School Board Reports On School Finances

Report for Year Shows How Appropriations are Determined and Their Source; Other School News

The financial report of the Newark Special School District for the school year ending June 30, 1928, has just been completed and shows the various sources of revenue for the Newark schools and how the amounts are determined. The major portion of appropriations are from enrollment and average daily attendance. The report, in part, prepared by the Board, is as follows:

"The schools of Delaware are supported by taxation from several sources. There is a general property tax of fifteen cents on the hundred dollars and another tax on incomes. In Newark there is no special tax for the current maintenance of schools. The only special tax is for the retirement of the bond issue which was for the purpose of erecting the new school building. This bond issue was for $100,000 as of January 1, 1923, based on an assessed valuation of $3,881,816.60. The valuation of the Newark Special School District as of the fiscal year 1927-1928 is $5,014,604. Of the original bond issue $30,000 worth of bonds have been retired, making the present bonded indebtedness of the Newark Special School District $120,000. In accordance with law, the Board of Education is retiring 1/25 of the total bond issue each year, or six one thousand dollars bonds, in addition to paying the interest which decreases at the rate of $600 per year.

"The State appropriation for the current maintenance of schools is a direct appropriation to the several districts regardless of the amount of tax paid by that community. The basis of the appropriation are: Enrollment of the school; average daily attendance of the school; the number of teachers; their qualifications; appropriations directly for high schools on the basis of enrollment and a special appropriation for general conduct. KIWANIS AND U. OF D.

Kiwanis interest in the University of Delaware, and University of Delaware interest in Kiwanis had another making demonstration in Old College last night, last evening when more than 350 members of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club and their wives, daughters and friends were guests of the university and ate, drank, listened to interesting addresses and delightful music, and danced and played bridge to their hearts' content.

It was the eighth annual pilgrimage of the club members and their friends to the university and one of the most delightful of those pilgrimages. The fact that Arthur G. Wilkinson, business administrator of the university, president of the club this year made the event all the more interesting. The welcome accorded to the visitors by Dr. Hullahen, the president, and the hospitable arrangements made for their convenience and pleasure, made it a truly enjoyable affair that will linger long in the memory of those who participated in it.—Wilmington Evening Journal.

LECTURE MEN INVITED TO Lecture on PHILIPPINES

Last Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, the Newark Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold a special meeting to which all service men are invited. The meeting will be in Odd Fellows' Hall. The speaker will be an illustration of "Life in the Philippines."

Last night the firing squad of the Veterans held a drill in the Newark Armory.

CROOKS AGAIN HEADS DEL. CONSUMERS' LEAGUE

E. B. Crooks was reelected president of the Consumers' League, at the annual meeting, held last Tuesday evening in the Public Library, Wilmington. Other officers re-elected were: Rabbi Louis A. Mischel, first vice-president; Miss Mary McKay, second vice-president; Ethel Ball Stanier, third vice-president; and Miss Frances L. Baird, acting secretary. Miss Helen A. Crooks was elected treasurer.

34,000 Send Answers To Dry Questionnaire

Thus far over 34,000 of the questionnaires mailed, last week, to 110,000 adult Delawareans by P. S. du Pont for the Delaware Division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, have been returned, filled in. They are being received and kept in a locked receptacle by the Trust Department of the Wilmington Trust Company. The returns will soon be tabulated by a committee, which will probably consist of three prohibitionists and three anti-prohibitionists.

The questionnaire asked six questions, framed to cover concisely and fully the various phases of the prohibition question.

Contract Awarded For Storm Sewer

Ligon and Ligon, Baltimore Concern, Bids $10,708, Lowest of 7 Bids; Sewer Will Rectify Surface Water Conditions

Ligon and Ligon, construction engineers of Baltimore, were, Monday night, awarded the contract for the new storm sewer, at a special meeting of the Council of Newark. Their bid of $10,708 was the lowest of seven bids. They estimated thirty days in which to complete the contract.

Other concerns who submitted bids and the estimated times to complete the contract were:

Knox and Mariani, Ardmore, Pa., $12,719.55, 30 days; Rhodes Construction Company, Wilmington, Del., $16,286.30, 80 days; George and Lynch, Dover, Del., $13,035.30, 40 days; N. Martele, Baltimore, Md., $11,096.90, 30 days; James H. Hutchison, Newark, Del., $13,926.60, 60 days; W. G. Spratt, Fredericksburg, Va., $11,896.16, 60 days.

These bids were figured on concrete pipe. All the bidders submitted higher bids on vitreous, except N. Martele, whose bids on both types of pipe were the same. A number submitted alternate bids on machine finished concrete pipe.

Contractors present questioned whether or not the bid of Ligon and Ligon was based on concrete. Their representative had left so he could not be questioned on this point. However it was assumed that the bid was made on the specifications furnished, and the contract will have to be completed under the specifications.

This new storm sewer has been planned to take off surface water at various points in the town at which surface water backs up after a storm with resulting property damage.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

The property of J. Frank Elliott, consisting of a 20-acre farm and bungalow on Elliott Heights, has been exchanged for the property at 13th and King streets, Wilmington, consisting of a store and apartment. The Elliott farm is now the property of Edgar L. Woodward, of Wilmington. The deal was made through Walker and Nichols, realtors of that city.

The Elliotts will move to Wilmington on May 25.

The dwelling and ten-acre farm which has been offered for sale by Walter A. Carlisle has been bought by Miss Annie Richardson, of Wilmington. The deal was made through A. B. Stayton, of Wilmington. Miss Richardson at one time operated a large poultry plant on a farm between Newark and Appletown.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle will move in about three weeks. They will not locate permanently until the autumn, when they expect to live in Milford, Delaware.

The conference will open with a banquet Friday evening with Dr. Walter Hullahen, president of the University, as the presiding officer. Talks will be given by Dr. E. B. Crooks, of the University; Dr. H. V. Holloway, state superintendent of public instruction; and Dr. A. Duncan Yocum, of the University of Pennsylvania. Tells Remedies For Young Chick Losses

Fourth Letter in "Grow Healthy Chick Campaign" Tells How Present Losses May be Prevented; Egg Record Report

The fourth letter in the "Grow Healthy Chick Campaign," being sponsored by the extension department of the University of Delaware, was sent to New Castle County poultrymen from the office of Acting County Agent Ed William, Jr. The material in the letter was prepared by H. S. Palmer, extension poultryman. Included with it was a report card to give the record of chicks raised at the end of April, and a paper on bronchitis in young chicks by Dr. Frank Hare, pathologist for the State Board of Agriculture. In presenting this material, Mr. William reported heavy losses throughout the county from brooder pneumonia and stated that part of the enclosed information gave the remedy.

Mr. Palmer's letter follows, in part: "Sanitation was emphasized in the first three Instruction Letters of the 'Grow Healthy Chicks' Campaign because it is one of the most important factor and one which is very often neglected. But Sanitation alone will not grow good chicks.

POSTPONE P-T. A. MEETING

The election of officers of the Parent-Teacher Association, which was scheduled for next Tuesday, has been cancelled, and will take place in the fall. There will be no further meetings of the organization until that time.

Blossom Festival Will Be Held Tomorrow

In Event of Rain Will be Held Friday; Gorgeous Celebration Arranged

Thursday, May 3, is the date definitely selected for the holding of Delaware's First Apple Blossom Festival. If this day should be rainy, it will be held on the following day, Friday, May 4. The date has been set after careful examination of the apple orchards, and after consulting Mr. Roscoe Nunn, of the United States Weather Bureau of Baltimore. There are many trees, particularly of the early varieties, which show blossoms in full bloom at the present time; however, it is believed that with favorable weather conditions the dates mentioned above will be the most desirable for this festival. Many of the blossoms of late varieties of apples are now in the pink or pre-pink stage of development, and with warm weather they should be in full bloom on May 3. The Weather Bureau at Baltimore advises that Sunday will be fair and warmer, and that we may expect more reasonable temperatures next week; and there is nothing at this time to indicate that the date selected will not be perfect.

Should the day be unsuitable, each of the newspapers throughout the State will be notified immediately, and (Continued on Page 4.)

Kiwanis Club Makes Visit To University

Eighth Annual Pilgrimage Largest in History of Affair; A. G. Wilkinson Presides at Banquet

Over 300 members of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club, including wives and guests, made their eighth annual pilgrimage to the University of Delaware, last Wednesday. It was the largest gathering in the history of the affair.

Many of the members and guests arrived early in the afternoon and attended the baseball game between Delaware and Mount St. Mary's. At 6:30, they all sat down to a banquet in Old College. Arthur G. Wilkinson, business administrator of the University, and who is the present president of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club, presided at the banquet. It was through Mr. Wilkinson's efforts that Delaware Night became an institution with the Wilmington club.

The dining room was decorated with American and Canadian flags in honor of United States-Canada Week. At each end of the speakers table was an electric sign: one the Kiwanis "K," the other, the Kiwanis motto, "We Build."

Dr. Hullahen welcomed the Kiwanians to the University, and spoke of the fine work the club was doing. The Reverend Disston W. Jacobs gave the invocation.

Governor Robinson was called on and spoke of the forestry work being done in the State.

Charles H. Ten Woeges, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Kiwanis Club, spoke of the work of the club in promoting better citizenship.

The address of Sir Frederick Magill was entirely humorous.

As an added honor to United States-Canada Week, Miss Irene Wilkinson, the daughter of A. G. Wilkinson, played the Canadian anthem on the piano.

One of the features of the dinner program was the induction of Edward W. Cooch into Kiwanis. Russell Ramsey performed the ceremony.

During the dinner Charles M. Banks led the community singing.

Each woman guest found a handsome box of stationery at her place at the table. After the banquet there was dancing in the main dining room, and bridge and 500 downstairs.

SCHOOL TOT STRUCK AS SHE DARTS FROM BUS

Jeanne Hudson Struck by William Armstrong, As She Runs In Path of Machine

Jeanne Hudson, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hudson, living on the Lincoln Highway, just this side of White Clay Creek Church, was struck and badly injured yesterday afternoon as she darted from in back of a school bus, and in front of a machine driven by William Armstrong, Sr., of this town. She was taken to the St. Francis Hospital by a passing motorist, where it was found that she had suffered a fractured skull. She did not regain consciousness until this morning, and while her condition is serious, the hospital reports an improvement.

The little girl had just alighted from the school bus in front of her home and ran around back of the bus to cross the road. Witnesses say that Mr. Armstrong, passing the bus in the opposite direction, was driving at a moderate rate of speed and had absolutely no chance to avoid striking the girl. His machine struck her and knocked her to the concrete highway, but did not run over her. When she was picked up she was bleeding badly from a cut on the head. Her mother, who practically witnessed the accident, went to the hospital with her.

Mr. Armstrong reported the accident to Magistrate Thompson and then went to the hospital to inquire about the girl's condition. He is very much upset over the mishap and is in a highly nervous state. Mrs. Armstrong was driving with him when the accident occurred. The little girl was in the primary department of the Newark Schools.

DELAWARE INSTRUCTOR TO BE MARRIED IN JUNE

The following is taken from a Fayetteville, Arkansas, paper:

"Mr. and Mrs. Edward Martin Freyschlag announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Helen, to Warren Benjamin Wade, of Atlanta, Georgia, and Newark, Delaware, the wedding to take place late in June.

"Miss Freyschlag received her B. S. E. degree from the University of Arkansas in 1927, and has been teaching English at Silliman College in Clinton, Louisiana, for the past year.

"Mr. Wade received his B. A. in chemistry from the University of Arkansas in 1924, his M. S. degree in chemistry from Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia, in 1925, did one year of graduate work at Yale University in 1926, and for the past two years has been instructor in chemistry and geology at the University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware.

Mr. Wade, accompanied by J. S. Andrews, Instructor in Organic Chemistry, who is to be his best man at the wedding, will drive to Arkansas immediately after commencement. The wedding trip will take the form of an automobile tour through the western states, returning to Newark in September.

FIRE WOODS, APPEAR IN JUVENILE COURT

John Cooper and Herman Butler, both aged 12, of Newark, appeared before the Juvenile Court, in Wilmington, this afternoon, on a charge of malicious mischief. They were arrested last week by Constable Wideman, and arraigned before Magistrate Thompson, charged with setting fire to Whitaker's Woods, on Iron Hill, last Wednesday. Magistrate Thompson held them for Juvenile Court.

On the way to the fire members of the Aetna Company noticed the boys along the road and when Constable Wideman questioned them later their replies indicated that they had knowledge of the cause of the fire.

These boys are now on parole to Magistrate Thompson for breaking into the store of Gilpin Buckingham about a month ago. Several other boys were implicated and paroled because of that affair.

AMBULANCE CALLS

The Newark Ambulance was called to Elkton last week to take a patient from Union Hospital to her home in Elkton, the Elkton ambulance being out of commission at the time. Alfred Ewing made the trip.

Yesterday, at noon, Mrs. Conrad Robinson was taken from her home on North Chapel street to the Homeopathic Hospital, Corbit Crompton and Henry Sargent made up the crew.

Install Officers Of Newark Legion Post

Ceremony Preceded by Parade; Post Named for J. Allison O'Daniel

The installation of officers of the newly established Newark post of the American Legion was held Monday evening in the Newark Armory. The new post will be called the J. Allison O'Daniel Post. The installation was preceded by a parade in which the new members of the Post marched to music by the Bugle and Drum Corps of Delaware Post Number 1. Over 1100 persons witnessed the installation ceremony.

The formal installation was performed by Department Vice-Commander William Matthews, of the Smyrna Post. The affair was accompanied by a buffet luncheon.

The following officers, who were elected last Monday, were installed: Orville Little, commander; Frederick Strickland, vice-commander; John R. Fader, adjutant; J. Leslie Scotten, finance officer; Paul D. Lovett, chaplain; Ira S. Brinser, historian; Harold Sheaffer, sergeant-at-arms, and Ira S. Brinser, publicity chairman.

S. B. I. Duncan, state chairman of membership for the American Legion, presented the new post with its charter. Past State Commander Dr. William C. Speakman made a brief address in which he expressed the gratification of the American Legion that the new post has been organized and said he firmly believed the new post will be among the leading ones of Delaware.

The new post, which is named in memory of J. Allison O'Daniel, who was killed in action during the World War, has twenty-five members. It has been tentatively organized for ten years, but has never been given a full charter. Every ex-service man, who was honorably discharged following the World War is eligible for membership.

On next Monday evening a meeting of the organization will be held in the armory, at which time plans for the Memorial Day celebration will be discussed. The by-laws of the post will be adopted at this meeting.

DR. DINWIDDIE, NOTED SPEAKER, HERE SUNDAY

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, of Washington, D. C., will speak in the First Presbyterian Church on Sunday, May 6, at 3:00 p. m., under the auspices of the Flying Squadron Foundation in the interest of better government and law enforcement.

For twenty-eight years Dr. Dinwiddie has been Legislative Superintendent in the nation's capital representing dry forces, and is also head of the Good Templar order in the United States. He was appointed President of the International Anti-Alcoholic Congress held in Washington in 1920. His long experience and his close contact with legislators in Washington permits him to speak with authority on the subject of Law Enforcement.

The meeting will be free and open to the public. All are invited to attend.

PHI KAPPA PHI MEETING

Tells Remedies For Young Chick Losses

without drafts, (3) sufficient floor space, (4) a regular supply of food and water, (5) sunshine, (6) green food, (7) shade, (8) close attention to prevent the formation of bad habits. There are others but these are some of the most important. Experienced caretakers observe their chicks closely and frequently in order to make any changes that may be necessary to keep them comfortable.

"Heat in the proper amount is just as necessary to chicks as water is to a fish. During the first week chicks need a temperature of 95 to 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Temperatures only slightly above or below this range for longer than a few minutes at a time may result in disorders of serious consequences.

"After the first day or so it is good for the chicks to run out into a cooler temperature to feed, but the stove should always carry enough heat for them to quickly warm up. After the first week the heat may be gradually lowered but not too rapidly. The temperature around the hover should be kept higher on cold wet days than on hot dry days. For a few days while chicks are exchanging their down for true feathers they need more heat than usual.

"Mountain trout and sea trout both live in water, but both of them would die if they tried to exchange places. One requires fresh water and the other salt water—a very small difference but enough to kill!

Chickens require fresh air and will die without it. But fresh air in the form of drafts will also kill them.

"It is quite difficult to admit sufficient fresh air to the house without causing floor drafts. The chick guard that is placed around the hover should be made of some material that will stop the floor drafts. After the guard has been removed from around the stove it is well to place it across the house about 3 feet in front of the hover. This is especially important at night. It may be raised up or removed during the day unless it is cold and windy.

"The windows and ventilators should be adjusted as often as needed to keep the temperature and air conditions right. About twice a day is often enough to make these adjustments in large, deep houses, but in small colony houses it is necessary to make changes five or six times a day to keep them from getting too hot or too cold. This is more important of course if the chicks are confined than if they are running outside.

"Crowding too many chicks into a house is a serious mistake. Four hundred chicks is the maximum number that should be placed in a 10x12 brooder room. This allows only .3 of a square foot per chick which is not enough if the chicks are to be kept indoors for three or four weeks.

"If less than .3 square foot is allowed per chick at the start some arrangements should be made to provide more room by the time they are four or five weeks old even if they are running outside during the day time. Most of the damage from crowding takes place at night anyway. Night crowding can usually be detected by dirty, worn wing and tail feathers.

"It should be borne in mind that night crowding may be caused by too low a temperature as well as by too many chicks.

Food and Water

"Chicks cannot consume enough food and water, like the African snake, to carry them for a month, or even a day. Their digestion system requires that they eat and drink small amounts at frequent intervals. This means that they must be fed and watered often. Some think it best to keep the food and water before them all the time so they can eat and drink at any time.

"There is something in green food and sunshine that chicks need. All good chicken growers have learned that. Scientists say it is Vitamine A in the green food and Vitamine D in the sunshine.

"The chicks from the very start should be exposed to the direct sunshine as often as possible. Green food should be growing in front of the brooder house and the chicks should be turned out on it just as soon as the weather will permit. If no green food can be provided in the yards it should be grown somewhere else and a small amount picked and fed to the chicks every day.

Bad Habits

"Bad habits are usually the result of some kind of neglect.

"Huddling in the corners can usually be avoided by keeping the proper temperature and watching the chicks carefully for the first few evenings at roosting time. Once the habit of huddling in corners starts it is very difficult to break up. Some poultrymen let their houses become slightly cool just at roosting time in order to cause the chicks to gather around the stove for heat. Huddling often starts by chicks gathering in a streak of sunshine. Cutting out the streak of light will stop that.

"Cannibalism—too picking, tail picking and feather pulling often give much trouble with chicks while they are confined. Opinions differ as to the real cause of the vices. Some think they are due to deficient rations; others think they are caused by the chicks getting hungry and having nothing to do. All agree that the troubles are increased by close confinement and crowded conditions.

"Picking usually starts as an accident, but soon becomes a vicious habit. One chick picks the toe of another thinking that it is food and if the blood is drawn he gets a taste of it and continues to pick.

"Chicks should be watched very closely while in confinement and any injured chick removed at once. If the habit gets started there are several things that may help.

"1. The most important thing is to turn the chicks outside as soon as the weather will permit.

"2. Sacks may be hung over the windows to darken the room for a few days.

"3. Something like tar, iodine, or black paint may be smeared on the wound of the injured chicks.

"4. Strings of large bright buttons or shells may be suspended from the ceiling or thrown on the floor to attract attention of the chicks.

"5. The ration should contain some dried milk, alfalfa leaf meal, bone meal, cod liver oil, salt, and green food."

Egg Record Report

The report for March of the Delaware Farm Egg Record Club had 185 farms reported. The general averages were 16.2 eggs per bird for pullets; 15.5 for hens; and 16.5 for mixed flocks. The highest average was 25.9, made by a flock of pullets.

BOYS AND BIRDS

Plainly speaking, the boy who maliciously kills a bird has not had the right sort of training by parents or school teachers. His education in morals has been neglected, therefore his reformation should begin with the parents.—Blue Valley Farmer.

BETTER MOVIES

Bearing in mind the fact that but little more than twenty years ago the average motion picture was the most tawdry sort of clap-net, one can see that the industry has made some progress. It has educated its public a little and has in turn been educated a little by its public. The employment of really good actors from the spoken drama was experimental at first. It is no experiment now. It has become a necessity. The future of the business will be in proportion to the improvement in the public taste. The producers can, by putting out better dramas, create a demand for them. The "movie" goes can, by staying away from poor films, make imperative the production of better ones. On the whole, neither producer nor patron has reason for despair. Slowly but steadily the screen is outgrowing the follies of its youth.—New York Herald-Tribune.

DEBT AND EXTRAVAGANCE

Willard B. Pillsbury, banker, announces that four-fifths of all wage earners are in debt. Only about a quarter of the North American population, he says, is free from financial worries.

This sounds rather appalling. But there are debts and debts. The man who owes for a home, an automobile, a piano or furniture may be in the soundest kind of financial condition. Extravagance is one thing, and going into debt that can be met properly and without strain is another.—Vancouver Sun.

"Willie, what is your greatest ambition?"

"To wash mother's ears."—Successful Farming.

"Fresher By A Day" Slogan Made Possible By Organization

Big Beste Fleet Of Trucks Give Daily Delivery Service

Slogan "Fresher By A Day" Carried Into Effect By Competent Sales Corps

Several years ago the Beste Provision Company saw the need of adopting a slogan which should hold up the ideal of the management in its relation with the public—more as a beacon to its own employees than something to be used for influencing the public. All the more prominent features of Beste service to the public were gone over—cleanliness, speed, freshness—and finally the slogan was adopted:

"Fresher By A Day"

This was held by the management to contain the kernel of the idea which was foremost in mind for the proper service to its customers—to get fresh meat to the dealers as quickly as was humanly possible.

Distribution of food is something which does not trouble the general public in the least. Most of us do not give it a thought; when we want food we go to a grocery, meat store, or restaurant and get what we want, but there is a very real problem to be worked out in getting food distributed to the consumer—and when it comes to perishable food that problem is acute.

It makes no difference, for instance, how much care is taken in the preparation of our meat products if we do not get them within a reasonable time. Here it is that Beste organization takes care of this point in living up to its "Fresher by A Day" slogan. First an adequate fleet of trucks are maintained, enough to cover the entire territory served by the Beste Company, and kept in such mechanical condition that there will be no delays occasioned by breakdowns, that cannot be quickly overcome by a relief truck.

Secondly, competent salesmen must be employed, men who know the meat business and interested in the work sufficiently that every customer will be given Beste service. And it is upon these men that the secret of the success of that slogan rests.

Manned by these men the trucks cover Wilmington, Newark and vicinity daily giving the dealers fresher and more sanitary pork products of the better kind.

"Fresher by A Day" is more than a slogan to the Beste employee, it is part of the business creed of the force, and every man and woman does his or her part to make it just what it means to the meat buying public.

CATERING SERVICE MUCH IN DEMAND

"Every year more and more people are turning to competent caterers for table service at their luncheons, parties, wedding receptions, banquets, and other social functions," says Mr. Rutter, of the E. E. Hanna Company, 831 Jefferson Street, Wilmington. "There is every reason why this should be so. The caterer handles so many of these affairs of all descriptions that he is always up to date, knows just what is to be done and how to go about it. He has able chefs, well trained servants and can take care of any number of guests. "The hostess at a social function owes it to her guests as well as to herself not to be worried and over-worked by attending to the multitude of details required to make the affair a success—all of which are mere routine to the expert caterer."

DROP IN YOUR NICKEL, AND OUT COMES A TUNE

The old nickelodeon has been revamped and turned into a new craze by a fickle public, and incidentally a very profitable business for the owners of the new Wurlitzer nickel-in-the-slot piano. Placed on the market as a novelty by the Wurlitzer Company the pianos struck the public fancy in an amazing manner. Wherever crowds of pleasure seekers gather—that is where the new pianos are being hustled by the boys who know their mass psychology. Highway inns, tea houses, river steamers, amusement parks, even in dance halls, everywhere they are in demand. Three hours without pause was the record recently made on one of these instruments by enthusiastic patrons.

These pianos change the piece of music automatically after each selection has been played. The capacity is about sixty tunes, played in rotation. In Wilmington and surrounding territory the agency for these pianos is held by the Shilling-Lake Company who have placed between twenty and thirty during the past few weeks.

WELDING DONE IN YOUR OWN GARAGE

By the use of portable welding equipment, Hal Goodwin, of the Dupont Street Machine and Grinding Company, 401 Dupont street, Wilmington, has several times in the past few weeks been of signal service to parties who needed a welding job done and done in a hurry but were unable to get to a welding shop. Many of these calls were out of town—one as far as Milford, to do some work for a worried farmer.

One may easily recognize the value of such services, for when a welding job is needed it generally means that some machine or other is out of business until the welding is done. Mr. Goodwin has kept his shop at a high degree of efficiency through the use of the latest devices in the welding and brazing line, and is admittedly one of the foremost experts in this line of work.

BAIRD PRINTING CO. HAS MORE EQUIPMENT

Business Has Increased Under Fred Gehrold

A new press and a power puncher have been installed by the Baird Printing Company, 415 Tatnall street, Wilmington. Added equipment was made necessary by the great increase in business during the past few months under the management of Fred Gehrold, Newark boy.

Since Mr. Gehrold's advent as manager, June 27th of last year, the average weekly business of the plant has increased five hundred per cent—a most gratifying result and one of which his many Newark friends will be pleased to hear. Mr. Gehrold, who resides at 49 Choate street, is Quartermaster, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and a member of the Wilmington post of the American Legion.

Then Mr. Neumann returned to the United States, taking a post-graduate course under Stewart L. Poor, of Chicago.

His first venture with his own studio was at Sioux City, Iowa; later he opened at Houston, Texas, where he had a very extensive and satisfactory clientele.

Mr. Neumann's West street studio was opened in October last year, and since then he has had sittings of nearly every person of prominence in the city. He is the only Member of the Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain in Delaware.

OVER HALF MILLION BRICKS BEING USED IN BELLANCA PLANT

Half million is a great number—more than any of us would want to count—great even when it is bricks and not dollars. At any rate it gives an idea of the size of the building being erected for the Bellanca Airplane Corporation near New Castle, for over half million bricks are being used in this operation.

The Oberly Brick Company of Wilmington is supplying these bricks, and it is one of the largest orders recently handled, although the Physicians and Surgeons Hospital at Wilmington and the new school at Dover were large contracts supplied by this firm.

Newark's will be interested to learn that a new fraternity house is to be erected on the University campus by Sigma Nu. Bricks for this building are also to be furnished by Oberly.

"Good Roads, Flowers, Parks, Better Schools, Trees, Everybody."—OUR MOTTO.

MAY 2, 1928

Bad will be the day for every man when he becomes absolutely contented with the life that he is living, with the thoughts that he is thinking, with the deeds that he is doing, when there is not forever beating at the doors of his soul some great desire to do something larger, which he knows that he was meant and made to do because he is still, in spite of all, the child of god.—Phillips Brooks.

As no cruel thing can be done without character being thrust backward towards barbarism, so no kind thing can be done without character being moved a degree forward towards perfection.—Herbert Spencer.

"Nature's Social Union"

"There are the pigeons at the window!" exclaimed the artist who was at work upon my portrait. "Let's rest, and give them their dinner."

She opened the sash and the two carriers, winged waifs of the big city, stepped gingerly inside, or about halfway inside, and began to eat from her hand. Then I fed them, my hands instinctively closing over one of them and holding him fast. He picked my fingers irritably, though they were the fingers of a lover, the desire to caress the dear creature quite beyond my control. I freed him in a moment. He went directly out, and pitched into three other pigeons who had come to have a snatch, then returned and cleaned up the cracked corn in my palms. The artist was back at her canvas, and I assumed my pose in the chair.

By and by there was a loud beating of wings on the same window. "There!" cried the painter again. "Take another rest. I must answer that summons. It's my blue pigeon, a different one, and the only one of the flock who insists upon beating against the pane for me. He simply won't be put off. How these birds do interfere with my work!" she sighed. "And what a dirty mess they make about the window! But isn't it sweet in a great noisy, stuffy city like this to have a daily visit from birds?" and thrusting her head of brushes through the palette she once more dropped the color to open the window for the insistent beggar and share with him her busy time and soul.

She seemed to paint the better for the interruption, something swift and free and winged having passed from the pigeons into her.

"I have visitors at my study window, too," I said, as she began her moving back and forth before the easel, scarcely hearing me. "They are just as lovely as yours. I feed them, too, and kill them!"

She nearly dropped her palette. A look of horror filled her startled eyes, as she flashed them at me, searching for this demon in mine whose presence she had not suspected before.

"Yes, I feed and kill them," I repeated in an even tone, as if I had not noticed her horror. "The pig-nut crop is a failure this year, like my apple crop, and every day across the rough end of the concrete house I hear the slow scratching and scrambling of the visitor to my second-story window. It is a hard climb up the sheer wall with nothing to cling to but the spatters of the paddle-dashed cement. Scratch! Scratch! Then a rest. Scratch! Scratch! Then another rest. Then a little gray paw clutching the edge of the window-sill. Then another little paw! Then a little gray nose and whiskers, and beady, pop eyes, and a little gray head, above the window-sill, and then—Well, that's all for a whole minute, as the little gray squirrel hangs there, half on, half off, trying to see through the double window who is on the inside, if it is the fellow with the nuts."

"This same squirrel, or one just the shape and color of him, got a hand-me-out at this same window throughout the end of the winter last year, after his own store was used up. He has started in early this winter. He gets a toe-hold inside the open slide of the outer window, and hangs there, his two round eyes, his twitching whiskers, his panting sides or silent prayer for nuts. Of course he gets them."

"Of course!" the artist echoed.

"But?"

"I'm coming to that. Around on the north side of the house that squirrel and his mate have a nest of cedar-bark tow and other shreds and slivers under the coving that would fill a bushel basket. Every now and then there is a family row, or something, and a wad of that nest stuff comes down on the porch roof, stopping up the down-spout, freezing there and causing me no end of trouble."

"Well, you don't kill people for having a family squabble, or blocking up a rain-pipe do you?"

"I didn't say I did. But they have gnawed a hole through into the attic, and go romping between the walls and under the floors as if my house belonged to them, and to their heirs and assigns forever. And there are a lot of assigns. Last summer that old pair brought up two litters of heirs, of not less than half a dozen to the litter, if not twice as many. We were being eaten alive by gray squirrels, and when the law allowed, we killed seventeen of them, or others who had joined them, and there are still seventeen, certainly, making free with everything about the place."

The artist painted on in silence, for I was giving her a tougher thing to crack than the toughest pig-nut that I had ever handed to a squirrel.

"This isn't an easy world to be consistent in, is it?" I went on. "Nor even to be kind in, always. It is easy to believe that I am my brother's keeper. Society is bottomed upon that fact. But society includes birds and beasts. It covers all living things. If brotherhood is the principle by which society functions, then brotherhood must apply to everything included in the social scheme."

She paused in her painting. I talked on.

"Science shows us that we are all brothers in the flesh, that all flesh is grass, as the prophet puts it, or dust, identical dust, as the scientist puts it. And that what in rare moments we all see is that all dust is divine, that all flesh is the image of one creative power," and in still rarer moments, that all consciousness is the breath of that same single power. So you are sister to the pigeons. I am brother to the squirrel. But . . ."

"Well, I don't know!" she broke in. "I'm only a painter," dabbing her brush at little coils of color along the margin of her palette and stirring it swiftly around in the middle. "Painting's hard enough. I'm glad I don't have to preach!"—Dallas Lore Sharp in Our Dumb Animals.

THAT LOST ART

Those who complain that we have lost the art of conversation are sadly mistaken if they think people can't talk intelligently. The trouble is that there are no listeners now as there were in the old days.

It is the art of listening we have lost, and it undoubtedly is due to the fact that in this day everybody takes newspapers and magazines, and each citizen is so well informed that he wishes to do a great deal of talking. Even when others in the company have the floor he is not listening, but is turning over in his mind the things he will say when it is his turn to talk.

Good listeners are so rare today that when you meet one and notice that he is paying strict attention, you are embarrassed. The novelty of being listened to causes you to wonder whether you are saying anything worth while.—Kansas City Post.

control and transportation. The University of Delaware, through its school of education and also through its Smith-Hughes teacher training program, appropriates $3,275 this year. The school also received Federal Aid for home economics and agriculture to the extent of $1,330.45.

"The following shows the appropriations:

1. Net enrollment, 772, at $10.745, $8,295.14; 2. Average daily attendance, 653, at $13.00, $8,489.00; 3. High School enrollment, 193 at $100, $19,300.00; 4. "The money appropriated directly by the State must be spent in accordance with law for specific things. All these accounts are audited each year immediately after the first of July by the State Auditor.

"The budget of expenditures for current funds for the fiscal year 1927-1928 follows:

"1. Salaries of the staff, $48,785.00; 2. Janitors, fuel, light, water, supplies, $7,800.00; 3. Auxiliary agencies, $1,300.00; 4. Insurance, $760.00; 5. State Contest

The State Contest for the National Contest on Outlaw War Treaties will be held in the Newark School Auditorium, on Friday, at 3:30. Ruth Phelps will be the representative of the Newark Schools.

Forest Week

The Newark Schools celebrated Forest Week with a program, last Friday. The program consisted of a recitation, "Trees," by Joyce Kilmer, given by Bertha Kirk and the following declamations:

"Forest Preservation" by Hugh Gallagher; "How Forests Protect Streams," by Dora Strahorn; "Forests as Water Holders" by Adele Thomas.

Magazine Party

The magazine party which the losing boys' team gave to the girls took place at the New School, Friday night. About 150 attended. Music was furnished by an orchestra composed of the following men of the town: David Chalmers, Herman Stradley, Edwin Shakespeare, Paul Steel, Charles Sweeney, W. K. Gillespie, and Ira S. Brinser.

Daylight Saving

A referendum will probably be taken of the parents of children in the Newark Schools, and if a majority favor daylight saving time, the schools will go on that schedule as soon as the practice teaching period will be over, which is about May 15.

Baseball

Both the varsity and junior varsity baseball teams of the Newark Schools will play Middletown, at Middletown, Friday.

"TWELFTH NIGHT"

"Twelfth Night," the play that has been chosen for the annual Shakespearean production of the Women's College, will be presented at seven o'clock, standard time, on the evening of May 12, in Wolf Hall. Miss Nora B. Keely, of the English Department, is the faculty coach, and Miss Dorothy Caulk, the student coach. Frank Stephens, founder of Arden Colony, is assisting with the direction of the play. Friends at Arden will lend the costumes.

The cast is as follows: Viola, Dorothy Baylis; Captain, Barbara King; Sir Toby Belch, Muriel Holt; Maria, Lillian Benson; Sir Andrew Aguecheek, Hazel Gibney; Valentine, Roselle Covey; Duke of Orsino, Ann Barclay; Olivia, Martha Hill; Sebastian, Ann Walker; Antonio, Marjorie Johnson; Clown, Rebecca Williams; Malvolio, Theresa Tehan; Fabian, Dorothy Caulk; First Officer, Helen Elliott; Second Officer, Ethel Merritt.

There has been an interesting contest at Women's College in the making of posters to advertise the play. Four posters were finally chosen, the prize being awarded to Miss Dorothy Davies. The other three posters were made by Misses Hazel Gibney, Blanche Malcolm, and Adeline Downs.

"But priests should study passion; how else cure mankind, who come for help in passionate extremes?"—Browning.

If there is any question in your mind as to whether or not the Blossom Festival will be held on May 3, call your nearest office and if it has been postponed, they will know it.

Plans are now complete for making this festival one of the greatest celebrations ever held in this State. Those who will take part in the pageant, have been rehearsing their parts; and the historic Dover Green is now being set with evergreens which will form the background of the pageant. This pageant will be held at 2:30 in the afternoon. The parade will form on the State Road at Silver Lake; the route will be down State street from Silver Lake to the Dover Green, around the Green past the State House and then to the town lot near the Dover baseball ground where it will dissemble. The parade will start at 1:00, and there will be approximately forty floats in line, depicting educational and historical events, blossom scenes, garden scenes, orchard scenes and others. Plans for a float from Newark have apparently fallen through, but there may be decorated cars from Newark in line.

Mr. C. Douglas Buck, who is chairman of the route committee, has laid out five routes for the morning program, which will take from thirty minutes to five hours to cover, and each route will take the visitor over roads from which they may have splendid views of the blossoming apple trees. The routes together with the number of miles and the time required are as follows:

Route 1—Dover to Bridgeville, to Georgetown, to Dover—79 miles. Time required, 5 hours. All concrete roads.

Route 2—Dover, Camden, Rising Sun, Dover—9 miles. Time required, 30 minutes. All concrete roads.

Route 3—Dover, Camden, Bancroft farm, to Dupont Boulevard, to Magnolia, to Soper farm, to road leading from Magnolia, to Canterbury, to Dover—20 miles. Time required, 2 hours. 18 miles of concrete road and 2 miles of dirt road.

Route 4—Dover to Magnolia, to Canterbury, to Dover—18 miles. Time required, 1 hour. All concrete roads.

Route 5—Dover, North Street to Ridgely farm, to Wyoming, to Dover—7 miles. Time required, 30 minutes. All dirt roads.

There will be perhaps many visitors who will desire to spend the night or the entire week-end in this State. Many of those who do, of course, will stay with friends; however, those who desire hotel accommodations, may find them in practically all of the various towns, or should they desire to go to the seashore, they will find the hotels at Rehoboth open and ready to extend to them every accommodation and convenience.

It has been suggested that those who live in Dover, do not leave their cars on the street on that day. State street and the Dover Green will be roped off. Through traffic will be diverted via Governors avenue and parking space will be at a premium, especially in view of the fact that many of the Dover streets are now closed and under construction. The citizens of Dover are especially urged to assist the many visitors in finding a suitable parking space whenever possible.

EDUCATION FOR RESTRICTION OF BILL BOARD ADVERTISING

Miss Nancy Beyer, head of the Department of Art at Women's College and chairman of art in the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs, is urging the students of the college and the chairman of Art in the various clubs throughout the State, to work persistently to rid the State of the bill board nuisance.

This movement is going on at present in many States in the Union, in an effort to teach the people that the landscape is no place for advertising and to educate them to join with all civic movements that tend to save the beauty of America in that respect.

Within the General Federation of Women's Clubs there is a Billboard Restriction Committee, of the Department of Art. The policy of the committee as it is also of the workers in this State, is a conservative one. They are not fighting outdoor advertising; they seek restriction, not abolition. They urge that all outdoor advertising shall be restricted to commercial districts where it will not injure rural or civic beauty. The methods used are to educate public opinion and to express that opinion directly to the advertiser. One hundred and forty-one advertisers have already endorsed the policy of the committee.

"You cannot lose money you never had, but you can count as lost any opportunity that slips through your fingers because of your own weakness in making decisions."—Chauncey M. Depew.

Important Changes In Train Schedules

The new train schedules on all three of the railways patronized by residents of this community went into effect on Sunday morning at 2:10 o'clock.

The passenger train on the Pomero Branch from Newark Center will make only one round trip each day, leaving here at 6:25 a. m. and returning at 6:05 p. m.

Daylight saving will make only slight changes in the schedule of the trains on the B. and O. Railroad. The trains will all run on standard time, but the train which was due here formerly at 7:20 a. m., northbound, will leave Newark at 6:20 a. m. In two other trains on that road changes of a few minutes have been made: the 11:16 a. m. northbound will leave at 11:15; the 8:56 southbound will leave at 8:54.

A great many changes have been made on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Leaving Newark, northbound, weekdays, we shall now have trains leaving: 5:17 a. m., 6:34 a. m., 7:35 a. m., 8:32 a. m., 9:20 a. m., 11:18 a. m., 2:43 p. m., 4:37 p. m., 5:48 p. m., 1:08 a. m. The 9:08 has been discontinued. Southbound, week-days:

8:03 a. m., 8:27 a. m., 9:55 a. m., 12:11 p. m., 3:02 p. m., 5:01 p. m., 5:47 p. m., 6:45 p. m., 9:36 p. m., 11:28 p. m. The 10:28 a. m. and the 1:21 a. m. have been discontinued. On Sundays northbound trains will leave at 8:32 a. m., 9:20 a. m., 11:45 a. m., 2:43 p. m., 4:37 p. m., 5:48 p. m. (Sunday, only), 8:56 p. m. Southbound trains on Sunday will leave Newark: 8:27 a. m., 9:24 a. m., 9:55 a. m., 12:11 p. m., 3:47 p. m., 6:35 p. m., 8:24 p. m., 9:36 p. m., and 11:28 p. m.

LIBRARY SERVICE FOR RURAL NEW CASTLE CO.

Theodore Roosevelt once said, "After the church and the school the free library is the most effective influence for good in America." Schools and churches are everywhere, but a large proportion of the rural population of the United States is still without public library service. Books are a vital necessity to people in the country no less than to those in the cities.

Since many people living in rural New Castle County have no access to books, the Wilmington Public Library through a contribution from a friend, is trying to extend its library service. Thirteen stations have already been established in small towns, these include library service in Blackbird, Christians, Corner Ketch, Delaware City, Hockessin, Kirkwood, Ogleton, Port Penn, St. Georges, Stanton, Summit Bridge, Townsend and Yorklyn. Collections of books have been placed in twenty-one schools in rural New Castle County.

A county library is a free public lending library with books for everybody in the county. Small collections are placed in stores, homes, schools and churches. Frequent changes are made between the stations. Rural mail delivery and parcel post enable the library to send books directly to any station or individual in the county. Information is given over the telephone. Rural teachers borrow books for their own use and have small collections to lend to their pupils. Farmers' clubs and women's clubs get the help they need for their papers, debates and discussions.

The county library keeps its readers in touch with the world; continues one's education after leaving school; gives children the book advantages they would have in the city; makes rural life more desirable; sends books to the most isolated persons in the county; makes the county known for its progressive and educational advantages.

The headquarters for the New Castle Library is in the Wilmington Public Library. Miss Nellie Morton, who is in charge of the work, will be glad to talk with anyone in the county interested in this movement.

REV. JACOBS GOES TO KANSAS CITY

Reverend D. W. Jacobs, pastor of the Newark M. E. Church, has been granted permission by the official board of that church to attend for three weeks the sessions of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which will convene all this month at Kansas City. Mr. Jacobs left for Kansas City on Sunday afternoon.

During the absence of the pastor, Dr. Harvey W. Ewing will have full charge of all the services of the church and will answer all calls that would ordinarily be made on the pastor if he were at home.

All Sunday services of the church will continue to be held on standard time. The Wednesday evening prayer meeting will be held at 7:30 until further notice. All official business meetings will be held one hour earlier than usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. McKnight, of Wilmington, were dinner guests at the Colbert home on Sunday.

W. E. Holton has begun operations on his new house at the corner of Kent Way and South College Avenue. The contract is in the hands of the Smythe Construction Company. The house will be of stone, Colonial design.

Mrs. Herbert Dozier has issued invitations for a bridge luncheon at the Blue Hen Tea Room on May 12.

Dr. Wallace Johnson is taking a week's rest at Uniontown, Pennsylvania.

Miss C. Hartman, of Reading, Pennsylvania, and Mr. Robert D. MacArthur and Lloyd Hardy, of New York City, will be guests of Miss Agnes Miller this week-end.

Mrs. H. W. Davis, who recently underwent an operation at the Homeopathic Hospital in Wilmington, is expected to return to her home near Coe's Bridge tomorrow.

WEDDINGS

KENNEDY-EDDY

The marriage of Miss Muriel Strieder Eddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Savoy Eddy, of Montclair, to Eugene Harlan Kennedy, of this town, was solemnized at Grace Presbyterian Church in Montclair at eight o'clock, Tuesday evening, April 24. Following the ceremony, a reception to one hundred and fifty guests was held at the bride's home.

The bride is a graduate of the New Jersey State College for Women in New Brunswick. Mr. Kennedy was graduated from the University of Delaware, and took a post-graduate course at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is now connected with the Combustion Engineering Corporation of New York, where he is a specialist engineer.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, after a honeymoon trip, will spend several months in the Great Lakes region.

The Newark New Century Club met on Monday for the regular bi-weekly business meeting with Mrs. Hein, the first vice-president, presiding.

Mrs. George Rhodes, Mrs. Ralph Dinsmore and the incoming president were elected delegates to the State convention to be held at Rehoboth, June 21, 22 and 23. Mrs. Neale, Mrs. Hester Lewis and Mrs. Hastings were elected alternates.

The program of the afternoon was in charge of the Chairman of Education, Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson, who introduced for her speaker Mr. George S. Williams, president of the State Board of Education.

teaching citizenship, but stressed the fact that character building was the main thing to be taught in the public schools of the State.

An important factor of the schools is the teacher, he said, and that they must be paid sufficient salaries to get the best teachers, and to keep them, for since the tax in Delaware is one-fifth of the lowest tax of the three neighboring states, these three states have more money to offer teachers, therefore they are in a position to get the best from Delaware unless more money is available.

The speaker also mentioned that great credit was due the Parent-Teacher Association in calling communities together and giving opportunities to know conditions and equipment. In his talk Mr. Williams stated that one of the greatest parent-teacher workers in the United States was right in Newark. Therefore coming from a man in his position the club should well be proud of Miss Etta Wilson as a citizen of the town.

The club house will not be open for a meeting next Monday. The entire club membership is invited to be guests of Dean Robinson at the Women's College at two-thirty standard time. There will be no business meeting. The election of officers will be Monday, May 14, at the club house, at two-thirty standard time. All members are requested to be present.

Delaware Nine Shows Two Brands Of Ball

Plays Airtight Game to Defeat St. Mary's; Is Shut Out With One Hit by Hampden-Sidney

The University of Delaware baseball team showed the fans two brands of ball last week, playing an airtight game on Wednesday to beat Mount St. Mary's, 6 to 3; and on Thursday being shut out with one hit by Hampden-Sidney to the tune of 5 to 0. Both games were played on Frazer Field.

Charlie Garrett held St. Mary's to three hits in the Wednesday game and most of the time held them in the hollow of his hand. He had splendid support in the field and at the plate. Snowberger whacked one for four bags in the seventh, and Taylor, Reitzes and Glasser each got a double.

Hampden-Sidney Game

On Thursday, the Blue and Gold presented an entirely different picture. It was crippled to start with, with Lichtenstein out at short, where Snowberger was guilty of three errors. In Hunt, Hampden-Sidney had one of the best college pitchers ever seen on the local diamond. Delaware couldn't find him at all and he came within an ace of pitching a no hit game. Reitzes touched him for a single in the second, which was the only safe clout that the Blue and Gold recorded. Neither team scored until the 6th, when the Southerners pushed three runs over the plate. Crossgrove, who started for Delaware and pitched good ball up to this point, relinquished the mound to Hall, who finished the game and allowed two more runs. The fielding of the Delaware team was pretty ragged in spots. "Ace" Taylor, however, played the most sensational ball in the field for the afternoon, and made several circus catches. Scores:

Thrilling Pitching Duel; Newark

Team Shows Improvement

The Newark High School baseball team lost a fast game last Friday afternoon to the du Pont School, on the du Pont diamond, by a score of 3 to 1. The feature of the game was a pitching duel between "Winnie" Mayer of Newark, and Weatherlow for du Pont. Weatherlow had 15 strike-outs to his credit, while Mayer fanned 11. Mayer only allowed 6 hits while the Newark boys showed Weatherlow for 8. However, Weatherlow kept them so well scattered that only two of them figured in any scoring. Both teams hit the ball hard, and the fielding of the Newark nine showed considerable improvement. Score:

"THE DOVE"

The lovely Norma Talmadge, one of the first dramatic favorites with the screen world, has made for her latest picture "The Dove." This picture is a production of Willard Mack's play is to be at the Arcadia Theatre in Wilmington the week of May 7th.

"The Dove" is a colorful story packed with such incidents that make it absorbing entertainment. As the Dove, Norma is a Central American girl, a soft-voiced beauty whose job it is to entertain the guests of a small cafe. A young American gambler falls madly in love with her but nearly loses his life on several occasions trying to defend her from the plots of one mighty caballero, the latter role is played with a swagger by Noah Beery. Gilbert Roland is the American lover.

The second suit was filed by Edward P. Hulse for a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Agnes M. Hulse, alleging desertion. The bill states that the couple were married in Ellicott City, on September 12, 1906, and that the separation has been for more than three years and deliberate and final. The third suit was instituted by Armour L. Church against his wife, Mrs. Nina E. Church, charging abandonment and desertion. The bill states the couple were married in West Virginia, on October 1, 1913, and that the parties have been separated for three years. As a result of this union three children were born. The defendant is a non-resident of the state.

fusion at the beginning of the week over the question of "old and new" time. But it always adjusts itself after a few days. In school a vote was taken on the subject, the daylight-saving side winning by a large majority. So doubtless within a few days the school will be operated on daylight-saving time. The post office, however, as well as the stores and the churches, will continue to use standard time.

Mrs. Sara M. Davis, of Wilmington, was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Moore on Wednesday.

The heavy rains of last week caused Christiana Creek to become a rushing river, the highest water that has been seen here for a number of years, covering back yards and gardens along the banks, and spreading all over the meadows below the bridge. Old-timers tell tales of row-boats going over the tops of fences without so much as touching the pickets, and even of sailing in and out of first-story windows! Such things as that don't happen any more, however, they have gone into the discard, no doubt, along with our old-fashioned winters!

Mr. and Mrs. John Eastburn and family are moving this week into their new home at Ogletown. Mr. Eastburn is a member of the firm of Eastburn Brothers, hauling contractors, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Bush and family are to occupy the home lately vacated by the family of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Moore. The Bush family having been living in a farmhouse owned by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Reed, on the Ogletown Road.

Mrs. Stille Chew, formerly Miss Pearl Appleby, spent last Tuesday as the guest of her mother, Mrs. James Appleby, at her home here.

On Friday Mrs. Appleby had an all-day visit from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Rachel Davis, of Bear Station. Mrs. Davis was formerly for many years a resident of Christiana, but now makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. William T. Harrington, at Bear.

Bailey Thomas, Mrs. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Moore and daughter, all of Fruitland Grange, Camden; Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of Smyrna Grange, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, of near Newark. The lecturer of Harmony Grange turned the lecturer's hour over to the visitors, who gave an impromptu but very enjoyable hour of entertainment. Mr. Bancroft, in his talk, spoke enthusiastically of the Blossom Festival at Dover.

During the routine of business, a report was made that the carload of fertilizer had been received and delivered. An order was started for binder twine. The hospitality committee served fruit punch, saltines, and fancy cakes.

The lecturer reported that at the May 15 meeting, the young men of the Grange will have charge of the music.

Marshallton

Mrs. Edward Pierce, of Palm Beach, Fla., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Catherine L. Frost.

James Caulk, of St. Michael's, Md., came to Marshallton last Sunday and will remain here with Rev. and Mrs. Tilghman Smith through the summer months. He plans to enter the University of Delaware in the fall.

There's Money in This Harvest

This is the kind of a crop that results when the soil is kept in good condition. Proper crop rotation and regular application of lime to keep the soil sweet and alkaline are usually all that is needed to pave the way for the finest and biggest crops.

Authorities say that most soil needs liming. For quickest results, with economy, use Warner's LIMOID. It is pure hydrated lime that thoroughly penetrates the soil, loosening it while it neutralizes harmful acids and releases the needed humus in decayed organic matter.

LIMOID is easy to spread and comes in handy 50-lb. paper bags. It will pay you to write for the name of the nearest LIMOID dealer and interesting, worth while information on liming the soil for extra profit. A post card will do.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

No Stale Cake

"We can keep cake a single day in the house," wails the housewife with a large family. But, "I can't use my cake before it gets stale," is the plaint of the woman who cooks for only two or three people. Yet cake is lots of fun to make, and the family that lacks cake in its diet misses one of our most delectable desserts.

How, then, can one's cake be so camouflaged that it will be eaten within the necessary few days? The answer lies in varying the appearance in such a way that the cake will seem a new desert each time it is served.

Cake and Fillings

One woman had a standard cake recipe which she always used. It was this: cream one-half cup shortening and one cup sugar together. Add two beaten eggs. Mix and sift two cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, and three teaspoons baking powder and add alternately with one-half cup milk to the first mixture. Add one teaspoon vanilla and mix well. Bake in a hot oven—400 degrees F., fifteen to twenty minutes.

That was her basis. Now for the variations: in the first place, she usually baked the cake in two greased layer cake pans. One of the layers she cut in two and made into a layer cake, quite a small one, which served for about two meals. There were several fillings which she used with it. One was: heat one-half cup syrup drained from crushed pineapple. Mix one-half cup sugar, three tablespoons flour, and one-eighth teaspoon salt and add to the hot liquid. Bring to the boiling point and boil three minutes, stirring constantly. Add one beaten egg yolk and cook over boiling water three minutes. Add one-half cup chopped seeded raisins and three-fourths cup well drained pineapple. She would spread this between the layers and also on the top, making a soft, delicate dessert.

Cup Cakes and Cottage Pudding

The other layer of the cake appeared as cottage pudding with the following sauce: heat one cup syrup from crushed pineapple. Mix one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Add the hot syrup to this, return to the heat and bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly. Boil ten minutes, add one tablespoon butter, and pour over cake.

Sometimes, instead of pouring the second half of the batter into a cake pan, she used muffin tins, and had cup cakes. Occasionally she would substitute pineapple syrup for the milk in the cake recipe and have pineapple cake. And there never was any stale cake around her house.

A LUNCHEON SALAD

Peas, cheese and nuts combine in this salad recipe to make a dish which is very high in calories and in protein; it could be the basis of a light meal, such as luncheon. To make it, drain the juice from two cups canned peas and marinate in one-fourth cup French dressing for at least one hour. Drain. Add one-half cup diced American cheese, and one-half cup chopped walnuts and mix with mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

If a meringue is tough and watery it has been cooked in too hot an oven. The heat toughens the protein and causes the moisture to ooze out in drops of syrup. Cook dishes with meringue tops in a very moderate oven, setting the food in a larger pan containing water, and see how much better the result is.

CHECKERBOARD SANDWICH

Three slices of Boston brown bread: 3 slices of white bread. Cut ½ inch thick. Butter and place one on top of the other so that a brown is always next to a white slice. Press these firmly together (the butter will act as a paste). When they are tightly pressed together, wrap in a sheet of wax paper so that no air can get into it and place in an ice-box for four hours. Remove from the icebox and slice down, making each slice ¾ of an inch thick. Butter each slice again and place them next to each other so that a white square will come next to a brown square and a brown square next to a white. This will form a small loaf. Wrap in wax paper again and place in the icebox for 4 hours more. Remove from the icebox and slice down. The last slicing will reveal the bread in the form of a checkerboard—whence the name of the sandwich.

SANDWICHES
