Medill, who will explain his duties as a member of the County Commission; by Phineas Morris, who will state briefly the needs of the school, and by Miss Ruby Miller, who will tell of the most efficient methods in primary work.

Orlando Strahorn, recently elected president of the Board of Education, will speak briefly and refreshments prepared by the students in the Home Economics department will be served. Attractive posters announcing the meeting as well as costumes for Midsummer Night's Dream were planned and prepared by the teachers' art class at Women's College.

The association is anxious that every parent and every citizen interested in the welfare of children and of the schools be present tomorrow night.

The seven surviving members of the Grand Army of the Republic are rapidly completing arrangements for the celebration of Memorial Day. Following the custom of previous years, the service of placing flags on the graves of the Civil War heroes, will be performed on Thursday, when the members of Reynolds Post, No. 9 will visit the cemeteries at Newark, Head of Christiana, Glasgow, Welsh Tract, Ott's Chapel, Iron Hill, Ebenezer, Red Clay Creek, Stanton, Christiana, St. James and White Clay Creek, and the colored cemetery in Newark, where in all 167 heroes sleep.

Miller, Richard Buckingham, Oliver Eastburn and Jacob Moore will meet a representative body of children from the public schools, in charge of Miss Agnes Medill, in front of the Old Academy building. They will march to the Episcopal cemetery where repose three heroes whose graves will be decorated with flowers.

They will reach the M. E. Cemetery about 10:30, where, after the 20 graves are decorated, Lieutenant Don Horsey who has recently returned from service with the New Army of the Republic, will deliver the Memorial Day address.

The veterans hope to have a firing squad from the Delaware College Battalion and desire to make this a memorial day unlike any that has been held in the past.

Interested citizens will furnish machines in which the veterans will be conveyed about.

As has been the custom in previous years the Post attended service at Ebenezer M. E. Church last Sunday, together with the P. O. S. A.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION TO HOLD BANQUET

First Since 1917 Promises to be Notable Affair

At a meeting of the executive board of the Newark High School Association, held last Monday evening, plans were made for the annual reunion and banquet. This will be the first meeting since 1917, activities having been suspended last year, owing to war conditions. Every effort will therefore be put forth to make this banquet a notable one. It was decided to hold the affair at the New Century Club on Saturday, June 14th.

Miss Myrtle Steele was made chairman of the social committee which includes Misses Etta J. Wilson, Lydia Fader, Florence Butler, Helen McNeal and Mr. George Medill. An interesting literary and musical program will be provided and the banquet will be served by Mrs. M. E. McGovern.

This live organization numbers about 250 members. Invitations will be issued to these this week and replies must be returned previous to June 9th.

Amateur Burglars Rob Children's Banks

On Sunday afternoon, by request of Maryland authorities, Officer Apsley arrested in the telegraph road just west of town, three young men who were charged with breaking into and robbing a farm house near the Brick Meeting House while the occupants were at church. About $12 or $15 in change was taken from the children's savings banks.

Several hours had elapsed before the Cecil county authorities were notified. Deputy Sheriff Seth started immediately in search of the culprits and found them asleep along the road with their booty beside them. They were on the Delaware side, however, and Officer Apsley was notified. He arrested them and brought them to Newark to await requisition. The young men signified their willingness to accompany the sheriff to Elkton and were escorted thither on Sunday evening.

CLUB DELEGATES TO ATTEND FEDERATION

Mrs. F. M. K. Foster to Present Greetings and Yearly Report

The State Federation of Women's Clubs, which will meet on Thursday and Friday of next week in Wilmington will be of unusual interest, for reports of war work and reconstruction will make the greetings from clubs of the State exceptional.

A committee of ladies from each organization will assist the chairman, Mrs. W. E. Piper. The first session of the conference will open at 2:30 on Thursday and as the program is full, club members are requested to please be prompt in attendance.

On Thursday evening, following brief addresses by visiting guests and Dr. Odell a reception will be given by the New Century Club in honor of the Federation.

On Friday afternoon a part of the program will be devoted to the subject: "A New Mission of Education." The speakers will be Miss Jeannette Eckman, Mr. Geo. B. Miller, Dean W. J. Robinson and Miss Catherine Schunder. The session closes with an address on "Fiction as an Escape from Fact," by C. I. Ward, Esq.

Friday night the Community Chorus festival will be a delightful community event. The school children will join with the chorus.

HAS BEEN TRANSFERRED TO COMPOSITE REGIMENT

Captain J. Wilson O'Daniel to Tour With Representative Soldier

Word was received here this week by relatives that Captain J. Wilson O'Daniel has been transferred from Company K, 11th Infantry, to a composite regiment made up of men from the entire American Expeditionary Force, who will tour France, England and Belgium as representatives of American soldiery. He is captain of a new company with authority to make his own choice of the men who compose it.

The majority of those chosen for this camp site regiment are men who have won their D. S. C.

Captain O'Daniel was cited for conspicuous valor and heroism and awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, after the St. Mihiel engagement September 12, when, having been wounded early in the action, he continued to lead his platoon until forced to succumb to physical exhaustion.

He is a grandson of Mrs. Rebecca Wilson of East Newark.

Omega Alpha Still A Local Fraternity

Last week the community interest of Newark was set on edge by the rumor that the Omega Alpha Fraternity had become affiliated with a national organization. A careful investigation has shown that the story was false, however, and that the Omega Alpha is still a local fraternity.

Funeral Service For Mrs. F. A. Hayes Today

The community was shocked on Friday to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. F. A. Hayes in the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington, of pneumonia. Mrs. Hayes entered the hospital several weeks ago and on Tuesday, May 13, gave birth to a daughter. She was apparently making splendid progress when pneumonia suddenly developed and her condition became critical shortly before noon on Friday. Some trouble was experienced by the hospital authorities in locating Professor Hayes, and when he arrived his wife was dead.

Her family, who live in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, were apprised of her death and a brother, who has just been discharged from the service, started east immediately, arriving in Newark on Sunday evening. On Monday afternoon the husband and brother started west with the body. Services will be held at her late home in Cedar Rapids this afternoon at 3:30 and a simultaneous service held in the Presbyterian Church here. Members of the Delaware College faculty and of the local high school will attend. Dr. Hayes' mother arrived here from Oklahoma on Monday evening and will assume charge of the infant daughter who survives.

Mrs. Hayes graduated a year ago with high honors from the Iowa Agricultural College at Ames and in July became the bride of Dr. Hayes. Soon after the wedding they came to Newark and took up residence on Prospect avenue.

In an emergency created by a shortage of teachers in the local high school Mrs. Hayes consented to teach the four classes in science during the first half of the school year. She was a teacher of marked ability and influence, much beloved by her students. Keenly interested in her subject and in every phase of student activity she elicited the admiration of students and faculty to whom her death means a deep personal loss. Meetings were held on Monday and arrangements made to send flowers and to establish a fitting memorial.

HOPE TO HAVE $1000 FOR SALVATION ARMY

Drive Closes Tomorrow

The extension of time for the Salvation Army drive increased the receipts somewhat, but Newark has not yet reached its self-appointed quota of $1,000. Chairman Frazier, of a result of a meeting of the solicitors held on Monday evening, turned over $662 to the fund and reports today that he hopes to reach the $1000 mark by tomorrow.

The solicitors report the greatest good will toward the organization and a surprising number of contributors. Few of the amounts given, however, have been large, a fact which Mr. Frazier attributes to the psychological principle of suggestion for the public has become accustomed to contributing small sums to this hitherto lowly organization which has made so surprisingly great a contribution to the good of humanity in the world war.

The office and mill force of the Continental Fibre Co. contributed $181.25 and other industrial organizations contributed liberally to the cause.

Blue and Gold Triumphs Over U. of P.

Ball Team Wins Significant Victory

Preparations Begun Last Night for Big Celebration

Excitement ran high last night even among those ordinarily indifferent to college affairs, when the news flashed over the wire last night that the Blue and Gold had won from Penn.

The significance of such a victory was evident to everyone. This is the first time as far as can be learned that a Delaware team has outclassed Penn in any branch of sport. This victory therefore places the college of the first State in the Union in its rightful position.

The undergraduates found it hard to believe the report at first but confirmation later let pandemonium loose, and impromptu celebrations continued spasmodically all night.

A demonstration took place in front of the Carter home on South College avenue in honor of Mr. Carter's sons, Gray and Bayard, both of whom did much toward winning the victory.

Rothrock, the Freshman southpaw, Marvel, who scored a sensational home run in the first inning, bringing in two men, Johnnie Pierson, who secured two hits and Horsey, who played an errorless game at short and likewise got two hits and Coach Shipley, who set a high standard for athletics at Delaware, came in for a share of the cheering.

Every noise-making device that undergraduate ingenuity could beg, borrow or—otherwise appropriate, was secured to welcome the victorious heroes and at night long the sounds of revelry continued.

According to accounts of students who accompanied the team, Penn started with a portion of her scrub team, but quickly switched in her regulars when she saw the calibre of her opponents.

The Penn coach put three pitchers into the box, but the Blue and Gold batsmen swatted each impartially, pulling 11 hits to Penn's 6 off Rothrock. In the eighth inning the latter's arm went bad and Carl was sent in at a particularly dramatic moment with the bases full and "Danny" McNichol, Penn's star first sacker, at bat. This switching of pitchers at this crucial time was greeted with hoots of derision by the Penn rooters, but the clear headed freshman after throwing over two called balls, steadied himself and retired the side.

The third was Delaware's big inning, four runs being scored. Donoho was thrown out by Bohan, and Marvel fanned. Then with two out Geo. Madden got a double, "Bess" Carter drove in Madden, with a single and came home on "Don" Horsey's two-bagger. Gray Carter knocked a hot one to Strauss, who muffed it and allowed him to get safely to second. Captain "Gudgie" McCordell then drove in Carter with a single, making the score 7-0. Delaware scored another run in the ninth. Penn scored one run in the third and two in the eighth.

Superior team work on the part of Delaware's nine and the excellent showing made by Delaware's battery, Rothrock and Carter, were contributing factors in the notable victory which will be celebrated with proper spirit. Plans are now under way for this celebration.

Many Transfers Of Real Estate

Many real estate deals have been consummated during the past week. The Newark Trust Co. has sold for D. C. Rose a lot on the corner of Wilber street and Prospect avenue to John Davey, who will soon start building a new home; a brick house on Prospect avenue to Miss Amy V. Jaquette, who will shortly move there; a lot on South College avenue to Mr. George M. Phipps an official of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who will erect there a modern home; two houses on South Chapel street to Mrs. Margaret J. Phelps, of Thomaston, Connecticut.

The Trust Co. has several other deals on hand that will probably be closed in a few days.

CRIPPLED SOLDIERS DEFEAT GERMANY AGAIN

Attack Her This Time in the Field of Industry

Soldiers crippled in the war are enjoying a particularly pleasing kind of revenge on the Germans by defeating them a second time. Instead of attacking Germany on the field of battle they are attacking her in the field of industry, and in a particularly vulnerable point—the making of fine toys. The toys are made at General Hospital No. 3, Colonia, N. J., and are sold wherever possible, with a guaranteed outlet in the shop established by the American Defense Society.

The course of instruction in toy making is one of many offered at Colonia. Work in clay, illustrating and drawing for commercial purposes, woodwork and decorative painting are available for soldiers who have been so disabled as to need a fresh means of earning their livelihood. It was found that even during the course of instruction the best results could not be attained unless the soldier felt that he was producing valuable goods, and the American Defense Society's shop was established to prove to the student soldiers that their work was good. The proceeds of all articles sold are divided—fifty per cent going to the soldier and fifty per cent toward improving the shops—which are managed and financed by the government.

Toy making is naturally a favorite choice, not only because it is certain to yield a profitable living but because toy making is the traditional solace of the soldier in the trenches. Soldiers of all the armies have developed an aversion to making wonderful toys and souvenirs out of the debris which shells and shattered aeroplanes dropped about them. At the Reconstruction Hospital this work is undertaken seriously and the toys produced are having exceedingly satisfactory sales.

Just as the war uncovered unsuspected talents for military life, its aftermath is revealing unknown artistic potentialities in many men. At the front many men began writing—letters of poetry or prose—for the first time in their lives. At this hospital men are learning to draw and paint, and they are men who were not making a profession of illustrating before the war. Yet their work, even as shown by scattered examples on the "studio" walls, indicates talents which will make the high class cover designer for Vanity Fair or the art journals of bohemian New York shake in their flat-heeled shoes. The illustrators go in for posters, both humorous and serious, and do some advertising work for other branches of the school.

In many cases the new occupation represents what a man had always wished to do, but was unable to learn because of his regular work. It represents more than mere earning power to the men, since it gives them the confidence of knowing that they are both independent and of distinct use in society, doing an honorable job. The cheerfulness with which the men study is as marked as the excellence of their results.

Why "The State Of Maine"

An observer of sectional peculiarities of speech in the United States says that men who live in Maine, when they speak of that northeastern corner of the Nation, almost invariably refer to it in full as "the State of Maine." The explanation is offered that this section of the country was so long a part of Massachusetts that, when it was separated and admitted to the Union, local pride led the inhabitants to emphasize the change by saying state as well as Maine, and local habit has continued the practice and made it permanent. Originally termed "the Province of Countee of Mayne," in a charter granted by Charles I in 1639, it was acquired by its neighbor, Massachusetts, fifty-two years later, and became the separate State of Maine only in 1820.

"Urbanizing Eas'n Sho"

Whittier, a New England poet, during the Civil War time, gave Frederick county, Maryland, a world fame as "The Garden Spot of Lord." But the East'n Sho' has never relinquished the claim about being the real, original honest-to-goodness Garden of Eden. And, apparently, the millionaire contingents of the big towns located within from four to seven hours' motoring distance of the Sho' have heard this rumor about the Sho' being the "watered land" where Adam and Eve dwelt before that disastrous apple incident.

Buying a rural estate somewhere along the stretch of the Eastern Shore seems to be the spreading idea from New York to Baltimore. There is scarcely a county on the Eastern side of the bay where large land tracts have not been purchased by rich urbanites, and such purchases are almost invariably followed by the expenditure for buildings and improvements of more money than was paid for the land.

The Eastern Shore of Maryland, in proportion to area, is probably the most splendidly watered region of the United States. Every county of the Eastern Shore, except Caroline, has a tidal water front and Caroline is traversed by numerous river prongs. As to the bay-front counties, they are land regions involved in a wonderful and charming way with an intricate scheme of winding and twisting creeks, rivers and tidal armlets. Millions with a longing for paradisaical gardens are finding the garden spots "down on the Sho."—Baltimore American.

Memorial Day

When the silvery shower is over,
And out of the windy West
A shimmer of saffron sunlight
Shines on the woodlark's nest.
Over the dark gray vapors
That still to the eastward march,
Flashes a span of jewels,
A wonderful glowing arch.
Sapphire and golden topaz,
And the amethyst's purple sheen,
The vivid flame of the ruby,
And the emerald's lustrous green
Pave with scintillant splendor
A road from earth to sky,
A radiant causeway leading
To the pearly portals high.
Behold, in its hues prismatic,
A rainbow bridge of light,
For men of the Rainbow Division,
Where gallant souls took flight
From the crimson reek of battle,
In a land that was not their own,
And who pass on its path of glory
To their place by the Great White Throne.

The Nation's Toast

Here's to the blue of the wind-swept North,
When we meet on the fields of
France,
May the spirit of Grant be with you
all,
As the Sons of the North advance!
Here's to the gray of the sun-kissed
South,
When we meet on the fields of
France,
May the spirit of Lee be with you all
As the Sons of the South advance!
Here's to the blue and the gray as one
When we meet on the fields of
France,
May the spirit of God be with us all
As the Sons of the Flag advance.

Back The Recon- struction Work

All Delawareans should co-operate with the Reconstruction Commission appointed by Governor Townsend to have charge of the reconstruction work in this State. The Commission met recently with the Governor at the State House, and tentative plans were made for the program to be carried out. The Commission will undertake some most important work and it is necessary that every resident of the State heartily co-operate with the members that this work be most successfully and efficiently accomplished.—Delaware State News.

SAFETY FIRST RULES TO PREVENT STREET ACCIDENTS

Traffic Expert Makes Study With Special Reference to Children

A recent accident on Main street, when in order to avoid running down a child a motorist wrecked his machine, makes pertinent the following:

A New York City traffic expert has recently made a careful study of street accidents to pedestrians, especially with reference to children, and as a result of his work he has formulated a set of safety first rules for the guidance of children whose play or business involves crossing public streets.

Memorize these rules, then teach them to your children so thoroughly that they cannot be misunderstood or forgotten. It is impossible for any parent to give his personal protection to his children always. The only safe way is to teach the child to take care of himself—to be aware of the danger and trained to avoid it.

Here are the rules formulated by the traffic expert.

There are a few rules that children can observe that will decrease the number of accidents, but the motorist must never feel that the responsibility rests all with the child.

(1) Look in both directions before stepping off the sidewalk. The left is most important, because all traffic should be coming from that direction.

(2) Never walk behind a street car without looking carefully for automobiles or other street cars coming from the other direction. It is much better to walk a little further to the corner before crossing.

(3) When possible always go to the corner where the traffic policeman is on duty. He is your friend.

(4) When more than one child is crossing the street, hold hands tightly, don't run, and don't separate. The driver can miss you if you become confused, providing you stay together, but if you separate, one of you is almost sure to be struck.

(5) If a car is standing at the corner or moving slowly some distance away, look the driver in the eye to make sure that he sees you and to learn what he is going to do. Don't look at the front of the car. Look at the driver.

(6) When the streets are slippery don't take a chance in crossing just because a car is moving slowly.

(7) Don't read letters or books when crossing the street. Don't talk to your friend, but keep your mind on the fact that you are crossing a street where there is danger and you must be alert.

(8) In playing ball or tennis, if the ball goes into the street, don't run after it without stopping first at the curb to make sure that there are no cars approaching.

(9) Cross the street at street corners. In many cities there is a fine for any one crossing between corners. This is called "jay walking."

(10) Don't play in the streets and don't roller skate in the streets.

(11) If the road is the only place to walk to school walk on the left side facing the traffic. If you walk on the right side you will be in the path of cars approaching from behind.

(12) Don't "hop on" behind trucks or cars. The greatest danger is in getting off without being able to see in all directions.

Pioneers Await Sailing Orders At Bordeaux

The 50th Pioneer Infantry, Delaware's Own, has been awaiting sailing orders at Bordeaux since May 8, according to Delaware men who returned to New York Thursday on the Imperator. A Wilmington sailor who said he had talked to some of the Pioneers reported that they expected to sail for New York about June 1, and would probably land on the tenth. They were brought to Bordeaux from various parts of France, the reports said, and were waiting for the three companies of the First Battalion that are helping to build the Pershing stadium to finish the work and join them.

Middletown Soldier Dies.

An official telegram was received at Middletown Tuesday evening by C. Richard Manlove, from Adjutant-General Harris of the War Department, notifying him of the death of his son, Corporal David H. Manlove, in France, on April 28.

Young Manlove was a member of Company K, 50th Pioneers, and was one of the very first of the boys of the vicinity of Middletown to volunteer his services for his country.

Consumer's League For Shorter Hours The Consumers' League of Delaware is urging the merchants to have shorter working hours during the summer.

As time passes, the Civil War retreats into the middle distance of our national history. To younger Americans Gettysburg is hardly more living a fact than Bunker Hill. Early readers of The Companion who saw the aged Lafayette and heard Webster at the dedication of the Bunker Hill Monument must have felt on their cheeks the very breath of Revolutionary battle, and thrilled with an immediate sense of the war which it is impossible to recover now, even from the most vivid pages of written history.

In the same way the generation now in adolescence has on Memorial day the privileges which no later generation will enjoy, of living contact with the veterans of the Civil War. Out of grateful respect we assist the survivors to decorate the graves of their comrades.

But Memorial Day is not for the old soldiers—they who have lived the fact need no memorial. The day is for us, for the young, who by joining the old in their devotions are brought into vital touch with great events.

The day is for the nation; the memorial observances are the means whereby the past imparts its inspiration to the present and the future. While the veterans are still with us, making the past real by their presence, we owe it to ourselves to come close to them at least once a year, to be filled with their spirit, which has been tempered and tested in national service. From them we catch the light as from a torch, to cherish and hand down to our children—Youths Companion.

Smyrna Accepts School Code.

Farmers Join To Buy Sprayer.

Five farmers of the Hockessin community have cooperatively purchased a four row, twelve nozzle iron age potato sprayer. This machine has been purchased through the New Castle County Farm Bureau under the direction of John Brackin, committee-man in charge of potato spraying, at a considerable reduction and so far as is practical the spraying will be conducted along such lines as will demonstrate to the farmers of the community the value of spraying for blight in potato growing.

Owing to the increasing prevalence of potato blight the Farm Bureau has succeeded in securing for every community of the county the privilege of purchasing one of these sprayers at the reduced rate.

Governor Visits Oxford.

Governor Sprunt and party rolled into Oxford over Route 131 and anchored in front of the Oxford Hotel in time for the noon meal on Monday. In his big touring car, license No. 7, were H. S. Devitt, and his stenographer. Their entrance to the borough was not heralded with any pomp or blare of trumpets and the Governor was happy that ostentation did not announce his coming and that he gained the dining room even before Lord Hoffman could locate his guest, as the Governor was attired in a business suit and a soft hat crowned his brow. When he appeared on the hotel porch after his remount the shops suspended business in order to catch a glimpse of the State's Executive.

Why May 30 Is Decoration Day.

General John A. Logan, then commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued an order on May 5, 1888, fixing May 30 of that year for the G. A. R.'s service in decorating the graves of its brethren. It is probable that this particular day was chosen because it was the date of the discharge of the last Union volunteer of the war.

Lieutenant-Colonel H. A. Mitchell, of the Army Medical service, arrived in New York Friday with a dozen other Elkton boys, who saw several months' active service in France.

"Stars and Stripes" to be Mustered.

The Stars and Stripes, the official newspaper of the American Expeditionary Forces, will suspend publication on June 13, it has been announced. The suspension of the newspaper indicates the rapid evacuation of the American army.

MORE THAN 200 SONS OF DELAWARE HERE SATURDAY

Visitors Have Full Day and Enjoy Fine Speeches

The annual visit of the Philadelphia Society Sons of Delaware to their home State occurred last Saturday. Weather conditions were ideal and brought an unusually large delegation from Philadelphia. Distinguished men from all over the State who were invited to be guests of the Society, came also in large numbers and together with a local reception committee met the special train bearing the Blue Hen's Chickens from Philadelphia on the B. & O. at 2 o'clock. This train was composed of three coaches filled with native sons many of whom lured by the unusually fine weather were making the trip for the first time in years. A committee composed of Dr. W. O. Sypherd, chairman, Dean E. L. Smith and Norris N. Wright, arranged, with the cooperation of interested citizens, to meet the train with a score or so of automobiles. Identification tags worn by hosts and guests simplified greatly the matter of introduction and carnations added a festive air.

They were taken first to the Experimental Farm, where they viewed the live stock and the growing crops. They returned to Women's College, where a reception was tendered them by Dean W. J. Robinson and members of the faculty. Many were interested in an inspection of Sussex Hall and observation of field sports in progress on the athletic field where the students were holding their annual inter-class meet.

A number of the party were taken in automobiles to Chesapeake City to see the new road in the course of construction between Newark and Baltimore and the locks at the entrance to the canal. Some of the guests inspected Wolf Hall and others attended the baseball game between Newark and Elkton on the Delaware Avenue grounds.

At 5 o'clock President and Mrs. S. C. Mitchell held a reception on the lawn at "The Knoll", where members of the Delaware College faculty and citizens of the town had an opportunity to greet the honored guests.

At 6:30 o'clock a sumptuous banquet planned and prepared under the supervision of Miss Carrie Stewart, was served by college students, a fact which elicited much interest, for among them were many whose families are well known to the visitors. Greetings were exchanged and a spirit of good fellowship prevailed.

A brief address was made by Merritt N. Willis, formerly of Middletown, now president of the local Exchange Bank of Philadelphia, who presided at the dinner and by Mr. Hazel, the Nestor of the organization. The principal address was made by Rev. John Watchorn, secretary of City Missions, Philadelphia, who discoursed most impressively on America's Destiny in International Politics. His statement that any party which opposes the ratification of the League of Nations will commit suicide, was received with the utmost enthusiasm, showing this to be the sentiment of that body of men.

Telegrams were read from Governor John G. Townsend, Secretary of State Everett C. Johnson and others who were unable to be present. As an evidence of his interest in the society, Governor Townsend sent a crate of luscious strawberries which were thoroughly enjoyed by the "native sons."

Music throughout the banquet was furnished by Madden's Orchestra. Shortly after 10 o'clock they were escorted to the B. and O. station, where they boarded the special train and returned to Philadelphia.

TO DETERMINE COST OF PRODUCING MILK

U. S. Dairy Department to Co- operate With Middle- town Association

"What is the cost of producing milk?" is the problem which the U. S. Department in cooperation with the Middletown Cow Testing Association will endeavor to solve. Twenty members of the Middletown Association have agreed to cooperate in carrying out the work which will begin June 1.

Mr. J. B. Baine of the U. S. Dairy

Department, called at the New Castle County Farm Bureau office the first of May, after which he inspected a few herds and interviewed a few members of the Middletown Association incident to the cost of milk production accounting with an idea of determining a community which is representative of those shipping to Philadelphia and New York. After leaving New Castle County Mr. Baine visited several communities in Pennsylvania and New Jersey and pursuant to his report to the Washington office a telegram was received at the Central Farm Bureau office stating that the Dairy Department had chosen the Middletown community as a location for the work. Mr. Baine has recently spent a day in the county and the twenty operators were readily secured.

The purpose of the investigation is to secure detailed data relative to the cost of producing milk which will be published in bulletin form and which will be used throughout the East. According to the proposed plan the U. S. Dairy Department will employ an experienced man and pay his salary and expenses. The man will spend one day each month on each of the twenty farms and in addition to the cost of feed data which he secures from the cow testing association books he will take detailed account of cost of labor, interest on investment, depreciation and every item entering into the cost of producing milk.

The government is expending a large sum of money in this work and the officers of the Middletown Association are highly pleased to have it conducted in conjunction with their Association.

SUMMER SCHOOL THIS YEAR TO BE OF DIS- TINCTIVE CHARACTER

Course in Americanization to be Given by Experts

The new character that has been given the Delaware College Summer School by the series of lectures which are being provided at the coming session, to begin June 30, is made evident in the announcement of speakers already secured, which has been sent out this week. It will bring to Delaware some of the most distinguished figures in American public life. Among the celebrated names which already appear upon a rapidly growing list are Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, author and preacher; H. R. Palmer, editor of the Providence Journal; Charles Seymour, diplomatic expert, now in Paris as special adviser to Col. House and the American Commission; Russell Conwell, famous for his lecture on "Acres of Diamonds," which he will deliver at Newark; Dr. Geo. D. Strayer, President of the National Education Association; Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, one of the world's great teachers of religion, and Dr. John Finley, Commissioner of Education of the State of New York.

That a thorough course in "Americanization" will be given by competent experts, is another feature of the new announcement. This will be for the benefit of teachers who wish to train themselves for work under the provision of $15,000 made by the last legislature to establish classes in Americanization as a part of the public school system. Thirty teachers are already engaged in conducting such classes in Wilmington alone, under Miss Burnett, who will give the students the benefit of her local experience by furnishing the instruction in Method at the summer school. Next year there will be a demand for more teachers in this work, to fill vacancies and to take charge of newly-formed classes, and this course is designed to give them adequate training.

In a message from Paris Charles Seymour, diplomatic expert and special advisor to Colonel House on the American Peace Commission, has just given his consent to deliver three lectures on the international situation. An eye-witness of the negotiations that are leading to the conclusions of peace, and in intimate touch with the peace-makers, he will speak with full authority.

A complete list of the lecturers at Newark during the summer, so far as announced, as well as the dates of their coming will be of general interest, inasmuch as many of the speakers will probably draw an audience from all parts of the state. Dr. Hillis will open the session by addressing a state community meeting, probably at Newark, on Sunday evening, June 29, and will deliver two lectures on the following days which will be the first of the summer session. Russell Conwell will deliver his "Acres of Diamonds" on July 18. Dr. Strayer, President of the N. E. A., will be in Newark July 25. On July 28, Frank P. Bachman, who conducted the survey under the General Education Board, which led to the enactment of the Code, will come to interpret to the state its new educational legislation. On July 30, Mr. Whitney of New York, a Safety Engineer, has been secured by the Delaware Safety Council, to present the Safety First movement. Dr. Gunsaulus, the great divine, will speak on July 17. The dates of Dr. John Finley and Mr. Palmer, editor of the Providence Journal, who will interpret the union of the press in public education, have not yet been announced.

THOMAS'S GUILD SURPRISES PASTOR

Arranges Social Evening and Presents Badge of Gold Pieces

A delightful surprise party was rendered Rev. and Mrs. Walter G. Haupt on Monday evening by members of St. Thomas' Guild in honor of the Haupt's fifth anniversary as rectors of the church.

While they were enjoying an automobile ride with friends, several hundred guests assembled at the Parish house with good things to eat and costumes and equipment for a presentation of Madame Jarley's Wax Works.

Mr. D. C. Rose in a unique arraignment enumerated charges against Mr. Haupt including that of installing a pipe organ, organizing a choir, paying the church debt of $680, securing through the Guild sufficient funds to purchase a new bell; establishing a fund for punctuality in church service and attendance; and proving kind and helpful under all circumstances.

A unique badge, consisting of gilded gold pieces in graduated sizes, totaling $50 in value, was presented to the rector, who responded with a plea of guilty to the charges and a few words of gratitude and appreciation to those of the church who carried out the plan.

Mrs. Charles Colmery cleverly demonstrated the wax works in which C. Rose, George Dohson, W. D.

Dean, E. B. Burnley, Miss Lipacomb and Mrs. Lee Rose starred.

A duet by Mrs. Weller and Miss Clarice Weller concluded the program. Refreshments of lemonade and cake were served and dancing followed.

The plans for the affair were due largely to the efforts of Mrs. Lee Rose.

A THOUSAND PERSONS WITNESS PLAY ELECTRA

Presentation By Dramatic Clubs A Marked Success

The "Electra" of Euripides, presented on the terrace at Wolf Hall last Friday evening, was without doubt the greatest dramatic success ever seen at Delaware College, a success of which the Footlights Club, and the Dramatic Club of the Women's College may well be proud. Over a thousand people attended and many more were turned away from lack of seating capacity, which shows that an appreciative audience can still be found for a Greek poetic drama. The production was a singularly beautiful and artistic interpretation of one of the great poetic dramas of a vanished civilization which can never lose its force because, though the ages change and the fashions of outward institutions change with them, human nature does not change, and the master of its passions of over two thousand years ago can sway men still. The English version given, that of Professor Gilbert Murray of Oxford, from whom permission to use the play was obtained, is admirable, lessening in no way the passions and characterizations of Euripides.

The work of everyone who had a hand in producing the play cannot be too highly commended. Miss Emilia Mundy made a superb Electra, holding the audience tense with her passionate declamations and portrayal of the emotions of the daughter of Agamemnon. Allen as the messenger gave a soul-stirring speech describing the kill-

Memorial Day

THERE is a new significance to all our days since the A. E. F., recruiting from every State, went forth to fight in a common cause.

East, West, North and South ---everywhere---our veterans of the world war now join the thinned ranks of veterans of other wars on May 30th in commemoration of their comrades who have made the supreme sacrifice for peace.

AMERICA? WHY?

What Does Memorial Day Mean Anyway

There will be the usual celebration of Memorial Day next Friday. In every cemetery in the country where lies the dust of a soldier of the union, there will be the tribute of flowers and flags, the salute of guns, perhaps a band, somebody will read the Gettysburg address, and the community's chosen orator will cry out anew in Old Glory's name. Men will bare their heads, and women will have moist eyes, and children will play in the green grass. There will be a throbbing something in the human breast, if it be the breast of an American—which it probably will be, for it is seldom that any but Americans go to cemeteries on such a day.

It will be a Memorial Day little different, as to detail, at least, than the many that have gone before. To the average American, it will have about the same significance that Memorial Days of the past have had. Those that have been observed before have had a very profound significance to some; to others, a meaning rooted not so deep. But even those who are not religious devotees at such occasions can not escape a thrill, if circumstances bring them within the circle of the ceremony. It seems to me that being present at a Memorial Day celebration, whether it be one of homely simplicity or one planned upon the lines of splendid pageantry, is a guarantee of some sort of country-loving emotion. I even think that Gene Debs himself would get a patriotic shiver of some kind if he were at such a sort of ceremony. Of Victor Berger, I couldn't be quite so sure. But I do know this: If a man born on the soil of the United States has it in his head that there are intellects in other lands capable of running this or any other country better than we manage to do it, and that the United States isn't such a much of a country after all, let him attend the nearest Memorial Day celebration next Friday. It will be good for what ails him. I know it will. I've experimented under similar circumstances.—Albert H. Laidlaw, in National Republican.

TWENTIETH CENTURY MUST MAKE WORLD A BROTHERHOOD

This is the Time for Heroic Action Such as Soldiers Displayed

A thought that is uppermost in men's minds as they turn from war is that they are living in a big world and no longer in isolation, in individualistic selfishness and self-absorption. It is simply unthinkable that we people of the United States live apart from the rest of the world, and indeed why should we? That great traveller, Joseph Cook, once remarked that the nineteenth century made the world a neighborhood, and the twentieth century (the "so-called twentieth century," as a clever woman put it) must make the world a brotherhood.

We are to think internationally and to love internationally, which does not mean that the programme is so large as to be futile, simply that we are to consider every man and every woman of every race as "the brother for whom Christ died." The pagan poet, Terence expressed a Christian sentiment when he said, "I am a man and nothing that is human is foreign to me." Inclusiveness and not exclusiveness is the mark of culture; certainly it is the mark of a Christian. "He drew a circle that shut me out—heretic, rebel, a thing to flout. But love and I had the wit to win; we drew a circle that took him in." Let us have no hymns of hate for any one; they are terrible boomerangs which come back and injure the singer. Hate burns itself out at the last; only love is eternal. It is ours, then, to apply this Christian principle of world brotherhood to the time in which we live, not in thought alone, but in industry, in social affairs—everywhere, in short, St. Paul phrased it thus:—"Where there is neither Greek nor Jew, barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free: but Christ is all, and in all."

The way seems open today as never before for the spreading of the Kingdom of God among men. By this I do not mean giving to missions as such (though that is a help), but I mean that for which our brave soldiers gave their lives, the last they had: I mean democracy. Let us not be afraid of anything which will achieve this. For Christianity, after the example of its founder, is an adventurous thing and loves to dare. There has been rhetoric enough; now is the time for heroic action such as men displayed in the danger of the trench.

If, as some have said, the war engulfing humanity brought the twilight of the gods, one can only retort, "When half gods go the gods arrive."—Albert Farr, Acting Rector Episcopal Church, Chatham, N. J.

"PRESIDENT WILSON," A PHILADELPHIA VISITOR

Pigeon Who Saved Lost Battalion and Two Others Cited for Valor

The carrier pigeon which saved the life of the Lost Battalion visited Philadelphia on Friday with the Third Assistant Secretary of War.

This winged messenger, named "President Wilson," is the sole survivor of a basket of Signal Corps pigeons that attempted to carry messages from the "Lost Battalion" to headquarters. For this service the War Department has cited him for the Distinguished Service Cross. In action he had his left wing shot away.

With the heroic feathered messenger of the "Lost Battalion" is two other pigeons heroes of the war. They are "The Mocker," who lost an eye and part of his skull but carried his message to headquarters, and "Spike," who has a record of twenty kilometres in twenty-one minutes.

The official citations of three carrier pigeons:

"President Wilson" Hero.

"During the operations of the tanks in the St. Mihiel offensive one big blue bird, known to his trainer as 'President Wilson,' working from the tanks, carried messages of importance with such rapidity of flight as to call forth commendations from the Signal Officer of the First Corps. Transferred to the Meuse-Argonne sector with station at Cully, 'President Wilson' again proved his mettle. It was on the morning of November 5, the big blue with his leg shot off, arrived at his loft. His flight, the second on this front, was made in twenty-one minutes, over a distance of twenty kilometers. Particularly creditable was the performance of 'President Wilson' because of the fact that he homed in a heavy rain and fog. A powerful bird, of wonderful vitality, the big blue recovered quickly, and today graces the Hall of Honor of the American Pigeon Service. 'President Wilson' is officially designated as USA 18, 16374, h. c."

"The Mocker."

With his eye destroyed by a piece of shrapnel, his head a welter of clotted blood, homed in splendid time from the Beaumont front on the morning of September 12, a few minutes after 7 o'clock in a thick fog and heavy rain. His sufferings plainly apparent, the gallant little courier never faltering, bore tidings of a particularly important objective reached and gave the location of several of the enemy's heavy batteries which were doing terrible execution on the advancing American troops. With the information, American artillerymen were able to silence the enemy's guns within 24 minutes.

"Spike."

"This bird has probably rendered more efficient service than any other pigeon used in the war. Flying from tanks in the Argonne offensive, he delivered more than fifty-two messages to his loft; many of them were of the greatest importance. Fortunately he was not wounded on any of his dangerous journeys, and at the present time his home is in a comfortable loft in Potomac Park, Washington, D. C."

THE YOUNG AND DARING SKIPPER OF THE NC-4

First to Accomplish Air Flight From New World to Old

As Italy claims Columbus, the navigator to first cross the Atlantic on a sea borne craft, so New Hampshire takes to herself the credit for mothering Lieut. Commander Albert Cushing Read, the daring skipper of the NC-4, which will go down into history as the premier air craft to successfully accomplish a flight through the air from the new world, discovered by the Italian, to the old one from which he set sail almost four and a half centuries ago.

Lieut. Commander Read was born at Lyme, a little village on the Connecticut River, in the Granite state, March 29, 1887. He lived the normal life of New England childhood and, later, his people moved southward to Massachusetts, from which state a cadetship was given to him in the Naval Academy at Annapolis July 8, 1905.

After varied service he was made an Ensign in 1909, and Lieutenant in 1912.

The young officer's first official connection with the naval flying service was on June 30, 1915, when he was detached from duty at the Torpedo Station at Newport, and ordered to the Naval Aeronautic Station at Pensacola, Fla., for duty under instruction in aeronautics. He was designated a student naval aviator the following month. On May 27, the next year, he was detached from the Pensacola station and assigned to the battleship North Carolina.

His progress in airmanship had been so satisfactory that advancement to the grade of Naval Aviator was simultaneous. He was ordered from the North Carolina to the Washington—her name was changed to the Seattle while he was with the cruiser—and then, on June 5, 1917, he was again detached and sent to the aviation station at Bay Shore, L. I., of which he became the commander a fortnight later. Scores of young naval aviators there received their training under his direction and his record for energy and efficiency rapidly became an enviable one. He was later sent to the naval air station at Miami, Fla., where he continued to serve until he was ordered to the office of the chief of naval operations, serving in connection with the camouflage of seaplanes at Hampton Roads.

His next duty was as a member of the board to consider and make recommendations to the supervisor of the Naval Reserve Flying Corps regarding officers of the corps, who had been in training at Garden City, Rockaway Beach, Bay Shore, Montauk, the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn and Chatham, Mass. After his recommendations had been completed Lieut. Read was designated as a member of a board to test the heavier than air types of machines used by the navy and to additional temporary duty at Port Washington, L. I.; Keyport, N. J.; Buffalo, and Cape May, N. J.

Temporary rank as Lieutenant-Commander was bestowed July 1, 1918, and was followed by duty at Garden City, Bay Shore, Port Washington and Akron, Ohio. His rank was made regular to date from July 1, 1919—on March 21 of the year, and he was ordered to report to the NC seaplane division.

Roller Skating

A Business Asset

Roller-skating, once indulged in only for pleasure, has now become an important accomplishment in many business houses. Several large mail order houses in both Chicago and New York require office boys to know how to get about on skates, giving them a carefully worked out route between the different departments.

WORK OF UNIVERSITY AT BEAUNE TO BE DISCONTINUED

Dean Hayward to Continue Work at Coblenz

According to letters received last week from Dean Harry Hayward, the work of the great overseas university at Betune with which he has been connected will be discontinued after June 6th. The educational work planned for the American Expeditionary Forces will however be continued for those who are with the Army of Occupation and Dean Hayward will be stationed at Coblenz after June 15.

At the time of writing he was on a lecture tour and was enjoying an exceptional opportunity for sightseeing. From Tours he writes that he visited the City Hall, where there are some unusually good mural paintings and some massive interior decorations that are unusually attractive. He visited the Art Museum also and according to his statement, he received a liberal education for here are some of the best paintings and sculptures from the Louvre at Paris as well as pictures by Rembrandt, Rubens and others of the old masters.

He went also to see underground tunnels used by Charles XI to take his victims from his house to the hangman's house. Parts of these were built by the Romans and are fine examples of masonry. He visited the cathedral and was much impressed with the beautiful windows and their wonderful coloring.

A later letter told of a visit to the Joan of Arc country with an educator who knows the history of the section like a book.

"I thoroughly enjoyed the chateaux that I saw on my trip," he says, "and was thrilled by the sight of the three world's decisive battlefields that I saw from the roof of the Hall of Justice where Joan was examined by the Commission. We went through the famous chateau where Joan went to see Charles VII to tell him of her visions and of hearing the voices telling her that she would save France. Yesterday we went down by the church where she sent for her sword. We also drove by the old house which was the home of Elinor, one of the Henrys.

This is also the land of the cave dwellers and I am told there are tunnels a mile long in some places. I keep out of these places. I have been in houses now occupied that are hewn out of solid rock. I heard a man say today that the French would not live in a house less than 500 years old. I have seen some most wonderful stone carving that has endured since the tenth century. I think I am appreciating the opportunity of sightseeing this time and hope to do much more of it before I go back. I am looking forward with much anticipation to my work in Coblenz.

He states that he is enjoying his usual good health and will be glad when the time comes to go home again, provided he can cross in a good boat and a smooth sea.

HARD-FOUGHT GAME OPENS BASE- BALL SEASON

Newark Loses to Elkton 3-2 on Home Grounds

After the weather man had prevented twice the opening of the Del-Mar League baseball season, he handed out a fine brand of weather on Saturday and the league was off with a fine start. P. R. R. triumphed over Wilder, 7-1; General Chemical over New Castle, 3-2, and Elkton over Newark, 3-2.

Local fans to the number of nearly 200, saw a closely fought game on the Delaware Avenue grounds. Both Briscoe and Crow pitched good ball, each holding the opposition to 6 hits. Two of those off Briscoe were made by Jackson, Elkton's third baseman.

The game was a tie at the end of the fourth inning and neither side had scored at the end of the ninth. Two additional innings were played and Elkton scored in the eleventh, winning the game.

Appleton Grange Holds Big Meeting

Saturday evening, May 17, is one that will long be remembered by the members of the Appleton Grange. With every officer in his place the business meeting was soon despatched. Owing to the very inclement weather Mr. J. H. Anthony was unable to be present but Master J. H. Knode gave the obligations to twenty-two new members. The other candidates for membership were not present. It is desired that they come and be initiated at the next meeting, May 31, at which time Mr. Anthony is expected.

After the Grange was closed, refreshments were served. Then a social time was spent. Everybody enjoyed the evening so much that they hope initiation nights may come often.

A beautiful modern suite in straight lines with beautifully matched veneers, is priced in walnut, $480.00 for seven pieces. It can also be had in mahogany and two-toned grey enamel.

A very unusual suite in American walnut is a Louis XVI design with delicately reeded legs and applied plaques of fine berl walnut. This suite comes with variety case, bow foot twin beds and roomy chifonette, and is marked $880.00 for eight pieces.

There are some excellent designs in American walnut and mahogany and decorated enamels that are moderately priced, ranging for four pieces from $185.00 to $300.00 the suite.

One especial value, a Louis XVI in American walnut, consists of dresser, toilet table, vanity case, chifonette, full size bed, desk, table, chair and bench. It has a beautifully reeded foot and mirror frames are veneered with fine berl walnut. The toilet table has triplicate mirrors. The vanity case has triplicate mirrors and long centre glass. The chairs are covered in a quaint chintz. The price for this complete suite—nine pieces, is $450.00.

It will pay you to see some of these new suites if only to keep yourself informed of the latest and best designs. We will be glad to have you visit us.

Two Things You Need for Your Porch

There is real comfort in a porch hammock. Not only do they provide seating space for three—or four in a pinch—but they are just the thing for that forty winks when one is drowsy these sunny days. We have a dozen different patterns, mostly in khaki with adjustable backs and comfortable springs and mattresses. They are priced from $12.00 to $45.00 complete with chains, ready to hang. Metal stands are $7.00 each. All of these hammocks are fitted with heavily galvanized springs to resist dampness and rust.

A Vudor screen quickly changes a sunny, uncomfortable porch to a cool, shady room and at the same time gives you privacy.

They are made of painted wood slats, in green, tan or combination colors. They are fitted with anti whip device and rope guides, not pulleys. In addition they have an exclusive ventilating feature to be found only on Vudor screens. They can be hung in a jiffy by anyone with only a hammer.

You will never appreciate the comfortable shade these screens will give you until you try one. Why not get yours now before summer is partly gone—enjoy it all summer.

real efficient ice and food savers. Over sixty styles in sizes and shapes to meet all conditions.
