NUMBER 17

COUNCIL HOLDS

SPECIAL MEETING

Town Council met at the Hose house on Monday evening. Messrs. Hossinger, Wilson, Frazer, Linton, Morrison were present. The new assessment as made last week by Mr. Andrew L. Fisher was taken up for consideration. About half of the list was gone over and in some few cases, revision was made.

Messrs. Groff and Meloney of the Elk River Light, Heat and Power Co. were present. President Hossinger asked if they had any proposition to offer or to submit in writing. Mr. Meloney said they would like to make a proposition for 24 hour service. Council informed him that they would consider any proposition he might make, but at this time they wished current from midnight to 6 p. m. These were the approximate hours. This is what is considered as his day load. In case of accident to the town plant at any time, it is desired to have all current furnished by contracting company.

Messrs. Groff and Meloney retired and later submitted proposition in writing.

CHESTER COUNTY PROPOSITION

The Chester County Light, Heat and Power Company agreed to furnish current at any hours desired at 2 cents per K. W. hour. They further make the proposition that a trial service free of cost will be given from now until June 1. If at that time satisfactory results are shown, the contract of 2 cents per K. W. hour will be entered into.

ELK RIVER PROPOSITION

The Elk River proposition was adopted which agreed to furnish current from 11 p. m. to 6 p. m. at 2 cents per K. W. hour, or to furnish current 24 hours service at 3 cents K. W. hour.

The 24 hour service proposition was not considered. After quite a discussion the members decided to make inspection of the plants, before entering into a contract. Some of the Council thought it to give the Chester County people a trial since that was a voluntary act.

Arrangements were made for an inspection of Chester county plant on Tuesday.

Council adjourned until Wednesday 8 p. m.

Women's Auxiliary Meets in Newark

The annual meeting of the Women's auxiliary of the diocese of Delaware was held in St. Thomas' P. E. Church on Thursday, May 18. Preliminary meetings were held this afternoon and evening, attended only by the officers whose names follow:

The meeting will be opened with the celebration of holy communion by Bishop Kinsman, assisted by the rector, Rev. H. B. Phelps. An address by Bishop will follow.

About two hundred delegates from parts of the State are expected. Luncheon will be served by the ladies in the parish in the basement of the parish house building.

In the afternoon the annual election of reports of officers will be held. It will be followed by speaking by Messrs. Stewart of Hankow, and Miss Fisher, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Robin A Delegate

Mrs. Albert Robin, wife of Dr. Robin, delegate from Wilmington to the 10th International Congress on Child Welfare, and the Fifteenth Annual Convention of Mother-Parent Teacher Associations at Washington, is reported to Mayor Spruance.

The following paragraph taken from a report speaks for itself:

It is needless to say that while a large number of delegates from the different States and large cities had much to report of the progressive measures in their respective communities, Delaware as a State nor Wilmington as its principal city, had much to say as no work done or work proposed pertaining to the good of our State.

Large Contract Awarded Newark Man

B. Jacobs has received the contract for a big piece of government work amounting to about $7,000, at 11 H. G. Wright, along Long Island mud, about one hundred and fifty feet from New York City. Two concrete pump houses are to be erected, which there will be installed two electrically driven centrifugal pumps, towers, etc., as well as conduit and line to supply the power.

Mr. Howard Ferguson left Monday taking charge of the work which is to be finished within three months.

TO COUNCIL

Last week we advocated a statement of the town's finances at the present date. For ourselves, personally, it is of small concern, aside from an interest in the town's welfare. But this we do say, that no action of Council could better make secure that confidence bestowed at the recent election by the citizens than an official detailed account of the town treasury. To Council we would say the people are interested in the town affairs as never before, and have placed you in power to conduct affairs to their interests. No one is questioning your honesty or ability. But they want to know what you are doing—and why. Rumors are afloat that the pending contract for day current is due to the fact that you have discovered a loss in the sale from the town plant. Every confidence has been given you and to secure that support that you will need, they ask that you give them your confidence in return.

Council Inspects Local Plants

Several members of Council made a visit of inspection yesterday afternoon to the Chester county plants at Roseville and Tweeds and at the E. K. River plant. This inspection was made pending a contract with one of the other of the companies for a supply of day current and to each as auxiliary to the town plant in case of accident.

No decision had been reached this morning. A special meeting of Council will be held this evening, but it is not likely that the matter will be discussed as the time will be taken up reviewing the assessment list, preparatory to making it public early next week.

It seems that some understanding has been made with the Chester county people as men were wiring from Roseville yesterday. There has been no official agreement, as far as can be learned. A member of Council said this morning that he was still in favor of giving Chester county a free trial according to their offer.

It was stated again that E. K. River would probably receive the contract, as they seemed better equipped in every way.

LATER REPORT—CHESTER COUNTY CO. MAKING PREPARATIONS

E. B. Frazer, as chairman of the Light committee has authorized the Chester county Company to make immediate connections with the town and to serve the day current on free trial as offered by the company until June 1st.

The Council as a body have taken no action in the matter.

The name of John Doyle was omitted from the list of second grade pupils on the honor roll of Newark school, last week.

Jacob Shew has been employed by Council as out door superintendent of public utilities.

Sigma Nu Banquet

The Delta Kappa Chapter of Sigma Nu Fraternity held its installation banquet in the Clayton House, Wilmington, Friday evening. COLLEGE NOTES

All three of the games which were played last week ended in defeats. The scores were—Ursinus 8, Delaware 5; Catholic University 14, Delaware 9; Johns Hopkins 5, Delaware 1. With any kind of support at all, the first and last of these games would have been victories for the cadets, as Jolls and Knopf both pitched good ball. In the Catholic University game, however, the whole team took an aeroplane trip and four pitchers couldn't stem the tide of defeat. The work of Taylor at third and Harvey at short leaves much to be desired, and it seems to us that a decided shake up in the infield would be a good experiment. It surely couldn't do any harm and it might do a great deal of good.

OOOO

During the drill period last Thursday, Dr. Whitaker, Superintendent of the Southern Manual Training School of Philadelphia gave a very interesting lecture to the cadet corps. His talk was based on the modern educational problem; and he stated the astonishing fact, quoted from statistics compiled by the city of Philadelphia, that of the 33,000 children who entered the first grade in the public schools of that city sixteen years ago, only 200 would graduate from college this year. In other words, only one out of every 165 children will receive the diploma of a college or university. He congratulated the student body on belonging to this 200, and said that it was a greater achievement and honor, than to be a member of the "400" of New York City.

OOOO

Capt. Stayer, following his usual policy is trying out the men of the Junior and Sophomore classes, in order to determine who shall receive promotions in the cadet corps for next year. From now until commencement, the Cadet Battalion will be drilled by the "non-coms" on Thursdays and on Fridays, the regular officers will take charge and drill their companies in preparation for the competitive drill for the Roberts Medal. The following provisional appointments have been announced for Thursday:

An Unusual Moving

J. Sherman Dayett passed through Newark enroute to his home near Landenberg last week. His large 25 horse power Huber engine pulled his entire saw mill outfit and other machinery. He will locate the saw mill on his property near the grist mill.

Mr. Dayett and son, Harvey are hustlers, their mill running several evenings each week until midnight. He invites a trial of his flour. His daughters enjoy tying the bags of flour and assisting their father and brother in the evenings.

Harvey A. Dayett has developed into quite a mechanic. He has built a boat, and may be seen after sunset for an hour or so taking exercise in it, on the water in front of his home.

Proposed Park

T. Coleman duPont stated to some of his friends yesterday that he intended giving 12 per cent of the construction price toward the contemplated park, which the people of Milford are talking of creating adjacent to the proposed boulevard, should it pass by Milford.

MEETING OF BOARD OF EDUCATION

The Board of Education met on Friday evening and passed upon some bills and ordered them paid.

No further elections were made to the vacancies in the corps of teachers.

The whole question was thoroughly discussed. Since the salaries of the teachers have been increased, there are more competitors for the positions and it is the opinion of the Board that it is their duty to fill the positions with the best material that can be obtained and for the best interests of the schools, without regard to personal favor or disfavor. It is the earnest desire of all the members of the Board to weigh well and thoroughly all matters connected with the teaching force and to secure the most competent and effective teachers that can be obtained for the money paid. The Board believes in paying as good salaries as the funds will allow and to economize in other quarters rather than in the matters of salary.

The policy of the Board at present is to increase the salaries of those teachers in the primary and grammar grades until a minimum of $50 a month is reached, and to require a first-class certificate from the teachers.

There will be plenty of schools in the country districts that can give positions to teachers with second grade certificates and any teacher that aspires to a position in the schools here should be willing to put forth the extra effort and do the extra study necessary to secure a first-grade certificate. And if they have neither the inclination nor ability to secure such a certificate they should not expect a position at the higher salary in the Newark schools.

The Board believes that it will commend itself to the patrons of the school by such action. There are several positions that have not yet been filled in the grammar grades and as many members of the Board as can get away are going up to West Chester to visit the State Normal School today. Mr. Richards has kindly placed his automobile at the disposal of the Board for that purpose. Mr. Spaid will go with them.

They will interview any members of the graduating class that may be possible candidates for the vacancies and examine their records and make inquiries of the Principal and Professors with the purpose of securing normal graduates for our schools.

It is believed that this determination on the part of the Board to demand a higher scholarship on the part of those who wish to teach in our schools will result in greatly strengthening the force of teachers and raise the standard of our schools.

Death Of John Reed

With his head and face horribly mangled and dragging on the ground, John Reed, aged 37, a hand on the farm of Charles Walton about three miles from here, was found dead in a sulky by Walton at 2:15 o'clock Sunday morning. Foul play was suspected at first, it being thought that Reed had been held up and murdered on the road while returning from Newark where he spent the evening.

Close friends of the dead man, however, are of the opinion that he fell through the front part of the sulky, that his feet were caught and that he was dragged to death.

The horse brought Reed home, but blood and the trail of his head were traced for more than a mile toward Newark, and it is thought the horse had been walking around for several hours. Reed's parents live at Harrington. The coroner held an inquest yesterday and the jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Dayett's Truck Burns

Fire was discovered in the garage adjoining the mill of J. Irvin Dayett, near Cooch's Bridge, last Sunday afternoon. For a time it was feared the flames would spread to the mill and Aetna fire company was called on for assistance. As its equipment was not such as would enable it to have been useful, it was impossible for them to respond. With the use of a hose and the efforts of an energetic bucket brigade, the fire was confined to the one building. The large automobile truck which has been such a familiar sight on our roads, was completely destroyed. The loss is placed at $5,000, which was only partly covered by insurance.

Invitation From Maryland

Governor Pennell has been invited on behalf of Delaware, by Governor Crothers of Maryland, to attend a "See America First" convention in Baltimore from January 22 to January 27 next. Governor Pennell is requested to name a delegation of twenty-five persons to attend the convention and by means of paintings, photographs and literature set forth the advantages and attractions of Delaware. Other States have been invited by Governor Crothers to do likewise.

Salem Church News

Children's Day services of the Sunday School will be held in Salem M. E. Church on the last Sunday evening in May.

A strawberry festival will be given by the Ladies' Aid of the Church on June 14th.

Organized Militia Of Delaware Newark's Star Record

The trend of the age is indicated by the change that has taken place in the provision for national defense in case of war or other emergency.

The possibility of a repetition of the "Call for Volunteers" is all the time becoming more remote. Should the United States as a result of her policy of avoiding a large standing army need additional military support she would now look to the organized militia of the various states of the union, which organization has done away with the volunteer movement. Our regular army, numbering 70,000 men, may any time at the national call, be reinforced by 100,000 militiamen from the United States.

The first of this movement has been, gradually. Its forerunner was the "National Guard", which was constituted of men who enlisted for the defense of their state alone. It was beyond the jurisdiction of their officers to order them beyond the borders of that state, so that their influence was local only. In 1906, the Dick Bill was passed, which changed the whole idea of the movement, and the "Organized Militia" (but name as fixed by this bill) of a State became of national importance. They dare not only in the service of their state, but from a part of the first line of defense in the service of the United States.

Delaware makes a state appropriation of $15,000 as her share toward carrying on this work. Each rural company receives $500 and the Wilmington companies $300.

The national government appropriates $20,000 which is expended in uniform equipment, rifle practice, and the provision of state ranges. The rifle range provided for this section extends over McCormick's meadow, with the targets at the foot of the hill in Lumby's woods.

Company E, Newark's present company, grew out of Company L of the First Delaware Regiment of Volunteers during the Spanish-American War.

Shortly after the old Company L disbanded Company E of the National Guard was formed. Joseph H. Hosienger was the captain at this time. Since that time George L. Medill and C. A. Short have held that position. It is now filled by L. B. Jacobs.

Our town has always displayed an interest in the movement, which has placed it at the head of the towns of the state.

During the war of 1868, Newark sent more men according to her population than any town in the state, and her company was officered by men from the home town.

At present, Company E leads in outdoor rifle practice. Last summer of the five men sent to Camp Perry, five were taken from the Newark Company.

Camp Perry represents an assembly of militiamen from all the states and territories, including the Hawaiian Islands, all branches of the United States—the infantry, cavalry, marine corps, naval academy and navy—except the West Point Military Academy, complete for position on the annual camp-ground. Delaware sends thirty-five in the list composed of fifty teams, which considering the size and finances may be considered a good showing.

The State militiamen go into camp July 22-26 at the State Rifle Range, where they qualify for the team to be sent to Camp Perry.

Company E musters at present fifty men. Captain L. B. Jacobs, 1st Lieutenant, James McKeon, and Lieutenant, vacancy, caused by transfer of W. S. Corkran to the staff of the 2nd Battalion, and Frank Clark, 1st Sergeant.

The company is equipped with the new Springfield rifle, the standard fire arms, and the most approved and official olive drab service uniform.

During the winter a correspondence school was carried on, under the direction of the General Headquarters, for the benefit of the officers.

The actual field work which the summer men bring has removed the old time epithet of "toy soldiers," "brass button beauties" and the like, and impressed every one with the superiority of this way to replace a large standing army yet provide a ready relief for any emergency.

An advertisement appearing in another column announces that Company E does not muster as many men as are desired.

We hope that a response will uphold our past reputation for service along this line and gain Newark new laurels for the future. We believe the day to have arrived when civilization demands that the resort to the force of arms shall be less and less frequent. Does it not seem probable that a strong efficient militia shall be a step toward the desired goal of disarmament?

This service today affords a discipline from which none can fail to profit; it has done much for many men physically provides trips and offers chances for broadening one's circle of interest, at the same time giving him the realization that he is a part of the line of defense of Uncle Sam.

PEACE OR WAR

Pertinent Expressions Of The Great Anniversary On Peace—May 12

"The cause of peace is not the cause of cowardice. If peace is sought to be defended or preserved for the safety of the luxurious and the timid, it is a sham and the peace will be base; war is better. If peace is to be maintained it must be by brave men, who have come up to the same height as the hero, but who have gone one step beyond the hero!"

—Emerson.

"There is nothing good or glorious when war has brought forth in human nature which peace may not produce more richly and more permanently. When we cease to think of peace as the negative of war and think of war as the negative of peace, then shall shine forth the higher soldiery of the higher battles. Then the first military spirit and its works shall seem to be but child's play as of old, and rehearsal for that higher fight the fight after the eternal peace and their obedient." —The Serpents throw no longer, and the battle flags are furled. But it is not that the power of fight has perished, but that the battle has gone up on to higher ground, and into higher fight. The battle is above the clouds." —Phillips Brooks.

"The more I study the world, the more am I convinced of the inability of force to create anything durable." —Napoleon at St. Helena.

"War will eliminate itself. By the next universal arbitration will rule the world." —General Sheridan, in 1876.

"If the press of the world would stop and persist in the high resolve that war should be no more the clangor of arms would cease." —John Hay.

"I confess without shame that I am tired and sick of the war. Its glory is all moonshine. Even success the most brilliant is over dead and mangled bodies, the anguish and agonies of distant families appealing to me for missing sons, husbands and fathers. It is only those who have not heard a shot nor loved the shrieks and groans of the wounded and lacerated that cry aloud for more blood, more vengeance, more accumulation." —General Sherman.

"I want are infinite, very expensive and very mischievous ones. In my opinion there never was a good war or a bad peace. When will mankind be civilized and agree to settle their differences by arbitration?" —Franklin in 1783.

"I tremble with horror at the enormities of man. We nations never devise a more rational means of difference than force? Are there no means of coercing justice more gratifying to our nature than a waste of the blood of thousands, and of the labor of millions of our fellow creatures?" —Jefferson.

"My first wish is to see the whole world at peace, and the inhabitants of it as one band of brothers, striving which should contribute most to the happiness of mankind." —Washington.

IF

A new Poem by Kipling, published in the American Magazine for October.

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men
Doubt you;

But make allowances for their
Doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting;

Or being lied about, don't deal in lies;
Or being hated, don't give way to hating;
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;

If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim;

If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same;

If you can bear to hear the truth
you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools;

Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken
And steep and build 'em up with worn out tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss;

And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;

If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone;

And to hold on when there is nothing in you;

THE campaign of publicity now being started in Baltimore includes visits to the surrounding towns. Wilmington can do profit by this example. The business men of Wilmington should stop the rural trade from going to the larger cities.

"OLD SHIPTON"

WE wish to call the attention of our readers to the sketch "Old Shipton" or Newark as seen by a bride many years ago. It is especially interesting to our older friends and recalls days gone by. The writer shows an insight into the thought of the period and depicts it in true Hawthorne style. We are very proud of this relic and take pleasure in presenting it.

DEMOCRATIC glasses in last Sunday's Star berates the Governor for depriving Roberts. In accusing the Republican party of trying to thwart justice in order to win the next city election they question the sincerity of the Governor in his action. They laugh at his expression that a change of mind had taken place. If Democrats glasses were not clouded by prejudice, if he had any breadth of vision and was not so busy trying to stir up party hatred by appealing to prejudice against the negro, he would recognize and admit that there is a change on all sides as to the guilt of Roberts. He accuses certain party leaders of using this foul means of catering to the negro vote. He would thus rob them of citizenship. Then he takes up the power of the negro.

"The negro is in evidence again. Once more has his power in Delaware manifested itself. Everybody knows that the negro has always been the controlling element in the dominant politics of this state for the last fifteen years. Now, however, he has moved a step further and through politics he is moulding the course of justice and the administration of law. All this pretty talk about the negro being based on tender caution against undue haste in the execution of a human being is mere suds. Nothing to it."

Thus the negro is robbed of citizenship. Again he instructs that the Governor is unworthy of citizenship. "Democratic Glasses" stands as a self-appointed spokesman. He ill represents the party.

There are party issues that can be fought on principle, not by accusations that do not prove nor insinuations made only by words. We doubt much whether anyone who appeals to prejudice and cringes mercy when a human life is at stake, especially when convicted on the ground of that damnable thing known as "circumstantial evidence" is what could be called a useful citizen.

Whether Roberts is guilty or not, ye gods, don't question the man who gives that life another chance.

"MAN OF THE PEOPLE"—WOODROW WILSON NOT A LEADER

IN READING a speech made by Woodrow Wilson at the Lincoln Centennial held in Chicago two years ago, we ran across the statement which he carried out would bar him from leadership as the man of the people—that many of the newspapers are trying to thrust upon him. His statements are quoted below show plainly his inability to act in that capacity and perhaps no one realizes it more than he.

No one for a minute doubts the man's attainments, no one questions his sincerity and honesty of purpose. Stepping from university halls to become governor of a State, he has made a record of which he and New Jersey may well be proud. He is credited with enforcing several laws progressive in spirit and of interest to that part of the public we know as the masses.

But the fact must not be lost sight of that he had the assistance of many experienced in the methods of public life and imbued with the same progressive spirit that has made him and his administration so popular.

But when the Governor of New Jersey, where he knew so well the people and conditions and the leader of a nation—a man of the people—there is a vast difference. That he is an authority on political theories and constitutions no one denies, but we gravely doubt that his knowledge of the thought of the populace which he claims must rule, is sufficient to become their leader.

His whole life and thought has been in a seminary study of the past. He has sympathy for the laboring masses, of course, but not that sympathy that their true leader has.

It is no fault of his. Bryan philosophy expressed in academic language will not appeal. He does not understand their needs nor can they comprehend his remedies.

come the "man of the people."

"Well, in the first place, it seems to me that a man of the people is a man who sees affairs as the people see them and not as a man of particular classes or the professions see them. You cannot afford to take the advice of a man who has been too long submerged in any particular profession—not because you cannot trust him to be honest and candid, but because he has been too long immersed and submerged, and through the inevitable pressure and circumstances of his life has come to look upon the nation from a particular point of view. The man of the people is a man who looks far and wide upon the nation, and is not limited by a professional point of view. That may be a hard doctrine, it may exclude some gentlemen ambitious to lead. Human history has excluded them, and that is the end of the matter."

Again he says, "Lincoln could smile at lawyers and turn away from ministers. Because he had not had his contact with life as a lawyer has, and he had not reared his fellow men as a minister has. He was detached from every point of view, therefore superior to every point of view. You must have a man of this detachable sort."

"Moreover you must not have a man who is to be a man of the people, who is standardized and conventionalized. And again, the last and greatest characteristic of all, he must be a man who has participated in the struggle. He has let his life contained for him nothing but effort, effort from the rising of the sun to the going down of it. He has, therefore, felt beat in him, he has had any heart, a universal sympathy for those who struggle, a universal understanding of the unutterable things that were in their hearts and the unbearable burdens that were upon their backs. A man like Lincoln who understands. He was part of the struggle, he had part and lot in the struggle. No man who goes jauntily and complacently through the world will ever touch the springs of human action. Such a man with such a consciousness, such a universal sympathy, such a universal comprehension of what life means, is your 'man of the people' and no one else can be."

In comparing the issues with which Lincoln had to deal, and those confronting us today, he says: "If there are only two sides, I can easily make up my mind which side to take, but if there are a score of sides—where shall I go? What is the movement of the mass? Where are we going? What are the signs of the day, what does the morning say, what are the tasks that we must see our hands to?"

Yes, Governor Wilson—those are the questions, and we believe in your tour you are honestly seeking an answer to those questions and trying to detect just what is the movement of the mass. But you will be unable to detect that movement. Your whole life has been spent in reading of the past. You cannot read the signs of the times in the work-a-day world. The man of the people does not ask where he shall go and what he shall do. He knows. His life and associations with the masses make him feel the movement. He does not read the signs; he knows them. He does not ask what to do; he does it. The man of the people knows the struggle, because he has endured them; who sympathizes with labor because he has wiped the sweat from his own brow. He recognizes the rights of capital because he has been a producer himself.

In the search for a leader, many have looked toward the Princeton president. Since his election as Governor of New Jersey, the Democratic press have kept him constantly in the limelight. A prominent writer in one of this month's magazines says that "Sham does not live in his neighborhood." And we believe it. Last week in Denver, when asked by a reporter about the presidency, he said, "Really, I had not thought of it." This is in sequence of what is said above in his Lincoln address, two years ago. He knows well that the American people cannot afford to take the advice of a man who has been too long submerged in any particular profession. The reader, today, must be a man who looks far and wide upon the nation and is not limited by a professional point of view.

This excludes some gentlemen ambitious to lead. Governor Wilson realizes, perhaps, today even more than when he spoke the words that this is hard doctrine—but says he, "Human history has excluded them and that is the end of the matter." Woodrow Wilson is not a man of the people.

PEACE DAY—MAY 18

"Ring out a slowly dying cause,
And ancient forms of party strife,
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws."

A few weeks ago the Tercentenary Anniversary of the King James version of the Bible was held. Celebrations were held over practically the known world. Aside from its bearing on the religious phase of thought, addresses were made on its place in the field of literature, its influence on government, its relation to education. In many cases, the laws under which we live were traced to their Hebrew source. It would perhaps be difficult to say just what its greatest influence is and just what inscription of our government is most imbued with the ideas as recorded in the Bible.

Our criminal procedure has not yet changed from the doctrine of Deterrence—the eye for an eye. Some capital punishment will be abolished and the creed as found in St. Matthew will prevail.

To our mind, however, the greatest influence of the Bible on modern thought and institutions has been on the conflict between nations.

"That for a fantasy and trick of fame, Go to their graves like beds, fight for a post Whereon the numbers cannot try the cause Which is not tomb enough and conquest To hide the slain."

Hamlet, referring to the soldiers of young Fortinbras showed the spirit of Nations.

If one reads the old testament and his cry aches, he cannot fail but see that the enthusiasm of a leader, the ambition of a minister—of times the whim of a woman has caused the curse of nations. From the time of the city, "Cain where is thy brother," and the pentameter inquiry, "Am I my brother's keeper?" down through the ages until twenty centuries ago, a great teacher came and said, "Peace on earth, good will toward men," war was the most honored occupation of men and nations. Since the time when the Aryan tribes forced their way down the Indian peninsula, struggling for existence has been the lot of man.

But every night has its coming day, and war promises a newer era. Scarcely had the artillery of Napoleon's Guard at Waterloo been silenced than a new thought came in vogue—the first Peace society was founded. The dream of old Hugo Grotius was assuming reality. Although since that time our country has been drenched in blood that union might be preserved, we point to Gettysburg as the Ge-hesanean a destruction of a newer day. Although rumors of wars are still heard in the distance, the Peace Idea has grown into the Hague Conference and International Tribunal, and tomorrow, May 18, our National Peace Conference meets at Lake Mohawk, representing the spirit of the times. Students and publicists, statesmen and men of affairs are becoming imbued with the theme. To despair means to doubt humanity and question the sublime purpose and forecast when swords shall be beaten into pruning knives.

The Lion of Lucerne, saying "unto the end" is sublime, when it gives the life of the Swiss Guard for a friend and principle. But civilization is ink

Confessional For Protestants

Rev. J. Franklin Bryan, a Methodist Protestant pastor in Baltimore, made a bold suggestion in a sermon preached in that city last Sunday, when he advocated the Confessional. He said in part:

"I am firmly convinced that the church should establish and maintain such departments of work as will meet the needs of the people. I believe the church should meet the social needs of the people. We preach against such social pressures and passions as tend to lead our people away from God and the right, but the church is slow to awaken to her duty of furnishing something to take their place."

"There is another plan which I believe in and which I have practiced with success. I have hesitated to say much about it for fear of criticism; but he who does anything worth while must expect to be criticised. With Rev. Dr. Charles M. Sheldon I believe Protestants should have a confessional. Not a confessional which contemplates the forgiveness of sins, but I believe more and more that Protestant ministers should arrange at certain hours to receive sin-burdened and sorrow-stricken souls into their study and listen to their reverses, their troubles, their sorrows and their disappointments in life. We could help them in many ways, especially by pointing the way to God."

"Sadie", as Mrs. G. W. Bunting generally had her eyes opened to what was going on. $21.00 was cleared and a deed to the land already started to repair the inside walls of the church.

DELAWARE'S RURAL SCHOOL QUESTION

Milford Chronicle Makes Suggestion Concerning The Problem

It is a new country life that faces us today. Condition for living improved at an almost marvelous rate. Now the farmer, instead of spending time hunting for help and arranging for an interchange of work with his neighbors, uses telephone to send to the near-by town or call up the distant points for supplies needed at once. No longer is he content to receive his mail on Saturday, but now his letters, his daily paper, with market quotations are brought to his door every day. He is no longer satisfied with the week-old things which have lost their value. Everything relative to the farm life and the farm has been improved. Agricultural experts are solving problems related to the farm, and the agricultural experiment stations with their valuable suggestions are making the problem of farming not alone interesting, but vastly more profitable, and it is the boy and the girl of today who must be fitted by training and opportunity to take up this ever-increasing problem. Everything relative to the farm and farm life has been improved in the past few years, and the up-to-date farmer takes advantage of all this because it pays to do so. But there is a deep underlying problem for the farmers of Delaware to solve, would they maintain the ground gained, or go forward in the march of progress? We ask you to give serious consideration to this question. Have our country schools kept pace with this marvelous march forward? All benefits of which the farmer has taken advantage have tended to make better his financial standing and interest, his social standing and interests. The great question this is this: Would it not pay as an investment to bring the schools up to the same high standard of efficiency that is being enjoyed by the modern up-to-date farm? Is it not absolutely necessary that the farmer's children be educated in harmony with these many interests and improvements? Is it not necessary to his future standing, financially and socially, to keep up with modern advancement at school as well as at home?

The proper education of the farm boys and girls cannot be neglected without finally bringing ruin upon the farming communities. If these advantages are not provided they will drift away into other callings, and the farming districts will lose the ambitious and therefore the best class of the growing population. If the right kind of schools are provided for the country boys and girls they will remain at home until they receive their general education, and then if they have gifts in other directions it will be time enough for them to seek special schools. The old-time country school, as many of us remember it, has gone, never to return. The large attendance, the male teacher in the winter, the pupils ranging from six to twenty-nine years are no longer in evidence. In its place is the small school, and too often the old-time "good teacher" has gone to the larger towns or the city. The "ambitious" scholar has alas too often followed him, and in later life taken his family with him. Says the Illinois School Register: "Thinking men have long since discovered that if this emigration to the cities and towns for higher educational advantages is to continue, the country as well as its schools will be sapped of its vitality, and this thought has taken form in the expression that 'the Country child is entitled to as good educational privileges as the city child; and this too without breaking up the family home, and that anything short of this is unfair to the child and unprofitable to the community.' How shall this progress of the country school be brought about? We believe that by consolidation of the country schools of every state where it has been given a trial, and even those who at first opposed it, are now its most ardent supporters. The advantages of school consolidation may be summed up briefly to mean better education for the children under home conditions and at no greater financial cost after the first establishing expenditures are made. The farms will have more intelligent farmers on them, and the entire community will be enriched morally, mentally and financially. Then, through consolidation these rural schools can be brought to an attendance of say thirty-five in each department, the number of teachers would be lessened by fully one-half the number now required to teach the rural schools, a majority of which now have less than fifteen children in average attendance. The betterment of our schools is a real financial question for farmers to consider, and one which can bring large returns financially to them. Don't it over. Act accordingly at the next school election.

OLD FLEATOWN INN

"Old Fleatown Inn, when it was named By men of low degrees; Who said a man that once lived there, Was eaten up by fleas."

In last week's Milford Chronicle, there is given a sketch of old Fleatown Tavern. A very good cut taken from an old painting accompanies the sketch. Some fifty years ago, at what is known as the half way mark between Milford and Georgetown, there stood what was known as Fleatown Inn. In the days of the old stage coach it was at "ye old inn" that horses changed before continuing their journey northward; here a so such men as John M. Clayton dined en route to Dover. All this in the day when

"A goose and gander kept the bar, And watched it day and night; Nothing stronger than water to drink, So never did get tight."

Mr. J. B. Welch, of Milton, has thus described it.

Many are the legends told, And many an episode, About historic Fleatown Inn, Along the old State road.

The old stage coach in former days, That passed along this way, Going north with running steeds, Got here their first relay.

Twice here that John M. Clayton dined, En route to Dover, Del., And judges from our county courts Were entertained as well.

'Twas here the Scottish cavaliers, Their missions did fulfill, The tragedy they performed, is told— By the ghost of Chestnut Hill.

The old Brick Church, built by King George, That stood across the way, Where bricks and bats of English Mould, Can still be seen today.

Lorenzo Dow, the preacher man, Was here a welcome guest, And Freeborn Garretson, when travel worn, Found here a needed rest.

Caesar Rodney halted here, When on his famous ride, To battle the nose of his heated steed, And water him beside.

Near here the Battleground Racing So famous in its day, That sports would come to see a race For many miles away.

The north field was their muster ground, Before the War of Tye's; But all the fighting that was done, Was there, between themselves.

Drovers, with droves en route up-state, Found here a safe retreat, With corals for their lowing herd, And plenty of food to eat.

'Tis said that men were corraled, too, And put into a pen; Before each election at Cedar Creek, They cribbed the floating men.

And kept them drunk for several days, To have them vote their way, Then handed them in a hurrah cart, On each election day.

Some said that slaves were bought and sold, Here in the latter days, And bloodhounds, too, were kept and trained To catch the runaways.

Some may ask why give this name To such a noted place; The modern name is Federalburg, And suits the populace.

Old Fleatown Inn, when it was named, By men of low degrees; Who said a man that once lived there, Was eaten up by fleas.

The old hotel has passed away, The horseblock and the sign, But bring the stories back again, Of the days of "Auld Lang Syne."

Tabulated Analyses of Commercial Fertilizers, November, 1910

By CHARLES L. PENNY, State Chemist.

The methods of analysis followed are those of the Official Agricultural Chemists. Nitrogen, in whatever form it may be present, is always reckoned as Ammonia. In the case of untreated Bones (Bone Meal, Ground Bones, etc.), Bone Tankage and Floats, the Phosphoric acid given is the total, though printed in the column headed "Available," but marked with "T" in each case. "Fine" bone is such as will pass a sieve of fiftieth-inch mesh. "Coarse," such as will not pass. In Potash Fertilizers any chlorine present is reckoned as "Muriate" up to the limit of the Potash. In all of the Brands here reported the Potash is counted as Muriate. The Money Valuations are intended to show first the separate value of the Ammonia, the Total Phosphoric Acid and the Potash, and then their combined value, in a ton (2000 lbs.) of fertilizer. These values represent actual cost without allowance for expenses of manufacture, bags, freight, commissions, profits, etc. Hence the total values do not represent a fair selling price but are merely for comparison. The following schedule of prices, now used in most of the New England and Middle States, has been adopted, viz: Ammonia in Nitrates and Ammonia Salts, 13.25 per pound; in mixed fertilizers, "fine" bone, tankage, fish, etc., 16.50; in "coarse" bone and tankage, 12.40. In acid phosphates, Available Phosphoric Acid, 4.25c, Insoluble, 2c; Total Phosphoric Acid, in "fine" bone, etc., 4c, in "coarse," 3.5c. Potash as Muriate, 4.25, as Sulphate, 5c.

The "Guaranteed Analysis" gives in order the Ammonia, Available Phosphoric Acid and Potash, except that in the case of Bones the Total Phosphoric Acid is meant instead of the Available.

Brands that fall below the guarantee in one constituent but that make up the deficiency by excess in any other, thus giving full value, are marked "FV."

The brands of Ground Bone were found to have the following degrees of fineness, the figures denoting the percentage of "Fine" Bone, or that which passes through the fifty-mesh sieve: No. 748, 78 per cent.; No. 769, 55 per cent.

There is at present in this country no acceptable basis for valuing Thomas Phosphate Powder, or Basic Slag.
