

HENS OPEN WITH TIGERS

Rousing Send-off Given Team Last Eve. At Pep-Fest

The first pep fest of the 1940 season was held in Wolf Hall last Thursday evening, amongst cheers, songs, and numbers by the band.

The cheer leading team took charge of the program by leading the student body in cheers that shook the rafters and songs that made the foundations quake.

Co-captains, Wilmer Apsley and Bill Wendle, present on the stage received thunderous applause. Coach, Bill Murray in the famous southern drawl expressed his opinion on the outlook for the coming season, and congratulated the team and the audience for their fine spirit and co-operation. Coach, Flucie Stewart also said a few words. Movies of thrilling plays and runs of the Delaware-Swathmore scrimmage were shown and commented on by Coach Murray.

J. Fenton Daugherty, President of the Athletic Council spoke of the fine college spirit shown by all. The Delaware College band made themselves outstanding by their fine renditions of popular college airs. The peppy music served as a stimulus for the cheering.

Thursday night was chosen for the meeting, because the team in order to make the trip to Hampden-Sydney, left at two o'clock this afternoon.

The pep-fest was attended by many freshmen showing admirable spirit, while noticeably lacking were the upper-classmen and the commuters. The fraternities were out in full force and their cheering and banner waving greatly boomed the spirit prevailing.

The complete program was under the direction of Walter Smith, Chairman of the Student Council social committee, and Jan Bove, captain of the cheering squad.

Books On Present War To Feature First Smoke Talk

There will be speakers and discussions galore at the first Smoke-talk to be held in the Lounge of Old College on Tuesday evening, beginning at 6:45, immediately following dinner. Topic for argument is, "Current War Books". There will be short talks on important books about World War II by four faculty members and by several students.

Able

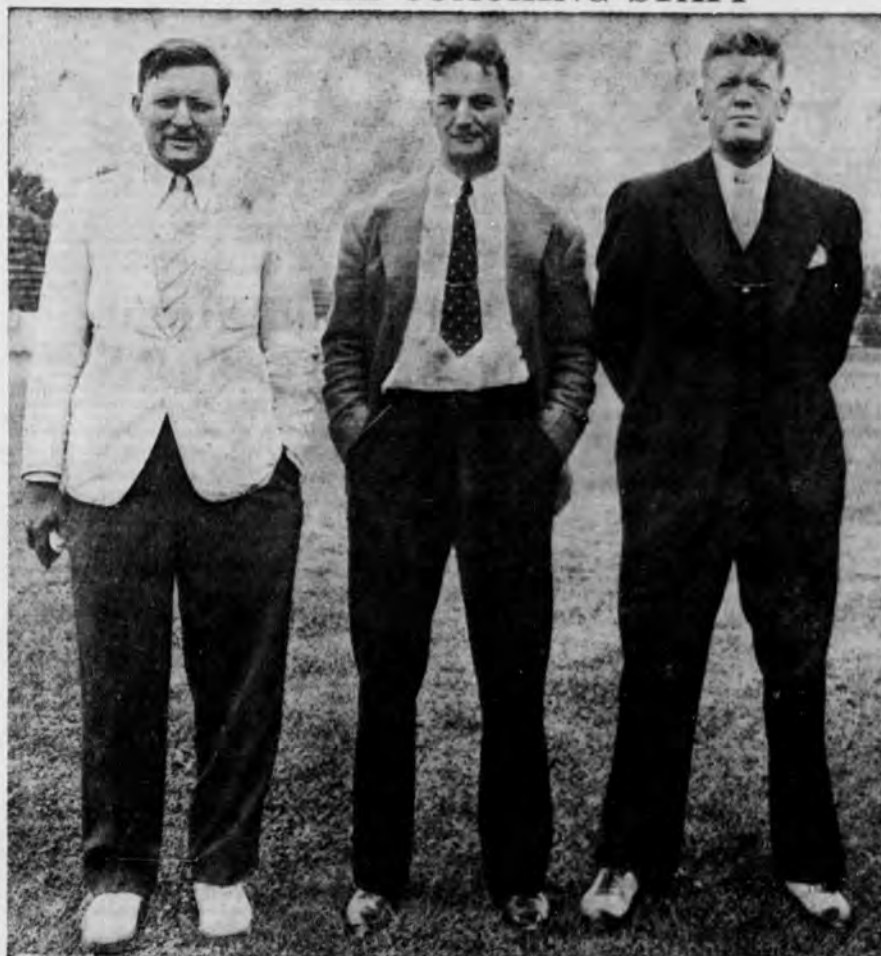

Dr. Augustus Able will preside over the meeting, sponsored jointly by the Humanist Society and the English department of the university. This Smoketalk is the first of a series of five to be given this school year.

Dean Marjorie S. Golder of Women's College will be the principal speaker. She will discuss the book "Candle in the Dark", by W. Edman and an article by J. Buchan entitled "Pilgrim's Way".

Dr. Joseph S. Gould, head of the department of economics, will speak of the book "The Economics of War". Dr. George Ryden, head of

Welcome Dance Features Malecot And Orchestra

On Saturday night, October 5, the Student Council of Delaware College will present Andre Malecot and his orchestra at the Welcome Dance, first of the social events to be held under the sponsorship of the council this year. As in the past, the Welcome Dance is being staged mainly for the renaissance of friendships among the student body.

The dance will last from 8:00 to 12:00 o'clock and will be held in the Commons of Old College. Patrons and patronesses at the dance will be Miss Henrietta Fleck, Miss Edna Frederick, and Dr. and Mrs. J. Fenton Daugherty.

Walter Smith, chairman of the social committee and organizer of the affair, stated, "In having Malecot and his orchestra I feel the student body will be pleased, not only in obtaining an excellent band, but also in affording a chance to use local talent."

Malecot's orchestra is composed of three saxes, two trumpets, trombone, piano, bass, drums, and guitar. The band has all the latest electrical sound equipment as well as its own electrician. It has its own arranger supplying special stylish arrangements of the latest popular numbers. Music by Malecot has been heard from Maine to Maryland on radio, stage, and ballroom and has been enthusiastically received for its new smooth style, having frequently been over W.D.E.L. by popular request.

Senior Committee Discuss Frosh Rules

Baynard Roe, president of the Student Council, called a special meeting of the Senior Committee on Tuesday at noon to discuss how the freshmen regulations were being enforced. He expressed the opinion, "This class of freshmen is just about the most co-operative in the past several years."

Regulations

He went on to explain, however, that there were still 21 freshmen who had not as yet bought equipment. There followed a discussion of just what should be done about enforcing freshmen regulations especially walking on the grass and failing to salute the upper-classmen.

Hazing

Roe made it very plain that there was to be no hazing of members of the freshmen class this year. He said that those who did not have their equipment bought by the end of the week would have their names turned in to Dean Dutton. Thus it is not the power of the Senior Committee to punish the freshmen who disobey the rules. Dean Dutton, however, told the Student Council last year that he would co-operate if the names of the offenders were given to him.

Any upper-classman may turn "frosh slips" into the following members of the Senior Committee: Baynard Roe, Walter Smith, William K. Richardson, Howard Gordy, Russ Willard, Noah Schutzman, and Ray Hecht.

President Hullihen Stresses Student Interest In Crisis

Addressing the Student Body of Delaware College at College Hour last Tuesday, President Hullihen stressed the importance of positive decisions on the part of college students in the present international crisis.

"I believe", he said, "that students in American Colleges and Universities have no idea of the gravity of present times, of the serious and difficult problems which the United States is facing. Consequently, education should not be hindered in the event of war."

Propaganda

Educational institutions should present facts to the American youth, unbiased facts, which will aid the student in reaching a logical decision concerning current controversies. Dr. Hullihen went on to say that decisions on the part of the students are liable to be hasty reactions to sensational propaganda. Such reactions must be avoided at all costs. The student must be taught to sort out all the facts from propaganda — the true from the false.

Unbiased Views

Reiterating the statement that the University's job is to teach the students to "think more seriously", Dr. Hullihen expressed his conviction that no ideas should be imposed

Bill Murray Takes His First Blue Hen Eleven South For Baptism Of Fire

HAMPDEN-SYDNEY FAVORED TO WIN

Seeking revenge for the humiliating defeat suffered last year of 26 to 6, the University of Delaware's football team will renew its rivalry with a favorite Hampden-Sydney team tomorrow on the latter's field.

This contest marks the beginning of another season for the Blue Hens and the debut of their new coaches, Bill Murray and Flucie Stewart. It will be the third start for the Virginians who dropped the first to Washington and Lee, 26-6; and won the second from a powerful Maryland team 7-6.

The Tiger offensive consists of a hard running attack led by Tom Miller, 6 foot 2 inch, 180 pound half-back. In his two performances, he has been the outstanding player for both teams and Asst. Coach Stewart, who scouted both these games, said, "he is the man to watch."

Strong Line

The forward wall which played a big part in the offensive, ripping holes in opponents lines, bears the brunt of the defense in breaking up plays before they are started. Outstanding on the line are the tackles, Capt. Frank Brown and John Dunn.

Another important factor is the magic toe of Harry Murdock, who has averaged 55 yards per boot and made several over 70 yards. Besides

Sigma Nu To Attend Hampden-Sydney Game By Proxy

Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. will find the entire Sigma Nu House with their guests attending the University of Delaware-Hampden-Sydney game by "proxy".

Fundamentally, the idea of attending an away game by proxy is not a new one. However, the idea of having a mixed group, refreshments, and dancing is.

Admissions

Social Chairman Dave Buckson announced that a ticket-box will be set up outside the "Nu" House, at which persons can get tickets of admission for five cents each. All guests will predict a score, and write it on the back of the ticket. At the end of the game the person with the nearest correct score will receive, as a prize, all of the paid admissions.

During the half, hot chocolate and doughnuts will be served. When the game is over the group will dance to recordings.

Guests

Among the guests will be Dr. and Mrs. J. Fenton Daugherty, and Lt. Col. and Mrs. Reamer W. Argo.

As Dr. Daugherty expressed it, "Attending the Hampden-Sydney-University of Delaware game by proxy is not only advantageous as a social function; but, it will also promote the 'School Spirit' which Delaware so obviously lacks."

To Be Avoided...

It has been brought to our attention that certain members of the Class of 1944 are not cooperating with the rest of the Student Body in promoting Freshman rules as they should. We are re-printing below an editorial which appeared in these columns in 1930 with the hope that it will not fall to our lot in 1940 to have to write a similar editorial.

THE CREAM OF THE CAMPUS

"Every community seems to have its own 'four hundred.' But Delaware has narrowed the number down to about twenty-five. Small as our student body might be, there are just a few vain young men who feel that their social position does not permit them to mix with their associates.

"We have noticed certain snobs, with or without a fraternity pin, with or without a 'D', with or without a political position, who will not say 'Hello.' These same high-hats must be, unfortunately, near-sighted, for it is almost impossible for them to see any one who passes by. Were they to realize that they are neither envied nor respected for whatever they are or think they are, they would cast aside their aloofness and make themselves a part of our most informal student body.

"Perhaps they don't know that if it were not for the rest of the student body, they would not be in fraternities, honorary organizations, and various clubs. Surely they will condescend to greet those who have honored them.

"Not all of this coldness is mere aristocracy. A great part of it is animosity,—due, most likely, to poor sportsmanship. A poor loser always drops back and sulks.

"As freshmen we learned to say 'Hello' to every student. The habit remained with most of us; even some college men have to be forced to do a thing. A good remedy for those who need discipline would be to give them a dose of their own medicine. Let us raise our noses just a little higher than those who list themselves on the social register. If they can't get down to our level, we'll make it our work to get up to their standard, and then they'll talk to us once more."—(Nov. 17, 1930)

INQUIRING REPORTER QUESTIONS COLLEGIANS ON W.C.D. FRESHMEN

This week your inquiring reporter pleads guilty to a major breach of etiquette. But the truth is not to be fettered by proprieties nor conventionalities. We have made so bold as to solicit the opinions of certain recognized connoisseurs of the feminine among the men of the University. We hope, therefore, that in the interest of news and the public enlightenment you will forgive us this temporary oversight of the accepted code that ladies are not to be discussed by a group of true gentlemen.

Like Paine, Zola, Winchell

Even as did the immortal Paine, Zola, and Winchell, so do we beat our hollow chest in righteous wrath and challenge the pall of ignorance that besets us and martyr ourselves in the behest of blessed truth. So let us paraphrase the sage and murmur in our abominable Latin: "Non id acquirio".

We pause, however, to remind you that the opinions herein expressed do in no way reflect the views or convictions of this paper which maintains as ever its status of strictest impartiality and remains perilously ensconced on the proverbial fence.

So, hooded in the cloak of righteousness, we sally forth to present the following timely and vital question and brave the powder-puff barrage: "What is your opinion of the feminine members of the current Freshmen Class?"

Statements Unaltered

From the ensuing melee came the following unbiased, uncoerced, and absolutely unexpurgated statements:

Al (Maestro) Mock: "Not bad, at all. Very, very promising, indeed. For the first time in four years I am very optimistic."

Harry Hansel: "By me they're all right. The best yet."

Bob Bishop: "I really haven't noticed (???) but they seem quite adequate."

Bobby (Strangler) Cox: We were alone, this lovely freshman and I. I took her in my arms. Our hearts beat as one. Then I felt a strange new emotion creeping over me. My throat was hot and dry. I whispered into her ear: Do you have a coughdrop?"

Joe LaMotta: The hot blood courses through my veins; my pulse hammers; I am on fire. Wow."

Lunk Appley: Now, I'll tell ya. Ya gotta watch 'at stuff."

Benny (the Mink) Friedman: They go wild, simply wild over me."

Baynard Roe: Things are looking up."

Chubby Wilson: Oh, I think they're just too sweet for words."

Sonny Schutzman: I like coffee, I like tea, I like the girls —"

Frank Annand: As the French say: All cats look gray in the dark."

Hiram (the irrepressible) Bennett: Every home should have one."

Jack Pie: I go steady — that is — I guess — I think — I hope —"

Bill Cornelius: I wonder what they feed 'em?"

Sinc Campbell: Gotta cigarette?"

John (straight from the feedbag) Ballard: This season's fillies look like champignons. Weather clear, track fast, and look out for a dark horse."

Bob Stewart: "Scraggy, mighty scraggy."

Robbie Roberts: "They don't make 'em like they used to."

Arvid Roach: "The new 1940 chassis shows little improvement over last year's models."

Danny (the Wallflower) Huyett: "What is there about Grier that makes me so repulsive?"

Warren (the Whip) Grier: "I've been too wrapped up in my work, especially my First-Aid Course, to notice."

Ralph Margolin: Exquisite, ravishing, devastating, exquisite, fascinating, captivating, and nice, too."

NOTICE!

University and College Hour Committees have requested that the REVIEW print a statement concerning the distinction between University and College Hour Programs and the regulations governing each.

These College Hour Programs are held during the Tuesday morning assembly period, at 11:45 a. m. The College Hour Committee is authorized by the faculty to hold one College Hour each month at which attendance on the part of the Delaware College students is obligatory. Women's College students, members of the faculty, and others may attend these meetings. Notice of these required meetings is always posted on the main bulletin board in University Hall. The College Hour Committee also may schedule other meetings during the Tuesday assembly period, at which attendance is voluntary.

University Hour programs are generally evening affairs to which the entire student body and faculty of the University, and members of the community, are invited. This year the University Hour Committee will schedule three organ recitals by Mr. Firmin Swinnen, a number of record symphonic recitals, and an address by Dr. Carlton Brown in celebration of the 600th anniversary of the birth of Chaucer. Other programs may be added during the year.

Reading Room Only

By HAL ARNOFF

This week's verbal flight is devoted strictly to the Freshmen on the Delaware campus, to the various trials and tribulations which they may well expect to encounter in their hazardous journey through college. Consequently, it is not entirely essential for the two or three upperclassmen who started to read this column to continue. Of course, it might be acidly suggested by a couple of you cynics in the crowd that it wasn't essential to even write this column in the first place, that the frosh can get along damn well without our puny advice in the second place, and in the third place who do we think we are, Dorothy Dix.

Now hold on, fellows! You are veering perilously close to a flagrant traduction of the Bill of Rights, Civil Liberties, and the Ten Commandments. Cognizant of the fact that this space could very well be used for helpful household hints or a large liquor advertisement, we might point out to the irascible among you that the students of this academic factory could have no possible use for household hints. As far as we know, none of you are married, as far as we know. As for the whiskey ad, we won't go so far as to deny the utility of the product for one in the throes of study. But the authorities of this institution are rather steadfast in their determination to keep the REVIEW and its readers off the alcohol standard.

That more or less leaves the way clear for our invaluable advice to the Freshmen. Except for the unintelligent assertion that "the frosh can get along damn well without our puny advice." (Must you swear, fellows?) Now, insofar as your mental equipment will allow, think for a moment. Don't you honestly think that you would be better off today if some considerate person had explained to you THE facts upon your arrival to this campus? Take a good look at yourself. (Horrible, isn't it?) Are you quite satisfied with what you see? Obviously not, from the expressions on your faces. That dazed, bewildered look in your eye—the one that doesn't twitch . . . The washboard effect on your forehead . . . the tell-tale lines on what you naively call a face . . . the dejected slope in your shoulders . . . the pathos in the droop of your head . . . but why go on? Just a bunch of human derelicts, sorrowful shadows cavorting over the carpet of Culture. All because you neither sought nor accepted the advice of your betters. It is our intention to spare the innocent Freshmen of a similar fate.

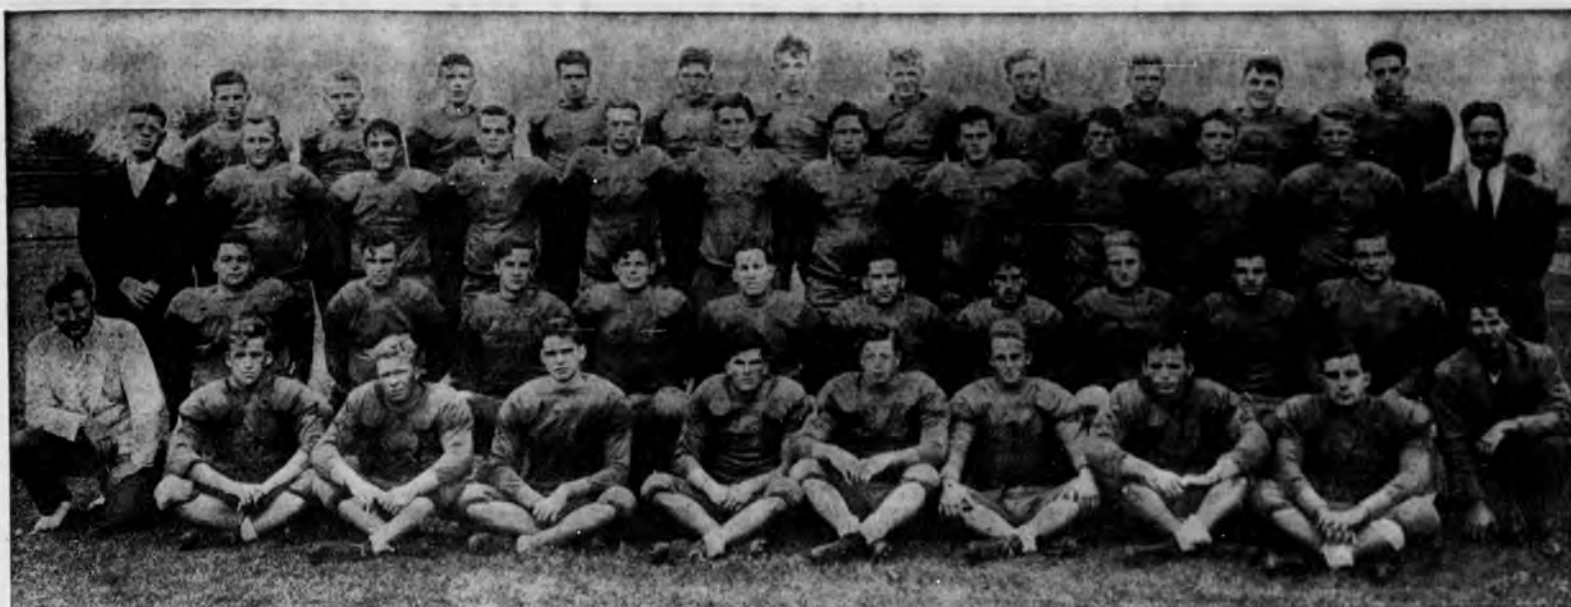

Just one more thing before we take up with the Freshmen. No, we don't think we are Dorothy Dix. We don't even think we are Ann Hirst. Which proves we are conscientious where the ladies are concerned. Besides, our salary for this weekly column is considerably less than ten thousand dollars a year. For ten-thousand-a-year we wouldn't advise Freshmen; not even Sophomores.

Coming soon: Advice to Freshmen.

... So What ...

A certain professor at Ohio State walked into the classroom 15 minutes late to find the class gone. The next day the students were reprimanded. The professor said his hat had been on the desk, and that had been a sign of his presence. Next day the professor again found an empty classroom. On each desk was a hat.

New Football And Basketball Mentors Plenty Active In Their Heyday

By "Snarky" Snellenburg

Last June William Murray, former stellar Duke athlete and one-time athletic director at the Children's Home of Winston-Salem, signed a five-year contract, succeeding Steve Grenda as head-coach at the University of Delaware. The board of trustees decided that there was to be no "third term" for Mr. Grenda and the former coach was granted a year's leave of absence with full salary.

Appointed assistant coach and aide-de-camp to Mr. Murray was Flucie L. Stewart who will be coach in football and head-coach of the Delaware basketball team.

Murray Qualified

Coach Murray is well qualified to serve in his new capacity as Director of Athletics and Physical Education here at the University. Selected as an All-Southern football player in 1930 and voted the most valuable Duke player in his senior year, Murray also achieved prominence as a member of the varsity track team. After graduating with an A. B. degree in history and economics, Murray assumed the position of athletic director at the Children's Home where he compiled a most commendable record, his varsity teams being acclaimed as the foremost of their class in North Carolina.

Not only were his football teams highly successful, but also his basketball and baseball teams chalked up eminent and imposing records. Each season under Murray's tutelage closed with a huge preponderance of victories for his well-coached aggregates.

Stewart's record good

Mr. Stewart also came to the University well-recommended by his past records. His athletic career presents a long series of successes. He was all-state tackle as a high school player and later all-state football end during his junior and senior years at Furman University. He also received in his senior year honorable mention on the Associated Press All-American team. Stewart was further honored by being presented with the Hale's Trophy for being the most valuable and outstanding Furman player.

He was a member of the Furman basketball team which won the state championship two years in succession, and was undefeated during the 1929-30 season. Stewart also pitched and played first base on the varsity baseball teams.

Following his graduation, Stewart successfully coached for three years freshman football and varsity basketball and baseball at his Alma Mater, Furman University.

He then became co-director of athletics at the Appalachian State Teacher's College of Boone, N. C. and finally in 1939 on the resignation of his colleague, Kid Brewer, he assumed the full directorship at that institution.

In 1939 with Stewart as head coach, the Appalachian eleven won nine games and lost but one. His football team tallied a total of 269 points as against a total of only 33 points scored against it.

Stewart's Mountaineers steam-rolled their way to the North State Conference basketball championship, the boys from the hills winning 18 out of 20 games.

Stewart also holds the distinction of being a member of the board of directors of the National Association of Inter-Collegiate Basketball.

Ages Almost Same

Coaches Murray and Stewart are aged 32 and 31, respectively and are both married, Coach Murray being the proud father of three daughters.

It would seem that the successes of the new coaches are not entirely confined to the gridiron or the basketball floor. Murray already being ahead by a score of three in the game of matrimony.

Coach Murray has instituted several changes in the basic tactics and strategy of the Delaware eleven so perhaps we are not over-optimistic nor chauvinistic in anticipating a "new deal" in football this year. The material is there on the field this year and it is willing and eager to do its best. Perhaps the innovation of new coaching methods may be the touchstone to Delaware football success. We feel in the words of the poet that "the stuff is there and all it needs is beating out".

Yet the prospects for this season must remain as ever in the hands of fickle fortune.

Coach Stewart expresses the hope that the student body will give wholeheartedly its support to the team. He promises that both directors and players will give all that they have, but stresses that the game is not won entirely on the tactical blackboards nor on the field but also in the hearts of the supporters who offer enthusiasm and support.

Hen Soccer Team Opens October 19 At U. of Maryland

The Delaware soccer squad under the tutelage of Coach Bill Lawrence, is priming itself for its opener with the University of Maryland, October 19.

Last year's veterans form an experienced, but slim, nucleus, which will have to be supplemented from the ranks of the newcomers.

The squads present strength is about 26, of which 15 are novices. The team has enthusiasm to spare, but needs much training before they can be welded into a smoothly-working machine. As success lies in co-operation, Bill Lawrence is working his men in units in an endeavor to find the best possible combination.

At the first scrimmage of the year, held last Tuesday, the play was universally eager, but generally crude. Coach Lawrence repeatedly stopped the ball to give directions and point out faults. The veterans of the team aided in helping the new recruits understand what was expected of them.

When the team takes the field on Saturday Oct. 19, down at the U. of Maryland's home grounds, the probable starting line-up will be as follows: Gerow, goal; Wharton and Douglass, fullbacks; Vaughn, Monte, and Betts, halfbacks; Keibassa and Harrington, wings; Chambers and Fernandez, insides; and Captain Boyce at the key of the attack in the center-forward position.

The time is not yet ripe for prediction, but with plenty of practice and a fair share of the breaks, Coach Lawrence believes Delaware's booters should come through with a successful season.

Probable Line-up Of Both Teams

Delaware	Hampden-Sydney

keeping the team out of danger, Murdock is a very good ball carrier and passes with unusual accuracy. With 6 foot 2 inch End, Syd Weed doing most of the receiving; they make up a passing combination that is hard to beat.

The starting lineup for the Blue and Gold will be: left end, Bill Wendle; right end, Milne Schmid, a freshman this year; at the tackles are the biggest men on the team Bob Papy and John Grundy who will have a real job holding down Brown and Dunn.

Quarterback will be handled by Mel (Ripper) Brooks, Con Sadowski and Al Newcomb filling the half-back positions and Lee Baer is replacing Red Hogan, freshman triple threat, who is on the injured list.

Coach Murray plans to make a number of substitutions as he wants to find a starting combination and to give everybody a chance under fire.

University Choir To Open Season On October 10

The University Choir, under the direction of Anthony J. Loudis, held its first meeting of the year Wednesday night, with a large proportion of the members returning and few losses from last year. The choir will appear for the first time in conjunction with the Founder's Day program at Mitchell Hall on October 10. At that time the choir will sing the "Beautiful Savior" by Christiansen and "The Nightingale" by Tchaikovsky.

Along with the University Choir, Mr. Landis is forming, for the first time, a Junior Choir composed of freshmen boys. It is hoped that with the large number of students enrolled in the two choirs that one of the Bach cantatas can be planned for the spring concert.

The organization of the freshman boys into a choral group of their own is under way and it is hoped there will be at least thirty-five members. Membership to this organization is still open and freshmen who are interested should contact Mr. Loudis now.

Freshman Dance Is Huge Success

Freshmen glided into their social life at the University of Delaware with the Frosh Get-together last Saturday night. Despite a stag line and upperclassmen, the dance was a success.

The Frosh and Froshettes acquired a philosophy of their own before the evening had progressed very far. Next year's Freshman Handbook will probably contain these brilliant "gray-matter" storms:

1. The greeting line really doesn't mind your being alive.
2. It certainly is better to have a stag line pad the room than to go crashing into a radiator when the upperclassmen see a sweet young thing enter the dance hall.
3. Better to listen to corny jokes than to have rat slips torn from your book.
4. Intermission is merely an excuse for entymptating.
5. Recording dances have one advantage over an orchestra. You don't have to feed the musicians.

However, regardless of whether any Confucianism was indulged in, everyone enjoyed himself immensely, and all Freshmen are eagerly awaiting their next social function, the Welcome Dance.

Oh, Yes! The upperclassmen are invited to this dance.

Blue Hen Staff Appointed; Better Issue Predicted

Editor Martin Tannen, of the Blue Hen, said in an interview on Tuesday that yearbook affairs were running quite smoothly and on schedule. Although he would make no definite commitments he was quite sure that the book would be finished before Commencement.

By this time, Tannen is well experienced in such matters as the editing of a university year book. It was he who stepped into the breach created by Harry Stutman who so obligingly stepped down just when Blue Hen affairs were at their worst.

The job that Tannen did on the book is now history. But Marty who has certainly learned from experience is expected to turn out a better book this year. For added to this experience he has the added advantage of stepping into a job that he knows is definitely his own.

Tannen has appointed a large staff, a group which so far hasn't found too much work to do since most of it is being done by their chief. They are Bill Richardson, Managing Editor; Malone & Lotstein, Associate Editors; Doc Clendaniel, Photography Editor; Hanley, Activities Editor; Arnoff, Feature Editor; Boys, Art Editor; Smith, Sport Editor; Minkus, Copy Editor; Jacoby, Business Manager; Schutzman, Advertising; Lipstein, Assistant Advertising; Gerow, Circulation.

Hullihen, Murray Favor Extensions In Athletes' Work

President Walter Hullihen and Mr. W. D. Murray, Director of Athletics and Physical Education, endorsed the action of the Executive Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association meeting in Chicago on September 6th & 7th, which voted to urge the presidents and representatives of the 200 colleges and universities that are members of the Association to extend and intensify the training of athletes during the coming year. N. C. A. A. representatives previously had conferred with officials of the government, War and Navy Departments offering assistance in preparing men for national defense.

War

The value of athletic training was clearly established during the last War and is recognized by military and naval authorities not only for its effect on physical condition but also because competitive athletics develops a disciplined combative spirit, a respect for co-operative effort between team mates, responsiveness to leadership and other characteristics common to the athlete and the efficient fighting man.

Fifth Column

That portion of this nation's youth who have been trained in the schools and colleges to engage in physical contact sports is conspicuously exempt from the suspicion of having "gone soft". They will not be found among the members of the Fifth Column.

The N. C. A. A. urges its members to co-operate with organizations such as the American Legion, the Athletic Institute, and other organizations that are striving to promote athletic sports throughout the nation.

Wolf Hall Echoes To Football Yells

Once more, the corridors of Wolf Hall are echoing with the sound of many voices roaring in unison. The Freshman class is bubbling over with enthusiasm and real college spirit. "King Football" reigns and the Blue Hen warriors stomp the turf.

The cheerleaders met with the Freshman class on Tuesday to drill its members in the art of cheering. Jan Bove, captain of the cheerleaders greeted the Freshmen and reminded them of their obligations in the grandstand. The veteran cheerleaders then familiarized them with the antics corresponding to the yells in their handbooks. The meeting had plenty of enthusiasm despite the cheerleaders' and the Freshmen's lack of practice.

At the close of the roar session, those Freshmen possessing a strong larynx, double joints, and a zealous school spirit were challenged to become cheerleaders. Eight first year aspirants for the leap and shriek squad are: Calloway, Muller, G. Grier, Hitchens, Baldwin, Quinn, Barnum, and Reed. By the process of elimination, the most promising of these will become cheerleaders. The captain of the cheering squad, Jan Bove, is being assisted by the veterans, W. Grier, Roberts, Livergood, and Tybout.

The boys are planning some new stunts and reviving the old ones to be ready for the first home game against Ursinus on October 19.

"How to Choose a Slide Rule"

by DON HEROLD

Choosing a Slide Rule is a lot like getting married, because you are going to have it for a long, long time. That's why you just must read this masterful book by that old slide rule slider, Don Herold. It is written in simple, salty language and profusely illustrated by the master himself. It takes the mystery out of slide rules for all time.

"How to Choose a Slide Rule" is free—if you get yours before the first edition runs out. See your campus K & E dealer at once.

With The Council . .

The Student Council met in the Council room Monday night, September 30, 1940 for their second regular meeting of the year. Jack Ernst was introduced as the new junior representative from Kappa Alpha, taking the place of Ben Ratledge who failed to return this year. Warren Grier was introduced as the new junior representative from Sigma Nu, replacing Kenneth Mink.

Welcome Dance

Walter Smith reported that the freshman-get-together was the best one that has been held in the last few years, and announced that arrangements have been completed for the Welcome Dance to be held Saturday night. He asked that a pep-fest be held in the near future. It was decided to have one on Thursday night if the Dean would give his permission.

William Richardson requested the use of the Council room for a class in labor problems which meets for a whole afternoon. The request was denied because it was felt that that would be unfair discrimination, since other seminar groups are not allowed to use the room.

Review Broadcast

Jan Bove was introduced from the floor and asked that an appropriation be made for Review broadcasts. Smith motioned that the Review be appropriated fifteen dollars a month for the purpose of broadcasts. The motion was carried.

Russell Willard was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate the uses of the library, concentrating upon the browsing room, and seeing that the library rules were enforced. President Roe then called for adjournment.

IT'S MIGHTY LIKE A TREE

Though it spreads across the entire nation, the Bell Telephone System is simple in structure. You can think of it as a tree.

BRANCHES

The 24 associated operating companies . . . which provide telephone service in their respective territories.

TRUNK

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company . . . which coordinates system activities, advises on telephone operation and searches for improved methods.

ROOTS

Bell Telephone Laboratories . . . whose functions are scientific research and development; Western Electric . . . manufacturer and distributor for the system; Long Lines Department of A.T.&T. . . which interconnects the operating companies and handles Long Distance and overseas telephone service.

With common policies and ideals, these Bell System companies work as one to give you the finest, friendliest telephone service . . . at lowest cost.

Hollywood As We See It . . .

(This week Hal Arnoff describes a Hollywood Premiere and the people who attended it.)

Tier upon tier of white faces reflected the dazzling brilliance of the Carthay Circle marquee . . . Batteries of searchlights traced the skies . . . Handsome cops mounted on prancing white horses nudged over-anxious fans back to the ropes . . . The candid camera clucks stretched for precious shots. And the royalty of the celluloid rolled up to the velvet-carpeted, flower-bedecked entrance in their pullman-sized cars. There was Bette Davis radiating charm, vitality, and $300,000 a year . . . Sultry-eyed Charles Boyer in a plain grey suit and soft felt hat . . . Jeffrey Lynn, with a face full of white teeth and a personality smile for all the hand-waving typists and counter clerks . . . And tall, lanky James Stewart accompanied by a very pleasing grin and Olivia deHavilland who is also very pleasing.

And there were others . . . a dazzling legion of pulchritude in ermine and jewels, and well-tailored tails and top hats . . . Shy Andrea Leeds . . . The Warner Brothers,

Jack on crutches with a broken foot . . . Constance Bennett with two coats of paint . . . affable Stu Erwin . . . Rachel Fields . . . Alfred Hitchcock, dean of directors . . . Margaret Sullivan, slight of build and dynamic . . . Boris Karloff, looking tanned and very un-terrifying . . . Edward Arnold, solid and dapper . . . Winsome Ellen Drew . . . Swarthy Ricardo Cortez . . . Herbert Marshall, suave and a little frowning . . . Sonya Henle without the skates . . . Elsa the Maxwell gripping the microphone with both mitts . . . And a long cigar accompanied by Ken Murray.

And so they came, paraded dutifully before their "public" and were ushered into the theatre where the seats were $5.50 bottom. But the thousands in the streets; they saw a million dollar show — without spending a nickel.

But no aspersions on the ogling citizens of Filmtown. A genuine Hollywood Premiere is a spectacle for anyone to gaze at—including the most ardent poo-pooer . . .

It couldn't happen anywhere. Except in Hollywood.

Notice!

Professor William Murray, director of physical education, announces that the gymnasium will be open every night except Sunday from 6:30 to 9:30 o'clock. All facilities will be available, with a student instructor in charge. The pool will also be open for those who wish to swim.

M. M. Daugherty, instructor in the C. A. A. Course, and former aviator in the World War, will discuss "They Wanted War", by Tolischius, and "Downfall of France", by A. Mourois.

Minkus

Tom Minkus, president of the Athenaeum Society, will provide a five-minute talk on the book "The Failure of a Mission", by Neville Henderson.

Other student speakers include Lloyd Jones, a sophomore, and William K. Richardson, president of the Humanist Society.

Press Club

A special invitation has been extended to members of the Press Club of Women's College and to anyone else from the southern end of the campus.

There will be a small dinner meeting preceding the meeting, to be attended by members of the faculty who are special guests and by members of the Humanist Society. Special guests at the dinner will include the following: Dean Marjorie S. Golder, Dr. Joseph S. Gould, Dr. George H. Dean, M. M. Daugherty, Dr. Augustus H. Able, Dr. O. W. Sypherd, Dr. Ned Bliss Allen, Dr. Cyrus L. Day, Dr. Arthur Dunlap, Mr. Fred McDowell, Dr. C. R. Kase, Miss Alden.

As is the usual practice, coffee will be served through the courtesy of Mr. Charles Grubb, business administrator of the University of Delaware.

upon the undergraduate. "America", he said, 'can never put her full weight behind any governmental project until the youth of the country has taken a stand'. They should attempt to see both sides of all questions which are confronting the older men, and to decide in their own minds which is the right side.

For example, he cited the sale of the fifty destroyers to Britain and the Conscription bill, both of which he said were typical of the problems which would face the student when he left college. A decision, for or against, either of these, the President continued, would incur in the individual, the fighting spirit of democracy necessary to our mode of living.

A "new attitude toward life", the speaker went on, "is imminent". The carefree nature of the individual must be steered to the more rigid discipline of wartime. The first step toward this is the formation of definite opinions.

Towney

In conclusion, Dr. Hullihen read an article by Dr. R. H. Towney, professor of Economics at London University, which illustrated the attitude the American people will be forced to adopt in the event of war. The article stated that the mass of the British loathe war, yet they are fighting. The government is not compelling them to fight, yet they persist. They are fighting for the freedom of the individual, against the elevation of an institution; for the life they love against the regimentation of fascism.

NOTICE

In celebration of the 600th anniversary of the birth of Geoffrey Chaucer, the English department of the University of Delaware, in conjunction with the University Hour Committee, will sponsor a program on Thursday evening, October 17.

Principal speaker will be Dr. Carleton Brown, professor emeritus of the New York University, noted Chaucerian scholar, and former president of the Modern Language Association of America.

Richardson Heads Humanist Society; Minkus, Vice-Pres.

On Tuesday afternoon the Humanist Society held its first meeting of the year in the Lounge of Old College. William K. Richardson of the president, presided.

Succeeds

Richardson succeeded Robert W. Mather who did not return to school this year. Since Richardson had been vice-president it was necessary to fill that position by election. Tom Minkus was chosen by the society to fill the vacancy.

The meeting was primarily held to complete plans for the Smoke talk to be held Tuesday evening in the Lounge. Several student speakers were selected to discuss present day books relating to the war in Europe. It was announced that Betty Whitenack has been selected as Editor of the "Cauldron" for the present school year.

What The Engineers Are Doing . .

By ARVID ROACH

For some unknown reason commencement speakers never fail to speak in glowing terms of the "happy, carefree days of college life." Recently such a speaker, addressing a midwestern college gathering, made the statement that investigations show the average college student has 40.9 hours of unmitigated leisure every week. Some of the fellows in Mr. Lindell's Senior Mechanical Lab class want to know where he got those figures.

For example, they say, in a six-day working week there are 144 available hours. If the average engineer takes 25 credit-hours of work and studies an average of three hours per week on each credit-hour, 75 of those 144 hours are accounted for in study. Medical science says that every person should have at least eight hours of sleep per day, so that accounts for 48 hours more. Since the average engineer is a commuter, if he drives from Wilmington at a speed of 47.8 m.p.h., then approximately ten more hours are required for commuting. If we allow 6 more hours per week for washing, dressing, and incidentals, and nine more hours per week for all meals, our total of hours consumed comes to exactly 148 hours. No matter how you look at it 144 minus 148 is equal to -4 hours left for leisure.

Perhaps this is what accounts for the distinctly anti-social attitude held by many engineers. At any rate, it doesn't give him very much time for balancing teacups. It's conditions like this that provoke people to wonder why the engineer is a steady-dater.

NEWCOMER

Among this year's newcomers to Evans Hall is Mr. M. G. Young, who replaces Mr. Mearns as instructor in Electrical Engineering. A Communication Engineer, he graduated with honors from Lehigh and went on to receive his M.S. at Harvard. Before coming to Delaware, he worked as a chemist for Devco & Reynolds Corporation, as a Research Engineer for the Hamilton Watch Company, and as a Manufacturing Engineer for the Western Electric Company.

While at D & R, Mr. Young designed equipment for measuring the diametral flow of paints and helped in the development of luminous paints. At Hamilton Watch, he designed a stroboscopic device for checking master clocks and made mathematical analyses of spiral springs. At Western Electric he helped design the apparatus now used in aircraft, marine and trans-Atlantic radio equipment.

In the short time that Mr. Young has been at Delaware, he has made many friends among the students by his friendly and helpful attitude. We are very glad to welcome him to our ranks.

CAA Aviation Course Still Accepting New Applicants For Year

Although the deadline for enrollments in the Vocational Flight Training Course to be offered this year at Delaware College through the co-operation of the Civil Aeronautics Authority has passed, there are still vacancies to be filled.

Prof. M. M. Daugherty of the Agricultural Research Department will again be classroom instructor. The flight training will be at Air Service Inc., Bellanca Field, New Castle, and at DuPont Airport, Wilmington.

Since the course proved to be very popular last year, no Freshmen will be enrolled, and Seniors and Juniors will be given preference based on scholastic standing and physical examinations. All students who wish to enroll must have the permission of their respective Deans, in order that the added time they must put in, will not be detrimental to academic scholarship.

Students desiring to take the flight course must be between the ages of nineteen and twenty-six. Those students under twenty-one years must have the permission of their parents. Ten per cent of the students may be women.

The cost of the course will be twenty five dollars. This includes six dollars for the medical examination, nine dollars for insurance, and ten dollars for tuition. Students must provide their own transportation to and from the flying fields.

There will be seventy-two hours of classroom study and thirty-five hours of flying during the semester. Academic credit towards a degree will be allowed students taking the course, except those in the School of Engineering.

Soccer Schedule

The schedule: Oct. 5, Hampden-Sydney, away; Oct. 12, Dickinson, away; Oct. 19, Ursinus, home; Oct. 26, Drexel, home; Nov. 2, Johns Hopkins, home; Nov. 9, P.M.C., Atlantic City or Wilmington; Nov. 16, Washington College, away; Nov. 21, Lebanon Valley, Wilmington.

E 52 Players Will Open Season Nov. 1 At Mitchell Hall

William Saroyan's latest stage success, "Loves old Sweet Song" has been selected as the first current offering by the E-52 Players of the University of Delaware, to be given in Mitchell Hall on Friday, November 1, at 8:15 o'clock.

Final tryouts were held this Wednesday under the Direction of Miss Edith Counahan, chairman of the casting committee of the E-52 Players. Preliminary tryouts were held last Thursday and Friday. Dr. C. R. Kase, director of dramatics at the University, is directing the production.

Saroyan

Saroyan, one of the youngest American playwrights, and generally regarded as one of the most promising of contemporary playwrights, received both the Pulitzer Prize and the Critics' Award for his "Time your life" as the best stage play of last year. "Love's old sweet song" is rated by Richard Watts of New York HERALD TRIBUNE as the second only to "Time of your life".

Edward W. Cooch, associate editor of the Review, and president of the E-52 Players, is production manager for the initial offering. Robert Roberts, for several years active on dramatics as a member of the stage crew, will be stage manager.

Make Up

Make-up chairmanship is to be handled by Helen Adams, while Virginia Cooch will have charge of the properties. Ann O'Daniel and W. Barnett Chadwick are co-chairmen of lighting. Margaret McDermott has charge of the scene designing and the painting crews.

Business matters lie in the able hands of Miss Emme Lou Stevens, long identified with the Mitchell Hall business staff. Jane Hastings and William K. Richardson will have charge of the news writers and poster-hangers, known as the publicity committee.

Margaret Felton and Charlotte Sipple will have charge of costumes and prompting respectively.

Aggie News . .

The Aggies got off to an early start in extra-curricula activities this semester. Nearly two weeks ago the fellows eligible as candidates for the judging team started their competitive judging under Professor T. A. Baker. After several days of intensive judging on all of the breeds available in this vicinity, the team was determined. It consists of four members: John Curtis, Frank Mercer, Clarence Brown, and Harold Gordy.

The group drove to the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., on Sunday the 15th. Fifteen rings of cattle were placed during the intercollegiate judging contest which lasted most of the day. The official results are not yet available, but it is hoped that the Delaware fellows did not "show up" too obviously Cornell, Penn State, Rutgers, New Jersey and the other eight or ten teams which participated. Whether Delaware should have a girl or two on its team depends upon how New Hampshire scores; this being the only University represented by a partly feminine team. The team returned home late Tuesday after viewing some of New England hurriedly.

Preparations and competitive judging is now underway preparatory to sending a team to the Baltimore Livestock Show which is held next week. Following this is the Harrisburg National Dairy Show on the twelfth of October to which The Agricultural Club hopes to send a team.

Enrollment of Wolf Hall students this year is unofficially 101 which is nearly the same as last year.

Next Monday evening the Delaware Agricultural Club will hold its first regular monthly meeting of the year. The dinner will be served in the small dining room of Old College and will be followed by the business meeting and entertainment program in the Lounge. President John Doordan will announce the aims and plans for the year and will welcome the Freshmen Aggies to the organization.

The staff of the Aggie News for this year will be announced and the fellows urged to contribute their share of effort to improve the bi-monthly magazine. Just what entertainment will be offered for the first meeting is not yet known, but judging from past first meetings, it will be worth while.
