DR. S. C. MITCHELL RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT

WILL GO TO RICHMOND COLLEGE AS TEACHER OF HISTORY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

It has been announced that Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell has resigned from the presidency of Delaware College, his resignation to be effective on September 1, 1920.

Dr. Mitchell has resigned to accept the chair of history and political science in Richmond College, mond College, as negotiations have been in progress with that institution for several weeks through the president of the college, Dr. F. W. Boatwright. The negotiations were concluded several days ago, when Dr. Mitchell announced to the Board of Trus-

The announcement of Dr. Mitchell's impending change was made through the officials of Rich-

Dr. Mitchell has made it clear that he does not expect to have more than ten years of educational activity before him, and he is determined to spend his remaining

Haverford Chessmen To Engage Blue and Gold

A Chess Team representing Haverford College will engage the Delaware Team on Tuesday evening April 13th. Last year at Haverford the Delaware Team defeated the Haverford Team score, 3 to 1. Three men who played against Haverford last year and won their games will play on the Delaware Team this year. Captain O'Neill reports that he expects his aggregation to come through with a victory this year also.

On April 24th, the Chess Team will play the return match with the Brandywine Chess Club of Wilmington. Following the match, the Brandywine Club will entertain the Delaware College men at dinner in the Trinity Parish House. Members of the Chess Club desiring to make this trip will give their names to Brough.

Negotiations are pending with Johns Hopkins University Chess Team for a match to be played in Baltimore on the evening of May 22nd. The agreement for the match has already been reached, and it is now merely a question of finding a date suitable to both parties.

Agricultural Club Adopts Publicity Plan

The Agricultural Club has undertaken a publicity plan whereby it can keep in touch with the high schools of Delaware and of neighboring states. The Delaware Farmer, which was formerly published by the Club, served this purpose well, and it directed the attention of prospective students to the college. Since it is at present impossible to publish the Delaware Farmer, the Club has decided to replace it by a report of its activities. This report will be issued twice each month and will contain interesting bits of news gleaned from any of the departments. The Delaware Farmer Board will have charge of the work of issuing the report, but the support and aid of every member of the Agricultural Club is expected. The first report will be issued this week.

The object of the Club in planning for these reports is to arouse the enthusiasm and interest of the high school boys of Delaware in Agricultural work, and to lend them to enter the Agricultural Department at Delaware College when they have completed their high school work.

Tennis Prospects Bright Heavy Schedule Arranged

More interest is being shown in tennis at Delaware College this year than ever before. More than twenty men are actively interested in tennis and many of these men will try out for the team. Informal practice has been going on in the gym ever since the close of the basketball season, and last Wednesday the call for candidates was formally issued by Coach Dutton.

Horty and Olcott are the only men remaining from last year's team. Others who will no doubt make strong bids for positions on the team are: S. Lynch, McWhorter, Monaghan, J. Challenger, B. Challenger, and Triggs.

The Tennis Club has called the attention of the college authorities to the wretched condition of the courts. Mr. Wilkinson has given assurance that these courts will be placed in first rate condition, and will be finished and ready for occupancy when the students return after the Easter vacation. In order to get better drainage, the level of the courts will be raised six inches and a new surface laid on. Coach Shipley has consented to supervise this work.

Manager McWhorter has arranged the hardest schedule ever given to a Tennis Team at Delaware College.

Nine matches have already been scheduled, and there is still one open date. The schedule:

April 24—P. M. C. (pending)
Chester
April 28—Swarthmore, Home
May 1—Stevens, Home
May 8—Open
May 15—Haverford, Home
May 21—Johns Hopkins, Baltimore
May 22—Maryland State, College Park
May 28—F. and M., Lancaster
May 29—Moravian, Bethlehem
June 5—St. Johns, Home

WOLF CHEMICALS PLAN BIGGEST MEETING

Three Speakers at Next Meeting to Tell of Chemical Practice

On Thursday, April 8th, the Wolf Chemical Club will hold its biggest meeting of the year in the west wing of Old College. Three speakers are scheduled for the occasion, two of them being men of experience in one of the largest chemical plants in the East. One of them, Mr. Thomas S. Carswell, is a Delaware man in the class of 1918, and needs no introduction to many of the upper-classmen. While in college, he was one of the ablest chemists in his class, and his record since then bears out this good showing in the classroom. At present, Carswell is employed as a research chemist for the National Aniline and Chemical Co. at Marcus Hook, Pa. The subject of his talk will be, "The Reduction of Aromatic Nitro-Compounds."

This talk will be followed by an address by Mr. Kenneth A. Horn, also of the National Aniline and Chemical Co., who will speak on "Control of Plant Operation in the Manufacture of Organic Intermediates." Mr. Horn is a recent graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and although a young man but a few years out of college, he holds the very responsible position of Chief Control Chemist of the Marcus Hook works.

The last speaker of the evening will be R. Paul Kite '20, who has for his subject "The Preparation of Diazo Compounds." Following this talk, the meeting will be turned over to the social committee and refreshments will be served. It is hoped that this will stimulate the lagging interest of the chemicals and be the cause of a large turnout at the meeting.

Baseball Material Most Promising

Squad Cut to Suit Needs; Well-Balanced Team Annsured

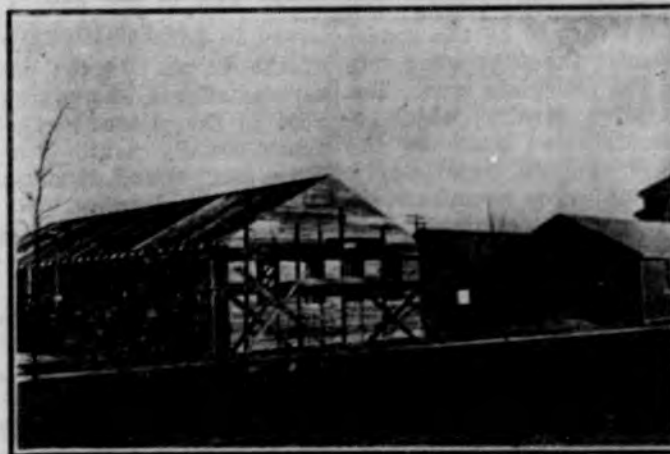

Following the three games staged last week between the four teams, Coach Shipley has cut the squad to better suit the needs for developing a first class team. The material is now in fine shape and is of a versatile nature. Rothrock, Carl, Megaw, Lund, Deppe, and Brandt are retained as pitchers. It was largely through Rothrock's efforts that the team was strong in the box last year. Carl, another southpaw from last year's team, is known for the excellent record he made in holding some of the strongest teams. Deppe, Lund, Megaw and Brandt are all right handers, and should develop good "stuff." It is almost too early to judge the merits of these new men, but it is certain that the material for slabmen is better this year than it was last season.

The catchers retained are G. Carter, Spaid, and Nutter. G. Carter's experience in handling pitchers, which was so clearly demonstrated last year, makes him a big factor in making the batteries. Few runners were able to steal on his dependable whip last year, and he should be able to turn them back again this season. Spaid and Nutter, both good stickmen but a trifle weak on "pegging," should be of great help. Both are experienced and both will no doubt see active service.

At first base, a merry battle is in progress. "Bess" Carter, of the '16, '17, '18 varsity is being pushed hard by Hughes, a snappy left-hander from Pennsylvania. Hughes is showing splendid form. "Bess" can still hit them, but his fielding has been erratic.

At second base are McCardell.

"War" Conditions on the Green

The Engineering Buildings

The three "war" buildings being erected south of Harter Hall as they appeared last week. These buildings were secured by Dean Allan R. Cullimore to meet the emergency needs of the Engineering Department caused by the large enrollment. Construction work has been delayed by the prolonged winter.

The building in the foreground is to be fitted out as a drawing room to replace the room now used in Recitation Hall. The others will form an electrical laboratory. The apparatus for the laboratory will include that now in Mechanical Hall and also the valuable new equipment presented to the college last fall by Mr. Pierre S. duPont.

The buildings show clearly their "war" character. As one correspondent to the Newark Post characterized them, they are "an eyesore and a blunder." This fact, together with their liability to destruction by fire, and the certainty of their being outgrown in a few years, should hasten the erection of the permanent engineering hall provided for in the college development plan.

Review Board Holds Dinner And Meeting

A get-together dinner and meeting of the Review Staff was held on Monday evening in Old College. The guests of the evening were Dr. S. C. Mitchell, Dr. E. N. Vallandigham, and Mr. George Carter, editor of the Wilmington Evening Journal. After the dinner, Carswell, the editor-in-chief, introduced "Doc" Smith '22, who told of the purpose of the dinner. Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell then gave a short talk, treating on the good work done by the Review in moulding student opinion. Following this, Dr. E. N. Vallandigham, of the class of 1873, who takes a great interest in the Review, commented favorably on the Review and offered several valuable suggestions for the improvement of it. The last speaker of the evening was Mr. George Carter. He pointed out the necessity of placing the Review on a firm financial basis, and gave several practical suggestions for doing so. After an informal discussion, the meeting was adjourned.

It is planned to make these meetings regular occurrences and in this way to bring about a better spirit of co-operation and unity among the members of the staff.

The President's Resignation

The announcement of Dr. Mitchell's resignation brings a heavy pang of regret and a sense of immense loss to every student and alumnus of Delaware College who has come into contact with the president. During the six years that he has been at Newark, he has won his way into the hearts of everyone whom he has met, both in the student body and in the Faculty. His strong personality and his neverfailing Southern courtesy will always be remembered by those who have known him here.

Perhaps it is as the friend of the students that Dr. Mitchell has created for himself the most enviable reputation. Through his sympathetic attitude toward them and their affairs, the students have been brought to a keener realization of their responsibilities as college students. His aid in creating and building up the Honor System and the Student Self Government System is responsible in large measure for the success of those systems. Throughout the whole period of his administration, Dr. Mitchell has ever been thoughtful and considerate of the welfare of the students; he has aimed to make the college truly for the benefit of the students.

Dr. Mitchell's influence, however, has been felt in every phase of the college work. The whole development and growth of the college within the last six years has centered around his personality. Before 1914, such development as has already been partially accomplished, and as is projected for the future, was scarcely dreamed of. The college has been started on a new path of greater service, and an immense debt of gratitude is owed to Dr. Mitchell for his part in starting the college on that path.

It is typical of Dr. Mitchell's high ideals of service that he wishes to return to the South to carry on educational work there. He feels that he has now accomplished his mission in Delaware, and, despite the personal sacrifice that it entails, he is returning to Richmond College to supply the great need there, and to throw his strong personality and his sincere efforts into the educational work of the South.

In leaving Delaware College, Dr. Mitchell takes with him the admiration, gratitude, devotion, and love of those who have known him as President of the college.

For Delaware

To-morrow, we go home for the Easter holidays. Studies, with their burden of care and worry, will be left behind and forgotten for the time being—which is as it should be. However, there is one thing we should not forget during this brief respite, and that is that we are Delaware men first, last, and always, and, when the occasion arises where we can boost our college, it is our duty to get beneath and do our best. We all realize that Delaware, as a college, is just beginning to make herself felt in the inter-collegiate world, both athletically and scholastically, and it is up to every student to help make the public admit this fact and to prove to them that our college is not a back number, but, on the other hand, it is a college which is growing so fast that its present facilities and resources cannot keep pace with it. With such publicity as will result if each student does all he can, the campaign for our three million dollar endowment fund, which is soon to start, can not be other than a great success, and the Delaware of our dreams will soon materialize.

Revive The Old!

The "Blue Hen" of 1911 gives a very interesting account of the histories of the Delta Phi and Athenaeon Literary Societies. Except during the period when the college was closed, 1859-'67, the activity of these two organizations never waned. Glancing quickly over the history of the two Societies, we find that they were both founded within a month or two after the college was first founded, 1834. The Athenaeon was a few weeks prior to the Delta Phi in its establishment. The Delta Phi society was formed by the academic students; the Athenaeon represented the collegiate men. The argumentative rivalry which evolved contributed much to the good work of both departments. Many alumni now prominent in State and national affairs and in the professions can thank these societies for the training they received from them.

With such an honorable history to back their good names it is quite distressing at this time to note that Delta Phi and the Athenaeon are not functioning. Every educator, every professional man endorses the invaluable results produced by an active college debating society. Let's make our honorable and ancient organizations active. Let's revive the Old!

Preservation of Campus Trees

Another proof of the sincerity of interest felt in the college by Mr. H. Rodney Sharp is seen in the work now being done upon the trees in front of Old College. These trees have for several years been carrying on a losing struggle with the elements. Without attention and treatment they would soon have passed into the realm of "things that were." The scientific treatment now being given them, thanks to Mr. Sharp, promises to prolong their usefulness for several decades.

Marconetti Declared Loser On A Technical Ground

In the New York A. C. elimination boxing contest held in New York last week, A. E. Marconetti, '21, reached the final round in the 175-pound class. This was the Annual Metropolitan Association boxing championship tournament. After three rounds of boxing between Marconetti and Tomeshek, the New York State Champion, the judges were unable to decide the winner. A fourth round was necessary and only after careful deliberation was Tomeshek declared the winner on a technical ground. This decision met with distinct disapproval on the part of the spectators who voiced their opinions in an open manner.

Honor System At West Point

Captain Coulter gave an interesting talk in Chapel last Tuesday morning on the Honor System at West Point. He introduced the subject by stating that it is impossible to overestimate its value in producing the type of officer that West Point endeavors to turn out. He explained that there is no student self-government at the academy, as there is here, and that the Honor system supplements the disciplinary system.

The Honor system there is conducted by a body of students called the Vigilance Committee which is composed of three cadets (one from each of the three upper classes) from each company. The Committee acts as a court to interpret the orders of the Military Authorities that place a cadet on his honor and to try any cadet believed to have violated the honor of the Corps. In the case of a serious offense, the court may report to the authorities. Such a report usually results in a general court martial and dismissal if the cadet is found guilty.

The system has been fostered at West Point because it typifies the underlying principle of the military profession, which is the subordination of all minor points to the success of the whole. The honor of the corps as a whole depends upon the honor of the individual cadet and the honor of the individual must be kept above suspicion in order to preserve the honor of the group, the honor of the Corps.

Student Body Gives To Jewish Relief

Following the statement of facts concerning the Jewish Relief given in chapel last Thursday by the President of the Student Body and Mr. A. G. Wilkinson, the members of the student body contributed liberally to this worthy cause. Both speakers told briefly of the terrible condition of the Jewish people in the Near East many of whom were entirely destitute and starving. When the final count was made, it was found that more than $110 had been pledged or given in cash contributions.

A Detectif Story Part the First

"The sky was dark, the night was blue

Around the villain the corner flew;
And from his knife a breast he drew,

And into it plunged a keg of brew."
With these words upon his lips, Ofen Addem, the notorious crook and pickpocket of parts, slipped silently up the steps of the home of E. Pluribus Unum, the wealthy banker, and just as silently rang the bell.

The butler answered the ring, and as he opened the door, a large picture of a bottle of chloroform was thrust under his nostrils, which made him fall forward in a faint.

"The real stuff is hard to get in these days of the eighteenth amendment," muttered the villain, as he entered the living-room, which now, like the butler, was apparently dead.

Ofen Addem strode quickly to the place where he knew the safe stood. After looking furtively around, he bent over the combination and hissed; "Signals, 10-13-0-8-1."

The door of the safe swung silently sideways.

"Not for nothing was I star quarterback on Georgetown," said Ofen, as he slid into the safe.

In a few moments he emerged carrying in his hands great sacks of coin, currency, and other legal tender, besides much money.

"Signals off!" he hissed; and the door of the safe swung silently shut. "Now for the girl," laughed Ofen.

Aha! The plot thickens. Good story, eh, what?

"Aggies" Elect Board For Delaware Farmer

At a meeting of the Agricultural Club held on last Thursday evening, the following men were elected for the staff of the Delaware Farmer for the ensuing year: Editor, Roland Handy

Ass't Editor, Leonard B. Daly

Animal Husbandry Editor, J. Howard Harper

Agronomy Editor, J. Woodward Olcott

Horticulture Editor, C. E. Phillips

Business Manager, J. Arnold Barnard

Ass't Business Manager, R. H. Carll

Circulation Manager, J. F. Pool

Ass't Circulation Manager, Leland Hurff and Olaf Hofberg.

As the Delaware Farmer is not being published at the present time, the work of this staff will consist in the issuing of the reports which the Agricultural Club is going to send out to the high schools.

For furthering the social relationship of the Club to the high school students a committee consisting of Roland Handy, Leland Hurff, and George McManus, was appointed to receive and entertain boys interested in Agriculture who may visit the college.

At its meeting on Thursday, the Club heartily endorsed the suggestion of having a Club baseball team. J. A. Barnard was elected manager of the team. It is probable that the team will make a trip down state. Any "Ag" who can handle the pill should step out and try for a place on the team.

The '22 Class Ring

Much interest has centered about the selection of the Sophomore class ring. Never before, perhaps, has the discussion of such a question been so acute. Various ring samples were submitted by leading jewelers—of no avail, for the Sophs wanted their own design. Unable to come to a definite decision, the class decided to have its president appoint a committee whose purpose would be to design a ring which would combine the features under discussion. Bulk, together with beauty and college signification were considered three good features upon which the design could be based. A royal-blue opal stone covers a shadow block "D" cut into the gold crown of the ring. Fine bridge-work sets off the stone. The college seal topped by class numerals on one side, and the State seal, topped by the date of foundation of the college on the opposite side creates the impression that "Delaware is on the map"—and this is the purpose for which the Sophs are striving!

ing years in his native South, of which a large territory is served by Richmond College in an educational way.

Dr. Mitchell feels that his mission here in Delaware is accomplished, that the remarkable era of progress which he initiated will not be deterred. The future path of the college is so well defined that his successor will have no difficulty in following it. It is the South which now calls to him, and he feels that he can now exert a stronger influence in education there than he can in Delaware.

Since Dr. Mitchell came to Delaware, the college has experienced a new era in its growth. The Women's College, too, has become an important factor in the educational life of the state. Largely because of his untiring energy and his executive ability. Delaware College is greater today than it has ever before been in its history. Dr. Mitchell has shown himself to be a sincere friend of education. He has always had a ready sympathy for the students and their problems. It is largely because of the encouragement given by him that the student system of self-government has reached its present measure of service.

Dr. Mitchell was born in Coffeeville, Miss., December 24, 1864. He is a son of Morris Randolph and Grace Anne Chiles Mitchell. In brief, his distinguished college record is as follows: M. A. Georgetown (Ky.) College, 1888; student University of Virginia, 1890-1; Ph. D., University of Chicago, 1889; LL. D., Hampden-Sidney, 1905; Brown, 1910; Baylor, 1913.

He was professor of history and Greek in the Mississippi College from 1889 to 1891; professor of Latin in Georgetown College from 1891 to 1895; professor of history in Richmond College, from 1895 to 1908, and president of the University of South Carolina from 1908 to 1913. He was elected president of Delaware College in 1914.

In 1908-9, Dr. Mitchell was a lecturer on history in Brown University. He also has served as a trustee of the Hampton (Va.) Normal and Industrial Institute, Jeanes Fund and Memorial American History Association. He was editor of a volume on social life in "The South in the Building of the Nation."

"Skeet" Wilson, and Brower. All three are letter men and are showing fine form. McCardell is a nifty fielder and is clever at the bat. "Skeet" is fast and is a sure pegger.

Short stop is a scramble between Taggart and Underwood. Taggart, of the '16 varsity, is one of the best short-stops Delaware has ever had. He can field and peg from all positions, and has shown fine form with the bat. Underwood of Wilmington High, and Parkside fame, has a powerful arm, but Taggart has shaded him at the bat.

Ivory, Dantz, and Robbins, are promising candidates for the "hot" corner. Dantz, last year's utility man and pinch hitter, is exceptionally good at the bat and is a fast fielder. Ivory has been suffering from a sore arm, but his work in the field and at the plate show that he has had experience. Robbins, captain of Wilmington High's team last year, is giving Ivory a close run. He fields well and bats well.

The most promising outfield candidates are Captain Marvel, Donoho, Madden and "Bill" Stewart. Marvel shows fine form, and is assured of his right field position. Donoho, despite the fact that he has just recovered from a serious illness, is showing up well. Madden, another varsity man, will no doubt hold down the center garden. "Bill" Stewart, star slugger of '16, is rounding into shape. McMullen, Elliott, and H. Carter have also been retained for outfielders.

The material assures a well balanced team for the Blue and Gold. The schedule arranged is a hard one to "tear to bits," but with the promising material out, good results are sure to be secured.

My physics, tis of thee,
Short cut to lunacy,
Of thee I rave,
Another month or so
Of studying thee, I know
Will send me straight below
Into my—grave.

Christfield '22 was re-elected captain of the class track team for this season. "Cris." was captain last year and by his wonderful work led the class to a one point victory. Under his leadership this season, we are expecting a greater victory. Come out boys and give him your support one way or another and assist him to make it a real victory—something that you will be proud of. The meet will be held Saturday, April 10.
