UD, NRG sign alternative energy agreement

By JOSH SHANNON

..... JSHANNON@CECILWHIG.COM

The University of Delaware announced Monday a new part-nership with NRG Energy that officials hope could lead to more job creation at the former Chrysler Assembly Plant in Newark, now owned by UD.

If successful, it would be just one more step in the redevelop-ment of the site, which is already slated for more than 1,000 new jobs by next year. Under the deal signed Monday, NRG will be granted an exclu-sive license to UD's vehicle-togrid technology and will spend two to three years determining the feasibility of commercializing the technology.

"It's an incredible opportunity for us to marry technology with the changes in policy that are going on in the United States," said UD President Patrick Harker.

The eV2g technology, pioneered by UD professor Willett Kempton, allows owners of electric vehicles to sell energy stored in the vehicle's batteries to a power company when the vehicles are not being used. It allows for communication between the grid and the vehicle, letting the power company take energy during times of peak consumption and letting the vehicle charge when demand is lower.

The owner of the vehicle would get paid for the energy the power company uses and would be able

Capital One to add 500 jobs in Delaware

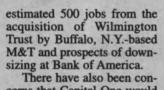

By DOUG RAINEY

DRAINEY@CHESPUB.COM

Thanks in part to state incentives, Capital One plans to expand its Delaware workforce by 500 jobs. It also plans to retain the workforce of ING Direct, an internetbased bank, as well Delaware credit card operations of HSBC. The Virginia credit card and banking giant is on track to acquire both businesses.

Capital One already has a small presence in Sussex County, Del. where it operates a full-service bank. ING Direct's headquarters and operating centers are based in Wilmington, while HSBC has a site in New Castle.

The move by Capital One is good news for a state that has seen the loss of an cerns that Capital One would have difficulty retaining ING Direct customers who liked the company's strategy of emphasizing saving over pil-ing up debt from credit cards. "Capital One is a bank on the move, actively expanding its workforce and offerings. There are talented, driven and experienced Delawareans ready to get to work each day to help them move forward," Gov. Jack Markell said. "Delaware understands and appreciates the criti-cal importance of a strong financial services industry - both to our state and to the strength of our national economy. Capital One's decision reflects our commitment to this important industry."

The bank cited the state's responsiveness, the quality of its workforce, its public officials' active involvement in recruiting them and Delaware's commitment to their industry as some of the factors that contributed to their decision to choose Delaware for expansion, according to a release from the state. "We're incredibly excited about coming to Delaware. We expect to bring hundreds of new, high quality jobs to the state and to become an active and engaged part of the Delaware business community," said Richard D. Fairbank, CEO of Capital One.

In June, Capital One announced its plans to acquire Delaware-headquartered ING Direct USA for $9 billion. In August, Capital One subsequently announced its plans to acquire HSBC's domestic credit card business in a transaction valued at approximately $2.6 billion. HSBC's domestic card business also employs Delawareans. The state stressed that the 500 jobs would be in addition to all of the ING and HSBC employees that would become Capital One employees after the acquisitions.

As part of the expansion agreement, Capital One will receive a Delaware Strategic Fund Job Creation Incentive of $5.6 million and a Capital Improvements and Equipment Cash Incentive equal to three percent of the total capital expenditures the bank makes for their new Wilmington facility, up to a maximum rebate of $1.5 million. The funding is contingent on approval by the Council on Development Finance. It is also subject to the final approval and closing of the acquisition of the company's planned acquisitions of ING Direct and HSBC. Under the agreement, the 500 new jobs must be in place by December 2013.

"Capital One recognized the value of our existing industry and talented worksaid Development force.' Office chief Levin. "With the state's investment, we will secure the company's commitment to our state, resulting in hundreds of jobs for Delawareans."

"This is welcome news for Delawareans and our com-munity," said U.S. Sen. Tom Carper. "In a time where thousands of Delawareans are unemployed, I am encour-aged that Capital One has decided to expand its operation to Delaware and invest in the First State and its strong

Newark Chief awarded Police Chief of the Year

Newark Police Chief Paul M. Tiernan was honored as the Police Chief of the Year by the Delaware League of Local Governments

this past weekend. Chief Tiernan was nominated in particular for his initiation of Newark's Crime Suppression Plan and for redefining the primary function of the Traffic Division to reduce collisions. "The Chief's initiatives have made the community a much safer place for our residents. His Crime Suppression Plan and redefinition of the Traffic Division's primary function are just two examples of the innovation he has brought to the department," says Newark City Manager Kyle Sonnenberg.

Newark has had a reduction of crime that is directly attributable to the Crime Suppression Plan. After analyzing past crime statistics, Chief Tiernan instituted the Plan in fall of 2008 that specifically targeted street robberies and assaults that coincided with the return of the students to University of Delaware. Since the students tend to be the targets of these crimes, Chief Tiernan deploys more officers in areas where such crimes are more likely to occur. Aggressive patrol tactics, complying with all applicable regulations, are employed. Police shifts and deployments are changed to target specific neighbor-hoods with increases in crime. "We are sending a message to these criminals that you cannot do business in Newark. The community will not accept their presence," says Police Chief Tiernan. "We will be vigilant in our protection of University of Delaware students and Newark citizens." The Crime Suppression Plan is now instituted regularly and has helped to decrease the Police Department's yearly robbery statistics by 52 percent from 2006 to 2010.

The Chief's changes to the Traffic Division have led to 17.4 percent reduction in collisions from 2008 to 2010. Prior to the changes made to the Traffic Division, officers investigated all collisions that occurred during their work shifts, which consumed most of their time. When not conducting investigations, the officers would conduct specific enforcement, such as speed-ing, red light or stop sign violations. Chief Tiernan changed the focus of the Division so that Traffic officers now only investigate serious collisions - usually involving serious injury or death. Routine collisions are now handled by Patrol officers, which allow Traffic officers to focus on targeted enforcement of violations where residents have complained about traffic problems, areas of known violations and accident-prone intersections. Consistent enforcement has led to a more cautionary driving public and reduction of collisions

Santora CPA Group establishes UD scholarship for accounting

Santora CPA Group, a Newark-based Certified Public Accounting and Consulting firm, recently announced the establishment of a scholarship program designed to recognize an outstanding student from Delaware who is majoring in accounting at the University of Delaware (UD).

In making the announcement, William A. Santora, Managing Partner, cited the firm's 28-year history of supporting UD, enhanced by the $25,000 multi-year commitment to fund the annual scholarship award.

Santora, a native of Delaware, is a 1973 graduate of UD with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Accounting and is a charter member of the UD Academic Advisory Council for the Lerner College's Department of Accounting and MIS.

Capitol One has the opportunity to build on the strong foundation that ING Direct started ING Direct has made a far-reaching impact in the Delaware community and we look forward to Capital One continuing this tradition.

"Delaware's workforce is among the most talented in the world, so Capital One's decision to expand here is a smart one," Sen. Chris Coons said. "Still, this is exciting news for Delaware. These are high-quality, high-paying jobs — the kind that we are constantly working to bring here. I thank Gov. Markell for his leadership in bringing these jobs to Delaware, and will continue to work with him and my colleagues in the delegation to create even more of these job opportunities here in Delaware

"I was very pleased to learn that not only would all of ING's positions in Delaware be retained through the merger, but that an additional 500 good quality, well-paying jobs would be added to our workforce," said Cong. John Carney. "The announcement of these new jobs coming to Delaware is testament to the strong partnerships that ING, Capital One, and all levels of government in the state have been able to maintain. ING has always been an excellent corporate citizen in Delaware, and I look forward to a similar relationship with our new partners at Capital One."

Hotel sees two thefts in one week

Twice last week, Newark Police responded to burglary calls at the America's Best Value Inn, located at 1120 S. College Avenue, where a quantity of appliances were taken by unknown suspects.

On Monday, September 19, employees at the business reported that 10 dorm-style Magic Chef refrigerators were missing from the premises, with a total value of almost $1,500. The appliances were left outside to dry as renovations are being performed on the first floor rooms that received a significant amount of water damage from flood water caused by Hurricane Representatives stated Irene. that they do not know if the appliances are operational.

Approximately 50 refrigerators were left outside.

Police found tire marks in the parking lot, leading them to believe that a truck was backed up to the sidewalk to remove the appliances. No witnesses or video surveillance footage was recovered.

Later in the week, on Thursday, September 22, 50 Magic Chef microwaves, with a total value of $2,400, were taken from the site. The microwaves were also part of the renovation and were left out to dry. Employees stated that they did not know how many of the appliances were operational, but told authorities that they were left in a secure location.

Jewelry taken in home invasion

A resident of a home in the unit block of Shenandoah Drive, in Ridgewood Glen, Newark, reported that an unknown suspect had entered her house last Thursday afternoon and taken over $3,000 worth of jewelry.

A search by police showed that the point of entry was a back porch door, where the screen had been cut and the window removed. Several small jewelry boxes were seen to have been emptied in the master bedroom and their contents removed, which included two diamond rings, an emerald bracelet and several necklaces. The owner said that most of the pieces were antiques and had been passed down to her.

A canvass of the neighborhood produced few witnesses, who all stated that they saw nothing suspicious during the timeframe.

Elderly woman's purse taken

The daughter of a 93 yearold woman in the unit block of Old Chestnut Hill Road told officers that an unknown person had entered her mother's house and took her purse and a bottle of pills, as she slept.

Police found that the suspect had entered the home by cutting a screen door in three places to open the rear entrance. A glass door was also forced open, allowing a second point of entry.

An inventory of the premises showed that only the woman's purse - containing $300 in cash in an envelope, a wallet, a blank checkbook, and the keys to house - and a bottle of Oxycodone pills were taken.

A search of the neighborhood revealed that most of the contents, including the purse, had been left nearby. The envelope, containing the cash, was found empty.

Fingerprints were recovered on both the screen door and glass door. No suspects have been named in the case, though the victim said that she has a home healthcare assistant that visits from time to time who knows the layout and contents of her house. The case has been turned over to the Criminal Investigation Division of the Newark Police Department.

Development project revamped at Council meeting

At Monday night's City Council meeting, an adult community project that had been put on hold for four years was unanimously approved to be rezoned for the construction of single-family and semi-detached homes.

The project, called The Wilson Farm, was originally approved in 2007 as an 86unit adult community on two parcels of land located on the south side of the CSX railroad tracks on Casho Mill Road, east of the Christina Creek. The council approved the area to be rezoned from AC (adult community) to RR (row and townhouse), to allow for 18 single-family homes and 62 townhouses to built on the site. The project was redesigned to accommodate the large number of families, young adults, and graduate students that are expected to move into the area as part of the expan-sion of the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, the redevelopment of the former Chrysler site by the University of Delaware, and the anticipated arrival of Bloom Energy

The original plans had been mothballed due to extremely low demand caused by a lagging economy. The Wilson Farm will be a joint effort between Lang Development Group, of Newark, and Cornell Homes, who had previously partnered to construct the adult community of The Village of Twin Lakes and The Greene at Twin Lakes.

Lang Development owner Jeff Lang presented the project on behalf of the team and stated that an improving economic landscape in Newark allowed him to resurrect the project.

Questions arose over whether the current real estate market would be able to support such a project. Lang stated that 34 of the 62 townhouses have potential buyers, illustrating that the market is showing signs of rebounding.

Councilman Mark Morehead, a nearby resident, expressed concern over the amount of increased traffic in an area that is already clogged due to the one-lane CSX underpass on Casho Mill Road. Lang, along with City Planner Roy Lopata, said that a traffic study by the Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) showed that there will be some increased congestion in the area, but due to the fact that the development is on the south side of the tracks, most of the traffic will travel between the overpass and Elkton Road and will not add significantly to traffic north of the tracks.

Councilman Stu Markham congratulated Lang and his team for designing a project that will promote singlefamily and owner-occupied homes, thus encouraging young families and adults to move to the area: a subject that has been the source of contention at one workshop held during the summer and also at recent council meetings.

In other news, an ordi-nance adding Municipal Parking Lot #6 to the list of parking meter locations in the downtown area was approved by council. The 35-space lot, located behind the new University of Delaware's Barnes & Noble bookstore on Main Street, has recently had new signs, meters, and a change machine installed. A two-hour time limit is enforced between the hours of 8 a.m. and 1 a.m.

The lot has been used infrequently, due to a misconception that the area is part of UD's parking lot system, and not the City's. The Mayor and Council stressed that the lot is open to the public and encouraged its use.

An amendment to Newark's traffic code con-cerning Driving Under the Influence (DUI) violations was also approved at Monday's meeting. The new ordinance will enact penalties for secondary and additional violations within a ten-year period, instead of the older five-year range. The nev ordinance will align the local traffic code with language in the State of Delaware code, which is enacting harsher punishments for DUI violators.

New language was also adopted to include members of civil unions to be eligible to collect on City employee pensions. The definition of a "spouse" has been expanded to not conflict with language in State legislation that was passed recently.

Finally, a contract was approved to upgrade a Shick lime transmission system at the Newark Water Treatment Plant for $29,096. The amount will cover both parts and labor for a Shick USA technician to install the system. The upgrade will replace an older system that is in need of repair.

to set limits for when energy is sent to the grid and how much is taken.

Kempton said the beauty of eV2g is that it uses vehicles that otherwise aren't being used at the time to help relieve the demands of the power grid.

"Unlike any other commodity, you have to produce it at exactly the same time it's being used," Kempton said. "This balancing is going to become harder as we bring more and more renewable energy onto the grid."

NRG, a company best known locally for its proposed Bluewater Wind project off the coast of southern

Delaware, will occupy offices in the former administra-tive building of the Chrysler site. While it will be a small operation at first, officials hope the partnership could lead to bigger things, poten-tially housed on the former Chrysler site itself, which UD is developing into a science and technology cam-

'That's a possibility," said David Weir, director of UD's Office of Economic Innovation and Partnerships. "But its really too early to speculate on that because its not quite clear what the business will look like."

The announcement comes three months after Bloom Energy announced plans to locate its East Coast plant on the site, a move that is expected to create 900 full-time jobs, 350 construction jobs and possibly up to 600 additional supplier jobs.

Bloom, which makes equipment used to cleanly convert natural gas and bio-fuels to electricity, is expected to start construction later this year, with production set to begin in mid-2012. It will occupy 50 acres of the nearly 300-acre site, which is currently undergoing demotion and cleanup.

Iron Hill Brewery named to "SBA

Iron Hill Brewery and Restaurant has been named by the Small Business Administration (SBA) as one of the SBA 100. The local company was tounded in 1996 and has grown to eight restaurants and over 800 employ-ees. Governor Jack Markell and SBA Regional Administration Regional Administrator John Shoraka joined the City of Wilmington and other SBA officials on September 15 to honor the firm for their selection.

The SBA 100 features one hundred businesses that have created at least 100 jobs since receiving SBA assistance. Descriptions and a photograph gallery of each of the SBA 100 companies can be found at www.sba.gov/100. The SBA 100 companies include businesses in a variety of industries, from manufacturing, to food and beverage, to shipping. Each business received SBA support in the form of capital, contracting, counseling or investment before going on to create at least 100 jobs. In the case of Iron Hill, they benefited from a SBA guaranteed loan and counseling assistance from SBA funded resource partners SCORE and the Small Business Technology and Development Center.

In the early 1990s, Kevin Finn and Mark Edelson would spend their Sunday afternoons watching football and fermenting home brew kits. Finn recalls that their first attempt, 'Dog Blaster' was "a really dark, nasty beer' and eventually was consumed by his dog Shredder. They continued to create different brew combinations, and in 1993 they won their first of many awards.

Kevin Finn, Kevin Davies, and Mark Edelson at the Iron Hill Brewery in Wilmington, Delaware.

The two friends had personal advertising and engineering experience, but to start their own business they needed someone who had previously worked in the restaurant industry. They teamed up with Kevin Davies, who had twenty-four years of experience in the restaurant business, and decided to open their own brewery. In 1996, the trio received a $400,000 SBA 7(a) loan, which they combined with their personal savings to found their company. On November 14, 1996, C&D

Brewing, doing business as Iron Hill Brewery and Restaurant, opened in Newark. The company grew quickly in size, and earnings. In 1998, Iron Hill utilized the SBA 504 loan program, to obtain $308,000 to open their second location in West Chester, Pennsylvania. By 2000, there were three Iron Hill Restaurant and Brewery sites, employing 300 people and earn-ing $12 million in sales.

The growth has continued, and today Iron Hill operates eight restaurants in three states and employees more than 750 people. Revenues continue to grow again and last year sales topped a record $35 million. Finn indicates that the goal is to "continue to open about one new location a year until we reach twenty restaurants. We want to keep a footprint within 100 miles of Wilmington" miles of Wilmington."

SBA 100 firms like Iron Hill Brewery and Restaurant continue to expand and contribute greatly to their local economy. "All across the country, Americans like Kevin, Mark, and Kevin are doing amazing things to outinnovate, out-educate and out-build the rest of the world," said SBA Regional Administrator A. John Shoraka. "It's wonderful to see them being recog nized by SBA as part of the SBA 100." "When we say that small businesses and small business owners are the backbone of the American economy, Iron Hill and its founders are exactly what we are talking about. They are the epitome of the American entre-preneur," said SBA Delaware District Director Jayne Armstrong.

O'Dell Hoke named Entrepreneurial Woman of the Year

While a student at Penn State University, Donna O'Dell Hoke worked for a Greek shop that supplied customized apparel and items to campus fraternities and sororities. She later had an idea to bring a Greek shop to Newark for University of Delaware students. That was 1988.

The New Castle County Chamber of Commerce recently named O'Dell Hoke the winner of its annu-Entrepreneurial Woman of the Year Award. O'Dell Award.

Hoke will receive the award at the 21st annual Business Women's Expo set for November 16, at the University of Delaware's Clayton Hall.

O'Dell Hoke has owned Unique Impressions on North College Avenue in Newark for 23 years. She began with a phone book finding fixtures for the store. During the day she helped customers. At night she cut, sewed, and pressed.

Today, Unique Impressions offers embroidery, screen printing, and a full line of promotional products. The business has grown to eight full-time, and up to 25 part-time, employees. Unique Impressions has become a landmark destination in Newark.

The County Chamber created the Business Women's Expo in 1990 in an effort to recognize the important impact women have made to the local economy. It has quickly become one of the signature events on the Chamber calendar. This year's expo will feature morning workshops, a keynote awards luncheon, informal modeling, all day networking, Wine Tasting Success Hour, major door prizes and more than 100 exhibitors and sponsors.

The keynote speaker will be Kay Frances, author of the book, The Funny Thing About Stress. Frances, according to her website, has appeared at the nation's top comedy clubs including "The Improvisation" and "Catch A Rising Star." Frances touts her keynote as "humor with an edge at its funniest." She will be available for a book signing from 2-5 p.m.

Meal management for those with diabetes

By MARIA PIPPIDIS

NCC EXTENSION OFFICE

In the mid-1990s, an estimated 4.3 percent of Delawarean adults had diabetes, and by 2007, this number had increased to nearly 9 percent. With approximately 58,000 Delawareans over the age of 18 currently having diabetes and another 9,297 Delawareans having pre-diabetes, it's important that families learn new skills to help prevent and manage disease.

It's worth every Pippidis dollar for individuals to invest in developing these new skills and understanding. On average, people with diabetes pay $1,600 in annual, out-of-pocket costs; these fees include insurance co-pays and deductibles. These outof pocket costs are significant considering that an estimated 40 percent of Delawarean adults with diabetes reported a family income of less than $35,000 per year in 2005.

Many complications of diabetes can be controlled and even prevented by making lifestyle changes: scheduling regular doctor visits, improving eating habits, increasing physical activity, and maintaining a healthy weight. But just how do you combine these elements to be healthier and manage or prevent the disease? Our Dining with Diabetes program may help you sort through these questions and get you on the road to a healthier you.

Whether you are the one with diabetes, the one dining with a diabetic, or the one preparing foods for your diabetic loved one, there can be many questions regarding food choices and food preparation. Some of the questions we'll cover in our upcoming workshop include: How do you adjust your cooking? What foods or ingredients should you avoid or increase? What are ways to manage sugar and insulin levels? How much exercise should I have? Are all carbs created equal?

The three-part series will take place on Tuesday evenings from 6:30 p.m.- 8:30 p.m. at the New Castle County Extension office. On October 18, we'll cover Desserts. October 25 will cover Main Meals, and November 1 will discuss Side Dishes. The fee of $45.00 covers the information (handouts, booklets, recipes) you'll be provided and the food you'll get to taste test at all three sessions. Call the NCC Cooperative Extension office to request a registration form at 831-1239.

In the spirit of the upcoming holidays, during each session you'll have the chance to try some holiday recipes or food ingredients that you haven't had before. The food demonstrations help you learn techniques for improved cooking. We will also review making healthy food choices when eating in restaurants or at upcoming holiday celebrations, too.

The Dining with Diabetes program helps adults make lifestyle changes that are beneficial. The practical program can help you sort through the information you have learned about the disease and help you make the right changes in your food choices, diabetes management, and activity levels. I hope you'll join us. Below is a sample recipe:

beren is a sumpre recipe.

Sweet Potato Salad 4 servings

Ingredients:

1 cup peeled, chopped sweet potato 1 cup peeled, chopped white potatoes (such as russet)

1 teaspoon mustard

1 1/2 Tablespoons lemon or lime juice

1/2 clove garlic, minced (or pinch of garlic powder or

1/4 teaspoon bottled minced garlic)

2 Tablespoons light mayonnaise

2 Tablespoons plain, fat-free yogurt 1/8 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup diced celery

1/4 small onion, diced

2 Tablespoons finely chopped toasted peanuts (optional)

Directions:

1. Place white potato pieces into a large saucepan and cover with water. Bring to a boil, turn the heat down, and simmer for about 5 minutes. Add sweet potato and cook 5 to 8 minutes more or until tender. Drain and rinse with cold water to stop cooking process.

2. To make dressing, whisk together mustard, lime juice, garlic, mayon-naise, yogurt, and salt.

3. Toss potatoes with celery and onion. Gently mix in dressing. Stir in peanuts just before serving.

Determination brings Newark lineman back from injury

By JON BUZBY

JONBUZBY@HOTMAIL.COM

Keith Green saw his football playing days flash before his eyes as he lay writhing in pain on the ground after suf-fering what his coach termed catastrophic injury' in Newark High's third game last September.

'I was just hoping and praying that I was still going to be able to play," Green said with a wince, thinking back to the moment when he knew his leg was injured.

It was on a Friday night under the lights at Hoffman Stadium and all eyes were on the junior lineman. But instead of watching him emerge from the bottom of a pile after making another spectacular tackle, fans sitting in both sets of bleachers stared in shock as the 6-foot-3, 220-pound lineman was surrounded by trainers and coaches and eventually carted off to the locker room.

"When I got into the lock-er room I felt like my leg was going to be fine," Green recalled.

Wishful thinking. Green would soon learn that he had suffered a unique injury, not only tearing his ACL and meniscus, but also injuring his hamstring and calf muscles. He also quickly realized he was in for a long rehabilitation proces

'[Rehabilitation] was a lot of work," Green shared shortly before taking the practice field last week. "After I went the first time I knew it was going to be a long time before I could do anything. The therapist tested my leg and it was not strong at all. The hardest part [mentally] was going there after a long day at school knowing I was going to have to fight through the pain and keep pushing to get my leg stronger

Newark High lineman Keith Green used grit and determination to get back to what he loves most - playing football.

But the grit and determination that makes Green a ferocious two-way lineman ended up being the traits needed to get back to doing what he loves most – playing football. "It feels so great to be back," said Green, who started playing football at the age of 7 in the New Castle County Football League. "The first time I stepped on the field I had a feeling it was going to be a good season. It always feels good every time I step on the field."

Green has helped Newark get off to a 3-0 start. But winning is only the icing on the cake for the well-rounded young man, who just over a year ago thought his playing days might be over. Newark coach Butch Simpson, for one, was optimistic as soon as he met with the family after the game that Green would get back on the field.

"I don't know that there's much worse that can happen in a coach's life than to see one of your players having that kind of circumstance," Simpson said while thinking back to the events of that night. "I was most impressed with the character demonstrated by his entire family from the moment we all met in the training room after the game. There was never any wavering about getting through this. The positive nature of this family, including Keith, in such a challenging time, was overwhelming to me. It was a great statement about family dynamics." As good a player as he is on the field, Green might be an even better person off it. He's a member of the National Honor Society, the Forum to Advance Minorities in Engineering and Black Achievers. And while many of his classmates spent the summer leading into their senior year doing anything but schoolwork, Green spent part of his vacation on the UD campus attending a summer college program. "Keith has represented our program with such class and dignity," Simpson said that pride. "He's everything that Simpson said with makes me proud: How he conducts himself as a gentleman jonbuzby@hotmail.com.

and how he interacts with his teammates and coaches. He's a pretty quiet and unassuming guy, but has taken on a lot of aspects of life. He's having what I consider to be a good high school experience.

TAXALLA PERFECTATION CONTRACTORS

That experience includes playing on the varsity basketball team, and, what comes as a surprise to many, singing in the school choir.

'Even before I played football I was big on music," said Green, who also sings in his church's choir. "Everyone in my family is a musician of some kind."

When asked if kids ever make fun of him for singing in the choir, he replied with a chuckle, "No, I'm too big for kids to make fun of me.'

Green plans to attend college Delaware, Old Dominion and William and Mary are his top three choices and major in either sports medicine or biomedical engineering. But as important as academics are to him, they won't be the deciding factor in his college choice. "I'm going where I can play football," he said adamantly

There will be interest in him," Simpson said of poten-tial college suitors. "The injury cut his junior season short, which is an important year in the recruiting process. There's a place for Keith, it's just a matter of where that place will be."

As long as that place includes a football field and a chance to be part of a team, Green will make the most of the opportunity.

After all, he knows as well as anyone just how quickly that opportunity can be taken away

DeIDOT welcomes NASCAR fans to Dover

The Department of Transportation(DelDOT)welcomes race fans to the 2011 NASCAR tripleheader weekend at the Dover International Speedway beginning on Friday, September 30 for the NASCAR K&N Pro Series East Race; Saturday, October 1 for the "OneMain Financial 200" NASCAR Nationwide Series Race; and Sunday, October 2 for the "AAA 400" NASCAR Sprint Cup Series Race.

DelDOT's Transportation Management Center (TMC) staff in coordination with the City of Dover Police and Delaware State Police will monitor traffic in and around the Dover vicinity to ensure safe travel for motorists.

On Sunday, October 2, the Dover International Speedway's main entrance on Route 13 will be CLOSED for all southbound traffic when parking at the Dover International Speedway is filled. When the race is concluded on Sunday afternoon, Leipsic Road will also be CLOSED to through traffic. This will allow traffic to immediately exit onto Route 13 and traffic from Lot 2 Parking to exit directly to Leipsic Road.

A designated exit route for the Saturday and Sunday races have been established through the cooperation of many groups including the Towne Point Civic intersection Kirkwood Hwy. Rt. 2

Association. Vehicles parked in Lot 1 will be permitted to exit to Buckson Drive onto Townsend Boulevard (next to K-Mart) and the signalized intersection. Once at the traffic signal, motorists will be able to turn southbound only. Due to special routes being designed just for Saturday and Sunday races, motorists are encouraged to tune to WTMC 1380 AM and to read the variable message board signs surrounding the Dover area.

The TMC and DelDOT's Traffic Division will work from the Command Post at the Dover International Speedway with technicians monitoring traffic inside the track facilities and outside on Dover-area roadways. DelDOT's staff will watch major intersections for proper signal progression, place temporary directional signage, and assist with any incident or congestion problems along major travel routes.

At both of the Route 1 and I-95 Toll Plazas, additional lanes will be open in expectation of traffic congestion. Extra toll operators will be working at the Route 1 Toll Plaza in Dover on Monday, October 3 to assist recreational vehicles leaving the speedway.

Park 'n' Ride Bus Service

DelDOT and Dover International Speedway are pleased to offer race fans a better way to enjoy their stay. If you're looking for a smart way to get to and from the track, consider using the Race Express Bus service. This bus service is only available on Sunday, October 2. In the event of inclement weather, and the race is postponed there will be NO bus service on Monday, October 3.

On race day, payment will only be accepted by exact CASH amount, no change will be available.

You can choose to ride from two locations:

• (1) The Race Express from Christiana Mall Park & Ride in northern Delaware, just off I-95 takes NASCAR fans directly to Dover International Speedway. The bus service will begin at 8 AM with 800 seats available on a first come, first serve basis. The cost per person is $12.00 round-trip.

• (2) For $20 per vehicle, NASCAR fans can also park at the Blue Hen Corporate Center located at 655 South Bay Road in Dover. All vehicle occupants can ride the Race Express Bus to and from the Dover International Speedway. The Race Express Bus avoids race day traffic congestion by traveling north on Route 1 to an exclusive bus-only exit ramp leading directly to Dover International Speedway, approximately 12 minutes. The service begins minutes. The service begins at 8 AM and is available to transport passengers back and forth until one (1) hour after the race.

• Carry-on items on the buses to the grandstands must conform to Dover International Speedway's Gate Admission Policy, and any and all carry-on items that can be handled by one person are permitted on the buses upon departure after the race.

Smyrna Rest Area

The Smyrna Rest Area located approximately ten miles north of Dover International Speedway just off Exit 119 is open 24 hours each day; which offers snacks and sodas, restrooms, and has an RV dump station for the convenience of NASCAR campers.

Race fans can get real time updates on traffic and parking conditions by signing up for Twitter at www.twitter.com/DelawareDOT and Facebook at www.facebook. com/DelawareDOT.

It's Revolutionary! Re-enactors stage mock battle during Mount Harmon festival

By JOSH SHANNON

JSHANNON@CECILWHIG.COM

It's 1777 and the British Army is headed toward Cecil County. The Redcoats land at the Mount Harmon Plantation in Earleville and plan to head for Philadelphia. It's up to Commander Tom Vogeley and his colonial army to stop the Brits' advance.

That's the scenario that played out this weekend as Mount Harmon hosted a Revolutionary War re-enactment.

One of the largest re-enactments scheduled for this year, the event drew nearly 1,000 re-enactors from as far away as Canada and Puerto Rico. "We're expecting an epic living-history event," said Paige Howard, executive director of Friends of Mount Harmon. "It's like time travel."

The two-day festival ran from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday. The main event is the Battle of Mount Harmon (3 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday), but other events including artillery demonstrations, parades and fife-and-drum performances were scheduled throughout the day.

Two national re-enactment groups, the Continental Line and the British Brigade, teamed up to help put on the event. The groups usually host one or two large-scale re-enactments each year, said Vogeley, who leads the Continental Line.

The Friends of Mount Harmon reached out to the groups a few years ago and asked them if they were interested in having an event at the Earleville site. Originally a tobacco plantation granted to Godfrey Harmon by Caecilius Calvert in 1651, Mount Harmon is now open to the public for tours.

"We drove out there and said 'Wow, this place is beautiful," Vogeley said. "It's on a nice peninsula, there's water on three sides, there's almost no modern intrusions and plus it has rolling fields."

A smaller event there last year went well, so they decided to hold one of their national events at Mount Harmon. There was no actual battle at Mount Harmon, so the one staged this weekend was fictional.

But it was intended to fit into the timeline of the Campaign of 1777, in which British troops sailed up the Chesapeake Bay and landed at Oldfield Point, near current-day Elk Neck State Park. They marched to Elkton and then on to Philadelphià in an attempt to draw George Washington's army into battle by forcing it to defend the colonial capital.

How much practice and choreography go into staging a large-scale re-enactment?

"Believe it or not, really none," said Vogeley, who has been a re-enactor for more than 40 years.

Each unit practices drilling on its own and the commanders agree on a basic scenario and the ending, but there is no script, he said.

"It's more a matter of officers knowing how to move their men," he said. "Then it's a matter of following orders."

Taste of Newark hits the spot

By MARK CORRIGAN MCORRIGAN@CHESPUB.COM

Like fine wine, the annual Taste of Newark just gets better with age.

Celebrating its eighth anniversary, the event brought together restaurants, food and beverage purveyors, and a host of local businesses, to showcase the finest offerings of Newark's burgeoning culinary scene. "It lets us show off what we do best," said Eric Aber, owner and executive chef at Main Street's Home Grown Café.

Due to gloomy forecasts, this year's Taste of Newark was moved from the University of Delaware's Old College lawn indoors to UD's Clayton Hall.

The event, limited to 1,000 tickets, was declared a complete success by Newark Mayor Vance Funk, who announced this week that over 900 tickets were sold. "I think it's been fantastic. It's been our best Taste of Newark ever." said Funk. Over 45 businesses attended the event, bringing with them a variety of exotic and familiar gastronomic dishes. The festival was originally suggested by Funk as he was first running for mayor. After attending similar events in other cities, Funk helped to create the showcase as means of promoting business in the downtown area.

An "Iron Chef"-like competition highlighted the day, with five local chefs competing by featuring this year's secret ingredient, pork tenderloin, in two signature dishes. Judges declared Erin Finegan, Executive Chef and Assistant General Manager of Kildares Newark this year's winner.

Proceeds from the Taste of Newark benefit the Newark Downtown Partnership and UD's Department of Hotel, Restaurant, and Institutional Management.

John Sinclair

John P. Sinclair died peacefully at home on September 16.

Jack was born on March 31, 1915, to Gervase R. and Jean W. Sinclair. He spent most of his boyhood in Fairfield, Connecticut and Caldwell, New Jersey, and in 1929, with his family, he came to live in Newark where he continued to live until his death.

Jack graduated from Newark High School, Swarthmore College, and University of Pennsylvania Law School. After graduation from law school, he joined the Wilmington law firm now known as Potter, Anderson and Corroon, where he enjoyed a legal career until retiring in 1980. Among the local clients he represented in various courtrooms were the Newark School District, the University of Delaware, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. During the war he was a sergeant in the 359th Fighter Squadron, a part of the 8th Air Force stationed in England. After the war he was commissioned as a captain in the Active Reserve of the Army assigned to the Judge Advocate General's Department, where he served until retiring as a lieutenant colonel in 1975.

After the war he took a brief fling at politics, serving two terms in the Delaware House of Representatives. While he was a member of the Joint Finance Committee, he sponsored and helped write legislation establishing, for the first time, uniform, objective, criteria for determining the amounts to be paid to each of the state's school districts. He also sponsored the bill cre-ating Delaware's first separate Supreme Court, and the bill establishing pensions for retiring judges. Jack also served for many years as Newark City Solicitor, working with five different mayors and councils. While there, he wrote numerous ordinances, and in 1951 he wrote new articles of incorporation for Newark which replaced the original articles enacted in 1852. The new charter for Newark substantially increased the population by extending its boundaries and changed its official name from Town of Newark to City of Newark:

At various times during Jack's long life, he was a member of many orga-nizations including: Phi Delta Theta fraternity, Newark Lions Club, Newark Country Club, Rehoboth Bay Sailing Association, Wilmington Ski Club, Wilmington Country Club, Wilmington Club, Association of College and University Attorneys, Reserve Officers' Association, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Military Officers Association of America, and the Fraim Senior Center, where for a while, he played chess on a regular basis and twice won the state championship for senior amateurs. Jack and Jane were also active members of the University Drama Group, forerunner of today's Chapel Street Players. Jack served two terms as president and played leading roles in many of the group's theatrical productions. He left to survive him his wife Jane Hastings Sinclair, two children Michael G. Sinclair and Elizabeth S. Tiffany, and their spouses Susan W. Sinclair and Harold E. Tiffany III; four grandchildren Jason, Pryor, Jeanne, and Rose; and nine great-grandchildren. According to his wishes, there will be no viewing, funeral, or memorial service. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Newark Senior Center or Compassionate Care Hospice c/o R.T. Foard & Jones Funeral Home, 122 West Main St., Newark, DE 19711. To send condolences visit www.rtfoard.

This week's Out of the Attic item is a picture circa early 1880's of the Joseph Dean and Son Woolen Mill complex on the White Clay Creek. The mill was built in 1853 on the site of the fire-destroyed Tyson Grist Mill downstream from the Curtis Paper Mill. Dean, with 300 employ-ees, was a major producer of woolen material and the major employer in Newark. The Dean mill was the first in the Philadelphia area to supply woolen material for the Union Army during the Civil War. Suddenly everything changed on Christmas Day 1886. Summarized from the Every Evening Wilmington newspaper the next day: 'N E W A R K 'S CONFLAGRATION - The Large

Dean Woolen Mills in Ashes "A bad outlook for 800 people who were dependent on the Mills for support Loss exceeds $900,000 with insur-ance of $153,000. Alarm was sounded at 0910 by a long sounded at USTU by a long blast of the steam whistle, after discovery of dense smoke in the buildings. Employees using Mill hose and buckets tried hopelessly to control the fire. The Mill and four houses completely destroyed. The employees now out of wok and their dependents, totaling 800, are more than one-third of the entire population of the town

This disaster had a great deal to do with the formation of the Aetna Hose, Hook, and Ladder Volunteer Fire Company two years later when thirty citizens gathered in the Grange Room on December 17, 1888 to answer a call made by Town Council to organize a fire company. Today, 123 years later, Aetna volunteers still provide the fire protection for the Greater Newark Area.

Chapel Street Players pres-ent "Twelfth Night"

"Twelfth Night" or "What you Will" by William Shakespeare. Director, Robert G. De Remigio, Assistant Director, Jennifer P. Maloney, Music Director, Sean Kelly.

While on an ocean adventure far from home, Viola and her twin brother, Sebastian, find themselves separated and cast away on the shores of Illiria. As strangers in a strange land, the lost siblings - each believing the other has drowned - encounter the most challenging adventure of their lives: love. Identity and gender roles further complicate the situation when unwanted advances, unrequited longing, and a cast of unruly servants converge and conspire in Shakespeare's romantic comedy of love in all of its manifestations

Food Bank of Delaware has disco fever

Boogie down! It's time for the Food Bank of Delaware's Saturday Night Fever Blue Jean Ball. The food bank will host its annual signature event on Saturday, October 8 from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. in its Newark warehouse at 14 Garfield Way in the Delaware Industrial Park

Guests can leave their black tie gala attire at home for this annual event. Blue Jean Ball attendees are asked to don their favorite blue jeans or hippest outfits for a night at the disco. This year's theme will take guests back to the disco days; the food bank's 33,000-square-foot warehouse will be transformed into a space reminiscent of the Saturday Night Fever dance floor.

The Blue Jean Ball is held each year to raise awareness of the acute problem of hunger in Delaware and the important role the food bank plays in combating hunger, as well as its root cause - poverty

The evening will feature beer and wine and fine cuisine prepared by the Food Bank of Delaware's Executive Chef, Tim Hunter, Chef Instructor, Mark Saunders, and students from The Culinary School. The evening's menu includes popular foods from the era such as mini monte cristo sandwiches, ambrosia salad, lamb chops with minted demiglace, a gourmet "shake-n-bake" chicken, salmon, ricea-roni, macaroni and cheese and more.

Live entertainment will be provided by Strangers, the area's newest party band. Guests will also have an opportunity to bid on a wide selection of items during the silent auction, including a trip to Hawaii.

Tickets are available for $100/person and $1,000/table of ten. Tickets may be purchased by calling (302) 444-8074 or by visiting www. fbdbluejeanball.org.
