MERRY CHRISTMAS

MYRIAD CHRISTMAS ACTIVITIES FIND NEWARK AND COMMUNITY FULL OF HOLIDAY SPIRIT

Churches, Schools, Homes and Stores Combine in Making Pre-Christmas Season One of the Biggest in Many Years — Business Picking Up As Day Approaches

CHURCHES PLAN ELABORATE PROGRAMS

All the Community Needs Now Is a Snow Storm — Store Windows and Displays Are Better Than Ever

Following an unusually uneventful and quiet early Christmas season in Newark, this week finds the town and surrounding community in the throes of the annual grand and glorious rush to get everything ready for the greatest of holiday seasons. Apathy has given way to enthusiasm, and stubborn refusal to get excited over the Yuletide season has yielded to the inevitable rush and hurry of the last minute drive. It is the same each year and perhaps will not change in many years to come.

Newark never looked prettier than this season. Every store has caught the spirit and some of the displays and decorations are a delight to the eye. The churches and schools, always the leaders in Christmas festivities, have planned elaborate programs, and from now on, including Christmas Day, there will be "something doing every minute." Householders are getting their things for the big dinner, and making ready for a royal welcome to loved ones returning home for the day.

Santa Claus will not appear in person this year, but he has arranged to pay visits to hundreds of homes in Newark to gladden the hearts of the kids. From all appearances of sheepish looking fathers carrying funny looking bundles into houses he will have a record consignment to deliver here this time.

Beautiful Stores

Some of the Christmas displays in the stores this season are far and away superior to anything yet attempted in Newark.

Fader Motor Company has an automobile accessory display in their big window which could hardly be bettered on Fifth Avenue. With a Ford car in the background, the display is built up on terraces and includes almost everything used for the car. Holly, red and green crepe paper, and a pure white base upon which the display rests creates an effect at night which is truly artistic.

Fulton's and the Home Drug Company make the Opera House Corner a veritable mecca for Window Shoppers. The former store has an attractive display of delicacies for the Christmas table, while the latter store is featuring beautiful Christmas jewelry, smokers' supplies, silver and china. Both these windows are drawing many favorable comments from passers-by.

Handloff's big store has every display window filled with Christmas things for the entire family. The lighting effects in these windows are especially attractive.

The Rhodes Drug Store presents a well filled and attractive window filled with gifts of every description, bright and fresh and clean. Very realistic "snow" covers the entire display and actually makes one shiver to look at it. Streamers of green and red and colored lights greatly help the display.

Other clever and attractive displays were noted at Sol Wilson's, J. W. Parrish's, The Newark Inn, Blockson's, Pat Nevin's and Fader's Bakery.

Churches Active

Beginning tonight when the Presbyterian Church Christmas party will be held, the churches of the town will have busy times until Christmas arrives. Extensive preparations are going on for the children's Christmas parties, at which time Santa will be the chief notable present. Special Christmas music is being rehearsed by all the choirs in preparation for next Sunday's services. Christmas service in the M. E. Church will be observed on that morning at 6.30. The Sunday School entertainments will feature the Christmas celebrations here.

Schools close here on Friday to reopen ten days later, and the pupils will be given a farewell party at the Opera House as guests of the management next Friday afternoon.

The homes, however, will be the centers for most of the holiday fellowship. Where there are children, the approach of the great day is creating feverish excitement. Parents are quietly getting everything ready, but most of them have still many things to buy. The last minute rush is on all over town and it is not hard to tell in the faces of the shoppers that the greatest of all holidays has filled them with eagerness and the spirit of Christmas.

COMMUNITY SINGING STARTS AT 7 O'CLOCK

The program for the Newark Community Christmas celebration, to be held on Christmas eve on the Academy lawn, will begin promptly at seven o'clock, according to advices from the committee in charge.

Prior to that time the Continental Band and the Red Men's Band will meet at the Academy and from there parade in opposite directions, playing Christmas music. They will then return to the grounds and aid in the carol singing.

Miss Nell B. Wilson is in charge of the music for the occasion and a big chorus will be present to lead the singing.

The entire community is invited to attend the affair and a big crowd is hoped for.

COMMUNITY TREE IS ASSURED

Committees Appointed To Handle Christmas Eve Celebration

TO BE ERECTED FRIDAY

Newark and the community will have a Christmas tree again this year.

The decision was reached after several conferences between the Mayor, ladies of the New Century Club and interested townspeople. The tree will be placed on the Academy lawn Friday of this week, and will be lighted up for the first time on Christmas eve. At a meeting held in Town Hall Monday evening, at which Mayor Frazer presided, the committees got together and planned the details of the celebration.

The members of the various committees appointed by the Mayor last week are as follows:

Decoration—Fred Strickland, T. Ray Jacobs, E. C. Wilson, Jacob Shew and A. F. Fader.

Finance—Mrs. J. P. Cann, Dr. Geo. W. Rhodes, Miss Elsie Wright, Warren Singles, Mrs. W. H. Evans, William D. Dean, Mrs. Elizabeth Hill.

Music—Miss Nell B. Wilson, Edward Vogt, Mrs. Walter Hüllihen, A. D. Cobb, J. P. McCully, Clarence Denney, Harvey Steel, Mrs. Norris Worrell and James C. Hastings.

Program and Invitation—Mrs. H. R. Tyson, J. E. Dougherty, Mrs. E. B. Wright, E. L. Richards, Mrs. J. H. Hossinger, H. L. Bonham, Mrs. Clarence Grant, Mrs. Daniel Stoll and Mrs. Gertrude Hill.

Money Is Raised

The amount needed for the tree has been raised, according to Mayor Frazer, and it is expected that no deficit will occur. The New Year's Committee (Continued on Page 4.)

ORPHEUS CLUB TO GIVE CONCERT HERE

Wilmington Singers to Appear In Wolf Hall January 10

NOAH H. SWAYNE, 2nd

The justly famous Orpheus Club of Wilmington will give a concert in Wolf Hall on Thursday evening, January 10th.

These fifty singers will be conducted by Dr. H. Alexander Matthews and Noah H. Swayne, 2nd, will be the assisting soloist.

Recently the Orpheus Club presented the first concert of their seventh season in the Playhouse, where they won the enthusiastic applause of the large audience which filled Wilmington's largest theatre.

The program this season contains seventeen scheduled numbers, including four negro spirituals rendered as only Noah Swayne can render the negro folk song. Another selection which was unusually successful in Wilmington was "The Toreador Song" by Bizet. This song has a very pleasing melody, despite its difficult passages, and with Mr. Swayne taking the lead and supported by the entire chorus of male voices it makes a particularly impressive number.

Noah H. Swayne, 2nd, the basso who will be the soloist of the Orpheus Club's concert at Wolf Hall on January 10th, began his career as a boy soprano in St. George's Church, New (Continued on page 15)

Newark was linked with thousands of other towns recently in support of the idea of the Bok Permanent Peace Plan, recently instituted by the famous editor. A plan yet to be selected by eminent judges will be submitted to the nation in a public referendum, and in that manner gain some idea of how the plan strikes the popular chord.

A number of Delaware organizations has signified their intention this week to take the referendum on the American Peace Award. These organizations are Wilmington New Century Club, the Social Service Club, the Delaware Association of College Women, the Wilmington Federation of the W. C. T. U., and the League of Women Voters. The Delaware National Guard and the State Department of the American Legion will also take the referendum. The State (Continued on Page 18.)

CAR HITS BUGGY

Bad Turn at Lincoln Highway-Limestone Road Intersection Blamed

William Knotts miraculously escaped serious injury one night recently when a buggy in which he was riding was struck a heavy blow by a car driven by George Ely. The latter was on his way to Wilmington along the Highway.

Knotts was proceeding out of the road intersection and did not see the approaching car. The turn is a bad one, and partly obstructed by large billboards. The driver of the buggy was not hurt, although his vehicle was badly damaged.

Ely is a graduate of the University of Delaware, class of 1921.

START WORK JAN. 1

New High School Contracts Signed and Delivered Friday

That work in excavating foundations for the new High School here will start about the first of the year has been announced by the Board of Education here. In speaking of the prospects, a member of the Board yesterday stated that the contracts had been signed by all parties early this week. Allowing the customary ten days to elapse before work begins, it is evident that nothing will be done until after the holidays.

As much progress as possible will be made during the winter months, it is reported.

FARM BUREAU HERE FOR A MEETING

Maryland Federation Speaker to Address Annual Convention at Old College

What is confidently expected to be one of the most largely attended sessions ever held by the New Castle County Farm Bureau will take place in Newark tomorrow.

The occasion will be the annual meeting, or convention, of the body. Reports on the past year's work are to be presented and officers elected for the ensuing year.

O. Z. Remsburg, an official of the Maryland Federation of Farm Bureaus, Baltimore, and John D. Zink, of the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange, Springfield, Mass., will be the principal speakers. Improved organization of farm bureaus and greater co-operation between producers will form the theme of their discourses. They will speak at the afternoon session.

In the morning Frank H. Yearsley, Marlinton, president of the New Castle County Farm Bureau, and R. O. Bausman, Newark, county agent, will present their reports on the achievements of the year now closing. Professor Charles McCue, dean of the Department of Agriculture, University of Delaware, will deliver an address of welcome.

The meetings will be held in the Old College hall with luncheon in the College Common at noon.

FACULTY CLUB HOLD XMAS PARTY

Delightful Affair In Old College Monday Night Attracts Many Guests

The annual Christmas Party given by the Faculty Club of the University to the faculty members, their wives and friends was held in the Lounge of Old College Monday evening last. The true Christmas spirit was not only reflected in the decorations and arrangements, but the program throughout was of a holiday nature, and very entertaining. About seventy-five people attended the party.

The long room was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The light clusters along the wall were fitted up as miniature Christmas trees set in a bed of snow, with green paper covering the base of the light. In one corner a big Christmas tree was reared with lights twinkling from its branches. The soft light of candles and the flickering glow from a roaring fire in the fireplace cast a comfortable and impressive glow over the room. Each window seat held its miniature tree tastefully decorated. The decorations were in charge of Prof. R. W. Heim.

The program included more of the Christmas spirit. Fine old carols were sung by the entire assemblage led by Prof. Ryden at intervals during the evening. Dr. W. Owen Sypherd read a short story from the pen of Marjorie Pickthall, whose genius in writing was cut short by her death two years ago. The little story was "A Worker in Sandalwood" and was a true Christmas offering.

Prof. Orville Mosher, Jr., played two selections on his violin which were very well received, and Miss Dora Wilcox opened the evening's entertainment with two piano solos. Prof. W. A. Wilkinson, president of the Club, acted as host.

Following the well balanced program, a luncheon was served. Sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and cake made up the menu.

The guests were received by a committee of members of the Club and their wives. Those in the receiving line were: Professor and Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson, Major L. B. Row, Dean and Mrs. Charles A. McCue, Dr. George H. Ryden, Dr. and Mrs. F. M. K. Foster, Professor and Mrs. C. O. Houghton and Mr. George Baker.

LOCAL ASPIRANTS FOR POSTMASTERSHIP MUST FILE APPLICATIONS BEFORE JAN. 15

The Post today received an announcement from the Civil Service Commission in Washington that all applicants for the position of Post Master in Newark must properly execute and file their applications for the office on or before January 15th next. It is further stated in the announcement that candidates will not be required to report at any place for examination, as in the case of second, third and fourth class offices, but that they will be rated by the Commission on the following basis of "weights":

1. Education and Training—20.
2. Business Experience and Fitness—80.
- Total—100.

The announcement, it is believed, will really start activities among the many applicants for the office in Newark. It has been declared vacant by the Post Office Department on March 2nd, 1924. At that time Post Master Bowen will be relieved after eight years of service. From now until a few days prior to that date, significant activity will be evidenced in and around the town. Various "dark horses" are said to be groomed for the struggle, but as yet none have made public announcements.

The Newark Post Office pays a salary of $2700 a year. It is not unlikely that before the term of the next incumbent expires, Newark will have a brand new Post Office building, or will have moved from its present site. It is certain that the citizens of the town by that time will have demanded more commodious quarters. With the tremendous increase of mail handled by the office during the last few years, the Post Master and his staff are seriously handicapped in the performance of their duties. Better service all around is expected before another four years have elapsed.

The highest three of the competitors for the office will be chosen after January 15th, and their names acted upon. Senator Ball will likely recommend one of the three to the President, with the approval of Post Master General New. The President will make the appointment. The appointment is then sent to the Senate for confirmation.

Although there has been a recent change in the appointing of First Class post masters, the Civil Service is handling the matter much in the same manner that it was handled under direct patronage. No specified subjects are given for an examination. The candidates file their applications, state their qualifications, and await the action of the Senator from their district in conference with the Post Master General.

It is believed that the appointment to this office will be very significant, in view of the approaching campaign throughout Delaware, and that political activity of no mean proportions will be seen here during the next two months.

GRAIN SHOW OPENS IN NEWARK TONIGHT

Town Hall To Be Used For Exhibits of County Farmers; Local Men To Speak

The annual Grain Show of the upper part of New Castle County began in Town Hall this afternoon.

Over eighty exhibitors, most of them from the Newark, Hockessin and Pencader districts have their displays in the two rooms. This is believed to be the largest show ever held here, and tonight and tomorrow the Hall will be a Mecca for interested spectators and farmers.

The judging will be completed today, and suitable prizes awarded to all those winning places.

Speaking This Evening

Tonight at eight o'clock there will be a meeting of farmers of the vicinity in the rooms, at which time several talks will be given them by local farm experts and business men.

On the program are speeches by M. O. Pence, R. O. Bausman, County Agent; Prof. George L. Schuster and by James C. Hastings, president of the Newark Chamber of Commerce.

The prizes have been gathered up by local farm authorities working in conjunction with Mr. Hastings and the premium list is quite up to standard. This show has in former years been held in Hockessin. At a meeting a few weeks ago, however, it was unanimously decided to hold it in Newark.

LOCAL POLICE RAID NEARBY BOOTLEGGERS

Angelo Gataldi In Toils of Law After Arrest Sunday; Alleged Booze Found

County Constable Ellison and Officer Lewis made a raid on Sunday last upon the house of Angelo Gataldi, an Italian resident of the White Clay Creek section of town, familiarly known as "Kilmon's Heights." The place was in close proximity to the Pomeroy and Newark Railroad tracks.

When the officers served the warrant, issued the day previous by Magistrate Thompson, they are said to have found several gallons of alleged intoxicating liquor on the premises. The evidence was brought along with Gataldi to Magistrate Thompson's court, and a hearing held Monday.

The prisoner was held under $1000 bail for trial in the January term of the Court of General Sessions in Wilmington.

SCHOOL MOVIE PARTY

Opera House Management Hosts Next Friday Afternoon

The entire student body of the Newark Public Schools will be the guests of the management of the Newark Opera House at a Christmas Movie Party next Friday afternoon. Two shows will be given, one to the lower grades and the same one to members of the higher classes. At the party, Coach Wilson will present letters and gold footbills to the members of the football Varsity.

Mt. Cuba Man, Raised Near Newark, Passes Milestone Last Week

William Foraker, a resident of Mt. Cuba, passed the 86th milestone of his life last week.

Mr. Foraker was born near Newark, and has lived all his life in Delaware. He has always been active and an advocate of farming to live well and feel well. He has just completed 1200 shocks of corn this fall, husking without assistance and sometimes walking almost two miles to work. He is still vigorous and very popular, due to his genial disposition and optimistic views of life.

Mr. Foraker has three sons and two daughters, 20 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren. Mr. Foraker has been married three times and is now living with his third wife, who was formerly Miss Amy Titus, of Hope-well, N. J.

Baby Burns Hands

Frank, Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Balling, of Academy Street, was painfully injured the other day when his little hands came upon the hot grating of the heater in the Balling home. The skin was burned severely and blistered. The little tot was treated by Dr. Walt H. Steel after the accident.

FAIRVIEW

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the season was an informal dinner party given on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Sheldon of Fairview Farm. About thirty-five were present. Later in the evening the young people of the community gathered at the same home. About seventy-five were present and a very pleasant time was spent in singing and playing games.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller and three children, of Dover, spent Sunday with Rev. and Mrs. Gehman, of Ebenezer.

W. S. Jackson, of Wilmington, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Woods, of Mt. Pleasant, were recent visitors at the home of Elwood Sheldon.

four children, of Wilmington, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Sheldon.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dasher, of Middletown, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Davis.

Mrs. Emma Worrall, Miss Edna Worrall and Miss Mable Messick were Sunday callers at the home of H. J. Davis.

On Saturday evening Franklin and Herbert Knotts were very agreeably surprised by a number of their young friends, the occasion being their birthday. A very pleasant evening was spent in playing games. About 60 were present.

The Methodist Church will hold its customary early morning service in the Church on Christmas Day. The service will start at 6.30 a. m. A large congregation was present last year, and it is hoped by the officers another big crowd will be there this year.

Toast helps the housewife to use up left-overs or to make expensive delicacies go further.

When serving a creamed dish on toast, the housewife should use a cream sauce of moderate thickness and the crisper kind of toast. When this is done the toast absorbs some of the sauce and the flavor without getting the least bit tough.

ELKTON LODGE
PLANS FOR PLAY

Dramatic Club Formed Friday Night—First Play in February

OFFICERS ARE NAMED

An event of no little interest to playgoers in Elkton and vicinity is the announcement that the members of the Elkton Lodge, No. 37, I. O. O. F., has organized a Dramatic Club.

A meeting at which was effected the organization was held in Elkton Friday evening of last week. The matter was discussed freely among the lodgemen and everyone enthused over the outlook. Officers were elected as follows:

Director, Karl Currier; stage manager, Sidney Lipman; publicity manager, Harry Cleaves.

The Club will have a membership of about thirty, all to have parts in the forthcoming plays. With steady consistent practice, it is believed that the group can be developed into a permanent unit for putting on plays in the town. All funds derived from the plays will be turned over to the local Odd Fellows' Home Fund.

The first play contemplated by the officers and members is "Ye Village Schule of Long Ago," a lively comedy. This play will likely appear before the footlights the latter part of next February.

The Odd Fellows' actors showed real talent in their performances last year, and with the addition of up-to-date snappy musical numbers, new costumes, a quartet of unusual excellence, the Dramatic Club is believed to be on the road to success.

ELKTON

Miss Esther Witworth, of Baltimore, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roger Witworth.

IN THE NEAR FUTURE

It was in the year 1925. A New York matron, coming down to breakfast, met her only son ascending the stairs. He was headed for the roof, where his fast airplane awaited him. "Where to, Tommy?" asked the matron.

"Denver for lunch, mother."

"Well, you have a perfect day for flying."

"That is what I thought. So from Denver I may hop off to San Francisco for a little golf."

"Very well, my son. But be home early for dinner."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegram.

A Bit of Green Paper

We suggest as an ideal Christmas gift for any member of your family, a bit of green paper.

Such a bit of paper with the proper printing on it will never go out of style, never wear out, and will bring joy to the recipient as long as they live, and after their passing on will bring the same joy to their children.

Years after other gifts have been forgotten, this will be cared for and the memory of the giver cherished.

It will cost but a little, too, when you think of what it really means, and how it compares with the trinkets and gifts that have but a temporary value.

Merry Christmas

To those who have favored with friendship and to those who have inspired with opposition; to readers, neighbors, citizens and men everywhere; to those burdened with responsibility and to those care free; to those kneeling at altar, to those around the Fireside and glow of candles, and to those who go down to sea in ships; to those who worship the Star of Bethlehem and to those who see only its mystic mystery—and to children, yes to them, everywhere—what shall we say, today? Words fail. Brush, trowel, chisel—unavail. So just this. With all, that is best within us, with the gleam caught across the centuries,—

Merry Christmas

And in the words of Tiny Tim

"God bless us Everyone."

Merry Christmas

"Glory Enough For Us All"

Just one word of comment in the Memorial Library discussion—"There is glory enough for us all." It is not my Library, no nor your Library. Nor is it even our Library. It belongs to Delaware and to most of us is to be sincerely and sacredly dedicated to a Memory of Yesterday and for a Service of Tomorrow.

Some there are who are earning month by month the pledge made for its realization—it is their Library, too.

"There is glory enough for us all."

Politics for Everybody

"The people who say that they have not time to attend to politics are simply saying that they are unfit to live in a free community."

It makes one feel half angry and half amused, and wholly contemptuous, to find men of high business or social standing in the community saying that they really have not got time to go to ward meetings, to organize political clubs, and to take a personal share in all the important details of practical politics; men who further urge against their going, the fact that they think the condition of political morality low, and are afraid that they may be required to do what is not right if they go into politics.

The first duty of an American citizen is that he shall work in politics; his second duty is that he shall do that work in a practical manner, and his third is that it shall be done in accord with the highest principles of honor and justice.

—Roosevelt.

An Old Printer

He made me think of Franklin as he stood
There at the stone, keen-eyed and skilled of hand;
One of a great, far-reaching brotherhood,
One of the many printers in our land.
Plainly he loved his task. A quick glance here:
Some quoin to loosen, letter to reset.
Page after page he tied, while we stood near.
Our very presence seemed he to forget.

I thought of other printers, centuries gone—
Gutenberg, Caxton, Aldus, thrifty Ben—
While here before me, swiftly on and on
This artist labored now, as had those men.
"A printer long?" I asked. He paused to say:
"Just sixty years—and never missed a day!"

—Frances Crosby Hamlet.

Laws Won't Do It All

President Coolidge is convinced of the folly of looking to legislation as a cure for economic ills. The people must not expect Congress to provide an antidote for laziness, lack of thrift or unfortunate judgment in industry or farming. "The people cannot look to legislation generally for success," he said, in commenting on legislative price-fixing. "Industry, thrift, character, are not conferred by act or resolve. Government cannot relieve from toil. The normal must take care of themselves; self-government means self-support."—Glenwood (Ark.) News-Press.

tee of last year gave $35.00 towards the affair, and the rest has been raised by voluntary subscription.
Combined choirs will lead the townspeople in singing old time Christmas carols under the tree, and the two bands will be present to play during the evening.

College Closes

All departments of the University of Delaware close at 11 o'clock Saturday morning for the Christmas vacation. The colleges will reopen on January 4th next. Many of the professors are taking this opportunity to attend various conventions and meetings of interest to their respective departments during the holiday period.

POURING CONCRETE

Library Site A Hive of Activity During Good Weather

Workmen under direction of engineers and foremen for the Delaware School Auxiliary headquarters in Wilmington, started pouring concrete for the foundations of the Memorial Library yesterday afternoon.

About two-thirds of the excavating was completed by the students and faculty last Tuesday, and teams and scoops finished the job early this week. About thirty men are employed on the operation at this time.

OLD-TIME SPORT TO BE RENEWED IN VICINITY OF NEWARK

Former tax collector of the town, J. Frank Colmery, has in his possession a rare and beautiful type of Red Fox which he himself bagged recently. It is to be turned loose for an old-time Fox Hunt on Christmas morning (if weather permits), at the hour of 10 o'clock, on Mr. Alfred Stroud's farm at Pencader. The Fox is to be released by Mr. Colmery's daughter, Miss Katherine. All are invited who enjoy outdoor sports.

People's Column

To the Editor:

There are increasing rumors about the new Postmaster, the new Post Office site. The plot, as you so often say, thickens. Politics and personalities are playing their usual game. It is time, Mr. Editor, for news. Who is the man? Where is the place? Of course, Council thinks it all fixed. They passed on it last June and recently unpassed it, making it a tie. Then the Mayorality spoke and it is settled.

Why a side street for the only Federal building in Rural New Castle County? Put the new Post Office on the old Curtis Property on Main Street. It is the only place mentioned that has sense to it. That is the business place and the logical location.

If the citizens of the town want it there, there it will go. Give us one good public building on Main Street. School, Armory, Fire House, New Century Club and College Center are on Delaware Avenue, a short residence street. Where does Main Street come in? It is a part of Newark. Wake up, Citizens.

MAIN STREET.

SHOOTING AFFRAY BOBS UP AGAIN

Waldrich Has Gicker Arrested As Aftermath of Attack

In line with the opinion of many people that the affair would eventually be aired in Court, the shooting affray recently held on the farm of Jacob Gicker near Milford Cross Roads at the opening of this year's gunning season came to a head yesterday when Gicker was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Walter Waldrich of Cleveland Avenue, Newark. The hearing was held yesterday also in the Magistrate's court here. Gicker waived the hearing, however, and the case will be heard in the next term of General Sessions Court in Wilmington.

The shooting which aroused considerable excitement in the vicinity occurred on November 15th, the first day of the gunning season. Waldrich with a party of friends was walking across Gicker's place when the owner opened fire at some distance. Waldrich turned and emptied his gun at Gicker, some shot striking the latter in the eye. Waldrich was also peppered with shot. Both have recovered, but the case has not been settled. Both men claim the other was guilty of assault.

Squibs

O yes, there is a Santa Claus, too. Else why are men so different at this season. Something comes into the lives of men at Christmas that cannot be found at any other time. It matters not how learned or how crude, how harsh or how sordid, Christmas brings a certain curve of lip, a certain gleam in eye that finds expression. Hardheaded business man with a year of material things has it. Your Seminary cynic has it. Even Criminals and dull Poverty have it. Everyday facts, hard and strained living must give way.

What is it? Everyone feels the pull. The Grouch, the Cynic and the Infidel are humane at Christmas. Their sour Philosophy of Life is laid aside. They are defeated, and, as often the case in the defeat, the real man comes out.

Dull, drab unnatural indeed is the man who can't say "Merry Christmas." Explain it? No perhaps not. The last month editors, philosophers, authors and artists—lots of them have been hooting at the Idea. Sneering, "There ain't no Santa Claus."

But this week, they are smiling—all hustle and hurry. Jostling crowds without a murmur. By next week they will be greeting you—"Merry Christmas." And better men they are. Why—if there isn't a spirit of Christmas? "Good will toward Men" is almost a fact at Christmas.

Don't tell me there "ain't" any Santa Claus. You wait until next week. He will be here himself. Yes he will, too. You can tell it in every glance, smile and handshake.

What if Santa Claus stayed with us for a whole year sometime! Then it would be "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men."

Yes there is a Santa Claus.

ONCE WAS ENOUGH

There's a suburban home whose owner's principal delight is keeping it spic and span. After dinner he and a guest were smoking on the lawn. The guest, after lighting his cigar, threw the burned match on the ground.

"Oh, I wouldn't do that, George," said the host.

"Why not?"

"It spoils the appearance of everything," was the answer. It's just those little things that make a place look bad."

The guest smoked his cigar in silence for a few minutes; then, without a word, got up, walked down the road and disappeared. He returned in a short time.

His host asked: "Where've you been, George?"

"Oh, I just went down to spit in the river," said George.—Chicago Tribune.

THE FIRST REPORT OF INDIAN STUDENTS AT DELAWARE COLLEGE

In looking over some old records in the War Department at Washington recently, Stuart Carswell, a graduate of Delaware, class of '12, sent the following copy of a report from Rev. James P. Wilson, president of Delaware College, to the Commander of Indian Affairs. The letter was written in 1848.

The report follows:
"Agreeably to your request, I send you a brief statement of the condition, progress, and prospects of the five Indian youths committed to my care.

"Three young men, Lycurgus Pitchlym, Leonidas Garland, and William Howell, arrived at Newark, Delaware, on the 27th of April. On the arrival of the fourth, Allen Wright, who was detained a few days in Washington by illness, they all immediately commenced their studies. Being found on examination deficient in the requisite preparation for the Freshman class in this institution, they were put upon a course of private study, to qualify them for admission the following September term. Though for a long time previously unused to study, and their habits of application necessarily interrupted, I was as much surprised as gratified to witness the cheerful alacrity and zeal, with which they commenced their labors and continued them, with unabated ardor and success through the summer term and the long subsequent vacation, to within two weeks of the fall session. They then entered very creditably, and ever since that time have fully maintained their standing, manifesting mental capacity, industry, and self-denying application, fully equal to any of their associates. Their improvement, consequently, has been steady and rapid. In docility of disposition and morality, their conduct has been worthy of approval, even in a high degree exemplary.

"Of the other Choctaw youth, arrived only yesterday, Joseph Hall, I can merely state that he has been examined, and has entered in his studies with a view to making good all deficiencies and joining, if possible, the present Freshman class.

"The young Chickasaw, Frederic McCalla, is at present in our preparatory department under the care of the Reverend Mr. Meigs, and is doing well."

Cecil County Negro Gets Short Term For Killing Companion

An unusually short sentence was imposed upon James Caves, a Negro living near Havre de race, in the Belair Court the other day. The shooting arose from a quarrel between the two men while at work in the quarry.

COLLIDE ON BRIDGE

One-Way Bridge Over Canal At St. Georges Scene of Accident

Two Fords ran together on the bridge over the canal at St. Georges Monday afternoon. The bridge is only wide enough for one car to pass over it at a time, and when the two cars attempted to pass in opposite directions, the inevitable happened. James Elliott, of Smyrna, was coming up the road while Joseph Watson, colored, from Wilmington, was on his way down state. Elliott's car was the more damaged of the two by the collision. Neither occupant was hurt.

PULP MILL STARTS

The Radnor mill, the Elkton branch of the Jessup and Moore Paper Co., started up on full time today after a layoff of about a week. It was the first time the mill has been closed for that length of time in some years. The shut-down was caused, it is understood, by lack of orders.

TESTED RECIPES

French Toast—A New Way

12 slices white bread. 2 eggs 1 cup milk. Salt and pepper. Beat eggs slightly; add salt, pepper and milk. Pour into soup plate and dip each slice into mixture. Spread on platter and let stand for half an hour. Butter toaster bars and toast on both sides. Serve very hot with powdered sugar, honey, syrup, jam or jelly.

Cinnamon Toast

Mix 1 teaspoon of cinnamon thoroughly with 1/3 cup sugar. Sprinkle on hot, well-buttered toast. Toast the top side again and serve hot.

This is particularly toothsome with afternoon tea or for Sunday night supper.

If you or your family like raisins, they may be mixed with the sugar and cinnamon, made into a paste with melted butter and spread on dry toast. It is delicious.

5 more shopping days 'til Christmas

Here's a splendid place to do your Christmas Shopping. You'll find good assortments of the same dependable quality in our Christmas merchandise that you are accustomed to here all the year through. Special holiday packages and boxes add the cheery Christmas touch.

Plenty of moderately priced likeable things for Christmas giving and lots of salespeople who are doing their best to help you with the last-minute gift-buying.

New, embossed Christmas red and Christmas green strong Wrapping Paper, protects and adds the touch, 10c a roll.

White Wrapping Paper, 10c a roll.

Red String, 10c a ball.

Green or White or Red Tissue Paper, 10c a package.

Christmas package of Seals, Tissue and Tape, 25c.

Fancy Baskets for fruit or flowers, afterwards for marketing, $1.50, $1.65, $1.85 each.

There's a lot of people going to get practical things from our housefurnishing department for Christmas this year.

It's a sensible idea, too, for the glassware and Pyrex and trays, the bright aluminum and pretty China look real good among the other Christmas gifts and they are useful for so long, too.

Through the store today, the busiest places show that practical gifts are going to be most popular this season—even for "just Christmas remembrances."

The White Goods, with its dainty silk and cotton fabrics for dresses and for underwear, is very busy.

Warm, Woolen Dress Goods, too, we're selling to people who appreciate good style with warmth and durability. Christmas boxes add the necessary touch to the practical gift of Dress Goods.

Real Silks, of course, are always first choice for "your best girl," whether she be bride of a few months or dear old grandmother.

Hosiery—Silk or finest lisle for the ladies—sport stockings or fine lisle for the boys and girls—silk and wool, silk, or just good every day 25c cotton socks for the men. Hosiery always makes an acceptable Christmas gift and if it comes from here it's better yet.

Wayne Knit is best—don't forget the ladies special silk full-fashioned number for $1.70 a pair (regular $1.95 and $2.25 stockings).

Handkerchiefs? Well, can you always find a nice-looking, clean handkerchief when you want to go out in a hurry? Just about everyone can use a few more handkerchiefs.

Handkerchiefs you buy here are right—so is their price. Start at 10c and go up to $7 or $8 a piece.

Toilet Articles—du Pont's Ivory Pyralin or shell or amber—toilet waters, toilet powders, compacts, perfume, great choosing here for the young ladies of the family. The business in this department reflects the popularity of these dainty toilet requisites for holiday gifts.

Men's Shirts and Men's Neck Ties—In spite of all the jokes—are being eagerly bought up by Santa Claus' jolly helpers—so it looks this season as if there would be an extra well-dressed lot of men and young men around Wilmington and our vicinity right after Christmas.

Sweaters, Sweater Coats, Bath Robes and those fine Wayne Stockings are also selling well.

Everybody pretty nearly must be asking for "real old-fashioned Irish Linens" for their tables—never have we sold so much good pure flax linen as this season. Mothers—maybe we shouldn't let this secret out yet but the only reason we do is so you won't be disappointed in not getting your linens for Christmas.

And if you could just come down town in the morning to do your shopping, you can hardly realize how much more you could accomplish and how much more satisfactorily we could serve you.

But then you'd miss some of the jolly Christmas crowds—and that's worth being in—

So come whenever it suits you; we're here to do our best for you.

Don't you know just what to give Harry's kids

Well, more than likely we can help you. That's one of the things we do. Ask any of the salespeople in the Toy Department—tell them about what you want to spend on each kiddie, girl or boy and how old—the result will be (at least it has been most times) that not only Harry's kids will believe you the dandiest Uncle or Aunt, but Harry and May will wonder how you can do it so well; "busy as you are, too." Any way, it certainly was nice of old Harry—a regular St. Nick! by George!

There's lots and lots of Toys here to make little eyes shine bright and little hearts go pit-a-pat on Merry Christmas Day.

Several lots reduced to speed them on their way rejoicing because we cannot get more in time. Better look them over first.

STUDENTS OF UNIVERSITY TO PLAY HOSTS TO BUDDIES IN PARIS AT CHRISTMAS TIME

Eight Delaware boys now studying in Paris under the direction of Professor Kirkbride will have as near a real old Delaware Christmas as is possible in that far away city. They will be the guests of the student body here at a sumptuous Christmas dinner and later will attend the best show in Paris just to top off the evening.

In response to a suggestion made by interested members of the faculty and friends of the college, an appeal was made to the student body by John S. Schaefer at the regular chapel hour in Wolf Hall yesterday morning. Mr. Schaefer outlined the plan whereby a cablegram could be sent this week to Prof. Kirkbride announcing the amount of the fund raised and requesting him to take an equivalent amount from the funds at his disposal there, the check coming to replace it later.

Members of the student council were stationed at the doors of the auditorium as the students filed out, and in five minutes the sum of $27.50 was raised. The giving was purely voluntary, and no attempt at assessment was made.

It is understood from a member of the Faculty that the boys in Paris can get a full course dinner at the best restaurant in the city for the entire group for about $12.50 in American money. Thus the contributions have assured the Foreign Students sufficient funds for the theatre party.

On Thanksgiving Day a cablegram was sent to Paris by the students here extending best wishes for their happiness on that occasion. The forthcoming Christmas dinner will be in the nature of a big surprise and will be announced to them by Prof. Kirkbride upon receipt of the cablegram.

The foreign students are now taking a course in the University of Paris, having completed their preliminary training at Nancy. They are entered in classes at which only French is spoken. They are also quartered at different parts of the city with private families, and are purposely separated in order that there will be no tendency to get back to speaking English. They have, however, many get together parties, both at the University and as guests of prominent Frenchmen. In letters received here, they have nothing but praise for the many kindnesses they have received in Paris. However, there has cropped up a trace of homesickness in many letters as the holiday season approaches. The splendid spirit emphasized in the tendering to them of a Christmas dinner will, it is believed, go far towards making the holidays more enjoyable.

HOCKESSIN P. T. A.

IN REGULAR SESSION

Hockessin Parent-Teacher Association held its December meeting on the evening of the 11th, with Mrs.

Cleaver, State President, as the speaker. She told them how many committees should be appointed to carry on the necessary work of the association, and it was decided to appoint the committees on membership, program, and attendance at the next meeting. The committee who were to purchase chairs reported that they had secured two dozen folding chairs, which are required to accommodate the large attendance at some of the meetings.

The program arranged by the teacher, Miss Elsie Smith, consisted of an oral spelling demonstration lesson by the pupils. "Silent Night" was very well sung, also.

REVIEW OF NEWARK HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL SEASON

LOCAL SCHOOLBOYS BREAK RECORDS BY GRIDIRON SHOWING THIS SEASON

Wilson's Team is Head and Shoulders Above Any Secondary School in the State—Four-Year Record of Team a Mark to Shoot At

HOPKINS LEADS ALL IN STATE IN SCORING

Four straight Secondary Championships, the largest score rolled up in one game by any team in the State, and a player who has scored far and away the most points of any individual in the State—these are three of the records made by the Newark High School football team during the past season.

But perhaps the greatest victory has been the permanent welding together within the student body of the High School here of a school spirit which cannot be equalled in many High Schools of the country.

Winning teams, of course, draw plenty of praise; and this is no exception. But when High School pupils stage real old-time smokers, hold parades and snake dance over the gridiron it is a sign that they have caught the real spirit.

There are lots of things we may say in passing of the wonderful showing made by Newark the past season, but it has all been said before, and anything in the way of a review of the season would be merely repetition.

However, a few observations on members of the team may not be amiss at this time.

A Few of the Team

In picking out outstanding stars in the lineup, a problem presents itself which cannot be said to be easy. Every man on the team is hereby praised for his work during the season. Space forbids a detailed account of the deeds of each player, so we are forced to pick out a few only. Perhaps the greatest running back of the collegiate season was Harry Wilson, of Penn State, but Wilson says that he could not have made the hall of fame without the aid of his two tackles and Johnson, one of the best interferers in the game today.

And so it is with Newark; individual stars shine on a background made up of the boys who open up the holes, and brush away tacklers, and who most of the time are found under the pile.

"Shorty" Chalmers, Captain Hopkins, Patchell, Grant, Townsend and Doordan were, in our opinion, the best consistent performers of the 1923 season. These six men left little to be desired in the playing of their respective positions, and stood out at all times.

Chalmers is perhaps one of the best ends ever developed in Newark. He is crafty, brainy and has a trick of pawing through interference which is seldom seen on any High School gridiron. His deadly accuracy in catching forward passes put Newark on the road to many touchdowns during the season.

Patchell, the signal caller, has been mentioned by many wise ones as worthy of mention on any Delaware All-Scholastic team to be selected. "Pat" never played much football until this year, and when given his chance made good with a rush. His best performance lies in his selection of plays. He plays a cool calculating game, always alert to an opponent's weakness, always ready with the right play at the right time. Coach Wilson has stated that he always has confidence in his quarterback, and that means a whole lot. Poor judgment, erratic playing and lack of leadership ruin otherwise good quarters. Patchell cannot be related to any one of these faults.

Grant was one of the two veterans from last year, ready for service this fall. He is a steady, aggressive little chap, who not only knows a lot of football, but has the faculty of teaching the younger men on the line. He was everlastingly smearing plays through the center of the line, and when on the offense, his passing was consistently good. Nothing helps a ready with the ball at precisely the right place. Grant was always a good little center, and this year saw added glory come his way.

"Bus" Townsend is another player who made his debut this year. Not many thought he had the stuff in him, and during the first few weeks he himself felt just a little new to the game and lacked the fire and fight of a star. But no one on the team improved so rapidly during the season as Townsend. He learned how to run with the ball, how to take out tacklers and how to smear end runs. And when Dover passed and Seaford loomed on the horizon, "Bus" was at the top of his game. He made a splendid running mate for Hopkins.

Doordan was, in our opinion, the best of the linemen. Here was a boy who raged and tore around his position like a young wildcat. He and Grant ripped and tore opposing plays before they could get started all through the season. He played the most difficult position on the team with ease and smartness which has stamped him as one of the best Newark has had. Small for a tackle, and hampered by inexperience, he overcame his faults early in the season. He rarely accomplished the spectacular, but fought down in the pile and held the line. He was a leader in the wonderful stand made against Dover in Middletown, when four plays were flung at the line inside the three-yard line, and they couldn't make the distance.

Hopkins Great Leader

Captain Marion Hopkins was the bright particular star of the entire season. With two years' experience in former champion teams in Newark, and playing alongside his powerful brother, C. Hopkins, for a whole season, he learned many things about the game.

This year he was thrown entirely upon his own resources. As captain and fullback he was the one lone veteran left for the backfield. As a leader, Newark has never had a better one. He was not content with running up and down along the scrimmage line, slapping and shouting, but he tore in and bowled over runners, took the ball for scores of brilliant off tackle and end runs, kicked with accuracy and distance, threw passes and dropped-kicked. He was a "go thou and do likewise" player of extraordinary ability. To say he was a triple threat would be putting it mildly. There is nothing in High School football that Hopkins can't do. Built and carrying himself like a football player, he fairly exuded ability when he entered a game. Not much for talk, laconic, even sullen at times, he concentrated every nerve and muscle every minute of every game on the play before him. That's what makes great football players and that is why Hopkins can be said to be one of the best, if not the best High School player in Delaware scholastic ranks today.

He scored 124 points during the season. Some say this is a record for the East. Whether it is or not is hardly the issue. He not only scored, but he carried the ball equally well in midfield, away from the goal. He carried it in the shadow of his own goal line. He was everywhere. We hope that this will not be construed as a bouquet. We have seen this boy in action and have been waiting for a chance to talk about him.

BILL MCKELVIE NAMED FOOTBALL LEADER

Delaware Letter Men Elect Popular Junior As Leader For Next Year

William McKelvie, the big 190-lb. tackle of the Blue and Gold football team, was elected to lead the gridiron warriors in 1924, at a meeting of this year's letter men, held Thursday evening last, in Old College immediately after dinner. McKelvie was considered by many as the logical choice for the post and little surprises was evidenced when his name was announced.

McKelvie was forced to forego football for most of this season, due to an operation which he underwent shortly before college opened. He, however, recovered sufficiently to get in the last three games of the schedule and played a star brand of football in the Dickinson fracas.

"Bill" came to Delaware from Kennett Square, Pa., knowing little or no football. Under the direction of Coach Shipley and later Derby, the big framed boy soon developed a natural talent for the game and in the second season played every game, and outplayed most of his opponents.

This year McKelvie was depended upon to strengthen the line greatly. His loss was, of course, a handicap, but Coach McAvoy would not let him play when not in condition. He is a good basketball player and will probably have a berth on the Delaware five this winter. For that reason he was saved as much as possible during the football season.

McKelvie is a member of the Junior class and also of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

COMMISSIONED MAJOR

William Ray Baldwin, of Elk Mills, Md., has been recently commissioned a Major in the Ordnance Department of the Organized Reserves of the United States Army. Mr. Baldwin held a similar commission during the World War.

seemed impossible to make a winning team.

But the observers and critics failed to take into consideration two things—the Newark spirit and Wilson.

Without his big beefy line and backfield of the previous year, Wilson built himself a fast light and brainy aggregation and beat more football into their heads than they could assimilate. With Captain Hopkins as the center of the attack, the coach evolved a splendid assortment of plays, not only modern in every way, but brought to the point of perfection. No hesitating, no falling over each other in that backfield. They knew their plays.

As game after game was tucked safely away by big scores, the townspeople began to again evince more than passing interest in the team.

Finally came the Dover series, and when Newark won the deciding game, everybody had praise on their lips. Then came Seaford and another glorious win. Four straight—and the last one won by a team given but an outside chance at the beginning of the season.

No, it isn't luck, it's a combination of a good coach who not only can teach but can lead; and a team which is willing to learn and which has real school spirit.

We in Newark congratulate "Joe" Wilson on his showing and are proud of both he and his schoolboy champions.

STEPPING ON THE GAS

Elkton Man Arrested for Speeding by Highway Officer Thursday

County Highway Officer Jones was led a merry chase on Thursday evening last on the Highway between Newark and Wilmington, when he started in pursuit of a flying motorcycle. The officer finally caught up with the speeder and placed him under arrest. He was fined $25 and costs by Magistrate Gluckman in Wilmington. Failing to find the money, his machine was taken as security. He gave his name as John F. Johnson, of Elkton, Md. Jones stated that the prisoner was making 50 and 60 miles an hour along the pike.

HAS SCARLET FEVER

Young Son of William Tierney Stricken Last Week

Billy, the bright little five-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tierney, of Delaware Avenue, was stricken with scarlet fever on Saturday of this week, and is confined to his bed with doctors attending. His condition is not believed to be dangerous, although careful care and nursing is necessary to bring him around to his former health.

So when that season was over, local fans sat up and decided that Wilson was a pretty smart coach with his inexperience.

This Year A Test

With most of his big team shot, and the prospects of a light, inexperienced team facing him, it was believed that Newark's chances this past fall would be very slim. When at first glance, an observer looked at the squad, it

CABLE FROM BERLIN TELLS OF U. S. RELIEF

Quaker Organization Issues Statement Urging More Help for German Children

General Henry T. Allen, chairman of the American Committee for Relief of German Children made public last week a cablegram from the Berlin headquarters of the American Society of Friends (Quakers) in answer to his inquiry as to what relief work was being done by native organizations and agencies in Germany.

The survey of the situation made by Gilbert MacMaster, acting head of the Quaker organization in Germany, shows that the federal and municipal governments, agricultural districts, relief organizations of all religions, workingmen, banks and big industrial concerns are contributing large sums to the relief of children, students and the unemployed.

Mr. MacMaster cabled as follows: "Native relief for suffering people is very active. The German government has provided funds out of receipts from taxes on large incomes to feed 500,000 children daily, which even though inadequate indicates a disposition to help in so far as limited resources will permit. On an average the municipal governments are supplying about fifty per cent of suffering people with food and money."

"Agricultural districts are caring for city dwellers on large scale. They are forwarding 40,200 tons of foods monthly, an amount sufficient for feeding 1,225,000 children. Arrangements have been completed for sending 350,000 children to live with families in the country for five months. In Gelsenkirchen persons who have work are paying more than $100,000 a month toward the support of the unemployed.

"Many industrial concerns are supporting German students. Factories contribute fixed sums monthly for this purpose. After having been first to start the work in his district Stinnes guaranteed certain percentage of earnings. The banks are giving one hundred fifty dollars a month and the textile industry is contributing generously to student relief."

In answer to a request for the latest authoritative data concerning the present need in Germany Mr. MacMaster cabled that medical examinations of school children now being made by trained physicians showed that undernourishment had increased thirty per cent since last June.

"Two million children were found to be badly undernourished in June," the cable continued. Today the figure approaches three millions. It must also be remembered that this is the ninth year of hard times for German children and that has meant not only insufficient warmth and clothing. We must keep in mind further that the parents of at least two and one-half million of these children are now depending on an unemployment dole of less than twenty cents per day and that an additional two and one-half million people are working half time or less in Germany today.

"Physicians and school doctors representing all Germany who met here recently to discuss the situation disclosed the following facts: first, that infant mortality had increased twenty-ty-one per cent during the last three months over that of the same period in 1922; second, that tuberculosis increased sixteen per cent in the first nine months of this year over last year and third, that births have decreased ten per cent.

"Representatives of all German welfare organizations including Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and others in conference here reported that hundreds of thousands of children are being sent to school without breakfast and that the number of children too weak to attend school at all was increasing with great rapidity."

Concerning the food situation, Mr. MacMaster said: "The actual procuring of foodstuffs is increasingly difficult particularly as foodships are often closed and stocks on hand are invariably quickly depleted. Bacon and other facts are not in stock at most retail shops."

AN OLD SPANISH GARDEN

A Letter to The Post from
E. N. Vallandigham

Granada.

To the Editor of the Post:

On the morning of November 15th, I sat for an hour-and-a-half reading and writing in one of the loveliest of old Moorish gardens. I wore no overcoat, and part of the time I was too warm in sweater and flannel waistcoat. Next day I did the like in the lee of our pension wall, and had finally to turn my back to the November sun because it seemed to threaten sunstroke. Such is this extraordinary climate, somewhat similar to that of California, but warmer at like elevation and in corresponding latitude. When an unusually sharp early frost destroys the more tender plants, gardeners make good the loss by setting out immediately something hardier.

The garden of my sunny morning was originally a Moorish creation, creation, perhaps well over seven hundred years old, the scene of gaieties and social splendors long before Ferdinand and Isabella placed their flag over the Alhambra, much used by the Christian conquerors, but suffered at one time to fall into decay, though the trees and shrubs are now carefully tended, and some of those that shaded the romance of the Moorish court, still stand sturdily up in the brilliant sunshine and rich blue sky. This is the Generalife (by the Spaniards pronounced Heneralif-e), a name probably meaning "The Garden of Arif," and supposed to commemorate the original owner, or possibly the architect. I shall not describe it in detail, for anyone may find such description in Washington Irving, or in Baedeker, but will give an impressionistic notion of the place, as it has appeared to me at more than one visit. The Generalife is less than ten minutes walk from our pension. Admittance, free on Sundays, is half a peseta, at the present rate of exchange about seven cents, a fraction less.

A cypress alley of rare beauty introduces one to the Generalife. Sitting on a stone bench at the head of the alley, one's ears are charmed by the rapid flow of streams in front, behind, everywhere. The alley is itself about ten or 12 feet wide, and flanked on either side by cedars, most of them tall and slender, rising into delicate spires that bow sweetly in the vagrant airs. Some of the cypresses have been topped, probably to strengthen their growth, and such, as indeed, all grow with a density rarely seen in our American cypress. One may lean against a cypress of this alley, and hardly dent the fresh green, for the frequently clipped surfaces thicken and thicken until the whole foliage of the tree seems a dense textile fabric wrought of unyielding material. The trees are planted only a few feet apart, and the morning sunshine, striking between the stout trunks and dense foliage, slants in sharply defined golden bars across the pathway.

The tallest of the trees look at least seventy feet high.

From the cypress walk one enters a gate that admits to another densely shaded alley, and thence a flight of stone steps conducts one upward to the very heart of the garden. In a few moments one finds oneself looking through a light Moorish arch along a straight canal-like bit of water to another such arch. Every few feet along the waterway, fountains spout tall sprays that curve gracefully, to fall into the swiftly flowing waters of the canal. The further arch conducts one to a sort of open loggia whence one sees Granada, the Alhambra, and vast panorama of plain and mountain, such a prospect as few places in the world have to show.

Other flights of steps conduct one up and up, amidst the continuous music of spouting fountains and flowing water. One stairway is flanked by a low wall on either side, which carries in an open conduit hollowed in the coping, two streams that babble and chuck and gurgle and break into the most delicious musical tones as one climbs the stairs. From his stairway one looks down upon the richest sun-smitten foliage, and upon walks paved with carefully selected small pebbles wrought into beautiful and ingenious patterns. All about are the survivals of the light and delicately decorated Moorish buildings, many parts of which are marred by time, others by not too skilful restoration. A patient man was mounted upon a tall ladder in the very act of picking the dust of centuries from the decoration of a wall, and making ready to restore it as nearly as possible to its original beauty.

We finally settled ourselves upon a high terrace, beneath the tallest surviving structure of the Generalife. Here we look down upon fountains playing in the sun, until one hardly knew which was light and which was water. A step to a coping gave one a view over part of the garden, and far away toward the ample prospect that Moorish kings, their wives and their courtiers had found delightful, whether clothed in sunlight, or bathed in the magic of the moon amid the songs of maddened nightingales. All that one dreams of dead romance seems a living reality here where flourish that strange and beautiful, though in much vicious civilization created through the long centuries of Moorish rule in Spain.

Our terrace was enriched with carefully clipped box enclosures, and within sight were giant cypresses hundreds of years old, with spires shooting high into the heavens, and trunks as much as five feet thick. There, too, were great trees of the Magnolia Grandiflora, which endures the winter of Delaware and the Eastern Shore, though not without great damage from frost. Here the magnolia seems to escape serious blight in winter. Along with these huge trees flourish roses still in bloom, chrysanthemums, and other flowering plants, is feathered with close-growing bamboo. But of all the trees in this exquisite Generalife, none approaches the perfection of the cypress.

Our morning was deliciously warm and sunny, and sweetened throughout by the music of the waters flowing from aqueducts, perhaps seven hundred years old. In the cypress alley we had met and photographed a gorgeously caparisoned caretaker, a true forester, with his handsome, liver-colored setter, and huckster in great Andalusian hat, riding his panned donkey beneath the golden bars of the sun, which seemed to lift in order that he might pass unchallenged.

Seaford Building Lively

Despite the winter building operations continue in Seaford at a lively rate, every carpenter, bricklayer, plasterer, painter and laborer that wants work being able to get it, and this condition bids fair to continue as long as the weather holds good. Among the building operations going on are the remodeling of the Purse Brothers building on High Street, into hotel; C. E. Hurley & Son's store room on High Street, and extensive repairs to Dr. B. F. Williams' property, while Field, Barker & Underwood, Philadelphia contractors, are erecting a temporary bridge over the Nanticoke River, separating Seaford and Blades, preparatory to the construction of a modern concrete structure.

Record Building Permits

In the clever months ended November 30, 3939 permits for dwellings were issued in Baltimore, breaking all records. The best year previously was 1919, when 3721 homes were permitted.

Indications point to a record year for general building activity. So far this year's construction has cost $36,102,323. Unless there is an unprecedented slump this month, it is said, the previous record of $36,834,050, made last year, will be broken.

Better Deliveries In Coal

The anthracite situation appears brighter from a delivery point of view. Shipment to Lake ports has ended and dealers in this city and vicinity may look for better deliveries from now on, leading interests assert.

The holiday of last week reduced production somewhat. The monthly output was decreased considerably by the number of holidays last month. Retailers, with better shipments, are hoping to clear their books of orders which have been held over for some time awaiting delivery to the consumer. Stove and nut coal continue to be the most active feature of the market. Prices in the spot market have weakened.

Steam sizes are heavy, especially buckwheat and rice, which are being produced in excess of requirements. Considerable quantities of these sizes are going into storage. Prices of buckwheat range from $2.50 to $3 with some sales, in extreme cases, reported at $1.75. Rice is quoted at from $1.50 to $2.25 and barley is moving steadily at from $1.25 to $1.50.

The bituminous outlook is much brighter. Prices of some medium low volatiles are firmer. While orders are not increasing, excellent inquiries are being received and contract coal is in better volume. Distress coal at the piers has been well cleaned up. Despite the improvement in sentiment many Pennsylvania bituminous mines are shutting down for lack of business.

Coal Age says that anthracite production reached 2,100,000 net tons in the week ended November 24th, only 65,000 tons below the high record for the year. It is estimated, however, that production for the last week did not exceed 1,800,000 tons, owing to the holiday. Production of soft coal as well as prices continues to lose ground. Production in the week ended November 24th was around 10,170,000 net tons, an increase of 454,000 tons over the previous week, but a decrease of 555,000 tons compared with the week ended November 10th.—Ex.

OUT OF LUCK

W. G. Williamson, chemist, says that a man came into his laboratory the other day, threw down a sample bag of stuff on his desk and asked him what it was worth.

SIGMA NU HOLDS BIG ANNUAL DANCE

The members of the Sigma Nu Fraternity of the University held their annual formal dance in Old College Friday evening. George Madden's Orchestra furnished delightful music for more than 75 couples. The decorations in the Common's were very attractive.

The panels were bordered by twisted green and white crepe paper and each window held a Christmas tree covered with artificial snow. The lights were octagonal boxes covered with transparent green paper, through which was illuminated the coiled serpent of Sigma Nu. The front of the balcony was a mass of laurel, in the center of which was a flashing Sigma Nu pin. The lounge room was also decorated in green and white. The candelabra along the wall each represented three little Christmas trees in a mound of snow. In the first-place a Yule log burned.

At 11:30 luncheon was served in the east dining room. The tables were dotted here and there with little Christmas trees that were covered with red berries and artificial snow. The favors for the ladies were little red candles, inserted in a bunch of green fringed crepe paper covered with red berries, and for the gentlemen, "crickets" covered with green paper.

After the luncheon the dance continued until two o'clock. The following committee had charge of the dance: Decorations, H. O. Ladd, R. G. Taylor; programs and invitations, J. Schaffer, J. E. Williams; menu, K. E. Crothers; patronesses, R. W. Gregg; music, J. Schaefer; finance, R. A. Jones, J. E. Williams.

The following seniors are members of the Sigma Nu Fraternity: G. B. Breuninger, (J. F. Frear, J. Schaefer, J. E. Williams, E. L. Magaw, C. Underwood.

Juniors: K. J. Crothers, R. E. Hoch, R. A. Jones, F. G. Miller, E. C. Lowber.

OLD MILL TO GO

Wilmington Park Commissioners to Demolish Newport Landmark

The Board of Park Commissioners of Wilmington, owners of the Richardson flour mill, just over the boundary near the Newport pike, have decided to demolish this landmark of upper New Castle county, considering the stone structure dangerous in its present condition.

The original mill, erected in 1700, supplied Washington's troops at Cooch's Bridge and Valley Forge with flour. The mill as it stands today was built after the old building had been burned down. Since the machinery was taken out several years ago the mill has needed repairs badly.

Both the mill and the land adjoining were bought by Pierre S. duPont and Irene duPont some time ago and presented to the park board as future city park land.

DELAWARE MAY GET 1/2 MILLION FOR ROADS

Highway Officials Petition Congress For Large Federal Appropriation

C. Douglass Buck, engineer in charge of the building of highways in this State, returned last week from a trip to New Orleans, where he attended a meeting of the American Association of State Highway Officials. Representatives from state road-building association throughout the United States attended this convention and exchanged views regarding the construction of roads.

One of the most important actions of the convention which effects Delaware as well as every other state, was a resolution adopted which urged Congress to set aside one hundred millions of dollars for each of the years 1926-27-28. This money would be divided equitably, between the states which would agree to spend as much money on state roads.

If this request should be concurred in and the appropriation made by Congress it would mean that Delaware's share for these three years would be one-half of one per cent. or about a half million dollars. During the coming year the State of Delaware will receive about $365,000 as its share from a prior government appropriation for state roads and which the state must match. As the budget of road building is fixed for 1924, Delaware will spend, including this government appropriation, about $2,500,000 for highways.

One of the new ideas which Delaware is utilizing in its road building and which engineers of other states learned of with interest and which many of them are going to try, is the marking of the middle line down the highway with asphalt. The idea, tried out by Mr. Buck this year, he has found, lasts longer and is much cheaper than paint which is the material that other states have been using. Engineers attending the convention who have ridden over roads and highways in this state complimented Engineer Buck on the alignment of the highways and their splendid appearance.—Sunday Star.

"PYGMALION" GOOD

The Bernard Shaw play, "Pygmalion," was given by the combined Dramatic Clubs at the University before a crowded house in Wolf Hall Thursday evening last. The performance was of a high order and enjoyed immensely by the audience. Clifford Smith, Fred Smith and the rest of the good cast, not forgetting the Women's College members, were excellently placed.

"And by the hours he keeps," added the wife.

"And by the spring in him," said the athlete.

"And by his being fast sometimes," remarked the reformer.

"And by the way his hands go up," put in the pugilist.

"And by his not always going when we want him to," said the girl who'd been robbed of her sleep.

"And by the case he has and the way he is run down," said the doctor. —Hygeia Magazine.

It is not soft coal. In formation and appearance it is much more like anthracite than it is like soft coal.

It is also more like anthracite in the way it burns. It is screened, and includes from nut to egg sizes. Does not dirty the house or clog flues with soot. Holds fire well when banked. Contains no slate and does not clinker. Responds quickly to draft. Has as much heat in it as anthracite. Is considerably cheaper than anthracite.

If you were to ask a hundred—or a thousand—Ford truck owners why they use Ford trucks in preference to all others, they would likely say, "Because the Ford stands up."

They know that under the endless grind of daily service the Ford stays on the job month in and month out, with very little mechanical care, and with practically no expense for repairs or replacements. They buy to get performance.

A few might add that the Ford is the lowest priced truck on the market. But they would emphasize the work this truck does, not its initial cost, in accounting for the fact that there are more Ford Trucks in use today than all other makes combined.

MAN FROM LOWER DELAWARE SUBMITS FOOL-PROOF INVENTIONS

"Rain Maker," Fuse Lighter, Influenza Remedy, and Other Items Included in His Offerings to the Public

From the obscure parts of lower Delaware recently came a farmer with a letter to the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, asking that organization if there is any man or woman in this city who has a million dollars which they would like to put into a corporation of which the lower Delawarean is the guiding spirit. If there is, he says, the investor will receive an annual income of $10 for every dollar invested, or $10,000,000 for the original investment of $1,000,000.

The writer of the letter whose name is not made public by Chamber of Commerce officials, credits himself with ten inventions, all of which, he says, may revolutionize present day methods which they will displace and all of which should make an annual net income of a million dollars, in his opinion.

Juggling millions around as though they were mere German marks, the inventor proceeds to enumerate his ten brain children. First of all there is a patent rain maker, which, the inventor asserts, "will make it rain for the farmer whenever rain is needed." This invention, the modest inventor notes, will produce "over one billion dollars more value of farm products and is a proven patent." He intends to sell his patent rain maker throughout the world, it is inferred from the letter.

Invention number two is a "patent waterproof blast cap." This invention will be used in mining, its producer explains, and there will be a ready sale for over 1,000,000 of the blast caps to 7,000 mines. After summarizing the patent blast cap the inventor nonchalantly adds that it will mean a "clean income of over $1,000,000 yearly to the company producing it."

Then there is a patent fuse igniter, also intended for mining use. This, the inventor predicts, will cost 50 cents to manufacturer and will sell for $2. The yearly sale of the patent fuse igniter as estimated by its inventor should aggregate in the neighborhood of over $400,000 and of this sum "half would be profit."

The fourth invention is a waterproofing wax, to use for waterproofing tents and awnings. This will be the only wax to stand hot and cold there will be a ready sale for $100,000 worth of it yearly.

Threatening to revolutionize the street car business, the inventor jumps from prosaic waterproofing wax to an automatic railroad and street car. A patent has been applied for this invention, it is noted, and it will bring a profit of a million yearly.

Number six is a quick crop growing invention. This will enable its user to grow crops in the winter and in fact all the year round. Once more the inventor becomes optimistic and announces that it "will bring millions of profits."

The last four of the ten amazing inventions are intended to revamp the medical profession somewhat. For instance, there is a gall stone cure, which will restore its user to complete health within 24 hours. This cure is a radical departure from the one now employed, the inventor says: "The old way was for the doctor to cut people open and then cut the gall stones out," it is explained, "and in nearly every case the patient died on the operating table or if lived, he died about two or three months after." Then there is an "influenza cure," which will work a cure within five days, "a cure for kidney and bladder trouble and an "eczema cure."

In concluding his remarkable epistle the writer asserts that: "I am not a doctor, but I studied for many years under a country doctor, but did not get a diploma. I am a practical man in all lines, medical and mechanical." —Every Evening.

York City. Subsequently he sang at St. Paul's School, New York, under Dr. Horatio Parker, the distinguished American composer.

While a student at Yale he was a soloist with the Yale University Club.

Since that time he has appeared with almost innumerable musical societies and organizations, always with growing success. He is a member of the Orpheus Club of Philadelphia and for a number of years was the president of the Philadelphia Choral Union.

Mr. Swayne's singing has been repeatedly acclaimed by critics. Of his work as the assisting soloist in a concert last winter in New York City, a leading paper said:

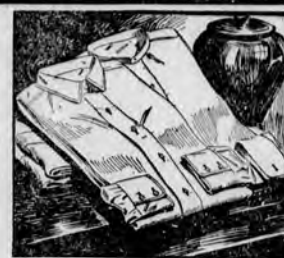

"His success was pronounced, and he was repeatedly recalled by an audience that took the entire seating capacity of the Metropolitan Opera House."

More recently, in commenting on Mr. Swayne's appearance at the Academy of Music in that city, the Philadelphia Public Ledger remarked:

"He sang with consummate artistry. He has a basso of delicious quality, which he uses with extraordinary skill and the most refined discernment."

Musical America, regarded the leading musical authority of both Europe and America, describes Mr. Swayne's voice as "of superb quality, handled with the utmost skill, refinement and artistry."

SOME BOOKS FROM DELAWARE

George Morgan

Bishop Philip Cook's talk before the Sons of Delaware, in this city, the other night, was regarded by many of his hearers as somewhat too severe on the bookish shortcomings of the people of Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland. In his audience sat George B. Hynson, whose muse long ago found for him a film so sensitive as to catch in genre the peculiar characteristics of the folks down home, and John Bassett Moore, of Kent, an international character, whose studies of Buchanan and other celebrities have added greatly to his fame as a statesman. Howard Pyle's work as an author; Edward N. Vallandigham's notable volume of impressions; George Alfred Townsend's Delaware and Eastern Shore classic in fiction, "The Entailed Hat"; the remarkable collection of Delaware books made by Judge Henry C. Conrad, as well as the large and creditable collections owned by the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and the Delaware Historical Society—all these things were brought to mind by the Bishop's listeners.

The Rock We Split On

But the Bishop meant well, of course, and everyone realized that what he wished to do was to have a little fun at first, and then to rub in an excellent lesson. His fun was partly at the expense of the New Englanders, who have been getting away with so much of the literary glory of America. He quoted a Northern speaker who, in a Richmond, Va., address, shocked his auditors by saying that the New Englanders had achieved more than any other set of mortals had done, or ever could do. But, having made the Virginians good and mad with this premise, he added that what the New Englanders had done was to plug up the Chesapeake Bay with Plymouth rock. Bishop Cook wants the rock removed. It obstructs literary navigation and greatly embarrasses Delaware and Maryland geniuses of international, or at least coast-wise, repute.

Got Away With It

The Bishop's complaint, as to that rare old Rock, is hardly new in these parts. Some wag said that when the Pilgrim Fathers landed they fell on their knees and then on the Aborigines. Subsequently, their descendants fell on the South; and, as victors, got away with everything, including certain historical and literary laurels belonging to other parts of the country, including Maryland and Delaware. Yes; and, for that matter, Pennsylvania.

Recent Endeavors

So Bishop Cook's contention really holds. Without unjust reflection upon latter-day writers, the fact remains that fresh intellectual and cultural endeavor is needed in the Peninsula. That this has been realized for some time is clearly evidenced by at least three things—the fruitful labors of the Service Citizens of Delaware, under the direction of Dr. Joseph H. Odell; by the establishment of the Foreign Study Plan of the University of Delaware, under the immediate direction of Professor R. W. Kirkbride, No. 6 rue Leneveux, Paris, and the founding of the University of Delaware Press, at Everett Johnson's "Kells," Newark, Del., with Dr. Walter Hüllihen as president, and Professor Finley M. K. Foster, as manager.

"To present the fruits of research, meditation and experience, to issue books which may have a direct or inspiring effect upon the readers, to encourage the endeavors of scholarship, to establish intercourse between the professional thinker and the busy man of affairs, to teach people how to see clearly and act decisively"—such are some of the aims of the directors of the University of Delaware Press.

First Fruits

Those back of the University of Delaware Press realize that certain books ought to be published which would have no show at all if subjected, in the preliminaries, to the cold, commercial scrutiny of the average publisher. Jazz comes and jazz goes, but good service books are needed all the time—serious books of permanent interest and value.

During the current year the University of Delaware Press has put its imprint on three works:

"National Education in the United States of America," by duPont de Nemours, translated from the French by B. G. duPont;

"Negro School Attendance in Delaware," by Richard Watson Cooper and Hermann Cooper, and editor of the Century Magazine, with an introduction by Dr. Joseph H. Odell, of the Service Citizens.

"An American Looks at His World," by Glenn Frank,

All these books are a credit to the University of Delaware Press. As the fruits of the first year, they indicate that the public will be in a way to gain much as the presses at Kells, lubricated by experience, begin to send forth sparks of modern light.

And the good Bishop, standing by, will be impelled to fall on his knees, if not on the Aborigines of Sussex, Kent and New Castle. Anyhow, let us pray for the removal of that obstructive rock from the mouth of the beautiful Sea of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, otherwise the Chesapeake Bay.

English and American Newspapers

(From New York Times)

One of The Time's correspondents said in a letter, printed recently, some harsh things about the English newspapers, declaring that not only was the news in them badly presented, but that so nearly the same things were printed every day that it made little difference whether one read yesterday's paper or today's.

There is something of injustice in this criticism, and it would be far easier to prove that the English papers are different from those of the United States than that they are inferior. That none of them spend as much money for news as do some American papers is true, but presumably the British editors know both what their readers want and the shape in which they want to get it.

Beyond question, the headline in the English papers are neither so ingenious nor informative as those that are "built" by our artists in that domain. They are hardly better, in many cases, than ours were in Civil War days, when "news from the front" was deemed enough to put over the report of an important battle, and dispatches habitually were gaped, not with respect to their content, but to their place of origin. That saved the writers of headlines an enormous amount of the work now done by them.

A few of the London papers of late years have been showing a tendency to offer what they thought an imitation of the American method of presenting the body of news. This is a more conservative and by readers whom changes offended. This is a world in which tastes differ, in journalism as in everything else, and usually the questions of right and wrong, of better or worse, do not enter.

For sheer self-restraint, consider the case of Henry Ford, who can draw his check for $200,000,000, and draw his check for $200,000,000, and doesn't. —Tacoma News Tribune.

MRS. HALLMAN IS HOSTESS TO BIBLE CLASS

The ladies of the Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church, were delightfully entertained by their teacher, Mrs. H. Everett Hallman, at the Manse last Friday evening.

We doubt very much if the hostess ever gave it a thought that there would be so much duplication, such a conglomeration among her guests, of the necessities of life to make one happy and comfortable.

One Hallman served beautifully in the capacity of butler, but, like the leopard, bemoaned the fact, he could not change his complexion.

The House of Ritz kindly allowed their Chef the evening off, and in her retinue, were two very efficient cooks, two very necessary Potts, one tender Green, just the right proportion of Dough(erty), two salty Bryans for proper seasoning and two Steels at their service. We leave the rest with them, except to make a few suggestions, that we are all fond of a delicate Brown, and by all means, not too Burnt(e).

Yes, refreshing music from the Spring(er). Two Stray-horns to sound an alarm if necessary. The Strong-Arm was there to lead the gentle Campbell; even a Ba(i)rd was there to give zest to the occasion. The manufacturers, knowing that the gift season is upon us, sent generous samples of their wares. One famous establishment contributed—by a deliciously, new, sweet pickle—namely Heim. The noted jeweler—Tiffany—his rarest gem. Not a Smith was in sight, but you can depend on a Jones. The worthy Dames who came to over-see—or, more properly speaking, see over all—were those whom we know as Cavender, Colbert, Reynolds and Frazer. Jamis-son was there, also Johns—short wright-ton.

The hostess was determined to try the skill of her guests—in guessing contests and other contests—by which all thoroughly enjoyed the evening. Very dainty refreshments were served—and then were we inflicted again—to rack our brains once more.

The chauffeurs honked their horns—but to no avail—they soon were forced to realize it was their turn to wait, and to cool their heels at the curb. For not a guest would budge until they had seen the end of the last contest. Every one thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

IS THERE A SANTA CLAUS?

Thirty years ago a little girl named Virginia O'Hanlon wrote to the "New York Sun" and asked:

"Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

The reply was in the form of an editorial from the pen of the brilliant Frank P. Church, one of the editors of "The Sun." It is one of the greatest things in American literature, and we reprint it here so that all children may know that "Santa Claus lives and lives forever."

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas, how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance, to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest men that ever lived could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

WHEN IS A UNIVERSITY NOT A UNIVERSITY?

An editorial which appeared in THE UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE REVIEW last week.

When is a university not a university. When the students of its various colleges have absolutely separate and distinct rights, privileges, and duties.

On Tuesday the faculty and students of Delaware College dug the cellar for the new library. This digging was a generous and loyal act of which the students of Women's College highly approved. Since the boys were excused from classes to dig, the girls also asked to be excused from classes in order to serve coffee to the workers. The girls were not greatly surprised when this request was not granted them. They served the coffee during their vacant periods. Nor were they greatly insulted when they were gently but firmly invited to stay away from the Library site while the boys were at work there. One slight which they received on that day did, however, make them extremely unhappy. They were not invited to attend the ceremony of the digging of the first spadeful of earth for the new building. Nor were they even informed that such a ceremony was to take place. The girls are just as much interested in the Library as are the boys and they worked just as hard to secure the funds for its erection. Surely, then, it would be only fair to allow them to witness the ceremonies attendant upon its construction. Let us hope that the students of Women's College will not again be so slighted, as we should like to be a university in fact as well as in name.

RATE OF PRODUCTION MORE THAN ANYTHING ELSE DETERMINE PROFITS

Every day, more emphasis is placed by authorities upon the importance of increasing the rate of farm production. Several inter-related factors are at work to accomplish that end. Increased taxes on farm property, decreased labor supply, higher labor costs, lower market prices, all tend, or should tend to cut down the cultivated acreage and intensify the rate of production on the remainder. Therefore credible evidence coming straight from farmers themselves and demonstrating the dependence of profits upon rate of production is especially interesting just now. According to the Ohio Extension Service, "Twenty-eight Scioto County farmers, who have been keeping books on their farms for the past five years find that yields to the acre and the quantity and kind of livestock kept, had more to do with profit and loss than any other factors.

The five best paying farms had averaged for the five-year period, five bushels of corn, three bushels of wheat, and 600 pounds of hay per acre more than the other 23 farms.

"They also fed their stock more liberally, showing an average feed cost per animal $11 higher than the other farms. It paid to do so. They recovered $150 on every $100 fed to livestock, as compared to an average recovery of $110 for all 28 farms."

The same was true of poultry. Whatever was grown on the farm, it paid and paid well to feed properly and liberally.

"Not greater total production but greater production to the acre, or the cow, or the hen was what made the profits. It cost about as much to feed a poor cow or hen, or to work a poor acre, and the per unit cost of the product in this case often ran so high as to exclude profit at present prices."

Letters to Santa

Ho, little folks! We have just made arrangements with good old Santa Claus to accept all letters from the little boys and girls of Newark and Community who know what they want him to bring them. Get your letter off today, addressed to "Santa Claus, care of The Newark Post," and we will see that the jolly old boy gets them without fail. He says to hurry them up, for he is quite rushed to death and doesn't want to miss anyone.

Newark, Del., Dec. 15, 1923.
Dear Santa Claus:

Please, Santa Claus, bring me a tool chest, a baseball set, a drum, a Bebe gun, a clarinet, an erector, some tablets and some pencils, and a big American flag, a sled and a pair of ice skates.

Good-bye.

Carl Wilkman.

Newark, Del., Dec. 15, 1923.
Dear Santa Claus:

Please bring me some of these things for Christmas: A farm wagon, a watch, a punching bag, popgun, tinker toy, a pair of ice skates. I want you to make everybody happy.

Good-bye.

Walter Wilkman.

Newark, Del., Dec. 17, 1923.
Dear Santa Claus:

Please bring my sister and me a doll's bed, bedroom slippers, sewing box, a doll's minny bottle, cake board and rolling pin, my dolls fixed up, some new things for the tree, some more lights for the tree. Do you think this is too much? Do not forget my little cousin George, Jr.'s home. My sister is 5 years old and I am 7. Do not forget the poor children. Good-bye. With lots of love and kisses.

Gladys and Emma Reck.

Newark, Del.

Dear Santa Claus:

I want you to bring me a blackboard, a toy sewing machine, a ring, a kimona and bedroom slippers, please. I hope you will bring me some candy, nuts and fruit, too. I forgot to tell you about the big teddy bear that I want. Please bring it too. Good-bye.

From your little friend,

Mary Katharine Buckingham, age 6 years.

P. S.—Please don't forget my little sister, Rebecca. She is too little to write a letter, but she wants a new doll, a merry-go-round, a teddy bear and a ring.

BOK PEACE PLAN INTERESTS DELAWARE

Parent-Teacher Association is preparing to take the referendum through its many branches all over the State.

At the meeting of the Delaware Branch of the Association of University Women, which was held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hugh M. Morris, that organization not only voted to take the referendum but will appoint a committee to help in the work being done at the office of the American Peace Award, 203 Equitable Building, which is in charge of Miss Jeannette Eckman.

Miss Eckman has received word from the National Committee on the Bok peace prize, that the mayors of one hundred and ten cities, (including Wilmington, Newark and Dover, Delaware, have already arranged for the appointment of special city committees to help conduct the referendum among the people at large.

In many communities luncheons and meetings are being arranged at which the winning plan will be read and discussed. It will then be voted upon and the ballots will be collected by the secretary of the meeting and forwarded to the American Peace Award.

Any local organization desiring copies of the peace plan, when it is announced, and ballots for taking a "yes" or "no" vote, can secure these through the office in the Equitable Building, Wilmington, phone 1471, and the referendum vote, which is to be on ballots signed by the individual members of the organizations, can be taken at meetings of the organizations any time during January; or the officers of the organization may mail a copy of the peace plan and a ballot to each member, urging that he or she express an opinion "for" or "against" the prize-winning plan. The latter method will be much more effective in securing a 100 per cent vote from the membership of any organization.

It is obvious, of course, that there will be some duplication in getting out the ballots. This is inevitable; the committee in charge of the award, however, has made extensive arrangements to see that when the ballots are returned to the Peace Award office—as they will be in every case, either by the individual signer or in bulk from local committees—all duplicates will be removed so that the result will be an authentic record of public opinion.

Miss Eckman, who is the Delaware secretary of the American Peace Award, is following up by personal visits to the officers of the various state and local organizations, the communications which they have already received from the National Peace Award or from the officers of the national organizations with which they are associated, as it is necessary to know, as soon as possible, how many ballot and copies of the peace plan should be printed.

With the holiday season at its height this week, the Elkton merchants are having their hands full handling the big Christmas trade. The stores never presented more attractive displays, both inside and out. Particularly pretty are the windows of J. J. Minster and Son, Jewelers; Lipman's Department Store; Wells' Drug Store; Jeffers' and Singman's Clothing Store, with their new windows in place.

The Christmas tree celebration and the visit of Old Santa are certainties now, and the committee, headed by William Feehly, is getting everything ready for a big Christmas. Candy in boxes will be distributed from the base of the lighted tree on Christmas eve by none other than his august Highness, Old Kris.

Although, as has been the case in many nearby towns, the early Christmas trade has been light, this week saw the beginning of the great last minute rush, which will tax the facilities of the stores to the greatest extent.

Roll Up 63-5 Score on Down Staters; Girls Win, Too

The opening game of the 1923-24 basketball season at the High School saw an overwhelming victory scored by Joe Wilson's team over Frederica High School in the Armory Friday evening last. The score was 63-5. At no time was the game even close, and the Newark team, composed chiefly of football players, ran ends and plunged the line for many baskets.

The girls' team, in their first game as a unit, also won handily, defeating the Frederica girls by the score of 39-24. Miss Burkholder, in charge of coaching the girls, presented a clever team, and their work during the season will be of interest to all. The girls who played Friday were: Misses Lewis, Frazer, Robinson, Hossinger, Shaw and Vinsinger.

Note.—Personal letters of explanation are now being sent to unsuccessful candidates for the "Varsity." Mr. Spivus tells in detail in the appended article, how he came to make these choices.

To The Conductor:

Your letter received this date, and would say in reply that I have been thinking about the same thing you have and that your asking me to pick an "all Newark" football team came as no surprise. I have been quite interested in the great Fall game of Mayhem and Manslaughter, and ever since I have been living at Cooch's Bridge, I have seen one or more games each season. This fellow Mr. Lardner, who says he has seen all the games in all the countries this season just ain't telling the truth. Just because I'm from the wilds and bushes, them smart alecks can't fool me like they fools a lot of readers. It makes me to laugh when I read such trifling stuff.

Now I have never seen the above team in action, Mr. Editor, and you can't blame me for any mistakes they may make, but on paper they are absolutely bomb-proof. The worst trouble with this team is the fact that there ain't any other team what would risk playing them.

An Inspiring Line

From end to end, my All Newark line combines what I believe to be the utmost grace, spirit, de-corpora and natural ability. Just take for inst, Clarence Dean at end. Clarence, while not a savage tackler is a whirlwind with a meat chopper. His opponent, I figure, will always be watching Clarence's right hand for fear a cleaver will suddenly appear in it, and while that's going on, Clarence can go through him left-handed.

But my prize player on the line, who just gave his consent yesterday, is A. and P. Ford. He is playing center, he used to play quarterback on the Tacony Kindergarteners, but continued visits to the oyster cracker barrel in recent years has done its cruel work. Anyway, Ford takes up a lot of room and although he uses a compass to pass the ball, he makes up for that when he fiercely twirls his forthcoming mustache and looks daggers at his trembling opponent. Honest Injun, this fellow Ford is a ragin terror when he gets hungry. I would keep him starved until game time, then dangle an oyster cracker in front of him for five minutes, before the kick-off.

Irvin Dayett is my choice for a guard. He comes from my own ward and he can always be depended upon for to get us out of any little hole we fall into. Leastways, if the sleddin gets too rough, all he has to do is get behind Ford and he's as safe as a bootlegger twelve miles out.

Doggone! I ain't quit congratulating myself on my choice for right end and right tackle. Earl Dougherty and Frank Fader is a ideal pair. In the first place, when they is backed up against their own goal line, Earl starts talkin' to Frank about the Weekly Purchase plan. The other team gets so interested as to how 5 doll. can maybe get them a Ford, that they forget all their signals and listen to these two boys. The referee then takes the ball away from them for stallin. What do you think of that, Mr. Motorman. And besides, Frank always keeps a Ford runnin' on the sidelines in cases Jim Hastings throws a pass; Frank just takes the ball, hops in the Ford and flivers over for a touchdown. I'm just tickled with these two boys. Dan Stoll and Sol Wilson makes up the rest of the line. Dan just can't help keepin some of the lead pipe on him, and if the going gets rough, Dan happens to think of the pipe, and well—that is only used in emergencies, you know. The only reason Sol is on the team is because he asked me to let him on. I told him that if he'd promise not to try and sell a suit to his opponent during the game I'd let him play. Sol's not the best of shape, however, as he is just recovering from a $23.00 shock.

The Lightning Backfield

And now we comes, as they say in them museums, to the Lightning backfield of Newark All World, Inc. Anybody that don't think this here backfield ain't able to function is a durned fogey. The very thought of the trouble these fellers will make, fills me with unholy joy.

First there is Tiny Lewis, the 300-pound open field runner. Tiny is my triple threat. All the big coaches in the country advised me to put him at fullback, but I fooled em. When we has the ball, everybody will think Tiny will carry it. But here's the trick. Tiny calls the signals between chews, and when he gets the ball, he gives it to Jim Hastings. Jim, not knowing where to go, just follows Tiny around. After leadin' him around by the sidelines to see if the crowd is back far enough, Tiny makes a sudden gallop for the goal. Jim gallops too, and the rest is history. In the meantime, the other team is makin faces at the gate keeper, thinkin' he is hiding Jim. What you can't see you can't tackle you know.

With this pair working together, we ought to score two or three touchdowns right off the reel. Of course we has signals for everything and even I can't remember all of them. But her's one which we would like to use against Bear Station A. A.

It's called the "Formation A Right All The Way Over" and is sometimes used in our best theaters. The signal is—Right—C 1 and 2.

The ball comes by compass from Ford to Nathan Motherall. Nathan wraps the ball up in paper and ties a string to it, and then starts runnin' around the end. Of course, some of the opposin team won't be fooled, and they'll run after Nathan. When he sees them going to tackle him, Nathan stops quick and tells them they should ought to be ashamed of themselves for waylaying an old man goin' home with the groceries. So he points to Pearce Cann circling the other end with his brief case in his hand. Nathan sics the opponents on Pearce, telling them that he has a payroll in that there bag. So while the whole team is chasin Pearce, Nathan scampers over the goal, unties the ball, and keeps the paper to take home to the store with him. They never catch Pearce, because he jumps the fence, and any how in case they would catch him, he has one of them injunctions all made out what would restrain them from laying hands on him. You see the whole system of plays is fool proof. The only thing that could stop us from winnin' would be a thunderstorm, a murder in town, or that some body would forget to feed Ford his quarterly ration of oyster crackers.

I would be manager of the team, since I went to all the trouble of getting the players. I have a name for it what is a trifle long but maybe the Craftsmen at Mr. Kell's place might cut her down a leetle bit. The name is as follows, viz:

I just thought of this as a pretty neat letterhead effect. Can I have half a dozen by New Years?

Well that is about all for this time. I hope to hear some reviews in the big papers about this team. I asked Tom Green what would be some other good papers to send the team to, and he said "Send it to The Police Gazette

ISN'T IT FUN?

We would like to write a serious, scholarly editorial on Christmas. But we can't do it for two reasons: first, everybody knows what Christmas means, is and ought to be, and second, we haven't finished our Christmas shopping.

And speaking of shopping, and gazing open mouthed at the wonderful things in the stores, and watching the children telling Santa with the all-abiding faith and beauty of purpose what they would like to see under "the tree" in the morning, doggoned if we don't just feel like buying an electric train and a "coon jigger" and having a Christmas all by ourselves.

If there is one time in the year when Dyspeptics, Grouches, "I Told You So's," Pessimists, and Mud Slingers get back in the rear of the hall and crawl under a bench it is at Christmas time. They bob up again like celluloid ducks later on, but for one blessed week we are rid of them. Every small town has them, every community has them, but here's the time to slap them on the back with a "Merry Christmas" and then laugh at them squirming.

Let's have a Santa Claus in every home; let's keep the kids happy, let's forget our differences, let's throw away the dyspepsia tablets, and above all, let's thank God that, whatever the world has done or is about to do, we still have Christmas.

A REAL CHRISTMAS PRESENT

Wonder what the eight Delaware boys away off in France will say when word reaches them that they are to be given a great big Christmas dinner and show as guests of the "boys back home."

That very thing was assured yesterday morning, when the students here raised in five minutes sufficient money to give the Foreign Study group, including Prof. Kirkbride, a Christmas party which they will not forget in a long time.

Those boys are Delaware boys; and there is no State in the Union to which Christmas means more than to Delaware. Down in the little towns in Kent and Sussex, this holiday and the week following is the scene of homecomings, parties, dances, big dinners that only Delaware and Eastern Shore cooks can prepare, and a general glorious time. On Saturday next the boys here leave for that good time. But over in Paris, there's not much doing for the Delaware boys. Just the same place, and the day only brings back memories of good old "Down State."

Now, thanks to the good old spirit of the boys under the lindens at Old College, the Foreign Students are going to have a Christmas dinner with all the fixins and a show in the evening. When you think of the joy and the fun of giving like that, there is no wonder we are all "broke" when January rolls around. Again, "Delaware does not forget."

DELAWARE SCHOOL FACTS

State Board of Education Sends Out a Broadcast On the School Situation

Delaware stands seventh in income per child and 35th in expenditure per child for public education.

If Delaware had stood in education in 1918 where she stood in 1922, she would have been in the third place in the list of the states instead of the 33rd place.

The people of Delaware spend less than 1.5c of each dollar of their income for public education. Is this too much. Seventeen of our sister states spend over 2c.

Delaware spend about $1,500,000 a year for automobile tires on which to and the Ladies' Home Journal. Is them papers all right, Mr. Editor?

Yrs. In Sport, etc.,

JOE SPIVUS.

P. S. NOTE—I certainly will miss Tom Green when he moves to Newark. Tom and I never could get in the same boat without fightin, cause we ain't together politically. However, them fellers in town will spoil anybody; they too many dyspeptics and not enough go-getters in Newark. Tom should ought to say here cause it's hard to catch niggers in the wood pile or in the cornfield when the houses is so close together.—Spiv.

ANOTHER NOTE—Just got a telegram from a Mr. Coolidge, who says he wants me to be a prohibition agent in this county. Say who's this here Coolidge person anyways, and what's he got to do with appointments. I ain't never heard of him, though I aims to be pretty well read up in Politics.—Spiv.

run her $14,000,000 worth of automobiles. Is $2,500,000 too much to spend for schools?

It is as important that every teacher in the state should be trained for her work as it is that every lawyer, every doctor, every dentist, every druggist and every veterinary should be trained for his work.

Delaware has nearly 100 people acting as teachers on provisional certificates, and about 10 to whom not even provisional certificates can be issued because of lack of qualifications. There is no colored school in the State with a teacher with a provisional certificate. The only remedy is more adequate pay.

No school system that fails to take notice of the health of the school does for him what should be done. Good health should be one of the products of right education. Every state department should have a Director of Health, or Physical Education. Lack of funds in Delaware makes it impossible. For how long?

Schools are kept open in Delaware 180 days each year, yet the average attendance for each child is only 137.5 days. There is enough loss, if it could be used, to build 4 twenty-room schools in the state each year. Ought not public sentiment to stand back of the compulsory attendance law?

No section of the state can make the best progress without a good school building. Every community can have just as good a school as it really wants.

PLAYHOUSE

David Belasco has declared "The Clinging Vine," Zelda Sears' delightful play with music, one of the six best plays he saw last season and the best musical comedy. Charles M. Schwab enjoyed it so much that, voluntarily, he wrote the following letter to Henry W. Savage, its producer:

"My dear Mr. Savage:

I thoroughly enjoyed 'The Clinging Vine' with its brilliant lines by Zelda Sears and delightful performance by Peggy Wood. It was refreshing to find every member of the company entering perfectly into the spirit of the entertainment.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) Charles M. Schwab."

And these are only two of many samples of the enthusiastic praise bestowed upon this delightful musical comedy. Theatregoers of this city will see this same company, headed by Miss Wood, when it plays at the Playhouse, Wilmington, on Christmas Day and the following Wednesday.

Gifts That Win Approval

Men appreciate something to wear more than anything else you may choose. There never was one yet who failed to wear a useful Christmas gift.

This store handles only the best in men's wear. That, however, does not mean the prices are high. On the contrary, they are lower than in most city stores.
