Eden Square entrance changes

Route 1 drivers affected on ramp

By CHRISTINE E. SERIO

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Motorists are now faced with changes in traffic patterns as well as several lanes of vehicles when approaching Eden Square Shopping Center from southbound Route 1.

Motorists coming from southbound Route 1 onto Route 40 now stay in the left lane on the exit ramp if they wish to enter the Eden Square Shopping Center.

At the bottom of the ramp they will turn at the traffic signal and cross Route 40 into the new left turn lane into the shopping center.

Medians will stop drivers in the right hand lane of the ramp from accessing the left turn lanes into the shopping center.

"The new traffic patterns have been created to eliminate vehicles weaving across Route 40 to try to get into Eden Square," said Janay Austin of the Delaware Department of Transportation.

Some merchants in the shopping center are not sure how the new traffic patterns will affect them. Lowes manager Scott Edinger hopes that the "easier traffic patterns" will draw more customers.

"I don't think it will affect my customers too much because a lot of my business is mail order business," Ken Clifton of Treasured Teddys said. "I just have to make sure that customers traveling long distances are aware of the changes."

The traffic pattern changes are part of the Route 40 Steering Committee improvement plan. The changes fall under phase one of the plan which includes improvements to be done between 2000-2007.

"The improvements in the access to Eden Square Shopping Center are a great way to show people that improvements to Rt. 40 have begun and will continue," Austin said.

Will run for turkeys

Wilson Elementary School in Newark held its ninth annual Turkey Trot over a quarter mile track at the school last week. Nearly 600 students took part in the aerobic competition started in 1991 by physical education teacher Diane Scobey, who has been at Wilson for 32 years. The first three finishers in each heat receive a candy medal. The event is capped off with a raffle for 14 frozen turkeys.

Decaying sites could be repaired

City will do work and put lien on the property

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

With the help of a new ordinance passed by city council at their last regular meeting, Newark residents hope to avoid the rundown appearance, and resulting loss in nearby property values, of some local vacant structures in the future.

"We have had court cases where a judge has questioned whether our Property Maintenance Code should apply to a vacant building," said city building director Junie Mayle. "Even when we win in court, sometimes the judge's orders are ignored or the owners cannot be found to effect repairs."

Mayle pointed to the former Continental Fibre/DelChapel Associates site on South Chapel Street as an example of the problems caused by inadequately maintained vacant properties in Newark.

Empty for almost two decades, the contaminated and decaying industrial site was a continual eyesore to local residents and city officials. Even court orders did not result in cleanup.

Following purchase and development by Ambling Corporation, the property now has been reborn as a student housing complex.

"This ordinance will allow us to proceed with repairs instead of waiting until all the legal proceedings are finished," explained Mayle.

The new ordinance, which is similar to a state statute already in effect, allows the city to take abatement action as well as legal measures, or both. "It also clearly spells out that our code applies to vacant structures," said Mayle. "We have had cases go all the way to the Delaware Supreme Court with no repairs made while the process is underway."

The new ordinance was the result of inquiries by District 5 councilmember Frank Osborne. "Councilmember Osborne expressed concern about the conditions of a few properties in his

Delaware needs many more transit riders

DTC officials hope to have long range plan in place by 2025

By KATY CIAMARICONE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Delaware Transit Corporation officials gathered community input during a local open house Thursday, Nov. 16, in hopes of beginning the blueprint for the future of Delaware public transportation.

Noting this was the 30th public meeting of its kind this year, DTC executive director Raymond Miller said transit officials need public guidance to formulate a Long-Range Transit Plan they hope to "get off the curb" by 2025.

Key issues of concern at the meeting held in Clayton Hall on the University of Delaware campus included air quality, land use, traffic congestion in Newark, public relations and a possible monorail.

Peter J. Denitz, a planner for Parsons Brinkerhoff Quade and Douglas Inc. which is helping DTC establish these long-term goals, said achieving conformity with air quality standards over the next 25 years is crucial to the lives of Delawareans.

"Increased ridership on trains and buses is pertinent in reducing automobile emissions that cause cancer, emphysema and other serious health problems," Denitz said. "Seriousness is reflected in WILMAPCO (Wilmington Area Planning Council) projections that transit ridership would need to increase by 500 percent."

Many of those at the meeting agreed that despite Delaware's high cancer rate and ever-increasing congestion, convincing the public to get out of their cars and get into using public transportation will not be a walk down easy street, especially in Newark.

Thousands of college students are in Newark nine months a year - lots of them driving single-passenger vehicles - and this makes for ever-increasing congestion.

"Route 273 is now as fast as Route 1," said one Newark resident. "You have people who used to ignore 273...now they take it all the way down and it spits them all right off onto Main Street. (But) Main Street is no bigger than it ever was."

Some attendees suggested making the transit system more user-friendly.

"A lot of people don't understand buses," said Bruce Diehl, a Fairfield resident. "You need to make people aware of how they operate."

Diehl recently championed the fight to retain Route 16 into the Newark area when DART was reviewing changes in bus schedules statewide.

Miller said a feature that will probably help reduce rider confusion is the switchboards that they plan to install at certain bus stops in the area within the next year or two.

"The board would tell riders exactly when the next bus is scheduled to arrive at that stop and when it will be departing for the next one," Miller said.

One potential switchboard site is the Main Street Galleria, according to Miller.

Other suggestions from residents included doing away with the two-zone ticket. "We're looking at simplifying our fare structure," Miller responded.

Miller said possible changes included designating a lane only for buses on Interstate 95, and convincing local

Rodel Inc gives Newark Charter School a good start

School seeking $650,000 in private donations during initial capital campaign

The Newark Charter School, which is scheduled to open in September 2001, recently received a $7,500 contribution from Rodel, Inc. to help purchase equipment for a science classroom.

The corporate contribution is part of the "Building the Future" capital campaign, established by founding board members of the charter school.

School director Gregory Meece said they hope to raise $650,000 from private funds that would help pay initial costs for outfitting the school with furniture, equipment and educational resources.

Boardmembers have not found a location for the school, yet, but they must do so by December if they are to open for next school year.

Founding boardmembers include parent Joan Pierson, Mayor Hal Godwin, State Representative Timothy Boulden (R-Newark) and Anthony Wexler, a professor at the University of Delaware.

Officials expect to serve approximately 400 students in grades five through eight next year. More than 1,200 students have already expressed interest in the school, Meece said.

The school theme is "Emphasizing Excellence in Academics and Decorum," and its mission is to provide a rigorous academic curriculum that promotes high levels of student effort and achievement.

The Newark Charter School is providing donors with recognition opportunities whereby designated areas of the school can be sponsored.

Donors of $5,000 can sponsor one regular classroom, donors of $7,500 can sponsor a science or art classroom, donors of $30,000 can sponsor the gymnasium and donors of $75,000 can sponsor the computer lab, Meece said.

"We are delighted that a company like Rodel stepped up to help kick-off our fund raising efforts," Meece said. "I believe more corporations, foundations, and individuals will want to become involved."

Rodel Inc. produces integrated materials for the microelectronics industry. The company establishes polishing technology for semiconductors, silicon wafers and storage media substrates.

It is part of the Rohm and Haas Electronics Materials Group. There are Rodel operations all over the United States, Asia and Europe, with a global business headquarters in Phoenix, Ariz. and a Materials Development Center in Newark.

For more donor information, contact Gregory Meece at 651-2727 or e-mail him at grmeece@yahoo.com.

district that were closed off as "unsuitable for occupation," said city manager Carl Luft in a report to city council. "The conditions of these properties continue to deteriorate and Frank asked if there is anything the city could do to improve the conditions of such properties through repairs, etc."

The new ordinance requires that the owner of the vacant property first be given an opportunity to provide the city with a "written plan or proposal" for improvement in the physical appearance of the property.

If the city does not believe the plan will "substantially reduce or eliminate" the blighting problem caused on surrounding property values by its appearance, city officials can hire a contractor to do remedial work and file a lien against the property for the cost.

"I've been promoting this ordinance - it's really going to be a big improvement," said District 5 resident Bruce Diehl. "A lot of homeowners know how to push the city government, so (the property owners) don't do anything until they have to."

Mayle said one property in District 5 which would be affected by this ordinance has been vacant since 1981. "Properties like this, ones damaged by fire, for example, could be repaired if the insurance company would stop dragging their feet."

"Now, if the situation goes on for more than five or six months, the city can step in and do the work, put a lien on the property and force a sale."

legislators that public transportation is worth some financial investment.

State Senator Anthony DeLuca (D-Varlano) had an idea that some agreed just might be the answer for public transportation over the next quarter century.

"If you ask me what I want to see 20 to 30 years into the future," DeLuca said, "I want to see monorails that go to free park and rides that go to hubs from the north all the way down to the southernmost part of the state."

"I know it will be very expensive, but if we're not looking to spend a lot of money, we're not going to accomplish anything."

FOR THE RECORD

Property tax rates in Newark will increase by three cents from the current rate of 39 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to 42 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. This increase was described incorrectly in the Newark Post on Nov. 17.

UD student critical after choking while eating a live fish

A 22-year-old University of Delaware student remained in critical condition on Monday at the Christiana Hospital, where he was taken on Sunday, Nov. 19, after reportedly choking on a "live" fish eaten as a prank.

Emergency Medical Services transported Glenn Feaster from a residence at East Park Place in Newark to the hospital around 11:30 p.m. Sunday.

According to Sgt. Gerald Simpson of the Newark Police Department, officers responded to the scene and found the victim lying unconsciously on the front porch, apparently choking on the fish. They began resuscitative efforts while waiting for the paramedic and ambulance personnel to arrive. Upon arrival of emergency personnel, the fish was dislodged from the victim's airway.

As of press time, the incident remained under investigation, but preliminary information revealed that alcohol intoxication might have been a factor in this incident.

Police seek suspect in MAC scams

Newark Police Department officials are broadcasting a crime alert for Shawn Dagg, who is currently wanted on outstanding criminal charges and continuing to commit these crimes in the cash area.

Dagg, also known as John Thompson, is described as a 20-year-old white male with brown hair and blue eyes, weighing 160 pounds and about 6 feet, 1 inch tall.

According to Newark Police, Dagg approaches people at ATMs, specifically in the University of Delaware campus area, and requests them to cash a personal check.

He tells the person that he has either lost his MAC card or that the A T M machine has "ate it" and he needs to get a check cashed. The checks are made out in his name and are normally in the amount of $200.

Dagg requests the unwitting subject to deposit the check into their account and then give him cash in that amount.

A week or two later, the subject learns from his or her banking institution that the check deposited into their institution that the check deposited into their account in the name of Shawn Dagg was stolen and the information contained on it was forged. To date there are seven incidents known to the Newark Police Department, and more cases are expected.

The Newark Police Department requests that citizens use caution and common sense when asked by an unknown person to cash a check. Anyone who suspects that they may have been a victim of this type of incident should contact the Newark Police Department at 366-7111. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Shawn Dagg should contact their local police department.

Three arrested for middle school assault incident

Delaware State Police arrested Cameron Butler-Langford, 19, of Newark, his 14-year-old brother, and a 16-year-old Glasgow student for assaulting an eighth grade student at Kirk Middle School.

The assault happened on Oct. 20 when the three suspects confronted the 13-year-old male victim as he was leaving Kirk Middle School, which is located on Brennan Drive in Newark.

The victim and the 14-year-old, who are both students at the school, had an argument several weeks prior to the assault.

The incident escalated when the 14-year-old brought his brother and 16-year-old friend to the school. The three of them attacked the victim when he left the school.

The victim was taken to the A. I. DuPont Hospital where he was treated for a concussion and lacerations to the head.

Troopers arrested the trio Nov. 9 and charged all three with assault and conspiracy. Butler-Langford and the 16-year-old Glasgow student were also charged with criminal trespass.

University of Delaware student possibly assaulted

A University of Delaware student was taken to the Christiana Hospital Nov. 7 after she woke up in a strange room, undressed and bleeding.

The victim had attended an evening of parties with her friends and acquaintances the evening before. She had several drinks, both at an apartment and at a bar the group visited. At approximately 4 a.m., the victim awoke and had no idea where she was or how she got there.

The victim located her clothes and was getting dressed when an unknown male knocked on the door and offered to take her home. The victim opened the door and ran out of the house without looking at the man.

She did not know where she was, but continued running until she got to Elkton Road and was able to identify her surroundings. She went to her dorm room in the Rodney Complex and her roommate let her in.

Later in the day, the victim told her friends what had happened. They took her to the infirmary at the university, and officials then sent her to the Christiana Hospital where she also was seen by a Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner. There are no suspects or witnesses. Detectives are conducting an investigation into the incident.

Dance Studio Operator Arrested for Exploiting Patron

John C. Carpenter, 58, of the 2300 Block of West Newport Pike, was arrested Nov. 9 on charges of Exploitation of an Infirm Adult and Theft, according to the Department of Justice.

Carpenter is the former operator of Dance Partners, a dance studio on Kirkwood Highway. At the time of his arrest, he was operating the Stanton Ballroom on West Newport Pike. Edward Hazewski, the department's Elder Abuse Investigator, said the victim is a 77-year-old woman who befriended Carpenter and was a client at the Dance Partners studio between January, 1995 and June, 1998, during which time she reportedly gave Carpenter approximately $50,000.

The woman was living on her own during this time, while family members became increasingly concerned about money the woman was spending to support Carpenter and his business. She was also showing evidence of short-term memory problems, and has since been moved to a long term care facility.

Carpenter was taken to the New Castle County Police Headquarters and held pending arraignment at Justice of the Peace Court 18.

"We continue to work hard to assure that those who victimize senior citizens are held accountable for their offenses," said M. Jane Brady, Attorney General. "Anyone with information about abuse or financial exploitation of any senior should never hesitate to contact my office."

Methodist pastor retiring from longtime assignment

Leading large congregation similar to running a million-dollar corporation

By KATY CIAMARICONE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Cliff Armor, a prominent figure in the Newark community, will retire his pastoral position at the Newark United Methodist Church on Main Street next month after 37 years of religious service.

Armor said he wants to spend more time with his family, including his wife, Jeanette, and their son.

"And I have a new grandson, now," he said. "I love to travel - I plan to do all the things I love in life."

Armor, a Pennsylvania native who now lives in Newark, said he first began serving at Newark United Methodist in 1984.

Sixteen years is an unusually long time for a Methodist pastor to spend in one location, Armor said, because pastors are generally itinerant - meaning they cover a circuit, moving to a different church every four to six years.

Newark's Main Street will not be part of the everyday view much longer for Rev. Cliff Armor, pastor at Newark United Methodist Church since 1984.

But, Armor said he has remained at Newark United Methodist for so long because the congregation is the largest in the annual conference and one of the largest in the Northeast jurisdiction.

Armor said a normal work routine includes leading three worship services every Sunday and dividing the rest of his time between his pastoral, or people-related, and administrative responsibilities.

"It's kind of like running a major business with almost a million dollar budget," he explained.

In order to become a pastor in the Methodist religion, one must complete seven years of higher education.

After graduating from Duke University, Armor attended seminary school and then was admitted to the Peninsula Annual Delaware Conference.

Armor, who is now 59, said he decided to become a preacher when he was 22 years old.

"God just called me to the role," he said.

There is no word yet as to who will replace him, but Armor will lead his final worship service Dec. 24.

Former borrow pit turned into recreational area

Special to the Newark Post

After almost a year of community meetings, New Castle County Council passed an ordinance allowing the landowner of a borrow pit to redevelop a site for use as a regional recreation center near New Castle.

According to councilmember J. Christopher Roberts who drafted the ordinance, the landowner requested that county council allow him to redevelop the large exhausted area of the borrow pit into a recreational area for all-terrain vehicles, paint ball, skateboarding, batting cages, miniature golf, mini go-cart track and snowmobiling.

An ordinance passed on Oct. 24, rezoned the area for the above type of extracurricular use. Now, such recreational activities are legal at the site, a 100-acre site on the Bear property along Hamburg Road between Federal School Road and Route 13.

Roberts said the ordinance was not without critics in the beginning. "Neighbors were concerned about the resulting noise and traffic at and around the recreational center," he said. "In order to address those concerns, the developer of the site has agreed to a traffic pattern suggested by the community and has agreed to keep the noise level down to an acceptable level through the site design."

Hours of operation and lighting were also points of discussion and agreement. "In the end, the community felt much more comfortable," Roberts said.

Sharon Hughes, a legislative representative, said people seem a lot more comfortable with the situation now.

"They actually seem pretty excited about it," she said.

WINTERFEST NEXT WEEK

Roasting chestnuts, carolers, and ice carving demonstrations will be among the fun events planned for the whole family in Newark's downtown on Friday, Dec 1. The city's annual Winterfest running from 6 to 9 p.m. will culminate with a tree lighting at Main and Academy streets.

The Newark Area Welfare Committee is asking for monetary donations as well as of canned goods and new and unused toys to help brighten the holidays for area families.

Rain date is Saturday, Dec. 2. In case of inclement weather, call the Newark Parks and Recreation Hotline at 366-7147. For more information about the event, call 366-7060.

Thanksgiving no time to be carefree

As we approach press deadline before the holiday, transportation officials are warning this year could bring the heaviest travel by land and air in Thanksgiving history.

This means fatigued, stressed and harried travelers are going to have to exercise here-to-before unknown amounts of patience coming and going to their holiday revels.

State police nationwide have already launched enhanced traffic watches and warned travelers that they are looking for alcohol impaired drivers in particular.

Anecdotal stories report that the Wednesday before Thanksgiving is the biggest "bar night" of the year — surprising those who might have thought it was New Year's Eve or St. Patrick's Day.

This only adds to the sad trend of deadly accidents in the late evening and early morning hours on highways as families make marathon and exhausting efforts to reach relatives in time for turkey dinners.

Winter weather forecasts could add more fun to the frolicking as snow and slippery roads return for the first time since last February.

And this could all occur before the first turkey is carved. The other side of the mountain is just as festive.

A few years ago, travelers at Baltimore International Airport reported seeing a man take a golf club out of a golf bag and shatter the windshield of an automobile blocking the way for his vehicle outside the baggage claim area.

Meanwhile, planes continued to arrive at the hub airport, even though it was 1 a.m. on the Sunday after Thanksgiving. Refreshed and energized by four whole days away from the rat race, the travelers were making their way home when real life broke out. It was not a Hallmark moment.

Have a happy Thanksgiving, don't overdo it — and be careful out there.

Q. Has the Superintendent prohibited all grouping within the school district?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. What kind of grouping is permitted or being encouraged?

A. Teachers have been encouraged to use flexible skills grouping, which means organizing students of different skill levels within a classroom and working with other teachers to address the skill needs of their students.

Q. Has the Superintendent required that all students be taught in the same way in heterogeneous (mixed-skill level) classes?

A. No. In fact, teachers have been encouraged to use different teaching methods for students working at different skill levels through approaches such as Balanced Literacy programs like Four Blocks and Trailblazers, Connected Math, and the Smithsonian

Students, depending on their skills, should be working on different activities on different days of the week.

Q. Is Christina only concerned with improving the academic achievement of average and low achieving students?

A. No. All schools are encouraged to provide training to teachers in techniques that challenge high achieving students. Standards-based approaches like Smithsonian, Trailblazers, TERC and Connected Math have many activities built in them designed to challenge talented and high achieving students.

I have invited a number of parents concerned with the challenges being offered to their children to first talk with their teacher and principal and then, if necessary, to call me directly.

Q. Is the Superintendent advocating the elimination of challenging courses for students?

A. Definitely not. In fact these opportunities have been expanded. High schools continue to offer college preparatory, honors and Advanced Placement (AP) courses. In 1998, Christina high schools offered an average of one to three AP courses.

This year, they offer an average of seven to nine. Our middle schools offer algebra and geometry, Spanish and French for high school credit.

Steps are being taken to provide opportunities for dual enrollment in college courses which enable high school students to gain both college and high school credit.

Q. Is it true that the Superintendent does not believe in programs for talented and gifted students?

A. Quite the contrary. We have maintained the current Excel program while seeking funds to expand programs for talented and gifted students.

A District Talented and Gifted Task Force is meeting to recommend expansion of T & G programs into new content areas such as science, extra holiday money.

November 22, 1978 UAW up in arms over hunting ban

Charging "discrimination against hunters," the United Auto Workers (UAW) are protesting new regulations, prohibiting the use of firearms for raccoon hunting in Walter S. Carpenter State Park.

The regulations, which went into effect Nov. 2, restrict raccoon hunters to chasing their game with dogs. "Raccoon hunting with firearms — it's asinine," said UAW member Donald Sharpe. Residents in the area, particularly those of nearby Bristol Knoll, had signed a petition expressing concern about the safety of hunting in the park.

Will school board mean higher taxes?

"Equitable" was the word of the hour at a joint press conference of the New Castle County School Board and the teachers association Monday afternoon at the Brandywine Hilton Hotel.

The settlement does generate an "equitable contract" for each employee in the district, said New Castle County Education Association president Michael Epler, adding it has given teachers a strong contract with protection to overcome insurmountable problems. School board president Gilbert Scarborough Jr. assured, however, that taxpayers will not bear the brunt of the salary increase.

November 24, 1995 Builder hopes for zoning approval

Gregory Pettinaro, who has already owned the property at the intersection of Route 40 and Lebanon Church Road in Bear for seven years, told a crowded room of Bear-Glasgow civic leaders, "If I don't get the rezoning for Queensbury Village at this time, I'll wait three years and come back again."

Pettinaro has previously presented failed plans for a gravel pit and a complex of apartments, townhomes and office space on the 148-acre site. The latest plan proposed rezoning for 160 single-family homes.

November 25, 1925 Deal held up by discovery of old deed

The discovery of an old deed and a resultant tangle between the parties concerned has held up the purchase by Maxwell O. Hammond of Wilmington of the Richards property on Main Street, near Choate. Since the announcement that Mr. Hammond intended buying the property with a view to erecting a new garage and auto sales agency, many towspeople have been inquiring as to reasons why no further move was taken. It appears that Mr. Hammond contracted to purchase the property fronting 128 feet on Main Street. Since that time, an old deed recorded at the time the dwelling was known as the Haines property has been found...which shows Mr. Hammond is only entitled to 83 feet of Main Street frontage.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

From: Ruth Kelly

I agree that the votes should be recounted in Florida. Moreover, if it were up to me I'd have another national election just between Gore and Bush.

I worked the polls as an election officer and was stunned by the number of voters who turned out. I've only worked school board elections and we were lucky if we had a total of 30 voters come out, which made for a grueling, long and boring day.

In Delaware, we had a pretty simple, straightforward machine ballot; yet many voters had to be assisted because they did not know what to do.

One voter asked where the pen was to mark the "x" on the ballot to cast his vote. The ballot in Florida was definitely confusing and I'm not surprised voters had trouble simply by what I experienced here.

One last comment is to share my pride in the black voter turnout. Folks seem to be overlooking the fact that our turnout definitely had a powerful impact on this election. I was swelled with pride as we came out in vast numbers.

Voting is a right that I feel compelled to exercise, always remembering that many died for me to have this right to have my vote heard.

From: William McMurray
Bear

I've lived in Bear 11 years.

When I first drove down Route 40 16 years ago there were only five stoplights from the Maryland state line to the 13/40 split. Since then we've had unimpeded growth that threatens our quality of life. I love this land, this area called Bear. I hate the sprawl. I love the view from my front door and I want to keep it that way.

We can't wait four years. Now is the critical time to slow the creep of sprawl and congestion. I propose a five-year moratorium on any new development between 95 and the canal.

This moratorium is needed for two reasons. First, our uncontained growth is mushrooming far too quickly from New Castle to Glasgow. We've reached a saturation level that overwhelms our infrastructure and threatens our quality of life. The proposed moratorium permits us the much needed upgrading of our highways' intersections, sewer systems, water supply and flood control systems to meet future needs.

It seems we are always working to catch up to our never-ending, rampant development. For example, our highway improvements of today were designed based upon our needs of five years ago. Yet, consider how many new homes you have seen built in the last five years? The moratorium helps us keep Route 40 from becoming another 202 Concord Pike.

Secondly, this moratorium allows us to redefine public decisionmaking. Most people know little about the backroom decisionmaking and voting records of the County Council - unless a scandal rocks our local scene. Too few people vote their heart and minds in local elections.

Our neighbors to the north along 202 and Kirkwood highway fought big development and lost - now look at their area. Those good citizens tried to work within the system, forming community associations, meeting with elected officials, and voicing their opinions. What happened? Again, politicians voted for the money and the real power of the developers. The developers could make or break an elected official. We need to build a stronger voice for residents to shape the future of the Route 40 corridor.

Referendums are a tool to reform this process. The proposed moratorium buys us the time to refine and implement a referendum process. The question is this: Should citizens whose property value is directly affected by the quality of life in our neighborhoods, be allowed through referendum to determine development? Should you have a say whether you want a grove of trees behind your fence or a Kohl's department store loading dock, with trucks backing up to the dock at 4 a.m.?

It's with local and state elections of our representatives that our real power lies. Tough decisions made in Dover can halt sprawl and congestion, fix our public schools and keep the farms, the trees, and environment that we enjoy today, making our area a jewel in the megapolis from Richmond to Boston.

Ordinance to complete traffic study

New Castle County Council passed an ordinance Oct. 24, designating $150,000 for a traffic study in southern New Castle County.

The ordinance to determine present and future circulation patterns for development issues was co-sponsored by county councilmen J. Christopher Roberts and Robert Woods. "This will bring together the county and the state closer together in coordinating roadway improvements and future development," Roberts said.

According to Roberts, the necessity for such an ordinance became apparent during council members' talks with the Delaware Department of Transportation and the County Land Use Department.

Council members were attempting to resolve the projected bottleneck for Fieldsboro Road (Road 452) near Pine Tree Estates. DelDOT was not comfortable requiring roadway improvements in areas where council members and Land Use officials knew that improvements would be available in short order.

"In order to resolve this impasse," Roberts said, "this traffic circulation project will be jointly funded by the county and the state."

The project will take into account the pending development projects and other projections based on the underlying zoning,

Canby receives national awards

Transportation Secretary Anne P. Canby has been recognized for her leadership in the transportation field by the American Public Transportation Association (APTA) and the Association of Metropolitan Planning Organizations (AMPO).

Additionally, she received a special recognition from the Council of Civic Organizations of Brandywine Hundred (CCOBH).

The APTA, a non-profit international association of transit systems, design, construction and finance firms, product and service providers, and academic institutions, presented Canby with its Distinguished Service Award for 2000 for her "significant contribution at the state level to public transportation through policy, legislative initiative and leadership."

During her tenure as Secretary of Transportation, Delaware's fixed route transit ridership has grown 69 percent, and the DART First State bus system has grown from 29 to 51 routes.

Canby was also the recipient of the 2000 AMPO Outstanding Individual Leadership Award which recognizes and commends exceptional work by an individual in the field of metropolitan transportation planning.

In nominating Canby for the award, the Dover/Kent County MPO said, "Secretary Canby has been a supporter of the agency's missions. Financial, leadership and technical expertise have been the types of support the MPO has experienced during Secretary Canby's term of office."

Locally, CCOBH leader Joseph Mitchell presented Secretary Canby with The 'U' in Public Award recently at a ceremony marking the completion of the I-95 reconstruction project. The award states that Canby's "diligent efforts opened the door for thousands of ordinary citizens to contribute their ideas regarding intermodal transportation and land use preservation."

Appointed in 1993, Canby has more than 20 years experience in transportation administration, strategic planning, financial and system management. She previously was a partner in the transportation consulting firm of Canby, Cameron and Associates. She served as treasurer-controller for the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, a commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Transportation, and chair of the New Jersey Transit Board of Directors.

Operation ABC mobilization

It is no accident that Operation ABC (America Buckles Up Children) coincides with Thanksgiving Week — the busiest and most dangerous travel time of the year, and a time when impaired drivers put children at risk.

ABC Mobilization is a nationwide effort to step up enforcement on drivers who violate child passenger safety and impaired driving laws. Law enforcement agencies in Delaware and all across the country are presenting a united front to protect children from two of the leading risks of death they face: drinking drivers and not being buckled up during a car crash.

For the first time, Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) will participate in this mobilization.

By Cindy Genau

Surprising research detailed in a May 2000 study in the "Journal of American Medical Association" reported that nearly two out of three children who are killed in alcohol-related crashes are the passengers riding in the vehicle with an impaired driver.

In a majority of cases, the impaired driver — a parent, guardian or temporary caregiver failed to buckle the child up. A national study of crash data over a decade found a direct correlation between the consumption of alcohol by the driver of the vehicle and the probability of the children being properly restrained. The more alcohol a driver consumes, the more likely it is that children will not be buckled up.

A study reported in the "Journal of American Pediatrics" found that "driver restraint (was) the strongest predictor of child restraint use...a restrained driver was three times more likely to restrain a child."

In Delaware, the Office of Highway Safety (OHS) kicked off their SAFE Holiday Campaign, with MADD, Youth to Eliminate Loss of Life (YELL) and law enforcement agencies at Salesianum School in Wilmington.

The law enforcement agencies formed a human unity tree to show their concentrated and collaborative efforts in enforcing traffic safety during the holiday season.

MADD started their "Tie One on for Safety" red ribbon campaign. Red ribbons are distributed to motorists to symbolize each motorist's pledge to not drink and drive.

Make no mistake — unbuckled children and impaired drivers are a deadly mixture. The best defense against this is aggressive enforcement through increased patrols and roadside checkpoints designed to protect children and identify impaired drivers.

The Cooperative Extension Community Traffic Safety Program gives its endorsement for enforcement. When innocent lives are put at risk, we must all take action to protect our children.

Special to the Newark Post by Matt Smith

On a recent Friday, someone asked my friend, John Brown, about what we were doing as we were apprenticing on Main Street.

I say "apprenticing" because the school we go to, Newark Center for Creative Learning, has an apprenticing program.

This means that every Friday the kids in the oldest class go to shops in Newark and work there. It is a great program. Even though we only go from noon to 3 p.m. it is still a lot of work time by the end of the year.

At the beginning of the program, students fill out practice applications and have mock interviews at school. Students are placed according to their interests. But, only one student can be at a business at a time, and only for one year, so they get a variety of experiences.

The program was designed to give kids in our oldest class a chance to get work experience and it is a great way to teach responsibility and punctuality.

Many kids get summer jobs where they apprentice, which is also very convenient because we already know the business.

It also gives us some great stories to tell. For instance, one Friday a tall man with long black hair and a red shirt walked into Brewed Awakenings which is my apprenticing business.

At the time, I was cleaning the windows so I didn't take much notice. I was just finishing the door as he was leaving. As I moved so he could open the door he looked down at me and said, Twins John and Joe Brown help each other with some of their apprenticing duties.

"You give us the power to see through walls. Thank you."

It made my whole day. So far I haven't seen him again, but I hope to.

Another apprentice, Kelly, is working at a seamstress' business. She organizes buttons, sews with the industrial sewing machine, and organizes patterns from nearly 70 years ago.

One of my other classmates, Gabe, works at the Newark Arts Alliance Art House. He does a lot of mopping and sweeping, makes banners, and dusts. That is what most of us do, I think.

However, some kids do something called a service project.

These kids don't actually work on Main Street they stay at school and try to either think of a way they could create to help people or donate help to an existing one. Right now, I think they are thinking of sending flowers to hospitals for patients.

As you can see, this is a great program and I hope it becomes more popular in other places with small schools.

Teachers Heather Suchanec and Kate Kerrane are in charge of the apprenticing program at NCCL. They check in with the employers once a month and get feedback about how the student is progressing.

For additional information about the apprenticing program or Newark Center for Creative Learning, call 368-7772.

Why do smart kids struggle?

- Weak Basic Skills
- Frustration with School
- Lack of Confidence
- No Motivation

Brandywine Christmas fun for the entire family

'Tis the season when the center for American art and crafts located on the banks of historic Brandywine Creek comes alive with fun for the entire family. I refer to the Brandywine River Museum and the event is now, or should be, very much a part of all our lives. The event is "A Brandywine Christmas."

Running until Jan. 7, 2001, there is so much to see and enjoy for everyone from the tots to elders of every family. Every year the top attraction is one the second floor and that is the magnificent 0-gauge model railroad. A picture of a very small portion of the exhibit is with my column today. It can however, only serve to whet your appetite. You must see the whole layout in action to really appreciate it.

The second floor drops its air of a place to exhibit magnificent paintings and drawings and becomes a Christmas wonderland. The model railroad display is not just for the little ones, you can be sure of that. In the many years I have been visiting and enjoying the railroad, which has almost half a mile of track in its makeup, I have noticed that a large percentage of those pausing the longest and looking most interested are well over the age of 20, well over that age - me, for example.

There is non-stop action from morning to night all over the exhibit and you can get close enough to see the details of the operation and the 0-gauge equipment. There are usually five trains operating at one time and not just with a few cars on them either. There is one freight train rolling along with 60, that's 60, cars on it. Don't miss the detailing on each of the cars. They are works of art, in and of themselves, but, when they all come together, wow!

Much time and effort go into the layout and the buildings and scenery on the layout, too. There is a beautiful village through which the trains pass. There is a Herr's food processing -plant, a stone quarry, an oil refinery, several mountains, and an animated skating scene. In addition to being great fun, you can get some great ideas for building your own layout, albeit in a slightly smaller space. One of the nicest things for parents is that nothing is for sale. You don't have to worry about the kids - old or young - pestering you to buy them something!

"The Dolls of Christmas Day: The Collection of Ann Wyeth McCoy," will be back for the first time since 1998. This exhibit features McCoy's well-known collection of small dolls in traditional scenes outdoors in a winter landscape. You can see 40 German and French dolls this year. New this year is an Emile Jumeau doll from France. Jumeau dolls are famous for their realistic eyes. Many of the dolls in this exhibit will be wearing costumes designed and made by Mrs. McCoy.

Of course, it wouldn't be Christmas without the legendary "critters" all about the old mill, now the Brandywine River Museum. They add so much to the trees and diorama displays throughout the building this time of year. Every year there are some new critters and this year they center about The Teddy Bear Tree. You will be able to find baby bears, polar bears, black bears and dancing bears. Families love to walk through the BRM at Christmas and just let the children "discover" the critters in their many locales. All of the critters are made from natural materials by museum volunteers and are for sale at the Museum Gift Shop. It is a great way to take home a bit of a "A Brandywine Christmas" and share it with friends. Some of the younger set like to take them to school for show and tell.

Another exhibition, "N. C. Wyeth's Family Christmas," focuses on many of the family's famous Christmas celebrations from 1908 to the 1930s. There are family letters and photographs and many furnishings to recreate the Wyeth living room and Carolyn Wyeth's toy barn from 1918.

The Brandywine River Museum located on US Route 1 in Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania is easy to reach. It is open every day of the year except Christmas from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults and $2.50 for seniors and students. Children under six are admitted free. For more information you may call 610-388-2700 or at their web site, www.brandywinemuseum.org. Enjoy!

UD Scientists Awarded $3.75 Million in Grants

The U.S. Department of Agriculture awarded four grants totaling $3.75 million that will go towards research projects proposed by scientists at the University of Delaware.

Joan Burnside and Robin Morgan of the animal and food sciences department received $950,000 to further their development of the chicken genome, work that began at the university in 1997. With the new USDA funding, the researchers can identify approximately 35,000 DNA sequences in addition to the 8,000 that they have already found. This will help them to uncover many clues about chicken biology, including the mechanisms of growth and development, as well as immune competence and disease resistance.

Larry Cogburn, also of animal and food sciences, received $1.8 million to identify genes important for the regulation of growth and body compositions in broiler chickens.

Spartans win again

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

There can't be a whole lot left to say about the St. Mark's High soccer team and its dominance over the rest of the state's soccer programs.

However, the Spartans' unbelievable accomplishment of five straight state championships shouldn't be taken for granted just because everybody expected them to win.

Yes, they were the best team all season. Yes, they've been the best team for the last five years. In fact, they've been the best team for the last decade.

Yet, there are many teams in many sports that come along with great talent and are unable to take advantage of their abilities.

St. Mark's never has that problem and that's a credit to the players it has. It's also a credit to coach Tom DeMatteis and his staff.

Year after year, DeMatteis gets his team ready for each game. I challenge people to name a game that the Spartans were upset in.

It just doesn't happen. It's difficult to play 20 games every year and continue to win every time out. It's a tribute to the players and the coaches that St. Mark's has been able to.

What a game

At first glance, the University of Delaware's come-from-behind victory over Villanova last Saturday seems miraculous.

But you don't have to have a great memory to find examples of big leads being blown in Blue Hen games. The Hens blew a big lead just three weeks and lost to New Hampshire. They also blew a big lead last year and lost to Villanova.

The fact that those two games were so fresh in these players' minds gave them hope that they could do the same.

Once momentum began to turn, it was easy to see that this comeback would be possible.

It certainly made for an exciting game for the sold out crowd at Delaware Stadium. It also makes for a lot of momentum going into the I-AA tournament.

Newark's test

William Penn gave the Newark High football team all it could handle last Saturday at Bill Cole Stadium.

The Colonials battled the three-time defending state champs to the bitter end but came up short.

It's probably not going out on the limb saying that will be the toughest game the Yellowjackets will play all season, including the playoffs.

Caesar Rodney will be first up as the Jackets attempt to become the first school to win four straight Division I titles. Newark blasted the Riders 38-0 back in week two. Dover and Sussex Central are the other two tournament teams.

Both have had sensational seasons, but both will have to step up a couple of levels to beat Newark.

St. Mark's wins fifth straight title

The "Drive For Five" is now a reality. The St. Mark's soccer team captured its fifth consecutive boys state championship with an impressive 2-0 victory over Wilmington Christian Academy Saturday afternoon at Newark's Bob Hoffman Stadium.

The Spartans stifling defense, blazing team speed and timely scoring proved to be too much for the Warriors, making their first-ever appearance in the soccer finals.

St. Mark's coach Tom DeMatteis said he was elated to capture his tenth title overall at the Pike Creek School. "This one wasn't easy. Wilmington Christian came at us with everything they had, but at day's end, we were still standing," he said.

DeMatteis said this was the Spartans' twelfth shut-out of the season, setting a new school record.

Warrior Coach Dave Haas said he was immensely proud of his team. "Our game plan worked very well in the first half, but we made only a few mistakes the entire game, but unfortunately it cost us. St. Mark's is very talented with a complete package."

"But, I'm extremely proud of our guys," said Haas.

After a very well-played and scoreless first half, Spartan senior Adam Stuller scored from in close on a nice crossing pass from Ryan Edwards one minute and a half into the second stanza. The goal was Stuller's 26th of the season and fifth in the tournament.

Stuller said the team came out with more intensity in the second half. "This group's been playing together for a while, so that's been a help in pressure situations," he said.

Stuller scored the final goal of the game and the season at the 50 minute mark. He was set-up by Adam Flannigan.

St. Mark's (17-1) reached the finals by defeating arch-rival Salesianum 2-0 in the hard-fought semi-final game Wednesday night. The Spartans also defeated Newark High 5-0 in the quarterfinal round. Their only loss this year was a 1-0 overtime heart-breaker to Holy Cross High, from Queens, New York.

Wilmington Christian, a surprise finalist, edged St. Andrews 1-0 in a sparkling semi-final Wednesday night at Newark. The Warriors also defeated Concord High 3-0 in their second round

Seniors lead champs

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Saint Mark's High School soccer legacy for excellence in soccer is now well documented over the past decade.

After Saturday's impressive 2-0 victory over Wilmington Christian Academy, the Spartans have now won five consecutive boys state tournaments, and eight championships in the last ten years. The team also boasts a state record 41 consecutive games without a loss or a tie, they're undefeated in-state since early in the 1997 season, and have attained national rankings over the past few years.

Four Spartan seniors, who played a significant role in the team's recent success are forwards Adam Stuller and Nolan Dzielak, halfback Adam Flannigan and keeper Alex Facciolo.

Stuller was the team's top scorer with 26 goals in 18 games. Over the last three years, he's been a giant against arch-rival Salesianum, scoring 7 goals in the last four games against the Sals, including last week's semifinal tournament game.

He's the only player on either team to score a hat trick, and he's done it two years in a row.

Hens top Nova, prep for playoffs

2nd half rally leads to A-10 title

History has proven that a Delaware-Villanova football game will always provide the unexpected. Saturday's game was further proof.

Only this time, Delaware turned the tables. After losing each of the last three meetings vs. Villanova despite leading in the fourth quarter, the No. 2 ranked Blue Hens (10-1, 7-1 Atlantic 10) rallied from a 35-10 second quarter deficit and posted a 59-42 Atlantic 10 football victory over Villanova (5-6, 3-5) Saturday at Delaware Stadium.

With the victory, Delaware clinched its fourth Atlantic 10 Conference title, its first since 1995, and earned a spot in the upcoming NCAA I-AA Tournament.

"This means a lot more than maybe our kids realize," said Delaware head coach Tubby Raymond, whose team had lost four straight overall to Villanova but took the lead in the all-time series 17-16-1. "At halftime we said that if we'd play defense, we'd have a chance to win the ballgame. We started playing like we are capable of and we turned Matt (QB Matt Nagy) loose."

The Blue Hens outscored the Wildcats 49-7 after going down 35-10.

Villanova took a 42-27 lead with 7:26 left in the third quarter when Brett Gordon hit Luke Stopper on a six-yard touchdown pass, but it was all Delaware after that.

Nagy, who hit on 23 of 39 passes for 426 yards and three touchdowns, hit Jamin Elliott on a 65-yard touchdown pass on a catch and run down the left side-line to cut the lead to 42-34 and Nagy added a one-yard sneak followed by Craig Cummings' two-point conversion run to tie the game at 42-42 with 2:22 left in the third. Cummings scored on a one-yard run with 11:07 left in the fourth quarter to put the Hens up for good at 49-42. The Hens sealed the win when Ricardo Walker returned an interception a school-record tying 100 yards for a touchdown with 34 seconds left to play.

UD senior captain Craig Cummings helped lead the Blue Hens past Villanova and into the I-AA playoffs.

UD to face Portland State

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The University of Delaware will begin its quest for its first-ever I-AA national championship Saturday at home against Portland State.

The Blue Hens earned the tournament's second seed while the 8-3 Vikings are No. 15. Portland State has lost three of its last four games but did earn a victory over Hofstra.

"I don't know much about them," said Delaware coach Tubby Raymond, whose team returns to the playoffs after a two year absence. "I do know that earlier in the season they were one of, if not, the team to beat. They have a balanced offense. Other than that, we'll have to look at the tapes."

Montana earned the tournament's top seed and will face Eastern Illinois. Georgia Southern is the third seed and will host No. 14 McNeese State. Fourth-seeded Troy State will host No. 13 Appalachian State; No. 5 Western Kentucky squares off against No. 12 Florida A&M; No. 6 Furman hosts No. 11 Hofstra and No. 7 Western Illinois hosts No. 10 Lehigh.

"I think it's nice that we're the second seed," Raymond said. "It's something pleasant for the kids. They regard that highly."

The biggest advantage of the whole week is playing at home and not having to make the cross country plane trip that the Portland State players are going to have to make.

"The best thing about the whole thing is that we're playing here," Raymond said. "They're going to have to take a whole day to travel and it's Thanksgiving week."

Being placed as the No. 2 seed means the Blue Hens could possible play three home games in the tournament if they keep winning.

Newark overcomes stubborn Wm. Penn to win Flight A

Jackets earn fourth straight conference crown

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

It took 10 weeks but the Newark High football team finally received its first test. The Yellowjackets took a determined William Penn team's best shot and still emerged with a 15-8 victory Saturday afternoon at Bill Cole Stadium.

The win sealed a perfect 10-0 regular season and an unprecedented fourth straight Blue Hen Conference Flight A title (undefeated all four years as well). The Jackets 20th straight victory also earned them the top seed and a home game in the Division I state tournament that begins this weekend.

William Penn, which needed a victory to qualify for the state tournament, ended its season with an 8-2 record and out of the playoffs for the second time since 1981.

The outcome of this thriller wasn't decided until Newark linebacker John Parkinson intercepted a William Penn pass at the goal line with 1:53 to play in the fourth quarter. The Colonials had penetrated to the Jackets' 11-yard line, threatening to send the game to a deciding two-point conversion or overtime.

"I thought we played our heart out," said William Penn coach

Bruce Reynolds. "I really thought we were going to score there at the end."

Instead it was Newark winning for the sixth straight time (including three state tournament games) in this storied rivalry.

"It's a tribute to a team - and coaching staff that got its team prepared - that took their game to an entirely different level," Newark coach Butch Simpson said of William Penn's effort. "I told our team that [William Penn] wasn't just trying to beat us. They were playing for their playoff life. They were playing for the great tradition of William Penn. They were playing not to be the team that didn't get into the state tournament."

"We think we have tradition, but if we can be compared to them in any way, it's a tribute."

As has been the case throughout the season, Newark scored on its first offensive possession.

Quarterback Erec Spiese threw a 31-yard pass to Austin Kisner, giving the Jackets a first down at the Colonials' one-yard line. A play later Nelson Drew bulled his way into the end zone. John Brayman's successful point-after-touchdown kick gave Newark a 7-0 lead with 7:34 still to play in the first quarter.

If the early score gave the Jackets and their fans the impression they were in for a 10th straight rout, they couldn't have been more wrong.

Fighting for their playoff lives, William Penn summoned a huge defensive effort for the remainder of the game, stifling the high-octane Newark offense.

The Jackets, however, also have a strong defense and it was its day to grab the spotlight.

Newark's defensive unit literally took over the game, scoring the last nine points by itself.

Len Harris tackled Kevin Edwards in the end zone to give Newark a safety and improve its lead to 9-0 with 6:57 to play in the second quarter.

Before the half ended the Newark defense struck again. Drew Kisner intercepted a Felix Wilkins pass and made a nifty 50-yard return down the right sideline and through traffic for another touchdown. The kick was wide and Newark led 15-0 with 3:47 to play in the second quarter.

"Our defense won the game,"

Wilmington Christian finished its remarkable season with a 17-2 record. Haas said the team had a great run at the end of the season, winning about a dozen games before the championship.

Haas said his squad will lose a few key seniors, but has a nice nucleus from which to build for next season. "Our keeper Kevin Wargo is only a sophomore, and we have him and plenty of juniors to build around for the future," Haas said.

Spartan Keeper Alex Facciolo was air-tight in front of the Spartan net and wound up with seven saves for the game. He and the Spartan defense, led by sweeper Jared Hughart and halfback Adam Flanigan were stingy all day Saturday and for the tournament, as they shut out their opponents in all three games.

DeMatteis said Facciolo played his best, at the end of the season. "He made some remarkable saves against Newark and Sallies, and again today he made some more terrific saves in the biggest game of the year," he said.

Hugart said he had a good time playing in front of Facciolo. "It was a lot of fun playing this year with all of these guys, the team really came together and played great defense," he said.

"It was what we were trying to do,"

DeMatteis said it felt great winning five state championships in a row.

"It was a lot of hard work this year, but all these guys know how to do it win, and the older guys on the team have done that remarkably well," he said.

Seniors set example for state champs friend Dzielak calls Stuller the "heart and soul" of the team. "He's a great player, and he always manages to score a big goal when we need it the most," said Dzielak.

► SENIORS, from 12

The pair have been teammates for about ten years, playing together in the Kirkwood Soccer League before and during their high school years. Dzielak said the two even decided to attend St. Mark's together, to continue their friendship on and off the field.

Spartan coach Tom DeMatteis, now in his 15th season at the school, credited Stuller for being an integral part of the team's offense this season and throughout his career.

"Adam scored 71 goals over his four years at St. Mark's, only two shy of the school record set by Jason Dzielak, (Nolan's older brother), two years ago," said DeMatteis.

Flanigan has accomplished something no other Spartan has achieved. He's been three times first team All-State in Delaware, and twice regional All-American.

DeMatteis said Flanigan had eight goals and ten assists this year, less production than his two previous seasons, but still had a tremendous year. The coach said Flanigan played hurt this season, and was moved from forward to halfback. "He was definitely a rock back on defense," said DeMatteis.

The addition of Nolan Dzielak continues a family tradition at St. Mark's.

Nolan's older brother Jason, was a former All-State player for the Spartans in the 90s.

Nolan's blazing speed and savvy about the game gave many opposing coaches a few extra gray hairs over the past few seasons. Whenever the Spartans needed a goal to grab the lead or tally an insurance goal, Dzielak could be counted on to produce with the game on the line.

Dzielak said hopes to continue his soccer career in college, and has narrowed his choices to four or five east coast schools.

Last, but not least, was the contribution of keeper Alex Facciolo.

DeMatteis said Facciolo probably played his best soccer of the year during the stretch run and all through the playoffs. "Alex has a way of rising to the occasion, and playing his best in the toughest games," he said. Coach DeMatteis summed up the contributions of his stellar seniors. "These guys deserve credit for leading the team, and keeping them motivated over the course of the season."

Simpson said. "We got big turnovers and they scored nine points. We gave up some yardage, but we really didn't give up too many big plays."

With Newark seemingly in control, momentum began to turn in the final moments of the second quarter.

After Kisner's interception return for the touchdown, William Penn - mostly behind the running of Wilkins - mounted its first drive of the game. The Colonials picked up three consecutive first downs and were on the Newark 11-yard line with less than a minute to play.

The Jackets' defense was able to thwart the drive by forcing a fumble on a reverse play.

"We didn't take advantage of all of our opportunities," Reynolds said. "If we could've scored before the half it could've been different."

Nevertheless, the drive gave the Colonials hope as the second half began.

William Penn took the second half kickoff and drove 56 yards for a touchdown. A 45-yard pass from Wilkins to Jason Rogers was the big play of the march. Wilkins scored from five yards out and then threw a successful two-point conversion pass to cut the lead to 15-8 with 7:12 to play in the third quarter.

Newark responded with its biggest non-scoring drive of the season. The Jackets ran off a 14-play drive that saw Drew carry the ball nine times. The drive was ended by an interception, but it took up the remaining time in the third quarter and took some momentum away from William Penn.

Two fourth-quarter miscues (botched snap on a field goal attempt and a fumble) allowed William Penn to have one last gasp and the Colonials seemed poised to take advantage of it until Parkinson's interception ended it.

"I might be biased, but I truly believe you saw the No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the state," Reynolds said. "I take my hat off to a great Newark team. But I'm also very proud of my team and the effort they gave."

The draining victory left the Jackets only modestly celebrating their conference championship and perfect regular season.

"We're very proud to win the Flight A title," Simpson said. "We're very proud to be 10-0 and to have gone through four straight unbeaten years in the conference. I heard no other team has done that. If that's the case, then it's pretty amazing."

Newark will be joined in the tournament by Caesar Rodney, Sussex Central and Dover in the Division I state tournament. The Jackets will host the Riders, who they beat 38-0 earlier in the season.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

ST. MARK'S SOCCER TEAM

The St. Mark's High soccer team won its fifth straight state championship Saturday afternoon at Newark's Bob Hoffman Stadium.

The Spartans became the first team ever in the state to win five soccer titles.

St. Mark's has not lost a game in state three years. They have won 40 of their last 41 games.

Omega Patient Center opens

Omega Medical Laboratories opened a new blood test center in Newark at 341 E. Main Street.

Omega operates a total of 41 blood test centers throughout East-Central Pennsylvania and Delaware. Omega accepts all request slips, even if another laboratory or hospital is specified.

Omega Centers collect specimens for a wide variety of medical laboratory tests. Free blood pressure checks are provided.

Preventive health tests, such as cholesterol screening are available at low cost. After collection, specimens are then transported by Omega's own couriers to the main Omega laboratory. When the laboratory work is completed, results are delivered or electronically transmitted to the patient's physician, usually within 24 hours.

The Center is open from 7 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday, and from 7 to 10 a.m. on Saturday. No appointment is necessary. Omega accepts Medicare and most major insurances.

Omega Medical Laboratories, a privately owned company, is a fully licensed medical testing laboratory. The company serves over 1,500 physician clients and processes more than 1.75 million blood tests annually. The phone number is 454-8808.

Samuel's Salon/Day Spa to open at the Mill at White Clay

Samuel Boyle who grew up in Newark returned to build a new Samuel's Hair Salon & Day Spa on an unusual site at the Mill at White Clay Creek to open in 2001.

Boyle left the area in 1990 to open a hair salon in the country town of Galena, Md., after working in the Wilmington and Chadds Ford area a number of years. In 1998, he expanded across the street from the Maryland salon so he could also provide a day spa facility.

According to Boyle, he is expanding again - this time to his hometown of Newark. The two salons will work closely together, frequently sharing staff, to offer clients in both locations two different beauty and health experiences.

"One in a location will have a relaxed country feel and the other a lively city feel but with plenty of amenities to induce relaxation," said Boyle.

The Newark location will overlook White Clay Creek where patrons can walk along the creek side trails or dine at a new Timothy's restaurant.

The Mill at White Clay is accessible from Interstate 95, Route 896 and other major highways in Delaware and Maryland.

Samuel's at Newark will be a full service salon with cut and blow dry services, approximately 10 working station as well as color stations and shampoo stations, a Samuel's Oasis decorated in the California-style with lots of plants, skin care and nail care. "There will also be a multi-service waiting area overlooking the creek even though we are well known for our passion of being on time for appointments," Boyle said.

TOP SALES PRODUCERS HONORED

Prudential Fox and Roach Realtors honored each of the highest sales producers at a monthly "Breakfast of Champions." Featured are the Champion Sales Associates from the Delaware offices being congratulated by management for exceptional production during the month of July.

Prudential Fox and Roach Realtors, an independently owned and operated member of the Prudential Real Estate Affiliates Inc., is the nation's six largest real estate company with services including mortgage financing and title, property and casualty insurance through its affiliate, the Trident Group.

Michelle Wright joins Prudential Fox and Roach Realtors

Prudential Fox and Roach Realtors welcomed Michelle Wright to its Bear office as a sales associate. Previously manager of investor relations for Covenant Financial Services, she has finance and real estate knowledge in the New Castle County real estate market.

An active member of the New Castle County Board of Realtors, the Bear resident holds a bachelor of arts degree in hotel/restaurant management from Delaware State College.

Prudential Fox & Roach Realtors, an independently owned and operated member of the Prudential Real Estate Affiliates Inc., is the nation's sixth largest real estate company with 58 sales locations and 3500 associates serving the tri-state area.

It provides mortgage financing and title, property and casualty insurance through its affiliate, the Trident Group.

Catholic Charities Inc. becomes reaccredited

Catholic Charities Inc. of the Diocese of Wilmington was reaccredited by the Council on Accreditation for Children and Family Services (COA).

Reaccreditation, which is required every four years, attests that an organization continues to meet the highest national standards and provides assurance that the organization is performing services which the community needs, conducting its operations safely and managing its funds effectively and wisely.

Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Wilmington provides a variety of human service programs designed to strengthen family relationships, care for children, and assist those living in poverty throughout Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

Join the team that makes the news!

Chesapeake Publishing Corp., a respected, established local publishing company has an immediate opening at the Newark Post, Rt. 40 Flier and the New Castle Business Ledger office in Newark for an OFFICE MANAGER • EDITORIAL ASSISTANT.

- BUSY, INTERESTING POSITION.
This is an important staff position that far exceeds the traditional receptionist role! In addition to answering phones and operating the "nerve center" of our busy newspaper offices, this key staffer plays a major role in the preparation, processing, typesetting and editing of important columns and sections of our popular newspapers. Schedule: Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- POTENTIAL FOR GROWTH.
A pleasant personality and basic office skills are necessary, but the best candidate will complement these essential qualifications with a basic knowledge of editorial procedures or the ability to learn them. No matter her or his background, the best candidate will be a person who loves serving his or her community, is organized and efficient in office skills, understands the newspaper business or is experienced in customer service. We will select only a candidate who can successfully join our busy team of newspaper professionals. Others have trained in this position and moved on to reporting and editing positions.
- FULL-TIME, FULL BENEFITS.
Our salary is competitive and our company benefits are excellent, including group BC/BS health insurance, life and disability insurances, vacation and sick leave, tuition reimbursement and a 401-K plan. Employee-paid group dental insurance also is available. The Newark Post, The Route 40 Flier and New Castle Business Ledger are published in Newark by Chesapeake Publishing Company, a chain of 50+ publications that stretches southward to Williamsburg, Va.
- WILL CONSIDER JOB SHARING.
This position easily could be "job shared" by two qualified candidates. Two part-time employees could divide up the job's duties and responsibilities, one person working 8:30 to 1 p.m. each weekday, the other 12:30 to 5 p.m. We're flexible because we want to hire the best candidate(s) to help us make our newspapers the best that they can be!
- INTERESTED? INTRIGUED?
Interviews will take place soon! Rush your resume and a cover letter telling us why you're the best candidate for this exciting slot on our team to:

NEWARK POST ♦ OBITUARIES

Warner Woodward Naudain, owned oil company

Newark area resident Warner Woodward died on Sept. 27, 2000, at home.

Mr. Naudain, 83, was the president of Hollingsworth Oil Company in Marshalon before retiring in 1980.

He was a second lieutenant in the Army during World War II.

He was a life member of Red Clay Creek Presbyterian Church where he was a deacon and an elder of the church, a member of Sons of the American Revolution and an organizing president of the Huguenot Society of Delaware.

He is survived by his wife of 54 years, Carrie L. Naudain of Hockessin; sons, Raymond W. Naudain and wife, Diane Jamail of Houston, Texas and Lynn B. Naudain and wife, Karen Coleman-Naudain of Hockessin; and grandsons.

A memorial service was held at Red Clay Creek Presbyterian Church.

Sean Collins, landscaper

Newark area resident Sean "Dusty" Collins died on Sept. 27, 2000.

Mr. Collins, 28, was a landscaper and a member of the Newark Moose Lodge.

He performed skateboard exhibitions for Wooden Wheels Bicycle Shop in Newark.

He is survived by parents, Roland and Nancy Collins of Sherwood Park; sisters, Rona Lam of Grendon Farms, Beth Newcomb of Deacons Walk, Dawn Jennings of Rutherford, and Gwen Tchocki of Village of Lindell; nieces; nephews and friends.

A service was held at McCreery Memorial Chapel.

James L. Whitlock, Chrysler worker

Newark area resident James Leroy Whitlock died on Sept. 27, 2000, at the Christiana Medical Center.

Mr. Whitlock, 62, was born in Elkton, Md. He grew up and went to school in Cecilton. He worked for Chrysler on the assembly line until he retired in 1995 after 28 years.

He was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose in Middletown, a member of UAW Local #1183 and was a member of the Middletown Volunteer Fire Company.

He is survived by his wife of 33 years, Donna Mae Whitlock; daughters, Lisa Aldridge and Carol Whitlock, both of Middletown and Brenda Armstrong of Earleville, Md.; brothers, Charles Whitlock and Robert Whitlock, both of Middletown and William Whitlock of Florida; sister, Mary Dixon of Middletown; grandchildren and a great grandchild.

A service was held at the Zion Church.

Frances Goldsobough, AAUW president

Newark area resident Frances Richards Goldsobough died on Sept. 28, 2000, at home.

Mrs. Goldsobough graduated from the University of Delaware. She also attended Columbia University.

She began her teaching career in Dover and later taught at Mt. Pleasant High School in Wilmington. During World War II, when her husband entered the service in the Pacific Theatre, she assumed control of his real estate business.

She managed several large apartment complexes for the federal government, as well as running the day-to-day operations of the business.

She remained active in the company until it was sold in 1989. She joined the American Association of University Women (AAUW), becoming treasurer from 1943-1946. She was elected the youngest president in their history in 1950.

She was also on the Board of Directors of the YMCA and the Girls Club of Wilmington. She was involved with the Green Show at Christ Church Christiana Hundred and the Wilmington Flower Market.

She is survived by her son, Richard Goldsborough and wife, Sandy of New York City, N.Y.; daughter, Jane G. Hinkson of Wilmington; and 4 grandchildren.

Services were privately held.

Blows Away the Competition

BASSETT, BROSIUS & DAWSON

Personal Approach to Financial Planning

In the world of financial planning Bassett, Brosius & Dawson, Inc., fills a unique niche. The Wilmington firm, serving clients for almost twenty years, has built a solid reputation of providing good old-fashioned service, while at the same time moving head first into the twenty-first century as technology has rapidly changed the financial investment and consulting environment. Vice President Frederick J. Dawson (ChFC, CLU)*, states, "We recognize technology is creating an ever changing environment, but the one constant that remains is the personal relationship with each and every client we enjoy here."

Fred Dawson

The present financial investment landscape is dynamically changing,

The present financial investment landscape is dynamically changing, especially as the larger brokerage firms are consolidating and buying up the smaller local firms. Amidst the ever-changing scenery, Fred says, "We're proud to be able to serve our clients without any conflicts of interest. We are an independent contractor through Raymond James Financial Services, Inc. As such, we have the ability to provide our clients with almost unlimited choices of investment, insurance, and tax reducing financial products and services, without any special incentives, requirements, or special expectations of having to offer any of Raymond James proprietary products." It is under this structure that Fred, along with his son Brian D. Dawson (CIMC)*, are able to offer clients unbiased options and alternatives after they have completed an in-depth evaluation of a client's current financial situation, including determining financial objectives and setting specific goals and risk tolerances.

Another aspect of Fred Dawson's profession is the amount of community and professional organizations he has been able to participate and volunteer in. Fred says, "Part of being a Financial Planner is having the ability to help people and being a part of several diverse community and professional organizations is just a natural extension of that theme." Fred continues, "I think at one time I was on the board or a member of twenty-two different organizations at the same time." Fred is presently the Delaware Chapter President of The Society of Financial Service Professionals (SFSP), a national organization of financial services professionals, an active board member of The Christina Educational Endowment Foundation, and The Historic Red Clay Valley Incorporated, a non-profit organization that owns and operates The Wilmington & Western Railroad. He is past President of The Newark Rotary and The Kennett Symphony Orchestra Board. Fred has also been published locally, nationally, and internationally hundreds of times and has made several guest appearances on CNBC, as well as having hosted "The Wall Street Wrap-Up Report" on "First State News" for almost six years, and his own radio show. Moreover, he is a frequent guest speaker at many organizations and events.

"Good morning, Bassett, Brosius & Dawson, TerryAnn speaking" . . .

. . . is the answer a caller receives, instead of press 1 for this department, or press 2 for another department. This is part of the personalized service the employees at Bassett, Brosius & Dawson believe in. However, for those of you who prefer a more technologically advanced form of communication, interested parties can always logon to their recently developed website at www.bbdinc.com, and communicate via the internet and E-mail.

Brian Dawson

In addition to continuing the theme of blending the old with the new, Fred states, "That's why I chose to add my son Brian to our staff." Brian Dawson joined the firm in

"The CIMC curriculum has given me an in-depth understanding of privately managed portfolios. . ."
Brian Dawson

February of 2000 after almost nine years in the banking industry. Brian recently obtained his first professional designation, (CIMC, Certified Investment Management Consultant), and will begin working on his second (ChFC, Chartered Financial Consultant) shortly. As Brian states, "The CIMC curriculum has given me an in-depth understanding of privately managed portfolios, which is a large part of what we do for clients here." In addition to bringing his banking background, Brian has been instrumental in updating the firm's computer system, setting up the new company website, and helping identify other new efficiencies within Bassett, Brosius & Dawson's business structure. Brian states, "It's been tremendously challenging to learn so much in such a short time frame, but very rewarding once you know you've helped a client as a result of that knowledge."

Unlike most financial planning firms, Bassett, Brosius & Dawson has their own attorney, Harriet (Holly) Lang Chappell (JD, CFP)* on staff. She has the ability to advise clients on the oftentimes intricate legal aspects of estate planning, will preparation, and trust structuring. Holly actively participates in client meetings and is an invaluable added resource to the firm's clients. The availability of Holly's services along with the other benefits at Bassett, Brosius & Dawson, certainly lends credibility to Fred's assessment, "We're a one stop shop for financial and investment consulting services."

At Bassett, Brosius & Dawson Inc., being an independent financial services firm translates to assisting serious investors in a full-range of financial and estate services in the accumulation and preservation of wealth. As Fred sums up, "We help our clients plan for their financial future, especially retirement. We develop retirement plans for business owners, and we help high net worth investors keep their money from the ravages of taxation and inflation." Whether it's an individual, pension plan, retirement plan, trust, endowment or foundation, the staff at Bassett, Brosius & Dawson has over seventy-five years of combined experience in helping to accumulate, preserve, and transfer a client's life's work of wealth accumulation, to ones loved ones or favorite charities. They can do the same for you!

'Avatar' has a great country look

The Avatar uniquely combines the look of wood and river rock to give "country style" a whole new look. Half moon windows over the garage doors, the upstairs dormer, and the front windows provide a great curb appeal. The gracious lines of the 2,013-square-foot Avatar, along with the 1,966-square-foot unfinished basement, provide for opportunity to expand as the family grows.

The entry of this home has etched glass on one side and the security system control box on the other. A great room and formal dining room are open to the kitchen. A rear corner kitchen contains as many amenities as possible.

Designs
INC.

Facing the great room is a long eating bar. An appliance center in one corner under the cabinets and a lazy susan in the other add to the conveniences. The dual sink has a trash compactor on one side and a dishwasher on the other. A garden window over the sink looks out into the backyard.

Skylights have been used throughout this spacious home. In the rear corner of the great room is a raised gas fireplace with an entertainment center over it. Stairs to the basement are located in the great room as well.

Two bedrooms separated by a full bath make up the right side of the Avatar. Each bedroom is spacious and well lit by large windows. There are two linen closets convenient to each room. The water heater is tucked way in a closet in this area also.

Completely across the home is the master suite, isolated from the other two bedrooms. The rear of the suite is a large bathroom with a vanity, "his and hers" sinks, a huge walk-in closet, a private area for the toilet, and an oversized tub and shower. A door off this room opens onto the patio that runs across the back of the Avatar.

On the other end of this unique suite is an exercise/theater room, complete with an entertainment center. French doors open into the great room, providing easy access. To the back of the exercise room is a full utility room with sink and room for a freezer. A door to the two-car garage opens at one end. A long workbench has been provided for the weekend do-it-yourselfer.

For a study plan of the Avatar (00-010) send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road East, Cottage Grove, OR 97424. Specify plan name and number for study plan. For a collection of plan books, send $20.00 or save by ordering the study plan and collection together for $34.95. For faster processing, call 1-800-562-1151.
