U. OF D. TO WELCOME HOMEMAKERS JUNE 18-20

Delaware Women To Attend Educational Meeting Here

Three days filled with program events ranging from group singing and movies through educational sessions on women's work in the National Defense Program are in store for 100 Delaware homemakers who will gather on the University of Delaware campus for the sixth annual Homemaker's Short Course, June 18 to 20.

First of the scheduled features will be a tour of the University campus. Then a get-acquainted session in Mitchell Hall will include movies and refreshments. Formal greetings from University officials, an organ recital, group singing and a talk by Rev. S. J. Thackaberry, pastor of the Smyrna Presbyterian Church, on "Why We Live as Families" will conclude the first day's short course activities.

Most of the Homemaker's Short Course educational meetings will be devoted to discussions on how women can contribute to the National Defense and Food-for-Defense Programs. At one of the day-time sessions, historical, scenic and present-day development facts on Delaware will be featured.

One of the short course events is a trip to Wilmington for a demonstration at the Delaware Power and Light Co., and visits to points of interest in the city, including the Delaware Art Center and the Rose Garden.

Women at the short course will knit squares and make an afghan in their leisure time. The afghan is to be given to Bundles for Britain. Homemakers knitting for the Red Cross have been asked to bring their work to the short course.

One evening during the homemaker's three-day stay at the University will be devoted to group singing, games and stunts by talented short course "students." Mrs. Stanley Gibbs, Newark, will lead the short course songfests, accompanied by Mrs. Ralph McNatt, Odessa.

Advance registration for the 1941 Homemaker's Short Course can be made with Mrs. Helen V. McKinley, University of Delaware, Newark.

GROWERS APPROVE WHEAT QUOTAS

Referendum Shows Farmers In Favor Of Marketing Quota

Present tabulations of returns from the May 31 wheat marketing quota referendum indicate that slightly more than 90 per cent of the 881 Delaware farmers who voted cast their ballots in favor of the marketing quotas.

In 40 of the nation's 48 States, more than a half-million wheat farmers voted during the one-day referendum. Of the 505,207 votes tabulated to date, 408,091 are in favor of quotas while 97,116 show opposition.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 provides that when supplies of wheat are 35 per cent or more above normal domestic consumption and exports, marketing quotas must be proclaimed. But the quotas remain in effect only when they are approved by two-thirds of the wheat farmers voting in a national referendum.

Marketing quotas will apply on all farms where wheat seeded for 1941 harvest exceeds 15 acres, or where the seedling normally yields more than 200 bushels, whichever is larger. Farmers who have seeded within their allotments may market their entire wheat production without penalty. Wheat that is produced on acres in excess of the allotment will be subject to a per-bushel penalty of 50 per cent of the basic loan rate.

The farmer who has wheat in excess of his allotment has the choice of paying the penalty and marketing the wheat, storing it under bond, or delivering it to the government for use in supplying relief needs. If excess wheat is sealed in approved storage, it will be considered eligible collateral for a government loan at 60 per cent of the regular loan rate being offered AAA program cooperators.

USO DRIVE IS STARTED

The United Service Organizations' drive to raise $37,500 was launched yesterday afternoon at a luncheon at the Hotel duPont. More than 600 persons attended the session and plans were formulated for the drive which will provide recreation centers for men in service.

Supported by the President, Secretary Stimson, Secretary Knox, and Federal Security Administrator McNutt, six of the great national agencies are already tackling the job in a united program, working through a single coordinating body, The United Service Organizations for National Defense, Inc.

Included are: The Young Men's Christian Associations, the National Catholic Community Service, the Salvation Army, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Jewish Welfare Board, and the National Travelers Aid Association.

Soliciting of funds in Newark will be in charge of the following captains: Mrs. F. Allyn Cooch, Jr., Mrs. Paul Lovett, Mrs. Carleton E. Douglass, Mrs. Herman Handloff, Mrs. James D. Counahan, Mrs. A. J. Doordan, and Mrs. R. Carr Trumbull.

FARMERS ACT TO BEAT DROUTH

LAST WEEK at the height of the spring's drouth when hay crops were already lost up to 50% and even more, and pastures were damaged almost beyond repair, a committee of 12 leading farmer-patrons of Southern States Cooperative met in Richmond to consider the best measures farmers could take to overcome losses. Aware that this drouth—most serious since 1930—would damage the farm economy and severely cut production of food needed for the National Defense Program, these men called in representatives of Agricultural Colleges of Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, and West Virginia, as well as men from the Departments of Agriculture of these states and the federal government, to ask advice for best steps to take.

Committee's 5-Point Plan

1. That Southern States Cooperative make emergency hay crop seeds available at cost in order to save money for farmers and to prevent private profiteering during this emergency.
2. That Southern States make a dairy feed, high in nutrients, but priced at out-of-pocket cost for farmers who need to supplement shortened forage crops with concentrated grain.
3. That Southern States serve, if and when necessary, as the vehicle through which farmers can buy hay cooperatively in order to save as much as possible on cost.

eratively in order to save as much as possible on cost.

4. The committee petitioned the Secretary of Agriculture to take steps to make seed available to farmers, to consider freight rate concessions, and adjustments of government credit facilities in the emergency.

5. Southern States was asked to keep members and patrons advised of recommendations made by State Colleges and Departments of Agriculture as to the best steps farmers can take to meet the drouth situation.

All Set for Rain

Almost over night this Drouth Committee came together

from the four states served by the cooperative. Within a few hours information for reseeding and for planting emergency crops was in the mails and on the way to 100,000 patron-members. Prices of emergency forage crop seeds were drastically lowered and a high quality Drouth Dairy feed was ready for farmers at a price barely sufficient to cover ingredient, bag, and transportation costs. When rains came to scattered communities, the job of seeding got under way without loss of time. In such ways organized farmers who own and control Southern States Cooperative act promptly and effectively to meet farm problems and to help themselves in any emergency.

Newark, Delaware, Thursday, June 12, 1941

FLAG DAY, JUNE 14

Among all the national emblems in the world, the American flag is generally conceded to be the most beautiful. It was officially adopted by the Continental Congress on June 14, 1777, in a resolution which provided that the flag be 13 stripes of alternating red and white, and that the "union" be 13 white stars on a blue field.

Originally the 13 stars were arranged in a circle, and it was at first intended to add an additional star and an additional stripe for each new state admitted into the Union.

But after increasing the number of stars and stripes after the admission of Vermont and Kentucky, it became evident that a further number of stripes would make the design of the flag less beautiful, so it was decided to return to the 13 stripes, representing the 13 original states, and add a star for each new state. Thus we have our present flag, with 48 stars and 13 stripes.

In commemoration of the adoption of the flag in 1777, June 14 is celebrated throughout the nation as Flag Day, with appropriate ceremonies intended to impress all citizens with increased respect and reverence for the flag, and all for which it stands.

BIG JOB

The question of government price control has been much in the headlines of late. The problem of just how far the government will eventually have to go to keep prices within justifiable bounds, remains unsolved. In the meantime, important voluntary price control action has been taken by the retail industry.

Retailers in all lines long ago realized the danger of price inflation resulting from war abroad, with its dislocating effect on world economy, and our unprecedented defense program at home which is releasing billions of dollars in a relatively short period of time. So, they decided to do all they could to keep prices in line. They pledged themselves to fight profiteering. They pledged themselves to make further efforts to reduce overhead costs and narrow marketing spreads. They pledged themselves to refrain from "scare advertising." They pledged themselves to buy normally, so as to not unnecessarily disturb the wholesale markets. They pledged themselves to inform consumers of true conditions, in order to prevent hysterical buying.

You see the fruits of this wise policy today. The cost of necessities has generally risen very little and nothing resembling a price inflation has appeared. The cost of distribution continues to go down, and the producer continues to receive a rising proportion of the final selling price of his product. In short, the American standard of living is being maintained during a time when the standard of living of other nations has dropped to rock-bottom.

Your retailer is doing a big job in your interest. He's working harder than ever to help make your dollar buy as much as possible. That job deserves national recognition.

MONUMENT TO MEDICINE

Outside a famous Southern city there is an old cemetery where the dead of long-past generations lie buried. There are 1,396 graves in that cemetery—and in only four cases were the persons buried there more than 45 years old at the time of death. In other words, only one-fifth of one per cent of them reached what in these modern times is regarded as the prime of life.

There could be no more graphic illustration of what American medicine and American medical science have done for the health of America. One hundred and fifty years ago the life expectancy of man in the United States was 35 years. Today it is 62 years.

That has been the result of endless striving, under a free system of medicine which gives every doctor, every scientist, the chance to achieve to the very utmost of his abilities and energies. Research in great laboratories—specialists in big cities—country doctors in villages and hamlets—all have contributed. They have spent their lives working to make the lives of others longer, fuller, happier.

In those hundred and fifty years typhoid fever has almost disappeared; smallpox has been subdued; diphtheria has been practically conquered; tuberculosis has been robbed of much of its terror. The monument to American medicine is written in the standards of health of the American people—standards which are not equaled anywhere else on earth.

A Washington correspondent says Senators are not as talkative as many suppose; that 25 never speak on the floor, another 25 seldom talk, and 30 make speeches only occasionally. The remaining 16 do most of the talking which gives the Senate its reputation for superfluous wind-jamming.

An educator suggests that inasmuch as it is impossible for anyone to be informed about everything, we should deliberately choose the subjects concerning which we are content to remain in ignorance. For most of us these would make a lengthy list.

In Brooklyn, a man arrested for running down a pedestrian pleaded in extenuation that his vision had been obscured by a large "safety first" sticker which someone had pasted on his windshield.

After working 50 years on a farm near Buffalo, N. Y., Henry Larusch inherited it from its late owner, Edward Wandel.

In 58 years of married life Joseph Raphael has never eaten a meal that was not prepared by his wife.

STAMP PLAN IMPORTANT TO DEFENSE

The Food Stamp Plan and other programs of the Surplus Marketing Administration can play a vital part in nutrition for home defense, it was stated today by Louis Bessemer, in charge of the Food Stamp Plan in New Castle County. Latest figures released by the Economic Analysis Section of the Surplus Marketing Administration reveal how Food Stamps and School Lunches are at present helping to improve nutrition standards in the United States, Mr. Bessemer added.

At the recent National Conference on Nutrition for Defense called by President Roosevelt in Washington, D. C., it was learned that 45,000,000 Americans have been living below the food diet danger-line. This and other discussions at the Conference gives special significance to facts concerning foods bought with blue food stamps by the 3,828,000 participants in the Food Stamp Plan in the 306 areas in operation during April. A total additional food purchasing power of $9,577,000 was made available to participants in these areas. This represents a 7 percent increase over last month's distribution of foods through blue stamps.

Mr. Bessemer added that the 31 percent of this total, or $3,000,000, which came to the Northeastern Region, of which Delaware is a part, was the largest share that went to any single region. This is due to the concentration of large participating metropolitan areas in the eastern industrial region, and in increased participation in New York City, in four boroughs of which the Food Stamp Plan opened on March 1. New York participants in the plan were thus mainly responsible for a blue stamp issuance $400,000 above the March level.

Newark, Delaware
June 11, 1941

Dear Editor:

I feel that it is necessary for me to print this letter in your paper so the thinking people of this town may know something of the 'modus operandi' of their governing body.

On June 2nd, together with several interested citizens, I attended the monthly meeting of the Town Council. We listened for about thirty-five minutes to the routine business. Then the Mayor brought before the Council a question of an amendment to the existing ordinance restricting the building of garages and gasoline stations on Main Street between the B. & O. Railroad and the Pomeroy Branch of the Penna. Railroad.

When this matter was brought up, a point of question was raised by one of our citizens. He explained that he had made a study of the question before Council and asked permission to bring to the attention of the members the reasons he thought what they were about to do was illegal. He was immediately told by the Mayor that there would be no discussion. The Mayor stated that Council had obtained legal advice and he was determined not to put off any longer the passing of this amendment.

By law, this required a majority vote of the councilmen. The vote stood 3 to 1 and the Mayor, who has no vote except in case of a tie, declared the measure passed since he himself voted for it in addition.

This steam roller finish was a breathtaking final dash after a long, rigorous race.

I am wondering if the citizenry realize just what this means to them? They should be warned, before it is too late, of the danger of such un-American tactics. With the menacing spread of totalitarianism in the world today, the people of a true Democracy must cling to every remaining vestige of the power of the voice of the people.

Let the people speak!

"CIVIS"

CONGRESS ASKED TO WITHDRAW GAS TAX

Asked To Leave Duplicating Levy To States; Was Emergency Move

Twenty-four states, including Delaware, have petitioned Congress in recent years to drop its duplicating federal tax on gasoline and leave that field to the states, H. V. Daniel, Secretary, Associated Petroleum Industries of Delaware, said today.

"Despite these protests of the states, the federal gasoline tax, adopted as a temporary, emergency measure in 1932, has been extended repeatedly," said Mr. Daniel. "Last year the rate was increased by 50 per cent."

"The federal tax on gasoline is equivalent to an average of 12 per cent of the retail price. That is a very heavy tax, especially in view of the fact that the states also impose stiff taxes on motor fuel."

"The petitions of protest filed by the twenty-four states urging Congress to withdraw from its invasion of the field of motor taxation point out that gasoline tax revenue is the chief source of funds for road building and that the states have pledged their motor fuel receipts to meet interest and principal payments on hundreds of millions of dollars of highway bonds issued to speed up road building programs," continued Mr. Daniel.

"Notwithstanding the present heavy burden of federal and state taxation, which amounts to an average of nearly half of the retail price of the country over, a proposal is now before Congress to increase still further the federal tax on motor fuel."

"The federal gasoline tax, in the opinion of many civic leaders, constitutes an unwarranted invasion of state tax rights by the federal government. The tax also falls upon taxpayers a majority of whom earn less than $30 a week, and therefore, have no great ability to pay taxes."

AMOS URGES RIDDANCE OF FLY ON FARMSTEADS

Common House Fly Constant Carrier Of Dirt, Germs

Flies are swarming again and John M. Amos, assistant entomologist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, suggests getting rid of their breeding places around Delaware farmsteads.

House flies in particular are known to carry many serious diseases of humans since hairs and bristles on their legs pick up all kinds of dirt and germs.

One female fly will lay from 300 to 600 eggs and there is a new generation of flies every 11 to 14 days. So there are around 12 generations of house flies in Delaware every year.

Although destruction of breeding places is the best way to reduce the fly population on our farms, fly traps are also helpful for cutting down the number of flies. Baited with blackstrap molasses or banana skins, the traps catch flies by the hundreds when placed in or near the barn or other farmstead buildings where flies are likely to be swarming. The trap that has given best results in Delaware is a screened cylinder containing a screen cone and cover. The trap is set on wooden legs about an inch high and the bait is placed in a pan inside the trap at the base of the screen cone.

When spraying the legs and flanks of cattle to repel stable and horn flies, it's important to use only enough spray to remove the flies. And cows are never brushed or turned out into hot sun right after applying fly sprays.

OLD STATE RECORDS ARE SOUGHT BY D. A. R.

The genealogical research committee of the Cooch's Bridge Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be headed by Mrs. Walter A. Blackwell. Other members are: Mrs. Ruth A. McKinsey, Mrs. Mary L. Foreman, Mrs. Emma Bogart, Mrs. Lucinda A. Shriner, Mrs. Ernest Frazer, Mrs. H. I. Garrett, Mrs. Edward W. Cooch, Mrs. W. S. Whitesell, Miss Audrey Miller, Mrs. Harvey Steele, Mrs. Robert T. Jones, Miss Catherine Steel, Mrs. R. S. Jarmon, Mrs. W. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Harry Clark Boden, Mrs. Harry L. Bonham, and Mrs. Glenn S. Skinner.

This committee will work in cooperation with the historical research committee.

According to Mrs. Blackwell, vital records were not kept in Delaware until recently. It is the purpose of this group to copy old Bible records and any persons having an old Delaware or Maryland bible are asked to communicate with members of this committee. These records will be copied, indexed, and bound. Two copies will be made.

The Department of Vital Statistics, Archives Building, Dover, has expressed its appreciation of the work which the D. A. R. has done in the past to add to its records. With a much larger committee, Mrs. Blackwell expects to collect about 100 records. Early records may be obtained from many sources.

It is not generally known that a survey of all the cemeteries of Delaware has been made and that a card catalogue of tombstone inscriptions exists. Church records are being copied now by the writers' project, and as these are finished, they are sent to the Archives Building. The early wills and administration papers of all three counties have been catalogued.

One of the major achievements of the state D. A. R. society was the restoration of the old Sussex County Orphan Court Record book, which has been viewed by people from all over the country. After its restoration, two photostatic copies were made, one of which was placed in the Wilmington Library, the other sent to the D. A. R. Library in Washington, D. C.

WHEN A 90-1 SHOT LEADS THE field to the wire and pays off the grand sum of $182 for a two-dollar ticket, it's time for rejoicing—at least for the few "dopes" who foolishly threw "their money away" in betting on the nag.

A human's reaction to such a situation is easily measured by the numerous signs of emotion of which a human is capable both during and after the race (riding the rail, crushing his neighbor's hat, squealing at the top of his lungs, doing a native dance right up in the grandstand, etc.), but we've often wondered what a horse, starved for victory, thinks when he finds himself unexpectedly in front of the pack at the finish line.

HERE'S THE STORY OF A NINE-year-old maiden who ran day in and day out for seven years before visiting the winner's circle. We'll let her tell the story.

"My name is 'Blank' and since I came from a good family—my sire was 'Starter's Gun,' my mother, 'Cartridge Belt,' my owner had high hopes for me as a two-year-old.

"But as fate would have it, I was not destined to burn up the turf—and even at the small tracks throughout the country, the best I could ever do was finish fourth. And even I will have to admit that my fourth was directly due to the fact that there were only eight horses in the race and four of them went down in a horrible pile-up. I thought I might get up to third in that race, but another nag that went lame at the half-mile pole managed to stagger in ahead of me.

"ALL WOMEN HAVE BAD FEET and I was no exception—as a matter of fact, I have often heard my trainer say that if my feet were sound, I might have been able to get up to third place now and then. His sarcasm hurt worse than my feet, but I guess, all in all, I deserved all the barbed retorts that were passed my way.

"You've really no idea how humiliating this running out of the money can be. . . and I knew—I'd been doing it for five years. Aside from the view back there which is really pretty awful, you get that feeling of not being wanted.

"It wasn't so bad for the first three years. During that time, I used to see some money being bet on me and when I ran last, I could hear a few Bronx cheers floating my way. Even that was better than being completely ignored. But after seven years, I was known from coast to coast—they used to refer to me as the perfect 'Blank'.

"Running to me was always a task and more than once I have envied a distant cousin of mine who plods along in front of a milk wagon—never having to worry about getting into shape for a jaunt around the oval.

"I ALWAYS BELIEVED MY TRAINER didn't like me and after two years of entering me in the mile and a sixteenth races, I became positive of the fact that I was not looked upon with any degree of favor. He knew darn well I couldn't run more than six furlongs without my feet killing me, but he insisted on punishing me and at the stretch, I used to just fade through the back rail.

"But one day, for the first time in my life, I felt like running. My feet felt fine and even the new shoes I was wearing didn't pinch. Most important of all, though, and I blush to reveal this, I was in love.

"The object of my affections had never been closer to me than about 100 yards since he was residing at the time about four stables away, but as luck would have it, he was entered in the same race with me that afternoon.

"I primped quite a bit for that race, but he was very excited just before the race and he never even noticed me, let alone my new shoes.

"AT THE BREAK HE WAS OFF like a streak of lightning and I went right with him, trying to attract his attention. He set a terrific pace for the first three quarters but I kept right at his heels, trying to call his attention to my new shoes.

"When we hit the stretch we were four lengths ahead of the third horse and he'd been running like a starved pony for a field of oats—I was desperate. I saw that my only chance was to pull up with him but when I did, I realized he was wearing blinkers and he still couldn't see me. I tried to move up ahead of him far enough for him to get a glimpse of my sparkling feet, and I did pick up a few inches, but not enough. He never even saw them—and they were the latest thing too.

"When the results were posted and I was named the winner by a nose, he was mad as a hornet—breezed right by me without even speaking. I thought it over and decided he wasn't even worth bothering about.

"I'm a career woman now!"

Charles Rogers of Denver was arrested for giving a forged check for $15 to a priest who married him.

100-MILE CHAMPIONSHIP CLASSIC TO BE STAGED AT LANGHORNE SUNDAY

Two French European Champions And American Aces To Drive Cars Used At Indianapolis In Title Test; Rose Is Favored

The greatest field of big league drivers and the most powerful racing automobiles ever to roar around the world's fastest mile Langhorne Speedway will set a new high mark in thrills on Sunday afternoon.

The 100 mile Langhorne Championship classic, offering the richest prize purse ever paid here, has attracted the most reckless, steel-nerved lineup of gasoline jockeys ever to risk their necks on the tricky Langhorne curves.

An International match race to determine supremacy of European cars or American speed creations on the world's fastest mile oval will bring together Mauri Rose, winner of this year's Indianapolis race; Rene LeBegue, of Vichy, France; Tommy Hinnershitz, of Reading, Pa., tenth place winner at Indianapolis; and Jean Trevoux, team-mate of LeBegue in their dramatic flight from Europe with their race cars under cover.

The two French European champions and the American aces will be at the wheel of the cars they had at Indianapolis. They'll run three races. The first will be started in the American style—the rip-roaring dangerous flying start. The second will be from the European style—the cars "cranked" in the pits and suddenly lurching away at the drop of the green flag. The third will be started in the style to be determined by results of the first two races.

Qualifying time trials take on a new importance in Sunday's program, for at least 50 cars will bid for 18 starting positions. For this reason, the speedway gates will be open at 9 a. m. to give the record crowd ample time to be seated in the big grandstand before start of the clocking at 12 noon. The fastest 18 cars will start.

Every one of the qualifiers will seek a new world's mile speedway record better than the existing mark of 103.4 miles per hour set at Langhorne last year by Tony Willman. Lucky Teter has posted a $1,000 gold cup and a cash bonus prize for a new record.

Top money winners from Indianapolis and pace-setters in every division of the speed realm will roar away from the starting line at 2 p. m. Ted Horn, third at Indianapolis and winner of the Langhorne feature classic May 25, filed the first entry and was followed closely by Tony Willman, Bob Sall, Joie Chitwood, Duke Nalon, Emil Andres, Bill Holland, Billy DeVore, and all the top flight drivers.

Ticket reservations are being accepted at Langhorne Speedway headquarters, 260 North Broad Street, Philadelphia, until race day to relieve congestion at the box offices at the track. The same bargain general admission to the infield (55c) will be in effect despite the stellar field and Championship racing.

"BIG CAR" DRIVERS AT READING

Midget Races To Be Staged On June 22

A quartet of former big car drivers this week loomed as the "men to beat" in Reading's first national championship midget car auto races, Sunday, June 22.

On the basis of past performance, veteran racing men freely admit that the drivers most likely to share in the spoils are Henry Banks, Ernie Gessel, Bill Schindler and "Wild Bill" Holmes.

Inasmuch as the events at Reading will be staged over the half mile fair grounds track, such topnotch performers as Banks, Gessel, Schindler and Holmes are bound to enjoy a marked advantage over their esteemed adversaries. All four "big shots" have gained valuable experience on the half mile track through their lengthy association with the big cars whereas the majority of midget car chauffeurs have seen little or no action on anything except a "fifth" or quarter mile track.

Banks, who hails from Royal Oak, Mich., forged into the national speed spotlight last year at Langhorne, Pa., by winning the 200-mile national championship stock car race. Since that time, he has been a consistent performer on the midget tracks, particularly in the east, where he operates to best advantage.

At Reading, Banks will team with Gessel on a pair of high-powered Offenhauser midget owned by Mike Caruso, of New York City. Both Banks and Gessel are former midget champions—Henry, the 1937 titleholder in the midwest, and Ernie, the 1937 national small car champion.

Schindler is another former titleholder. He annexed the A. A. A. midget speed championship for the season of 1939-40 and was recognized as the Florida state "doodle bug" champion as far back as 1936. Schindler, like Banks and Gessel, drives an Offenhauser.

"Wild Bill" Holmes, fourth member of the esteemed racing quartet, has been a foremost figure in the midget racing sport since 1935. He drives the famed Krause Offenhauser, the car that annexed the national A. A. A. championship in 1939.

In addition to Banks, Gessel, Schindler and Holmes, more than two score drivers are expected to be on hand.

Accepted. For all but the junior grade professional experience in landscape architecture is required. Applications must be filed not later than June 26, 1941.

To fill the needs in various Government agencies for nurses for hospital and public health nursing, medical technicians, and laboratory workers, two new examinations in these fields and a revised type of examination for junior graduate nurse have been announced. They are:

Public health nursing consultant, $2,600 and $3,200 a year. Completion of a 4-year college course including or supplemented by at least 1 year of study in Public Health Nursing, graduation from an accredited school of nursing, and experience as public health nursing supervisor are required. The closing date is July 26, 1941.

Medical technician, $1,620 to $2,000 a year; junior laboratory helper, $1,440 a year. The optional subjects are general and roentgenology and in addition for some of the positions, surgery. Applicants must have completed at least 14 units of high-school study, unless they pass a written general test. Appropriate laboratory, clinical, or operating room experience is required.
