Playground Season Conducted By NRA Concluded Today

Special Events Feature
Final Week Of Program
Held At 11 Playgrounds

The Newark Recreation Association is concluding its summer playground season with several special events this final week. A Red Feather agency, the Association has sponsored 11 playgrounds in the greater Newark area for eight weeks.

Last week, a trip was taken to the Smith Memorial Playground in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia. Left as a bequest for perpetual use as a children's playground, this estate has attracted national attention for its unique program.

Newark area youngsters made use of the playground equipment, including a giant sliding board, self-propelled merry-go-rounds, swing-gliders, and rolling barrels.

Some 300 children took the trip, with parents as chaperones.

Special trips have been to the Philadelphia and Wilmington zoos, to the Seven-Up bottling plant and Huber Baking Company.

A two-day Rec-Olympics was the finale for the 1961 playground season.
Teams and individuals have been preparing for this physical fitness event during the summer, and on Monday, individual events in horsehoes, basketball, and table tennis were held at the George Read Village playground.

Running and individual field events were held at the Central Junior High field.

The New London Avenue Playground softball champs played an all-star playground team as the final event.

All 11 playgrounds were represented in the Rec-Olympics.

Half day sessions have been held at the playgrounds outside the City of Newark. The playgrounds within the City of Newark have enjoyed the benefits of full-day programs during the summer.

The financial assistance extended by the City of Newark provided the full day programs on these local playgrounds. Without this aid, the extensive playground program without the city would not have been possible. "Many parents and adults have given many hours of volunteer time and effort to make this season an outstanding success," Director Stan Francis said.

Treasure and scavenger hunts, a Newark Luau, games, carnivals and watermelon feasts are all scheduled in addition to the traditional farewell parties.

Today is the last of the playground program.

All public schools in the Newark district will receive registrations of new pupils daily up to the opening of school on Sept. 7, in accordance with the request of the state superintendent of schools that registrations be taken Aug. 25-31.

No new students will be registered on the first day of school.

UTO Proponents of International Goodwill

Mademoiselle Josette Infante (standing) expresses appreciation to residents of Newark for the public reception accorded the five young French visitors from La Garde-Freinet under sponsorship of the United Towns Organization with Newark's twin city committee headed by Mrs. Cyrus L. Day.

On stage at the Newark New Century Club with Mlle. Infante, chaperone for the group from La Garde-Freinet, are (left to right, seated) Wilson Young, Jean Pierre Corchet, Virginia Loyd, Rene Salvestrini, Kay Logan, and Mrs. Alan Duff, chairman of travel and host families for the Newark UTO group.

Wilson, Virginia, and Kay were Newark guests of La Garde families last summer, and Jean Pierre and Rene are among the five French guests of Newark who will conclude their stay here on Aug. 26.

Newark Board Of Education To Provide High School Player Football Insurance

The Newark Board of Education will provide insurance coverage for football players who are not otherwise covered during their participation in this sport, for a period of one year it was announced today.

During the past school year, football was included in the general insurance policy covering all school activities which was made available to students in the Newark special school district at a cost of $2.50 per year.

The new insurance contract for next year, which will cost $2 per student, excludes football from its coverage. A special policy providing coverage for football will cost $18 per player.

Superintendent Wilmer E. Shue
pointed out in a memorandum to parents of football players, that the increasing cost of the athletic program makes it impossible for these insurance costs to be carried by the athletic budget. For this reason, the Newark Board of Education will provide insurance coverage for one year to insure those players who are not otherwise covered while participating in this sport.

Jeff Smith, Harry Burrows and John Roselle, passed Morse Code and first aid tests towards their First Class badges.

Senior Patrol Leader David Rahn spent three weeks at Camp Rodney, won five merit badges—for canoe-ing, life-saving, pioneering, cooking, and camping, Glenn Frazier reports.

Enthusiasm greeted the E-52 performances of "The Boy Friend" at military bases in Italy, writes Ken Shelin.

The company, directed by Dr. C.
Robert Kase, chairman of the dramatic arts and speech department, is under auspices of the USO and the American Educational Theatre Association.

"In addition to the hospitality of the soldiers on the bases, the company was able to meet and talk with many Italians," Shelin wrote.
The group toured Venice, performed in Leghorn, and then took sightseeing trips to Pisa and Florence.

The players then headed for Munich, Germany, and a four-day stay. They performed at McGraw, Warner, and Landshut Barracks.
Actor James Cagney made a personal appearance on the same stage after one show. He is making a picture, "One, Two, Three," there.

While in Munich, the company got a chance to talk with a 1953 Delaware grad, Capt. Bob Boyce, now officer's club officer at Dachau.
The players had a party at the club
after the show.

In Italy, the group met Lt. David Seitz, also a former Delawarean, stationed at Camp Ederle, Vicenza.
From Munich, the company traveled to Stuttgart for four performances.

Cubbage, Wilson Named By Carvel For State Board

Newark Area Residents
Appointed By Governor
To Bd. of Corrections

Two Newark area residents and former officials of the New Castle workhouse have been appointed by Gov. Elbert N. Carvel to the State Board of Corrections.

Elwood H. Wilson of Glasgow, former warden of the workhouse and the state's first director of corrections, and I. Hammond Cubbage of Newark, former director of classification and psychology at the workhouse and psychologist for the board, have been named to fill out the seven-member board.

The 65-year-old Wilson succeeds Robert G. Hackett, a Republican who resigned recently.

The 40-year-old Cubbage, a Democrat, replaces Robert P. Barnett, another Republican member of the board, who resigned.

Cubbage's term will run until Sept. 15, 1964; Wilson's until Sept.
15, 1965.

Cubbage, who is director of the Delaware Merit System for Personnel Administration, is a 1943 graduate of the University of Delaware.

He took his master's degree in psychology there the following year.
From 1949-1952 he was a member of the faculty of the University of Delaware, serving as director of testing and instructor in psychology.

Under the guidance of Scoutmaster Ed Grier, Ed Berg and Dana Frazier of Troop 253 spent one week in senior patrol leaders' training at Camp Rodney, renewing scouting skills—axmanship, knot-tying, cooking, hiking, and camping—while becoming more familiar with Camp Rodney.

The following week seven more Boy Scouts of Troop 253 joined Ed and Dana at Camp Rodney, and Scoutmaster Dave Morton saw to it that the group enjoyed the week.

Badges were earned by Tom Slikas, Kirk Bailey, Tom Worrell, and John Roselle for swimming;

Delaware Food Market Report

Chalk up the first signs of autumn on the list of vegetables coming to market. Fall sweet potatoes are here. Quality looks good and the price is reasonable. They will bring a welcome change to your menu.

White potatoes continue to be plentiful and prices are such that we can all enjoy delicious potato salad often, as well as scalloped, hash-brown potatoes, and all the other tasty potato dishes. There is one thing to remember—do not buy more than you can use in four or five days because new potatoes do not keep as well as old potatoes. Just buy potatoes more often.

A wide choice of fresh vegetables is available at most markets this week. Local crops such as tomatoes, squash, corn, cucumbers, potatoes and others are being sold at many stores and prices are low, quality very good.

Vegetables to consider this week-end are tomatoes, sweet corn, snap beans, cucumbers, cabbage, egg plant, peppers and beets. There is plenty of iceberg lettuce too.

Fishing boats are unloading big hauls of bluefish, butterfish, cod, flounder, haddock, porgies, and whiting. The supply of shellfish is plentiful, particularly as far as clams, crabs, shrimp and lobster are concerned.

Chickens continue to be an excellent buy as well as turkeys. Supplies remain quite adequate and prices are very reasonable in cuts.

Though the flush season is over, its peak as far as fluid milk is concerned, the producers continue to ship large quantities. Other products, such as cottage cheese, ice cream and sherbet are abundant supply.

Barlett pears are in the market in good volume and so are plums. All in all, there is plenty of delicious fruit to choose from, so keep enough on hand so that everyone can enjoy the fruit he or she likes best.

Mrs. David G. Schmeling

Miss Winifred K. Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ritzer C. Hall of Newark, was married Saturday, Aug. 5 to Mr. David G. Schmeling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Great dark purple patches moving on the surface of the light blue water provoked some excitement with the hope that they might be schools of bluefish just off the surf. But some offshore swimming and close-up inspection with a glass face mask disclosed the fish to be menhaden of snapper blue size, moving in tightly-packed formation and stacked in layers from the surface to a point far down in the sea.

The two boys provided three fine fish for supper after some fiasco from the Kitty Hawk fishing pier.

At Oregon Inlet on the following day, Tuesday, the Billies came up with the fish of the afternoon in a 10-lb. bonito donated by a fishing cruiser skipper at the yacht basin, while the parent took bluefish, kingfish, and flounder from the surf after some orientation disclosed, deeper, more productive water.

Crossing over Oregon Inlet on the ferry the next day, we drove south on Hatteras Island to the famed Cape Hatteras lighthouse at Buxton; and at Buxton, casting into some of the most beautiful surf in the world where the Atlantic thunders around the sandy cape in a white maelstrom from southeast to southwest, we caught a nice bluefish on the very first cast before the pyramid sinker had grabbed a hold on the bottom.

Americans To Eat 7,000 Miles Of Cheese On 'Burgers In August, Dukart Predicts

Americans this year will eat more than 7,000 miles of cheese on cheeseburgers from the restaurant chain that ranks as the world's biggest sandwich-maker — and they will rack up a lot of that mileage during August, National Sandwich Month.

So reports Leonard Dukart, who operates the McDonald's restaurant in Newark at 374 East Main Street.

Dukart expects to sell 100,000 sandwiches during August, his top month of the year.

In fact, the reason August is celebrated as National Sandwich Month, under auspices of the Wheat Flour Institute is that more Americans eat more sandwiches during August than any other month of the year.

"It's the month when families like to get outdoors, and when mothers like to get away from the kitchen. They stop for a snack on the way to or from the beach, for example, or, instead of cooking, they pick up a bag of hamburgers or cheeseburgers to take home," says Dukart.

Cheeseburger-hungry customers in each McDonald's unit, for instance, will gobble up a good 300 pounds of cheese during Sandwich Month. That's a mere drop in the bucket—or drop on the McDonald's grill—compared to the more than five tons of top quality beef each McDonald's will use in hamburgers and cheeseburgers during August.

But it's proof that the perennially popular hamburger has had to move over, to allow room for its "little brother" the cheeseburger.

The cheeseburger is actually a wedding of two long-popular foods, cheese and ground beef, favored for countless generations for everything from snacks to sustenance—with the sandwich meal idea tying the knot so to speak.

Cheese came first. In fact, it came before most other foods. They were eating it in the Orient in 2,000 B.C., historical records show—and probably had been for thousands of years before that.

Baldt majored in history at the university and was president of Kappa Alpha's local chapter and of the Interfraternity Council; was a member of the staff of the student newspaper, the History Club; and participated in intramural sports.

Delaware Growers Of Certified Seed Off To Good Start

Delaware certified seed producers are off to a good start in the 1961 seed year, according to William H. Mitchell, University of Delaware agronomist, with about 1,000 acres of small grain field inspected by the Delaware Crop Improvement Association.

Field inspection is performed to determine the presence of such serious weeds as Johnsongrass, onions, and cockle as well as purity of the seed, according to Mitchell, the first step in the certification process. Many acres are turned down each year, he said, because they fail the first test. This amounted to about 20 per cent of the acres that applied this year.

The next step in the certification process is to examine the seed to determine the germination percentage, presence of diseased seed, and possible contamination with other crop seed.

This test is performed at the Delaware Seed Testing Laboratory in Dover under the direction of John Clough.

The Delaware Crop Improvement Association, official seed certifying agency in the state, issues to growers who pass all tests, the coveted blue tag used throughout the world as a mark of quality and assurance of varietal purity, Mitchell said.

Topper of Whitehead, a German Shepherd owned by Winifred Strickland, Newark, gained a first place tie with a perfect score of 300 points in the open obedience class of the Bucks County Kennel Club Dog Show last Sunday.

Another Strickland dog, G-Man, placed first in the six-to-nine-month-old puppy class and was named best German Shepherd puppy in the show.

Ranger, a German Shepherd owned by Bert Phillips of Bear, won top prize in the nine-to-12-month-old puppy class.

At Oregon Inlet that afternoon, we took three bluefish from a big school working beneath a shrieking, swooping, swarm of gulls and terns amid a Carolina cloudburst of rain and wind, and wound things up Saturday morning with a series of fishless bass strikes in some last round fishing with Doc Calder at dawn in the Sound.

Carolina Bill Fletcher had warned us that our vacation week would feature the worst fishing of the year—right in between spectacular spring and fall striking trout, bluefish, and red drum—but it was good enough.

that "Graveyard of the Atlantic" where the ocean sank the Monitor after the Confederacy's Merrimac failed in the same attempt during the Civil War.

A second cast resulted in a second blue, and these two quick bluefish stimulated a lot of action on the part of other surfmen in the area.

We caught flounder, croakers, and kingfish off the cape, and saw a spinyfin make a jump from the rocks in a Hopkins lure—a golden pompano of some two-inches, about half the size of the lure itself.

Meanwhile, Kenny Irons and Doc and Eleanor Calder had gone offshore in the "Molody" and Mr. Irons accounted for several golden dolphin in the lone school encountered during a quest for big blue marlin. Two white marlin followed the baits—great sickle fins cutting the water in a tantalizing approach—but neither struck.

After a hot day on the Gulf Stream, the Calder clock ran down for the first time since we made the acquaintance of this human dynamo, and as we awakened Doc before dawn on Friday for a go at the Martin's Creek bass, Mr. Calder tottered yawning to the cottage door with the startling information "I can't make it. Go on without me!"

Billy Wagaman hooked a beautiful big bass that jumped twice in open-mouthed, splashing fury, and shook free on the second jump to leave a young boy open-mouthed and shaken. And Billy Richards had another soul-stirring strike that
