Flat Reduction Refused To Newark By County Board

Assessment Conference Held Yesterday; Board Will "Seriously" And "Carefully Consider" Revisions Made By Committee

THURSDAY LAST FILING DAY

A flat refusal to countenance a flat reduction in the assessments in Newark, no intention of granting an extension of time for the filing of appeals, but rather, the decision to make a careful, studied examination of the revised list and govern themselves accordingly, was, in brief, the stand taken by the County Board of Assessment in their conference with the Newark committee, headed by J. K. Johnston, yesterday afternoon.

Tomorrow, April 30th, is the last date, therefore, upon which an appeal will be considered.

The conference referred to above was held in the Board's offices in the County Building, with all members of that body present, together with Mr. Johnston, James D. Davis, Jr., and Owen K. Moore, the local committee.

"Satisfactory" Says Smith

In a phone conversation with The Post this afternoon, President Smith, of the Board, said that in his estimation the conference was "satisfactory." On being asked for a statement to give the people of this community, he said:

"The recommendations by your committee will, of course, be given serious and careful consideration in arriving at the values set by them."

He further stated, confirming Mr. Johnston's report published herewith, that the Board had already definitely decided that there would be no flat reduction.

On being asked when the result of the Board's deliberations would be known, Mr. Smith stated that he was unable to give a definite date, since the office was "now crowded with appeals and still had ten days outside work to do."

Report From Mr. Johnston

The conference in Wilmington yesterday lasted over an hour and a half and every phase of the situation was thoroughly discussed.

Stand Taken By Local Committee

Mr. Johnston outlined the opinion of his committee as follows:

"This committee has recommended a great many reductions in Newark assessments and some advances.

It is our opinion that if the suggested changes in the list were made, it would then represent the true value of property in our community; but in view of the fact that the Law clearly states that the assessments for the entire county must be on the same basis, and in view of the fact that the Board admits that they have only re-adjusted on a portion of the county, we recommend that they take the new list and establish as a basis for Newark assessments 60 to 70 per cent of the present value of properties."

Reply of the Assessment Board

In reply to the views of the committee, the Board stated in effect the following:

"They admit that some mistakes have been made. These they are willing and will adjust.

They take, however, a firm and determined stand that they will absolutely not make a flat reduction as requested by the citizens of Newark through their duly appointed committee.

The Board gave as its argument that Wilmington and adjacent property has been re-adjusted and is now paying on the higher assessment level.

Mr. Johnston, in commenting on the stand taken by the Board, said:

"This is obviously unfair and it is the opinion of the Committee that the difficulty seems to be in the apparent inability of the Board to put a proper definition on the word 'Value,' which inability will undoubtedly result in the county being obliged to sell many of the principal properties in Newark. This will undoubtedly afford the Board an opportunity to establish at first hand the real value of the properties; which of course should be considered as to what the properties will bring—

COURSE IN FINE SHAPE

Golfers Out In Force During Past Week-end Here

With the entire course in the pink of condition, Newark golfers had a merry time during the past week-end at the Country Club. The greens are in exceptionally good condition, and the fairway turf is smoothing out nicely. Greens chairman, J. P. Armstrong, has spent a busy spring getting the course ready. Leading players at the club are rounding into form, and some have broken 85 during the past few days. Tournament play will likely commence within a few weeks.

New Bus Line Is Established Here

Delaware Bus Company Takes Over Stiltz Line Friday of This Week; Change Wilmington Terminal to French Street

With the recent acquiring by the Wilmington and Philadelphia Traction Company of the Stiltz Bus Line during the past week, plans for a broadening of the service between Newark and Wilmington have been about completed.

The new firm in control is the Delaware Bus Company, a subsidiary of the traction group. It is understood that the two companies will cooperate in every way and will combine their trolley system with the bus line as one complete service to the public. Transfers issued by car conductors will be honored on the busses.

Change Terminal

At a meeting of the Street and Sewer Directors of Wilmington yesterday it was voted to allow the new company to change its Wilmington terminal from its present location at Fourth and Orange Streets to the foot of Front Street.

The route of the busses after Friday will thus be Union Street to Pennsylvania, to Delaware Avenue, to 11th Street, to French Street and down French Street to the terminal.

It is likely that a new terminal building will be equipped.

Request for transfer of three licenses came from A. C. Stiltz and request for three additional licenses was contained in a letter from Thomas W. Wilson, general manager of the Traction Company.

Half Hourly Service

Beginning Friday of this week it is planned by the new company to inaugurate a half hourly service to and from Wilmington. Three new passenger busses will be added to the existing fleet and every effort made to establish regular and efficient service.

The same way the value of any security would be established as collateral, namely by the price it brought at a recent sale."

The Board reiterated its decision made a week ago that there would be no extension of the time limit for the filing of individual appeals from Newark taxpayers.

Sentiment Is Same

The feeling in Newark today, as The Post observes, it, is one of expectancy, no less intense and no less determined that at the beginning of the Assessment agitation.

It is felt that the Board will make a revision which will coincide with the property value in this community. The committee appointed to act for the community are solid business men, thoroughly acquainted with local prices and conditions. They have devoted considerable time in studying the revisions and arriving at fair and equitable values.

Plan Brand New Road In Western Mill Creek Hrd.

Conference And Hearing At State Highway Office To Be Held Soon, According To Reports This Week

WILL COMPLETE ROAD NET

The prospects of a brand new hard-surfaced road running from Milford Cross Roads, westward to Peache's Corner, connecting with both the Ebenezer road and the Limestone road, has been the biggest news of the week among residents of that section, and is the main topic of conversation.

While no assurance has been given by officials of the State Highway Commission in the matter, a general feeling of optimism persists these days in Mill Creek. Agitation for the road, tapping as it will the heart of the Hundred, started several weeks ago.

To Hold Hearing Soon

As a result of methodical canvassing undertaken by proponents of the new highway, headed by Arthur S. Whiteman, it has been learned that a conference with State Highway officials in Dover is being arranged by Delaware S. Wright, president of the Levy Court, and representative thereon from Mill Creek Hundred. It is the hope of the residents there that it will be a State-aid proposition.

According to Mr. Whiteman, who was in Newark Monday ascertaining the sentiment of merchants and business men here, the proposed new road will fill a long felt need. By means of it, he said, farmers of the western section of the hundred will have a much easier access to markets, and, from a local viewpoint, the road will open up still another territory for Newark business. Mr. Whiteman said he conferred here Monday with a number of Main street merchants and found them all favorably inclined to the proposition.

Rights of way for the road have practically all been secured and there promises to be no hitch in the program, providing the State Highway Commission supports the move.

As soon as Mr. Wright has arranged a conference and hearing in Dover, and the date is set, residents of the Hundred will attend en masse, it is reported. While Mr. Whiteman had no assurance of the exact date of the hearing, he said it would likely be held the second or third Wednesday in May.

Gets Jump Record

With the bar set at 5 feet, 11 inches, Paul Baxter, a Senior at the University here, threw himself over without brushing the tin staff at the Penn Relays on Friday, thereby setting a new high jump record at Delaware.

Baxter's splendid showing at the big meet won him third place in his favorite event. His jumping has been consistently improving since taking up serious training at Delaware, and he has on several past occasions shaded the existing record of 5:10 and a fraction in practice.

Safety Lanes On School Streets To Be Laid Out This Week; To Warn Reckless Motorists

Working with R. W. Heim, who is empowered by the Chamber of Commerce to handle the situation, I. Newton Sheaffer and his force of painters expect to complete the safeguarding of school children at one of Newark's most dangerous street intersections—Academy street and Delaware avenue.

Marking of the streets was delayed for several weeks owing to resurfacing operations. The Post learned yesterday from Messrs. Heim and Sheaffer, however, that work would be resumed in a day or two.

The plans call for the marking out of four "safety lanes" with white paint from pavement to pavement on all four sides of the intersection. Pupils will be requested to always use these lanes when crossing the street.

In addition, the word "Slow" in large white letters will be painted on

Daylight Saving Rests On Result Of Schools' Vote

Town Divided On Question As Usual; Referendum May Decide; College Ready To Change

MAY STILL USE STANDARD

There's nothing like Daylight Saving to start an argument.

For the past week, Newark has been seething in its annual discussion over the advisability of stealing an hour's daylight from every twenty-four. It has been called, to our knowledge, "unconstitutional," "a wonderful boon," "the Housewife's Salvation," and "damned foolishness"—all the same day on the same street. It might even be called an Issue.

As the situation stands now, everybody seems to be waiting for everybody else to decide. The mills decided weeks ago; the University is waiting for the schools; the schools are waiting for the parents, and the parents are waiting for inspiration. And there you are.

May Soon Decide

Today, the replies to a questionnaire sent by the Board of Education to every parent in the community are being tabulated and counted. Upon the decision of the mothers and fathers, it seems, will rest the fate of the new time-saving device.

Last night, at a meeting of the Mercantile section of the Chamber of Commerce, the question came up with a rush. After discussion had drifted back and forth for some time, it was decided to await the decision of the schools.

There is a steady sentiment, growing more apparent each day, to the effect that the most sensible thing for Newark to do, in view of the wide variance of opinions now rampant, would be to leave the watches and clocks alone, and merely arise one hour earlier in the morning.

At all odds, it is generally conceded that something must be done. The town is figuratively on its ear over the question. Commuters to Wilmington and the employees of the mills here are using daylight saving and the rest of the population are on standard time.

Granted that the day in Newark begins an hour sooner, by standard time, there seems to be an opinion that the result would please nearly everybody who wants more daylight in the evening.

From any angle the situation is viewed, there is no limit to the arguments.

LODGE NOTES

A big open meeting was held last evening in Fraternal Hall, when the Improved Order of Red Men started to organize a Degree of Pocahontas. While the weather was bad, a good sized crowd attended and the meeting was declared a success. There were speakers from Wilmington who explained the Degree of Pocahontas. Refreshments were served.

Postponement

On account of the stormy evening, Tuesday, April 28, the ribbon social at Ott's Chapel was postponed until Thursday evening.

Gears Mangle Hand Of Mill Worker Saturday

Lewis Krapf, Jr., Severely Injured A Few Minutes Before Noon; Record Run Made To Hospital For Treatment

While cleaning up about his machine at the Newark plant of the National Vulcanized Fibre Company just prior to the noon whistle Saturday last, Lewis Krapf, well known Newark resident, was seriously injured when his hand and arm were caught in a gear and badly mangled.

Mr. Krapf, it is reported, in some manner slipped and half fell into the gears. Before he could extricate himself, his left hand and forearm were torn so badly that it was feared an amputation would be imperative. It later developed however, that the hand could be saved, although he will lose at least two fingers.

Neighboring workmen aided in rescuing the unfortunate man, and he was immediately rushed to a Wilmington Hospital by D. A. McCintock, superintendent of the mill. The run to the city was made in fifteen minutes, which is nearly a record, considering the heavy traffic and care that must be exercised in passing through the suburbs.

At the hospital, he was operated upon Sunday afternoon, and the wounds in his forearm treated. It was then learned that an amputation of the hand would not be necessary.

Later reports indicate that he is recovering nicely from the accident.

MERCHANTS MOVE TO OUST PEDDLARS HERE

Meeting Last Night In Favor Of Increasing License Fees For Competitive Outside Sales

In response to a call by Chairman Sol Wilson, a meeting of the Mercantile section of the Chamber of Commerce was held last evening in Walter Powell's restaurant, at which time the question of ousting the horde of merchandise peddlars from out of town was brought up.

Those attending the meeting were: Chairman Wilson, Roger Lovett, Meyer Pilnick, Edward L. Richards, Warren A. Singles, George W. Rhodes, J. Earl Dougherty and Everett C. Johnson.

The meeting was preceded by a tasty supper served by Landlord Powell. The committeemen then adjourned to a room upstairs where the session was held.

It was pointed out by the merchants present that the methods used in many cases by outside salesmen, who are continually making house to house canvasses here, are detrimental to the business life of the community. In some cases, it was admitted, there is justification; in the great majority, however, it is felt that the competition thus established is not fair to the local storekeeper.

Following a lengthy discussion of the problem, it was decided to write to the proper authorities and inquire as to how far the incorporated town of Newark may go in the restriction of outside tradesmen.

In the meantime, inquiry will be made in Wilmington as to how that city handles the situation and if possible, to procure the graded scale of license fees imposed by that city. With that information at hand, the Merchants' Association will be in a position to attend to the details.

Famous Visitors To Take Part In Dedication Here

Speakers at Formal Opening of War Memorial on May 23rd Next Announced This Week. Every Contributor Invited

PRECEDED BY PROCESSION

The list of speakers for the dedication exercises to be held at the Library is as follows:

Dr. Joniah H. Penniman, President of the University of Pennsylvania.

Major General Robert Lee Bullard, formerly Commander of the Second Corps Area.

James A. Drain, Commander of the American Legion.

From plans already outlined by the committee in charge of the event, it is confidently expected that Newark and the University will see one of the greatest crowds in her history when the Dedication exercises begin at the newly completed Memorial Library here on Saturday, May 23rd.

Three nationally known speakers, splendid music, with a men's choir of over 100 voices, and an academic and military procession will be the features of the event.

A cordial invitation is extended to every man, woman and child in the State to be present here on that day. The exercises at the Library will begin at 2.30, while the procession starts one half hour earlier.

Dr. Walter Hulihan, President of the University of Delaware, will preside at the memorial exercises which will be held on the campus near the library.

The program and the various details in connection with the dedication were discussed at a meeting this week of the committee arranging for the celebration. Dr. W. Owen Sypherd, chairman, presided at the meeting. Others present were Dr. Walter Hulihan, President of the University; Mrs. R. O. Bausman, President of the Alumnae Association of the Women's College; Alexander J. Taylor, President of the Alumni Association of Delaware College; Major Arthur W. Underwood, Commandant of the University R. O. T. C.; Dr. F. M. K. Foster, a member of the faculty, and Prof. C. R. Runk, chairman of the publicity committee. The committee will hold another meeting Wednesday night of next week.

It is proposed to make the dedication of this Library one of the most memorable affairs not only in the history of the University but of the State of Delaware as it is a state-wide project. The library is a memorial to the service men and women of Delaware and thousands of citizens of the state contributed to the fund with which it has been built. Each contributor will be invited to attend the exercises.

At 1.30 o'clock on the afternoon of the day of the dedication a military and academic procession will be formed on Frazer Field and will march from there to the library where the exercises start at 2.30 o'clock. If the National Guard of the State attends in a large body they will head this procession followed by the R. O. T. C. battalion of the University, President Hulihan and the speakers; members of the faculty, Governor Robinson and aides; Governors of nearby States; representatives of other educational institutions, etc.

Members of the Legislature have been especially invited and seats will be reserved for them and other State officials.

RECRUITS WANTED FOR 4TH DELAWARE VOLUNTEER REGIMENT NOW BEING RAISED. COL. A. H. GRIMSHAW, $13 PER MONTH, $100 BOUNTY, $25 AND ONE MONTH'S PAY WHEN ENROLLED, $75 AT END OF TERM OF ENLISTMENT. PAY AND ALLOWANCE FROM DAY OF ENROLLMENT.

Such was the pecuniary inducement. An Orderly Sergeant received $17.00 per month; Sergt. Major the same, so a young man must have some other motive than dollars and cents. Love of his country, to keep it united and the excitement and adventure, had a good bit to do with a good many enlisting.

The Orderly Sergeant always formed the men in line for nearly all duties; roll call at each and every time, when you stood in front of a Company of 80 to 100 men or boys of about your own age, you were looking upon that many different minds. They were looking upon one mind. It depended upon your conduct and your general appearance, and the respect you had for those men, how you were going to get along with them those three years. I must say I had the best respect of those men, while on duty, and when off of duty particularly in the evening when in camp, called at each and every tent to see how they were faring. Cards were a great pastime with the boys—seven-up and euchre. Sweat board was a great game after pay-day. A small amount put down on the board, and money changed hands to the detriment of families at home. In connection with cards, I might say I never learned to play but always occupied my spare moments in some other way. When the army was on the move and likely to meet the enemy you would see lots of cards strewn along the roads—but no Bibles thrown away, as much to say, "I do not want to be found dead with a pack of cards upon me." Lincoln relates an incident when he was drilling men, thus: They had to pass through a fence. He dismissed the Company and told the men to form on the other side of the fence, thus he got them through. Our Captain was in about the same dilemma.

The Company was drilling—marching four abreast. They had gone into the field two abreast, or double-file. The gateway was narrow. He lost his head. Finally he commanded, "Go out as you came in." They executed that command without a hitch. You could not find that command either in Scott's or Hardie's tactics.

In a company of a hundred men you have all kinds. I believe we had several "Joe Spivuses" and any number of "Tom Greens." This Joe Spivus of a fellow, at Gloucester Point the cold New Years night of 1863. The government issued spren candles to us. This particular night it was "Joe's" turn to blow the light out. His tent mate told him he did not blow the light out. "Joe" said, "The light is froze." At the Battle of Gold Harbor this "Tom Green" of a fellow was asked by his chum whether he heard the bullets "wizz." Tom said "twice."

"When was that?"

"First when the bullet passed me, and next when I passed it."

"There was another thing very noticeable among the private soldiers, and that was the climate of Virginia was not conducive to the health of what we called "Dress Parade officers." Three commissioned officers resigned soon after going to Virginia, while in Delaware they seemed to be as strong and healthy as any one. With some hesitation, I tell you this personal matter.

It was the night of the 18th of June, in rear of the earthworks at Petersburg, Va. A bright moonlight night. Major M. B. Gist was in command of the Regiment. There was a detail of men to be made for picket duty. He called the adjutant, W. H. Cloward, to make the detail. The Adjutant said, "We have had no Sergt-Major for three weeks." Major Gist said, "Reduce him to the ranks."

"What about the Orderly Sergeant of Co. E." The Adjutant replied, "He is always up and ready for duty."

Gist said, "I hereby promote him as Sergeant Major, to date from this day."

"I have a certificate of commission showing that fact. I have also a commission of First Lieutenant, signed by Gove Saulsbury. I spent three weeks in the hospital from sickness and about the same length of time from gun shot wound. As I look back at those surroundings with the Christian and Sanitary Commission in attendance, the main nurses that did the rough work were invalid soldiers that had partially recovered from wounds or sickness, but not yet able to be sent to their regiments; were conducted on a high plane for efficiency and comfort to the men.

One thing more: To show the comradeship side of soldiers' feeling toward one another. When I lay at City Point Hospital, wounded, an order came to send all men to Washington that could walk. Jim Croft had been sick and was retained as a nurse there. Croft came in and told me. There was a hospital steward passing around taking names of those that could walk. He said give him your name and I will see you get on board of the boat. So my name was given. Nothing like getting toward home at such times. Orders came at 5 o'clock for all whose names were taken to get ready and go to the boat. It was about half mile to the wharf. Croft appeared and I hobbled to the door, leaning on his shoulder; there he had a wheel barrow, not an automobile. Down we went to the wharf, where a sentinel was posted, but Croft stopped in time not to be observed by the sentinel, when again I hobbled aboard the "State of Maine" hospital boat, and left the wharf at 6 o'clock for Washington, arriving the next morning. I was taken then in an ambulance to Columbian Hospital.

Former Delaware Student Broadcasts Patients' Heartbeats

Dr. George Harlan Wells, a native Elktonian, and a graduate of Delaware College and the Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia, on Saturday night supervised the broadcasting of human heart beats at the Hahnemann Hospital. Normal and abnormal heart pulsations were heard. The broadcasting was made possible by employing the "electrical stethoscope" which amplifies the sounds made so as to be heard like those of a muffled hammer. Dr. Wells is quoted as saying that by this radio amplification development, illness may be diagnosed at points at varying distances and doctors throughout the county may be consulted in the illness of men of prominence.—Cecil Whig.

ELKTON HIGH SENIORS SCORE HIT WITH PLAY

"Am I Intruding" Presented to Packed House Last Wednesday Evening

With the New Theatre in Elkton jammed to the doors with parents and friends of the young Thespians, the Senior Class of the High School presented its annual play, "Am I Intruding" last Wednesday evening.

From beginning to end, the comedy pleased the audience and it was adjudged one of the best amateur efforts given in the county seat for some years.

The plot is built around the efforts of an adventurer to separate Horace Vane from a valuable block of stock in the Bluebird Motors Corporation, and the ultimate entrance of one Jerry Mays, whose refreshing and aggressive manner not only helps save the stock but upsets the entire household for a time. Allen McCune who took the role of Jerry, proved to be well casted and made a great hit with the audience. Reta Borland, Frances Strickland, Omar Crothers, and Robert Teeter were also prominent characters in the play.

The complete cast of characters follows:

Mrs. Hastings, the Housekeeper, Wilhelmina Creamer; Blair Hoover, the Adventurer, Omar D. Crothers, Jr.; Earnest Rathburn, Jane's Secretary, Nelson Richards; Marjory Vane, the Elder Daughter, Ethel Jackson; Dickie Waldron, a Romanticist, Robert Teeter; Mona, the Maid, Frances Strickland; Horace Vane, the Father, Arthur Saunders; Violet Vane, the Younger Daughter, Reta Borland; Peter, devoted to Vi, William Smith; Dora, a friend of Vi's, Marietta Wageman; Gerald Mays, Jerry from Sage Creek, Allen McCune; Jane, Vane's Niece, Carolyn Lewis.

The Explorers And The Pioneers

The man who starts something new or improves on something old; the man who spurs another to do more and better, who stands ready to keep in the progress and betterment of those around him, though his part may be small, is doing something worth while. It is not what an individual does himself—it is what he causes others to do, spurring the man to action whether by persuasion or compulsion, that makes up his best services. The part of the leader, the originator, is a hard role, but a necessary one. The world and its institutions would sink into a rut were it not for these radicals arousing men to action. The greatest, sometimes the only satisfaction these men get out of their work is sitting by and seeing how, by persuasion they had urged this one on; by suggestion or education taught that one; or by competition compelled another one to do the work that is in him and that he should have done long ago. You can see examples of this in every phase of life and in every community. Watch institutions around you and see if this is not true.

Recall "The Pioneers" by Kipling:

Well I know you'll take the credit—all the clever chaps that followed—
Came a dozen men together—never knew my desert fears;
Tracked me by the camps I'd quitted, used the water-holes I'd hollowed, They'll go back and do the talking. They'll be called the Pioneers.

The Assessment

The Town-selected Committee on Revision and the County Assessment Board have had their Conference, the result of which appears in another column.

The Community now awaits with serious, determined and unusual interest for the results. There is an increasing confidence on the part of some that the Board will satisfy the local requests while with others, there is an equally increasing fear.

Newark has, we think, been plain-spoken but reasonable. We are convinced still that errors have been made that if not adjusted will result seriously to the community.

The question, as we view it, is based solely on the definition of the word "VALUE." Several have been given as the basis for finding the assessment levy, such as Market Value, Cost, Replacement, Cubic Contents and Type of Construction, and what a man would sell for. It is contended that all of these have been used. Whether true or not it can not yet be determined. To our own mind "Market Value" or what the property would sell for if placed on the Market is the only fair rule for all. Whether this would be the legal interpretation, as the words appear in the law, we do not know, nor can we find out.

The Community awaits now the "serious and careful consideration of the Board." Until such review and the decision is announced, the local Committee can not take further action, except to urge citizens to make appeal on or before May 1st.

Time Out

If a man wants to go to work at 4 a. m., Sunrise, 7 o'clock, 8 o'clock or not at all—why change your watch and set it in violation to the Standard Time of your Nation and the Law of your State. If a man wants to go to lunch at 11 o'clock, 12 o'clock, 1 o'clock and go back to his office at 2 or the Golf Links at 4, what do we care? But why set your time piece up.

Of course 5 o'clock Standard Time is an hour early for your "Tuck" but don't kid yourself by making your watch wrong to avoid social forms. Change them.

Starting to work an hour earlier and quitting an hour earlier is all right—just a matter of choice. But will some one explain why a community has to have two sets of Time.

Let everybody go to work when it best suits him, or his business—that's none of our affairs. But in compliance with the law and common sense at least let this community carry one time, be it Ingersoll, Howard, Waltham or Pocket Ben.

A Newark Luxury

The above appeared in The Post in 1911. It was a sensation. For awhile the "Auto" and the Old Depot Hack travelled around together, apparently. But the "Auto" and its Day were too speedy and the old Hack became and is a memory.

In 1911 we were worried over auto traffic and regulations. "What was the world coming to." There were 1384 of the "bloomin'" civilization destroyers in Delaware alone.

Today, at the close of 1924, there were registered 35,000 cars in Delaware, not including dealer's licenses. We are travelling over the finest roads in the country. Automobiles are now fool-proof (yet there are some fools driving them). They are luxuries, pleasure assets and commercial necessities. Compare the 1911 Auto Bus with Miss Delaware and the pleasure touring with the sedan of today. Some speed, some age! And Newark is a part of the new day. Think now of 30 minute schedule to Wilmington and then go back to the Old Depot Hack. We criticize the speed of the Day but shall we go back even if possible?

"Good Roads, Flowers, Parks, Better Schools, Trees, Pure Water, Fresh Air, Sunshine and Work for Everybody"—OUR MOTTO

"Quality Folks"

A Dream Editorial In 1911

The old Southern Darkies recognized those who were above them by the name—quality folks. To us quality folks are those who do better work, who render better service than the ordinary run of folks. Heinz qualifies for that with his 57 varieties; the Studebaker Wagon Company, the Oliver Plow Company, John Wanamaker—all these and others in their class are quality folks. But one doesn't have to be of national importance to be reckoned in this class. One can be "quality folks" in a small community. All you have to do is to do a certain kind of work a little better than the best. That is the open sesame to that society.

Jones out in Wisconsin, is making better sausage than any one else, while Mary Elizabeth makes those who like good candy bend the knee to Syracuse. Out there in Pittsfield, Mass., is the Caxton society. These lovers of good printing are publishing a series of brochures which are fitted with the best in literature. Thomas Mosher, of Portland, makes the best books in the country. One can make a Mosher book, and always be sure that within the covers one can find something high grade. The Roycrofters came into existence because Elbert Hubbard stumbled into William Morris and caught the germ. Out in Los Angeles James Griffiths has set up the Golden Press among the orange trees and roses. He sends out his beautiful little magazine "Everyman" to try to bring folks to see that the Golden Rule is really greater than the majority think, and that a laugh is worth ten frowns in every market.

An ideal we have is that some day there will be a little shop in Newark that will do good things in printing. It is a dream—not of a country job office, but of a little art shop. A dream perhaps—but that the Newark Post some day will be considered and loved as a little weekly paper at Newark, Delaware, that is good, that is doing good, that is different and that we may be classed among the QUALITY FOLKS—because we are doing good work, a little better than the other fellow can.

The above appeared in The Post way back in April, 1911.

Today, there is Kells and we are dreaming still. There have been good days full of cheer and hard, hard days, dull, cold sordid. There have been days when we smiled but there was but little cheer in it for we saw the laughs of the crowd. There have been nights when we looked tomorrow's Pay Roll in the face and flinched. It takes nerve to face a Pay Roll in a country newspaper plant. We have faced Defeat, so close that we could touch its dull dreariness. Then would come Determination and a good day. We have sacrificed much of material gain in order to hold true to our original standard.

And today there is Kells. It has produced some printing worth while. Pardon a boast, but our color work has the unsought praise of The Lambs and Our Constitution has been accepted by The Grollier—and we are proud. Our Plant is our pride—and Down at Kells come old friends and new, increasingly as days go by. Some do us honor and now call us "Quality Folks" but the Best is Wawayanda—Just Beyond and Kells dreams to produce its Greatest Work in 1925—and Realization of its actual beginning is in the Spring's hovering mist.

Yes, it's a Dream—let's hope.

Nathan Miller And Success

A Quarter Century—and Success! And by Success, we do not mean accumulation of wealth alone, nor growth of business though these have been magic. Nathan Miller and his associates, who observed their 25th Anniversary this week, have Success to their credit by the Services to their Community and State and by their Active Citizenship.

Nathan Miller is a name whose life and work read like a romance. To recite the facts alone would seem exaggeration. We recall a banquet on the 16th Anniversary with the slogan "The Public be Pleased." The marvel of the growth of business and the services rendered then now pale in the light of the past decade. But as said before, that which most appeals to us is his citizenship. And the service he is rendering outside his business every day in such modest yet effective way that they seem commonplace and natural.

Congratulations to Miller Brothers is the word from Newark. Go on. Delaware accepts you and the tribute paid you by officials, church, State, business and by friends has been worthily won. Nor was such tribute small honor. You are a citizen of no mean State.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS BACK WORLD COURT

At the yearly meeting of Friends in Philadelphia recently, the following recommendation was made:

We are profoundly impressed that the present is a crucial period for the cause of world peace. The question of the World Court is now an active issue in this country. We earnestly believe that adherence to the Court on the basis of the Harding-Hughes proposals should be the next step of our government toward the prevention of war.

The World Court by itself will not abolish war, but it is an important instrumentality for peace. It is gradually developing a body of international law and a habit of seeking the peaceful settlement of international disputes, which are requisite to the effective outlawry of war. It accords with the policy of our country inaugurated by John Hay more than a quarter of a century ago. It is demanded alike by the dictates of common sense and by the ideals of human brotherhood which should appeal strongly to a great nation professing Christianity.

We commend the efforts of the President in behalf of the World Court. We respectfully urge all members of the Senate to bring about this Country's adherence to the Court early in its next session.

QUICK RESPONSE TO LOCAL BATTER PLEA

Captain J. C. Hastings, in command of Battery E of Newark, stated yesterday that the response to the Battery's appeal for reading room equipment, made through the columns of THE POST last week was very gratifying.

Acknowledgment is made of the following gifts:

Basket of books, from Mrs. D. Lee Rose.

Magazines and books, from Walter A. Layfield.

Package of magazines, from Franklin Collins.

Magazines and books, from Frank Godwin.

Sofa and Morris chair for the lounge room, both from "A Friend."

Following the complete renovation of the Armory here and the establishment of a serviceable library and reading room, plans are now being laid for the equipping of a ladies' dressing room. Captain Hastings stated yesterday that any furnishings for this room, or additional books and magazines for the reading room would be greatly appreciated by the battery-men.

THE FOOTLIGHTS CLUB

Editorial in Wilmington Sunday Star.

That musical revue, "Smash and Crax," as presented by the Footlights Club of the University of Delaware last Friday night at the Playhouse, was a feather in the caps of the collegians, and those present, including many old grads and undergrads, enjoyed themselves to the limit. It was not a smooth or finished production by any means, but thoroughly permeated with a virile humor, and exemplified to the fullest, in parody and otherwise, the distinctive hallmark of American college life—the tendency to burlesque everything, no matter how serious.

The Footlights Club is to be congratulated for its success this season, and we hope the organization will continue to forge ahead year by year. Such a group forms an essential part of university life as some of the heavy subjects included in the curriculum, and is in itself education.

While the Footlights Club hails from the University of Delaware, it would be more explicit to say it is an organization confined to Delaware College, or the Men's College of the University. A similar organization exists in the Women's College.

In the case of a revue, such as Smash and Crax, such grouping along sex lines does not make material difference, merely resulting in some excellent feminine impersonations, as was the case Thursday evening. But when it comes to real dramas, which exemplify life as it is lived, such ancient groupings are bound to result in fiasco.

We hope the time will soon come when the Footlights Club will really represent the University of Delaware, and be permitted to enroll among its members both students in Delaware College and the Women's College.

LIBERTY OR DEATH

Elbert Hubbard used to say that Liberty was the thing Patrick Henry called for when the bar-tender asked him what he would have.

Old Patrick Henry, fiddler and dreamer that he was, had a vision of the future. What he really said was, "Give me Liberty or Give me Death."

He would have to take second choice were he living today.

WOULD YOU DODGE?

"Would you dodge criticism? Then fill your sentences with perhaps, maybe, it would seem that. This will give you suppleness, elasticity, equilibrium. It is the timid scholar's style. It will save you from being pushed where you do not want to go, in which respect you will resemble a rubber band. It will enable you to spring back to your first position gracefully, in which respect you will resemble the little rolypoly toy man with his belly full of lead."

"Nature is very kind. Her adaptation of means to ends is beneficent, beautiful, right; and in the presence of this Divine Intelligence we stand silent, subdued, uncovered."

An application of one of old Oliver Cromwell's sayings might not come amiss sometimes—"I beseech you, by the mercies of the Lord to believe in the possibility of YOUR being mistaken sometimes."

Lieutenant and Mrs. Frank Dean and two children arrived from their home in Washington, Monday, for a visit of a few days with Mrs. Dean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Whittingham.

Miss Harriet Wilson attended the Davis-Baynum wedding in Milford last Saturday evening.

Miss Ona Singles spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moody, near Christiansburg.

John S. Shaw, president of the local Board of Education, is recovering rapidly at his home here following an operation performed on his throat early last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Usher, of Dover, former residents of Newark, spent Friday evening here.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul K. Musselman have moved to their apartment in the Lilley house on East Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Haley, of West Philadelphia, are receiving congratulations from Newark friends upon the recent birth of a son. Mrs. Haley will be remembered as Miss Rose Doyle, of this town.

Tickets have been distributed to members of the Country Club for the annual Card Party benefit to be held in the New Century Club here on the evening of May 9th next. The committee in charge are looking forward to a large attendance. Tables for bridge, five hundred and Mah Jongg will be provided.

Mrs. J. P. Cann has returned from Washington, D. C., where she attended the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

A number of Newark people will attend the Military Ball at the Hotel du Pont, in Wilmington, this evening.

Misses Mary Houston, Harriett Wilson, Prof. Carl Rees, William Walker and Dr. W. O. Syphard attended a bridge party in Middletown last evening at the home of Miss Charlotte Penderly.

NEW YORK VISITORS INSPECT THE LIBRARY

Headed by two instructors, about fifty students of the New York State Library School at Albany, spent part of yesterday on a visit of inspection to the new Memorial Library on the University campus here.

The New York group arrived on the Baltimore and Ohio and were taken directly to the Library in busses. They were conducted through the building by Miss Dorothy Hawkins, librarian, and her staff.

The students of this school take what they term a "Southern trip" each spring, stopping off at libraries in the course of their journeys. Just prior to their visit to Newark, the group stopped off in Wilmington. Their next stop will be Washington, D. C.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB TO PRESENT OPERETTA

"The Ghosts of Hilo," a Hawaiian operetta in two acts, with special dancing, will be given tomorrow night in Wolf Hall by the Glee Club of the Women's College here.

The girls have been working hard on the piece for the past several weeks under the direction of Miss Dora Wilcox, head of the department of music at the college.

Features of the performance tomorrow will be the special dancing by Misses Bertha C. Staats and Katharine J. Krauss. Twenty voices will make up the chorus.

Weddings

Emerson—Jacobs

A very pretty Spring wedding took place in Smyrna, Del., Thursday, April 16th, when Miss Hilda G. Emerson, of State College, Pa., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Emerson, of Townsend, Del., became the bride of William Louis Jacobs, of Smyrna, Del., son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jacobs, of Smyrna. The bride was attired in a gown of ivory chiffon crepe, trimmed with Dutch lace; her veil was cap shape, caught with orange blossoms; her bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley, shower effect. Miss Julian Hoffman, of Baltimore, Md., was bridesmaid, and Mr. Geo. F. Burson, of Washington, D. C., acted as best man. The bridesmaid wore pale green chiffon dress and carried pink roses.

The bride is well known in Newark and has many friends in the town, having lived with Mrs. J. P. Wright for eight years.

After an extended honeymoon to Niagara Falls and Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs will live in Clayton after May 1st, where Mr. Jacobs is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Campbell—Marine

Miss Jessie Campbell and Mr. Roland Marine, both of Newark, will be married at five o'clock next Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Frank Herson. The ceremony will take place in the Methodist parsonage on East Main Street.

The only attendants at the wedding will be a brother and sister-in-law of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Campbell, also of Newark. Following a short wedding trip, the bride and groom will be at home in their newly furnished apartment on East Main Street. Miss Campbell is well known to the many patrons of Mrs. J. A. McKelvey's Deer Park Hotel dining-room. She has, however, insisted upon a quiet wedding, much to the disappointment and chagrin of her "family" of men at the Deer Park.

FAMOUS VISITORS TO TAKE PART

In addition to those mentioned representatives of Gold Star Mothers, G. A. R., Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish-American War Veterans and various other organizations both civic and educational will be invited to attend the dedication exercises.

The committee at the meeting next week will complete the details as to the parade, program, etc.

Interesting and unusually designed memorial tablets will be placed in the rotunda, to be known as Memorial Hall.

Also, a book, as was featured during the drive for funds, will be placed in the honor position on an altar of special design. Details of these of course could not, with delicacy, be described until the unveiling. This decision was reached at the informal opening.

It was then agreed that the main features arranged by the authorities, together with the official recognition by the General Assembly at its recent session, should not be made public until the solemnities of the dedication.

MERCHANTS MOVE TO OUST PEDDLERS

cantile section will bring the matter before Town Council and ask for action.

The sub-committee appointed last night to handle the details includes Sol Wilson, chairman, Roger Lovett and George Rhodes.

Kappa Alpha Dance
A Brilliant Affair

100 Couples Attend Annual Fraternity Event Here Last Friday Night; Novel Decorations

With over 100 couples present from all parts of Delaware and from adjoining states, the annual formal dinner and dance of the Beta Epsilon Chapter of Kappa Alpha was held here Friday night last.

The evening opened with dinner at seven o'clock in the commons of Old College. G. Massey Gum, incoming president of the Fraternity, presided at the dinner, and welcomed the guests in a brief speech. Seated at the table with him at one end of the room were the officers, both incoming and retiring, and their guests. During the course of the dinner, numerous remonstrances of Alumni of the chapter were held about the tables, and a general air of "old friends and reminiscences" pervaded the room. Decorations were simple, consisting of banners of the several fraternities at Delaware, spring blossoms at the table and Kappa Alpha colors laid across the wide table linen.

Dance In Armory

Shortly after nine o'clock, the dance began in the Armory on Delaware avenue. Music was furnished by George Madden, a member of the fraternity, and his Delawareans.

The decorative scheme for the frolic, designed by James H. Deputy, was a distinct novelty. The drill hall was transformed into a huge web, with a realistic spider dangling directly over the center of the floor. Along the walls, the scheme was further carried out by brilliant tulips, lilies and other spring flowers, made from cardboard and paper and fastened to the bricks. Butterflies dangled from the spider web roof of the hall. Two cozy corners in the upper end of the hall were shaded by enormous white mushrooms. The decorations were entirely new here and called forth much favorable comment from the guests.

During the dance delicious punch was served by an attendant.

The "Kappa Alpha March" at the beginning of the evening's dancing was led by Mr. Gum and Miss Anna Davidson.

Guests were present from Wilmington, New York City, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and practically every down-State town.

The patronesses were: Mrs. George E. Dutton, Mrs. Walt H. Steel, Mrs. J. S. Shaw, Mrs. N. N. Wright, Mrs. J. C. Hastings, Mrs. George L. Townsend, Mrs. S. J. Wright, Mrs. John Pilling, Mrs. J. P. Cann, Mrs. J. P. Wright, Mrs. E. B. Wright, Mrs. Herman Tyson, Mrs. C. B. Evans, Mrs. C. A. McCue, Dean Winifred J. Robinson, Mrs. Walter Hullihen, Mrs. Everett C. Johnson, Mrs. H. L. Bonham and Mrs. F. M. K. Foster.

Star Coupster Out

The Star Coupster just announced by Durant Motors, Inc., fills a well-defined demand for a transportation unit to meet the requirements of the salesman, doctor or other professional or business man who must have reliable, comfortable automotive transportation at a minimum of expense.

Not only is the Coupster unusually low in first cost, but based on operating records of 2392 Star owners, which their reports show averaged 21/10 cents a mile, is lowest also in operating cost.

The Coupster marks another epoch in the history of transportation and further emphasizes Star leadership in the low-priced field.

FASHION NOTES

Draperies may be fitted at the hip or fall in cascade or handkerchief points.

Peasant blouses and Chinese tunics have small standing bands for collars.

Remember that one-strap pumps or oxfords are smarter with tailored clothes.

Your jumper, to be smart, must have the kick pleat at front or front and back.

The small standing collar may have long, narrow tie ends in front and back.

An ensemble suit of natural Kasha has a tunic and trimming of gay chintz.

If you wish, the ends of your tie collar may be caught in a bow under the left ear.

A deep border of black monkey is used on a coat of lacquer-red suede cloth.

For evening wear, nothing eclipses the popularity of printed Georgettes and chiffons.

Fullness at the wrist is permissible, even with the vogue of the long close sleeve.

The light dance frock flutters with pointed panels, cascade draperies and jabot effects.

The tunic peasant blouse is long with raglan sleeves and peasant embroideries.

On a frock of white vertical rows of stitching in scarlet give the effect of fine tucks.

For the young girl's dance frock, the molded bodice and bouffant skirt is still good.

Some of the ensemble coats are sleeveless, allowing the sleeves of the frock to show.

One of the most favored modes is the little two-piece jumper frock or blouse ensemble.

"Outline embroidery in black and gold is used on a coat of white Kasha, collared with ermine.

Frills of white organdie are used at neck, hem and cuffs on a frock of blue and white printed crepe.

A deep cuff of white satin faces the hem of a blue crepe tunic, below which a plaited section shows.

Sets, such as matching hat and scarf, are excellent.

The silk frock may still be crossed and draped in front.

Spring frocks of crepe incline to gay, printed borders.

Continental Team Opens Fibre League Season Here Saturday With Marshallton Team

New Circuit Gets Start With Four Teams Enrolled. To Play Off to Sections of Schedule; Locals Look Good

With four teams entered and ready to go, the newly organized Fibre League starts its maiden baseball voyage next Saturday, with two games scheduled, one at Yorklyn, where the Diamond State and National teams hook up, and the other at Newark, where Continental entertains Delaware.

The formation of the League combines four well matched teams at no great distance apart, placed on a strictly amateur basis, and ably supported by the officials of the various companies. From all reports, the games during 1925 will be hard fought affairs.

The Fibremen will play a twin season schedule the first half closing June 27, while the curtain will be dropped on the second half September 5th.

Champions of the first second halves will meet in a post season series for the pennant.

Each team has nine home games scheduled.

The Continental nine is as yet an unknown quantity. There is every reason to believe, however, that the baseball talent known to be employed there should guarantee a rattling good team. The home games will, of course, be played on the company's field on East Delaware Avenue.

NEWARK HIGH DROPS GAME TO GOLDEY 10-4

"Shorty" Chalmers, in Pitcher's Role, Has Two Bad Innings; Newark Weak At the Bat

Coach Nunn's Newark High School ball tossers were again set back by a Wilmington team Monday afternoon on Continental Field here, when Goldey College turned the trick for the second time this season, score 10-4.

For five innings, it was a real ball game. Newark led 1-0, with Shorty Chalmers, shortstop, third baseman and pitcher throwing them in there with an unusual amount of cunning. Shorty was splitting the corners nicely when the sixth inning broke.

Frantic rooters clutched at disheveled heads during that inning. Three passes, two hits, one a triple; and many groans punctuated the proceedings. When Newark finally got them put, five runs had scored, and that was that.

Later on, in the ninth to be exact, four more tallies came trooping home for Goldey—and that was even worse.

This fellow Sterling for Goldey is said to have lived completely up to his hall-mark during the fracas. Beside holding Newark down to five hits, he almost matched that total single-handed when he gathered in four safe blows. His triple in the fifth came with three on while a double from his bat in the ninth sent two more in.

Inability to hit Sterling when hits were needed hampered the locals. Davis and Chalmers were the hardest bat welders for Newark. Davis further distinguished himself by stealing home after his double in the ninth. The rally in that inning held great promise but Goldey's long lead was too great to overcome.

Newark plays Middletown High Friday afternoon, on Continental Field here.

Score by Innings
Goldey 1 0 0 0 5 0 0 4—10
Newark 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 3—4
Two-base hits—Sterling, C. Buck-

START MOVE TO SAVE ST. PETER'S CHURCH

Catholics of the diocese of Wilmington, which includes all of Delaware, the Eastern Shore of Maryland and two counties in Virginia, will conduct a campaign, starting Friday, May 1, and continuing until May 11, to raise a fund of $100,000 with which to alter and restore old St. Peter's Church, Sixth and West streets, in Wilmington, and consecrate it as a Cathedral.

This is the oldest Catholic church now in service in the diocese of Wilmington and has been continuously used as a place of worship for 109 years. Its records go back much further to the temporary missions at which Catholics worshipped before the founding of a permanent church.

Teams will be formed in every Catholic parish in Delaware, the Eastern Shore of Maryland and the two counties in Virginia. This will be the first Cathedral in this diocese. Bishop John J. Monaghan, the clergy, and leading Catholic laymen in all parts of the Peninsula are taking part in the campaign.

Correction

In a report of the condition of milk served to Newark patrons published in The Post in the issue of April 8th last, it was stated that the milk produced by the George Jarmon herd was "dirty."

This report was in error, as the result of a test recently made by Sanitary Engineer Beckett, at Dover, and forwarded to Mr. Jarmon showed the milk to be, according to the Sediment Test, only "slightly dirty."

New Century Club Entertains Local Chamber of Commerce

On Monday evening, April 27, the Newark New Century Club was host to the members of the Chamber of Commerce and their wives, also to the husbands and friends of club members.

Mrs. R. W. Heim, president of the Club, welcomed the guests, then proceeded to announce the splendid program.

It was an evening of music and drama. Every number was a delight to the audience and a credit to the performers.

While the stage was being arranged the male quartet from the Presbyterian Church sang two groups of songs. Mrs. George Dutton and Mrs. William Holton played a duet. Prof. Ryden sang two groups of songs. Miss Wilcox played the music of the second act of Verdi's opera, "Il Trovatore." Just after the "Anvil Chorus" the curtains were drawn aside and the scene presented in which the gypsy mother, Azucena, nurses her son, who has been wounded in battle.

Miss Anne Ritz in the role of Mother, sang with splendid dramatic power. She was ably supported by Johnson Rowan in the role of Mauricio. The following scene brought in the duet, "Home to Our Mountains," which is so full of pathos. It was beautifully rendered by Miss Ritz and Mr. Rowan. The appreciation of the audience was manifested by the prolonged applause and "curtain calls."

Quickly the scenery was changed and the stage prepared for the humorous one-act play, "For Distinguished Service." The stars, three in number, were Mrs. Alex Cobb, Mrs. Steidel and Miss Sarah Lovett. Out of the eternal triangle, this time with a happy ending, the audience got a hearty laugh and young people a bit of good advice.

Much credit is due to those who arranged for the evening's entertainment. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Dutton, chairmen of the program committee. Mrs. J. O. G. Duffy, who selected the play and the scenes from the Opera. She also coached the players and the singers. In securing the singers of the evening, arranging the stage, etc., she was ably assisted by Miss Eleanor Duffy, who as chairman of the Music Committee has done much to add interest to all the programs of the past Club year.

Mrs. George Rhodes, Club hostess, together with her assistants, added that feature without which no party would be complete, namely, refreshments.

The next Club meeting, May 11th, will be held at the Women's College with Dean Robinson as hostess. The Club members are urged to assemble promptly at 2.30 as there is much important business to transact before the program of the afternoon begins.

Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Bowen will conduct a "rummage sale" in the Club House on the afternoons and evenings of May 6th and 7th. Those who contribute to this sale will kindly send their wares to the Club House any time after 10 a. m., Tuesday, May 5th.

McKelvie and Erance, both stars on the track and in field sports, have taken over the coaching of the Blue and Gold's 1925 track squad. Lack of funds made it impossible to employ an outside coach, so these two seniors have jumped to the breach. Their team won its first meet of the season.

Comments On The Times

Brief Summaries Of National And Foreign Events Of The Past Week Prepared By Newark High School Pupils

Through the courtesy of their instructor, THE POST begins this week the publication of a series of condensed opinions on national and international news of the day, written and signed by pupils in the Current Events class of the High School here.

Each week, clippings of important news value are brought into the classroom by the students and there discussed. The following brief sketches represent the unhampered efforts of the current week's "news committee."

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Vice President Charles G. Dawes has been giving various speeches about reorganizing the manner of passing bills in the Senate. In the past, a minority, sometimes one man, has been able to block a measure. This is wrong and Mr. Dawes wishes to correct it. He assures his hearers that he has been elected by the people and not by the Senate; therefore, he says he must work for their benefit.

Another important event of the past week has been the awarding of the Pulitzer Prizes. Edna Ferber received the prize for the best American novel, "So Big." Sidney Howard was selected as the best playwright because of his work, "They Knew What They Wanted." The best volume of verse, "The Man Who Died Twice," was written by Edwin A. Robinson. James A. Thompson.

GERMANY

Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has been elected president of Germany, by nearly a million votes. The election was held Sunday, April 26, with three candidates in the field; Ernest Thaelmann, Communist candidate; Dr. Wilhelm Marx, Republican Bloc Candidate, and Paul von Hindenburg, winning candidate for the Nationalist-Conservative party.

Von Hindenburg is the first German president to be elected by the popular vote of the people. The most significant feature of the election was the large women's vote. He was their war hero; they voted for sentimental reasons alone. Various opinions have been expressed in regard to this election: France fears revenge and seems to think it will threaten European peace. Von Hindenburg denies that his election represents reaction or is unfriendly to the Republic. The German Ambassador assured the United States that the German people would do their utmost to fulfill their obligations in spite of changes in the government; however, there seems to be little to fear from this election.

Von Hindenburg is too old to vitally change German affairs, besides the other nations of the world would be too closely interested to allow a reactionary and autocratic government; hence the peace of the world will hardly be menaced.

Kitty Green.

FRANCE

The two pressing questions in France today are: finances (internal and external) and international relations, the latter embracing security and guarantee pacts.

The financial situation is the cause of much concern both to herself and to the nations to whom she is indebted. According to Herriot the situation is this: there is no money in the treasury; the returns from taxes are inadequate, France must shortly refund over a billion dollars in cash to insist French bondholders, and, to top it all, there has been the public admission that the treasury had been inflated in order to conceal this financial crisis.

From present indications, the French hope for reconstruction is centered in two men: Briand and Caillaux. The ultimate success of one or the other would probably mean the Premiership for the victor. Briand is a controlled and extremely able diplomat, his greatest power lying in the knowledge of men. His popularity with the people decreased following his return from the Washington Disarmament Conference. Caillaux on the other hand, has been universally accepted by the people of France, despite the resentment which followed his trial and his banishment for wartime relations with Germany.

Primarily, Caillaux is a member of the Cabinet solely on the question of finances. France, therefore, has two men who are the most gifted experts in their respective spheres, endeavoring to utilize their dormant national wealth by shifting it to the coffers of the treasury.

Bessie Handloff.

BULGARIA

Within the last week five events of importance have occurred. The King was fired upon while driving to Sofia, the capitol. General Gheorghieff was assassinated and two days later the Cathedral was bombed during the funeral service. The following day the chief-of-police was shot and, in spite of a strict censorship there have been reports of skirmishes in Bulgaria and fighting along the Greek and Serbian borders. Numbers have been killed and arrested and a large amount of revolutionary material has been found. These events seem to be a signal for a general Communist uprising and consequently are looked upon with fear by most of the European nations.

PIANOS BY AIRPLANE IS THE LATEST STUNT

Newark People See Plane Go Over Carrying Baby Grands Last Thursday; Enroute To Washington

Several Newark people who had been on the lookout last Thursday following announcements made in newspapers, saw a giant freight plane soar over town about 11 o'clock that morning.

The plane, an entirely new type of carrier, was being tested prior to the establishment of an airway freight company.

Two baby grand pianos were lashed aboard at the time; they were not visible, however, to local people who saw the plane go over. It was enroute from New York to Washington.

One of the pianos was consigned to Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, whose secretary was present to receive it and turn it over to a community centre in which Mrs. Coolidge is interested. The other went to a Washington music store.

The trip marked the first flight of this nature for the General Airways system, which will use Sikorsky's planes on a freight and passenger air route between Boston and St. Paul. Col. Harold E. Hartney, Vice-President and organizer of the proposed airline, was aboard, as was his navigator, Capt. C. D. Collier. Mr. Sikorsky acted as pilot, and three mechanics completed the crew.

The pianos were securely lashed to the cabin floor, the seats for twelve having been removed. Insurance policies covered chance of mishap to the baby grands and possible damage suits if either was dropped on anybody enroute.

ROBBERS HIT ELKTON

First Visit In Many Months Last Tuesday

For the first time for many months robbers visited Elkton Tuesday night and looted the home of Perry Heverin, where they secured $45 in money. The home of Scott Green was next visited and his entire chicken flock taken. The garage of M. O. Thompson was next broken open and his Ford touring car was stolen and thus the thieves escaped. The same evening the home of James N. Naudain was entered but Mrs. Naudain's screams awakened neighbors next door and scared the intruders away before anything was stolen.

Delaware's Place In The Nation's History Lauded At Valley Forge Flag Dedication

George B. Hynson, Well Known To Many Newarkers, Makes Presentation Speech Upon Dedication Of State Flag In Memorial Chapel There; Many Attend Simple Exercises

The flag of the Sovereign State of Delaware was presented on Sunday last to the Memorial Chapel at Valley Forge, and will forever rest in that shrine of American liberty.

The simple exercises surrounding the presentation of the flag by the Sons of Delaware of Philadelphia were witnessed by scores of natives of this State.

George B. Hynson, a native of Milford, and well known to many Newark people, was the orator of the day. At the special dedicatory services held in the chapel by Rev. Herbert Burke, Mr. Hynson delivered a splendid address through which he wove the story of Delaware's part in preserving American liberty.

The flag was carried into the chapel by two young Wilmington boys dressed in the buff and blue of the Continental soldiers. It is one of forty-eight State flags which will eventually be presented to and be hung within the Memorial Chapel.

Mr. Hynson's Address

Mr. Hynson's address, in part, follows:

"My Countrymen: We who are permitted to participate in the ceremony of this hour are sons and daughters of Delaware. We are not alien to this soil. We are here as a matter of right; it is an incident of our heritage.

"In fancy, we can picture many shadowy forms moving through these valleys and over these hills; and our eager eyes, following them through the mists of the years, recognize them. They are our kindred who once in the flesh responded to the drum-beat of independence, and who answered to the names that we call our own.

"Politically, socially and racially, we are allied to both Maryland and Pennsylvania. From them we have derived something of our spirit and our culture. The streams of restless pioneers pushing eastward from the Chesapeake and southward from the Schuylkill and Brandywine, met and commingled; and each left the impress of its dominant qualities.

"Thus the people of Delaware, through the generations, give evidence of their origin, the austerity of the Puritan softened by the grace and charm of the Cavalier.

"And so as Delawareans, in our own right, and as Marylanders and Pennsylvanians by the grace of consanguinity, we may proudly proclaim that we have been here before.

"We came as Colonists, awkward in our new habiliments of buff and blue, leaving our shops unattended, our ships in the harbor, our plows in the field. We exchanged the axe for the flintlock, the freedom of the farm for the discipline of the camp, loyalty to the crown for loyalty to our sister colonies and a vision of independence and self-government.

"And we shall come again—the pilgrimage extending through the generations. We shall renew the springs of our devotion; we shall keep the faith.

"Delaware boasts no vast domain; she has not the arrogance of wealth or of power. Small in area, she is modest in her pretensions and in her aspirations. But she does not forget that she was one of the 'immortal thirteen'; in every crisis when American rights and prestige have been at stake she has shown her loyalty in full measure; and she regards herself as second to none in her sovereignty.

"Her people have the pride of race. If their blood is not noble, neither is it of peasant strain. It is the blood that has given the world its great leaders — navigators, philosophers, poets and statesmen. In that great class still lie the potentialities of the race, and from it are recruited the forces that do the world's work.

"Freely from the thrall of old-world civilization and traditions, thrown upon their own resources and finding themselves self-sufficient, inevitably their minds took a new direction until they came to picture a government whose powers should be derived from the consent of the governed."

Sought Wider Opportunity

"The coming of our ancestors to Delaware was not in the nature of a religious crusade. They did not brave the seas in frail craft to escape religious persecution, nor to convert the heathen. Neither were they bent on conquest; they sought no El Dorado.

"They sought merely a wider opportunity—an opportunity to clear the broad, virgin acres, to establish their homes and to rear their families in accordance with their racial culture, like freemen. They hoped to reap abundantly, but only as the natural reward of their industry, their enterprise and their moral worth. They were of the stuff of which real states are made.

"In the villages and along the roads, they built their chapels, representing their several creeds. To their religious beliefs and practices they held tenaciously, yet there is no record of ecclesiastical strife or of persecutions. They were largely adherents of the English Church, Baptists and Presbyterians, yet their relations seem to have been cordial with the Catholics of Baltimore and the Friends of Philadelphia.

"In brief, they were fitted by habit and temperament for the role they were destined to play in assisting in the formation of a free government with freedom of religious belief.

"Their counties were named after three English geographical divisions—New Castle, Kent and Sussex. The minor divisions were the hundreds, as in the old country.

"In the making and ratification of the Constitution, Delaware played a conspicuous part. The Declaration had set forth the principles on which governments should be instituted among men; a constitution was required to give those principles effect and to weld the colonies, loosely bound together, into a real union of states.

"The opposing schools of thought, represented by Hamilton and Jefferson, had contended and finally compromised, and the document that was submitted to the states for their approval really satisfied nobody. There were delegates who predicted that it would never be ratified. Indeed, some of them went home to oppose it.

"In December, 1787, the General Assembly of Delaware in the course of its business, came to the consideration of the new Federal Constitution. How it would be received by the several states was problematic. The great commonwealths to the north and south had taken no action. The pamphleteers were busy pointing out its many defects.

"The General Assembly of Delaware was composed largely of men of humble station. They were farmers, small merchants and a sprinkling of lawyers of only local fame constituting its membership. They seem to have been little concerned with the refinements and abstractions with which the great charter was being discussed. They were not interested in its academic aspects, but in the practical. Those simpleminded men, conscious of their responsibility, unhampered by pride of opinion, listened closely to the reading of that document. Its English was clear, its language explicit, its purposes plain. So they proceeded to give it their approval. The great commonwealths to the north and south might consider it at their leisure; but Delaware placed upon it her sanction.

"Those men of the Delaware Assembly could not know that they were leading the way in approving what has since been termed the greatest compact that ever emanated from the brains of men. They read the charter; it seemed to them good; and they hesitated not.

"In the endeavor to present the picture of a people, it is difficult to strike a balance between eulogy and fact. But Delaware played her part nobly in the formative years of our Republic and is entitled to an honored place—a place that no one contests, but all concede.

"It must also be said that she has helped to conserve what she helped to build. In all of America's wars, she has stood ready with sacrifices of wealth and manhood, giving both without stint; and in the hour of greatest trial, when the nation was divided into two hostile camps and brother was in arms against brother, Delaware—although a border state—placed herself promptly on the side of the Union, making a contribution that, in proportion to her population, was exceeded by none.

"And what of her future? A new day has dawned. No people can now live unto themselves; no action is Prouse Gets Post As Head Of Tiding Dept.

Wallace Handy Removed By Secretary Of State Taylor Last Week; Incumbent A Wilmington Man

Wallace S. Handy for the past four years has been at the head of the Automobile Tiding Department with offices in the State House at Dover. He will relinquish that position on May 1st, according to announcement made. Mr. Handy was appointed to the office by former Secretary of State Benson, and has been very active in bringing the department up to a high standard of efficiency.

Shanley D. Prouse, formerly of Magnolia, but for several years a resident of Wilmington, has been named by Secretary of State Taylor to succeed Mr. Handy. The office has paid $3600.00 per year, but it is understood that the new occupant will receive only $2500.00 for handling the job. Mr. Prouse is well-known throughout the state. He has been connected with Wilmington automobile businesses for several years. All of the automobile tiding and registration business is directly under Secretary of State Taylor. The offices have been moved this week to the old Senate and House stenographer offices, thus giving more room for the regular business of the Secretary of State's office.

STATE MARKET BUREAU ENLARGING ITS SCOPE

Peaches and Apples Added To Shipping List, Is Report; Furnish Transportation Assistance

Although the activities of the Bureau of Markets have increased each year since it was founded, the program for the coming season will embrace a large scope of work for this department according to W. T. Derickson, the Director of the Bureau.

Peaches and apples have been added to the list for shipping point inspection this year. Shipping point inspection was started with the late apple crop in 1923. Early apples and grapes were added in 1924 and with the increase this year Delaware's fruit crop will have a better standard in rating on the markets.

The Bureau of Markets will continue its campaign for the standardization of grades and packages. The success achieved along this line during the past two years demonstrates the efforts used in this line have brought forth some good results.

Other activities of the Bureau of Markets such as furnishing organization and transportation assistance and maintaining a new service for the growers, will be continued as heretofore and the services improved upon as the conditions warrant.

P. R. R. Pension Fund
Pensions amounting to $4,194,000 were paid to retired employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad System in 1924, under the Company's pension plan. This is shown in figures now under preparation for the Pension Department's annual report. During the year, 1259 workers were retired from active service and placed upon the "Roll of Honor." With the single exception of 1921, these were the heaviest retirements since the pension system became operative.

A Home--Or Just a House?

TOO much care cannot be exercised in the planning and building of a Home. You Kiwanians who are wrapped up in the building trades know this and urge the policy of good workmanship and good materials.

After all, a Home is not merely a house with four walls and a roof. Too much skimping in the little niceties of finish, both inside and out, has its unfortunate result in a few years.

It is not a little gratifying to know that so many new homes in Newark include "materials from McNeal." The confidence of builder and owner is something that cannot be too closely guarded.

Change In Ownership Of Old Kiamensi Mill Recalls Days When It Was Flourishing Concern

The Wilmington Sunday Star, in commenting in a recent issue on the sale of the old Kiamensi Woolen Mills between Newark and Stanton, to New York buyers, carries the following historical sketch of the property:

While a grist and saw mill existed on the site away back in the eighteenth century, the first factory was built in 1811, by Thomas Lea. This was a cotton factory. In February, 1823, William Warner, Edward Tatnall, James Price and Thomas Lea offered for sale a cotton mill named Endeavor with 1452 spindles, and also a cotton factory, Auburn, on the Red Clay Creek, with 1300 spindles. The latter was the Stanton mill.

It was purchased by Joseph Mendenhall. In October, 1838, the property was bought by Thomas Garrett and David Smith. Following this, there were a number of changes of ownership, until on March 25, 1864, the mills were sold to William Dean, John Pilling, Joseph W. Bullock and George T. Jones. By these parties, the property was conveyed on October 20, 1864, to the Kiamensi Woolen Mills.

Prior to this sale, the mills were used partly for cotton and partly for woolen goods, but now all the cotton machinery was taken out and the mill was used exclusively in the production of woolen goods.

It speedily became the largest and most successful woolen mill in the state, coming into the hands of the Pillings of Newark. In 1885, for example, the daily turnout was $1200 worth of goods, and 150 operators were employed.

Of late years, however, the mills failed to prosper, and it is said that money was lost even in the boom days of the war. Two years ago, the mills went into the hands of a receiver, William F. Smalley being appointed. The recent sale was at the hands of Mr. Smalley.

Another large woolen mill that operated successfully for a number of years was the Dean Mill, in White Clay Creek Hundred. William Dean was at one time interested in the Kiamensi Mills, but withdrew later, and carried on the White Clay Creek mill. This mill, in 1880, was doing $400,000 worth of business yearly, and employed 175 hands. It was completely burned down Christmas Day, 1880, and was never rebuilt.

remote. The minds of men are restless and we cannot remain content with past accomplishments. Delaware stands waiting to welcome all signs of progress, but she wishes to see and to examine all for herself. She will adopt improved methods, but she is aware that principals do not change. And, as she was the first to set her seal of approval to the Constitution, so she will be the last to abandon it or to consent to see it turned from its original intent.

"And today Delaware presents to this chapel erected upon one of America's most hallowed spots, her flag—the emblem of her faith, her service, her hopes and her sovereignty.

"She is honored by the colors of her sister states that will bear her colors company. She comes as an equal, yielding precedence to none, save to that other emblem which symbolizes the Union that she helped to create.

"And besides our country's colors, in this sacred edifice, may the flag of our state repose as long as one stone of this structure shall remain upon another—as long as men love free government and are amenable to their own laws.

MANY NOVEL FEATURES

The fifth annual pilgrimage of the Kiwanis Club of Wilmington was made to the University here last Wednesday. Over 400 members, their wives and friends, together with a generous sprinkling of Newark people attended the affair.

The dining hall in Old College was taxed severely to provide room for the host of diners. The tables, running the entire length of the room, were filled, and a few late comers were forced to be content with emergency provisions. The manner in which the student waiters and the kitchen staff under the direction of Miss Marion Skeewis handled the situation won many complimentary comments.

See Baseball Game

Many of the Kiwanians arrived in town soon enough to witness the opening baseball game of the Delaware season, and saw the Blue and Gold nine ride over Philadelphia Textile for a 6-2 victory.

Still others spent their afternoon visiting the campus and buildings, particular attention being paid to the have laid them on their altars. They have come with gold and incense and precious stones, in acknowledgment of benefits received and blessings hoped for.

"So we have brought our greatest treasure, the emblem of our sovereignty, the pledge of our faith to the Union, reverently acknowledging that overshadowing Providence under whose wings this nation was warmed into life and in whose shadow we yet abide.

"And now, sir, on behalf of the Sons of Delaware, of Philadelphia, and by direction of his excellency, Robert P. Robinson, the governor of the State of Delaware, I give this flag—emblem of the faith, the service and the aspirations of her people—into your keeping."

new Memorial Library on the lower campus.

The main contingent, however, did not come in until about a half hour before the scheduled time for the dinner. Soon the streets and courtyard about Old College were jammed with autos.

Dinner-Dance Next

From 6.30 o'clock until midnight, the Kiwanians made merry in the dining hall. Following the after-dinner program the guests strolled out into the hallways and Lounge Room while the tables were being whisked away. Dancing then held sway for three hours, with music by the college orchestra.

The dinner was splendidly cooked and efficiently served with roast spring chicken holding forth as the leading course.

Decorations consisted of a large Kiwanis shield over the speakers table; Kiwanis banners and colors around the walls; fresh cut apple blossoms and other cut flowers in vases, and candles throwing a soft light over the tables.

Miss Skeewis who prepared and supervised the serving of the dinner, was presented with a handsome silk scarf, the presentation speech being made by William M. Mask, Jr., vice-president of the club.

In addition to the speakers those at the speakers' table included Governor and Mrs. Robinson, Secretary of State and Mrs. Taylor, Dean Winifred J. Robinson and members of the committee and their wives, Dr. Walter Hulihan, president of the University, who was unable to attend, sent a telegram from Ohio, expressing regrets for his absence which was read by Governor Miller.

The chorus singing lead by Mr. Banks was one of the pleasing features. In addition to selections by the orchestra other musical features of the entertainment included piano selections by Miss Dora Wilcox, of the Women's College; vocal solos by Professor George H. Ryden, of the University faculty, and selections on the harmonica by William P. White.

Judge Patterson Speaks

Governor Miller introduced Judge John M. Patterson, of Philadelphia, as an old friend of many years' standing. In opening his remarks Judge Patterson told of being shown over the campus and through the buildings of the university by Governor Miller during the afternoon and commended the general plan as to the laying out of the campus and buildings.

"The day has gone in America," stated Judge Patterson, "when higher education is only the privilege of the rich. Higher education today is the right as well as the privilege of every American boy and girl whether rich or poor."

It was at this point that the speaker said education "is not sufficient in itself to make a nation great."

He stressed the fact that at the beginning all nations that became great did so because of simple homely virtues such as tolerance, love of neighbor, loyalty, patriotism, etc., and in every instant when the peoples of those nations cast aside for selfish purposes those virtues it resulted in the fall of the nations.

"We as a nation," he said, "are a new people. Our form of government is an experiment. This democracy of ours has its virtues and it also has its faults. If there is too much democracy and too much freedom we are liable to lose sight of the great landmarks that liberty should follow. It should go hand and hand with law. If there is too much liberty it may lead to disrespect of law and if there is too much law it may result in tyranny."

Judge Patterson urged that there should be taught in the youth a belief in the Supreme Being and a reverence for the Supreme Being. He argued that more religion should be taught in the schools and colleges.

The committee that arranged the dinner consisted of Arthur G. Wilkinson, chairman; Harry P. Dunbar, Jr., William E. Holton, William M. Mask, Jr., Charles R. Miller, Tom B. Stein, George L. Townsend, Jr., and Herbert Clark, Jr., a student who holds the Kiwanis Club scholarship at Delaware.

Claim Attempts To Belittle Coolidge In His Efforts For Strict Economy

There is on foot a deliberate and vicious attempt to belittle President Coolidge's program of economy. There is no doubt in the minds of many in Washington that this attempt is being made not only by political opponents, but also by some who are interested to see that the government shovels out money in expenditures which would result in their personal gain. This is evidenced by the heterogeneous collection of rumors, innuendoes, skillfully thought out propaganda, infantile imaginings and double-meaning articles which, with the Washington date line, is being broadcast throughout the country. Under the classification of vicious and misleading propaganda one can, by carefully reading articles sent out from the nation's capital, discern the effort that is being made to misconstrue the attitude of the President in the matter of economy. It is extremely doubtful, despite the efforts of some of the writers of this kind of matter, that any impression has been, or will be, made upon the people of the nation. The originators of this plan have overlooked one important factor, namely, that the people of the country have witnessed a material demonstration of the benefits of the President's plan to stop the wasting of the taxpayer's money. It is not an easy matter, even for clever propagandists, to fool the people when they know that the present plan of stopping wastage has resulted in the saving of their dollars. It must be recognized that national economy and the decrease in the expenses of the government has brought about a decrease in federal taxes.

President Coolidge's program of economy, put in plain words, is this: he is determined to stop the wastage of government funds, funds secured by taxes upon the people of the nation for inconsequential, non-essential, bureaucratic activities. This means that with these expenditures eliminated less money has to be paid to the government in the form of taxes. Consequently, it means more money for the individual to spend as he or she pleases. The President intends to stop the wasting of the taxpayer's money, and there certainly has been a great wastage of the people's dollars since the beginning of the World War.

President Coolidge is concerned only with the manner in which the government spends the taxpayer's money; what the individual man or woman do with their own wages or income is a matter that the President considers their own personal business.

Already this effort to belittle his work is in evidence. Some of these stories are feeble attempts to be witty; others are veiled attempts to discredit the President's determination to save the taxpayer's dollars.

There are those who, for purely selfish personal reasons, would be delighted to see the President's policy of economy killed—killed in order that they might put their hands in the taxpayer's pocket and pull out every dollar therein.

There are some very clever propagandists sending out stories from Washington. One thing is certain, the President will not be harpooned by those who now seek to belittle his economy program, as the public commonsense already detects the objective aimed at. The public will do well to continue to analyze stories of the before-mentioned character so they can draw the conclusion as to what particularly selfish interests are to be benefited by the stopping of an economy program. Those back of movements of this character have not the courage to come out and openly attack Calvin Coolidge. They realize full well that he possesses the respect and esteem of the people; if the instigators of this class of propaganda had the sense of an infant in arms they would realize that no method of propaganda, no matter how sugar-coated it may be, is going to stop the President from carrying out his plan of stopping government wastage. This conspiracy will be defeated by the support of the decent, clean-thinking citizens of our land and by the President's unflinching continuation of the program which he has outlined and is already executing.
