Auto Accident Fatal To Alfred W. Walker

Hockessin Man Dies Three Days After Being Struck By Auto In Lansdowne

Injuries received when he was struck by an automobile at Lansdowne, Pennsylvania, on January 10, proved fatal to Alfred W. Walker, aged 76 years, of Hockessin, who died January 13 in the Lansdowne Hospital. The funeral services were held on Monday afternoon, January 16, at his home and were in charge of Reverend Samuel L. Irvine, pastor of White Clay Creek Church, where Mr. Walker had been a communicant for more than forty years, and a trustee for many years. Interment was made in White Clay Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Walker and his wife were returning from Philadelphia to their home in "Little Baltimore", on January 10, and at an intersection of streets at Lansdowne were stopped by the red signal light. When the red light went off, it is thought that Mr. Walker did not wait long enough for the white light, and he was stopped by the policeman's whistle. The policeman motioned for Mr. Walker to come to him, which he did. The policeman apparently explained the mistake, and Mr. Walker agreed that he had not waited for a sufficient time. In trying to return to his own car, he was struck by a machine driven by Herbert Hockins, of Philadelphia.

The aged man's injuries were so serious that he was rushed at once in an ambulance to the Lansdowne Hospital, where it was found that there were two fractures in the right leg, twelve ribs were broken, and there were serious cuts and bruises on his head and arms. Word of the accident was telephoned at once to Robert Walker, a nephew, of Hockessin, who is the nearest relative to the deceased, with the exception of the widow, Mrs. Louise Walker.

Mr. Hockins is under arrest by the Pennsylvania authorities, as is also the policeman, the latter under the charge of disregarding the traffic laws, in that he should have gone to Mr. Walker with his complaint, instead of signalling Mr. Walker to return to him. It is understood that Mrs. Walker will not appear against the two men, as she feels that the death of her husband was accidental.

Mr. Walker was a highly respected citizen of the Hockessin community, and a large circle of friends is saddened by his tragic death.

DELAWARE THRESHER- MEN MEET AT DOVER

Newark Man Elected President
Walter Geist, prominent business man of this town, was re-elected president of the Delaware Brotherhood of Threshermen at the annual meeting of that organization, at Dover, yesterday. Other officers elected were: B. V. Bowden, of Seaford, vice-president; D. L. Jones, of Dover, secretary and treasurer.

The speakers were: J. B. Parker, of Madison, Wisconsin, publicity manager of the American Threshermen's Association; Charles Armacost, of Baltimore, representing the International Harvesting Association, and H. W. Kaussman, of Waynesboro, Pennsylvania, representing the Frick Manufacturing Company.

The meeting was attended by seventy-five members, who came from all parts of the State.

U. OF D. REPRESENTED AT NATIONAL CONFERENCE

The University of Delaware was represented at the Conference of the Association of American Universities and Colleges at Atlantic City last week by President Hullahen, Dean Dutton, Dean Robinson, Dr. Benner and Professor Kirkbride.

FINED $4.00

Louis Cohen was fined $4.00 and costs this morning by Magistrate Thompson on a charge of parking in front of a fire plug. Constable Wideman had ticketed his car. This was Cohen's second offense of the same nature.

DANCE

The Serenaders will give a dance Saturday night in the New Century Club. The first number will be played at 8.45.

Corn Show Winners

Four local people came home last week with ribbons and cash awards, won at the annual show of the Delaware Corn Growers' Association, held this year in Dover. They were Vincent and Frank Mayer and Thomas Milliken, of Newark, and Fred Trimble, of Hockessin.

Vincent Mayer won five individual awards, four with corn and one with timothy. Fred Trimble took four prizes with his corn, one of them a first. Frank Mayer won two corn prizes and took second prize in the timothy exhibit. Thomas Milliken took a prize for 10 ears of corn. The Mayer brothers and Thomas Milliken are students in agriculture in the Newark High School.

The judging contest for the State Bankers' Association Cup took place on Friday morning, but the winners have not as yet been announced. Ten teams from high schools throughout the State took part, including Newark. Mr. George M. Worrallow, assistant county agent for New Castle County supervised the judging.

New Savings System In Newark Schools

Children To Learn Thrift And Bank- ing Habits; First Bank Day Falls On Franklin's Birthday

On Monday, Miss Janet McCallum, a representative of the Educational Thrift Service, of New York City, came to the Newark schools to install a savings plan, and yesterday was the first banking day under the new system.

The system sponsored by the Thrift Service is designed to promote the habit of thrift and to teach correct banking habits to children of all ages. One cent will open an account, and each child is issued a pass book, which it keeps and uses to make deposits. One day a week is appointed as banking day and all deposits are made during that day. Tuesday has been appointed banking day in the Newark Schools, and it seems particularly fitting that the first banking day should fall on the birthday of Benjamin Franklin, the father of thrift in this country.

The Farmers Trust Company has been appointed as depository of accounts. The children may draw money at any time, but parents are not allowed to go to the bank to draw.

TEA FOR FRENCH VISITORS

Dr. and Mrs. Hullahen will entertain the members of the French Department of the University of Delaware and members of the Foreign Study Committee at tea tomorrow afternoon, in honor of Madame de Jouvenel and Vicomte de Léché, of Paris, who will be guests at "The Knoll," today and tomorrow.

Madame de Jouvenel is secretary to Bienvenue Francaise, an association formed in Paris to welcome strangers and to promote friendly relations between France and other countries. Vicomte de Léché is lecturing in this country.

New Castle County 4-H Member Wins Rotary Club Corn Championship Cup

Ernest Weldon, a member of the Middletown 4-H Agricultural Club, won first place and championship of the boys' class on his ten-ear sample of yellow corn exhibit last week at the Delaware State Corn Show held in Dover. He will receive $6.00 as prize money, as well as the silver cup donated each year by the Dover Rotary Club to the boy or girl having the championship sample in this class.

Mr. E. P. Vogel, Smith-Hughes teacher, of Middletown, is in charge of the Middletown club. These 4-H clubs are under the general direction of County Club Agent Ed Willim, Jr., of Newark. The winning of the cup offered by the Rotary Club of Dover brings for the first time this cup to a New Castle County club member. The cup has been won in previous years by New Castle County boys who were not members of the 4-H Boys' and Girls' Clubs. In commenting on Ernest's winning the cup, the Club Agent said, "I felt sure that Ernest's sample of corn would place high in this class, and I am very much pleased

University Debaters Win First Argument

Defeat Washington College With Affirmation Of Abolishment Of Jury System

The University of Delaware debate team won its first argument of the season last evening when they debated with Washington College on the question, "Resolved: That the present jury system be abolished, and that it be replaced by a system of competently selected jurors." Caleb Wright and Philip Kotlar composed the University of Delaware team, and argued the affirmative, while the negative Washington College team was composed of Elmer Bennett and Nelson Hurley. The judges were George C. Hering, Jr., of Wilmington; David A. Ward, Superintendent of Schools, and Rev. R. W. T. Trapnell, rector of St. Andrews' Episcopal Church. The decision was two to one in favor of the Delaware orators.

Caleb Wright was the first speaker. He pointed out that the present jury system has failed to give a fair trial and that the American people do not appreciate the responsibility that devolves upon them as a result of the system.

Elmer Bennett followed with the first speech for the negative. He contended that the system now in use is quite satisfactory, that it has a solid historic foundation, that it follows the democratic theory of checks and balances.

Philip Kotlar, taking the second affirmative, demonstrated that the system he advocated will not only be an improvement over the old one, but will tend to the betterment of the United States as a nation. He pointed out further defects of the system now in use.

Nelson Hurley, last speaker, denounced the affirmative's plan as a theoretical hypothesis, and declared that it was more expensive than the present system.

Health Board Asks Aid To Check Mumps

Dr. Hurdle Explains Disease, Tells How To Stop Spread

Dr. S. H. Hurdle, Deputy State Health Commissioner for New Castle County, in an effort to advise parents in Newark of the growing epidemic of mumps, and to gain helpful co-operation in checking the increase in cases, has explained the symptoms and effects of the disease, and advised parents how they may assist in preventing its spread. Dr. Hurdle's appeal for co-operation with the Board of Health is as follows:

"There has been such an increase in the number of cases of mumps in Newark and Rural New Castle county since Christmas, that I think it appropriate at this time to be brought to the attention of the people.

Chamber Of Commerce Smoker January 26

Annual Meeting To Be Informal Affair; Three Directors To Be Elected

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Newark Chamber of Commerce, held last Friday night in the Council chambers, it was decided that the annual meeting would be in the form of a smoker, to be held, probably, in the Lounge, in Old College. The date will be Thursday, January 26.

President E. C. Wilson presided over Friday night's meeting. The following directors were present: J. E. Dougherty, D. A. McClintock, Irvin Dayett, Eben B. Frazer, R. W. Heim, Henry Mote, M. Pilnick, Daniel Thompson and E. C. Wilson.

D. A. McClintock, Irvin Dayett and R. W. Heim were appointed a committee to arrange the smoker. At a meeting Monday night, the committee laid out a preliminary program that included a quartet and pianist, informal talks, and light refreshments. The whole tone of the meeting will be one of informality.

At the director's meeting, Friday night, a nominating committee was appointed to make nominations of candidates to be voted on to fill three vacancies in the directorate, made by retiring directors. The committee consisted of: Eben B. Frazer, chairman, E. B. Crooks, A. F. Fader, George W. Griffin, and D. A. McClintock. The directors whose terms of three years expires are: Henry Mote, M. Pilnick and D. A. McClintock. At a meeting of the nominating committee, held Monday night, D. A. McClintock, Ernest Wright and Louis Handloff were nominated to be voted on to fill the three vacancies. Mr. McClintock was nominated to succeed himself because of his untiring efforts in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce during his term as a director.

Will Raise $10,000 For Del-Mar-Va Ass'n

New Castle County Pledges That Amount To Aid In Three- Year Program

New Castle county officers of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association at a meeting in Wilmington, last Thursday, decided to continue to participate in membership in the association and to underwrite a fund of $10,000 a year for three years to aid the organization in carrying out its program.

Mail solicitation will be started immediately to obtain the necessary funds and pledges for 1929 and 1930. Every citizen in the county will be asked to help.

This decision to give full support to the association supports the vote of the delegates from New Castle in attendance two weeks ago at Chestertown, Md., at the conference of the upper tier of counties of the peninsula. The conference was held to ascertain the sentiment of the seven upper counties and to obtain their support in the organization of campaigns and to raise funds to finance the work of the association during the next three years. Each of the counties agreed to support the organization. The seven lower counties had agreed to continue their support at an earlier date. It is proposed to raise $100,000 a year for three years.

GLEE CLUB SMOKER

Professor George M. Berry, Jr. director of the Delaware College Glee Club, and about twenty-five members enjoyed a "smoker" in the Faculty Club Room at Old College last Thursday evening after the rehearsal. Sweet cider and pretzels were served. The Glee Club is rehearsing twice a week and is planning a series of concerts in other towns.

PROFESSOR CONOVER SPEAKS

Professor Elisha Conover, of the University of Delaware faculty, addressed the Latin Club of the Wilmington High School last Wednesday afternoon. The club has a membership of about one hundred.

Extension Workers To Meet Here This Week

Members of the Extension Department of the University of Delaware will gather at Wolf Hall on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week for their annual extension conference. The first meeting is called for one o'clock on Thursday afternoon. It will probably be opened by Director of Extension C. A. McCue or State Leader of County Agents A. D. Cobb.

The following members of the Extension force will attend this meeting:

C. A. McCue, Director of Extension; A. D. Cobb, State Leader of County Agents; Mrs. Helen B. McKinley, State Home Demonstration Agent; Molloy C. Vaughn, Sussex County Agent; Miss Anne B. Moore, Sussex County Club Agent; Russell E. Wilson, Kent County Club Agent; Miss Helen L. Comstock, Kent County Club Agent; Ed Willim, Jr., Acting County and Club Agent of New Castle County; and G. M. Worrilow, As- (Continued on Page 4.)

County Farm Bureau Holds Annual Meeting

Completed Projects Discussed By President Milliken And Extension Workers; Dean McCue Outlines Farm Situation

Mrs. Helen B. McKinley, State Home Demonstration Agent, was present and gave a short talk in which she asked for more aid in helping the farm woman. The State Home Demonstration Agent commented on the fact that the Farm Bureau had no program that would interest the women of the farm. She stated that if the women were taken into consideration more and the program planned to interest them as well as the farmers, she believed that the Farm Bureau would be more successful and would be doing something for the most important woman in the world—the farm woman.

Dean C. A. McCue of the University of Delaware, gave his talk on the agricultural situation, which was well received by the members attending the meeting. He commented on the report of the special committee of the Association of Land Grant Colleges as it related to the farmers of the country since 1920. In his talk Mr. McCue brought out the fact that some of the causes of the present situation are: (1) Continued high production of farm commodities, (2) (Continued on Page 8.)

PROPERTY IMPROVEMENTS

Charles Wollaston and members of his family who own houses and lots on Kells avenue, East Park Place, and South College avenue, have improved fifteen of said properties by connecting them with the town sewer. The work, which was done by William Robinson, and inspected by William Kennedy, was completed today.

Mr. Wollaston has also improved the lots on the corner of E. Park Place and South College avenue by filling in the ground and planting shrubbery.

The section of town known as "The Orchard" has been improved by handsome new street lights.

MISS SMITH TO SPEAK

Miss Clara Bell Smith, who represents Grace M. E. Church, of Wilmington, in the missionary field in China, will speak before the Epworth League of the Newark Methodist Church on Sunday evening at 6.45 o'clock. Miss Smith, who will return to her work in China at the end of her furlough, is ranked as a very interesting speaker. Everyone welcome.

SAIL FOR FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Sheaffer, accompanied by Miss Dora Byrd, sailed Friday from Baltimore for Florida on the S. S. Berkshire. They plan to stay for a month or six weeks, and will seek nothing but rest and diversion. Mr. Sheaffer's sons will be in charge of his business during his absence.

COAL CONTRACT

The Newark Lumber Company has been awarded a contract to supply the Newark Schools with a carload of coal.

Aetna Company To Be 41 Years Old Feb. 22

Will Celebrate With Banquet And Entertainment. Fire Marshal Soula To Speak

In celebration of its forty-first anniversary, on February 22, the Aetna Fire, Hook and Ladder Company will hold a banquet in the New Century Club. The Aetna Company was formed on Washington's Birthday, 1887, and incorporated the following year.

The banquet committee, composed of R. E. Ramsey, chairman, John R. Fulton, Ira Shellenor, C. E. Ewing, L. E. Hill, Walter Powell and Raymond Buckingham, have planned a sumptuous menu and sprightly entertainment. There will be a jazz orchestra to provide music during the banquet and for dancing afterwards. The committee has also opened negotiations for 4 or 5 acts of high class vaudeville. Walter Powell will do the catering for the banquet.

The main address of the banquet will be given by Chester County Fire Marshal Soula. Mr. Soula will give a practical discourse on methods of fire fighting and fire prevention.

The Aetna Company has just purchased a high pressure Alemito gun for lubricating the engines and the ambulance.

BATTERY "E" PROMOTIONS

Upon recommendation of the Battery Commander the following enlisted men have been promoted in Battery "E" at Newark, as follows:

Corporal Arthur E. Disley to Sergeant; Private 1st class, Wilbur Butler to Corporal; Private, 1st class, Walter C. White to Corporal; Private Edward W. Cannon to Corporal; Private Ralph C. Wells to Corporal.

The following Privates have been promoted to Privates first class:

James L. Brannon, Raymond Butler, Kenneth M. Frisbie, Walter F. Kohl, Victor H. Murray, Bernard Nobis, Lewis G. Powell, Ralph C. Raughley, Charles L. Reynard, Edward Rickards, Warren E. Riggins, Anthony Sanborn, John T. Willis.

ATTEND FARM SHOW

Dean C. A. McCue and Professor R. W. Heim are in Harrisburg, Pa., today, attending the 12th Annual Pennsylvania State Farm Products Show. This is one of the largest state agricultural gatherings in the country, and includes meetings of practically every organization in the State having a connection with agriculture.

This afternoon Dean McCue will address the meeting of Pennsylvania State Horticultural Association on "Delaware's Position in the Apple Industry."

HOUSTON TO SPEAK HERE

Honorable Robert G. Houston, representative from Delaware in Congress, will speak before the Newark New Century Club on Monday afternoon at the regular meeting of the club, at 2.30, on the subject, "Episodes in Delaware History." It is hoped that no member will miss hearing this interesting address.

A reception and tea will follow the program. Mrs. Kenneth G. Whittemore is chairman of the afternoon.

Husbands of club members and other men who are interested in Delaware history are invited to hear Mr. Houston.

DOG TAGS ISSUED

Magistrate Thompson has issued about two hundred 1928 dog tags, which is less than one fifth the number of dogs licensed here last year. The old tags are now void and dog owners should license dogs to avoid prosecution for harboring an unlicensed dog.

FACULTY MEETINGS

The regular monthly meeting of the faculty of Delaware College was held on Monday evening at the Club Room. The regular meeting of the Women's College faculty was held on Monday afternoon at the Faculty Club Rooms in Residence Hall.

ATTEND AUTO SHOW

Among those from this town who attended the National Automobile Show held in New York last week, were: C. E. Rittenhouse, John Mayers, Frank Fader, John Cunningham and "Cuff" Claringbold.

The Man With the Newspapers

There is some difference between being compelled to stay out all night, and electing to stay out. The point of view is as different as that of a man who digs for pleasure, and the man who digs for a small daily wage. At the same time the man who chooses to walk the streets, the public gardens, or the river embankments all night, rather than take advantage of a warm, comfortable bed, will discover that he has aroused an appetite long before breakfast time, that a cold mist coming from the river can penetrate most unpleasantly, and that after a few hours walking on hard pavements, a rest seems imperative.

These are experiences he will have in common with other people who walk the streets or seek sheltered spots in London on a November night. These thoughts occurred to me the first time I decided to seek first-hand knowledge of a cross section of night life in London, which comparatively few people know anything about.

There is an hour struck by the bells of St. Martin in the Fields when a mysterious stillness settles down on the Strand, and the spire of St. Clement Danes, like an upraised finger, seems to call for a hush. That hour is after the theatres have emptied themselves of their patrons, and the restaurants have served their last suppers for the night; when taxis disappear rapidly from the ranks, and silent policemen in helmets and glistening capes stand like statues at street corners or flash quick lights into dark recesses. It is then that the imaginative can call back the London of Johnson or Dickens.

But if the Strand has become deserted, there are other places where one can find a strange and motley gathering. Uncommunicative as a rule, each wrapped up within his own shell of silence and reserve, they loiter along the Thames Embankment, or in the public gardens; under the somber shadows of bridges—Waterloo, Blackfriars, Hungerford, Westminster.

It would be easy—in fact it would be in accordance with orthodox journalistic practice—to paint pathetic pictures of some of these characters. But because this has been done so much, I wanted, to find in the experience, if possible, something heartening, something humorous without in any way mocking tragedy, something that would disclose unexpected courage or peace, in spite of outward conditions.

With my cap pulled well down over my eyes and my coat collar buttoned tightly round my neck, I tried to look the part—the only weak spot being that I did actually have a thick, warm coat. I realized this just as soon as I unobtrusively approached a weary looking individual who was intently studying the black eddies of the Thames as it lapped the embankment walls.

"Black sort of night, isn't it?" I ventured. The person addressed turned slowly, surveyed me without haste, then said, "Got the price of a cup of cocoa, guv'nor?" Then I knew that I couldn't fool an old hand. Perhaps it was the overcast. Because of his perspicacity, I felt he had earned the price of a cup of cocoa, but knowing that cocoa is a term that may be quite loosely interpreted in certain quarters, and among a certain type of people, I offered to accompany him to a coffee stall and share the beverage with him. To his credit, let it be said, he accepted with alacrity.

There is no more democratic institution in London than a night coffee stall. Here one may rub shoulders with men in dress suits, with journalists whose words will be read the following morning by thousands of people all over England; with men and women who constitute one of the city's gravest "problems." A recent writer on London has said that the Prince of Wales stopped at one of these stalls early one morning and had a cup of cocoa with the small crowd who had been attracted there by light and warmth.

My next encounter was more fortunate. He was a young man and did not look as if to him "earth was a wilderness drear." When he sat on one of the benches that are placed at regular intervals on the Embankment, I sat down on the same bench. "I suppose we can rest here as long as we don't go to sleep?" I asked.

"You can sleep here—until the policeman shakes you up," he returned dryly, but not bitterly.

"Well I don't want to go to sleep, anyway," I answered.

"This your first night out?"

"This your first night out?"

"Yes, I've always managed to get a bed before."

"This is my third." Then after a pause, "—but I don't mind. I've learned some things during the past week which I ought to have learned long ago."

"Really?" I said encouragingly.

"Have you ever been a rich man?" he asked, suddenly.

"No, never." I could answer this with more certitude than I could some things.

"Well, I have. I was until three weeks ago—and then I lost every penny I possessed; and here I am. I suppose you think I ought to be plunged into the depths of despair. Well, I'm not, and if you are interested, I'll tell you why."

My interest was only too evident, for without hesitation he continued: "I've discovered that money wasn't half so important to me as I thought it was. I still have hope, and faith in something other than money, and I still believe in my fellow men. I have friends who would see me through, if I liked to go to them, but I won't do it. I want to feel what it is to be without a penny in the world, and I want to know that the loss of money is not the worst thing that can happen to a man—"

It was half an hour later that we began to realize that we were hungry. Under the guidance of my friend we walked to Charing Cross.

"I little thought when I used to give a contribution to the Salvation Army that the day would come when I would be glad to take a free meal from them," said my companion with a chuckle. "I'm glad I helped them now, because I feel somehow that I have helped to pay for what we shall have tonight?"

From a traveling kitchen set up in a Salvation Army van, busy workers were ladling out bowls of soup, and without any compunction we seized our share of hot, steaming nourishment, and it brought back the glow and tingle to our chilled bodies.

But as I wanted to meet other folks in this strange city—so unfamiliar to the average Londoner—I reluctantly bade "good-night" to my friend.

Sauntering through Temple Gardens, I overtook a man whom I mistook for a newspaper vendor; he was carrying several newspapers under his arm. "What's the latest news?" I asked by way of introduction.

"There's no room in the Shelter; I've just come from there and there isn't enough room for a pup." At first I failed to understand his reference, then it dawned on me. He was referring to the Salvation Army lodging house across the river—this was the latest news so far as he was concerned.

"That's too bad. No good trying then, is it?"

"Not a bit a good, matey. Better make up yer mind to find a shake-down 'ere. I knows uv one, only it's probably taken by now."

Together we sought the desired sheltered spot, and just to prove that our cherished hopes are not always blighted, it was vacant, a fact which I hastened to point out to my new acquaintance.

"Well, that's all right, matey. I ain't a bloomin' pessimist meself, or I wouldn't 'ave even come to see if it was empty"—a rejoinder which was not entirely devoid of reason.

"Ver known, matey, after all's said and done, this open-air life don't do nobody any 'arm. Tell the truth, I'm a better man for sleepin' on a night. If one thing, I 'as to get up early, 'cause it's the early worm as catches 'is bird, as yer might say—"

"Which in your case, is what?" I inquired, with interest.

"Oh, anythin' that's goin'; I ain't particular. I'm a painter by trade, but I likes variety. I ain't got nobody dependin' on me, yer understand, else I'd 'ave ter git a steady job. An' the things I sees, matey! You'd 'ardly believe it! One day I'm goin' ter write a book about what I sees and 'ears when other people are all gone by—"

After listening to him for nearly two hours, I came to the conclusion that, in common with most of us, he had one book in him, at least. But nothing could stop the penetrating chill of the fog that came off the Thames; then it was that I discovered the advantage of attaching oneself to a seasoned veteran. "Ere, matey, take some uv the bed clo's. Wrap 'em round yer legs and inside yer coat, and you'll feel fine!" And this was no false boast or meaningless encouragement; in less than fifteen minutes I had dozed off to sleep.

When I awoke my companion had not me. I was bare and disappointed. Instinctively I felt for my watch—it was still in my vest pocket. More newspapers had been wrapped round my legs. A piece of paper was sticking out of my pocket and in such a manner as to lead me to suspect that it had been placed there purposely. On withdrawing it I noticed it was screwed up tight at one end, and as I unscrewed it, a threepenny bit fell out. On opening up the scrap of paper I noticed that something had been scrawled upon it: "Don't be downhearted, matey, hears somethin' for yer grub in the mornin'."

The gray dawn already was struggling with darkness in the east, London—the London I knew—was coming out of the mist. Another day with all its possibilities and opportunities was mine. The experiences of the night soon blurred like a dream, but standing out sharp and clear there has remained with me the memory of the man with the newspapers.—A. J. P. in Christian Science Monitor.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORING TOWNS

AS TOLD BY OUR CORRESPONDENTS

Elkton and Vicinity

Mrs. D. Roy Perkins and daughter, Lorene, who have been spending a month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sparklin, in Elkton, returned to their home in Frederick, Md., on Tuesday.

Detectives Baldwin and Fadely, of the Pennsylvania Railroad police force arrested a 15-year-old white boy who has been sleeping in the Port Deposit, passenger station for several nights. The lad said he was taken from a reform school and placed on a farm near Port Deposit. He said that he could not stand the cruel treatment of the farmer and ran away. He was brought to Elkton jail awaiting action of the county authorities.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Blake, of North East, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith Tyson Blake, to Dorie B. Foster, Jr., of Elkton.

Mrs. Laura Harris, of Wilmington, is visiting Mrs. J. F. Sparklin.

James Watkins, 21 years old negro, was arrested by Officer Roach, of Perry Point, charged with stealing a roast chicken from one of the government mess halls. Watkins was employed in the mess hall and the stolen chicken was found in his automobile. Justice Owens committed him to Elkton jail for the action of the March term of court.

Dr. and Mrs. Clinton Kane, of Perryville, have removed to Easton, where Dr. Kane has been appointed County Health Officer for Talbot county.

Marshall Purner, of North East, was captured by Sheriff Logan, and four prohibition agents, on the Elkton-Chesapeake road late Friday afternoon with a truck load of alleged moonshine liquor. Ninety gallons of alleged whiskey was obtained by Purner near Chesapeake City, and while making the trip to Elkton Sheriff Logan was tipped off and blocking the road, stopped Purner, who attempted to escape by jumping from his truck and fleeing across a field, but was soon captured and brought to Elkton jail together with his cargo of moonshine liquor.

At the annual meeting of the board of directors of Union Hospital, Elkton, Joseph Coudon, of Perryville, for several years president of the board, was re-elected its president over his protest and resignation, for the ensuing year, with Dr. Howard Bratton, Dr. Palmer Smithers, John H. Terrell, David B. McDowell, Thomas J. Murray, William Davis, Avel C. Cameron, Miss Virginia Abrahams, Miss Grace Price, Thomas B. Miller and Murray J. Ewing, directors. Miss Louise M. Wallace was appointed superintendent and Miss Evelyn Pierson, assistant superintendent.

A. B. Walmsley, for the past three years vice-president and assistant cashier of the People's Bank of Elkton, tendered his resignation to the bank directors, effective on January eleventh.

Joseph Cooney, of the Rising Sun High School, was the winner of a medal contest, held under the auspices of the Rising Sun Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Charged with selling liquor at their resort at Octoraro Junction, Steven Rosham and Caroline Snavely were given a hearing by Justice Scotten, Elkton, and held under bail for the March term of court.

FAIRVIEW P-T. A.

The Fairview P-T. A. held its January meeting in the School Hall on Tuesday evening, January 10.

The grown-up folks gave a very interesting program which consisted of readings, recitations, songs and a play called "Mumps."

The refreshment committee had a delicious treat of doughnuts, punch and cake.

Ten new members joined the association.

The next meeting will be held on February 7. Several good numbers will be on the program. A very exciting play by the grown folks, called "Aunt Betsy Ross and the Oil Stock" will be given.—Secretary.

The golden hopes of mankind can be realized only by men who have iron in their blood; by men who scorn to do wrong and equally scorn to submit to wrong; by men of gentle souls whose hearts are harder than steel in their readiness to war against brutality and evil.—Theodore Roosevelt.

Nothing is so often irrevocably neglected as an opportunity of daily occurrence.—Marie Ebner Eschenbach.

TOME INSTITUTE DEFEATS GOLDEY COLLEGE, 20 TO 14

In a game featured by defensive play Saturday the Tome Institute, Port Deposit, quintet defeated Goldey College, 20 to 14, in Wilmington. The game was fast and produced some of the best passing and dribbling seen this season.

Chalmers and Noel, on the offense, and Scott and Goff, on the defense, were the stars for Tome, while Saville and Layton played best for the Goldey five. The score:

"GET YOUR MAN"

Anyone so antiquated as to think that the man always exercises the right to choose his wife, should see Clara Bow's picture, "Get Your Man" which is a direct refutation of such an idea, and an amusing denial throughout.

The film "Get Your Man" is at the Arcadia Theatre, Wilmington, for the entire week of January 23rd and the pretty red-headed little Clara carries honors throughout its vivacious performance.

The story, not heavy with dramatic situations, but sprightly with its effervescent comedy, tells of the determination of a pretty American girl who fell in love with the youthful scion of a revered French family and decides to marry him despite the fact that he was engaged since he was five years old.

Charles, sometimes known as "Buddy" Rogers has the lead opposite Clara. This handsome youth, personable and charming, is one of the new sensations of the screen and is happily cast in "Get Your Man," being the man who is "got."

McCLELLANDSVILLE P-T. A.

The monthly meeting of the McClellandsville Parent-Teacher Association was held Tuesday evening, January 10, 1928. The members decided to have a Valentine bake at the next meeting, to be held February 14. The proceeds from the bake are to be used for the school. After the business of the meeting a very interesting and enjoyable program was given by the pupils of the school and members of the association. Prizes were awarded for the funniest and longest recitations and for the best dialogues. A prize was also given to the winner of the cake contest. Refreshments were served and games were played. A good time was had by all.

HOW TO GO BROKE

If you want to go broke at farming just practice the following suggestions outlined by the Tennessee Experiment station after years of observation. They will work in any state in the union:

1. Grow only one crop.
2. Keep no livestock.
3. Regard chickens and gardens as nuisances.
4. Take everything from the soil and return nothing.
5. Don't stop gullies or grow cover crops—let the top soil wash away then you will have "bottom" land.
6. Don't plan your farm operations. It's hard work thinking—trust to luck.
7. Regard your woodland as you would a coal mine, cut every tree, sell the timber and wear the cleared land out cultivating it in corn.
8. Hold fast to the idea that the methods grandfather employed in farming are good enough for you.
9. Be independent—don't join your neighbors in any form of co-operation.
10. Mortgage your farm for every dollar it will stand to buy things you would have cash to buy if you followed a good system of farming.—Weekly Colorado Beet Grower.

An appetizing dessert or salad can be made of cooked prunes with the pits removed and the cavities stuffed with cream cheese or cottage cheese seasoned with salt and thick cream. Dates and figs can be used in the same way.

Christiana

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church was held last Wednesday evening at State Road Chapel, with Mrs. S. L. Irvine acting as hostess. Mrs. W. E. Cranston, chairman of the entertainment committee, furnished the following program: Piano solo, Katherine Dance; readings, Mrs. W. H. McCoy, Mrs. B. H. Moore and Miss Elsie Walker; and singing by the society. At the close of the program ice cream and cake were served, and a social time enjoyed.

"If You Can't Fight the Weather—"

A pleasant-tempered admonition to attend church more regularly, printed in the calendar of the Essex Church, Unitarian, in Notting Hill Gate, London, has this parting word: "If you can't fight the weather, how can you fight evil? Anyone is the better for keeping a regular appointment with his conscience and his mind and good will in a church on a Sunday. We would rather have your cough than your absence."

HARMONY GRANGE

Thirteen members of Harmony Grange attended the Pomona Grange at Felton on January 5.

On Monday, January 9, the retiring master of Harmony Grange and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Klair, installed the newly-elected officers. There was a good attendance. After the installation of officers and the business meeting, there were speeches by the newly-elected officers, and a short program. A letter was read from Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mason, thanking the members of the Grange for the utility shower which was given them after the fire which destroyed their home. A letter of thanks was read also from Mr. and Mrs. Wivel, thanking the Grange for the purse of $100 which was sent as a Christmas gift to their son, Sherman Wivel, who has been ill for so long in the P. and S. Hospital, in Wilmington.

The hospitality committee served fried oysters, potato salad, pickles, rolls, cake and coffee.

There was also a good attendance at the meeting of Harmony Grange last evening. After the general routine of business, the order for clover seed was opened. The program for the evening, which was in charge of Miss Ruth Ball and Mrs. Buford Eastburn, consisted of readings, jokes, vocal and instrumental music. There was also a report from the lecturer, Miss Emmaline Derickson, of the State Lecturers' Conference at Camden on January 10.

Harmony Grange will visit Delaware Grange, at Newport, next Monday.

HOSPITAL SETS DOG'S LEG

At Hoquiam, Wash., the other day, just a common little fist dog without a pedigree, but with a broken leg, appeared in front of a hospital. He hung around as if he knew what he wanted, sounding an occasional faint wail. He was admitted, put on the operating table and his leg "set," coming back the next day of his own accord to have it dressed in good hospital style. JANUARY 11, 1928

Desirous of Peace

Next to our attachment to the principle of self-government has been our attachment to the policy of peace. When the republics of the Western Hemisphere gained their independence, they were compelled to fight for it. They have always been a brave, resolute, and determined people, willing to make any sacrifices to defend what they believed to be their rights. But when once their rights have been secured, they have been almost equally solicitous to respect the rights of others. Their chief efforts have been devoted to the arts of peace. They have never come under the delusion of military grandeur.

Nowhere among these republics have great military establishments ever been maintained for the purpose of overawing or subjugating other nations. We have all nourished a commendable sentiment of moderate preparation for national defense, believing that for a nation to be unreasonably neglectful of the military art, even if it did not invite and cause such aggression as to result either in war or in abject humiliation, it must finally lead to a disastrous disintegration of the very moral fiber of the Nation. But it is one thing to be prepared to defend our rights as a last extremity and quite another to rely on force where reason ought to prevail.—President Coolidge in his speech at the opening of the Pan-American Congress at Havana.

Assistant County Agent of New Castle County. Besides these State and County Extension Agents, Mr. H. S. Palmer, Extension Poultryman of Newark, T. F. Manns and J. F. Adams, Plant Disease Specialists, will also attend.

At this conference the extension programs of work for 1928 will be discussed. The Extension Agents of New Castle County have held two meetings to present for criticism and discussion their program of work to the farms of New Castle County. One meeting was attended by representatives of the granges of New Castle County, while the other held at Middletown last Thursday was attended by representative farmers of the lower part of the county. The adult program in the county will follow somewhat the lines of the last few years. The general lines of work to be taken up are:

1. Demonstrations on the value of proper spraying and fertilization of white potatoes.
2. Campaign to increase the acreage of alfalfa in the county. The use of alfalfa as a supplemental dairy ration has materially decreased the cost of producing milk on the dairy farms of the county.

3. Sweet Clover—To demonstrate the value of sweet clover as a pasture for dairy cattle, and to place sweet clover in the crop rotation.

4. Soy Beans—To have a high acre value cash crop to supplant a part of the wheat acreage, and to furnish a dairy roughage to replace corn fodder when corn is husked from the standing stalk.

5. Corn Improvement—To hold shows in conjunction with local granges and other farm organizations to stimulate the selection of better seed corn, and to test seed corn samples for germination this spring.

6. Tomato Improvement—To acquaint farmers with improved methods in the growing of tomatoes.

7. Wheat Smut Control—To familiarize farmers with the Copper Carbonate method of wheat smut control and to induce a spread of the practice.

8. Orchard Demonstrations—To aid those farmers who grow fruit to produce a higher quality product.

9. Dairy Cattle Improvement—To increase the average milk production per cow economically through the use of more alfalfa, sweet clover pasture, soy bean hay roughage, and a campaign for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis.

10. Poultry—To acquaint farmers with improved methods of poultry management.

11. Corn Harvesting—To reduce the labor cost of harvesting corn.

12. Crop Rotation—To acquaint farmers with a new crop rotation that should help them to produce their crops economically.

These projects will be put before the extension conference, and after adoption will become the program for the extension agents during the coming year.

"The Boys' and Girls' Club program for the coming year is one that does not change materially from year to year," says the County Club Agent. The project demonstrations are approved for the entire State and each county works out its methods of establishing its projects in the county. The following program has been submitted by the Club Agent to the farmers of the county and extension conference as the program for 1928:

1. Sewing Clubs—To demonstrate proper methods and care of simple sewing, garment making, and millinery.

2. Dairy Clubs—To economically increase milk production per cow.

3. Pig Clubs—To demonstrate the desirable methods of caring for and feeding pigs for home use and to a limited extent for market.

4. Poultry—To demonstrate the best methods of caring for the farm flock. To show the value of standard birds over scrub stock and to encourage members to realize the commercial advantages found by the location of our County and State.

5. Corn Clubs—To secure club members who will raise their corn economically, and to give training in corn judging to club members.

6. Potato Clubs—To demonstrate the value of commercial fertilizer in the growing of potatoes.

Tomato and canning clubs will be organized in communities where members are interested in these projects.

TALK ON FERTILIZERS

Director Sidney B. Haskell, of the Massachusetts Agricultural Experiment Station, has been secured to address the Ag Club this Thursday evening at 6:45, in Wolf Hall. His subject will be, "The New Synthetic Fertilizers." Director Haskell will show moving pictures of the process of manufacture of these materials from the air and will discuss their use.

Many countries are now attempting to develop large factories using these processes which will produce fertilizers for peace time use, but which can be immediately turned to the production of munitions in case of war.

The meeting is open to the public, without charge. The Chemical Club has been invited to attend and any others interested in either the use of fertilizers or the methods of manufacture are cordially invited to be there.

MEN'S LEAGUE

The Methodist Men's League held their regular monthly meeting last night. A very unique and odd program was arranged and directed by its president, Mr. Francis Lindell, being to forget that they were grown-ups and acted "just like kids," which was very laughable and enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served. Arrangements are being made by the League for a ladies' night in the near future.

Educational Conference

An educational conference on social work and community problems will be held in the Hotel du Pont-Biltmore, Wilmington, on Thursday and Friday, February 16 and 17, under the auspices of the Professional Social Workers Club of Delaware. Some of the most outstanding leaders in the country will come to Wilmington for this conference in order to give Delaware men and women the latest information concerning this very necessary character of work. Two thousand invitations to members of various social and welfare organizations throughout Delaware have been issued in the hope that those interested in the work, not only in Wilmington, but in Newark, Middletown, Smyrna, Dover, Milford, Seaford and other places will attend some of the conferences and hear at first hand what is being done to promote these agencies successfully and the splendid work being accomplished.

The conference will begin on Thursday morning, February 16th, registrations being in charge of Mrs. Emma S. Jackson, superintendent of the Delaware Industrial School for Girls. C. B. Root, executive secretary of the Community Service will preside and the address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor George W. K. Forrest. Miss B. Ethelda Mullen, general secretary of the Associated Charities, will be chairman of the session and Karl deSchweinitz, general secretary of the Family Society, of Philadelphia, will speak on "New Tools for Leisure."

The session from 11 to 12 on Thursday morning will have Mrs. Roberta C. Williams, executive secretary of the Traveler's Aid Society as chairman and Miss Harriett E. Anderson, director of field work, National Association of Traveler's Aid Society, will make an address on "The Transients and Non-residents." This session will be followed by group luncheons.

The session on Thursday afternoon will begin with the Children's Group, Miss Mildred Terrett, director of the Children's Bureau, chairman. "The Community's Responsibility for Child Care" will be the subject on which Miss Mary S. Labaree, director of the Bureau of Children, State Department of Welfare for Pennsylvania, will speak. From 3:30 to 4:30, Dr. David A. Ward, superintendent Wilmington Public Schools, will have charge and the subject to be discussed by Miss Anna Pratt of the White Williams' Foundation of Philadelphia will be "Relation of School to Social Work." The latter part of the afternoon will be given over to an informal reception and tea presided over by Mrs. William S. Berglund.

The conference dinner will open at 6:30 p. m., when Dr. Haven Emerson, director of Public Health Administration of Columbia University, New York, will be the main speaker, his subject being "Health." The Friday morning session, opening at 10 o'clock, will be in charge of John P. Nields, chairman of Community Service. "The Challenge of Youth" will be the subject on which Eugene Lies, field representative of Playground and Recreation Association of America will speak. The second hour of the morning session will be in charge of Miss Mary Griggs, executive secretary of the Mother's Pension Commission. Dr. Nelson Antrim Crawford, director of information of the United States Department of Agriculture will speak on "The Farmer Looks at Social Work." This will be followed by the conference luncheon at which Rabbi Louis Wolsey, of the congregation Rodef Shalom of Philadelphia will speak.

At the afternoon session on Friday, Dr. Ezra B. Crooks, president of the Consumers League of Delaware, will be the chairman and Dr. A. J. Muste, of the Brookwood Labor College, Katonah, New York, will speak on "Industry." The closing hour of the conference will be in charge of Mrs. Emma S. Jackson and the speaker will be Dr. Calvin Derrick, superintendent of the State Training School for Boys, Jamestown, N. J., whose subject will be "The Problems of the Problem Youth."

Officers of the Professional Social Workers Club are: President, Dr. Seth Marjorie Farp; president, Dr. Seth Hurdle, and Miss Martha Trace, vice-presidents; Miss Frantz Clark, secretary; Mrs. Ella P. Nesbit, treasurer. The conference committee comprises, C. B. Root, general chairman and publicity; Miss Marguerite H. Burnett, exhibits; Miss Mary L. Cook, music; Charles A. D. A. R. BOARD MEETING

Mrs. J. Pearce Cann, State Regent, D. A. R., has called a meeting of the executive board of the association to meet tomorrow, Thursday afternoon, at "Woodsedge," the summer home of Mrs. Charles I. Kent, at Claymont. The purpose of the meeting is to arrange for the State Conference which will be held in February.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

We quote from a copy of "Harper's," year, 1872: "The Library of Congress, at the expiration of fifty years from its original organization, contained only 50,000 volumes, and it was a matter of regret, publicly expressed in Congress, that there was not one branch of liberal study, even among those of greatest interest to our legislators, in which it was not miserably deficient."

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

PLEA FOR TREATMENT

Newark, Delaware.
Jan. 16, 1928.

Editor, Newark Post.

Sir: Can you tell me why the pupils of the Newark public schools are not having the advantage of the toxin-antitoxin treatment for diphtheria, as are the children in the other schools through the State?

I understand that the treatments are given free, but must be given through the schools, and that the representative of the State Board of Health does not work in the homes, but will treat children under school age.

We hope the State Board will not put off the work in Newark until it is too late, for there are some parents that are anxious for their children to receive the treatment, and there is no compulsion, I understand, if they do not want it done.

Anxiously,

A Parent.

New Saving System

their children's savings. In order to draw money, a check must be signed by the child and its teacher.

As the system had not been completely installed in all four schools by last night, tabulated records of deposits are not available today. Next week the amounts and percentages of deposits will be published. Prizes will be awarded grades having the highest percentages of deposits among their members.

Professor Brinser, superintendent of Newark Schools, in commenting on the Savings System had the following to say:

"Franklin's Birthday is celebrated in a way to do real honor to the patron saint of Thrift."

"The anniversary of the birth of Franklin has been very fittingly selected as the time of year to call special attention to thrift. Since progress in the accumulation of those things which are of real worth such accumulation must necessarily be guarded with the habits of perennial vigilance. The actual teaching of the saving of money and making personal budgets is so closely related with happiness and the insurance that each one will be the better able to carry his or her own economic responsibility that the public schools have taken advantage of the great opportunity and allied such studies as arithmetic and economics with the practical work of actually doing the thing which is taught."

Colors in foods add attractiveness to a meal. Green or other bright fruits and vegetables, egg yolk, yellow cheese, browned meats or bread or cake crusts, are all examples of appetizing colorful foods.

News Letter Notes

There is much good food for thought in the News Letter No. 4, issued by the Vocational Division of the State Department of Public Instruction, of which Professor R. W. Heim is director. This challenge to vocational teachers is reprinted from the Michigan News Letter.

Do You Qualify, Vocational Teachers?

"Good order.—Without a certain measure of order in the school, good teaching is impossible; but good teaching will go farther than any one thing toward securing good order.

Not a janitor.—It is not the teacher's business to build the fires and sweep the house; but if the janitor fails to do his duty every teacher should feel obligated to put their classroom in perfect condition.

The student.—It is not the nature of a healthy child to keep still, and you have no business to require it to be so. Attractive to your pupils, try some work and fresh air, and it will keep still enough for all practical purposes.

Study as a punishment.—If you want to make study detestable to your students assign it as a punishment for misconduct. Opportunity rooms will become pest holes if the common practice of keeping the student to make up work is continued.

Hard work.—If you have not a capacity for hard work become a blacksmith, stone mason, garage mechanic, or something of this kind; but stay out of the teacher's calling. It is the last place in the world for drones and idlers.

A first-rate teacher.—An idea is prevalent that you can take almost anybody, and by stuffing him a little school administration, science of education, psychology, and subject matter, turn him out in a year or so, a first-rate teacher or superintendent. The fact is that you must have a first-rate man or woman to start with, and then by proper training you may expect in time to turn out a first-rate teacher.

Close attention and application.—The school work that does not train pupils to give close attention and application is open to just a severe censure.

Self-control.—If the government of the school does not lead the pupil to self-control and give real strength to his character, it has failed in its most essential object.

Too many don'ts.—Do not hedge your students in with don'ts. They need to be manly and womanly and to be so, they must do. Manliness and womanliness are positive and not negative qualities.

The imaginary school is always easily managed. It is the real school that gives the trouble.

If you are not able to make study attractive to your pupils, try some other business. Your blundering will do less harm anywhere else than in the school.

The success of the school depends more upon the teacher than upon the appliances. A fine school house well supplied with everything to facilitate school work is greatly to be desired and something to be proud of; but if the money to be invested is not enough to secure these appliances and a teacher, better make sure of the teacher. It will prove the more profitable investment.

The pupil's conduct.—No other test of the teacher's work is as thorough and searching as the pupil's conduct—what he is, does, and thinks—after he has gone out from under the teacher's hand.

The first and most important qualification of the teacher is character; after that culture and knowledge. If teachers were earnest, honest, and faithful, we might, with a good degree of confidence, leave our school interests in their hands, knowing that they will supply every deficiency and bring the work up to something near what it should be.

Remember that words do not always call up the same pictures in the mind of him who hears them as exists in the mind of him who speaks them. Students often get the word of the teacher or book without getting the corresponding idea.

If you try to please everybody you are quite likely to please nobody. The safest course is to determine, as nearly as you can, what is right and to do that without stopping to inquire whom it will please or displease.

The artist and the teacher.—The work of the artist is said to be immortal, yet it is but as a passing cloud—shadow as compared with the work which the teacher does. When the marble that has taken shape under the artist's chisel shall have crumbled to dust and the canvas which has been touched by the master's brush and made to bring forth the creation of his mind shall have fallen to shreds, the soul which has taken form under the guidance of the teacher's hand and bearing upon it the fadeless pictures which he has painted, will still be young with an eternity before it for intensifying the form it bears and deepening the colors it has received, be the form what it may or of whatever hue the colors. Is it safe or right to commit a work so endearing in its results, to the hands of a bungler or an ignorant person who has no thought of its importance or knowledge of the direful results that must follow any mistaken course of procedure?

Vocational agricultural teachers.—Let us prepare as never before to do the gigantic task of preparing students to be farmers. It is our job. We can do it if we are better teachers, better students, and better citizens. We can not make a better farmer by sending him bulletins or culling their chickens. We can do it by creating a desire within the farmer to do these things for himself."

—Michigan News Letter.

And from the Tennessee Educational Bulletin comes this code of ethics for the teaching profession: To think of the business of teaching as a life work. To affiliate with professional organizations—local, state and national. To be loyal to superiors. To become familiar with school law. To avoid professional jealousies. To take a personal interest in the progress of each pupil. To leave the child with a desire to know more. To discipline through good comradeship. To avoid misunderstanding through cooperation with the parents. To give the best service possible without the stimulus of the dollar. Not to criticize co-workers or predecessors in the presence of pupils or patrons. Not to "talk shop" in the presence of strangers. To seek new educational theories and adopt those of proved value. To be willing to give to others the benefits of investigations and experiences. Not to resign without the consent of the board, unless the contract provided for release upon proper notice. To organize and leave for the incoming teacher such information, data, and facts as are needed for the opening of the school year without loss or delay.

Let us prepare as never before to do the gigantic task of preparing students to be farmers. It is our job. We can do it if we are better teachers, better students, and better citizens. We can not make a better farmer by sending him bulletins or culling their chickens. We can do it by creating a desire within the farmer to do these things for himself."

THE SICK

Jackie, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. David Hubbard, is in the Homeopathic Hospital in Wilmington, suffering with mastoid trouble. It had not been decided this morning whether or not an operation would be necessary.

Mrs. W. H. Benson, who lives on the Lincoln Highway, was taken yesterday in the Newark ambulance to the Homeopathic Hospital in Wilmington for treatment. Corbit Crompton drove the ambulance.

Robert, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wollaston, has a light case of scarlet fever. Frederick, another son, is ill with mumps.

Mrs. Jennie Campbell is ill with La Grippe.

Clarence Richards, Jr., of Delaware avenue, is ill with mumps.

The Monday afternoon informal meeting of the Newark New Century Club was in charge of Mrs. R. W. Heim, and was well attended. Mrs. Heim gave a delightful account of the two trips which she took to the West Coast in July and December of this year. Mrs. Heim and her committee, Mrs. Ralph Dinamore, Mrs. C. A. McCue and Mrs. George W. Rhodes served refreshments of fruit salad, sandwiches and coffee.

The first meeting of the New Century Club Choral Society met at the club house just before the meeting of the club. Mrs. Duffy was in charge and Miss Nell Wilson accompanied the singing. A second meeting of the society will be held next Monday at two o'clock.

Honorable Robert G. Houston, Congressman from Delaware, will address the Club next Monday afternoon on the subject, "Episodes in Delaware History". The meeting is in charge of Mrs. K. G. Whittemore.

Husbands of club members and other men who are interested in Delaware history are invited to hear Mr. Houston.

Members are urged to bring their year books to the meeting on Monday in order to revise the membership list, when the roll is called.

—Secretary.

P-T. A. MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Newark Parent-Teacher Association was held last night in the school auditorium. Mr. Burton Fowler, headmaster of the Tower Hill School, Wilmington, was the speaker.

The opening note of Mr. Fowler's address was, "That minds are like parachutes; more useful when open." He particularly emphasized mastery of all things; that both the teachers and parents should know their pupils and children, their idiosyncracies, capabilities and deficiencies. Mr. Fowler illustrated his talk with pictures taken in the Tower Hill School.

He spoke of the element of doing by the child, in which the child actually gives the part of the subject studied before going into the deeper study of it. By this method the child grows more easily and rapidly in an intellectual sense. Mr. Fowler closed by stating that, "Intellectual guidance is the school's most sacred task."

COTTAGE PRAYER MEETINGS

A series of cottage prayer meetings will be held this week in preparation for the evangelistic services which will begin at the Presbyterian Church on January 24. The meetings on Thursday evening will be held at the home of Mrs. Henry Smith, on South College avenue, and of Miss Naudain, on East Main street; on Friday evening at the home of Mr. George Potts, on Cleveland avenue, and at the Manse, on West Main street. The hour of these services is 7-8.

Reverend John D. Lindsay, of Findlay, Ohio, who will conduct the evangelistic services, is a graduate of Lafayette College and of Princeton Theological Seminary.

that usually affects children, but occasionally adults have them.

"2. It is spread by direct contact. The discharges from the mouth are the most dangerous when a child is taking the mumps before he has any swelling.

"3. The mumps affect the salivary gland and usually the parotid gland is the one most affected. It is usually recognized by swelling at the back of the jaw. This swelling usually pushes the lobe of the ear forward a little. The swelling is accompanied by a little drowsiness and fever, usually the fever is not high and the child not very sick.

"4. One attack usually confers immunity on the child against further attacks.

"5. Dangers: The dangers are few, most cases of mumps last about seven to ten days and all the swelling disappears, but if not properly cared for it may cause nephritis and orchitis and oviditis.

"6. It is not necessary for a child to have mumps if the proper precautions are taken.

"In order to stop the spread of mumps we need the co-operation of the parents, the teachers, the physicians and Board of Health.

"7. What to do? If a child in your family has any symptoms of mumps, call your physician and see if he does have the mumps. He will tell you what to do and will report it to the Board of Health and keep the other children that have not had mumps home from school.

"Teachers if they notice any children sick in school will please call the Board of Health or send the child home.

"The parents that do not have a physician will please call the Board of Health.

Rothrock To Teach Course In Coaching

Announced At Athletic Council Meeting; Swimming And Baseball Dates

At a meeting of the Athletic Council of Delaware College, held Monday night, Dr. A. S. Eastman, president of the Council, announced that Joseph Rothrock, head coach and director of physical training, would give a course in coaching to seniors. This course, which is an experiment, and has not been, as yet, approved by the faculty, will start at the beginning of next term.

Dr. Eastman also announced that the annual athletic banquet will be held this year on the evening of March 9 and the speaker will be Dr. J. F. Williams, of Columbia University. It is possible that the new swimming pool will be opened that evening following the banquet with a meet between the Delaware team and some team yet to be scheduled.

Graduate Manager Doherty reported the following swimming meets all for away from home have been scheduled: February 4, Rutgers; 10, Lafayette; 11, Lehigh. March 10, Catholic University.

The graduate manager also announced that dual meets in track had been scheduled with Haverford, St. Joseph's, Swarthmore and Union Colleges and that probably one or two other meets will be scheduled. Delaware will send a track team to the Penn relays and the Middle States meet which will be held this year at Haverford.

Baseball Dates Approved

The following baseball schedule reported by Graduate Manager Doherty was approved: April 18, Philadelphia College of Osteopathy at Newark; 21, Drexel at Newark; 24, Union College at Newark; 26, Hampden-Sydney at Newark; 28, Swarthmore at Swarthmore. May 2, open for home game; 4, Haverford at Haverford; 8, St. John's at Annapolis; 9, Catholic University at Washington; 10, Mt. St. Mary's, at Emmitsburg, Md.; 12, St. John's at Newark; 16, open to be played at home; 19, Ursinus at Newark; 24, open to be scheduled away; 25, City College of New York at New York. June 5, Alumni at Newark.

NEWARK S. C. TO PLAY FORT DuPONT, FRIDAY

Strong Soldier 5 to Perform In Newark Army; Sporting Club Downs

Cecilton, 40-30

The Newark Sporting Club will bring big-time basketball to Newark on Thursday night, when they will oppose the strong Fort DuPont team in the Newark Army. The soldiers have already a string of victories, while the Sporting Club quintet has lost one game to the Polish Falcons, and won one from Cecilton. The Cecilton game, played last Friday, was decided by a score of 40 to 30. Bland was scoring star for Newark with 12 points, while Manlove and Davis divided honors for Cecilton with 10 points each. CHALMERS HIGH MAN

In a basketball game played in Wilmington, last week, between Tome Institute and Goldie College, "Shorty" Chalmers, former Newark High School star and outstanding athlete at Tome Institute, was high scoring player with 9 points to his credit. Tome won the game, 20 to 14.

The Del-Mar-Va Peninsula last year shipped 4,000 carlots of strawberries to 15 States, the District of Columbia and Canada. 2,653 carlots were shipped by fast freight and express, 1138 by automobile truck and 209 by boat. The total shipment was 28,672,000 quarts surpassing all States in strawberry production except Maryland, a greater portion of which was produced on the Eastern Shore. In acres devoted to strawberries, Del-Mar-Va surpasses the nearest State by 2,550 acres.

9th Grade Wins from 8th Grade, 19 to 11

The ninth grade of the Newark Schools defeated the eighth grade in an interclass basketball game, played last Friday afternoon. The score was 19 to 11. Durnall was the offensive star of the game, scoring 6 goals from the field and a foul for the ninth graders. Willis, with 7 points to his credit, was high man for the eighth grade. Score:

Newark Drops Two Games To New Castle

Boys Lose, 39-13; Girls, 18-15, In Opening D. I. A. A. Schedule

The Newark High School basketball teams got off to a bad start, Friday night, in their opening games on the D. I. A. A. schedule. They journeyed to New Castle, where the boys' team was overwhelmed by a score of 39 to 13, and the girls lost a close game 18 to 15.

The Newark boys, lacking experience and shooting accuracy, put up a fast game, but were bewildered by the shooting and floorwork of the New Castle veterans. King and Bridgewater did most of the offensive execution for New Castle, getting 15 and 12 points, respectively. Holloway was high man for Newark with 5 points to his credit.

The Newark girls showed a lack of form over last year's standard, but played a good game. Pauline Robinson accounted for 11 of Newark's tallies. Scores:

The size of the back-yard poultry flock which can be most efficiently kept will depend upon the space available and the amount of table scraps or other waste available for feed. It is a mistake to overstock the available space. For a flock of 20 to 25 hens a yard space of not less than 25 by 30 feet will be required. Where less space is available the size of the flock should be reduced, allowing on the average 20 to 30 square feet per bird.

Delaware Loses Close Contest To St. Johns

Personal Fouls Give Annapolis Cagemen 41 To 39 Victory; Jay Vee's Smothered By Rutgers, 52-16

Delaware opened the new addition to the gymnasium to athletic contests, last Friday night by losing two basketball games. The Varsity dropped one to St. John's by the close margin of 41 to 39, and the Jay Vees lost all the way to Rutgers Prep by a score of 52 to 16.

Harris, Delaware guard who had chalked up more points than any of his teammates, was penalized two fouls and banished in the last part of the second half for talking back to the referee, and St. John's made these two penalties count for the winning tallies.

Delaware showed some good basketball in the St. John's game. Trailing 23 to 18 at the end of the half, the Blue and Gold came back with a determined rally in the second half that evened the score and seemed on the way to win the game. Harris and Hill were the offensive stars, making 12 and 9 points, respectively. The game was rough and Harris was the butt of some robust handling on the part of the St. John's defense. When he retaliated he was penalized and his strenuous protest sent him to the showers.

McCart, St. John's forward, was the star of the game, with 7 field goals and 6 fouls for a total of 20 points. Score:

A VERY IMPORTANT WORD

Ability is a big word and we are always talking about it—always talking about our ability.

Ability accomplishes many things and often accomplishes the wrong thing.

Just place before this word, "ability" the syllables "depend," and you have the biggest word that I can think of in Service—dependability.

In any line of human activity, dependability, of integrity, intelligence, or industry, is the first thing that you want to know about a man.

A man of dependability will not cheat, lie, steal, or slack. Neither will such a man destroy your confidence.

If I were looking around for a big compliment to hand a man, and he deserved it, I would stop looking and simply use this word "dependability."

ARTISTS AND ENGRAVERS

Great exhibits of the arts and industries are often as fascinating to the general public as to the experts whose interest is founded on detailed knowledge. When a motor show or an art exhibition closes, the workers in that field carry away much that may prove helpful to them. The desire for a permanent display, to be consulted at any time, has been fulfilled in one line at least—the photo-engraving. Members of the American Photo-Engravers' Association show their work, not in a gallery, but in a large, beautifully bound book, weighing at least ten pounds and representing about 8,000 persons.

"Achievement" brings together the best things that have been done in photo-engraving up to the present time. Its articles on the technical processes involved will doubtless interest artists, engravers and printers, for they are written by men who are engaged in doing the things of which they have written. The hundreds of illustrations are a revelation of what has been accomplished in the reproduction of art. Two hundred and thirty-five different establishments in this country, Canada, England, France and Germany, printed the pictures using every kind of modern press. A great variety of paper—coated, gloss, mat, pebbled, and many more—and many subjects, some in black and white and others in several colors, make the book attractive to any one who enjoys looking at pictures, no matter how limited his knowledge of the methods of reproduction.

INCREASE LAYING WITH LARGER HOPPER SPACE

An important feature in feeding egg mash to your hens is to supply plenty of hopper space so that all the hens can eat the mash freely. If more attention were given to the hopper space it would mean in a great many instances a 10 to 25 per cent increase in the production of the flock.

One small three-foot hopper is often considered large enough to accommodate several hundred hens. What happens is that the majority of the hens find it almost impossible to eat enough of the mash to maintain themselves.

A good illustration of this particular point is an instance where one foot of hopper space was provided to every 40 hens. The hens were of exceptionally good egg production type.

U. Of D. Loses Close Game To Osteopathy

Philadelphians Make Winning Points In Last Minute; Score 34-33; Freshmen Beat Newark High 39-28

The University of Delaware lost another basketball game last night by a close margin, when the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy won from them 34 to 33, on the Delaware court. In a preliminary game, the Delaware Freshman five beat the Newark High School, 39 to 28.

The varsity game was close all the way and Delaware was leading at the last minute, when a field goal for the Philadelphians won the contest for them. The first half ended in a tie score of 18 points each. In the second

The few that were successful in getting to the mash hopper laid 250 eggs in the trap nests, but most of them laid few eggs. When proper hopper space was provided the average egg production for the flock showed an increase of over three dozen eggs per hen.

There is no cheaper investment that can be made in a poultry house from the standpoint of returns than proper mash hopper equipment so as to give the hens a practically unlimited opportunity to eat all the mash they want from the time they get off the roosts in the morning until they return at night. To provide the right feeding conditions for your hens, supply at least two running feet of hopper space for each ten hens.

With less space there is an inclination for the "boss" hens to drive the others away, or at least it will mean taking turns to get at the hopper. You will find that most of the hens will want to eat at the same time, and it should be possible for practically all of them to do so.

Merely to provide plenty of hopper space does not solve the entire problem. A good egg mash costs money so we cannot afford to have the hens waste it. By wasting feed we mean throwing it out of the hopper or getting in the hopper with their feet and soiling the feed. It would be unfair to blame the hens for faulty hopper equipment. Hens will actually waste very little feed when a good hopper is used.

The table type of hopper with the wire top keeps the hens out of the mash, keeps the mash clean and wholesome, helps to prevent fighting at the hopper and does not clog as do most of the wall hoppers.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

MRS. COOLIDGE'S

FAVORITE SALAD

Pineapple, the lusty youngster of the large and growing family of canned foods, is being used more and more in salads. Among those who recommend this delicate fruit for this purpose is Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who possesses a pineapple and cheese salad her favorite.

With such a recommendation, the recipe, as reported by Florence Stratton in "Favorite Recipes of Famous Women," must, indeed, be good, and here it is, for your approval: "Place on a lettuce leaf a slice of pineapple; cover with salad dressing; over this press through a potato sieve cream cheese. Place a preserved cherry on top."

Mrs. Coolidge's salad dressing contains six tablespoons of pineapple syrup, two level tablespoons of sugar, and butter the size of a walnut. Heat in a double boiler; add two beaten eggs and cook until it coats the spoon. When cold, add whipped cream.

Other Salads

Another salad named Yum Yum, has a recipe like this: beat two cups of crushed pineapple; add the juice of one lemon and a cup of sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Soak two tablespoons of gelatin in one-half cup cold water ten minutes. Add to hot mixture. When cool and beginning to set, add one cup grated American cheese and one-half pint cream beaten stiff. Mix thoroughly, put in mold, and leave in cold place until firm. Make a dressing by mixing two tablespoons each finely chopped celery and green peppers, one-half cup mayonnaise dressing and a few drops of onion juice. Remove salad from molds, cut in slices and serve on lettuce leaves with dressing.

Pineapple Salad Espanol: Remove seeds from green peppers and put in boiling water for one minute, drain and dry. Mix three tablespoons cream or cottage cheese with three tablespoons of drained crushed pineapple, one-fourth teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne, one stuffed olive finely chopped, and one-half pimiento chopped. Pack into the green peppers, chill, and slice.

Some Desserts

A mousse that can serve as dessert, salad, or a combination of both contains mayonnaise. Soften one teaspoon gelatin in one tablespoon water and dissolve over boiling water. Thoroughly drain one cup crushed or grated pineapple, and add one-half cup diced oranges, one cup very thick mayonnaise, two cups whipped cream, and the dissolved gelatin. When well mixed, pour into a mold, cover tightly, and pack in equal parts of ice and salt for four hours. Serve on lettuce with additional mayonnaise if desired.

Pineapple tid-bits come all ready to use in just the sizes that one would cut sliced pineapple into for salads, so there is a real saving of time in their use. A pineapple and chicken combination uses one cup drained pineapple tid-bits, two cups diced cooked chicken, three-fourths cup diced celery, one-third cup mayonnaise dressing. These ingredients are mixed, and arranged in lettuce cups. About a cup of mayonnaise is poured over the salads.

Salads Again

For a sweet salad glazed pineapple, which is so much used as a confection is delicious and unusual. To glaze pineapple boil two cups sugar, one cup water and one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar without stirring to the crack stage (300° F.). Keep hot over hot water while dripping the pineapple. Cut the pineapple in convenient sized wedges for serving and drain well—for several hours. Then dip a few at a time in the syrup and remove to oiled paper to dry. A salad can be made of one cup glazed pineapple, one-half cup quartered marshmallows, three-fourths cup pecans, and one-half cup diced apples. Mix with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

A New Salad

To surprise the family with some new salad and one which they will like, there is this pineapple surprise: combine one and one-half cakes cream cheese, two tablespoons cream, one-fourth teaspoon salt, dash paprika and pepper, three drops onion juice. Beat with fork until stiff and creamy. Clean ten celery stalks and cut five inches long; fill the cavity of each with some of the cream cheese mixture. Chill for two hours, then cut into one-half inch pieces. Combine pineapple tid-bits and stuffed celery and moisten with one-fourth cup of cooked pineapple dressing. Arrange on a bed of crisp lettuce.

The cooked dressing recipe is: beat four egg yolks, add one-eighth teaspoon of salt, two tablespoons of powdered sugar, one cup of pineapple syrup. Cook in top of double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture begins to thicken and coats a silver spoon. Add one teaspoon lemon juice, blend well and remove from heat. Chill and add one cup of cream, beaten stiff.

DELICIOUS ORANGE CREAM PIE

Make the following filling for a baked crust: Mix together 1 cupful of sugar and 2 tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, then stir in gradually 1/2 of a cupful of cold water to make a smooth paste. Add 1 cupful of boiling water and cook for three minutes, stirring all the while, then the yolks of 3 eggs that have been well-beaten. Remove from fire and add the juice of 3 oranges. Pour the custard into the baked crust and when the top is slightly cooled cover with a meringue made from the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs and 4 tablespoonfuls of sugar with which has been mixed 1/4 of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Bake in a slow oven until the top is delicately browned. Serve very cold.

This pie filling is also delicious between layers of cake. A nice icing for such a cake may be made by heating 3 tablespoonfuls of orange juice and 1 teaspoonful of lemon juice, just enough to melt 1 tablespoonful of butter. Add the grated rind of the orange and enough confectioner's sugar to make the mixture of good spreading consistency. Any which is left over may be spread between thin crackers to make a surprise dainty for a lunch box.

OVERFEEDING PETS

Everyone is moved to sympathy by the sight of a poor starved cat or dog. We call it cruelty. We blame the person who is responsible for such a thing. We take the animals into our houses, if we can, and we feed them and give them shelter and love.

There is another side to this question. Have you noticed the cats and dogs which belong to the very rich? Often they are so fat, and unhealthy fat that they can only just waddle along! I hate to see an overfed animal. The poor creature is not happy by so much pampering. He would be better off if allowed to rustle for himself a little. He is led on a chain (if he is a dog) and it is all he can do to keep up with his mistress. He is so lazy that he no longer runs after other dogs to have a good game with them.

An overfed dog is a disgusting sight. The dog is not happy. He is so stuffed that he no longer enjoys a meal.

The overfed dog has not a nice coat. It is not silky. He looks unhealthy. He is cross and snappish. Poor animal! You cannot blame him. It is his mistress who is to blame. I say "his mistress" because it is generally women who overfeed dogs. I have heard a man say: "Do not give that dog any more to eat today," and the minute the man's back was turned, the woman, sorry for her dog, gave it more!

A child is sick when he eats too much. A dog is sick, too. Why make your pet miserable? If you do this it is because you want to please yourself and you do not really care how the poor dog feels.

But he takes it, you say. Well, how can he help it? Would not your child take all the candy you offered him, and would it do him any good? You cannot expect a child to refuse candy. Nor can you expect a dog to refuse food if it tastes extra good.

Once when I lived on a farm where pigs were killed frequently the dog would get too much, though I tried not to let him have it all at once. He ate too much, of course, the first day, but the second day he buried what was over, to keep for a rainy day!

Lap-dogs kept much in the house do not have anywhere nor any chance to bury their food. Sometimes the food is too sloppy; they cannot carry a plate away and bury it with all that is on it. They hate to leave it there for the cat, so they often eat it and suffer for this afterwards.

There are many books about dogs. People who keep dogs and cats should get these books and then use common sense when feeding their pets. Children should not be allowed to give a bite now and then to each animal. Children should be taught how to care for their pets in a sensible manner. From the office of "Our Dumb Animals" may be obtained leaflets telling how to care for the dog and the cat and the rabbit.

Fasting may sometimes do good to man and animal, but overeating never does any good to either. So, do not overfeed your pets. It is not kindness. It is real cruelty!—Mrs. Nestor Noel, in "Our Dumb Animals."

"Whitman's 'Leaves of Grass' was a book of singular service, a book which tumbled the world upside down for me, blew into space a thousand cobwebs of genteel and ethical illusion, and, having thus shaken my tabernacle of lies, set me back again upon a strong foundation of all the original and manly virtues."

The Automobile of 1928

One came away from the automobile show convinced that the luxuries and superfluities of yesterday have become the motor-car necessities of today. Mass production has been a marvelous leveler. Refinements of body and mechanism that once distinguished the millionaire's car are found on every hand.

Time was when we asked no more of an automobile than the ability to "get there." Now it must please the eye as well. So we find the car of 1928 more graceful than it predeceesors, largely because it is lower and longer. To reduce height and secure a finer horizontal sweep of line tires are smaller in diameter, frames lie nearer the ground, passengers sit lower. Yet there has been no sacrifice in comfort. Quick-drying pyroxylin lacquers are responsible for a remarkable range of color schemes. There is more "bright work," as they say in the navy. But what appears to be nickel is in reality chromium plating which is easily cleaned. Fenders, bumpers, running-boards, radiators, lamps—all are nicely proportioned and placed to secure artistic symmetry. Shock absorbers, once an "extra," are incorporated as a matter of course to assure easy riding. Windows are larger, and pillars have been refined to avoid "blind spots" and make driving safer. Windshield wipers are generally provided, perhaps because of the laws that make clear vision compulsory. Still, it is worth noting that the maker of the cheapest car has gone so far as to use only non-shatterable glass in the interest of safety.

In 1910 only 10 per cent of our automobiles had closed bodies. Now the proportion is 80 per cent. Yet such is the delight of riding in the open on a Summer day that practically every manufacturer exhibited a four-passenger convertible car with two seats in the open and two under cover. Here we have evidence enough that the automobile of the future will probably be a five-passenger closed convertible with the present cabriolet as its prototype.

The most striking mechanical improvements are naturally found in the engine. Eight cylinders predominate. Not on this account are seventy-five miles readily achieved on the road, but rather on account of higher compressions and speeds even in four-cylinder motors. These steadily increasing compressions clearly foreshadow the development of a Diesel engine for automobiles and the ultimate substitution of oil for gasoline. To suppress the increased vibration and noise that inevitably accompany higher engine speeds the car of 1928 is distinguished by skillful designing of crankshafts, pistons and valves. Nearly all engines are now mounted on four instead of three points, with a liberal use of rubber blocks.

Higher road speeds necessarily imply a higher factor of safety. Hence four-wheel brakes are now the rule. One manufacturer goes so far as to adopt the vacuum brake. Is this perhaps the forerunner of an automobile airbrake? To reduce the tendency to capsize at high speed the centre of gravity is low. Only the blinding headlight still remains, and this is now receiving the scientific consideration of the Bureau of Standards at the request of the automobile industry, with the prospect that the greatest menace of night driving will soon be but a memory.

To the engineer the automobile of today is an integrated, mechanical whole. In other words, even slight changes in body lines, chassis and engine affect the design of every other part. This is as it should be. For it is evidence that esthetics and engineering have joined hands.—N. Y. Times.

Proper Response to Request for Kiss

One of the best demonstrations of child training in health was witnessed by Mrs. Helen McKinley, State Home Demonstration Leader, in her travels over the state when, at a club meeting, a little three year old girl, who was accompanying her mother, was asked by a friend of the mother for a kiss.

"Have you got a cold?" inquired the little miss before bestowing the favor? "While this was amusing at the time, it certainly showed that this child was being taught to protect its most priceless possession—health," says Mrs. McKinley. It also showed that it is learning at an early age what many adults do not know or regard as important.

"Many children are the victims of improper health practices through the ignorance or carelessness of the parents. Not that parents don't care—no indeed—they just don't think. Mothers are the guardians of their children's health and as such should see that they have proper foods for growth, healthy clothing and are taught just such simple health practices as the one illustrated above."

Mrs. McKinley is preparing to demonstrate to groups of women throughout the state proper practices of health conservation along these lines.

A kind-hearted motorist, coming abreast of a heavily laden woman, offered to give her a lift to the town. It was her first ride in an automobile, and, as he put on speed, he was amused to hear her exclaim: "My, but hasn't the wind come up suddenly!"

If it be complained that colleges are not creating brilliant original thinkers, let it be remembered that every student brings his own mind with him, and takes it away with him. The college can present to the student the known facts of science, and the conflicting theories in the field of inexact science. It cannot accurately apply these to life, because real life with the student is yet to come, and that problem is his own. The worst injury the college can do to a student is to instill in him an unwarranted sense of intellectual superiority and a chronically critical attitude toward his fellows, and toward institutions, beliefs and ideals which constitute our social heritage, with no real comprehension of its values.

County Farm Bureau

Changes in demand for some farm products, (3) Shifts and adjustments in agricultural production, (4) Failure of marketing, processing, and distributing costs to decline, (5) Failure of farm expenses and living costs to decline as have prices of farm products. The problems needing attention, as brought out by the speaker in his talk, are, the agricultural surpluses, land policies in relation to agriculture, taxation, transportation, agricultural credit, immigration, tariff, agricultural co-operation, and national agricultural legislation.

Following this talk by the head of the agricultural college, the executive committee voted to hold their next meeting in Newark on January 27, at 1.00 p. m.

About forty farmers from all over the county gathered to attend the annual meeting of the New Castle County Farm Bureau which was held in Wilmington yesterday.

The all-day session was opened at 10.30 by H. C. Milliken, President, of Coeh. In his annual address Mr. Milliken said in part: "We are glad to see and welcome the Farm Bureau members this morning. The number in attendance here indicates in proportion the interest which the farmers have in their organization. Let us endeavor to get the most out of this organization, which is the mouthpiece of organized agriculture in the United States. Although the New Castle County Farm Bureau has not been affiliated with the National group this year, I believe that is one of the strongest points which we should advance in favor of any agricultural organization. The American Farm Bureau has been doing things of general good to all of the farmers in this country. Its legislative endeavors have been helpful in securing proper legislation and in stopping the enactment of laws that would hinder the agricultural interests of the country. The county unit which we represent here today has been active in furthering the extension work in the county, as well as aiding in a financial way the farmers of the county. Through the efforts of the Farm Bureau a certified seed potato pool was again used last spring and potatoes were secured for the members. Feed, seed and fertilizer sales to the members in the county, sold through the efforts of the Farm Bureau solicitors, would no doubt, if all were totaled, show a considerable saving to the farmers purchasing these articles. Besides this, the feed purchased through this organization is, we believe, of a better quality than is offered generally on the market." In concluding his talk, the president indicated that the incoming officers would decide whether or not a membership campaign for the coming year would be put on.

Acting County Agent and Club Agent Ed Willim, Jr., gave a summary of the extension work conducted in the county during the past year. He said, "We have had several good demonstrations of various projects in the county this year. Noted among these are the certified seed potato demonstrations which have undoubtedly proved the value of certified seed over the use of home grown or second generation seed. The average increase per acre," stated Mr. Willim, "by the use of certified seed over second generation seed was 105 bushels. Another project which has borne fruit in the county was the alfalfa campaign conducted last fall by the Extension Service in the county. Over 900 acres of alfalfa were seeded last fall. The use of alfalfa as a supplemental feed in the dairy ration has saved the dairymen considerable money on his feed bills the past year. We hope that the acreage of alfalfa planted during the coming year will increase in like proportion. The Extension Agents," continued Mr. Willim, "have often been criticised along the line that they have been talking increased production when the market was already well supplied. Along this line the County Extension Agents are trying to put over the idea of economic production. If we can convince a farmer that he can raise 300 or 400 bushels of potatoes on one acre instead of the customary yield of about 100 to 150 bushels, then the other acreage can be utilized in some other manner and the cost of tending the crop would be cut down from cultivating and other work done to that one acre. When we speak of economic production we mean production at a lower cost to the farmer."

In talking of the club work in the county the Club Agent stated that 350 boys and girls had been enrolled in 4-H club work during the past year. "The real problem in Club Work," continued the Agent, "is to interest more rural boys in the county in this type of Extension work. Any boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 21 is allowed and urged to join a 4-H club in the county. If any of the members here have boys or girls who are interested or know neighbors who have boys or girls of that age, wish you would please let me know and the Club Agent will try to interest these boys and girls in joining a 4-H agricultural club."

A free lunch was served to the member in the main dining room of Rodney Square Inn.

OBITUARY

MRS. MAHALA E. SENTMAN

Mrs. Mahala E. Sentman, aged 79 years, widow of M. P. Sentman, died in Wilmington, on January 13. The funeral services were held at her late residence, 826 West Fourth street, on Monday afternoon, the Rev. Harvey Ewing, of Newark, officiating. Interment was made in Head of Christiana cemetery.

Mrs. Sentman is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Priest and Mrs. Marion Gooden, and two sons, Benj. Sentman and Ernest Sentman, of Wilmington; also two sisters, Mrs. Annie E. Whann, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Martha J. Smith, of Piqua, Ohio. There are two grandchildren.

A number of relatives also reside in Newark and vicinity.

MRS. MARY J. KENNEDY

Mrs. Mary Jane Kennedy, wife of John Kennedy, died at her home in Chester on January 14. The funeral services were held in Chester on Monday and interment was made in St. John's Cemetery, near this town.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy made their home here at one time and their five daughters were born here. Mrs. Kennedy is survived by her husband, and five daughters, Mrs. Philip McMunigal, Mrs. Arthur Kerns, Mrs. Edward Dougherty, Mrs. William Curry, and Miss Nellie Kennedy.

The deceased was a sister-in-law of Mrs. James Walker, Thomas Kennedy, and Misses Margaret and Mary Kennedy, of this town.

MRS. SADIE LAWRENCE

Mrs. Sadie Lawrence died last evening at the St. Francis Hospital, Wilmington, following an operation which was performed yesterday. The funeral arrangements have not been made, but it is understood that burial will take place at Hanover, Pennsylvania.

Marshallton

The death of Mrs. Georganna Guthrie last week came as a shock to her many friends of Marshallton and vicinity. Mrs. Guthrie, the wife of John Guthrie, died after one day's illness from pneumonia. The funeral services were held from her late home on Thursday afternoon with Rev. Tilghman Smith in charge, assisted by Rev. Ivanhoe Willis, Rev. R. High Adams and Frederick Bringham.

Isaac Morrison is now said to be improved, after suffering from diseased mastoid glands for the past few weeks.

A meeting of officials of St. Barnabas' P. E. Church will be held within the next month to make plans for a parish house. The structure will be erected soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Broadbent and Miss Winifred Broadbent, of this town, and Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips, of Newport, motored to Georgetown over the week-end.

Miss Bertha Mackison and Miss Alice McDonald plan to enter the February Nurses' Training Class at the Physicians' and Surgeons' Hospital, Wilmington.

Funeral services for John Getts, one of the oldest residents of Marshallton, who died last Friday night, were held yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon from his late residence. Mr. Getts, a gardener, is survived by his wife and three daughters.

Miss Roberta Foard attended an executive meeting of the Young Peoples' Service League of the diocese on Monday evening in the Parish House of Immanuel Church, Wilmington, on Monday evening. Miss Foard is secretary of the state organization.

The new building at the Ferris Industrial School is now near completion, and will probably be in use within the next two months.

Congratulations are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Jones on the birth of a daughter recently in the Delaware Hospital. The little girl has been named Ola Bailey, for her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Edward O. Hines.

A seventh-grade history class, which had just finished studying colonial life, was on examination. One of the questions was, "Discuss city life in colonial times." One boy wrote: "There were not many cities, and what there were, were out in the country."—Indianapolis News.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

Friendship Temple No. 6, Pythian Sisters, held an interesting meeting on last Friday evening, when the Grand Chief and her staff were here on a visit for the purpose of installing the newly elected officers, which are:

Past Chief, Clara Morris; Most Excellent Chief, Mabel Hall; Most Excellent Senior, Harriet Roberts; Most Excellent Junior, Ethel Morris; Manager, Marion Wirt; M. of R. and C., Blanche Grant; M. F., Marion Dunnall; Protector, Marguerite Ramsey; Guard, Helen Mitchell; Trustees, Etta Henning, Helen Mitchell, Mattie Malcom; Social Committee, Clara Morris, Habel Hill, Mattie Malcom, Helen Whiteman, Grace Gregg; Visitation, Mabel Hill, Mattie Malcom, Roberts; Ethel Morris, Florence Leverage; Press Correspondent, Marguerite Balling.

After the business meeting the social committee took charge, giving an interesting program. At a late hour refreshments were served and everybody voted it a big night. Among the visitors were representatives from Delaware Temple No. 1, Caesar Rodney No. 3 of Wilmington, Wm. Penn Temple No. 5 of New Castle, and Puritany Temple No. 4, of Grubbs.

OPEN INSTALLATION

Ivy Castle No. 23, K. G. E., had a large turnout at their open installation last Saturday night. Many visitors and members of other lodges and high officials of the order were present. The work of a well-drilled installing team was much admired. Addresses by prominent speakers and refreshments followed the exercises.

Next Sunday, January 22, the Castle will attend services at the M. E. Church. Members meeting at the hall at 10:30 a. m., wearing caps and badges. A large turnout is expected.

AMERICAN FLAG COUNCIL TO CELEBRATE 31st ANNIVERSARY

On next Monday evening the American Flag Council No. 28 will celebrate its 31st anniversary. A special program has been arranged, including installation of officers, special music, fraternal talks and refreshments.

Invitations have been extended to all councils in Rural New Castle County and a large attendance is expected. After the routine business, visitors will be welcome.

Oseola Lodge, No. 5, held an important meeting on Monday evening after which an entertainment under the management of Ollie Leverage was put on. Among the most interesting parts was a duet by Rev. and Mrs. Disston, W. Jacobs, an address by Rev. Jacobs, solos by Masters Junior and Billy Balling, address by Irving H. Brinton, short talks by members and visiting members, after which refreshments were served.

TO CELEBRATE

MISS WORRELL'S BIRTHDAY

A number of members of the Wilmington New Century Club, with their guest of honor, Miss Emma Worrell, will journey to Women's College on Monday afternoon of next week to celebrate Miss Worrell's ninety-fourth birthday.

Last year, the Education Committee of the Club, Mrs. James Barkley, chairman, presented a library of 164 volumes to New Castle Hall, the new dormitory of Women's College, in honor of Miss Worrell. It is the intention of the committee to add ninety-four volumes to that collection on Monday.

Tea will be served to the guests in the Common Room of New Castle Hall at three-thirty. Students of that dormitory will serve.
