Football Program Hiked Up

Hens Make Move to Division I-AA

by KEVIN TRESOLINI

Citing an increasingly competitive schedule and an NCAA decision to decrease Division II financial aid allotments, the university football program has decided to make the move that has been talked about for two years. When the 1980 campaign opens Sept. 13 against West Chester in Delaware Stadium, the Blue Hens will be members of Division I-AA.

The university's Athletic Council voted earlier this week to recommend to the Trustee Committee on Physical Education, Athletics and Recreation at its April 17 meeting that the university football program be re-classified from Division II to I-AA.

Passage of the Athletic Council's recommendation is certain; Delaware also meets the NCAA guidelines for entrance into I-AA (most important of which is that the basketball team play 85 percent Division I opponents).

Currently, football is the only non-Division I men's sport at the university.

The step-up will not affect the schedule (which is fairly complete through the next five years), a prohibition on freshman playing varsity, or the present policies of financial aid based on need. The university's current 60-scholarship limit (or the equivalent amount spread over more players) will remain.

"The move to I-AA simply means that it is an effort for the University of Delaware to maintain its present program and comply with the parameters of the division as set by the NCAA," said Delaware Head Coach Tubby Raymond.

"As time progresses, we are much closer to I-AA parameters than we are to Division II. If we stayed in Division II we would have to drastically reduce our program while it would have been impossible to meet the competitiveness of the 1981, '82, and '83 schedules," he said.

While next fall's schedule includes five Division II opponents (fewer if Youngstown, the Merchant Marine Academy, or Morgan State make a talked-about switch to I-AA), the succeeding years see as many as nine Division I-A or I-AA opponents for Delaware.

With about 40 members, I-AA is one-third the size of Division II. Delaware will join in the East Region: Boston University, Bucknell, Connecticut, Lafayette, Lehigh, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Northeastern, and Rhode Island. Of those ten teams, only Connecticut, New Hampshire, and Northeastern do not appear on Delaware's schedule within the next four years.

Division I-AA, like Division II, determines its champion through post-season play-offs. However, only four teams participate instead of eight, and the first round games are not held until mid-December. Division II play-offs begin Thanksgiving weekend.

Division I-AA was created prior to the 1978 season mainly as a refuge for major colleges like Villanova, Colgate, and the Ivy League representatives. Division I-AA would then become a "super Conference" for the major conferences and independents like Penn State and Notre Dame.

The idea backfired though, and only a few schools dropped down to I-AA. Instead, the majority of the original 37 teams moved up from Division II. While Lehigh and the entire Yankee Conference opted for the classier label, Delaware Athletic Director Dave Nelson cited the possibility of I-AA not surviving and identical television and financial aid stipulations as reasons for remaining in Division II.

Two Ousted After Sexual Harassment Pattern Disclosed

by DIANE BACHA

A year-long pattern of sexual harassment was uncovered at the university last month and the two men involved in the offense have been removed from their positions, according to Mae Carter, head of the Office of Women's Affairs.

Reliable sources that asked not to be quoted said that the offense occurred in the military science department, and Colonel George Bailey, head of the department, could neither confirm nor deny the allegations. Two officers were transferred from his department in December, but he said those transfers were due to "army policy."

Carter made the announcement at a Jan. 11 President's Council meeting but has declined to give details on the situation. She said the names of the victims and offenders are confidential, and she would not specify in what department or area of the university the offense occurred.

University President E.A. Trabant knew nothing about the incident, and Vice President for Employee Relations C. Harold Brown said his office was not involved in the case. "There has been no formal response from the institution in terms of my office," Brown said.

Sources indicate that the men left the university before the university could take action against them.

A spokesman for the regional Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) headquarters in Fort Bragg, N.C. firmly denied the claim that the offenders were ROTC officers. He said two officers were transferred last month because of "military necessity and military mission," and the move "didn't have one thing to do with sexual harassment or discrimination."

The spokesman would not further specify the reasons for the transfers, saying, "I do not want to embarrass the University of Delaware, and I do not want to embarrass the U.S. government."

Carter said she received "a number of complaints" in connection with the incident. Her office worked closely with officials of the area in which the incidents occurred. Those officials, she said, acted quickly when enough data was collected to substantiate the complaints.

Carter defined sexual harassment as an unwanted sexual advance by a person who has the power to, for instance, control or affect a student's grades. She stressed

Wilmington College Student Dies Near UD Fieldhouse

An apparent heart attack took the life of a 21-year-old Wilmington College student while he was running near the Fieldhouse Friday morning, according to Security.

Richard A. Rubini of Wilmington, captain-elect of the school's baseball team, collapsed while jogging with a teammate, Security said. Doctors at the Newark Emergency room declared him dead on arrival, Newark Police reported.

"He was very amiable, very well liked as both an athlete and a student," said Mary Lou Ponsell, coordinator for the Office of Public Information at Wilmington College.

A source at the college said Rubini suffered from a congenital heart blockage. He had previously complained of chest pains, but the family physician found nothing wrong with Rubini during a Jan. 14 check-up, the source added.

WTV Returns to the Airwaves

Whether behind the camera or in front of it, students producing Winterterm Television (WTV) '80 are combining professional experience with classroom learning, and entertaining 50,000 television viewers in the process.

A staff of 86 produces all WTV's programming with a budget of only $2,000. Studio time, valued at several thousand dollars, is provided free of charge by the university's Instructional Resources Center (IEC). With limited funds, therefore, students must maximize their creative sources and imagination to be successful, said Phyllis Avolio, public relations director.

Regardless of restraints, Public Affairs Director Randy Elia sees a potential 50,000 viewers watching the show, which changes his role into a "real life" situation.

"The experience is a step beyond the traditional class at school. This is a project, on a small model, in the working world," he said.

Now in its eighth season, WTV features a magazine show entitled "Delaware Avenue" comparable to CBS's "60 Minutes" or ABC's "20-20." It began airing on Jan. 21, and will continue until Feb. 1 between 5 and 6 p.m. every weekday.

The broadcast will feature comic and dramatic sketches along with segments focusing on campus and local affairs. A 20-minute live newscast which concludes the show covers both local and national events.

For late-night viewers, WTV presents "Delavision" from 11:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. on Jan. 30.

Highlights of the program include "Station Break," a soap opera about television's rating crisis, a comedy troupe, and a profile series interviewing interesting people in the Newark area.

Planning for production and programming began in late October, when faculty advisor Walt Rykiel appointed students to head the project.

The show can be seen at the Down Under on North College Avenue, Dante's on Elkton Road, or Mr. Pizza's on Academy Street.

WTV operates only during Winter Session because the

Paula Lockheart

Lady Sings More Than Blues

by MICHAEL J. EPPOLITE

From blues and early jazz to country and boogie-woogie, Paula Lockheart's sultry voice forges powerful contemporary renditions of classic musical styles.

Lockheart who performs regularly in New York City, and the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore area, captivated about 50 people during her Bacchus performance last Thursday night.

She began her performance with "Black Magic Blues," a traditional blues song from the 1920s. Her hips slowly swayed under her sexy red dress to the subtle rhythm.

In the next number, the sound of the cornet flared as the tempo picked up. Her voice adjusted easily to the jazz hit, "The Lady is a Tramp," while she bounced her thick curly hair to the steady rhythm.

She then mixed the boogie-woogie of the 1940s with country to deliver a number called "Boogie-Woogie Country Girl."

Billed as a blues performer, Lockheart proved to be much more versatile.

"We do so many different kinds of blues — some sad, some jazzy — it's hard to label me as a blues singer," she said.

Cornet player Peter Ecklund and pianist Bob Montalto ably backed Lockheart's vocals. During a few songs, she tapped a tambourine or rubbed two sandpaper blocks together.

Lockheart sang some of her own material from her past two albums. "It's Hard to Find a Good Man in New York City," she said, was written "after I left my old man. It's a story of unrequited lust."

Another original, "The boy Got Burned," showed considerable spirit and energy.

Since "everyone seems to like commercials better than actual shows," Lockheart said she'd sing a commercial. She proceeded to present a self-penned jazzy advertisement for Carolina extra long-grain rice, explaining how "tender and nice" it tastes. The song sort of inspired me. I'll probably buy some soon.

Other songs which Lockheart delivered, much to the delight of the audience, were a brisk version of "Them There Eyes" and an emotion-shaking "Cry Me a River."

The audience applauded so loudly after the performance that the Lockheart trio came back on stage for two encores.

Tonight, the Charlottesville All-Stars, a seven-piece band from Charlottesville, Va., will close out the "Blues in Bacchus" winter session series.

that it can take many forms, and is often hard to define.

Carter said some of the women students who came to her office for advice about the incidents were referred by the department in which they occurred.

She could not specify what the complaints were or exactly how many occurred, but said there were "varying degrees" of complaints, ranging from minor ones that were hard to prove to major allegations. Through her counseling, "some (harassment incidents) were prevented, some were not," she said.

"I'll just say that it was a big pattern."

Carter said she made the announcement at the President's Council meeting because she wanted to stress that something can be done about sexual harassment. "I'm more interested in having harassment stopped rather than proving who did it."

With Monday's first broadcast, WTV '80 has changed from the ideal to the real. The first show "wasn't really that pleasing," sighs Elia. But by the end of the week, "the shows could be very tight, and result in what we have envisioned."

Unhappy Motoring?

Most drivers know that a car with three flat tires will not run very far or very well. Similarly, the University Commuter Association, currently being run by one of its four officers, is facing serious survival problems. The problems, however, are not new, and can be traced to a breakdown nearly three years ago.

It is ironic that the UCA, a student organization with a de facto membership of nearly 7,000, suffers from one of the worst cases of student apathy. Very few commuters are even aware of the organization's existence, while only slightly more make use of its Daugherty Hall facilities. To many commuters, the Student Center is the only place to spend time out of class.

The start of the UCA's downward slide may have been the closing of the Commuter House in March of 1977. The over 100 UCA members who made active use of the building were left with no meeting place for the remainder of the year. The reopening of Daugherty Hall the following Fall gave the UCA office and lounge space, but something was missing.

Many important services that could be offered to commuters, from book storage and typewriters to babysitting and a 24-hour commuter hostel, are forsaken because of budgetary limitation. A planned bookstore annex in the building was cancelled. In fact, Daugherty Hall's only steady customers seem to be the Ancient and Medieval Society, the only people on campus who enjoy the castle-like decor.

A very basic step the administration could take to help the problem would be the hiring of a Commuter Program Coordinator, a member of the Dean of Students office who could work with UCA. Such a position exists on other colleges, and the university did have such a person at one time.

The ultimate responsibility for unifying the commuters, though, must lie within their own ranks. While coming under much criticism for her work, UCA President Sandra Hoffman deserves credit for her attempts to hold the group together.

Unfortunately, one person cannot make an organization work. The UCA has the potential to provide many services, functions and activities for its constituents. Those people, though, must make their presence felt. The University Commuter Association still has too far to go to run out of gas now.

One Step Up

On the surface, the decision by the university's Athletic Council to re-classify the football team from Division II to Division I-AA appears to be a heavy move; one that was debated since the I-AA concept's introduction two years ago.

Actually, the move will neither provide additional national exposure or drastically alter the current scope of the program. Delaware will still have the same financial aid policy and will face the same teams it has scheduled for the next several years, most of which are in the I-AA classification.

I-AA was originally designed to accommodate schools with football programs at a level similar or higher than that of Delaware's. Staying in Division II would ultimately force Delaware to cut back the money spent in the program, thus effecting the long range competitiveness of Blue Hen football. With many major schools opting to remain in the Division I-A "super division," the move to I-AA shouldn't hurt the winning image and tradition that Delaware football has built.

The bottom line is simply that Delaware football has decided to reclassify itself into a division with which its schedule, policies and overall program has always complied.

Spirit of the Olimpyx

By Arthur Hoppe

"Well, Howard, that about wraps it up for the First U.S. - Sponsored International Olimpyx here at the Oakland Coliseum."

"That's right, Don. And let me just say that having had the opportunity to observe these exciting sporting events over the past two weeks has made me extremely proud to be an American."

"I know what you mean, Howard. I'll admit that even I got a lump in my throat at the opening ceremonies when the Olimpyx runner came staggering into the stadium all the way from Milpitas carrying the Eternal Olimpyx Banner: 'Free the Afghan 20 Million!'"

"Not only that, Don, but America's record in compiling 1786 gold, silver, bronze, copper and lead medals may never be surpassed. That's ten times more medals than the Russians won these past two weeks in their Commie-pinko Olympics over there in Moscow."

***

"Yes, I think it proves the President was right to boycott their Olympics and hold our own Olimpyx instead to teach them a political lesson. But to what do you attribute America's amazing success in the games, Howard?"

"Well, first of all, of course, the free enterprise system, Don. But to that I would add determination, true grit and superb conditioning. And the fact that we were the host country and therefore issued the invitations and set up the rules helped."

"Yes, I suppose that would account for the U.S. gymnasts winning for the first time in history. But I will say that the Aleutian team put up a game fight, particularly on the parallel bars, despite their heavy parkas."

"Well, we did specify native costume, Don. And I suppose that also hurt the Australian aborigines' giant slalom ski team's chances. But it certainly wasn't any handicap to the pygmy Twa. Loincloths are perfect for basketball players."

"You mentioned conditioning, Howard. Do you think that was a factor in the defeat of the Monaco cross-country track squad?"

"Yes, they just couldn't seem to go the distance. But I think some of these athletes from the smaller nations - and I hate to say this, Don - simply haven't trained hard enough. Take the Sudanese surfers. You'd think they'd never seen a wave before. And those Maltese Falcons, booting the ball all over the place and bouncing it off their heads. It's no wonder the Pittsburgh Steelers beat them 184-0."

"Well, Malta's coach did say, Howard, that when he accepted the invitation, he didn't know we meant that kind of football."

***

"Frankly, Don, an excuse like that smacks to me of bad sportsmanship. After all, the purpose of these games is for individual athletes to compete against each other as individuals in an atmosphere of goodwill and fair play in order to promote the brotherhood of mankind."

"And, of course, Howard, for each nation to lick the others in order to prove the superiority of its political system."

"Now you have it Don. That's the true Olimpyx spirit."

A Good Example, by George

To the editor:

A couple of statements were made in last week's editorial which could lead to a wrong impression of our local star, George Thorogood.

The first mentioned that neighbors of George's new ball field felt there was no need for another field in town. As an acquaintance of the Destroyers I recall many times when practices and games were delayed or cancelled because all available hard-ball fields were occupied. And with the Destroyers planning more action than ever this year there is a definite need for a place to practice.

In the second statement last week's writer says that "long after George has gone on to the proverbial 'big time,' the Delaware Destroyers will still be a ball team..."

I'm sure the writer meant well but does he realize that at least twice George has turned down the chance to go "big time," once when he turned down Atlantic Records and once when he turned down an offer to tour for Electric Factory Concerts. This is as big as the big time gets, and I think the town should be aware that George has other values besides seeing how famous he can become.

In short, Newark has a remarkable example of a person rejecting the ego-tripping, and materialistic status symbols of the American Dream. We can be proud not only of his success, but, more importantly, of his fine sense of values in dealing with it.

Ken, nothing is ever so bleak that you don't see a light somewhere to answer your call. If you feel left apart and treated unfairly, look to see who is doing this. Chances are you simply do not communicate on the same level. There may be friendship, or the desire for it, but if you make it hard for others to express it their way, it may never be expressed and you'll lose what you refused to see you had in the palm of your hand. Take a minute.

To the A-hole at the Captain Ray of Light Show: Not only did you prove your lack of basic motor coordination with the overhead projector, you showed your inconsideration by blowing smoke in the face of Captain Ray while he was performing. After carefully analysing past encounters with you, I predict that if and when you grow up, you'll always be the jerk that you are today. I'm not being unnecessarily cruel. Somebody had to break it to you.

Yes, but how do you really feel?

'WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?'

Psalms 2:1 and Acts 4:25

"AND IN CONTROVERSY THEY SHALL STAND IN MY JUDGMENT: AND THEY SHALL JUDGE IT ACCORDING TO MY JUDGMENTS: AND THEY SHALL KEEP MY LAWS AND MY STATUTES IN ALL MINE ASSEMBLIES: AND THEY SHALL HALLOW MY SABBATHS." Ezekiel 44:24.

Are we interested in God's judgments in view of the way we learn and consider them? We ought to be inasmuch as we are hastening to the Judgment Seat of The Almighty! No telling how many may read this article and shortly thereafter depart this life for that Appointment God has made for us. That is one appointment we will all keep and be on time! Are we interested in God's Laws and Statutes judging from the way we have learned what they are and what consideration we have given them? We ought to be interested for they will be the basis of His judgment of us! Do we say we have accepted Christ, joined The Church, been baptized, and there is nothing for us to worry about, for

"Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? — For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord." Romans 8:35-39.

Wonderful, fine, that is, if those pronouns "I, WE, US," fit and mean you and me! However, they refer to men and women who for Christ's sake "were killed all the day long, and accounted as sheep for the slaughter," and who were "more than conquerors in tribulation, distress, famine, nakedness, peril, and sword!"

Many of us have not conquered the "love of lucre" enough to invest ten cents on the dollar in the business of God Almighty! And many have not conquered their love of ease, pleasure, sports, etc. enough to give God one day in seven as He commands. But prefer golf to God, fishing to Faith, football-baseball and boating and bathing and booze to The Beatitudes of The Lord Jesus Christ in The Sermon on The Mount, and then there are those who prefer cash to Christ and so run their business on The Lord's Day for the sake of profit: "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and lose his soul?" Maybe the pronouns "THEE, THOU," a little further on in the 11th chapter of Romans, versus 19-22, come close to fitting us and getting our measure:

"Be not highminded, but fear, for if God spared not the natural branches, take heed lest He also spare not thee. Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity, but towards thee, goodness. IF THOU CONTINUE IN HIS GOODNESS: OTHERWISE THOU ALSO SHALT BE CUT OFF!"

The writer once heard the late great Bible Teacher, Dr. Campbell Morgan, say that The Scripture that frightened him most was Judges 16:20:

"AND HE WIST NOT THAT THE LORD WAS DEPARTED FROM HIM!"

That was spoken of Sampson, the strong man, when he broke his vow! What sort of shape are our vows in? "Be sure your sin will find you out" was spoken to those who made a vow if they failed to keep it!

Swimmers Sweep Widener, Split with Profs

by RAY JESTER

Several individual records fell as the university men's and women's swimming teams compiled a combined record of 3-1 over the last week.

The men, who are now 4-2, defeated Widener 68-45 Wednesday, but lost to undefeated Glassboro 98-42 Saturday afternoon. The women's team upped their record to 5-1 as they crushed Widener 82-22 Wednesday and Glassboro 98-42 Saturday afternoon.

Mary Pat Johnson set a new university record in the 200 meter backstroke Wednesday with her winning time of 2:23.15. Hen Captain Marti Huber set a new 100 meter butterfly record of 1:02.36 against Glassboro, as well as winning the 50 meter butterfly and taking part in the winning 200 medley relay.

Pete Test broke his own freshman record Wednesday for the third time this season in 22:23.

"I'm absolutely satisfied with our performance so far this year," said Hen men's coach Harry Rawstrom. "Everyone has really put out. We have a great team this year and Glassboro was by far our best meet in spite of the fact that we lost.

"All of our swimmers have been outstanding. Several of our swimmers have been ill, but the ones that swam made up for the ones that couldn't," he added.

"I really didn't expect Widener and Glassboro to be that tough," said women's coach Edgar Johnson. "The East Stroudsburg meet on Tuesday should be quite different. 'We've been working very hard and this meet should give us a good idea where we are at this point,' he said. "The team that wants it most will take it. It won't be a cakewalk."

What's on Tap

TONIGHT — Women basketball at Towson, 8 p.m.

Temple Tramples 2-12 Delaware Cagers 74-58

by ERIC MAGILL

PHILADELPHIA — Finding a silver lining in this cloud of a Delaware basketball season has become a difficult task, even for usually optimistic head coach Ron Rainey.

After Temple had mugged the Hens 74-58 Monday night before 1500 fans at McGonigle Hall, a disillusioned Rainey stood in a hallway and tried to explain why his team had lost their seventh straight and were the owners of a 2-12 record.

"We just weren't very patient at the start and neither team had much intensity," Rainey moaned. "We need more intensity and confidence. Our schedule isn't going to give us a win streak."

Temple's octopus-like 3-2 zone caused the fumbling Hens to commit 22 turnovers and combined with Delaware's 32 percent field goal shooting, limited the Hens to four points in the game's first eight minutes, and 21 points for the half.

Despite the Hens' offensive woes, they were down by only six with 10:25 left in the first half. But the Owls took charge and led 36-21 at halftime.

In the second half the Hens scored only two points in the opening six minutes and trailed by as many as 32 before Hen subs cut the deficit in half by game's end.

Tim Tompkins led Delaware with 14 points as the Hens hit only 38 percent of their shots. Neil Robinson had 17 points for Temple.

Delaware lost another conference game on Saturday at Hofstra. The Hens were trailing 70-69 with six seconds left when co-captain Dave Gruber got the ball along the baseline about ten feet from the basket and was immediately trapped by three Hofstra defenders.

Unaware that the Hens had used all their timeouts, Gruber asked for time. The Hens were assessed a two-shot technical foul and Hofstra's Eric Harvey made one of them to put the Dutchmen up 71-69.

Hofstra's Brian Appel was then fouled on the in-bounds pass, and he hit both free throws to give the Dutchmen a 73-69 victory. Hofstra was led by Lionel Harvey and David Taylor who had 20 and 19 points, respectively.

Tompkins paced Delaware with 16 points, followed by Walston Warner's 13 and Gruber's 10. Ken Luck, ejected from the game with 10:43 remaining added 10 points.

Price, Howard Lead Ladies Hoop Victory

by KELLI CAMBURN

Freshman guard Linny Price scored 14 points and junior center Lori Howard added 12 as the University of Delaware women's basketball team defeated Glassboro State 66-53 last Saturday at the Delaware Fieldhouse.

The win gives the Blue Hen women a 2-7 record.

The game, the ninth meeting between the two teams with Delaware leading the series 6-3, was a tight back and forth battle the entire first half. Neither team took control and Delaware went to the locker room leading by a slim 30-29 margin.

The second half began as a repeat of the first, and the score remained close until 7½ minutes were left in the game. The Blue Hen Suzy Streetman dropped in a five foot jump shot to give Delaware a 48-46 lead which they never relinquished.

Glassboro began making mistakes as the Hens built up a 13 point lead in the final five minutes for the 66-53 win.

"I'm happy with the win," said coach Joyce Emory, "but there are still some things we have to work on."

Despite the win, Emory added that she was very unhappy with the women's 41% foul shooting performance. She added that the team also needs work on its rebounding and turnovers.

These skills will be important this week as the team goes on the road facing undefeated Towson State today and Lock Haven Saturday.

"This will be a tough week for us," said Emory. "These games could go either way and we'll have to play well to win."

In other basketball action at the Fieldhouse on Saturday, the women's JV team defeated the Glassboro JV's 61-55, giving the cagers a perfect 3-0 mark for the season. Freshman Annette Cosgrove lead the Hens with 16 points.
