The 3-D sign at Newark United Methodist Church on Main Street is one of the congregation's more dramatic changes in over two centuries in Newark.

Color them 'alive and well'

Always in the midst of change along Main Street, Newark has a new sign that draws eyes to a familiar, century-old landmark.

Standing 18-feet tall and bearing bright colors and a contemporary look is a brand new sign belonging to the Newark United Methodist Church.

Pleased with his church's latest addition, Pastor Cliff Armour said, "It just really calls your attention to it and we like the variety of colors."

According to local historian James Owen, Newark's Methodists began meeting in a room of a house about 1779 and their first church building within town limits was near what is now North Chapel and New streets.

In 1851, the congregation built a new church building at the present site on Main Street. Rebuilding after a fire in 1861 and later additions in the 20th century brought it to its present size.

The unconventional design of the new sign features a seven-foot cross at the top, with a red flame curving around it to create a three-dimensional effect. From the bottom portion of each

Mega-reunion planned for Newark High

By SHARON R. COLE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The city of Newark will swarm with Yellowjackets on June 3, as a century's worth of Newark High School graduates celebrate the school's Reunion of the Millennium.

A trio of events spanning almost 12 hours includes a day-time open house from 1 to 5 p.m. at the high school, Newark High at 7 p.m., and an adults-only evening cocktail reception from 8 p.m. to midnight at the University of Delaware Trabant Center.

According to the reunion's initiator, Kay Buglass of the Class of 1968, music, dancing, buffet, awards and celebrity guests will be some of the reunion highlights. Former band members will also perform in concert for the events.

The inspiration to hold the massive reunion grew out of con-

Carson to address UD grads

Street fighter turned surgeon picked by Class of 2000

Benjamin S. Carson, who went from an angry street fighter in Detroit to become director of pediatric neurosurgery at Johns Hopkins Hospital, will deliver the commencement address tomorrow at the University of Delaware.

"Dr. Ben Carson, who received an honorary degree from the University of Delaware in 1997, is a gifted physician, a pioneering scientist and a man whose triumphs over his own personal hardships have encouraged countless others," said University vice-president Robert R. Davis.

Graduating seniors of the Class of 2000 were asked to nominate potential speakers, and Carson was one of those nominated, Davis said.

Suspect 'took the money and ran' at Superfresh

Newark Police report a theft of $30 and a Newport Cigarettes hard box at Superfresh on New London Road around 8:20 a.m. on May 21. Employees told police a suspect described as a white man, 22-25 years old, approximately 6 feet tall, slender, wearing jeans, a grey, hooded sweatshirt and a flannel shirt grabbed three $10 bills and the cigarettes before fleeing.

Noisy parties still available

Newark Police were called to complaints of noisy parties at several locations this week. Peter Guy Maestres of Florida and Andrew A. Salvo of New York, both 20 years old, were charged with disorderly premises in an apartment at 329 E. Main Street on May 21 around 2 a.m. On the same evening, Monica L. Pedroni, 21, was charged with disorderly premises at 79 E. Cleveland Ave. where a fight broke out during a loud party.

On May 20 around 2:45 a.m., police charged Jennifer Kirstin Vint, 23, with a disorderly premises at 816 Lehigh Rd. where there was a loud party with people outside.

On May 19 around 1:50 a.m., police charged Adam Brett Freilich, 22, with a loud music complaint at 84 Amstel Ave. Police said the stereo could be heard on Elkton Road.

Vehicular assault causes serious injuries

On May 20 around 1:15 a.m., Newark Police charged Adalberto Rodriguez, 34, of Newark with vehicular assault, DUI and disregarding a traffic signal after he drove through a red light and hit a 1987 Oldsmobile with five people inside.

Police said the victims were driving northbound on North College Avenue and started to cross Cleveland Avenue after the light turned green. Rodriguez, driving westbound on Cleveland, allegedly ran into them with his 1982 Dodge van. Three of the female passengers in the Olds, two from New York and one from Wilmington, received minor injuries and were treated and released. A 23-year-old female victim from Middletown and a 22-year-old woman from New York both suffered fractured pelvises and were admitted to Christiana Hospital. Rodriguez, who was not injured, was also charged with driving with a revoked license and driving without insurance.

Man climbing in teen's window

On May 21 around 9:30 p.m., New Castle County Police arrested Earl Ward, 27 of Elkton, Md., and charged him with rape in the second degree and criminal trespassing in the first degree.

Officers were dispatched to a possible burglary in progress on Old Cooches Bridge Road in Newark where they arrested Ward without incident. Investigation revealed the victim's father caught the suspect climbing into his daughter's bedroom window. Police learned the suspect has had a sexual relationship with the 14-year-old girl. Ward was committed to the Gander Hill Prison after failing to post bail.

Bicyclist shot at in College Square

A 36-year-old man told Newark Police unknown persons shot at him on May 16 around 5:15 p.m. as he was riding through the parking lot at College Square. The victim said he was riding a bike on his way to work when a light blue, older model car with possible Delaware license plate passed him.

An unknown occupant of the car pointed a gun at him as the car passed and the man heard a shot. As the victim continued on toward Wyoming Road, he said he heard another gunshot. He was not injured. Police are investigating.

Man abandons child after car crash

Delaware State Police arrested a Newark man after he fled from a traffic crash and left his 5-year-old daughter behind.

Troopers said Steven C. Dericco, 31, was driving his 1993 Isuzu Rodeo on Porter Road on May 17 around 7 p.m. when he sideswiped another vehicle.

Dericco pulled his daughter out of the car and went up to a house to use the phone. When the residents began questioning him about the crash, he fled into a wooded area leaving his daughter behind at the house.

Dericco was spotted at the Fox Run Shopping Center and when the trooper attempted to take him into custody, he broke free. A volunteer firefighter in the area assisted the trooper in capturing Dericco near a bank located in the shopping center.

He was charged with resisting arrest, endangering the welfare of a child, offensive touching, menacing, disorderly conduct, felony DUI and a host of traffic charges.

FOR THE RECORD

A headline on the proposed Route 40 improvements in the May 19 issue of the Newark Post incorrectly indicated major improvements will not take place until after 2020. While the first phase of the project from 2000 to 2007 will not include two major interchange projects, those projects planned for 2007-2013 with the possibility that work could start earlier, should traffic run beyond projections. The only project planned for after 2020 is the possible widening of Route 40 from the Maryland line to Glasgow.

Memorial Day Parade marched on

"It was a great parade," said Memorial Day Committee member Linda Burns. "A good time was had by those who were there to watch."

Burns and about 1,000 others attending the annual event last Sunday on Newark's Main Street were sad to see the low turnout for the largest parade of its kind in Delaware. "The National Guard brought all kinds of equipment — including a working cannon they rolled right down the street," Burns said.

"It rained all morning, so I think a lot of people just assumed we canceled the parade," she added. "But there's no raindate, and if we were gonna have it, we had to have it."

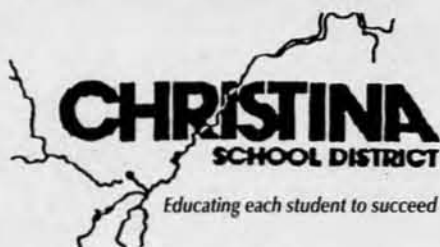

A few of the marching groups with older members called to cancel themselves before the rain stopped around noon. But most of the veterans and all current military personnel turned out to honor those who have fought in American wars.

First Place winners in this year's competition among high school marching bands were Avon Grove High in Division I and Glasgow High in Division II. Salesianum High School took Second Place in Division II. Erik Jester of Avon Grove High School won Best Appearing Drum Major.

As host band, Newark High School's Marching Band participated but was not eligible for an award.

All day reunion ends with Newark Nite and party cern that school pride and spirit were diminishing among teenagers. Buglass referred to the tragedy of Columbine when explaining why she and her husband, Phil, felt that this commemoration would be worthwhile.

"The idea came after Columbine," said Buglass. "We wanted kids to understand that, no matter who they are, they can make good things happen."

Buglass said none of the reunion committee members were class presidents. "We were average kids and I hope students get the message that it's O.K. not to be part of the popular crowd," she said.

Since organizing a reunion for 100 classes is a massive undertaking, Buglass knew she would need to get as much help as possible. She started with a few contacts from her own recent class reunion.

Soon after, she said, the ball started rolling and a committee of more than 30 members representing different classes was formed.

Those members have been busy contacting other NHS grads by mail, phone and Internet, she said.

The committee's efforts have paid off tremendously. More than 300 graduates had confirmed their attendance by the end of April. Among the crowd will be Samuel Buckingham from the Class of 1923 (the oldest to respond so far) and Bob Davis, Class of 1945, who is traveling from Hawaii.

"I thought it would be a success, but not to the degree that it is so far," said Buglass.

In fact, the Millennium Reunion website, which was designed and is maintained by Phil Buglass, has received over 2,160 hits to date.

Information on reunion events, souvenirs, event sponsors and details on an NHS Millennium book can be found there.

Not only has the pursuit of a mega-reunion brought many people together, it has also rekindled the Newark High School Alumni Association that had all-but-disintegrated in recent years.

"The association was restarted at Newark since we started organizing this reunion," said Frank Hagan, Newark High School's principal since 1987.

Hagan believes the celebration represents a great tribute to the school. "I think it is a way of bringing generations together to talk about the history — and future — of Newark High School," he said. "This is the last urban high school in New Castle County and we have a rich tradition of excellence that is supported by parents, teachers, students and the community."

Newark High School's 107th Class graduates on June 8 at the Bob Carpenter Center.

Up until the 1950's, students attended school in the building which now houses Christina District offices. Today the school is located at Delaware and Library avenues across from the Newark Library.

Newark Nite coming next weekend

The hottest night of the year is coming next weekend when Newark Nite takes over on Main Street. Starting at 5 p.m. on Saturday, June 3, strolling, shopping and celebrating "our town" are priorities one, two and three here.

A mile of entertainers, food vendors, shopping, and community booths and neighbors from miles around bring out the best of summer sounds, sights and socializing. Three stages will present live musical performances throughout the evening in addition to entertainers along the length of the street. A Children's Stage and game area at Newark Shopping Center will include prizes, art activities, face painting, and a moon-bounce as well as a few surprises.

Downtown businesses stretching from Market East Plaza to the Galleria also are planning special sales and promotions for the evening.

In addition, hundreds of alumni and their families enjoying Newark High School's Millennium Reunion of every class in the past 100 years will be among those gathering downtown for the town's old-meets-new annual event.

Main Street will be closed throughout the evening until 10 p.m. from Tyre Avenue to South College Avenue. Vehicles not removed from Main Street by 4:30 p.m. will be towed and ticketed.

Free parking is available in Newark Parking Authority Lot 1 off Delaware Avenue and Lot 4 off New Street, and University of Delaware lots in various locations and the University Parking Garage.

Newark Nite is sponsored by Downtown Newark Inc. and the city of Newark Parks and Recreation Department. Among the businesses providing support are Wilmington Trust, Newark Post, American Spirit Federal Credit Union, Saturn of Newark, Grotto Pizza, DuPont/DuPont Dow, Avon Corporation, The News Journal, Morgan Stanley Dean Witter, PNC Bank, and Papastavros Associates Medical Imaging.

Three-day safety traffic blitz in New Castle County

Troopers in New Castle County issued 303 traffic summons over a three-day period that began on Thursday, May 18, and ended in the early morning hours of Saturday, May 20. During that time, troopers issued 214 citations for speeding, 10 citations for running red lights, and arrested two motorists for aggressive driving. In addition, troopers also arrested six individuals for driving under the influence and made 71 traffic arrests for other violations.

This initiative was a precursor to the upcoming Memorial Day weekend. State Police will continue to target "Hot Spots" where there is a high propensity for traffic crashes.

State police would like to remind the motoring public that patrols will be augmented with personnel from specialized units from within the Division for the upcoming Holiday. Troopers will be looking for drunk drivers, aggressive drivers and motorists who neglect to utilize their seat belts. State police have zero tolerance when they encounter these violations.

Holiday trash schedule in Newark

Over the Memorial Day holiday in the city of Newark, residential garbage collection will be as usual on both Monday, May 29, and Tuesday, May 30. Garden apartment collections will take place on Tuesday, May 30, and on Wednesday, May 31.

Anyone with questions, please feel free to contact the public works department at 366-7045.

Downes Elementary teacher honored for math excellence

Local mathematics teacher Carol Antes received a Toyota Investment in Mathematics Excellence (TIME) grant.

Antes, a teacher at Downes

Elementary School on Casho Mill Road in Newark, is one of 35 kindergarten through grade 12 teachers across the country to receive a 2000 TIME grant of up to $10,000 to help them develop and implement innovative mathematics projects.

Antes' project was selected from more than 300 applications by a panel of mathematics education experts.

As part of Antes' project, entitled "Changing Math Instruction to Measure Success," students will focus on measuring, graphing, data collection and data analysis as they study the complete life cycle of a plant.

Students will apply knowledge through meaningful measurement tasks, construct graphs for a real purpose — to compare and contrast experimental results, and analyze mathematical data in order to draw valid conclusions.

An important component of the program is the development of oral and written communication skills achieved through the necessary collaboration of young mathematicians within classrooms, schools and the community. Through videoconferencing, the program will link students to NASA scientists (Goddard Space Center), the business community (Hercules Incorporated), and the educational community (University of Delaware).

Antes currently teaches third-grade students at Downes where she has taught for 30 years. Co-director on the project is Jo Anne Deshon who also teaches third-grade at Downes.

Toyota TIME grants are distributed over a two-year period, allowing for extended project-development time.

First 3-D sign for Methodists

side of the cross, changeable letter boards are posted along with flags indicating the current church season.

Because the sign is so different from typical church signs, Armour said it took a few months to get approval, which included permission from the city of Newark as well as an O.K. from the United Methodist Church headquarters.

"No one has ever introduced a 3-D design before, so (the United Methodist Council) was pretty excited," Armour said.

Five-year church member Diane Miller was chosen to design the new addition. "Since I was an environment graphic designer they asked me to do it," said Miller, whose previous experience includes designing sign systems for hospitals, corporate parks and universities.

While creating a new look to represent the church, Miller thought turning the sign into a 3-D object would be a great change. Miller decided that including inter-changeable flags to represent each church season would be a nice touch as well.

"This way the sign serves an educational purpose while also being unique and attractive," she said.

Armour said members of the congregation voted unanimously on the new design. "We wanted a sign to say that the United Methodist Church is alive and well."

The sign was fabricated by Compass Signs of Levittown, Pa., and was erected on Holy Thursday just before Easter.

UD commencement unfolds tomorrow – rain or shine

► COMMENCEMENT, from 1

The free public ceremony, which will be held outdoors rain or shine, will begin at 9 a.m. in Delaware Stadium on South College Avenue.

Carson, who attributes his escape from the poverty of his youth to the support and love of his mother, is the recipient of numerous honors and awards, including the American Black Achievement Award.

His autobiography, "Gifted Hands," chronicles the road from a broken home and poor self-esteem to his life today.

His second book, "Think Big," elaborates on his philosophy of success in life, and his newest book, "The Big Picture," offers an in-depth look at a professional surgeon's life, as well as his perspectives on priorities, race, society, success and living out a life of faith in a complex world.

He also has edited a medical textbook on craniofacial surgery and authored or co-authored numerous scientific articles.

Carson performs 400-500 surgeries annually, of which more than half are pediatric patients at Johns Hopkins Children's Center.

His dual patient care and research interests include developing better treatments for pediatric brain tumors and helping children who are born with achondroplasia, a congenital deformity resulting in dwarfism.

In addition, he performs hemispherectomies (brain surgery to control intractable seizures) and has developed, along with Hopkins' plastic surgery division, a strong craniofacial program to allow children with congenital deformities to undergo combined neurosurgical and plastic surgical reconstructions.

In 1987, at the Hopkins Children's Center, Carson was among the 70-member medical team that separated 7-month-old German conjoined twin boys, who were joined at the back of the head and shared the major cerebral blood drainage system.

The 22-hour procedure is believed to be the first time that deliberate lowering of the body temperature was coupled with circulatory bypass and deliberate cardiac arrest to spare brain tissue. The boys returned to Germany where they are living today.

In 1997, he led a South African medical team in a 28-hour operation to separate 11-month-old Zambian twin boys, joined at the top of the head but facing opposite directions. Immediately after surgery, they began breathing on their own, and today doctors believe they have suffered no neurological deficits.

A native of Detroit, he received his undergraduate education at Yale University and his medical degree from the University of Michigan School of Medicine in 1977. He served surgical and neurosurgical residencies at Hopkins and also trained at Sir Charles Gairdner in Western Australia. He serves on the boards of directors of Yale and the Kellogg Co.

Motor Vehicles announces new Problem Driver Program

Delaware drivers who accumulate an excessive number of points for traffic violations, exceed 25 MPH over the posted limit or are convicted of aggressive driving are now required to attend a behavior modification driving course to avoid losing their driver's license.

The Delaware Division of Motor Vehicles recently implemented a new driver improvement program which identifies problem drivers and attempts to help drivers change their behavior by providing information and training opportunities.

When drivers accumulate eight points, DMV now sends warning letters advising them of their point accumulation and penalties for further traffic violations. Warning letters have reduced the number of suspensions among commercial drivers and DMV officials expect similar results with the other drivers.

Drivers who accumulate 12 points are required to attend the behavior modification course within 90 days or risk losing their driving privileges for two months. The eight-hour course costs the driver $100.

When a similar course was taught in Massachusetts, the recidivism rate dropped. Students also changed their driving behavior and, as a group, received fewer tickets than the general population.

When a driver continues to accumulate points, DMV progressively imposes longer suspensions beginning with a mandatory four month license suspension at 14 points until a one-year suspension is imposed when the driver has 22 points.

All suspended drivers must complete a behavior modification course prior to reinstating their licenses.

This problem driver program also targets aggressive drivers. Drivers convicted under the aggressive driving law are assessed six points and must complete a behavior modification driving course within 90 days after the conviction or risk having their license suspended.

The new program does not assess points to speeding violations of one to 14 miles over the speed limit, if the driver has not had any other violations within three years and pays the fine through the voluntary assessment center.

However, the violation is still indicated on the driver's record.

The intent of this provision is to encourage drivers to pay speeding tickets directly to the Voluntary Assessment Center and reduce the number of traffic related court cases.

Drivers need to help themselves – or else

The new Problem Driver Program put in place by the Delaware Division of Motor Vehicles is desperately needed here. Speeding, ignoring traffic signals and aggressive driving, once found mainly on major highways, are everyday occurrences on most Delaware roads.

Just this week, Delaware State Troopers issued more than 300 traffic summonses in only three days. Of that number, 214 were for speeding, 10 for running red lights, and two for aggressive driving.

Under the new DMV program, drivers receive warning letters after they have accumulated eight points for traffic violations. When they exceed 12 points – and in order to avoid losing their license for two months – they are required to attend a behavior modification class at their own expense.

According to the DMV, warning letters have reduced suspensions among commercial drivers. And after similar behavior modification classes in Massachusetts, recidivism dropped and alumni of the classes changed their driving habits.

We can only hope.

In the immediate Newark area, drivers routinely drive on shoulders, cut in front of vehicles without signaling or any other warning, and alternate tailgating with abrupt lane changes.

Some days it appears everyone is on their way to a medical emergency or personal disaster necessitating disregard for others and special consideration of their needs.

Get serious – the situation warrants it.

Delaware roads are congested for most of the day and week. Only rarely at night can anyone drive without feeling hemmed in on every side.

And that is not going to change – ever. We all must take a deep breath, manage our time better, and go with the flow.

If we can't do that on our own, perhaps these classes, expenses, or maybe a temporary loss of driving privileges, will be necessary to focus our attention.

Driving is important to practically every human being over the age of 16 these days. So, slow down and give the gas a rest – before the state is forced to further your education.

GUEST COLUMN

May their sacrifices never be in vain

By BISHOP DAVID R. BROWN

NEWARK POST GUEST COLUMNIST

More than one million men and women have lost their lives fighting for freedom in the U.S. armed forces. We can never reimburse the price they paid. We can summon no words to allay the pain of their loved ones. We can, and we should, honor America's war dead on Memorial Day.

We, as beneficiaries of America's departed heroes, should make three pledges on Memorial Day to ensure that the supreme sacrifice of our nation's war dead never will be in vain.

The first pledge we should make is to fly the U.S. Flag and to participate in our community's commemorative events. America's patriots shed their blood in defense of our nation's core values of freedom, justice and equality as well as the U.S. Flag that symbolizes our values. Memorial Day should unify all Americans in solemn tribute to those who did not come marching home and to consecrate the principles for which they fought.

The second pledge we should make is to teach our children and grandchildren that the freedoms they may take for granted were purchased by incredible sacrifice. When we lead by example, by bringing our children and grandchildren with us to Memorial Day public observations, we teach the leaders of tomorrow that freedom is not free.

The third pledge is to participate in our democracy in order to give patriots – present the best opportunity to triumph against evil. Today's troops form the light of hope that pierces the darkness of tyranny, but that light is growing dim due to inadequate military spending and foolhardy defense policy. Safeguarding the bounty of one million war dead is a military that is smarting from a 300 percent increase in deployments and a one-third decrease in active-duty strength since 1987. This is a military receiving fewer tax dollars, as a percentage of gross domestic product, than the military that suffered the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941.

We must act as if Memorial Day 2000 is Dec. 6, 1941; as if "We the People" have an opportunity to deter aggression, save lives, and give our men and women in uniform a fighting chance. We must demand that our congressional representatives and our president reverse the declining readiness of the armed forces. Our telephone calls, e-mails, faxes and letters to Congress and to the White House can reverse the neglect that erodes our military, threatens national security, and endangers the values for which Americans gave their lives.

These contemporary pledges flow from the earliest traditions of Memorial Day. Southern women in the spring of 1865 planted flowers on the graves of Confederate war dead. Gen. John Logan, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, an organization of Union veterans, ordered his group to decorate the graves of Union troops on a uniform date in 1868. These and other commemorations would give rise to the first national Memorial Day observance on May 30, 1968, at Arlington National Cemetery.

News as it appeared in the Newark Post throughout the years

May 27, 1925 Hundreds attend Library dedication

Delaware's tribute to her War dead, The Memorial Library at the University, was formally dedicated Saturday.

Made possible by contributions of 26,000 citizens of the State, the splendid building drew as distinguished a throng of people as has ever trod the campus here.

Gold Star mothers, veterans of the War, men and women high up in the affairs of the State, representatives from 45 various colleges and universities of the country, and hundreds of plain rank and file citizens made up the throng of close to 1000.

Residents near Summitt Bridge may have road open soon

Lee and Marvel, contractors of Townsend, are making excellent headway with their contract of making the dirt fill over Lum's Mill Pond, north of Summitt Bridge.

Residents and farmers are looking forward with great interest to the completion of this contract so they can again use the road to get into Kirkwood and other points without a detour of several miles.

May 24, 1978 Brookmont leaders blast county officials

The long-standing problems at Brookmont Farms have flared anew as the community's civic association is accusing New Castle County officials of breaking commitments regarding the allocation of federal funds to the community.

The civic association has asked a community organizing group hired by the county to halt its work in Brookmont Farms. Civic association spokesman Margaret Tansley said the civic association is going ahead with its suit against the builder of Brookmont Farms, Joel Courtman, and New Castle County. Tansley charges that inspectors from the county's Development and Licensing Division were incompetent, failing to properly inspect homes in the development, located off Route 40, southeast of Newark.

New Hidden Valley development plan unveiled

The owners of the 172 acre "Hidden Valley" tract unveiled a new development proposal for the site located just west of Newark city limits.

James Tevebaugh, an architect for Edward H. Richardson Associates Inc., described a plan for the construction of 242 single-family homes, 133 townhouses, and a four-acre shopping center on the site, owned by Kardon Investment Co. of Philadelphia.

May 26, 1995 Main Street landmark plans its summer vacation

The Stone Balloon will take a break for the summer, thanks to a change in liquor laws.

The well-known Newark night spot has never closed for the summer before so when that news got out, townspeople speculated about labor problems and financial losses.

Neighbors, school district want answers on 896

A tale of two neighborhoods on Route 896 is being played out.

Residents want to know what action the Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) will take in the Newark area to reduce truck traffic and increase safety.

Last December, the University of Delaware's Board of Trustees voted unanimously to support citizens in reducing heavy truck traffic through central Newark, near the college campus.

Just south of Newark, nine civic associations have joined to oppose DelDOT turning Route 896 into what they fear is a 12-lane road.

The third pledge is to participate in our democracy in order to give patriots – present the best opportunity to triumph against evil. Today's troops form the light of hope that pierces the darkness of tyranny, but that light is growing dim due to inadequate military spending and foolhardy defense policy. Safeguarding the bounty of one million war dead is a military that is smarting from a 300 percent increase in deployments and a one-third decrease in active-duty strength since 1987. This is a military receiving fewer tax dollars, as a percentage of gross domestic product, than the military that suffered the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941.

We must act as if Memorial Day 2000 is Dec. 6, 1941; as if "We the People" have an opportunity to deter aggression, save lives, and give our men and women in uniform a fighting chance. We must demand that our congressional representatives and our president reverse the declining readiness of the armed forces. Our telephone calls, e-mails, faxes and letters to Congress and to the White House can reverse the neglect that erodes our military, threatens national security, and endangers the values for which Americans gave their lives.

These contemporary pledges flow from the earliest traditions of Memorial Day. Southern women in the spring of 1865 planted flowers on the graves of Confederate war dead. Gen. John Logan, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, an organization of Union veterans, ordered his group to decorate the graves of Union troops on a uniform date in 1868. These and other commemorations would give rise to the first national Memorial Day observance on May 30, 1968, at Arlington National Cemetery.

The former Castle Mall, Routes 72 and 4 in Newark, filed for bankruptcy around the time this photo was taken in 1990. Four years later the entire facility was dismantled and gutted. May 27, 1925 Hundreds attend Library dedication

Delaware's tribute to her War dead, The Memorial Library at the University, was formally dedicated Saturday.

Made possible by contributions of 26,000 citizens of the State, the splendid building drew as distinguished a throng of people as has ever trod the campus here.

Gold Star mothers, veterans of the War, men and women high up in the affairs of the State, representatives from 45 various colleges and universities of the country, and hundreds of plain rank and file citizens made up the throng of close to 1000.

Residents near Summitt Bridge may have road open soon

Lee and Marvel, contractors of Townsend, are making excellent headway with their contract of making the dirt fill over Lum's Mill Pond, north of Summitt Bridge.

Residents and farmers are looking forward with great interest to the completion of this contract so they can again use the road to get into Kirkwood and other points without a detour of several miles.

May 24, 1978 Brookmont leaders blast county officials

The long-standing problems at Brookmont Farms have flared anew as the community's civic association is accusing New Castle County officials of breaking commitments regarding the allocation of federal funds to the community.

The civic association has asked a community organizing group hired by the county to halt its work in Brookmont Farms. Civic association spokesman Margaret Tansley said the civic association is going ahead with its suit against the builder of Brookmont Farms, Joel Courtman, and New Castle County. Tansley charges that inspectors from the county's Development and Licensing Division were incompetent, failing to properly inspect homes in the development, located off Route 40, southeast of Newark.

New Hidden Valley development plan unveiled

The owners of the 172-acre "Hidden Valley" tract unveiled a new development proposal for the site located just west of Newark city limits.

James Tevebaugh, an architect for Edward H. Richardson Associates Inc., described a plan for the construction of 242 single-family homes, 133 townhouses, and a four-acre shopping center on the site, owned by Kardon Investment Co. of Philadelphia.

May 26, 1995 Main Street landmark plans its summer vacation

The Stone Balloon will take a break for the summer, thanks to a change in liquor laws.

The well-known Newark night spot has never closed for the summer before so when that news got out, townspeople speculated about labor problems and financial losses.

Neighbors, school district want answers on 896

A tale of two neighborhoods on Route 896 is being played out.

Residents want to know what action the Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) will take in the Newark area to reduce truck traffic and increase safety.

Last December, the University of Delaware's Board of Trustees voted unanimously to support citizens in reducing heavy truck traffic through central Newark, near the college campus.

Just south of Newark, nine civic associations have joined to oppose DelDOT turning Route 896 into what they fear is a 12-lane road.

Many more seniors eligible for Prescription Assistance Plan

By THOMAS R. CARPER

GOVERNOR, STATE OF DELAWARE

One of the most common concerns I hear from citizens – especially older Delawareans – is the rising cost of prescription drugs. Prescription drug costs are rising at a rate of 12 percent per year – faster than any other component of the U.S. health care system. For seniors living on a fixed income that rate is overwhelming.

No senior citizen should ever have to make a choice between buying groceries and purchasing their prescription medicine. Although Medicaid and the Nemours Health Clinic Pharmaceutical Assistance Program subsidize prescription drug costs for very low income seniors, there are thousands of Delawareans whose very modest income eliminates them for Medicaid and other program coverage.

The "Pill Bill," Substitute 1 to Senate Bill 6, was signed into law last year providing prescription assistance to more than 6,000 Delaware residents whose annual income is less than 200 percent of poverty.

The Delaware program will cover most drugs that are manufactured by companies that agree to pay the State a rebate for the right to participate in the program. The program will pay up to $2,500 per person, per state fiscal year. There will be a copayment of $5 or 25 percent of the cost of the prescription, whichever is greater. The pharmacy will collect the copayment before they dispense the prescription.

The income eligibility limits are:

- for seniors (age 65 and over),
 - > single - monthly income over $1,041 but under $1,374
 - > couples - combined monthly income over $1,427 but under $1,844
- for people under age 65, and eligible for Social Security Disability (SSDI) benefits:
 - > single - monthly income under $1,374
 - > couples - combined monthly income under $1,844.

Also eligible are elderly and SSDI individuals who have income over these amounts who may be eligible if they have prescription costs that are over 40 percent of their yearly income.

With this innovative initiative to help some of our most vulnerable population, the Delaware Prescription Assistance Program is at the forefront of the nation and is a model for other states and now the federal government to emulate – Congress is just beginning to consider proposals like what we already have in Delaware to cover prescription medicines. In Delaware, we are partnering with families, communities, and other government agencies to provide a network of support to those most vulnerable with one simple goal in mind – to help people who need it most.

We have signed up 2,000 eligible seniors so far, but we need your help getting the word out on this comprehensive plan. If you think you may be eligible for the Delaware Prescription Assistance Program or know someone who may be eligible, applications are available by calling 1-800-996-9969, extension 17. Applications are also available at Senior Centers and Division of Social Services offices statewide.

Carper is the 71st Governor of Delaware.

Sacrifices not in vain

► BROWN, from 8

Gen. James Garfield, keynote speaker for the observance, said those who lost their lives fighting for freedom engaged in the ultimate expression of humanity's "highest virtues." The general was right!

More than one million men and women, preponderantly of modest means and infinite courage, sacrificed all of their tomorrows while fighting for America's unifying "virtues." Surely we can honor their sacrifice, transmit the values for which they fought, and preserve the "common defense" that is liberty's backbone. By our vigilance, the sacrifices of America's departed heroes shall never be in vain.

Brown is national chaplain of the American Legion, the nation's largest veterans' organization with 2.8 members.

Native or not?

Every species of landscape plant is "native" to someplace on our planet. Have you ever wondered where your plants originated? Not in the sense of "the nursery down the road," but where on Earth their ancestors called home before humans started propagating and spreading them about.

Many people assume that if a plant is common, or if it thrives without human care, then it must be a species that has been there since time immemorial. The term "native plant" is hard to define.

Here are two examples that give extremes of interpretation.

Gardening references often describe the Franklinia tree as a native tree. John Bartram collected some seedlings in 1770 from the banks of the Altamaha River in southeast Georgia. He named this species for his pal Ben Franklin. Apparently, that was the enclave of a few remaining trees. The species was never again seen in the wild after 1790.

Plant communities are constantly changing depending upon ecological forces such as climate, natural disasters, and especially, human activity. Perhaps Franklinia had a wide range eons ago, but had somehow lost ground slowly or quickly until it was on the brink of extinction when Bartram "saved" it. It could also have been a species that never was able to overcome barriers to its spread from its primal origin's limited range. Fortunately for gardeners, the Franklin tree is adaptable to a range of soil and climate conditions, so it has survived as an enchanting small landscape tree. Its romantic story of rescue from extinction surely contributes to its popularity.

Maize is a human-developed crop that originated from a central Mexican grass ancestor that still exists called teosinte. Maize is incapable of sustaining itself in the wild—it must have human caretakers. Native Americans grew maize in many of the warmer regions where water was available as precipitation or through irrigation. The seed is compact and lightweight, and retains viability in hot or dry conditions. Maize was quick to spread among tribes living thousands of miles from its origin.

Wild things can't live on love alone

Like a human encyclopedia on animal care, Bear resident Hilary Taylor can rattle off the treatments, diets and living conditions necessary to nurse any animal back to health. After all, it's her job.

As a state and federal licensed wildlife rehabilitator for nearly 30 years, Taylor has been nursing sick, orphaned and injured animals, and then releasing them back into their natural habitat.

"I was doing this in England before I came here in '69," said Taylor with a noticeable accent. "And I started rehabilitating here after I got licensed."

Taylor works out of her home off of Rt. 71 in Bear which is one of four sites throughout Delaware that accepts, on average, 1,000 rescued wild animals and reptiles a year.

Despite the less-than glamorous surroundings, the sound of crying baby raccoons and the frequent phone calls regarding a rescued animal, there is no doubt Taylor loves her work.

She must. Instead of getting paid as a rehabilitator, she winds up paying out-of-pocket expenses to keep the operation of her Bear Station going.

"We run on donations and that is about it right now," said Taylor as she prepared an eyedropper to feed one of several baby squirrels.

After spending just a short time watching Taylor busily attend to the more than 50 animals hospitalized on an average day at her home, one can easily calculate the mounting costs involved.

There's a refrigerator full of fruits, vegetables, special baby formula, meats and distilled water. Add in syringes and medications, not to mention the numerous made-to-specification cages housing all the animals.

Merchants and veterinarians also donate supplies and services, which is always welcome.

But, a five-pound bag of formula costs about $52. "We go through about 10 of these bags a year," said Dawn Failing, wildlife rehabilitator and employee of the Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Then, there is the time and effort Taylor and her assistants contribute to the 24-hour service. "Every morning I clean out everybody's cage and feed them. Then I take care of each of the animals' special needs throughout the day and clean the cages and feed them again at night," Taylor said.

Baby foxes, bunnies and raccoons, flying squirrels, box turtles, bats, an iguana, and an exotic African tortoise are among the diverse animal group routinely under Taylor's care. On occasion she receives deer, otters, and ground-hogs, too.

There are many reasons animals end up on her doorstep. "Fox holes get flooded out and baby foxes may be abandoned," said Taylor. "I get a lot of cruelty cases, too. Especially with turties because kids think they can beat turtles out of their shells and they crack them."

According to Taylor, this really does hurt the turtles since the shell is made up of skin. And, she added, turtles do cry tears.

Currently Delaware's Wildlife Rehabilitation Association does not receive state funding or outside grants, but, by next year all of that may change.

"We are a not-for-profit organization (trying to convert to) a non-profit status and that is when we can receive grants," said Failing.

In addition, since people cannot claim their not-for-profit donations as tax deductions, rehabilitators only occasionally receive low-dollar gifts of $10 to $25.

State senator Steven Amick (R-Newark) visited Bear Station and is urging that funds need to be allocated towards this program.

"It's amazing that these rehabilitators put in all this time and money and they've been doing it for years," said Amick. "I think more people need to know and they need to be backed monetarily."

Whether or not Delaware finds a way to support their rehabilitators, Taylor will still do what she has been doing for years. "All animals talk, they all feel fear, they feel joy and...people don't think about it this way, but if you just watch animals you can see it," Taylor said.

'Shakespeare in the Park' coming for one night only

The play IS the thing! Even though, unlike the Prince of Denmark, I am not out to snare "the conscience of the king." With a profound nod to the great Bard of Stratford Upon Avon, the play is the center of my column today, specifically, one of his greatest comedies, "The Comedy of Errors." The very name brings a smile in anticipation of the five acts unfolding before me.

And it is not just a performance of the play. It is a recreation of the time of Elizabethan England. There will be music, song and dance as well as the unmistakable iambic pentameter of arguably the world's greatest author of plays, William Shakespeare. It is all coming together for one night only, Friday, June 23, at 8:30 p.m. The place is the Mann Center for the Performing Arts in Philadelphia's Fairmount Park.

For the first time in its long history, the Mann Center will present "Shakespeare in the Park!" This in an event not to be missed by anyone of any age who can laugh — mostly at the foibles of human beings like ourselves.

If, during your high school or college days, you ever got the idea that Shakespeare was "too stuffy" or "too high brow" for you, prepare to have that bubble exploded about one month from today at the Mann Center. Absolutely brilliant comedy abounds in this witty tale of mistaken identity, assumed personae, hilarious machinations and whimsical family relationships.

In this play, Shakespeare offers us a shrewd and inventive plot involving an intricate and energetic story of two pairs of

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

identical twins separated by an horrendous shipwreck. As the delight filled plot unfolds, all is not what it seems to be and the comedy is off and running. Set in the ancient city of Ephesus, we are in for a farcical romp with the language of the Bard propelling us at an unbelievable pace.

"The Comedy of Errors" is one of those plays where we dare do nothing more with our fellow theatergoers than a gentle tap of the elbow to his/her ribs. To engage in any conversation would be to miss a subtle nuance or a stroke of the broadest comedy and that would be inexcusable!

Peter Lane, executive director of the Mann Center, has entrusted this first Shakespearean production in the history of the great outdoor festival to the Aquila Theater Company, and what a fine choice he made. This innovative and dynamic company has gained a well-deserved reputation on both sides of the Atlantic as one of the foremost producers of touring, classical theater.

The cast to perform on Friday, June 23, will be drawn from the best the Royal Shakespeare Company and the National Theater have to offer. By the way, the Aquila has been honored for its commitment to classical theater by both the British and Greek governments. Nice choice, Peter!

The Mann Center is an easy drive from Newark. It generally takes about an hour or so to make the trek by interstate highways I-95, I-495 and I-676 to within a short distance of the 52nd and Parkside location. Over the past two seasons, the services and amenities at the Mann have been upgraded to make everything ready for a glorious evening.

Among the amenities I like best are the five top-of-the-hill dining options now available. All of them are under the direction of one of the area's greatest culinary masters, Steve Poses. I had lunch with him the other day and he even made rice pudding into a gastronomic delight. The options include a summer dining buffet at Bravo, Mediterranean fare at Fresca, barbecue at Embers, Asian fare at Gung Ho and deluxe picnic baskets at Picnic. Of course, you can bring your own basket if you like. After all, it's your evening for Shakespeare in the Park.

My only complaint with Peter Lane is that he is offering "The Comedy of Errors" for only one performance. You had better make sure you and your entire family get tickets for that night or miss a wonderful opportunity to both togetherness and fun.

For more information, reservations or directions, you may call 215-893-1999. You may also visit the Mann via its web site www.manncenter.org. I mentioned that it was about an hour or so drive, but if you are going for dinner, be sure to allow extra driving time because of the home-bound rush hour traffic.

Enjoy!

'Native plants' tough to define plants back to Europe. Potatoes became an important food crop in the cooler climates there. The potato wasn't grown in North America until Europeans started settling the northeast coast in the 17th century. The name Irish potato came much later, in the 19th century, in recognition of the Irish immigrant influx due to the potato famine in their homeland.

► OUTLOOK, from 10

Contrast maize's vast pre-contact distribution in the Americas with the tortuous course the potato had to travel to reach North America. Considering that seed potatoes are heavy to transport and prone to rot in hot climates, it's not too hard to imagine why. The people who inhabited the expanses of tropical rain forest, deserts, and prairies would have had few reasons to transport this plant. In their hotter or drier homelands, it could not be a productive source of food.

I can't say whether site-specific or hemisphere-centric or something in between should be "the" basis for defining the term "native plant." You'll have to decide that for yourself. Two sources of information that can help you cut through the "native plant" misinformation are Hortus Third (L.H. Bailey Hortoreum, 1976), a classic reference of the cultivated plants of the U.S. and Canada, and Michael Dirr's Manual of Woody Landscape Plants. Dirr includes the origin of a species and the year in which horticulturists first brought it into cultivation. Some species also have a paragraph telling an interesting tale about how they came to be a garden plant.

Environmental Navigator has historic info, open space and contamination sites

Governor Thomas R. Carper joined Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control Secretary Nicholas A. DiPasquale, State Treasurer Jack Markell and Acting Secretary of Education, Valerie Woodruff in showcasing the Department's Environmental Navigator, a new, web-based environmental information tool that is now available on the Department's Internet site, www.dnrec.state.de.us.

"DNREC's Environmental Navigator is an exciting addition to the growing number of state services available through Delaware agency web pages," said Governor Carper. "With a few key strokes, Delawareans will have access to a store of information about historic sites, open space and potential contamination sites currently maintained by DNREC. This is another example of my administration's efforts to expand the information and services we provide at no cost to citizens, through the Internet."

Jack Markell, State Treasurer

and Chairman of the state's Electronic Government Steering Committee remarked, "I applaud DNREC's success in using new technology to bring meaningful government information directly to the citizen, a goal all state agencies should strive for in the future."

DNREC's Environmental Navigator will enable users to select any location in the state and find environmental information ranging from potential contaminants at industrial sites to recreational opportunities at parks and wildlife areas. The potential contaminant sites include underground storage tank sites, sludge disposal sites, superfund sites, toxic release sites and wastewater spray irrigation sites. The open space and historic sites include State Fish and Wildlife lands, State Parks, nature preserves and buildings listed on the National Registry of historic buildings.

The Environmental Navigator makes it easy to search for information by county, city or watershed; or by environmental media (water, air, sediment, ground water.) Sites have been ranked for their pollution potential by DNREC's scientific staff. Detailed maps show land use patterns. The Navigator also has features that allow users to distill information for their specific needs.

"Our goal in launching the Environmental Navigator has been to integrate the Department's information-rich databases and to make a powerful learning tool available to the entire community - scientific professionals, educators, students and citizens," said DiPasquale. "The Environmental Navigator is a first step. The Department will be expanding, improving and further integrating additional environmental, natural and living resources databases in an effort to provide a comprehensive view of the state's environment. The next steps will add information about DNREC's ambient air and water quality monitoring data and the state's ecological infrastructure."

HODGSON CHEFS WIN PRIZE

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Chef Christina Pirello, host of the PBS-TV show, "Christina Cooks," evaluated Stan Joswick, Pat Malloy and Jason Dietterick of Hodgson Vo-Technical High School as they worked on their entries in Genuardi's Tri-state Cook-Off Contest. After winning the state semi-final Cook-Off contest in February, a team of five culinary students from the Hodgson placed third in the final.

Malloy of Hockessin, Jermaine Williams and Joswick, both of Wilmington, Bruce Galloway of New Castle, and Dietterick of Newark prepared a complex four-course meal without advance knowledge of the recipes. They will share a $1,000 cash prize.

Look for year in review

By MARSHAL MANLOVE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Check this paper sometime in the middle of June for our scholastic sports year in review. We'll be taking a look at how the seven schools in our area fared over the past nine months and we will pay tribute to as many of the all-state athletes as we can.

In the year-end issue, we will also announce this paper's Athlete of the Year.

Manlove

June 3 will be a busy last day of high school sports with four different state titles up for grabs in softball, baseball, girl's lacrosse, and girl's soccer.

The Week in Review

Tom Cochran pitched a no-hitter for St. Mark's against Indian River. The lefty struckout 15 Indians en route to a 1-0 Spartan win. Mike Lemon drove in the game's only run.

The Spartans beat the St. Elizabeth baseball team for the second time this year and by only one run as was the case in game one. Kevin Maloney's bases loaded triple was the difference in the game as Mark Romanczuk picked up the 4-3 win on the mound.

Ian Deptula drove in two runs as the Newark Yellowjackets upended the Brandywine baseball team 6-3. Matt Emmons was 2-for-4 with and RBI.

P.J. Mangarelli was 3-for-4, and Duben Word hit two triples and drove in four runs as the Christiana baseball team dumped McKean 9-6.

Jill Williams was 3-for-3 with two RBI behind the 2-hit shutout thrown by Glasgow's Lisa Scanlon in a softball contest against Delcastle.

The Dragon softball team, Co-Flight A champs with William Penn, ended their regular season 17-1 as they beat the Flight B champions from Mt. Pleasant 9-1. Jaleah Brown went 2-for-3 as did Jill Williams.

Christiana wins state track title

Vikings knock off Sals again

By MARSHAL MANLOVE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Even after the Christiana boy's track team won the New Castle County track championships just a week prior, many people were convinced that Salesianum would clean house at the state meet.

They weren't exactly correct. The Vikings needed only to finish ahead of Salesianum in the meet's final event, the 4 x 400 meter relay. When anchor runner Andre McMillan grabbed the baton from Quinn Martin with Salesianum's Rob LoBue in third place behind him, Martin headed towards his team and said, "It's over."

Over it was. McMillan, who won the individual 400 meter dash motored to victory and the Vikings won their first ever boy's track and field state championship.

A key injury to Dover's Jason Lilly played a part in the overall point totals during the meet. The sophomore indoor state record holder in the 200 meters tore a hamstring around the first bend in the 4 x 200 meter relay and missed the entire balance of the meet. He was favored to win four events during the meet. Theoretically, that could have cost Christiana six points in events that Dover could have scored higher.

But injuries can't be used as an excuse. Christiana showed up, stretched themselves out properly to compensate for the cold rainy day and won the meet. McMillan said, "We've been working hard all season, and we haven't been getting that much respect."

He was running the anchor leg of the 4 x 200 when Lilly was injured. "It was a real, real close race, then I saw him jump up in the air. Then it was over."

Jon Watson, another Viking relay member, said, "It's unfortunate that Lilly had to get hurt, but he has more years and hopefully he can come back from the injury. Andre put it into a another gear after Quinn (Martin) handed to him. (Lilly) started to gain, then Andre kicked it in, and then Lilly pulled up. It was our last time running together and we really wanted to get it."

Individual Stars Shine

Glasgow's Julius Milbourne was a double winner taking the 100 and 200 meter dashes with times that earned him the unofficial "fastest male runner" title as they were better than everyone combined. "I'm blessed," the senior said. "I'm glad I had a chance to run against the best athletes and I prepared for this all week. I'm truly blessed."

Newark's Jason Forbes was a triple winner capturing the long jump, triple jump, and 110 meter hurdles. "I'm coming off a hamstring injury, but I felt good. This is good," he said.

Isaac Wolkowicz won the shot put for Newark and took a second in the discus. The winner of the discus was Shawn Thomas from Smyrna, the son of the Terry Thomas, the state record holder in the shot put.

Christiana's Danielle Bailey won two golds and one silver individually. Her winning time in the 100 meters was disappointing for her. "I'm glad that I won it, but I'm disappointed with my start. I slipped out of the blocks."

Bailey was nearly clipped at the finish line of the 200 meters prompting a collective gasp from the crowd as Dover's Camie Baker came within two one-hundredths of a second from an upset.

Caravel basketball star, sophomore Davineia Payne, won the Division II girl's shot put for the Bucs who also picked up third place points from Lisa Clifton in the discus.

Cameron Cale grabbed a bronze for Caravel in the boy's shot put.

Hodgson's Armond Williams won the Division II high jump with a leap of 6-2. Teammate Mitch Ryan was second in the high jump at 6-0 and he also took a bronze in the long jump.

Spartan lacrosse team ends season

By MARSHAL MANLOVE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

GREENVILLE- D.J. Davis scored six goals for the eighth-seeded St. Mark's boy's lacrosse team, but it wasn't enough to defeat St. Andrews in the first round of the state lacrosse tournament.

The Spartans (9-7) lost to the Saints 13-8 while playing more defense than they would have liked. When the Spartans were in enemy territory they scored with more ease than their opponents.

Davis helped keep the Spartans close at half time as they trailed only 7-5. A four goal to one spurt in the third quarter was too much to overcome in the final quarter and the Saints moved on.

"They slowed their game down well in our end," said Spartan head coach Dave Reynolds. "Their ball control was excellent and they had the talent to do it."

Also scoring for St. Mark's was Adam Starrett and Michael Fanelli.

Picking up assists for the Spartans was Jeff Mangat, who had four, Davis one, Thomas Fitzpatrick had one as did Stephen Mangat.

Michael Doherty had 13 saves in his final game in the net for St. Mark's.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

CARON MARRA

Newark graduate and University of Delaware Senior, Caron Marra is this week's Athlete of the Week.

Caron led the Blue Hens in six cross country races in 1999, placing 12th overall at the America East championship to lead the team to a fourth place finish.

She posted three top 10 finishes and was also 15th overall at the ECAC championships.

Outdoors, Marra was a consistent winner in the middle distance events, winning four meet titles during the season.

Marra led Delaware to a sixth place team finish at the America East championships after placing third in the 3,000 meters.

Blue Hen set to face UCLA in NCAA Tournament

It's second time UD will face Bruins

The Delaware Baseball team was selected to participate in the four-team NCAA Regional at Oklahoma City May 26-28.

No. 4 seeded Delaware (37-18) has been matched up to face the No. 1 seed and Pac-10 tri-champion, UCLA (35-24) at 4:00 p.m. on Friday. The other game pits No. 3 seed Oral Roberts University (48-13) against host and No.2 seed Oklahoma (39-21) at 8:00 p.m. EDT.

The meeting between the Bruins and the Hens will be just the second meeting in the history of these two programs. Delaware fell to UCLA, 6-1, in 1969.

The Hens battled Oklahoma in the 1998 Atlantic II Regional in Tallahassee, FL, where the Sooners outshined Delaware, 6-3, in the school's only meeting. Oral Roberts and Delaware have never met.

The Regional tournament is a double-elimination format.

Spartan netters fall one short

Bushey remains undefeated at No. 1

By MARSHAL MANLOVE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

WILMINGTON- The top two teams from the 1999 girl's tennis season matched up well head-to-head, but the reigning champs from Tower Hill prevailed over St. Mark's 3-2.

The match was tied 2-2 with the #2 doubles team of Stacy Schecter and Jenna Reifschneider dueling the Hillers Becca Chodroff and Bettina Scott headed toward a third and deciding match. But the Hillers rallied from a game down to win the second set 7-5, after taking the first, 6-2, to give Tower Hill the win.

The number one ranked second single's player in the state is Jen Novak from Tower Hill. She picked up a 6-1, 6-1, win against Lindsey Spada.

Michelle Kerrigan, the Spartan's #3 single's player defeated Kristin Cecala 7-5, 6-1. Kerrigan improved her season win-loss record to 10-3.

The Spartan first double's team of Gillian Andrews and Stacy Wong lost to the Hiller's Susan D'Alonzo and Anne Brothers 7-5, 6-1.

But this match featured a marquee battle between the top two girl's players in the state, sophomore #1 single's Katherine Bushey from St. Mark's and senior #1 single's Wallis Molchen. Bushey defeated Molchen in last year's finals to keep her from repeating as state champion.

Prior to the match Bushey said "I know it's going to be a tough match, but I'm psyched."

Molchen quickly won the first two games in set one scoring the first seven points.

Clearly the stronger of the two physically, Molchen hit three winning shots in those first seven points.

Bushey, however, employed the same type of strategy that she used to defeat Molchen the year before. Simply getting to Molchen's shots and driving them back deep towards the back line, soon began to pay off.

"I tried to keep it deep. I wanted to make her think that she had to hit winners, had to hit better shots."

Bushey broke serve in game three and from that point, it was all her game. Molchen began to show signs of frustration as she was losing 5-2. She began asking herself outloud a few questions about what was happening to her game.

Bushey calmly and confidently walked off the court after winning the first set, 6-2. Her meeting with head coach Lorie Mitchell was quite different than the one Molchen was having with hers. Bushey and Mitchell talked about how the rest of the Spartans were faring while Molchen told her coach she didn't know what to do against Bushey.

In the second set, Molchen began talking to the heavens as she continued to struggle. Bushey was not only returning everything Molchen hit at her, but she was striking with more force than she had last year. "My fitness level has gone up. I've been working out. As a result, I'm stronger, bigger, and hit bigger shots so I'm able to put the ball away and not rely so much on the other person making an error."

Mitchell said about Bushey, "I had more confidence in this match than last year. She showed up (mentally) before Wallis did."

The fight was out of Molchen after she double faulted to end the third game of the second set. Bushey closed her out cleanly from there.

Bushey has been crushing everyone on her way to a second straight championship. No opponent has won more than two games in any match against her in regular season play.

Hens win America East baseball title

WILMINGTON- Kris Dufner's two-run single to left field in the top of the ninth inning broke a 2-2 tie and led University of Delaware to its third-straight America East Baseball Championship with a 4-2 win over Northeastern University. The Blue Hens, 37-18, earn the conference's automatic bid to the NCAA Championship. The Huskies close their season at 25-24.

Chris Kolodzey started the ninth inning rally with a leadoff single though the left side of the infield. John Schneider walked to put runners on first and second with no outs. Northeastern starter and loser Ken Henry (4-6), who allowed seven hits in nine innings with two strikeouts and four walks, got Vince Vukovich to fly out to left field and Steve Harden to ground out to third with both runners advancing to set up Dufner.

Delaware had rallied from a 2-0 deficit with two runs in the seventh inning on John Schneider's two-run homer down the left field line. With one out, Henry issued his first walk of the game to Chris Kolodzey and Schneider lined a 1-1 fastball over the 325-foot sign in left.

Vic Sage allowed seven hits while striking out six and walking one to improve to 4-2.

Sage allowed the Huskies two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning. Todd Korchin led off the inning with a solo home run to left center field. Mike Wysong then singled and advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt. Steve Padovani singled to left field to put runners at the corners and Omar Pena's groundout to short scored Wysong.

Vukovich, who was six-for-11 at the plate and hit the game-winning home run in the 12th inning of Thursday's 4-3 win over Northeastern, was named the championship's Most Outstanding Player.

LPGA tournament slated for June

Julie Inkster will be looking for a repeat of her victory last year when the McDonald's LPGA Championship, returns on June 19-25.

The McDonald's victory was one of a number of highlights for Inkster, who was named Female Golfer of the Year by the Golf Writers Association.

In 1999, Inkster captured five tournament titles and became the 17th member of the LPGA Tour Hall of Fame, following her final win of the year.

She also became the third player in LPGA history, along with Karrie Webb, to earn $1 million in a single season. She ranked second on the 1999 LPGA Money List earning $1.33 million, bring the earnings in her 17-year career to $5.07 million.

The tournament is held at the DuPont Country Club, just outside Wilmington in Rockland.

The tournament is a major fund-raising event in the region. Last year, it raised $2.2 million for Ronald McDonald House Charities. RMHC provides comfort and care to children and their families by supporting Ronald McDonald Houses in communities around the world and by making grants to other non-profit organizations that help children in need.

The tournament gets under way on June 19 with the Jeff Weinberg Memorial Pro-Am and LPGA Practice rounds. A golf clinic, a kids party for the Ronald McDonald House and Golf Clinic and the Wilmington Trust Pro-Am are also slated.

The First Round of the Tournament gets under way on June 22.

The final two rounds will be aired on CBS from 4 to 6 p.m. on June 24 and 25.

Local organizations that have benefited from the tournament include Boys and Girls Club of Delaware, Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council, Mary Campbell Center and Juvenile Diabetes Foundation.

The tournament also brings out an army of volunteers that include members of the Associated Builders and Contractors Delaware Chapter. ABC members do a great deal of the construction work related to the event.

The tournament also offers sponsorship opportunities for businesses and organizations.

For further information on the sponsorships for the event, call Peter Wilder at 428-1681.

Information is also available on the Worldwide Web at www.mcdslpgachampionship.com

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Facing a slightly uphill 240-yard second shot on par-5 recently, I figured there's no way I'll come even close to bothering the twosome on the green. Fortunately (or unfortunately), I connected pretty squarely with my fairway wood and the ball went screaming toward the pin. Now, it didn't come close to carrying the green, but it got a great kick and rolled harmlessly on to the green.

Uh-oh - a golfing gaffe.

I went quickly up to the green to catch the two to apologize before they got to the next tee. Well, it didn't seem my apology was good enough. Even though the ball was rolling and the two were in no danger, one of the gentlemen was up in arms that I would do such a thing. Needless to say, the next 13 holes were some of the slowest played golf I've ever experienced. The twosome wouldn't let us through (even though there was nobody in front of them) and made sure to take extra time over every shot.

Golf is a formal game with no one to officiate it but the players. Every time you play there is an opportunity for breaches of etiquette or rules.

Certainly hitting into a group in front of you falls under that category. Although, I would say hitting into someone on a fly is more dangerous than having a ball roll by.

Playing slowly is another offense. Intentionally playing slowly is even worse.

While waiting from shot-to-shot during that round, I polled my playing partners on some of the common golfing gaffes we've observed.

■ Knocking a drive out of bounds and instead of re-teeing, just dropping a ball where the ball went OB.

■ Taking only a one stroke penalty (instead of two) when dropping ball by OB spot.

■ Riding cart in fairways and rough on cart paths-only days.

■ Fiddling with a lie in the rough.

■ Leaving the pin in while putting on the green.

■ Teeing the ball up in front of the tee markers.

■ Locating a wrong ball in the rough and playing it anyway because you can't find yours.

■ Not fixing ball or spike marks. Although, you can't fix a spike mark until after putting.

■ Yelling back and forth across the fairway to your partners while people in adjacent fairways are trying to hit.

■ Entering an off-limits wetlands sanctuary to look for a lost ball.

■ Doing the old Bill Murray character in Caddyshack and lopping off flowers.

■ For that matter, imitating anything Billy Murray did in that movie. It's great for watching, but bad for actual practice.

■ Well, why we're on movies, anything done or said ("Miss it, miss it") in any golf comedy is probably inappropriate on the course.

■ Here's a classic, but you have to go to a driving range for this kind of fun.

Taking dead aim at the guy 220 yards away driving the tractor that's collecting balls.

Golf is a fun game and should be played by the rules. If you don't, there's probably no jail time on the horizon. However, if you are going to play by your own rules, make sure you don't interfere with others' enjoyment.

Happy Harry's opens 45th store

Happy Harry's Discount Drug Stores recently opened a new, 12,000 square-foot store in Newark at Possum Park and Paper Mill roads.

"We are excited to be part of the Milford Crossroads communities," said Alan Levin, president and CEO for the Delaware drug store chain.

The Paper Mill Happy Harry's will feature a pharmacy drive-thru service where customers will be able to have their prescriptions filled without ever having to leave their car. "We feel that this will be of great benefit to parents who may have just come from a pediatrician's office and don't want to have to take their children out of the car," explained Levin. "It's also a great convenience for anyone who has temporary or permanent mobility problems."

In addition to the drive-thru pharmacy, this newest store features cosmetics, wellness, pantry health care departments, and photo finishing. The store's pharmacy department offers the convenience of a comfortable waiting area and a private consultation area. All Happy Harry's have computerized patient profiles that inform the pharmacist of the patient's history and helps to avoid the potential of drug interactions or allergic reactions.

Happy Harry's, Inc. is based in Newark, now has 45 locations in four states: Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland and New Jersey.

DNREC employees recognized

An accountant with the division of soil and water conservation is the Employee of the Year for the Delaware Department of Natural Resources.

Tracey A. Woikoski was presented the department's top honor by Secretary Nicholas A. DiPasquale after comments from Lieutenant Governor Ruth Ann Minner, who commended the agency for its outstanding service to the state.

All the division of soil and water conservation's accounts payable, accounts receivable, and internal grants reporting tasks are currently handled by Woikoski and an account technician. The highly efficient accounting section processes all accounting documents with an extremely high level of accuracy and invoices are almost always paid within a few days of receipt.

During the time when the account technician was out on leave, Woikoski did an excellent job of continuing to run this section at a very high level of efficiency. Pasquale said Woikoski is precise and effective in executing her responsibilities, even when doing "two" jobs.

Two Newark residents were among DNREC employees who received the Secretary's Award for Excellence.

Stewart E. Lovell, an environmental program manager with the Division of Water Resources, was recognized for his leadership role in advising the Secretary, the Governor's Office, and the water suppliers in northern New Castle County during one of the worst droughts in recorded history.

Patricia M. Ellis, a hydrologist with the division of air and waste management, was recognized for her dedication to Delaware's Underground Storage Tank program and the protection of the state's groundwater. She is also nationally recognized for her expertise on the gasoline additive MTBE, which poses a significant threat to national groundwater resources, and served on the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Blue Ribbon Panel on Oxygenates in Gasoline.

GARDEN OF HOPE

(Front L to R): Patrick Hartmann, 8th grade, Joey Thomas, 2nd grade, and Marissa Eppes, 2nd grade were among students at St. Mary Magdalen School who worked with (back L to R) Carolyn Uhlig, American Cancer Society community specialist, Barbara Wanner, principal, State Representative Catherine Cloutier (R-11th District) and Sandi Sheckler of Verizon Wireless to plant the state's first "Garden of Hope" as a symbol of hope for cancer victims, and their family and friends. Verizon Wireless, formerly Bell Atlantic Mobile, provided daffodils for the garden.

Newark's Nite!

They're flying in Saturday from around the world

For the 15th year in a row, Newark Nite gets underway at 5 p.m. tomorrow on Main Street with music, food, friendly faces and plenty of fun.

Some of the faces may be out-of-the-past as hundreds of alumni and their families enjoying Newark High School's Millennium Reunion reacquire themselves with Main Street and take in the sights.

In addition to 104 crafters, food vendors, exhibitors and entertainers lining the length of Main Street, downtown businesses from Market East Plaza to the Galleria will have special sales and promotions for the evening.

The most important thing parents need to know this year is the Pony Rides have moved to the west end of Main Street across from the University Mall. Tickets and the Pony Rides will be available on the grassy area next to the University of Delaware Old College building.

The Dance Area at Choate Street is back for a second year starting at 5:30 p.m. with free mini-lessons. Each "class" will have 45 minutes to try out their new moves.

New this year are Tennis Lessons by the U.S. Tennis Association at Chapel Street. These free instructions continue throughout the evening as people arrive.

Another innovation is a Dog Station near Margarita's Pizza where canine revelers can get a drink of water during a hot night on the town.

As far as we know, no one is landing in a jet plane on Main Street, but the U.S. Air Force will have a real airplane on display in front of the Marine Recruiting office.

Nearby, Newark Police officers again will be identifying children for parents in the event they are lost.

For the fourth year in a row, Newark Rotary will host a dunking booth on Academy Street where you can land someone in cold water for a small price. No limit on the number of times you can get in line.

Musical entertainment can be found on the East Stage at Market East Plaza/Tyre Avenue where the The Banjo Dusters, Flip Richards and Planete Folle will perform throughout the night starting at 5 p.m.

Jerry & the Juveniles at 5:30 p.m. will be followed by Music from WRDX and then Delirium Theory on the Central Stage near Academy and Main streets.

Michael and the Melody Marvels debut their act at 5 p.m. with Alfie Moss and Soul Avengers rounding out the evening on the West Stage near the Galleria.

Teens killed in Newark crash

Special from the Cecil Whig

Four friends gathered last week at a telephone pole that sits dangerously close to Elkton Road in Newark, not far from the Maryland line, to leave a note and have a moment of silence.

They chose that utility pole — their makeshift memorial — to leave their note because it is where their friend Kevin Talanca, 19, died the night before. It is where Shannon "Lamonte" Earl, 14, died, too.

Talanca, whose family had recently moved to Newark from Elkton, Md., and Earl, a seventh-grader at Elkton Middle School, were both killed on the night of May 25 in a single-vehicle crash on Elkton Road near the intersection of Otts Chapel Road in Newark.

Earl of East Village Road in Elkton, and Talanca of Janice Drive in Newark, both died at the scene. They were pronounced dead at Christiana Hospital shortly after the 10:50 p.m. accident. Both were back seat passengers.

The driver of the vehicle, Robert E. Brown, 18, and the front-seat passenger, Shane Earl, 16, both of East Village Road in Elkton, were admitted to Christiana Care Center and listed in fair condition Friday afternoon.

Both boys have been released from the hospital.

Newark police officers said alcohol was a factor in the accident and that Brown was speeding when he lost control of his car and crashed into the telephone pole. The teens were on their way to Newark.

The accident is still under investigation by Newark police and officials said more details are pending further investigation by the medical examiner's office.

Talanca's friends gathered at the pole on Friday afternoon to give their note to him...to think about Lamonte...to take a few moments to reflect on their lives, their friends' lives, and those whose lives will no longer be lived.

Zack, 15, and his brother Mike Hollenbaugh, 20, Heather Jaquette, 18, and Alyse White, 19, all of Elkton, Md., couldn't believe their friend was dead.

"It doesn't feel like it happened," Mike Hollenbaugh said. "It feels like he's still home, like I just didn't see him yet today."

The group called Talanca "a soldier," adding that he had been through a lot. They said he had totaled his car three weeks ago, and didn't get hurt.

"If it could happen to Kevin, it can happen to anyone," Alyse White said.

White said she and Talanca had been friends for many years, but had become really close in the past couple of months. He had been staying the night at her Newark apartment a lot, lately. Something she will miss.

But, the truth is, the group will miss a lot more.

His laugh.

His stutter.

"I'll miss his advice," White said.

The same outfit, the same T-shirt in different colors that he always used to wear, with his pack of cigarettes tucked in the pocket.

His hook shot.

"That's all he ever did, a hook shot," Mike said.

Newarker killed in Fair Hill collision

Special from the Cecil Whig

A Newark man died Saturday, May 27, when a truck driven by a 17-year-old North East resident attempted to pass another vehicle and slammed head-on into his car on Route 273 near Gallagher Road in Fair Hill, Md.

The collision occurred around 4:40 p.m., police said.

The victim, Curtis M. Sieckert, of Salem Church Road in Newark, was pronounced dead on the scene. The 33-year-old Delaware man worked as a troubleshooter for an Internet service provider. He owned his own web server, which hosted music-related websites.

He was the third person killed on a Cecil County highway on the Memorial Day weekend.

His passenger, Ann-Marie Ridgely, 20, of Maryland, was taken to Christiana Hospital, treated and released.

The 17-year-old driver of the truck and his 14-year-old brother were taken to Christiana Hospital, treated and released.

According to Maryland State Police, Sieckert's 1987 Mazda 626 was heading west on Route 273 when the 17-year-old's 1989 Chevrolet Blazer, heading east on the same road, pulled into westbound lane while trying to pass a third vehicle.

Sieckert drove onto the westbound shoulder to avoid the Blazer, however the boy also pulled onto the shoulder and the two vehicles hit head-on.

Police in Maryland said the accident is still under investigation and charges against the 17-year-old are pending.

Ridgely, during a telephone interview Monday, said she and Sieckert were on their way to a friend's house from Newark when the accident occurred.

Caroline Milburn, 34, of Elkton, who arrived at the scene immediately following the accident, called 911. "The boy kept sobbing and saying, 'If that man dies, I'll never be able to go on,'" she said.

Christina District breaks ground for new school

Keene honored in ceremony

By SHARON R. COLE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Christina School District could not have asked for a more beautiful day last Friday when construction for their new elementary school was officially kicked off with a meaningful tribute to the school's namesake, Dr. William B. Keene.

The groundbreaking was crowded with friends, family, former colleagues and school and state administrators who know Keene well enough to have showed up in rain or shine.

Long-time friend Eugene Trivits proudly described Keene's contributions.

"Today is a true indication of what (Keene) has done for the state of Delaware," Trivits said. "Having moved up the ranks from a teacher to superintendent, always working for the kids, this is a fitting tribute — maybe late, but fitting."

Although demonstrating much success in education, Keene's career was not originally headed in that direction.

"This is something he fell into," said daughter Susan Keene of Newark. "He was first working with the family hardware business before he became a teacher."

"He loves children and he's always tried to be at the top of his game and this is the ultimate recognition for that."

Keene, a resident of Windy Hills, received even more praise once the ceremony got underway.

Christina School Superintendent Dr. Nicholas Fischer described Keene's experiences. "Bill is one of those people who is a complete educator... he has worked both sides of the fence and demonstrated that ultimately we are here to help children move along to become adults."

Over the past 30 years, Keene moved through the ranks of Delaware's public school system as teacher, vice principal and principal in Red Clay School District, in addition to serving on the Newark District School Board.

He accepted the superintendent's position in the Appoquinimink School District before ultimately moving to the Delaware Department of Public Instruction where he served as deputy superintendent and then as state superintendent of education.

Before taking a turn with the ceremonial shovel, Keene gave thanks to those who have been beside him all the way, especially his family.

"I want to make sure my family gets their deserved recognition," he said. "They really had to put up with a lot because, the fact is, for people in public service, it takes a lot of time, energy and effort to do the hustle," said Keene.

grades K-4.

Buck Simpers and Associates designed the 64,500 square-foot building which will sit on 27 acres of land. Total cost, said Simpers, was $7.3 million.

According to Christina's assistant superintendent for planning and facility, Dr. Capes Riley, Parsons Engineering conducted an archaeological dig in which traces of previous use was found at the site.

"From their findings it did show that there were various Indian reservations here and they are still looking at the pieces to determine more information," said Riley.

Riley added that a booklet describing the area and highlighting what was found will be put on display in the school when it opens.

International audience applauds UD graduates

The rains held off on Saturday, May 27, while the Class of 2000 received their degrees in front of family and friends at Delaware Stadium.

Over 4,000 people received degrees before the rains came down at the 151st Commencement of the University of Delaware last Saturday.

Family, friends and graduates gathered at the outdoor ceremony in Delaware Stadium where neurosurgeon Dr. Ben Carson was the featured speaker.

Carson, who received an honorary degree from the University of Delaware in 1997, told the graduates that "brainpower" and expectations were the key to success.

"When I was a fifth-grader, I thought I was stupid...so I achieved like a stupid person," Carson said. "When I was a seventh-grader, I thought I was smart, so I acted like a smart person and achieved like a smart person."

Hannah Rebecca Gurman of New York, who earned a bachelor's degree in both history and English, and Erin Daniell Klene of New Hampshire, an Honors graduate with a degree in both animal science and biology, were honored for achieving the highest cumulative grades in full-time study.

Gurman plans to work in Philadelphia for public advocate Michael Karp.

Klene, also captain of the varsity soccer team at UD, will pursue a doctorate in veterinary medicine at Cornell University.

According to the University of Delaware staff, the graduates came from 36 states and 66 countries, including senior Kestutis Marciulionis, whose parents traveled from Lithuania to see him graduate in Delaware.

Ignition Interlock ordinance tabled

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Newark City Council is waiting for more information before deciding whether to pass an ordinance which would provide an alternative penalty for DUI first offenders in Newark.

According to city manager Carl Luft, an Ignition Interlock Device can be used on vehicles which "senses alcohol on the breath" of the driver and will not allow them to start the vehicle.

The Delaware General Assembly has already passed a law which allows persons eligible for the DUI First Offender's program to use the device. Following a one-month suspension, offenders can obtain a conditional license permitting them to drive their vehicle when it is equipped with the device.

Jim Donovan, a University of Delaware Police Officer, said the driver must "blow into the device like a breathalyzer" before they can drive the car.

In response to questions, councilmember Christine Rewa added she believes the device only works when the driver, the person blowing into the device, is seated behind the wheel and the door of the vehicle is shut. "It's very difficult to cheat (once the process is started)," she said.

City solicitor Roger Akin said the vehicle can't be operated by anyone for a "certain time" after the driver fails the test.

"This was proposed as an alternative penalty because a lot of violators claim they will lose their job if they lose their license and can't drive for a time," Akin said. "It compounds the problems for the family."

Councilmember Jerry Clifton said he thought the ordinance was simply "feel good" legislation and said he would not support it.

"It almost makes it OK for someone picked up for DUI to get back on the street again," Clifton said.

Councilmember Thomas Wampler agreed with Clifton but John Farrell of District 1 said, "This is just mirroring the legislation passed by the state and I assume the state took all these things into consideration. I wouldn't want to vote it down, but I would like a little more information on it."

However, Farrell also noted that a "first offender" meant it was the first time they got caught. "It's not necessarily the first time they drove DUI," Farrell said.

State representative Stephanie Ulbrich (R-Newark South) told council the General Assembly wanted to make things easier for the families, not the offenders. "We made the legislation very restrictive on who could use this device," Ulbrich said.

Council tabled the ordinance on May 22 until they could obtain information concerning how the device works and the driver's license suspension time which would be imposed if this provision was not used.

His research has shown that the Earth's surface received more precipitation than was thought, especially over tropical South America and where there is abundant snowfall. He and his colleagues also demonstrated that the Earth's land surfaces are cooler, on the average, than is apparent in weather-station records alone, because the Earth's cold regions are under-represented in weather-station networks.

His research has shown that the Earth's surface received more precipitation than was thought, especially over tropical South America and where there is abundant snowfall. He and his colleagues also demonstrated that the Earth's land surfaces are cooler, on the average, than is apparent in weather-station records alone, because the Earth's cold regions are under-represented in weather-station networks.

The joint will be jumpin'

Newark will be packed with visitors this weekend. They're literally flying in from all over the place.

In addition to the annual Newark Nite festivities on Main Street tomorrow night, alumni at Newark High School are hosting a Millennium Reunion which invited the surviving members of every class since the school opened. At last count, at least 300 from around the world had accepted, along with their family members.

As if that is not enough, the Delaware Special Olympics with athletes and their families and friends from throughout the state takes place today and tomorrow at the University of Delaware.

And college students are still packing up and trickling out of town with mom, dad or graduate behind the wheel of the rental truck.

It promises to be a weekend to remember — but we hope not a weekend to try to forget.

Last year, some vendors and entertainers at the Main Street event complained about vandalism and criminal mischief from young people. At least one threatened not to return to the annual street fair at all because they claim the city did not assist them enough.

The fact is, there are always instances of rowdy behavior which cannot be foreseen or prevented. And some high spirits and youthful foolishness has to be tolerated in small doses.

But this is a family event — and even in years without a monster high school reunion — a major extended-Newarker-family reunion at that.

Let's try to behave, shall we? Company's coming.

Parents whose teens normally cruise downtown each Saturday night to "hang out" have a good reason to take a drive themselves and see what's up at "out."

Teens and other young people could try restraining themselves for a few hours, at least. Not all of your bad jokes are entertaining.

Graffiti and assaulting people and property with objects, substances, and personal appendages are often criminal — let alone annoying. You and your parents could wind up this exciting weekend with a tour of the police station.

For the rest of us, this is a chance to see Newark at its very best: jumpin' with fun, happy faces and energy. Give yourself a treat and find out what's in your own front-yard on Main Street tomorrow night.

Glasgow Honor Society speech (how did they pick me?)

By JACK BARTELY

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

The following is a partial transcript of a speech I delivered at the induction ceremony for the Glasgow High School Chapter of the National Honor Society. On the recommendation of my wife, I have removed most of the inside jokes. They probably weren't very funny, anyway.

Aren't you glad you're out of high school and don't have to sit through stuff like this?

I would like to thank the officers of the Glasgow Chapter of the National Honor Society for inviting me to be their guest speaker tonight. When Kenny Rivera, Honor Society President, approached me about speaking, my first question to him was, "You must have been scraping the bottom of a very shallow barrel to end up with me as your keynote speaker." Kenny assured me that the barrel was, in fact, quite large and that no scraping, or at least very little scraping, was done to arrive at my name.

In any case, I considered it an honor to be able to address many of the students I have thoroughly enjoyed having in class, and to recognize the accomplishments of many of the new inductees that I have not yet had the pleasure of meeting. Notice that I used the past tense of "considered" because I considered it an honor UNTIL I realized I had to sit down and write a speech. The feeling of "honor" diminished as the deadline approached, and I soon began to feel like a procrastinating honors student who needed to not only finish a term paper for senior English in 24 hours, but who also had to fabricate note cards and a rough draft to make it appear that the correct writing process had been followed diligently. You know who you are.

I hope the new inductees realize the importance of being selected to the ranks of the National Honor Society. I never had the opportunity to become a member "back in the day" when I was in high school. First, my grades, especially from my troubled early teen years of ninth grade, were less than stellar. Second, there was no "National" Honor Society when I was in school since the 13 original colonies were not officially recognized as a nation. Somehow, the "Colonial Honor Society" never caught on. As far as I know, the only member of the Glasgow staff that was an honor society member before there was a National Honor Society was Mr. Higgins, a charter member of the Renaissance Honor Society of Western Europe.

I first became associated with the National Honor Society about 10 years ago when I became a co-advisor for the Society with Ms. Jane McFann. It was Ms. McFann's vision that took the Glasgow chapter from being primarily a scholastic organization and transformed it into the active service organization that has become an important and integral part of the Glasgow and Newark communities. However, Ms. McFann's vision and hard work alone were not enough to bring about the many successes experienced over the years by this chapter. It was the willingness of the officers and members to

Blaze at local farm is seen for miles

Sunday evening about nine o'clock, the large barn on the J.P. Perkins farm, between Cooch's and Christiana, was destroyed.

When the first of seven fire companies to respond, reached the farm the horde of pleasure cars practically blocked any entrance to the farm yard.

Seven companies attended the fire: Newark, Middletown, Newport, Christiana, New Castle, Delaware City and Holloway Terrace.

Delaplane Tract Brings $19,000 at Public Auction

The prospects for another attractive real estate development on the outskirts of Newark boomed skyward last Saturday on the east side of town.

About 200 choice building lots, a small farm, and a mansion house, comprising the entire Vought farm long the Lincoln Highway, went under the auctioneer's hammer.

Oberle's bill sparking controversy

Rep. William Oberle's (R-Scottfield) bill to provide statutory rights for public school pupils, their parents, and public school employees has triggered mixed reactions from various citizen's groups.

Grouping of students by ability, would provide both achievers and underachievers with the special attention they need. "It's ridiculous to have them all in the same atmosphere," said Oberle.

Martin urges tax protection

Senator Roger Martin (D-Windy Hills) has introduced a resolution into the General Assembly to assure that no homeowner loses his home as a result of property tax hikes caused by desegregation.

"A lot of people in the county are concerned that in some areas such increases in tax rates would cause them to lose their homes," said Martin.

June 2, 1995

Vandals mar CHS

Included in the extensive damage was graffiti with the number "95" prominently displayed which suggested to school officials that members of this year's graduating class were responsible.

In addition, bleachers, ticket booths, goalie stands and athletic equipment were moved, overturned and strewn around playing fields. Picnic tables were put up on roofs and two outside lights were broken.

Special Olympics start tonight

Today and tomorrow, Newark welcomes 550 athletes to the Delaware Special Olympics 1995 Summer Games at the University of Delaware Sports Complex on South College Avenue.

Opening ceremonies begin at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Bob Carpenter Center with a parade of athletes, organizational awards, fireworks, and the arrival of the Olympic Flame, which has traveled 112-miles in a relay run across the state.

Aren't you glad you're out of high school and don't have to sit through stuff like this?

I would like to thank the officers of the Glasgow Chapter of the National Honor Society for inviting me to be their guest speaker tonight. When Kenny Rivera, Honor Society President, approached me about speaking, my first question to him was, "You must have been scraping the bottom of a very shallow barrel to end up with me as your keynote speaker." Kenny assured me that the barrel was, in fact, quite large and that no scraping, or at least very little scraping, was done to arrive at my name.

In any case, I considered it an honor to be able to address many of the students I have thoroughly enjoyed having in class, and to recognize the accomplishments of many of the new inductees that I have not yet had the pleasure of meeting. Notice that I used the past tense of "considered" because I considered it an honor UNTIL I realized I had to sit down and write a speech. The feeling of "honor" diminished as the deadline approached, and I soon began to feel like a procrastinating honors student who needed to not only finish a term paper for senior English in 24 hours, but who also had to fabricate note cards and a rough draft to make it appear that the correct writing process had been followed diligently. You know who you are.

I hope the new inductees realize the importance of being selected to the ranks of the National Honor Society. I never had the opportunity to become a member "back in the day" when I was in high school. First, my grades, especially from my troubled early teen years of ninth grade, were less than stellar. Second, there was no "National" Honor Society when I was in school since the 13 original colonies were not officially recognized as a nation. Somehow, the "Colonial Honor Society" never caught on. As far as I know, the only member of the Glasgow staff that was an honor society member before there was a National Honor Society was Mr. Higgins, a charter member of the Renaissance Honor Society of Western Europe.

I first became associated with the National Honor Society about 10 years ago when I became a co-advisor for the Society with Ms. Jane McFann. It was Ms. McFann's vision that took the Glasgow chapter from being primarily a scholastic organization and transformed it into the active service organization that has become an important and integral part of the Glasgow and Newark communities.

However, Ms. McFann's vision and hard work alone were not enough to bring about the many successes experienced over the years by this chapter. It was the willingness of the officers and members to

Blaze at local farm is seen for miles

Sunday evening about nine o'clock, the large barn on the J.P. Perkins farm, between Cooch's and Christiana, was destroyed.

When the first of seven fire companies to respond, reached the farm the horde of pleasure cars practically blocked any entrance to the farm yard.

Seven companies attended the fire: Newark, Middletown, Newport, Christiana, New Castle, Delaware City and Holloway Terrace.

Delaplane Tract Brings $19,000 at Public Auction

The prospects for another attractive real estate development on the outskirts of Newark boomed skyward last Saturday on the east side of town.

About 200 choice building lots, a small farm, and a mansion house, comprising the entire Vought farm long the Lincoln Highway, went under the auctioneer's hammer.

Oberle's bill sparking controversy

Rep. William Oberle's (R-Scottfield) bill to provide statutory rights for public school pupils, their parents, and public school employees has triggered mixed reactions from various citizen's groups.

Grouping of students by ability, would provide both achievers and underachievers with the special attention they need. "It's ridiculous to have them all in the same atmosphere," said Oberle.

Martin urges tax protection

Senator Roger Martin (D-Windy Hills) has introduced a resolution into the General Assembly to assure that no homeowner loses his home as a result of property tax hikes caused by desegregation.

"A lot of people in the county are concerned that in some areas such increases in tax rates would cause them to lose their homes," said Martin.

Vandals mar CHS

Included in the extensive damage was graffiti with the number "95" prominently displayed which suggested to school officials that members of this year's graduating class were responsible.

In addition, bleachers, ticket booths, goalie stands and athletic equipment were moved, overturned and strewn around playing fields. Picnic tables were put up on roofs and two outside lights were broken.

Special Olympics start tonight

Today and tomorrow, Newark welcomes 550 athletes to the Delaware Special Olympics 1995 Summer Games at the University of Delaware Sports Complex on South College Avenue.

Opening ceremonies begin at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Bob Carpenter Center with a parade of athletes, organizational awards, fireworks, and the arrival of the Olympic Flame, which has traveled 112-miles in a relay run across the state.

Ulbrich seeks re-election

State Representative Stephanie A. Ulbrich (R-Newark South) announced this week she is running for a fourth term in the Delaware House of Representatives.

"I am very excited about seeking a fourth term to the State House," Ulbrich said. "I have enjoyed serving the residents of the 25th District, and over the next several years I plan to continue my focus on issues including education reform, tax relief and public safety improvements."

As chair of the House Government Accountability Committee, Ulbrich has led the effort to reform the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission. She has also served as chair of the House 800 Megahertz Committee charged with investigating the in-building and outside communications problems with the State's public safety radio system. The Committee has proposed three bills as part of its recommendations for improvements to the system.

Ulbrich serves as vice-chair of the House Education Committee. This legislative session, she sponsored legislation to link parent accountability to student performance. Under the legislation, a student's performance would be excluded from a teacher's evaluation if the student's parent or caregiver demonstrates indifference to the student's academic success.

Legislators want study of benefits resulting from 'Graduated Licensing' Bill

State Representative Tim Boulden (R-Newark) has introduced House Concurrent Resolution 49 asking the State Insurance Department to review the effects of the graduated driver's licensing legislation passed in the last general Assembly. Boulden was joined by State Senator Dave Sokola (D-North Star) and State Representative Pam Maier (R-Drummond Hill) in calling for the request.

"I would like our Insurance Commissioner to be proactive on this issue," said Boulden. "I would eventually like to see insurance rates reduced for teen drivers if the statistics indicate the new system is reducing fatalities and making the roadways safer."

Due to youth and inexperience, teen drivers are involved in a disproportionately large number of serious and fatal automobile crashes. Graduated drivers licensing, already adopted in many other states, is designed to allow young drivers to "graduate" through levels of licensing so that their responsibility for themselves, their passengers, and those with whom they share the road grows along with their driving experience and maturity.

In Delaware, motor vehicle crashes are the number one killer of teens - more than suicide, homicide, drugs and AIDS combined. The fact is that 16 and 17 year olds are involved in car crashes up to 10 times the rate of mature drivers and are nearly twice as likely to be involved in a single vehicle crash with three or more passengers than 18 year olds. Night driving statistics are even grimmer. Young male drivers are four times more likely to be killed in a car accident after nightfall than middle-aged drivers.

The new Graduated Drivers License law has two steps a teenage driver must follow before a Class D license is granted. The first step is the Learning Period ("Level I" Pen-nit). To be eligible, a teen must be at least 15 years, 10 months old, successfully completed a Driver's Education course and passed a written and road skills test given by a driver's education teacher. The teen's sponsor - either a parent or guardian, must sign the DMV application.

During the learning period, restrictions are in place to give the student time to master newly acquired driving skills for a full year. For the first six months, the teen must drive with a licensed adult at least 25 years old with no more than two other passengers. For the second six months, teens must drive with a licensed adult from 9 p.m. until 6 a.m. (except going to and from church, school, or work activities) and carry no more than two other passengers. From 6 a.m. to 9 p.m., teens may drive unsupervised with no more than two passengers.

During the Learning Period, the Delaware DMV can suspend driving privileges for one to three months if a serious driving violation occurs. Following the completion of the Learning Period, full driving privileges are granted embrace change and undertake the many difficult and tangibly unrewarding tasks that comprise a service organization's role in a community.

The leadership and character of this organization were never more in evidence than this year when the Glasgow chapter was forced, due to Ms. McFann's illness, to operate for most of the year without their formative advisor. The officers and active members assumed the mantle of responsibility, and under the diligent and patient direction of Ms. Houghton, rose to the high standards of community service set in previous years, including the most difficult production of the fund-raising fashion show "Transformations" that has ever been attempted.

For the new inductees and the officers that will assume the leadership roles next year, you have big shoes to fill. You have already addressed one of the four cornerstones of the National Honor Society, scholarship. It was your scholarly achievements that brought your names to the attention of the selection committee and swept you into this prestigious organization. However, now you will need to maintain your scholarship in addition to exploring your character as an individual and developing the leadership of this chapter to set goals after the ever-changing needs of the Glasgow and Newark communities have been assessed.

"Change" is what is important. Many people are afraid of change, yet it is something more "sure" than either death or taxes. Advisors, leaders and members of the Glasgow chapter all will change, and the needs of the community will change simultaneously. As integral parts of this organization, your success will be measured in how well you recognize, embrace, and deal with change, just as natural selection determines the success of an organism in a changing environment.

Things do not all change at the same rate. Many organisms, such as crocodiles and cockroaches, have remained unchanged for millions of years. In the same way, ideas or concepts can remain unchanged as long as they make sense or have meaning. These are known as "memes."

A saying such as, "A penny saved is a penny earned," has been bandied about for hundreds of years and constitutes a "meme." It may not be as apropos today as when it was coined, but it still has meaning. If it had originated today, it probably would have been, "A penny saved is a waste since it could have been invested in a 'dot-com' IPO."

One saying that may be nearing extinction is, "A stitch in time saves nine." Nine what? Nine minutes? Nine stitches? Today this saying would most likely be,

"A stitch in time was probably made by a kid working for Kathy Lee in a sweat shop in Indonesia." Not very catchy, but it's more appropriate for today's economy.

The new members and leaders of the Glasgow Chapter of the National Honor Society will have to decide if what has worked in the past will address the needs of the future. By the way, I am coming to the conclusion here in case you were contemplating nodding off. If you're already gone, then you can't hear me anyway. What has been done "traditionally" may not be appropriate, even though it is comfortable to continue along the same path. Tradition carries a lot of inertia. One word of warning, do not change simply for the sake of change. Many tried and-true ideas will continue to work better than any others you can create. The selective process for the success of this chapter is now in your hands. I have no doubts that you will succeed in changing what needs to be changed, and keeping what needs to be kept. If YOU have any doubts, just ask a crocodile.

The author, with three other teachers at Glasgow High, was the recipient of the State Chamber of Commerce Superstars in Education award and a $750,000 grant from the National Science Foundation for education reform.

Enjoy your county's fresh bounty

Now that spring is literally popping out all around us, why not plan how you will take advantage of this year's locally produced fruits, vegetables and nursery plants.

The Delaware Department of Agriculture has published the "Delaware Farm Market Directory" to help you to do just that. This publication, a voluntary listing of farm markets, is designed to help consumers find roadside fresh produce stands, pick-your-own operations or nursery markets throughout our county and state.

Shopping at these farm markets can be an enjoyable way to save money on fresh, delicious produce and provide your family with an opportunity for recreation and education at the same time.

The directory provides an alphabetical listing, by county, of farm markets. It also includes products available, an indication of pick-your-own (PYO) opportunities, as well as locations, maps and directions. In addition, there is a helpful chart showing the availability dates of Delaware-grown fruits and vegetables.

New Castle County is blessed with several PYO farms that include opportunities for gathering strawberries, pumpkins, cut flowers and apples.

Not interested? Not enough time? You might want to consider a Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) type supplier. These programs are an excellent way for members of the community to support local agriculture while being provided with fresh and, in some cases, organically grown, vegetables, fruits and herbs.

This concept is just catching on locally and can take many different forms. Typically, the producer talks with participants prior to the growing season to decide what produce to grow and to work up a budget for growing the items from seed to harvest.

The total cost of production is divided by the number of participants, which is how the cost of a share and the amount each member pays for participating is determined.

In exchange for investing in the program, shareholders get weekly produce deliveries throughout the growing season and, in some areas, year-round. There are a couple of CSA operations in the area. Be

A HAIRCUT WITH A PURPOSE

Once they had done it, Kati Winchester, Amanda Hall and Lauren Fischer were delighted with their decision to give away some of their hair for a good cause.

It's been a long time since 11-year-old Lauren Fischer of Newark has worn her hair short. Since kindergarten, she has been growing it out with only the occasional trim. But this year, something inspired the sixth-grade student at Bayard Elementary School to cut about 10 inches off the length of her blonde locks.

"I found out that if I cut my hair it could be used to make wigs for people losing hair for medical reasons," said Fischer.

Holding her left hand below her right shoulder, Fischer indicated how long her hair used to be before getting it cut a week before Easter.

"So, for Lent, I decided to give up my hair for a good reason," she added.

Last December, Fischer and her mother, Vickie Fischer, discovered an organization called Locks of Love, based in Palm Springs, Fla. Through the not-for-profit group, financially disadvantaged children under the age of 18 who suffer from medical hair loss can receive wigs and hairpieces made from donated hair.

This was especially meaningful to Fischer who shares the waiting room at A.I. DuPont's Children's Hospital with many kids undergoing radiation or chemotherapy.

"I know what it's like to have to go to the hospital, and, when I go there, I see a lot of people who are (balding)," Fischer said.

In December 1998, Fischer was diagnosed with the blood disorder, Immune Thrombocytopenic Purpura (I.T.P.). This disease is caused by an abnormality in a part of the body's immune system that is responsible for making antibodies. Symptoms of many small bruises or tiny blood spots result from a low number of platelets in the blood.

Although little can be done to cure the disease, medical evidence shows that 80 to 90 percent of children will get better on their own in less than six months. Until then, medicine that maintains a safe platelet count in a child's body is prescribed and regular check-ups with a hematologist are scheduled.

"Since my daughter goes to A.I. a lot, I think she developed a certain compassion for patients with blood disorders and now she does something every year for the Leukemia Foundation," Vickie explained.

For five months, Fischer and her mom discussed donating hair. "At first I thought, 'How short do I have to get it?'" Fischer said. After considering the benefits, Fischer said she finally decided she would do it.

Fischer described her experience in the beauty salon chair at LUX in the Main Street Galleria in Newark.

"The stylist measured my hair with a comb, and then cut it," said Fischer. "Then, of course, she trimmed it."

According to Locks of Love's guidelines, the donated hair must be at least 10 inches (preferable 12 inches) in length, bundled in a ponytail or braid, and free of hair damaged by chemical processing.

The clean, dry hair must be placed in a plastic bag and mailed in a padded envelope. The hair is then used to create custom, vacuum-cap hairpieces suitable for girls or boys.

Sporting a fresh new summer cut, Fischer said her new look took some getting used to.

"I got my hair cut on a Saturday and when I went to school on Monday everybody was staring at me," she said.

Even shampooing felt different for the long-haired veteran.

"The first time I went to wash my hair I put a big pile of shampoo in my hand and then realized I didn't need so much," she said.

Fischer's bold move influenced a few of her friends, Amanda Hall, 10, and 8-year-old Kati Winchester, both also of Newark, to have their hair cut for the cause.

"I got it cut because my mom wanted it short for the summer and because it would help other kids," Hall said.

Fischer looked forward to showing her new cut to the nurses at A. I. who were thrilled about her decision to donate her hair.

"I told them about it over the phone and they said, 'Wow! You did it!'" the young girl said.

Dr. Gregory Griffin, Fischer's physician, said he didn't know she was planning to do this, but he wasn't surprised.

"Lauren is a very outgoing and enthusiastic person and I think for her to decide to do this says something about who she is," Griffin said.

For information, see website Locksoflove.com.

Lauren Fischer smiled bravely as her locks were cut off.

Wilmington and three miles south of the Pennsylvania border, is open Monday through Saturday 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Sunday noon to 4:30 p.m. For information, contact Samantha Neubert at 658-9111, ext. 322.

The Who coming to Camden's waterfront

Electric Factory Concerts presents The Who at the Blockbuster/Sony Music Entertainment Centre on the waterfront in Camden on Friday, July 7 at 8 p.m.

Tickets can be purchased by calling 1-215-336-2000 or 856-338-9000, by visiting the Electric Factory box office at 1231 Vine Street or the website www.electricfactory.com, or by calling any TicketMaster location.

Pete Townshend, Roger Daltrey and John Entwistle of the Who are the three surviving original band members on the tour supplemented by John "Rabbit" Bundrick on keyboards and Zak Starkey in the drum seat vacated by the late Keith Moon (and later-day drummer Kenny Jones).

The Who are no strangers to the reunion route. Three years after the band's 1982 "Farewell" tour, the three surviving original members regrouped to perform at Live Aid. A 25th anniversary tour ensued in 1989, followed by a handful of Quadrophonia performances in 1996 and another handful of intimate club shows last year in Chicago and London.

'Pay-what-you-can' Children's Theater coming to the Grand

Magical fairytales, classic adventures, and a famous foot-tapping entertainer move you through the summer break during pay-what-you-can Summer Children's Theater at the Grand Opera House, Wilmington.

Seven different shows are offered between June 26 and July 19, and tickets cost whatever you wish to give - $5, $1, 50 cents, or nothing at all!

On Monday, June 26, award-winning children's recording star and entertainer Red Grammer performs. Hailed by CBS This Morning as "Superstar to the young and a hit with parents too!" Grammer promises to "get you on your feet" with his amazing voice.

The Rehoboth Summer Children's Theater performs on Wednesday, June 28, in "Peter Pan," who leads his friends to Neverland to do battle with Captain Hook and his band of pirates.

"The Wizard of Oz," brings Dorothy, Toto, and their unusual friends on Wednesday, July 5. "Jack and the Beanstalk" has Jack matching wits with the giant on Tuesday, July 11.

Watch how Belle and a ferocious Beast learn to care for one another during "Beauty and the Beast," performed by The Gingerbread Players on Thursday, July 13. On Monday, July 17, "Pinocchio" must learn between right and wrong in order to become a real boy.

The series concludes on Wednesday, July 19, with "Silly Mixed Up Fairytales." Performed by Page Turner Adventures, this playful production shows you what happens when Sleeping Beauty, Little Red Riding Hood, and Jack & The Beanstalk share one Fairy Godmother.

Each performance lasts about 60 minutes. All showtimes are 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Reservations are required for groups of 20 or more and can be made by calling Quentin D. Robins at 658-7897. Individuals and small groups can attend without reservations.

This program is made possible, in part, by a grant from the Delaware Division of the Arts, a state agency committed to promoting and supporting the arts in Delaware. The Delaware Division of the Arts provides technical and financial assistance to artists and arts programs and serves as a clearinghouse for information on the arts.

Museum needs teens to be summer volunteers

The Delaware Museum of Natural History has an exciting and fun volunteer opportunity for high school students who are 14 years or older. All necessary training is provided by the Museum. Volunteers will work with children ages 5 to 11 at the Museum's Summer Camp, which runs from July 10 to August 11.

Community service is an excellent way to build a resume. The museum, located on Route 52, five miles north of Wilmington and three miles south of the Pennsylvania border, is open Monday through Saturday 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Sunday noon to 4:30 p.m. For information, contact Samantha Neubert at 658-9111, ext. 322.

The Who coming to Camden's waterfront

Electric Factory Concerts presents The Who at the Blockbuster/Sony Music Entertainment Centre on the waterfront in Camden on Friday, July 7 at 8 p.m.

Tickets can be purchased by calling 1-215-336-2000 or 856-338-9000, by visiting the Electric Factory box office at 1231 Vine Street or the website www.electricityfactory.com, or by calling any TicketMaster location.

Pete Townshend, Roger Daltrey and John Entwistle of the Who are the three surviving original band members on the tour supplemented by John "Rabbit" Bundrick on keyboards and Zak Starkey in the drum seat vacated by the late Keith Moon (and latter-day drummer Kenny Jones).

The Who are no strangers to the reunion route. Three years after the band's 1982 "Farewell" tour, the three surviving original members regrouped to perform at Live Aid. A 25th anniversary tour ensued in 1989, followed by a handful of Quadrophonia performances in 1996 and another handful of intimate club shows last year in Chicago and London.

Year 2000 Senior Olympics coming

Delaware Senior Olympics (DSO) president Al Marshall of Hockessin announced recently the elimination of registration fees for all year-round Fitness Awards Programs supervised by DSO. This will help to achieve the organization's goal of 2,000 by 2000 - 1,000 participants in the competitive annual games and 1,000 participants in the noncompetitive Fitness Awards program in the year 2000.

There are currently 24 different sports in DSO's lineup, with a sports coordinator for each of the sports activities. Sports include archery, badminton, basketball (teams for men and women), basketball shooting, baseball, bicycling, bowling, golf, horseshoes, lawn bowling, line dancing, race walk and recreational walk, racquetball, road race, shuffleboard, softball (men and women), sporting clays, swimming, table tennis, tennis, track and field, volleyball (men and women), and weight lifting.

Sports coordinators are experienced in their sport and are available to assist interested participants in any way.

The DSO office has on-site shuffleboard and horseshoe areas at their new location in Dover with regular practice every Wednesday at 10 a.m. Two women's softball and volleyball teams are practicing in the Dover area. Other teams are practicing in New Castle and Sussex County.

Delaware Senior Olympics is open to all Delaware residents age 50 or over. For more information on DSO activities, phone toll-free at 888-881-6128, or check out our web site at blip://members.aol.com/dsoweb.

Sullivan is 'Woman of the Year'

Newark resident Peggy Sullivan was named "Woman of the Year" by the University of Delaware Women's Club. Sullivan, a 1967 graduate of Newark High School, received a bachelor of arts degree in history from the University in 1971. She was a member of the UD Student Government Association and the first student representative for the UD Faculty Senate.

After graduation, she was secretary of the UD Alumni Association and served as class representative for 15 years. She also served as a summer intern in Governor Russell Peterson's office in 1971.

During over two decades at the University, she worked in the Admissions, Urban Affairs, and Alumni Affairs offices as well as Continuing Education before "retiring" to care for her mother in 1994.

As a volunteer, Sullivan has supported the Blue-Gold All-Star Football Game and been a "buddy" with a special needs child since 1985. She has also served as a campaign cabinet

Do's and Don'ts

Just do it

Caravel Academy should change the name of their mascot to "Youth." The current Buccaneers moniker, though nice, is not as appropriate as my new suggestion, Caravel Youth.

The Buc softball team doesn't play with a single senior on the team and only has three juniors.

The Buc baseball team, first round victim of Caesar Rodney's Ian Snell (sure-bet pro draft pick), only has one senior on it and two of their freshman made big contributions during the year.

Manlove

Just don't do it

Never underestimate a William Penn Colonial sports team. Never.

In the softball game that St. Mark's lost to William Penn, a Spartan was heard telling someone that she couldn't make an event on June 3 because there was a state championship game to be played. Three Spartan errors and one hit (the only Colonial hit of the game) later, the player (who shall remain nameless) had June 3 open on her schedule again.

Time and time again these stories about Colonial comebacks keep appearing. Whether or not all the comebacks are wins, they are still shining examples of why their teams continue to put championship banners on the walls of their gym.

Not only do these athletes make all-state teams, they make my All-Heart team as well.

Say goodbye

I'm sorry to say that I will be leaving my job here to continue the pursuit of my vision at Delaware Sports. I will finish the high school season and turn my word processor over to the next stud sports writer who hopefully will be a tad more articulate than I.

Hopefully, we are parting ways with fond memories of my short stint.

Local softball teams collide

St. Mark's upset, Caravel triumphs

By MARSHAL MANLOVE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Our area high school softball teams went to battle in the 2000 state softball tournament this past week.

The defending state champions from Caravel bit their nails through the game that head coach Steve Baker said was, "the game that worried me the most in our bracket."

That game was the rematch of last year's state championship final game with Sussex Central.

What high school softball fan could forget that classic, dueling no-hit contest between two of the four first-team all-state pitchers, Jackie Homiak from Caravel and Betsy Lecates from Sussex Central?

Ironically, both pitchers gave up hits to the first batters that they faced in the quarterfinal matchup.

Caravel took a third inning lead that would stand up through the end of their 2-1 victory. Erin McGlynn doubled into leftfield to score Lindsey Long and Kim Helm.

The Golden Knights struck back for one in the sixth when Suzanne Baker tripled and was driven in by Sandy Samsel's single.

Homiak didn't strike out a batter all game which meant the outstanding Buc defense, clearly the best in the state, was able to showcase their talents.

The Bucs ended the game with an infield double play, a fitting way for the still very young champions to advance to the semifinal round.

Steve Baker took this game

The Colonials celebrate their upset win over the No. 1 seed St. Mark's Spartans in the state softball tournament.

seriously enough to study the game tape from last year's game for four hours, staying up until after midnight to get an idea of how Lecates was going to handle Cavavel.

"She never threw to the same place twice in a row. If she threw one pitch inside, the next was outside. If it was low, it was coming high."

Baker and his coaching staff employed a series of codes to shout to their hitters. For example, once they thought they were pretty certain that they knew what the Rider College bound lefty was going to throw, they would shout a number for one location, a name for another.

Give Baker the unofficial Softball Coach of the Year right now.

Colonials take no prisoners

Completely unsatisfied with a share of the Blue Hen Conference Flight A crown with Glasgow, William Penn exploded for six runs against the 17-1 Dragons in the second inning of the first round tournament game and went on to win 7-0.

They made their claim to the conference championship, and rightly so, after the win.

Glasgow's only loss was to William Penn, and it was by the same 7-0 score.

The Colonials took the lead in the second when Kristen Lentelle was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded and no outs. Two ground-outs scored the next two runs, and then the heart of the order, Melissa Zebley, Erica LaBar and Michelle Whalen produced the next three.

Starting Colonial pitcher Kim Camponelli didn't strike out anyone and only walked two to pick up the four-hit win.

Whalen said, "Going into the game, we truly felt that we were playing, not only for a berth to the second round, but for a flight A championship. As long as we could keep our bats moving, like in our first meeting, we were certain we would cruise to victory."

Not through winning, the Colonials moved on and knocked off St. Mark's, the number one seed.

St. Mark's tops Glasgow in first round baseball

By JOE BACKER

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Defending State Champion St. Mark's needed some timely hitting on a miserable, rainy day to fend off a determined Glasgow High 5-2 Saturday afternoon in the first round of the State High School Baseball Tournament.

The Spartans starting pitcher, left-handed Mark Romanczuk, struck out 13 batters and surrendered only three hits en route to the complete game victory.

St. Mark's Head Coach Matt Smith had high praise for Romanczuk, who pitched in his first-ever tournament game. "Mark struggled early in the game, but managed to settle down and get stronger during the game. He did an excellent job in the later innings," said Smith.

Romanczuk, only a sophomore, outdueled the Dragon's top pitcher, Alan Haupt, for his sixth victory of the season against two defeats. Haupt finished his senior season with a 5-2 record.

The Spartans trailed 2-1 heading into the bottom of the third after Glasgow's Brendon McLeroy crushed a monstrous triple to center field to account for all the Dragons's scoring in the top half of the inning. Glasgow Coach David Kohan said McLeroy's blast would have

Sherman takes over UD baseball post

NEWARK, DE — Jim Sherman, who has led the University of Delaware baseball team to national success as both a player and an assistant coach, has been named the new head coach of the Blue Hen baseball team, UD Director of Athletics Edgar N. Johnson announced Tuesday.

Sherman, 40, who has served as a Delaware assistant coach since 1995 and was named associate head coach this past fall, takes over for Hall of Fame head coach Bob Hannah who will step down following the 2000 season after 36 years at the helm. Sherman is just the 15th head coach in UD history and just the third since 1956.

"We are pleased to have Jim take over our baseball head coaching position at Delaware," said Johnson. "He is a quality young coach and an outstanding baseball person. His previous experience at both Wilmington College and as an assistant under Coach Hannah speaks for itself. He has been heavily involved in the transition this

Ironically, both pitchers gave up hits to the first batters that they faced in the quarterfinal matchup.

Caravel took a third inning lead that would stand up through the end of their 2-1 victory. Erin McGlynn doubled into leftfield to score Lindsey Long and Kim Helm.

The Golden Knights struck back for one in the sixth when Suzanne Baker tripled and was driven in by Sandy Samsel's single.

Homiak didn't strike out a batter all game which meant the outstanding Buc defense, clearly the best in the state, was able to showcase their talents.

The Bucs ended the game with an infield double play, a fitting way for the still very young champions to advance to the semifinal round.

seriously enough to study the game tape from last year's game for four hours, staying up until after midnight to get an idea of how Lecates was going to handle Cavavel.

"She never threw to the same place twice in a row. If she threw one pitch inside, the next was outside. If it was low, it was coming high."

Baker and his coaching staff employed a series of codes to shout to their hitters. For example, once they thought they were pretty certain that they knew what the Rider College bound lefty was going to throw, they would shout a number for one location, a name for another.

Give Baker the unofficial Softball Coach of the Year right now.

Colonials take no prisoners

Completely unsatisfied with a share of the Blue Hen Conference Flight A crown with Glasgow, William Penn exploded for six runs against the 17-1 Dragons in the second inning of the first round tournament game and went on to win 7-0.

They made their claim to the conference championship, and rightly so, after the win.

Glasgow's only loss was to William Penn, and it was by the same 7-0 score.

The Colonials took the lead in the second when Kristen Lentelle was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded and no outs. Two ground-outs scored the next two runs, and then the heart of the order, Melissa Zebley, Erica LaBar and Michelle Whalen produced the next three.

Starting Colonial pitcher Kim Camponelli didn't strike out anyone and only walked two to pick up the four-hit win.

Whalen said, "Going into the game, we truly felt that we were playing, not only for a berth to the second round, but for a flight A championship. As long as we could keep our bats moving, like in our first meeting, we were certain we would cruise to victory."

Not through winning, the Colonials moved on and knocked off St. Mark's, the number one seed.

St. Mark's tops Glasgow in first round baseball

By JOE BACKER

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Defending State Champion St. Mark's needed some timely hitting on a miserable, rainy day to fend off a determined Glasgow High 5-2 Saturday afternoon in the first round of the State High School Baseball Tournament.

The Spartans starting pitcher, left-handed Mark Romanczuk, struck out 13 batters and surrendered only three hits en route to the complete game victory.

St. Mark's Head Coach Matt Smith had high praise for Romanczuk, who pitched in his first-ever tournament game. "Mark struggled early in the game, but managed to settle down and get stronger during the game. He did an excellent job in the later innings," said Smith.

Romanczuk, only a sophomore, outdueled the Dragon's top pitcher, Alan Haupt, for his sixth victory of the season against two defeats. Haupt finished his senior season with a 5-2 record.

The Spartans trailed 2-1 heading into the bottom of the third after Glasgow's Brendon McLeroy crushed a monstrous triple to center field to account for all the Dragons's scoring in the top half of the inning. Glasgow Coach David Kohan said McLeroy's blast would have

Sherman takes over UD baseball post

NEWARK, DE — Jim Sherman, who has led the University of Delaware baseball team to national success as both a player and an assistant coach, has been named the new head coach of the Blue Hen baseball team, UD Director of Athletics Edgar N. Johnson announced Tuesday.

Sherman, 40, who has served as a Delaware assistant coach since 1995 and was named associate head coach this past fall, takes over for Hall of Fame head coach Bob Hannah who will step down following the 2000 season after 36 years at the helm. Sherman is just the 15th head coach in UD history and just the third since 1956.

"We are pleased to have Jim take over our baseball head coaching position at Delaware," said Johnson. "He is a quality young coach and an outstanding baseball person. His previous experience at both Wilmington College and as an assistant under Coach Hannah speaks for itself. He has been heavily involved in the transition this

KATHERINE BUSHEY - ST. MARK'S

The Spartan sophomore tennis star Katherine Bushey is this week's Athlete of the Week for capturing the state number one single's tennis championship for the second year in a row.

Bushey once again needed to beat Tower Hill's Wallis Molchen, the 1998 single's champion, in the final.

The first four times Bushey played Molchen in her career ended in defeat. The first time Bushey came through against the stronger and older player was in the final last year.

After improving her strength and her stamina since the 1999 season, Bushey was undefeated and mowed through the state's competition this year as if there wasn't any competition.

She beat Molchen in the finals this year 6-3, 6-0. The three game losses in the first set were the most any opponent had managed to win against her all year.

Bushey just finished beating Molchen in a dual meet against Tower Hill in the previous week. Her deceptive quickness and consistent return play clearly frustrated a player who nobody else in the state can beat at this level of play.

Bushey, who wears a long pony tail threaded out through the back of her hat, helped her St. Mark's team to a third place finish overall. Her whole team rushed the court to congratulate her after the win.

The champ said, "That's the best part of this win, having it be celebrated as a team victory."

Holy Angels boys win CYO track title

WILMINGTON- Led by brothers Jamie and Stephen McCloskey, Holy Angels defeated 12 other CYO schools including perennial track power St. Edmond's Academy in the CYO Track Championships held at Baynard Stadium.

Eighth grader Jamie McCloskey won the high jump, was fourth in the 100 meter dash and was a member of the winning 4x100 relay team. Accompanying Jamie on the 4x100 relay were Brandon Bell, Chris Simpson, and Kevin Ellis. Their time of 48.6 is a new CYO record surpassing the 14-year-old record held by St. Matthews.

Stephen McCloskey, a fifth grader, won the 100 meter dash, long jump, and anchored the fifth grade 4x100 relay gold medal team.

"Jamie is the kind of kid coaches dream about. He took our team under his wings. He led by example and everyone else followed. St. Mark's High School has a Champion on the way," said Coach Pat McKeefery. "All of our eighth grade boys and girls have promising athletic futures."

Eighth grader Chris Simpson, won the 200 meter dash in a blazing 24.6 and also won the Long Jump.

Other outstanding efforts were put forth by fourth grader Luke Brady who won the 400-meter dash and by third-grader Michael Russell who was third in the fifth grade 200-meter dash behind Adam Thomas, also from Holy Angels.

The girls' team finished third behind Holy Cross and St. Elizabeth's. Lauren Wallace won the eighth grade 200-meter dash and Lauren Baffone won the eighth grade long jump and was second in the 100-meter dash.

Alison Pusecker won the eighth grade girl's high jump. Eighth graders Lauren Wallace, Lauren Baffone, Ashley Beers and Alison Pusecker won the gold medal in the 4x100-meter relay. This same team, coached by Michelle Larson, won the gold medal at the Penn Relays this year.

Third grader Lauren Brooking, fourth grader Melanie Spencer, fifth grader Rachel Burns, and fifth grader Cassandra Deitrick teamed up to win the fifth grade 4x100 meter relay.

Tourney Notes

Ok, so this person isn't in our teeny little community, but check this out.

Wilmington Christian's junior soccer and field hockey star Danae Chambers, from Elkton, recently rejoined the Warriors soccer team after recovering from a broken back.

What was remarkable about the injury was not only that she returned from a broken back, but that she apparently broke it when she was a freshman, nearly two full years ago.

Wilmington Christian Athletic Director Pam Love said, "She has been playing in pain all this time. When they did an x-ray, they saw the break."

Chambers made the first-team all-state team in field hockey twice since the original injury and the soccer team once.

She is now the captain of my All-Heart team.

Ok, so the competitors in the boy's lacrosse championship final weren't from our community either, but man, oh man, was the game between Cape Henlopen and Tatnall an excellent game.

The teams traded goals for the whole game before Tatnall strung together a four goal surge in the fourth. Rob Howard scored three goals in a three minute span (to join the All-Heart team) to put the Hornets up by three.

The Vikings came back to within a goal, took one shot that hit the Hornet crossbar, and then took one last shot with 17 seconds left that Hornet goalie Adam Kirby saved to win the game. All of this happened in the rain and ended Tatnall's two-year string of championship game final losses.

I still consider golf an activity rather than a sport, so I do not cover it at all. There is about as much athletic talent needed to play golf as there is to play tidlywinks. I'm sure my successor will be more than happy to oblige the golf fans out there, but I've worked up more sweat playing Monopoly than I ever did playing even a vigorous 36 holes of golf.

Throw bowling into that non-sport category now that I'm in the process of venting.

Held hitless and trailing 2-0 through six innings, the Colonials put the bat on the ball in the seventh and forced St. Mark's to make plays that they didn't end up making. Three errors, two wild pitches, and a single by Whalen, and the Spartans were denied a trip to the year and he'll hit the ground running. We have no doubt that he will continue the great tradition and success of Blue Hen baseball."

Sherman came to Delaware as an assistant coach in 1995 after serving seven years as head coach and six years as athletic director at neighboring Wilmington College. He was promoted to the position of associate head coach in September when Hannah announced his retirement effective at the end of the 2000 season.

He serves as Delaware's third base coach and has helped the Blue Hens post an incredible record of 249-87 during his six seasons, a span that has seen the semifinals that seemed destined to happen just ten minutes earlier.

Stefany Tiberi picked up the win on the mound for the Colonials.

Whalen said, "It feels great knowing that we have already accomplished more than we did last year, and are still in the running."

Hens capture five America East titles and advance to five NCAA regional tournaments.

Sherman was 215-125 in his seven seasons at Wilmington, winning six District titles, two Regional titles, and making two trips to the NAIA World Series. In 1993, he served as coach of the East team at the Olympic Baseball Trials.

"I'm ecstatic over the fact that Jim will be the head coach," said Hannah. "I've known him for a long time as a player and assistant coach. I'm familiar with his strengths. I know he will be a great asset to the program and do a great job. I'm thrilled that when I step down, Delaware has a guy of Jim's calibre to take over."

been out of most fenced-in ball parks. "We knew he hit the ball solid, it was just a matter of whether he would get three or four bases out of it," he said.

The Dragon lead was short-lived, however, as St. Mark's tied the game 2-2 in the bottom of the third inning before taking the lead for good in the fourth. With one out, and runners on first and third, Jim Drane lofted a deep shot to center field for the go-ahead run. Kevin Maloney's RBI single then gave the Spartans some breathing room. St. Mark's added an insurance tally in the sixth to end the scoring.

Kohan said he was proud of his team's effort against the defending state champs. "We played a good baseball game against a very good team, and everyone played well despite the steady rain," said Kohan. He said he was especially proud of his seniors who played in their last high school game. "A number of the boys were here when we went 0-18 a couple of years ago, so, despite the loss, it's great to see them play well in the state tournament," Kohan said.

Smith said he was also pleased with the effort by his Spartan squad. "I was surprised how well the game was played by both teams in the steady downpour. We started slowly, but picked up the runs when we needed them," he said.

The championship game takes place Saturday, June 3.

Blue Hens eliminated from NCAA Regional

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK — A season and an era came to an end for the University of Delaware baseball team as Oral Roberts knocked the Hens out of the NCAA Regionals with a 4-2 victory at the Bricktown Ballpark.

Oral Roberts (49-14) jumped out to a 4-0 lead and starter Jordan Gerk (8-5) held the Hens in check all day, allowing just two runs and seven hits, to eliminate Delaware from the tournament. The No. 3 seed Golden Eagles moved on to further tournament play.

For the Hens, it was the second straight loss and one that marked the end of a remarkable 36-year coaching career for Bob Hannah.

Ginzberg named UD business dean

Michael J. Ginzberg, a professor and associate dean at the Weatherhead School of Management at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio, was named dean of the University of Delaware's College of Business and Economics.

According to University Provost Mel Schiavelli, Ginzberg also will be Chaplin Tyler Professor of Business.

Schiavelli thanked Ken Biederman for stepping in and serving as interim dean after the death of Dana J. Johnson, who served as dean from 1996-99. "Ken's former experience as dean ensured a steady course for the college during the difficult period after Dana's death," Schiavelli said.

Ginzberg, 52, said the job attracted him because of the potential for growth, particularly in his primary fields of interest: international programs and information technology. "There are opportunities within the college, the University and the business community to build the college, and that's exactly what I want to do," he said. "I'm really quite excited about the opportunities."

Ginzberg joined the Weatherhead School faculty in 1985 as head of its management information and decision systems division and established the MIDS Department the next year.

The department faculty was awarded numerous research grants, including large grants from the National Science Foundation and Digital Equipment Corp. Today, it is considered one of the top information systems research departments, focusing on behavioral and organizational issues.

Ginzberg also worked to establish the Center for Management of Science and Technology, an interdisciplinary center for research and teaching, at the Weatherhead School.

The Weatherhead School also established exchange programs with business schools in several European nations, as well as in Israel, Mexico, Costa Rica, Australia and the Philippines. The school also offers short-term study tours in Europe, Asia and Africa. Ginzberg helped set up collaborative programs with schools in Hungary and Japan and worked to develop educational alliances with other institutions in Asia and Latin America.

Ginzberg led the school's effort to redesign its MBA programs, including the introduction of a new full-time program, a new core for the accelerated program and a revised part-time program. In 1997, he received the school's Theodore M. Alfred Distinguished Service Award.

Ginzberg earned his doctorate in management in 1975 from the Alfred P. Sloan School of Management at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The author of more than 45 articles and books on information systems development, he has held leadership positions in various professional organizations, including two terms as chairperson of the executive committee of the International Conference on Information Systems.

The College of Business and Economics is UD's third largest, with 1,900 undergraduate and 600 graduate and executive program students.
