegal possession of a machine gun, and was fined $50 for carrying a loaded pistol in his car, and $25 for passing a worthless check.

Newark police say the 9-mm Beretta submachine gun and 600 rounds of ammunition were found in the trunk of the car when an officer stopped the student to arrest him on Wednesday of last week on the worthless check charge.

The submachine gun was bought months ago at a gun show at the Greater Wilmington Airport, and afraid to have it registered, the youth kept it in his car. Officers said he is a gun enthusiast with a collection of firearms at his home.

Detective Sgt. William Brierly said the student had passed a $25 bad check in Newark, and that he stopped the man to arrest him on the charge.

A fully loaded .25 automatic pistol allegedly was found in the glove compartment of the car when the gun enthusiast opened it to get his auto registration card. In the trunk, Brierly said he found the submachine gun and ammunition.

The student explained that he made occasional trips to New York City and carried the automatic pistol in case of trouble.

The pistol and submachine gun have been confiscated by Newark police and will be destroyed.

He was held in $1,000 bail for Superior Court Wednesday night by Magistrate Horace H. Best of Newark, on a charge of illegal possession of a machine gun.

Brierly said it is felony under state law for anyone to possess a machine gun except as a member of the National Guard or a duly authorized police agency.

He also was fined $25 and costs by the magistrate on a charge of issuing a worthless check.

Taken before Alderman Richard S. McCann, he was fined $50 and costs on a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon, a violation of a Newark ordinance.

Police said bail was posted and all fines paid by the accused.

He has been given a required leave of absence from his university, and other possible action awaits disposition of charges.

James T. Pate, Jr. Wins Air Force Commission

James T. Pate, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Todd of 39 Kensington Lane, Brookside, has been commissioned a 2nd lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force upon completion of the Air Force ROTC program at Duke University.

Former athlete and graduate of Edgewater High School, Orlando, Fla., Lieutenant Pate received his bachelor of arts degree as a business administration major this June at Duke, and recently joined the DuPont engineering department at Louvers.

Thomas J. McCall Assists In Alaskan Army Drill

Army Specialist IV Thomas J. McCall, 25, whose wife Phyllis, and parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCall, live at 4059 Ogletown Road, Newark, participated in a week-long summer field training exercise in Alaska which ended June 23.

Specialist McCall was a member of a battalion sized task force from the Alaskan Command which went into simulated combat action against a battalion of infantrymen from the Minnesota Army National Guard.

McCall, a driver in the 171st Support Battalion at Fort Wainwright, Alaska, entered the Army in 1963 and completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C.

A former student at Newark High School, he was employed by the Fader Motor Co. in Newark before entering the Army.

Elaine Gibson, 17 Wins State Contest In Public Speaking

Elaine Gibson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse H. Gibson, Newark, and Tom Sanbach, 18, Wilmington, are first prize winners in the state public speaking contest held June 23, as part of the 44th annual Delaware State 4-H Conference at the University of Delaware.

Miss Gibson, speaking on the topic "Is Freedom Really Free?" said privileges of United States citizens began with the Declaration of Independence and still continue. "Our trademark is freedom," she stated.

"To really know the joy of freedom, each citizen must think for himself. Freedom can be lost if people do not live up to their responsibilities."

"Freedom is never really free; it is the duty of every citizen of the United States to commit himself to work for our trademark—freedom," she concluded.

Citizens have the right to vote and the duty to be informed on the issues and candidates, Sandbach said in his speech. Campaigns are needed to inform the voters and stimulate their interest, not merely get voters to the polls.

"The uninformed voter may actually do a disservice to his country," he stated. It is every citizen's moral responsibility to be a well-informed voter.

"If you do not care enough to find out what you are voting for, stay home and be a good citizen," he concluded.

Both contestants had already won county 4-H public speaking contests, and are now eligible for regional and annual contests.

Contestants in the public speaking event also included Fred Stites, Jr., and Delores Tinley, Dover; Doty Hopkins, Lewes; and Bill Truitt of Laurel.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Ann Holberton, consumer marketing specialist, and Willard T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

ORNAMENTAL DISEASE NOTES

By W. J. Manning, Research Assistant

J. W. Heuberger, Plant Pathologist
University of Delaware

Twig blight, caused by the fungus Phomopsis juniperovora, has been found recently on several species of juniper in Kent and New Castle counties. Most species of juniper, as well as some species of cypress, false-cypress and arbovitae, are susceptible.

Twig blight is first noticed when the tips or branches turn brown. This is followed by progressive die-back until an entire branch is killed. Little black specks are usually visible on dead leaves and stems. These are the fruiting bodies of the fungus.

Infected plant parts should be removed and destroyed to prevent further dissemination of the fungus. Acti-Spray, which contains the antibiotic actidione, should be used according to the manufacturer's recommendations. If this is not available, use maneb at the rate of two tablespoons per gallon for three applications spaced ten days apart.

Die-back of periwinkle — vinca minor — has been common in New Castle County this spring.

The disease is caused by the fungus Phomopsis livella. The first recognizable symptom of the disease is when young shoot tips turn dark brown. This is followed by wilting and die-back of stems to the surface of the soil. Most of the affected stems are blackened and soft. The disease is most common after rainy, cool periods.

Sanitation plays an important part in the control of die-back of periwinkle. Remove badly infected plants and plant parts and burn them to destroy the fungus present in them. Then spray with maneb or ferbam at the rate of two tablespoons per gallon of water. Make three applications at 10-day intervals.

The curriculum in food business will equip graduates for employment with firms involved in food manufacture, wholesaling, retailing and allied fields which require food marketing specialists. The course of study will also include a background in arts, humanities and social sciences, together with a foundation in business administration.

Special courses in food distribution during the junior and senior years and specific training experiences in food firm management will round out the program.

The institute also will continue to conduct research in wholesale and retail areas of food distribution. Service and educational programs will be conducted in cooperation with business firms and trade associations.

Although devoting full time to his responsibilities as vice-president for university relations, Worrlow also will be a university professor of agriculture.

Worrlow also coordinates the activities of the divisions of university extension and urban affairs, and the office of alumni and public relations, and is the university's liaison officer with the Delaware General Assembly, state departments and other off-campus agencies.

A graduate of the University of Maryland, Dr. Worrlow came to Delaware in 1927. His initial university appointment was a temporary one—assistant New Castle County agent—but the temporary job has spanned more than 38 years and has included positions as county agent, state 4-H club leader, director of the agricultural extension service, and, vice-president.

In 1954, Worrlow received the honorary degree of doctor of agriculture from the University of Maryland for distinguished and effective service in furthering national education and research programs in the field of agriculture. Last year, he was presented the annual award of the Philadelphia Society for Promoting Agriculture in recognition of his "outstanding contribution in agricultural education."

McDaniel, the newly appointed dean, holds his bachelor's degree in agriculture from the University of Missouri; his master's in agricultural economics from Illinois; and his Ph.D. from Minnesota. He has been a Delaware faculty member since 1951 and taught four years prior to that time at the University of Minnesota.

A captain in the U. S. Army during World War II, he served in the airborne infantry.

Author of a number of publications in agricultural journals and professional publications, he was featured teacher of the year in the school of agriculture in 1958.

Crossan, a Delaware alumnus, returned to the faculty of his alma mater in 1954 as an assistant research professor of plant pathology.

In 1961, Crossan received the Lindback award for excellence in teaching. He also has represented the school of agriculture on the honors, student personal problems, library, parent's day, and self-study committees, and served a three-year term on the university council.

During World War II, Crossan served with the U. S. Air Force, earning the Air Medal and Oak Leaf Cluster.

The team with the best percentage in the tournament is declared the state champion, and will represent Delaware in the regional tournament at Frederick, Md., on Aug. 9.

There are six Babe Ruth leagues in the State of Delaware.

The schedule for the Newark Babe Ruth League includes games with New Castle East at Newark on July 10, at 11:30 a.m., and Newark at Northern Delaware at 5:30 that afternoon.

Centerville Faces Brandywine Club With Sunday Polo

Centerville opposes Brandywine in the resumption of intra-club matches this Sunday at 3 p.m. on the outdoor field of Toughkenamon, Pa., near Kennett Square.

Argentine ace Hector Garcia rejoins the Brandywine lineup that will be captained by four-goal Bob Connors, and includes John Cheshire and Charlie Walker.

With each of its members rated at two goals, Centerville will field Richie Jones, Fred Fortugno, Don Ross, Jr., and Norm Taylor.

Wagner No-Hitter Features Activity For Little League

Bill Wagner pitched a no-hitter for the Newark National Little League Yankees last Saturday, defeating Pitcher Bob Gessaman and the Senators 3-2.

Dave Radulski was the winning pitcher as the Giants beat the Tigers 15-12 last Friday in a five-inning slugfest called because of darkness. Greg Hesseltine was the loser, and Sandy Shalk hit a homer for the Tigers.

Dave Rogers hurled the Pirates to an 8-0 win over the Senators and Eddie Moxey last Thursday; Norman Dagg pitched the Cards to a 3-2 win over Ken Zehner and the Tigers on Wednesday; and Don Harris was the winning twirler as the Yankees stopped the Pirates 2-0 on Tuesday. Mark Huey was the loser.

In the first game last week, Mike Smith was the winning pitcher, Carl Ochs the loser, as the Pirates beat the Cards 6-2.

Babe Ruth League Day For Newark Scheduled Friday

This Friday will be Newark Babe Ruth League Day in the Newark area, with Babe Ruth League baseball players soliciting contributions to the local program at strategic sites throughout the community.

The Newark Babe Ruth League includes six teams sponsored by local business and service organizations.

"Babe Ruth League Day will provide an opportunity for all residents of the area to support this worthwhile baseball program for local boys," William L. Ward said yesterday. "Your contributions will be most welcome, and are necessary for the perpetuation of this organized baseball play," Ward concluded.

Monitor fought things out some century before.

And Little Leaguer Bill Stafford showed his three adult companions how.

Billy caught a pair of nice flounder—had a whopper at the stern transom which his father lost in some netless attempt at a landing operation all too reminiscent of a personal experience with a big bull dolphin. Capt. Gibby Young, and no gaff out of the Indian River inlet last summer—and the adult trio came up with three small croaker.

"You take the flounder," Little Billy Stafford said at the dock late that evening. And never has there been a more generous gesture. But we couldn't.

Stud Stafford, a former star end for Texas A&M, who had the dubious pleasure of playing against Doak Walker and Bobby Layne of Southern Methodist and Texas U., experienced a bit of football on Hampton Roads just before our arrival.

Scouting over the blue, blue water of the bay before a mighty 70-horse outboard, the Major and his son circled the atomic-powered Enterprise as the classic carrier headed into dock for repairs.

"Keep a safe distance away from her," Maj. Stafford had been advised. "They don't want anyone coming too close."

And he was doing just this, when a football was kicked off the flight deck of the Enterprise where some seamen were engaged in a game with plenty of gridiron space available.

The sailors aboard the Big E waved the Major to come in and salvage their football, and he did. After several attempts, Stud fired the ball high, high onto the lower deck, and the football Navy descended by elevator to the lower level to recover their pigskin.

Dead on the water while gassing up a few minutes later, Stud Stafford was surprised to see the Enterprise lowering a tender, and the Navy roared up to offer assistance.

"Thanks, we're all right," the Major replied. And the Enterprise picked up her tender and crew, and proceeded on her way.

"How far are you getting out there?" Tombo shouted above the roar of wind and surf. "I don't believe I'm putting that bucktail out 20-ft," he said. But he was doing a lot better than that, and with few backlashes from the tricky, conventional surf-casting, free-spool reel.

An hour and a half of strikeless casting in the windy darkness is enough for anyone, and we called it a fishless night.

The next morning with Young Tommy and his six-year-old brother Sean Michael, we put in another hour casting into the same wind, but aided and abetted by daylight. Some 50-yds. beyond the seawall, surf roared on a series of bars where we dropped the bucktail, retrieving it through a deep, grassy slough to the wall. It was beautiful steeper water, but we fared worse than the night before. This time we lost a rig on a rock—the stone kind!

With Big Tom, Maj. Mebane G. "Stud" Stafford and the Major's young son Bill, we fished Sunday afternoon from the Stafford sea skiff on Hampton Roads where the Merrimack and

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

Mickey's Mile

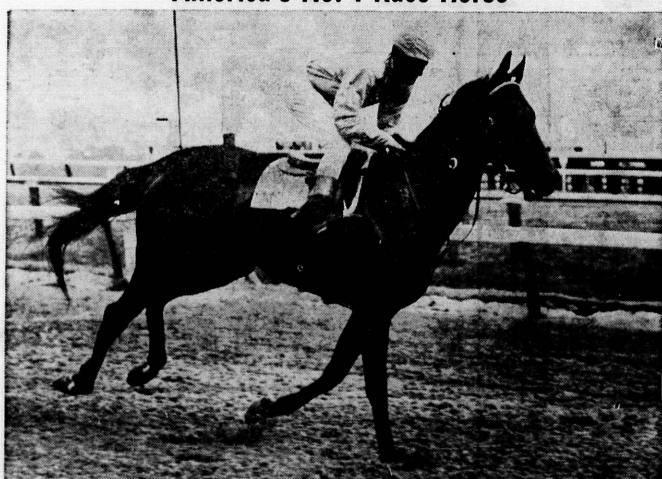

Laurel Race Course and the Washington D. C. International may lay claim to the only Russian horse to race in the U.S., but Suffolk Downs has a track record set by a Russian. The record is for one mile in 8:40 on a muddy track and was established by Russian-born Mickey Brooks. Mickey was running against time to win a $100-to-nothing bet he had made with his fellow workers in the press box.

Mickey is a tender, and he makes some disparaging remarks about a horse that had failed to live up to his expectations, and at a press dinner that night in the Suffolk Downs clubhouse, his friends chided him and said he couldn't circle the track in 11 minutes for a purse of $100.

Mickey was allowed to run without shoes but had to tote a heavy lantern so that the others could follow his progress. "They wanted to be sure I didn't cut across the infield," he recalls. A nightwatchman at the head of the stretch yelled "Halt or I'll shoot!" but the panting Mickey sloshed on and won his purse. Brooks, who today bills himself as "The world's greatest liamemaker," makes the approximate odds and program selections at New England tracks.

America's No. 1 Race Horse

Mrs. Richard C. duPont's Kelso, the nation's Horse of the Year for an unprecedented five straight years (1960-1964) and world's greatest money winner ($1,893,362), will be on exhibition at Delaware Park when Independence Day is celebrated this Monday. Shown here being exercised by Dick Jenkins, the gallant eight-year-old gelding will be making his latest stop in a fund-raising personal appearance tour to raise money for equine research at the new Bolton Veterinary Center of the University of Pennsylvania, and Kentucky's Grayson Foundation.

A variety of sport is on tap at Delaware Park this holiday weekend, beginning with the $10,000-added Indian River Steeplechase Handicap on Friday (July 2). Saturday features the $25,000-added Sussex Turf Handicap. Then, on Monday—the day Kelso goes on exhibition—the featured race will be the $20,000-added Plover Stakes, a 5 1/2 furlong speed test for two-year-olds.

Al "Wish" Fahey Of Delaware Park Dies At Age Of 53

Veteran executive at Delaware Park, Aloysius A. Fahey, known to the horse racing fraternity as "Wish Fahey," died last Thursday night in Memorial Hospital at the age of 53.

Fahey, who lived at 2409 Broom Street, Wilmington, had been associated with Delaware Park since 1947. He had been assistant to racing secretary Allan W. Lavin, for the past seven years, and prior to that, was publicity director for the track.

Although sick for some time, Fahey persisted in going to his office at Delaware Park as often as possible. On May 27, he finally had to give up and went home. He had been in and out of Memorial Hospital several times.

Fahey was with the Evening Journal in Wilmington for 18 years, as an office boy and as a reporter before he joined the Delaware Park staff.

In 1958, Fahey was given the assignment by the Delaware Park officials, of securing nominations for the stake events at the Stanton track. This brought him in contact with some of the biggest names in the racing field.

He was regarded as a friend to virtually the entire fraternity of newspaper, radio and television sports writers and commentators who specialized in covering race tracks.

Born in Wilmington April 12, 1912, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Fahey, he became an office boy for the Journal in 1929, and a staff reporter in 1935.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen Duggan Fahey who is employed by the News-Journal; three brothers, Joseph F., Thomas X., and Robert J., all of Wilmington, and a sister, Mrs. Lawrence J. Messick, also of Wilmington.

He was a member of Christ Our King Catholic Church and the Wilmington Country Club.

Funeral services were conducted Monday, with a requiem mass at Christ Our King.

O'Learys Win First Place With Sports Car Rally

Unbeaten Budd Wins 9th Straight Game To Lead Newark Babe Ruth League Race

Unbeaten Budd made it nine straight in leading the Newark Babe Ruth League with 12-1 and 10-2 wins over the VFW and Bank of Delaware squads in last week's play.

Monte Baldwin threw a three-hitter at the Vets on Monday and Gary Hayman and Larry Williams each walloped home runs for the Budd nine.

Budd's Pedro Swann led the hit parade with three hits, including a double, while Mark Siena batted two-for-three for the losing Vets.

On Friday, Larry Williams shakked the Bankers with a two-hit pitching performance to provide Budd's ninth straight victory.

Dick Fillingame smashed a triple for the losing Bank.

The Newark Lumbermen achieved their second win of the season by beating the Optimists 6-3 on Tuesday, with Kutner the winning pitcher.

Kerry Bittenbender led the Lumbermen with two hits, while Bruce Ryser registered three hits for the Optimists.

And Curtis Paper tied Newark Lumber for the 2-6 cellar spot last Saturday by stopping the Lumbermen 3-1 with George Cavanaugh's one-hit pitching performance.

Cavanaugh fanned 13 during his one-hit stellar showing.

Bill Ward homered for Curtis in the first inning, and Cavanaugh contributed a triple.

Paul Chantler spoiled George Cavanaugh's no-hit game by registering the lone safety for the losing Lumbermen.

The VFW occupies second place in the six-team league with a 5-3 record, followed by a 4-5 Bank of Delaware; the 2-4 Optimists, and the 2-6 Lumber and Paper nines.
