Mr. Moffat:

There is transmitted herewith a translation of a memorandum in German which I have received from a friend abroad. He informs me that the memorandum was prepared by a German who before the National Socialist Government in Germany occupied a very prominent position in the German press. He brought this memorandum to the attention of my friend who is a well known American in Europe, in the belief that the memorandum draws attention to the menace implied in National Socialism for the world at large and for the United States in particular.
