Relief due at Rt. 40 lights

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The intersection of U.S. 40 and Del. routes 1 and 7 — given a failing grade by the Delaware Department of Transportation — may soon benefit from the entities that have apparently fueled the congestion.

One traffic light, in particular, has proved to be a source of irritation and debate between residents, commuters and DelDOT officials. The light on U.S. 40, which signals cars in and out of Eden Square, where Super G, Happy Harry's and Lowe's are located, was scheduled to be removed July 1.

The light is still there, but DelDOT has plans to provide relief.

Changing the timing of traffic signals along U.S. 40 and adding a third lane as an extension of the Del. 1 off ramp should help alleviate some congestion, according to Michelle Ackles, manager of public relations for DelDOT.

Commuters now exiting onto U.S. 40 from Del. 1 find themselves in a series of lights that cause back ups at almost any time of day.

Ackles said area developers, who have invested in the expanding commercial space surrounding the intersection, are investigating long-term solutions and will probably help with funding improvements.

Scott Green, attorney for the stores in Eden Square, said a private traffic signal study, compiled by VMI Maris Engineers, found removing the signal for the mall would "create more problems."

"The study found a lot of good could be accomplished by making timing changes with the lights," Green said. "For the moment, everyone is working together to try different options."

One long-term solution Green mentioned calls for realigning Del. 7.

Green suggests moving the intersection of Del. 7 south of U.S. 40 (the same side of

Canal beats Canadians, in World Series finals

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — It would've been hard to find anyone three weeks ago that could've envisioned the Canal Senior All-Star softball team still playing this late in the summer, let alone winning the first two games of the Senior Softball World Series and advancing to Thursday's winner's bracket final.

That, however, is exactly what this team has accomplished.

Canal ripped West Portage, Mich. 10-3 Monday and survived a 8-3 scare against Canadian national champion Duncan, British Columbia Tuesday to advance to Thursday night's contest against Pinole-Hercules, Cal., who defeated five-time defending world champion Naples, Fla. 1-0 Tuesday. The winner will play for the world title Saturday, needing just one more victory for the championship.

Canal (15-3 through Tuesday's game), facing the best pitcher it has faced all season, came out blazing in Monday's opener versus West Portage. The Eastern Regional champs, buoyed by Adrienne Maloney's two-run homer over the left field wall,

Motive for Newark homicide still unknown

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

New Castle County police are investigating an Aug. 14 shooting which left a 17-year-old Newark boy dead in his home.

Police report that Newarker James O. Flowers III, 17, was pronounced dead at his residence in Cavalier Townhouses after being shot once in the head.

Police have charged a Newark man with murder. The motive for the shooting is still under investigation.

The police investigation has revealed that David E. Holmberg, 22, of the unit block of Capano Drive, Cavalier Apartments, Newark allegedly shot Flowers with a .22-caliber semi-automatic handgun when he was visiting. He then fled the apartment, throwing the gun down as he ran away.

Police have charged Holmberg with first degree murder and possession of a deadly weapon during the commission of a felony.

Police said Holmberg apparently ran to a relative's house and called 911 to report the shooting. Police report that, with the assistance of New Castle County Parks and Recreation personnel, the gun was found on the grounds of the Cavalier apartment complex.

Holmberg was arraigned at Court 18 and committed to Gander Hill Prison because bail cannot be posted on murder charges.

FOR THREE DECADES

WNRK sends clear signal to Newark

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK'S OWN radio station, WNRK, is celebrating its 30th anniversary in the rough-and-tumble world of AM radio.

This coming week, the station will be playing tunes from its first year on the air.

Also, WNRK is bringing back former disc jockeys and broadcasting tidbits from three decades ago, in the form of local and national news, sports and prices of various items in 1964.

"We've lasted 30 years," said WNRK owner and general manager Al Campagnone. "That's no small accomplishment considering the age of technology we're in."

With the quick decline of AM radio nationally in the last decade and competitive interference from strong major market radio stations in Baltimore and Philadelphia that can easily be picked up on local radio receivers, WNRK has carved out a survival niche by serving as a "hometown" station in suburban Newark.

Campagnone said he believes WNRK has remained close to the community by following local issues, announcing winter school closings, and broadcasting local high school football and basketball games. Another specialty is national sports teams, including the NFL's Dallas Cowboys.

Then, to really get things revved up for the celebration, WNRK will give away a fully-restored 1966 red, convertible Ford Mustang on Aug. 27. The station will choose a winner from more than 20,000 entries.

Campagnone said the winner will have to pay taxes, tags and insurance for the car and will have three days to call the station and claim the prize. If not, a new winner will be chosen.

There is still time to enter the contest and win the car, but the public must tune into WNRK and listen for the 14 locations where they can register for the car. Campagnone would not reveal the locations for this report, but said at least two locations are announced on-air every hour.

Campagnone, who has been with the station for 14 years and served as owner for 11, said no one is sure on exact date when the station went on air for the first time, although has narrowed it down to between Aug. 19 and Aug. 21.

Morning disc jockey Fran Kulas, who has been working for about 10 years at the radio station, has been researching to learn more about WNRK's first year on the air.

Kulas said it was 1964 when The Beatles came to America and their single "I Wanna Hold Your Hand" was a

AT THE SCHOOLS

Is summer almost over?

A sure sign that Labor Day is near is the beginning of fall sports practices and band camps at Newark area high schools. Here, members of the Newark High School Yellowjacket Marching Band practice maneuvers on the field while learning their new half-time show for the '94 football season. The 190-member band, directed by Lloyd Ross, will compete in three marching band competitions and march in various parades. Senior France Lawrence is this year's NHS drum major.

Woman pushed to ground, kicked

Newark police report a 17-year-old Newark woman was pushed to the ground and kicked Aug. 11 after she waved to a person, she thought she knew, driving in a Jeep on Main Street. Police said the attacker got out of the Jeep and assaulted the Newark woman.

The Newark woman sustained a dislocated elbow, was treated at Newark Emergency Center and released.

Police describe the attacker as a woman with long, blond hair and about age 20-25. To report information, call Newark police at 366-7111.

Attempt to enter house

A 20-year-old Newark woman awoke Aug. 15 to sounds coming from the fire escape of her house in the unit block of West Delaware Avenue.

Police said the woman looked out her bedroom window and found that the screen had been cut in an attempt to enter the house.

Dog, house stolen from Thompson Circle

Police report a gray, female dog was reported stolen Aug. 14 from the backyard of a house in the unit block of Thompson Circle.

Police said also stolen was the dog's house, food, leash and bowl.

Stereo taken from Main Street church

A stereo was reported stolen Aug. 11 from the Newark United Methodist Church on Main Street.

Police do not know how the church was entered.

Television missing at Chapel Street home

A 45-inch television was reported stolen Aug. 12 from a house in the unit block of North Chapel Street.

Police said the house was entered through an unlocked back door.

Business under construction damaged

Police report that Congress Rotisserie, a business under construction on Elkton Road, sustained water damage when a hose was placed at the front door and turned on.

Beer keg taken from College Avenue store

A keg of Busch beer was reported stolen Aug. 13 from Peddler's Pit Stop on South College Avenue.

Police said the keg was taken when a store employee was on the phone.

A green and purple mountain bike was reported stolen Aug. 7 from the back of an apartment in Victoria Mews Apartments. Police said the bike was locked.

College Square shop hit again by burglars

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

FOR THE THIRD TIME in two months, Sally Beauty Supply in College Square Shopping Center was burglarized — most recently on Aug. 13.

Newark police also reported this week that two hair salons, one on Main Street and one in College Square Shopping Center, were broken into.

Police said the Sally Beauty Supply was entered when the back door was pried open and damaged.

Police said an undisclosed amount of cash, two pair of hair clippers and $175 worth of synthetic hair pieces were reported stolen.

Sally Beauty Supply Manager Krissy DiRocco said she has had one employee quit because of the store burglaries.

"I don't know what to say," DiRocco said.

"This is ridiculous."

She said the morning after the July 22 burglary the store did not open until 3 p.m. because the backroom was ransacked and had to be cleaned up. Also the store had no money to do business.

DiRocco said a lock and safe company has tried to reinforce the back door after each burglary and, after the second burglary, had to replace the entire door.

The other burglaries occurred at Headlines in Newark Shopping Center Aug. 8 and The Hair Cuttery in College Square Shopping Center Aug. 13.

Police said at both stores the back door was pried open and an undisclosed amount of cash was stolen.

Police report also, this week, Just Nails in College Square Shopping Center reported an attempted break-in Aug. 11. The store was not entered but the back door was damaged.

Arrest made in Glasgow flashings

Delaware State police arrested a 38-year-old Middletown man Aug. 13 for indecent exposure incidents in Peoples Plaza in Glasgow.

Police arrested Thomas E. Parcels, of 10 Maureen Court in Middletown, and charged him with two counts of indecent exposure.

Police said the incidents occurred May 31 at Body Works Tanning Salon and June 8 at Pet Emporium, both in Peoples Plaza. Police said Parcels allegedly entered the stores wearing a long t-shirt and bikini underwear and exposed himself.

Parcels, police said, was arraigned at court 11 and released on a promise to return to court at a later date.

Info sought about unconscious boy

New Castle County police detectives are seeking information regarding the Aug. 12 assault of a 17-year-old Newark boy.

Police were dispatched to the 100 block of Fox Drive in Fox Woods development in Newark and found the boy unconscious in the road. The boy was taken to Christina Hospital and admitted overnight for observation because he had serious head injuries.

Police said apparently the boy had been in a fight with two men who fled the scene before police arrived.

To report information to New Castle County police, call 571-7924.

Superintendent now earns $102,000 per year

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE CHRISTINA School Board gave Superintendent Iris Metts a three percent pay raise and created a third assistant superintendent position in the district at the August board meeting.

Metts' annual salary was increased to $102,000 from $99,000, with five board members voting in favor of the raise. Members Susan Mitchell abstained from voting and Charles Hockersmith was absent.

Metts has been superintendent of the district since February 1990.

"We gave our teachers about a six percent raise," said Board Member George Evans. "And our key administrator only gets a three percent raise. I hope she can bear with us."

In other personnel matters, the school board promoted Dr. Capes Riley to assistant superintendent of planning and facility management.

The move came when the district ok'd the reorganization of some district departments to bring the maintenance, custodian, planning and development departments together.

Before this promotion, Riley was the director of planning and development since 1980 and oversaw the planning and construction of school buildings.

In his new role, he will continue his duties of planning and development but add managing the maintenance and custodial staffs.

"I see it (my promotion) as a major challenge," Riley said. "But there is a critical need for the reorganization since we're still growing as a district and we have a number of aging buildings which need to be maintained."

The reorganization makes the district a three-assistant superintendent administration, up from two.

Dr. Peter Demyan is assistant superintendent of instruction and Dr. Frank Rishel is assistant superintendent of administration.

Demyan supervises development of curriculum and Rishel oversees legalities with court ordered busing, negotiations, personnel and transportation departments.

DEVELOPER OFFERS TO RESTORE CEMETERY

The dead benefit from development?

By HEATHER HARTRIM
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

In the midst of proposed road widening and zoning changes on Del. 7, the cemetery belonging to Old Fort UAME Church can do nothing but profit.

Old Fort UAME Church has owned a quarter of an acre of land at what is now the corner of Del. 7 and School Bell Rd. since 1819, when the church was founded at that location. The church moved to its present location off of Old Baltimore Pike in 1897, leaving behind a graveyard.

The graveyard has slipped by unnoticed for nearly one hundred years. The numerous trees and dense brush serve as a witness to the lack of attention.

The Rev. Elwood Fewes, pastor of Old Fort, said there is not enough money in the 87-member church to restore the cemetery.

This is where Cantera Construction Co. steps up to the plate.

Cantera has offered to restore and, furthermore, maintain the cemetery in conjunction with the development of the adjacent land, the proposed site of Home Depot. Cantera stressed that this offer is between Old Fort UAME Church and Cantera Construction Co. exclusively.

Cantera's reasons for assisting the church stem from a sense of community.

"If your neighbor has overgrown trees, it reflects on you," Dave Cantera, vice president of Cantera Construction Co., said. "It's an act of altruism; I'd like to make it a respectful resting place."

Indeed, the cemetery could use a face lift. As it is now, the ground is sunken in around the few visible grave markers and the names are, for the most part, unreadable.

The church has few records of people buried in the cemetery, Lavinia Cole, church historian, said. According to her records, the Rev. William Williams, who was pastor of the Old Fort Church from around 1856 to 1897, is buried there.

The church, which will be celebrating its 175th anniversary in

A sinkhole sits in front of Stephen Gale's tombstone amid weeds, trees and undergrowth.

September, is excited about the proposed restoration and perpetual maintenance.

"I think it's great," Fewes said. "They've offered to correct a problem that's existed for a long time."

Harmon Carey, Delaware's executive assistant for African-American history, also commends Cantera for their help in preserving African-American historical resources.

"One should not be so consumed with greed that they say the heck with everything else," Carey said. "Cantera represents a unique effort; I hope others might follow their model."

Carey mentioned that African-Americans are often at a disadvantage in situations where money is needed.

"African-Americans suffer to a greater extent due to their lack of economic and political clout," he said.

Cantera's plan provides for the cemetery's need for funding and help. And even if Cantera's development plan strikes out, the public awareness has been raised.

"There's information buried there that we can exhume and learn from," Carey said.

COMMUNITY SURVEY SHOWS

Bear, Glasgow residents like their area

By JENNIFER RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

What's it like to live in Bear? Results of a Bear/Glasgow Council of Civic Organizations (BGCCO) visioning survey outline some of the hot issues surrounding an area that is projected to grow in population 71.6 percent by the year 2010. The approximate population in 1990 was 38,000.

When polled, residents in the Bear/Glasgow area were generally happy with their quality of life. On a scale of 1 to 10 (1 being the lowest, 10 being highest), most said their satisfaction warranted a 7 or 8. No one ranked their quality of life as a 1 or 2 and six responded with a 9 or 10.

Issues affecting residents' quality of life included development and planning, specifically fast-paced growth and lack of parks and recreational areas.

Other concerns that came in second to growth and planning were security, school improvements, access to governmental agencies, police and fire protection, libraries and lack of a water tower.

Those polled believed preserving rural character, providing public services, improving transportation systems, maintaining farmland for agricultural purposes, preserving historical integrity, taking action to secure land for public use and increasing employment opportunities were very important.

When asked to project five years into the future, residents believed planning and development (poorly planned and overdevelopment as well as more park land), transportation (reducing traffic), and public services (schools, crime and improved sewer systems) were the most important issues facing the Bear/Glasgow area.

Amid a prevailing concern about problems stemming from fast-paced development, residents did some good. They said they appreciated and hope to preserve Lums Pond, Becks Pond, Iron Hill, Cooches Bridge, Glasgow historic area and the Pencader Church.

Although 400 surveys were distributed among Bear/Glasgow residents, only 10 percent responded, according to Stephanie Hansen, president of BGCCO. Hansen said the council will take a closer look at ways to improve planning.

"We want to take a better look at where we are placing commercial and residential properties and create more of a town atmosphere," Hansen said.

One way to provide for a town feeling could be a Town Center. The council will discuss such a structure that might possibly house government agencies, police and commercial businesses during a public meeting on Sept. 12 at 7 p.m. in Room 206 of the Glasgow Medical Center.

Absences stall election

The Christina School Board has, for the second time in two months, postponed electing a president.

At their July board meeting, member Cynthia Oates was nominated for board president but with two board members absent (Susan Mitchell and Charles Mullin) the motion did not carry. The vote was 3-0, with members Michael Guilfoyle and James Kent abstaining.

At the August board meeting, the issue was also not resolved because it was pulled from the agenda.

"It was clear that from our executive meeting that certain board members were not going to vote because we (the board) did not have full attendance," Kent said. "To leave it (the vote for board president) on the agenda would have been an exercise of shooting oneself in the foot."

He said the election for president should be back on the board agenda for the September School Board meeting.

"We'll take it one month at a time," Kent said.

"It will be the attitude of the people on the board whether we wait until a seventh person is on the board to vote for a president, he said in reference to board member Mitchell's recent resignation. She resigned from the school board Aug. 9 for personal reasons.

Kent will remain president of the Christina School Board until a new president is elected.

Money well earned

EMployees for the City of Newark might well be tired of tightening their belts, going without, and keeping their heads held high. City officials have made sure, however, that all money-saving efforts were not made in vain.

In 1995, the City of Newark will have almost 25 percent more money for projects that will improve the general quality of life for Newarkers as well as for employees of the city.

After two years of fiscal shortfalls, city officials project they will have some money to play with during 1995.

Kudos to city personnel responsible for preparing the Tax and Revenue Anticipation Notes that have been invested for the past ten years.

According to Carl Luft, city manager, if Newark can show on paper it will not be able to pay its monthly bills, then it can, under federal law, borrow the extra it needs. The money is loaned in anticipation of tax revenue the city will eventually receive, but may not have on a monthly basis.

This year's note is $4 million. What's interesting though, is the city's investment strategy.

The city will borrow the $4 million at 3.99 percent from Delaware Trust and turn around and invest it at about 5.5 percent, most likely in a Treasury Bond, according to Luft.

Last year, the city borrowed less than $2,450,000.

All profits from this shrewd investing go into the city's surplus fund, which helps pay for many capital improvements.

Luft said it's one of the reasons they are able to avoid raising taxes as often as other municipalities. Newark has its own cushion.

Some lucky breaks, like the sale of Paper Mill Apartments, from which the city received real estate transfer money, and expert planning have helped the city emerge relatively unscathed from some bad times.

A hiring freeze, cut backs on seasonal part-time employees and other cost-cutting efforts were no doubt stressful for many city employees.

But the light at the end of the tunnel is twinkling and programs that were cut from this year's budget are back for 1995. The city will get a new computer and phone system, water mains will be replaced, old unattractive street lights will be replaced, and parks will be developed. Maybe the city will even be able to afford some of the finer things next year, such as Christmas trees for Main Street.

Readers are cross with us

SOME of our readers are hopping mad at us. And rightfully so. Again, last week, we failed to print the answers to our crossword puzzle. Previously, the popular puzzle was not printed at all. Quickly and loudly, a legion of Newark Post crossword fans telephoned to tell us of our shortsightedness. Some even threatened to cancel their subscriptions.

Our problems started several weeks ago when, responding to readers' requests, we expanded our Lifestyles page. It had been the home of our weekly crossword challenge for many years. Even a complete redesign and name change in June 1993 did not disturb the puzzle's placement, that is, until we started fiddling with it last month.

We want to assure our faithful crossword fans that the puzzle will appear each week in a new position — at the bottom of the Diversions calendar page that lists weekly offerings. We suspect that its new home will encourage even more readers to whip out their No. 2 pencils and attempt to solve the puzzle. The answer will be printed each week on or near Phil Toman's "The Arts" column. Look for this week's puzzle solution on page 14A.

And, while we don't want any of our readers to be cross with us, we do thank our callers for their comments. We apologize for the confusion and wish all luck with this week's puzzle.

MUSED, AMUSED, BEMUSED

The problem with prayer

By MARVIN HUMMEL

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

A 15-YEAR-OLD trying to establish his persona as a serious intellectual and a relaxed, casual athlete doesn't quite know how to handle the requests of a brother in 5th grade. The little guy had invited him to go to a talk at the parish house by "Hands" Harris, the great NFL pass catcher, now in the gloaming of a record-setting career.

In some ways, the young man wanted to go — he was in the process of starting a rugby team and needed to increase his locker room vocabulary. And, "Hands" Harris had the reputation of being both an intelligent fellow and a gentleman; hearing him could be useful!

The young man, along with the entire sports world, would never forget Harris' performance in the Super Bowl when Helmut Keller stuck his helmet in Harris' unprotected gut going a hundred miles an hour! Boy, did Keller ever shish Harris' kebab. Then Keller stood over him, daring the poor guy to get up. And Harris did get up, then offered to shake Keller's hand. With every replay of the hit through the years, announcers said of Harris, "That man has class!" Yes, hearing "Hands" could be useful.

But his dad would have to drive, and he'd feel like a dweeb sitting in the parish house between his little brother and his dad. Gross.

His older brother, the college drinkout, convinced him to go by being so nasty to the little guy. It's one thing to tell your little brother you want to kill him, but when you say you're going to call the Orkin man and have him exterminated.... So the young man said, "Hey, little guy — I'll be glad to go with you."

The parish house was filled to overflowing, and the nervous tension made it very clear — this was the big time — no Christmas pageant or coffee hour — this was it.

The rector fell all over himself introducing "Hands" Harris — he must have used the words "great" 20 times and told the audience how honored he was a hundred times. It was really embarrassing, especially when you realized how unexcited (and unexciting) the rector was when he preached. (Why didn't the rector just kiss the guy's Nikes and let him talk?)

And "Hands" did talk — forcefully, convincingly — about the power of prayer. The young man found that quite acceptable, even admirable.

But then "Hands" got weird.

He told his audience of mesmerized kids and enthralled adults that he had needed three pass catches to set an NFL record on a January Sunday in Cleveland, but the weather was to go below zero, accompanied by a 50 m.p.h. gale.

Then, "Hands" said quite humbly, "I prayed. And when I woke up in the morning, it was like a tropical paradise outside. I didn't catch three passes — I caught 12. I hope you boys and girls now have a little better understanding of the value of prayer."

"Hands" was accurate in three ways — meteorologists are still trying to explain that 70 degree overnight change in weather.

And he did catch 13 passes against double-teaming. And no one could doubt he did pray for sunburn weather — and it came to pass.

The young man waited for the question-and-answer session — the questions were inane: stuff about what he ate for breakfast, who was his favorite quarterback, was he married. Someone had to address the problem, or every kid in there would start praying for all kinds of stuff: the agonizing death of some teachers, the lightning bolt destruction of the school, the ability to fly, to be invisible, to ... — someone had

Citizens view prospective sites for school building

On Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock the conference requested by the Board of Education with a committee of citizens chosen by Mayor Frazer to assist in reaching a decision as to a site for the proposed new school building was held in the Council Chamber.

They visited three proposed locations: the Albert L. Lewis property on the east side of Academy Street; the Huber property on Delaware Avenue; and the Curtis property on Main Street.

Rural supervisor named

Miss Lucy A. Warburton was chosen as one of the rural supervisors for New Castle county at a meeting of the County Board of Education held at the home of George L. Medill, president of the Board on Friday evening.

Under the provisions of the new school code two rural supervisors are provided for to assist the County Superintendent and to render aid and assistance to the teachers in rural schools. This supervisory service marks a forward step in Education in Delaware.

Newark radio station celebrates 30th with classic car contest big hit. Other popular groups playing that year on WNRK include the Beach Boys and the Zombies.

WNRK still broadcasts from its original building on Walther Road between Route 40 and Old Baltimore Pike. The station's 1,000 watts broadcasts to a 25-mile radius, including the City of Newark and portions of Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Campagnone said like the radio station itself, the Newark area has changed over the years. An example is the growth of housing and apartment developments around the radio station building, which was not so long ago surrounded by cornfields.

Radio has also changed in the last three decades. Campagnone said when WNRK started, there were hardly any FM radio stations on the scene, with most playing classical music.

Then the Federal Communications Commission allowed more FM stations on the air. "Now stations have become very focused to find a niche in the market and play to it," he said.

He said WNRK relies on the local community for support and WNRK Owner Al Campagnone (right) and Mark Prickett, the owner of Station Auto Body in Stanton, stand by the fully-restored red, 1966 convertible Ford Mustang that the radio station is giving away on Aug. 27. Prickett restored the car, which WNRK paid $12,500 for, in six weeks.

caters to the age group of 35-54.

WNRK, Campagnone said, has come full circle in its 30 years on-air. He said the station's format is presently adult contemporary with music from the 60s.

"Through the years the station's format has changed a couple of times," he said. Other formats have included music with softer sounds from the 40s, 50s and 60s and traditional big band music.

He said the station now plays what it started with — music from the 1960s — except then it was the popular music of the day.

And soon WNRK will evolve even more, when next month the radio station goes to playing Delaware Oldies from the 50s, 60s and 70s.

Along with the on-air change will be an upgrading of technology at the station. Campagnone said sophisticated digital auto equipment is being installed.

The problem with prayer

to stop this nonsense.

He looked around and every pair of eyes in the place were glazed-over, including his father's. He gurgled, fell up the steps to the dais, and said it was time for autographs.

"Sir, I understand the parting of the Dead — or Red Sea — the Israelites had to be free or die. But why would God change the weather for a pass catching record?"

There was a mass sucking-in of breath at this heresy — the rector gurgled, fell up the steps to the dais, and said it was time for autographs.

In the confusion, the young man escaped and has been placed in a witness protection program.

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

WHEN 500,000 PEOPLE gathered for Woodstock in 1969 it was slugged as the event that defined a generation. Twenty-five years later, when Woodstock was revisited last weekend, local people rushed to find out what it was all about.

Newark brothers Vince and Ed Marsilii, Newarker Chuck Groves and nine of their friends from the area made the five-hour drive to Saugerties, N.Y.

They weren't the only ones. Attendance at Woodstock '94, held Aug. 13 and 14, was estimated at 300,000.

"There were so many people coming in," 22-year-old Vince said. "There were thousands of tents."

The number of tents caused some problems, however.

"One of our tents was trampled because there was no path to walk through," Vince said, "and one of the medical tents shut down because there was no way to get through."

There was also the rain to contend with.

Camping in the rain, which also plagued the '69 Woodstock, didn't dampen their spirits at all.

Ed adapted by making a visit to the town's Jamesway. He bought boots and socks to wear in the mud.

"I've camped some, but never three days in the mud," Ed, 20, said. "The mosh pit wasn't too bad if you didn't mind the mud."

The mosh pit — the area closest to the stage at a concert and usually where group dancing takes place — extended 500 yards past the stage, according to Vince.

The mosh pit was not the only thing that reached beyond its normal limits. Tents overflowed into the town of Saugerties.

"People were camped on the sides of the street," Ed said.

There was room for everyone when the bands were performing though.

"Everybody got into it," Groves, 33, of Newark said. "There was an equal response to all the bands. The atmosphere and mood didn't change."

The mood mirrored that of the hippies in the '60s.

Mud plagued Woodstock '94 as it did at the infamous 1969 concert. Above is a crowd shot of the Allman Brothers playing at the event held in Saugerties, N.Y. where more than 300,000 people — including some Newarkers — turned out.

"They're still hippies, they just look different," Groves said. "It was great to see so many people together without violence."

Ed and Vince confirmed Groves' report.

"There were no fights," Ed said. "You could stop and talk to anyone."

Drugs and alcohol were shared as freely as conversation.

"You could walk by and someone would pass pot to you," Ed said. "There was everything there if you wanted it."

Where was security in this supposed to be alcohol-free event?

"The security rolled by Saturday and all the fences they put up were trampled," Vince said. "The last time I saw them they were in the stadium partying."

The security added to the diversity of the group.

The group was not only varied in background, but also in age. There were small children through senior citizens in attendance at Woodstock

'94.

"It spanned a lot of generations," Groves said. He was inspired by the number of older people "trucking through the mud."

Vince shared similar feelings.

"I saw this one dude. He must have been 80-years-old," Vince said. "He was cruisin' through the mud."

Both young and old, kept all hours.

"I went to bed at 5 a.m. and got up at 9 a.m.," said Ed. "I was at the stage as much as possible."

Will Woodstock '94 be the event that will signify Generation X in another 25 years?

Vince and Groves think that it will at least give insight into the generation's musical taste.

"The bands were a sign of the times," Vince said.

"It was a once in a lifetime event," Groves said. "I would definitely do it again."

Newarker Chuck Groves sits down at Woodstock '94 while tents are put up around him. Groves said he had a great time and, despite the mud, would do it again.

Bugged out over Beetles?

JAPANESE BEETLES and other bugs in the scarab beetle family do the most damage to plants and grass in the late summer and fall.

Some species of white grubs (larva of insects) feed and develop in dead wood or dung, but the ones of concern to gardeners are the soil dwellers that eat plant roots. The Japanese beetle is the most notorious member of the family. In sufficient numbers, the cumulative effect of their feeding on turfgrass roots can be devastating in late summer.

Japanese beetles first arrived in They're also storing fat reserves for winter hibernation. When the soil temperature starts to drop, the grubs burrow deep, then return to the surface in the spring as temperatures rise.

Spring feeding of these beetles is minimal, although the sheer size and numbers of grubs can be alarming to gardeners. During pupation, the grubs transform into adult beetles in early summer. As destructive as the grub and adult phases can be, we're fortunate that there's only one generation each season.

People maintaining lawns notice grub damage in late summer when

This week's author: Jo Mercer

Turcam are some of the chemicals labeled for grub control. It can take two or three weeks for most of the grubs to die when the treatment is applied as the label directs. Avoid getting anxious and applying another treatment before the first has a chance to work. Unfortunately, we don't have any biological controls that have given definitive proof of effectiveness against white grubs.

This technique of looking-before-you-treat is based on integrated pest management (IPM) principles that help reduce the use of pesticides. Low numbers of pests are tolerated—they do so little damage that the expense and environmental impact of pesticide use isn't justified. In addition, beneficial insect predators and disease organisms need some host pests in order to survive and help us out in the war against pests.

YOU ASKED

A feature devoted to discovering the answers to curious questions about people and places in Greater Newark.

BY NANCY TURNER

Is it true that there was a case of Legionnaire's disease at the University of Delaware last week? If so, what are they doing about it?

There was one case, according to John Brennan of University of Delaware Information Services, and it was a teacher who was enrolled in a summer economic education program.

The woman, who is in her 50's, was living in the University Christiana Towers off of New London Road. She was admitted to Christiana Hospital on Friday, July 29 and diagnosed with Legionnaire's disease on Wednesday, August 3.

She has been released from the hospital and has since returned to her home in Missouri.

The bacteria which causes the disease, Legionella pneumophila, has been found most commonly growing in large air conditioning systems like those found in institutions and businesses. It is actually a form of pneumonia.

When the teacher was diagnosed, the University responded by testing her room at the Towers for the bacteria. No traces were found there.

Where she came into contact with the bacteria has yet to be established, because the teacher was frequently traveling on sightseeing trips to neighboring cities.

According to Brennan, since no one else who was in the same program with the teacher showed any symptoms of the disease, and no traces were found in her room, the University did not feel that it was necessary to test the entire Towers complex.

Obituaries

Mary Agnes Campbell Shee, 46, teacher at McVey

MARY Agnes Campbell Shee died Saturday, August 13, 1994 of complications from a stroke in Christiana Hospital.

Raised in Newark, Mrs. Shee, 46, graduated from Newark High School. After earning a bachelor's in education from the University of Delaware in 1970, she joined the Christina School District. For the past 15 years, she taught primary grades at Joseph M. McVey Elementary School in Newark, most recently at the second grade level.

At McVey, she was active in the Parent-Teacher Association, was leader of the team of second grade teachers, and worked with University of Delaware teachers. She also represented her union, the Delaware State Education Association, at the school.

She was a member of Wilmington's Sacred Heart Catholic Church. She enjoyed gourmet cooking and playing bridge.

She is survived by her husband of 10 years, Glenn R. Shee, a daughter, Hilary C. Shee at home, her mother, Ann Grosse Campbell of Newark, and four sisters, Barbara C. Huntsman of Conowingo, Md., Catherine E. Onesi of Bear, Frances C. Saulsbury of Carlisle, Pa., and Margaret M. Townley of New London, Pa.

Mass of Christian Burial was offered August 17 in Thomas More Oratory. Burial was in All Saints Cemetery, Milltown.

Instead of flowers, the family suggests contributions to Mary Mother of Hope House II or III, run by the Ministry of Caring Inc. in Wilmington.

James Wallace Hisey, 37, toy store manager

Newark resident James Wallace Hisey died Tuesday, August 9, 1994 of cancer at home.

Mr. Hisey, 37, was manager of Toy Liquidators of Rehoboth Beach until October 1993, when he stopped working. Earlier, he worked at Baltimore area restaurants for more than 16 years.

Formerly of Baltimore, he moved to Rehoboth Beach in 1991 and to Newark this year. Mr. Hisey was a member of Cornerstone United Methodist Church.

He is survived by a son, Joshua W. of Baltimore; and his mother, Caroline Cook Hisey of Newark.

A service was held Aug. 13 at Cornerstone United Methodist Church. Burial was private.

Instead of flowers, the family suggests contributions to the American Cancer Society or Cornerstone United Methodist Church.

William A. Holden, 60, avid Blue Hens fan

Glasgow resident William A. Holden died Wednesday, August 10, 1994 of heart failure at Christiana Hospital.

Mr. Holden, 60, was a psychological counselor for Family Court from 1970 to 1975. Later, he was a security guard for area companies including Spence Security in New Castle.

He was a military police officer in the Army from 1957 to 1959.

He was a member of Holy Family Catholic Church. He was a graduate of Milton Hershey High School, Hershey, Pa., and earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Delaware. He attended Penn State University.

He was an avid Blue Hens fan and longtime season-ticket holder.

Mr. Holden is survived by his wife of 32 years, Carol Connerly Holden; three sons, William F. III, Edward C. and Steven M. all at home; two daughters, Jodi Holden of Fort Worth, Texas, and Laura G. at home; a brother, Joseph of Harrisburg, Pa.; and two sisters, Jodi Sentiwany and Philomena Holden, both of Harrisburg.

Mass of Christian Burial was offered August 15 at Holy Family Catholic Church. Burial was in Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery, Summit.

Instead of flowers, the family suggests contributions to the Diabetes Association, Wilmington.

Joan W. Stanley, 64, retired state clerk

Newark resident Joan W. Stanley died Thursday, August 11, 1994 of respiratory failure in Arbors at New Castle.

Mrs. Stanley, 64, was a clerk for the state Division of Revenue for 25 years, retiring in 1992.

She is survived by three sons, Kenneth Small and Stephen Charles Small, both of Newark, and Roy Small of Wilmington; two sisters, Sara Ann Dittmar and Keannette Bennett, both of Pennsylvania; and four grandchildren.

A service was held August 16 at Robert T. Jones & Foard Funeral Home. Burial was in Great Valley Presbyterian Cemetery, Malvern, Pa.

Herbert S. Brown, 87

Newark resident Herbert S. Brown died Tuesday, August 9, 1994 at Millcroft, near Newark.

Mr. Brown, 87, was a lifelong member of Elks Pride of Delaware Lodge 349.

His wife is deceased. He is survived by a son, Harry S. Williams of Philadelphia, two grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

A service was held August 15 in Congo Funeral Home, Wilmington. Burial was private.

Warren Cain, 72, retired from IBM

Bear resident Warren Cain died Sunday, August 14, 1994 of a heart attack in Christiana Hospital.

Mr. Cain, 72, was a manager at IBM Corp. in Cherry Hill, N.J., for 27 years. After retiring in 1977, he moved from Cinnaminson, N.J., to Florida and then to Delaware in 1981.

He was a member of Lodge 281 AF&AM, Moorestown, N.J.; Solomon Lodge 36 AF&AM, Newark; Scottish Rite Cathedral, Collingswood, N.J.; and Egypt

Temple Shrine, Tampa, Fla.

Mr. Cain, born in the Panama Canal Zone, was a member of Panama Canal Zone Society.

He attended Liberty Baptist Church, Glasgow. He was a Navy Seabee veteran of World War II.

He is survived by his wife of 48 years, Francis Cain; two sons, Warren E. and Charlie J., both of Newark; and two grandsons.

Instead of flowers, the family suggests contributions to Liberty Baptist Church building fund, Newark.

Geneva Dawson Bamber, 78, of Bear

Bear resident Geneva Dawson Bamber died Monday, August 15, 1994 of heart failure in Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Bamber, 78, was a saleswoman at Kennard's Store, Prices Corner, for 15 years. She retired in 1976. She was a member of St. Mark's United Methodist Church, Pike Creek. Her husband, William T., died in 1987. She is survived by a son, Robert D., with whom she lived; a brother, Joseph W. Dawson of New Castle; three sisters, Anna G. Umstad of Wilmington, Edith L. Lutz of Townsend and Lillian M. Smith of Bear; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A service was Aug. 19 in McCrery Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Gracelawn Memorial Park, Minquadale.

Delaware Theater Company is 'free'

DID YOU CAREFULLY note the date at the top of this page? If you didn't, do it now. I'll wait.

That's right, the nineteenth. That means only two more weeks to the Labor Day weekend. Get your shore, beach or mountain time in quickly because the "lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer" are rapidly running out.

The Delaware Theater Company, Delaware's most important theater organization, and its artistic director Cleveland Morris are well aware of the time and exactly how much time they have left to prepare for their outstanding 1994-95 season of five plays. Things are very busy at 200 Water Street in Wilmington.

Cleveland told me that this season has a very special theme, "Phil, I'm calling our 94-95 season 'In Celebration of Freedom.' Our plays will be about freedom: intellectual freedom, spiritual freedom, 30 through December 17. This is a small-cast musical, the kind the company does so very well. It is a show that offers a profile of a side of American life that has vanished, yet will remain a part of our nation's spirit.

Guthrie was very much a child of this century living from 1912 to 1967. He was born in the Dust Bowl, suffered great hardships in his youth causing him to take to the boxcar road to see the country. He became a great performer, but didn't live to enjoy the greatest financial fruits of his labor. He died in Creedmore State Hospital in New York before the commercial bonanza could benefit him.

We are very fortunate that the DTC has engaged the author, Peter Glazer, to direct this show. He is assembling the best actors and musicians who have appeared in the show around the country and bringing them to Wilmington for this presentation. Sounds like great pre-freedom to love, freedom to move, freedom from terror and oppression, freedom to breathe." That's quite an undertaking. Can DTC deliver? Have no fear, after all, Cleveland Morris is at the helm!

Delaware Theater Company Artistic Director Cleveland Morris has every right to smile as he contemplates his 1994-95 season.

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

Alan Ayckbourn's dazzling English comedy "A Woman in Mind" will open the season on November 2, and run through the 19th. It centers around a housewife, Susan, who has a perfect, adoring family. At least she thinks she does until she regains consciousness after her head and the business end of a garden rake meet abruptly.

Alas for Susan, there is another family waiting to ambush her and, as you have probably guessed, you clever reader you, it is far from idyllic. To add to the fun, only Susan and the audience can see the new family.

"Woody Guthrie's American Song," a play conceived and adapted by Peter Glazer from the songs and the writings of Guthrie, will be on the DTC boards from November holiday theater going!

A world premiere will take place on Water Street January 11 and continue through the 28th. It is Richard Thomsen's "Open Charge." This is a fast moving drama to keep us all on the edge of our seats in the beautiful DTC building. It is part murder mystery, part legal suspense tale, part love story. It is a play full of action, humor and deep compassion.

The story actually was "born" with an article buried deep inside a Michigan newspaper. From there Thomsen began to craft a vivid tale that has, according to Cleveland, "...layer upon layer of dramatic intensity." As the story gains momentum, I think you will be surprised at how mysterious are the ways of the human heart and the human spirit.

From February 15 through March 4, David Mamet's drama "Oleanna" will hold audience attention. This play was the hit of last year's off-Broadway season and for good reason. In "Oleanna" Mamet employs almost classical restraint in revealing a savage reality, the culture war's hottest topic, sexual harassment.

From the time David Mamet bursts (literally) on the New York scene as a raw and rambunctious newcomer to numerous successes and even a Pulitzer Prize, he has grown from an enfant terrible to one of our theatrical greats. This play will give you an opportunity to see why.

The closing play of the season has been one of my favorites since childhood. It was among the first I ever saw. I am looking forward to seeing it again. It is the Kaufman and Hart comedy, "You Can't Take It With You." In the 1930s these two lifted Broadway's golden age of comedy to its screwball zenith. In all of their creations, none "explodes" with more "firecracker-filled" fun than this 1936 masterpiece. If you know the play, you will know why I put those words in the last sentence in quotes. If you don't know the play, get to know it March 19 through April 23. One caveat: Don't wear any very tight clothes when you go. Something or other could split!

The story is set in the New York home of Martin Vanderhoff, but this indescribable farce's plot is tough to take far beyond there. It has to been seen and savored to be enjoyed.

Season ticket prices range from $75 to $140 for adults with many levels between. Student season tickets are only $40 for every night and every seat, except for opening nights. Every seat in the house is great. You may call the DTC box office at 302-594-1100 for tickets or a season brochure. You may write them at 200 Water Street, Wilmington 19801-5048.

Don't miss the music, the drama or the comedy this season at the Delaware Theater Company!

Newark resident receives 'gold quill'

Ed Ziegler, of Newark, director of marketing and publications for Rowan College of New Jersey, has been awarded a "Gold Quill" from the International Association of Business Communicators (IABC), the highest honor given by the organization.

The award, one of only 125 given worldwide, was presented to him for the Rowan College Admissions publication, Viewbook. The publication contains information about academic programs, financial aid, admissions procedures, campus activities and residence life. More than 144 entries were submitted in this category.

The annual competition honors the top work internationally in the field of communication, promotes the highest professional standards and recognizes outstanding solutions to communication and other management problems.

Canal Seniors beat British Columbia team, now in finals scored three times in the opening inning. Kristin Nau led the game off with a single and eventually scored on a passed ball. Jodi Mandichak reached first base on a dropped third strike Maloney followed with her blast over the fence.

"We hit the ball well," said Maloney, who also pitched a four-hitter. "It was a good start for us. It's always nice to get that first win."

Canal, which banged out a season-high 12 hits, blew the game open with five runs in the third inning. Lisa Delcollo had a two-run single while Maloney, Dawn Magaw and Brenda Marley added run-scoring singles.

West Portage, with three unearned runs in the fourth inning, cut the gap to 8-3 but Canal answered with single runs in the fifth and sixth innings to provide the final margin.

In addition to Maloney's heroics, Nau, Mandichak, and Jamie Sassaman had two hits each while Marley, Magaw, Amanda Cariello and Delcollo all had one.

Felicia Freimuth was on base three times and also scored a run.

"It was a good start," said Canal Manager Ralph Sassaman. "[West Portage] was a tough team and their pitcher was very good. We just hit the ball well."

That high powered offensive attack, though, got lost somewhere between Monday and Tuesday, Canadian pitcher Jodie Garrett, certainly not as powerful at the West Portage pitcher, held Canal hitless through five innings as Duncan built a 3-0 lead.

The bats, however, came alive in the sixth inning as Canal pounded out six hits and scored eight runs to take control of the ballgame.

Delcollo ignited the rally with Canal's first hit of the game to lead off the inning. Mandichak followed by reaching on an error. Maloney followed with a run-scoring single to cut the lead to 3-1. Cariello then reached on a fielder's choice and Sassaman singled home Mandichak to close the gap to 3-2. Magaw then followed with a ground ball that plated Maloney with the tying run.

Two more hits combined with three walks led to five more Canal runs and a date with old nemesis California in the winner's bracket final.

Hercules upended Naples 1-0 in nine innings. Naples is the team that last year's Canal Senior team finished second to in the World Series. Two years ago, a Canal Senior team fell to a Naples squad and three summers ago, with many of the same girls on both teams, Canal fell 2-1 to the Florida team and finished second in the Major (11-12) World Series.

■ Other teams competing in the World Series include Guam (representing the Far East), Pinole-Hercules, Cal., Jenison, Mich. and a team from Trutnov, The Czech Republic (the European champion).

With the two wins early in the week, Canal assured itself of no worse than a third place finish.

the road as Eden Square) to a route that travels behind the Wawa convenience store and empties traffic onto U.S. 40 in line with the entrance to Governor's Plaza.

Green's alternative route for Del. 7 north of U.S. 40 (on the same side as Governor's Plaza) includes an exit onto U.S. 40 directly in line with the Eden Square entrance.

Another possible solution, according to Green, would be an additional exit off Del. 1 with access to Del. 7.

Green said all corners surrounding the intersection will soon be under construction. He speculated that DelDOT would have the cooperation of all developers.

"To say who's going to put in the money now is premature," Green said. "It's too early to tell whether businesses or developers will pay."

500 new homes and a library to the mix?

Still other developments and potential magnets for drivers are the Bear Public Library and a proposed housing development.

The library is slated for construction at the corner of Del. 7 and U.S. 40, adjacent to Governor's Plaza and the housing project is planned for the property north of the future library—about 1/2 mile away from U.S. 40.

The land, 153 acres, for future housing is owned by White Oak, Inc. Mario Capano, president of White Oak, said he recently filed with New Castle County's planning office to rezone the land to R-1-C from R-2, to accommodate 450-500 single family homes. "Some of the solutions might affect the exact site of the library," said Beverly Wright, public relations representative of the Friends of Bear Library.

The land for the future library was donated in an informal agreement between Delaware Department of Libraries and Delle Donne, Inc., owner of the land, according to Gordon Hess, spokesperson for the department of libraries.

Delle Donne will donate between two to three acres for the library, according to Jim Collins, executive vice president and general counsel for the company.

"It (road improvements) might hold up the whole library project, the master plan is for it to be finished by 1997."

Another institution that plays into the equation is Leasure Elementary School. Recently school officials said they are investigating a possible move.

"Everybody wants their institution or business in a place where all the people are and they want a safe way to get there," Green said. "It's a great opportunity for people to be involved in how their community is going to be."

Canal Major boys win in Easterns

BRISTOL, Conn. — Even if the Canal Little League All-Star team didn't become the first-ever Delaware team to make the Little League World Series, it certainly will have an awful lot to remember from this year's glorious run to the Eastern Regionals.

One of the week's highlights was Friday's thrilling 8-4 extra-inning win over crowd favorite and 1989 world champion Trumbull, Conn.

Brock Donovan's run-scoring double in the top of the sixth inning tied the game 4-4. The game went to extra innings after Canal survived a scare in the bottom of the sixth with catcher Jim Needles flipping a double pitch to a covering Nate Husser to nail a Trumbull runner for the second out. Husser then struck out the batter to end the threat.

The seventh was all Canal as Kevin Maloney belted a two-run double and Trumbull committed two errors. The result was four Canal runs and an 8-4 lead going to the bottom of the seventh.

Husser was able to retire the side to secure the victory.

Trumbull, known for his home run power, took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on Vito Fabiano's two-run blast.

Canal came back to tie the game in the top of the third as Matt Folke's single to center went through the center fielder's legs and all the way to the fence.

Blue Hens begin preparation for season

Delaware to open season Sept. 10 at William & Mary

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

THE DOG DAYS of summer are definitely here; it's time for two-a-day football practices.

The University of Delaware football team opens its preseason practice sessions Friday in preparation for its season opener Sept. 10 at William & Mary.

The Hens, coming off a 9-4 season and a trip to the NCAA I-AA quarterfinals, enter the season with high expectations, being picked first in the preseason Yankee Conference Media Poll and 11th in the The Sports Network's I-AA national preseason poll.

"It's nice for our players to have things expected of them," said Delaware Coach

Tubby Raymond, who is entering his 29th season as head man of the Blue Hen football program. "That's to our advantage. The players have been entrusted with a great tradition and that's good."

The Hens lost 20 letterwinners and 11 starters from last year's squad but return a host of talented players — especially on offense.

Daryl Brown is the most notable of the Hens' gifted returnees.

Brown, a candidate for the Walter Payton Award (I-AA's version of the Heisman Trophy), rushed for 1,469 yards last season and has compiled a school record 3,286 career yards.

Speedy Pat Williams and Norman Coleman are atop on the preseason depth chart at the two halfback positions.

Possibly the biggest off-season question was who will start at quarterback?

Sophomore Leo Hamlett and junior Keith Langan both have big starts under their belt (due to Dale Fry's injuries last season) but neither one took charge in the spring.

Raymond is high on redshirt freshman split end Courtney Batts while senior Rob Higbee is slotted for tight end.

Three members — Matt Wildes, Greg Pedan and Geoff Hannan — of one of Delaware's best-ever offensive lines graduated. However, Steve Archibald and Shannon Trostle return as starters and Keith Bulicz transferred from Vanderbilt, giving the Hens another chance at a great front.

The defense, which gave up 414 yards and 28 points per game, took a lot of heat last season.

Raymond, though, doesn't see that happening again.

"We have every right to believe that we will be better on defense," said the coach. "Despite having to replace all three linebackers, the secondary looks better and the front four looks like a formidable operation." The Hens will find out quickly how good they are as they visit William & Mary in their opener.

"This presents the most challenging opener that I've seen here at Delaware," Raymond said. "We will have to accelerate everything."

Following William & Mary, Delaware is at Villanova Sept. 19; home with West Chester Sept. 24; at Maine Oct. 1; home with James Madison Oct. 8; at Richmond Oct. 15; home with UMass and Northeastern Oct. 22 and 29; at Lehigh Nov. 5 and home with Hofstra and Rhode Island Nov. 12 and 19.

"We have every right to believe the defense will be better."

Canal Major softball advances to World Series

EAST VINELAND, N.J. — With the Little League Softball World Series shifting from Kalamazoo, Mich. to Portland, Ore. this year, the Canal Major All-Stars were looking to blaze a new path to the championship tourney.

After sending teams to Kalamazoo two out of the last three years, Canal nipped Greensburg, Pa. 4-3 Thursday night to become the first Canal team to qualify to go to Oregon. The win completed a three-game sweep of the double-elimination Eastern Regional and advanced Canal to play the South champion last Sunday in the opening game of the World Series. Canal won 11 straight games on its way to the Series.

The final game, though, was anything but easy for the winners as they endured a strong challenge from the Pennsylvania champs.

Leading 4-3 in the last inning, Greensburg loaded the bases with nobody out. Winning pitcher Allison De Boda then struck out the next batter for the inning's first out.

However, a pitch to the next batter bounced past catcher Jesse Marley. The Pennsylvania runner on third scampered home as Marley tossed the ball to a covering De Boda in an extremely close play at the plate. Fortunately for Canal, the runner was called out for the second out of the inning. It was the third runner Greensburg had thrown out at the plate and already overflowing frustrations (the Greensburg manager was thrown out of the game in the third inning after arguing a close call at home plate) came flying from the Pennsylvania side.

De Boda ended the game by striking the last batter out, setting off a wild celebration on the Canal side and a barrage of criticisms (toward the umpires) from the Greensburg side.

"I was just praying to throw a strike," said De Boda of how she handled the nerve-wracking last inning. "I felt a lot better after we got the girl out at the plate. I definitely think we got her out."

Trailing 2-0 after the top of the first inning, Canal battled back with a run in the first and three more in the second to take a 4-2 lead.

Media attention greater elsewhere

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

WHILE I'VE SAID many times in this space, we are lucky to have such a great sports community. I'd really like it if some people could experience youth league baseball and softball in other parts of the country. I sometimes wonder if we cover the youth and high school sports too much. However, after spending a day and a half in Connecticut last week, I've come to the conclusion that — despite the efforts of our newspaper — our kids are probably cheated compared to many other communities.

The Canal Major All-Star baseball team was in Bristol last week participating in the Eastern Regional. The winner of the 11-team, double-elimination tournament advanced to this week's Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa.

Canal had the opportunity to face Trumbull, Conn. last Friday and you would've thought that the state's beloved UConn Huskies basketball team was playing in the NCAA Tournament.

The game's highlights were played on the evening news. Big daily papers had the game featured on the front of the sports sections.

When the Canal Senior girls opened their Eastern Regional tournament, their first game against Orange, Conn. was treated the same way in the local papers. The scores appeared on the evening news as well.

So why the big difference in coverage?

Well, I always thought it was because we were located near Philadelphia and not all that far from Baltimore. There's a lot of other things going on.

Well, there isn't much more going on anywhere than there is in New York City — only about an hour's drive from both Bridgeport and New Haven. Boston sports teams are also heavily followed in Connecticut. Yet, the media in these markets find ways to cover the action of its youth.

Do the people in those communities care more than the people in Del.?

I'm not sure I know the answer to that but that's the only way it can be perceived judging from the media attention.

From the results on the fields, we have just as competitive players in Delaware as there are anywhere else in the country. It would be nice if the people in our state could find out about them.

Canal Senior girls rally for third straight World Series

ORANGE, Conn. — The Canal Senior League All-Star softball team certainly does not like to do anything the easy way.

Forced to come out of the loser's bracket once again, Canal capped a thrilling week with a 3-1, 5-0 doubleheader sweep over New England Regional champion, Sprague-Franklin, Conn., Friday evening to capture the Eastern Regional championship. The wins advanced Canal to the Senior League Softball World Series for the third consecutive year. The Series got underway Monday in Kalamazoo, Mich. with Canal playing the host team.

Kelly Baker came off the bench to pitch a two-hit (no walks) shutout in final game to help lead Canal to the title. Baker, who was buoyed by an errorless defensive performance that featured diving and sliding catches, also collected a double, single and two runs-batted-in to complete her Hollywood-like performance.

"I was definitely ready," said Baker, who will be making her fourth straight trip to a World Series. "It feels great after not playing everyday to be able to come and do so well."

This is the best feeling ever."

The winners got off to a good start in the final game, scoring a run in the first inning when Adrienne Maloney (who pitched two shutouts in the tournament) singled home Jodi Mandichak.

Baker came through with a two-out double in the fourth inning to plate Mandichak and Maloney and improve the lead to 3-0. Canal completed the scoring in the sixth inning as Mandichak and Maloney again scored — this time on ground balls from Felicia Freimuth and Amanda Cariello.

Mandichak and Maloney — two 15-year-olds that have played on five Delaware and Mid-Atlantic championship teams — scored all five runs in coming through when their team needed them most.

"We knew we had to be aggressive," said Mandichak, who pitched a three-hitter in Friday's 3-1 victory that forced the deciding game. "We knew we could come back and win. We didn't play well [in a 6-2 loss to Sprague-Franklin earlier in the week]. We beat ourselves; they didn't beat us."

Newark-based skaters enjoy top national championships

With over 1,000 entrants this past week at the United States Roller Skating Championships in Lincoln, Nebraska, competitive clubs from Delaware skating rinks enjoyed gold, silver and bronze placements.

Leading the way, with a standing ovation, Shawn Coover, 23, and Jennifer Denton, 15, took the gold medal in the World Class Pairs Event and will represent the United States this Oct. in Italy at the World Championships. Their coach is Richard Veliko who teaches at the Christiana Skating Center in Newark.

Richard, a former world class champion himself, also coached to medal placements: Carla Briccotto, 31, 3rd in the Novice Women Figures, Dormia Culbreath, 14, 3rd Open Women Loops, Leeann Eisenreich, 28, 2nd Classic Women Figures, Joy O'Neil-Perez, 32, 3rd Advanced Women Loops and Jim Tharp, 34, took the bronze in Novice Men Figures.

Also from the Christiana Rink, Margaret Bain coached Jayme Wright, 11, to a gold medal in Juvenile Girls Figures, and co-coached with Richard, Heather Bain, 12, who took the 1st place medal in Elementary Girls Loops.

KSC Explosion takes first at West Chester

The Kirkwood Soccer Club Explosion took first place at the West Chester Classic United Summer Classic.

In the first game of the tournament the Explosion topped the Voorhees Vultures by a score of 6-2. Goals were scored by Jeff DiGiacobbe with 2 goals, Nick Enarnacao, Matt Richards, Ian Ertle, and Brian Welch.

In game two the Explosion beat Downingtown 3-2. Ryan Dzielak had two goals and Jeff DiGiacobbe had one goal.

On Sunday, game three, the Explosion shut out the host team, West Chester, by a score of 2-0. Scoring for the Explosion were Ryan Dzielak and Ryan Flannigan.

In the final game of the tournament against an excellent Jackson N.J. team, the Explosion, in the opening few minutes of the game gave up 2 goals, only to rally back and defeat the Jackson Cobras by a score of 4-3. Preserving the win for the Explosion, came with minutes left to go of the game, Matt Brown, goalie for the Explosion, came up big by saving a penalty kick.

The Explosion's defense was anchored by Greg Mattei, Eric DeAsenis, Bryan Thomas, John Milligan, and Justin Esposito. Serving in goal was Matt Brown.

Benefit Monday

The Wilmington Blue Rocks announced plans for an evening to benefit pitcher John Downs on Monday, Aug. 22 at Daniel S. Frawley Stadium.

Downs was placed on the disabled list June 30 after a relapse of Hodgkins Disease.

Champs take 3-2 lead in fourth

► BOYS, from 1B

The error allowed pinch-runner Pete Romano to score. Folke then came home to tie the game when Devin Wiley's infield grounder was mishandled.

The Delaware champs took a 3-2 lead in the fourth inning as Husser singled home Maloney. Trumbull, though, scored twice in the bottom of the inning to regain a 4-3 lead.

"What made this game special was that everybody contributed, all 14 players," said Canal Manager John Hollenbach following the exciting win. "There's still a long way to go, but we've got to take it one game at a time."

The win advanced Canal to Saturday's game against Bangor, Maine.

Canal dropped into the loser's bracket after a 3-1 loss to Orchard Park, N.Y. in its opening game last Wednesday.

The team, however, rebounded with a 9-6 win over Rhode Island Thursday to advance to Friday's game against Trumbull.

Richardson key in 2nd inning

► MAJORS, from 1B

Megan Richardson, who walked, scored the first-inning run following a throwing error by Greensburg. Richardson was also a key part of the second-inning rally, picking up a two-out single that scored Stephanie Rice.

Kelly Stanwell picked up the first RBI of the inning, drawing a bases-loaded walk to score Melissa Perez, who had singled. Erica Richardson's ground ball also scored De Boda.

Greensburg cut the lead to 4-3 in the third inning but De Boda, with the help of a strong defense, was able to shut down the Pennsylvania champs the rest of the way.

"I wasn't particularly worried," said Canal Manager Bill Nefosky.

"I knew we had one more at-bat even if they had tied the game."

A Pennsylvania win wouldn't have sent it to the World Series, but just forced another game Friday. Canal beat Greensburg 9-4 to open the tournament.

"I'm just so happy for these girls," Nefosky said. "A lot of people at home didn't think this team would be that good this year. They were talking about us getting beat in districts or states."

"To have this group work as hard as it has to get to the World Series is really amazing. Another thing about this group is that they've had a really tough road. The rest of the state is catching up to us and we had to face some of the best district and state teams that anyone has ever faced to get this far."

"It's an outstanding accomplishment."

"It's something I've always wanted to do," said Marley, who has been to three World Series as a spectator watching her older sister Brenda. "I've always gone and watched and I've always wanted to be a player. It's so exciting."

Her and the rest of the team got their chance this week.

and three runs scored while Maloney, Cariello and Baker (two) had the other hits.

In Friday's first game Canal built a 2-0 lead with single runs in each of the second and third innings.

Freimuth scored the first run by singling and eventually scoring on a wild pitch. Mandichak scored the second run by singling and coming around to score on an error.

After the gap was closed to 2-1 in the fifth inning, Canal scored another run in the sixth inning as Kristin Nau singled home Jamie Sassaman.

Mandichak and some good defense shut down the New England champs the rest of the way.

Canal, which fell into the loser's bracket after last Wednesday's loss, battled back to beat Williamsport, Pa. 2-0 Thursday on Maloney's three-hitter to advance to Friday's games. The team gave up just one run in its five wins during the week.

Outstanding defense - something the team struggled with in the early rounds of the tournament, was one of the biggest keys to advancing to the World Series.

"We played great defense," said Canal Manager Ralph Sassaman. "The girls really did an outstanding job. Everyone was terrific."

Facing elimination is one thing that doesn't seem to faze this team as it ran its record to 6-0 in elimination games this summer.

Even more amazing is the fact, when adding in last year's record, this team is an incredible 15-1 (the only loss was to Naples, Fla. in last year's World Series championship) in elimination games over the last two summers.

Caldor, other retailers ready to locate in Castle Mall

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Fusco Enterprises, owner of Castle Mall off Del. 72 across from Delaware Industrial Park, is hoping the opening of Caldor this November will be followed by even more stores for Newark shoppers.

Frank Vassallo, Fusco spokesperson, said Caldor is scheduled to open by mid-November.

The remainder of the mall, which is being remodeled from an indoor mall to a strip mall, is scheduled to be finished in six months to a year, according to Vassallo.

Two stores familiar to Castle

Mall shoppers, Thrift Drug and Castle Mall Liquors, will return after construction is finished.

Both stores moved out after Delmarva Power and Light cut power to the mall in early March. A leaking roof caused by extreme winter weather led to a situation Deputy State Fire Marshal, Bill Bush, called an "eminent life threat" to patrons and occupants of the mall.

Fusco Enterprises, which also owns College Square, bought Castle Mall in 1992 and rumors spread soon after that Caldor might move in.

Now, almost two years later, construction of the 113,000-square-foot Caldor almost done and Vassallo said his company is actively recruiting more stores.

In addition to Thrift Drug, Castle Mall Liquors, Caldor and PNC Bank (separated from the mall but on the same lot), Vassallo said negotiations are underway with Mandee, a women's clothing store, and a possible grocery store.

"We've gotten three or four nibbles, but no one (grocery store) is concrete at this point," Vassallo said.

When converting the former 242,000 square foot indoor mall into a strip mall, Vassallo said recent New Castle County zoning laws, which include such parking lot rules as extensive landscaping and higher parking space ratios, required them to give up about 30,000 square feet.

Vassallo said Fusco is in the process of "going over" names for the remodeled mall, but isn't sure if it will change.

Referring to Caldor's opening, Gary Vasques, senior vice president of Caldor's marketing department, said, "We're very excited to be coming to the area with our third store to service all residents."

The store is planning grand opening festivities that will be open to the public. Vasques said details will be released soon.

More office space planned for Glasgow

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Businesses looking for customized office space in Glasgow will soon have a new option off U.S. 40, next to Peoples Plaza office buildings, on Frenchtown Road.

A new 400,000-square-foot office and professional park, named Springside, will be a mix of small and large businesses, with no warehouses, according to spokesperson Peggy Tracy.

New Castle County Council recently approved Glasgow Professional Properties' (the developer) request to rezone the land from agricultural to commercial office space.

Tracy said the group was not intimidated by a market some developers say is slowing "by leaps and bounds."

Such downward trends have been evidenced by the closing of DuPont Louviers in Newark, which is still on the market, and another developer's recent change in plans (from a 600,000 square foot office park to residential housing development) for a 72-acre parcel of land zoned for office space near Louviers.

The owner of the 72 acres near Louviers, Dick DuPont, recently altered his plans for office space because he believes the market is flooded.

Tracy said her company has confidence in the Glasgow area.

"We don't think all the tenants are going to come around the corner tomorrow," Tracy said. "But we see a magnificent developing labor pool in the Glasgow area."

Springside developers are betting that good public transportation, which was recently expanded to accommodate their area, convenient access to I-95, and plenty of housing will work.

Plans for the project include an on-site day care center, food services, a branch bank and other employee convenience facilities.

Tracy said walking/jogging trails and picnic tables are also planned for the office park's "extensively landscaped" open space.

Tom Peoples, vice president of R.C. Peoples, Inc., said People's first 29,000-square-foot office building, located near the movie theaters in Peoples Plaza and the future site of Springside, is "100 percent occupied." The second, 50,000-square-foot building is one-third leased.

"We're thrilled to death," Peoples said. "If everybody that's called me signs, we'd be about 100 percent occupied (in the second building)."

He added that he believes Springside, named after a farm that existed on the land in 1868, will prove to be a plus because of its potential to help commercial retailers and restaurants in Peoples Plaza.

Peoples is still planning to build an additional 400,000 square feet of space. Whether it will be leased as retail or office space depends on demand.

Newark resident Joan McKinley, standing in front of her pink Pontiac Grand Am, received a Circle of Achievement Award at the National Mary Kay Cosmetics seminar. The "Mount McKinleys," McKinley's unit, were recognized for this award because they earned $250,000 this year. McKinley has sold Mary Kay for 13 years and has been a director for 11 of those years. For the Circle of Achievement Award she received a diamond and gold pin as well as an engraved plaque.
