Asks Franchise For Gas Plant To Serve Town

John S. Alfred Appears Before Councilmen Here With Plan for Independent Operation; Mayor to Confer With Absent Members Before Taking Action on Proposal.

The "gas for Newark" question entered a new phase Monday night when an independent promoter met with Town Council and asked for a franchise from that body.

John S. Alfred, of Wilmington, understood to have been a resident of Newark and Remblerville some years ago, is the promoter. Together with Mr. Pierson, Alfred entered the council room just prior to their regular meeting, and laid his proposal before them.

He proposes to start a gas plant here, roughly estimating the cost of the entire project at $200,000. He explained at length his plans for laying out mains, obtaining contracts from subscribers and other details preliminary to the opening of the plant.

In the question of tearing up the improved streets, an important factor in the minds of councilmen, Mr. Alfred assured them that the franchise, if granted, would contain a clause stating that where any improved street is torn up for a main, it shall be placed in exactly the condition it was in before it was touched. He also explained the method of "drilling" under street to supply gas to patrons on side not supplied with a main.

No Action Taken
Mayor Frazer expressed himself both at the meeting and later as of the opinion that the Wilmington Gas Company is seriously considering extension of their lines to Newark. On the other hand, Mr. Alfred stated that the company's plans included extension through Tuxedo Park to Newport, but not to Newark. Members of Council present appeared deeply interested in the proposed plan. Absence of the full membership and a desire for further deliberation, however made it necessary to postpone action.

Yesterday, Mayor Frazer, discussing the proposed franchise, stated that he expected to get in touch with the absent members, Messrs. C. C. Wilson, Beales and Patchell, ascertain their views, and if further consideration is to be given to Mr. Alfred's plan, to call a special meeting of Council, with the possible addition of representatives from the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations interested in obtaining gas service for the town.

Promoter Alfred said Monday that he represented unlimited capital for the project, and had access to twenty-one expert gas engineers to aid him. It is not his function to operate the plant, he said, but rather to obtain the franchise and patrons here and attend to preliminary details.

Renewed interest in the title to have Newark served with gas has been occasioned by Mr. Alfred's franchise proposal, together with speculation as to the verity of reports that the Wilmington Gas Company will serve the town within the next year.

W. M. PATTERSON GRANTED LEAVE

Acting Head of University's Language Department To Work on Franco-American Projects

Public announcement was made Monday that Dr. William M. Patterson, acting chairman of the Modern Languages Department of the University, had been granted a leave of absence from his duties here.

Recently Dr. Patterson was commissioned to organize a national committee to furnish relief to mothers of French soldiers killed in the late war. It is understood that Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, of New York, will be active in the work of this committee which will operate in conjunction with a French Committee of Honor, under the patronage of Ambassador Herriek.

REPORT DUCK SHOOTING POOR THIS SEASON

special dispatch from Delaware City Monday said:

The ducking season closed for the year last night at sundown although the time limit actually expired at sundown on Saturday evening. It will now be unlawful to shoot the waterfowl until next October.

Local sportsmen state that the season just closed has been one of the poorest in recent years around this vicinity. There has been much ice on the marshes and kept the ducks from coming in to feed. Later when the ice broke up in the river sufficient to permit shooting, it had been so cold that practically all the ducks had left for a warmer climate. Local hunters who follow the weather closely and take advantage of it when a good ducking day comes along, state that six days would cover the real good ducking days of the past season.

Join With Farmers

A number of members of the Experimental Staff, headed by Director C. A. McCue, spent parts of last week in Georgetown, attending the annual Farmers' Short Course held in that town.

In addition to Director McCue, the following men were present during several sessions of the course: George L. Schuster, C. R. Runk, now on leave of absence at University of Maryland; Dr. Charles C. Palmer, T. A. Baker, A. E. Tomhave, F. S. Lagasse, Dr. J. O. Adams, and Dr. Charles L. Benner.

Total savings accounts last year were 95,085, showing an increase of 754 over the number of the previous year. New $11,500 Engine Arrives To Supplement Aetna's Equipment; Plans For Formal Housing This Month Are Under Consideration

The Aetna fire house on Academy street was the center of a crowd of citizens last evening attracted by preliminary tests of the new $11,500 Seagraves pumping engine, latest addition to the local company's equipment.

The engine arrived at the B. and O. freight station Monday. A group of firemen aided in unloading the machine and drove it under power to the fire house.

Members of the volunteer company expressed themselves as well pleased with the pumper. Many new features have been included, some designed especially for use here.

A representative from the Seagraves company was in town last night and supervised a control test through which handlers of the engine familiarized themselves with its operation.

Ira A. Shellender, William Stiltz, A. Eugene Stiltz, Horace Null and William Cunningham, all drivers and drivers' assistants, took charge of the pumping controls during the test. Cunningham had the honor of driving the new pumper out of its house for the first time, preparatory to the trials.

Late reports today to The Post state that the new engine will be formally housed on Saturday, February 20th. Invitations will be extended to all neighboring companies to attend the ceremonies. The Aetna firemen are planning a banquet on the evening of the 22nd, and the housing is expected to be held in conjunction with that affair. Further details have not as yet been announced.

Instead, it was authorized that a committee be appointed to investigate the matter and file their report with suggestions as to future action.

Bishop Favors Building Plan, Methodists Hear

M. E. Church Head Of District And His Cabinet Approved Entire Project Of Local Congregation; Will Greatly Broaden Campaign Plans,

Bishop William F. McDowell and his entire cabinet have expressed their official approval of the plans for a new building, proposed by the Newark Methodist Church congregation, it was learned this week.

An official of the local church, in discussing the incident yesterday, stated that the Bishop's endorsement of the entire project will no doubt greatly broaden the scope of the campaign now under way. Until the present, funds could be raised only from the congregational limits here; now, it is understood, it is possible to extend the drive throughout the Conference.

Fund Reaches $17,000

Subscriptions totaling nearly $17,000 have so far been raised during the intensive building fund campaign through Newark and vicinity. While it was not stated yesterday when active work on one or more units of the proposed Academy street building will be started, it has been rumored that ground will be broken sometime during the spring.

Bishop McDowell's cabinet represent the district superintendents in his diocese. In effect, their approval recommends that the proposed plans be placed under the consideration of the entire conference. Through this announcement, great encouragement has been given the pastor, Finance Committee, and congregation of the Newark church.

John K. Johnston, retiring president of the Chamber, presided at the meeting. The invocation was offered by the Rev. Harvey W. Ewing.

Reports of the various committees were given by the chairmen of the groups. Speaking for the educational committee, President Walter Hullihan of the University, urged that the members support the series of Chronicles of America photoplays, now running in Wolf Hall. He said the members may do a great deal toward encouraging the children especially to see these highly educational films.

In a short speech, retiring John K. Johnston, thanked the members of the body for their cooperation in the past year and urged that the same courtesies and aid be given to the new officers.

Towards the close of the meeting, Mr. Johnston called on several members of the Chamber for brief talks. William J. Lovett, James H. Hutchison, and others responded.

My Creed

Read by retiring President Johnston at the Chamber of Commerce Dinner

This is my creed: To do some good,
To bear my ills without complaining;
To press on as a brave man should
For honors that are worth the gaining;
To seek no profits where I may,
By winning them, bring grief to others;
To do some service day by day
In helping on my toiling brothers.

This is my creed: To close my eyes
To little faults of those around me;
To strive to be when each day dies
Some better than the morning found me;
To ask for no unearned applause,
To cross no river until I reach it;
To see the merit of the cause
Before I follow those who preach it.

This is my creed: To try to shun
The sloughs in which the foolish wallow;
To lead where I may be the one
Whom weaker men should choose to follow,
To keep my standards always high,
To find my task and always do it;
This is my creed—I wish that I
Could learn to shape my action to it.

The Grange Corner

OPPOSE FEDERALIZATION

Nation-wide interest attaches to the vigorous stand taken by the National Grange against the creation of a Federal Department of Education at Washington, with its head made a member of the President's cabinet. Not only was the National Grange utterance at its Sacramento session very positive on this question, but state and local branches of the organization have taken it up and are declaring their unalterable opposition, not only to the proposed national department of education, but also to the further "federalizing" process along any lines of national life. The Grange has always been a strong "home rule" organization and proposes now to take up, through the programs of its 8,000 local branches the coming year, this big question of the rapid encroachment of Federal paternalism upon local affairs. The Granges everywhere are a unit in opposition and will make it felt effectively.

BIG GRANGE EVENT

The dates have been fixed for the big annual Grange event in New England, a conference of Grange lecturers and workers from all that group of states, who will assemble this year at the State Agricultural College at Orono, Maine, for three days, August 16, 17 and 18. This annual event has been held for many years, often being together as many as 1,000 Grange workers and is a great rallying point for the organization in all that part of the country.

ICE BOAT SENT BY GOVERNOR TO START JOB TODAY

Danger To Boat And Crew Seen If Gorge Suddenly Gives Way; Old Rivermen Anxiously Watch Conditions Above Holtwood Dam

Residents of Port Deposit, ready for any emergency, are anxiously awaiting the outcome of attempts to force a channel through the ice gorge off that town. Resort to dynamite, in case the ice boat "Annapolis" fails, is possible. Meanwhile, valuable and necessary clothing and furniture is packed and ready to be moved to the hills back of the town at an instant's notice.

The situation is regarded as the most dangerous since the great flood in 1910.

The ice-breaker "Annapolis," of Baltimore, lay off Turkey Point last night, and with the break of dawn today began a march through the ice floes of the Susquehanna to the aid of Port Deposit's hemmed-in residents.

Under command of Captain Benjamin Hesselbach, the Annapolis is essaying the extremely dangerous task of breaking a channel through the gorge that has stretched across the river opposite and below the Maryland town.

The ice breaker was sent to the rescue by Governor Ritchie, following an appeal by T. J. C. Hopkins of Port Deposit, Monday.

Baltimore harbor engineer F. W. McKinney, in charge of the movements of the ice boat, said yesterday that the work is dangerous, as the Annapolis would not be able to get out of the way of the ice floes in the event the river started to run while it was near the head of the gorge.

Heavy rains during the last few days have caused a great amount of water to be backed up by the gorge. This, together with a thaw, makes the situation dangerous for the residents of Port Deposit, it was said.

Yesterday T. J. C. Hopkins appealed to Governor Ritchie, asking that an ice-boat be sent to break up the gorge.

Must Use Own Judgment

"Captain Hesselbach is a good man to have in command of the boat," Mr. McKinney said. "It is dangerous work and he will have to use his own judgment as to how far he should go up the river. We don't want to loose the crew or the boat, and everyone familiar with the conditions of the ice pack there knows that the Annapolis or any other boat would be helpless if the river suddenly sweeps the gorge apart."

Just a Prayer

Let me do my work each day; and if the darkened hours of despair overcome me, may I not forget the strength that comforted me in the desolation of other times. May I still remember the bright hours that found me walking over the silent hills of my childhood, or dreaming on the margin of the quiet river, when a light glowed within me, and I promised my early God to have courage amid the tempests of the changing years. Spare me from bitterness and from the sharp passions of unguarded moments. May I not forget that poverty and riches are of the spirit. Though the world know me not, may my thoughts and actions be such as shall keep me friendly with myself. Lift my eyes from the earth, and let me not forget the uses of the stars. Forbid that I should judge others, lest I condemn myself. Let me not follow the clamor of the world, but walk calmly in my path. Give me few friends who will love me for what I am; and keep ever burning before my vagrant steps the kindly light of hope. And though age and infirmity overtake me, and I come not within sight of the castle of my dreams, teach me still to be thankful for life, and for time's olden memories that are good and sweet; and may the evening's twilight find me gentle still.—Max Ehrmann.

Delaware Dairymen Need Not Fear Competition From West

Freight Rates Natural Barrier To Milk Movement, Says
Larowe Institute Official

The western farmer can never successfully compete with the eastern dairy farmer in the sale of milk in the eastern territory.

Freight rates will always form a natural barrier to any big movement of milk from one section of the United States to another.

These are the twin contentions of Charles Staff, executive secretary of the Larowe Institute of Animal Economics, in a heartening statement to the dairy farmers of this section. The statement is intended to counteract the pessimism current on the Atlantic sea-board as a result of the proposed erection of a huge pasteurizing plant at Newark, N. J., by the Sheffield Farms Company.

"There is nothing to justify the dark pessimism that prevails among the large number of eastern dairy farmers as a result of the opening of this new plant," says Mr. Staff in his statement. "Certain dairymen see in the coming of this plant a development for securing milk outside the metropolitan area with a view of breaking the hold which the eastern producer has on his natural outlet. The publication by railroads of a freight rate on milk from Chicago is also cited as evidence of the movement by those who fear that the difference in the cost of production between the two sections is represented by the difference in the freight rate and that the price level of the eastern producer will be brought down to the Middle West price level. Let us study the situation a little more carefully.

"What is the difference in the cost of production in the Middle West and in the East? Feeds is a big factor. The freight rate from Chicago to New York on feed in earload lots is approximately 35 cents per cwt. A hundred pounds of feed is needed to produce 300 pounds of milk; consequently the freight rate on the feed necessary to produce 100 pounds of milk is not over 12 cents. Deducting this from the freight rate of $1.14 per cwt. of milk leaves a comfortable margin of $1.02 per cwt. of milk for other expenses. The hay and silage are produced on the farm; farm land is cheaper in Delaware than it is in the Middle West, and these roughages can be produced as cheaply if not cheaper than in the Middle West; labor is no higher in Delaware than it is in Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois; cows can be purchased or raised as cheaply in Delaware as in the Middle West. A difference of about 12 cents per cwt. of milk in purchasing feed represents the entire difference in the cost of production in the Middle West and the heart of the eastern milk area. Besides a survey of milk prices in the East and West discloses that in many sections the eastern dairy farmer is getting less money for his milk than is the western farmer."

Good will is another factor that speaks against the possibility of bringing in milk from the Middle West by the Sheffield people. Mr. Staff says: "Dairymen frequently forget the high value that distributors place on the good will of their nearby producers. Theoretically, it might be possible for a distributor to scour the country and pick up cheap milk but it is not practical. Milk distributors want a nearby and dependable supply and are generally willing to pay a fair price. They don't shop around and buy milk one week in one place and the next week somewhere else. It is absolutely necessary for them to have a reasonable assurance of the source of their milk supply from month to month, and they are not likely to depend on the uncertain supply of producers hundreds of miles away."—(Communicated.)

FIRST EDITORIAL OF THE POST

(JANUARY 26, 1910)

Good Roads, Flowers, Parks, Better Schools, Trees, Pure Water, Fresh Air, Sunshine and Work for Everybody—These Things, to Me, Are Religion.—Robert Collyer.

"I want to so live that when I die they who knew me best will say, 'He planted a rose and plucked a thorn wherever he thought a rose would grow.'"

—Lincoln.

THE name of this paper is THE NEWARK POST. It is to be published weekly. My reasons for starting this paper are: I have always had a desire for this kind of work. Not that I have any editorial ink to spread, not that I have any friends in favor, not that I have any enemies to score. I just wanted to do it—to have a paper as a medium for other people, and to try to do something really worth while for the town and country. And a paper can do that, if the right man is at the back of it. Whether I am the right man is to be proven. I hope so. I do not expect to do great things, but there are some little things we can do if you will help me.

If this paper can, by your help, pluck one thorn and plant one rose, as Lincoln tried and succeeded in doing, then I shall be glad; if this paper can be your help, be the means of suggesting and bringing about Good Roads, Flowers, Parks, Better Schools, Trees, Pure Water, Fresh Air and Sunshine for somebody and Work for everybody, then I shall have won—I shall have led a fairly religious life.

Another thing, besides what little benefit I hope this paper to be, I want it to be a financial success. It must be to be of any use. Nothing is truly worth while that does not pay its way. A newspaper that is run to further some cause or some individual's interest seldom yields much influence for the public good.

I have no special cause to further, no theories to explode. I simply want to have some fun, make SOME money and make good. I expect to do this, with the help of my friends. You can not expect much real help from your enemies. I want "To do my work and be kind."

I am more or less of a stranger to you. I am a product of Sussex county, before the day of good crops. I was for four years (1895-1899) somewhat of a student at the college (I hope you will not hold the Faculty responsible for my English), and have been around here more or less all these years. I am not ashamed of being from Sussex county. I was when I came to college, though I never told it. But not now. Things have changed. Sussex has forged to the front since then. I have been around a bit and know of no better place to be born than in Sussex county.

And New Castle is a very good place to live in. The sun shines very brightly on these hill of White Clay and Pencader to us who live here. And so I ask to be one of you. If there is anything I can do, set the task.

I am interested in the town, her churches and schools, her business men and industries, her social organizations and government. She has possibilities that I do not believe we realize. We need more industries—not so many that it will prove a detriment as a place to live. Some have said that more manufacturers would spoil the educational atmosphere. They urge keeping Newark the educational center of the State.

Factories will not do that. The smokestack has its place in making Newark a better place to live as well as the steeple or the college dome. And the factory whistle is calling at six o'clock just as good men to their work as they who dress hastily to answer the call to their studies at nine o'clock. The boy on the farm who is up and has his cows milked before the boy at college is up, is not any better, but just as good as the college boy who has not seen the sun rise during the college year.

No, factories and more honest working-men would be an advantage to our educational atmosphere. Let Newark be the center of learning in the State and also let it be a place where good work is well done.

I am interested in the traditions of Newark—they are noble—but not to the extent of retarding progress. We must give the future some traditions to represent what we have done. We can't live on our ancestors, altogether. Napoleon, on being asked who his ancestors were replied—"I am an Ancestor."

Do not think this paper expects to accomplish all this. It hopes only to be the medium in which you may discuss publicly, the ways and means of making a better-Newark and to give the news of its progress.

The columns of this paper are open to you to say what you will. I hope you will use it.

Personally, I shall try to keep as quiet as possible. The days of editorials by country editors on the ways and means of saving the State and Nation are over. I do ask, however, that you give me the same privilege as I have accorded you—to let me say my say, realizing and asking you to recognize that it is only one man's opinion.

I shall try to be consistent in each issue. Further than that, I cannot say. I shall try to take the advice of Emerson, and speak "what I think today, in words as hard as cannon balls, and tomorrow speak—what tomorrow thinks in hard words again," though they contradict every word I said today. Let me record day by day my honest thoughts without prospect or retrospect. And for this I ask no apology. The policy of this paper is dictated by no man, class, sect, institution, party or creed. But it is open to all.

When in doubt, I shall try to mind my own business.

I shall fail many times but want to conduct this paper according to the ideal and hope "to so live that when I die they who knew me best will say: 'He planted a rose and plucked a thorn wherever he thought a rose would grow.'"

EVERETT C. JOHNSON.

Note—Hereafter I suppose this page will assume and be conducted by the Editorial "We."

SESQUICENTENNIAL HISTORY SKETCHES

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

GLORIA DEI CHURCH

Time has played the artist in vesting Old Swedes' Church (Gloria Dei) in Philadelphia with a quaintness of beauty that will prove a lure to visitors during the Sesquicentennial International Exposition.

Gustavus Adolphus, of Sweden, hoped to plant a colony on the shores of the Delaware about the middle of the seventeenth century. The next years brought these God-fearing, industrious people to America.

They found a home on the Delaware and sought to build a place of worship. Gloria Dei was erected on the site of a block house built in 1669, and used for divine worship until the present church was erected.

In 1705, the Swedish king sent over a number of Bibles, prayer books, and other religious books. In 1710, in a declaration of the duties of the church officers the following was accepted: "To inspect the behavior of the people in their respective districts, admonish those that misbehave, and proceed with them further, if necessary."

The building is thirty feet in width by sixty feet in depth and stands on the west side of Swanson street. Changes have been made since 1700, when the dedication of the present building took place. A vestry has been added and supports for strengthening the walls have been erected. In 1846 side galleries were erected to accommodate the increasing membership. A new organ was purchased and the old pews and pulpit were replaced by those of more modern design.

The same carved cherubs still decorate the organ loft. The baptismal font at the left of the altar is the original one brought from Sweden. In the chancel and in the graveyard repose the remains of many of the first pastors and their wives.

Forty-Seven Evening Schools Opened

Work Is Being Met Enthusiastically

Burnett

Delaware is swinging splendidly into line in the Adult School movement, which is sweeping the country. Since January 5, 738 adult citizens have enrolled in schools in the rural districts of the State, for work in elementary school subjects. According to a statement issued by Miss Marguerite Burnett, State Director of Adult Education, 47 evening schools have been opened, 18 in Sussex, 15 in Kent and 14 in New Castle county. Working in these schools are 39 paid and 15 volunteer teachers.

"A splendid spirit prevails in the schools everywhere," Miss Burnett declared, when discussing the subject. Work is offered not only for beginners but for men and women who, having had limited school opportunity in their youth, feel in the need of brushing up on school work. "Any effort that is made toward self-improvement wins the respect of everyone," is the prevailing idea in every school room. "It is as dignified an undertaking to master the three R's as to study in a learned profession."

The work in the schools has been planned to meet the immediate needs

tests Friday Night

Little trouble was experienced by the Newark boys and girls in downing their Smyrna High rivals Friday night in the down-state town. The boys team won 30-15, while the girls easily garnered their game, 32-11.

Shorty Chalmers and his mates went out to a big lead in the opening half and were never headed. Foul goals played a small part in the scoring. Newark gathered in twelve baskets from the field, Chalmers leading the field with three. For Smyrna Stehley looked best on the floor.

Girls Game

Misses Chalmers and P. Robinson had little trouble in evading the Smyrna guards in the preliminary game Friday night. From the very beginning, the ultimate result of the game was never in doubt, although Smyrna came up to tie the score before half time. Looseness of play early in the game was shortly for gotten by Newark rooters when their team went into a spurt in the second half.

of men and women. Each night in an "Opportunity School" proves its own value. Consequently, the pupils themselves are becoming the finest type of recruiting agents. It is safe to predict a materially increased enrollment by the end of the first month. The schools are in session in most districts from 7 to 9 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Selbyville, Sussex county, which started late, is planning to cover the work of the twenty-session term by holding school three nights a week.

The Jewish Societies of Wilmington have offered to pay the expenses of trips to Washington for the students in both white and colored schools in each county, showing the greatest progress in the twenty-session term. In addition the American Legion has offered a banner to be awarded on July 4, 1926, the one hundred and fiftieth birthday of American Independence, to the county showing the greatest proportionate number of men and women transferred since January 1, 1926, from the "illiterate" to the "literate" class of citizens.

Good Start-- Big Factor
In Chick Raising

Great emphasis has been laid on the importance of feeding baby chicks correctly. General farmers and commercial poultrymen have learned that the right feed will bring the chicks along economically and successfully while the wrong feed will be unsatisfactory in every way.

Recognizing that the most important service it can render its members who are feeding poultry is the proper selection of feed ingredients for their chicks, the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange has taken every precaution to insure this branch of its feed service. The mash is simply a blend of corn meal, bran, flour middlings, oat meal, meat scraps, bone meal and dried buttermilk formulated in accordance with the recommendations of the poultry specialists of the New England colleges.

Not only is the formula open. The ingredients are tested and proved in the members' own laboratory at the Buffalo mill.

This mash recommended for the baby chicks is the Eastern States Growing Mash. With it, Eastern States farmers feed their baby chicks Eastern States Chick Grains. This combination has proved itself on thousands of farms—with small flocks and with large flocks. As the chicks grow, Eastern States Intermediate Scratch takes the place of the Chick Grains, but the Growing Mash is continued.

Plan your chick feeding at once. Bear in mind that the Eastern States cars come but once a month and see to it that you have ample supplies of Growing Mash and Chick Grains on the car which arrives before your first chicks appear to carry them and succeeding hatches until the next shipment. Never before has the Exchange meant so much to its poultrymen for never has it been in a position to serve them so high a quality of feeds and feed ingredients for their baby chicks. For the formulae of the poultry feeds and for further particulars on the ingredients and open formula feeds available for shipment from the Exchange mill at Buffalo, write the office.

Oyster shells and grit can be shipped economically on the fertilizer cars. Inquire about this service also.

Land Values In 'Shore Counties Decline During Past Year, Says Federal Experts

During the five-year period ending January 1, 1925, land values in the nine Eastern Shore Counties of Maryland declined $26,772,399. This total is based upon the findings of the Federal Farm Census for 1925, which tabulates the agricultural resources and values in each one of the Eastern Shore Counties.

Since the publication of the Farm Census figures, efforts have been made in various sections to show that the census figures do not accurately represent existing conditions. However, the Federal Farm Census of 1925 is the most authoritative compilation available and to check it would be not only a lengthy but costly procedure. And quite irrespective of the views entertained in the various Eastern Shore Counties regarding the Farm Census findings, they are the figures which are generally accepted.

Not only did the Federal Enumerators find that agricultural values had declined, but the totals also show that there has been an actual decrease not only in the number of farmers but in the acreage under cultivation. The decline in agricultural values and acreage appears to have been general throughout the nine Maryland Counties on the Peninsula—with one exception. In Somerset County there was not only an actual increase in farm land values from 1920 to 1925, but the number of farmers also showed a material increase—while the area under cultivation in that county remained at a standstill.

It is interesting to note in conjunction with the foregoing figures that in Talbot County, farm acreage practically stood still while the number of white farmers decreased. In Wicomico County farm acreage stood still, the number of white farmers increased slightly and there was very little change in land values. In Caroline County there was a slight increase in the number of white farmers with practically no increase in farm acreage. In Kent County the number of white farmers decreased, likewise the farm acreage. In Cecil County the number of farmers and the number of acres under cultivation both decreased. In Queen Anne's County the showing was practically the same.

Noted Pony Express Horse In Picture

The champion Pony Express horse of the United States, which recently captured first prize in the race from St. Louis to San Francisco, is one of the horses used by George O'Brien in the Pony Express sequence in "The Iron Horse," a story concerns itself with the building in 1862-63 of the first trans-continental railroad.

"Bullet," as named by its owner, ran a distance of ten miles in thirty minutes, showing a speed for such a distance never before equalled by any horse. Mr. O'Brien's advent into the production is made as "Bullet," where he portrays a Pony Express rider pursued by a band of Indians.

Madge Bellamy, Cyril Chadwick, Gladys Lullette, Will Walling and Fred Kohler play important roles in the Fox special, directed by John Ford, which comes to the Hanark Theatre tomorrow.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE NOTES

(Written For The Post)

Exams—past, present, and future—are the absorbing topics of conversation on the campus this week; that is, when there is any conversation. For there is a strange silence brooding and every one is bent over text-book or note-book. The resident faculty seem to be the only care-free persons around. If the same attitude among the students as now exists should continue to prevail throughout the year, W. C. D. would soon become a graduate school. Miss King, the dietitian, has relieved the situation a great deal by having sandwiches distributed at nine o'clock each evening to the over-worked students.

Those girls who have had French in Professor Brinton's classes the past semester felt very sad to hear him say good-bye last Thursday. Professor Brinton has won the respect of every student by his knowledge of his subject and by his fairness toward the members of his classes. He sailed on Saturday for France to study and to direct the work of the foreign study group for the remainder of the year.

A most interesting Vesper service was held last Sunday evening. The program was arranged by the resident faculty and was led by Miss Robinson. Mrs. Harris, of Germantown, a member of the National Board of Education of the Presbyterian Church was the speaker. Her subject was, "Your Job and My Job," and her plea was for individual expression, alertness, and the thinking out of real values.

Delightful music was furnished by Miss McKinney on the piano and Miss Hartsorn with the violin.

It has become a tradition for Miss Taylor, head of the Art Department and Miss Kelly, of the Home Economics Department, to conduct a group of girls on a trip to New York City immediately after the mid-year exams each year. The trip is of interest, especially to those girls who have been taking courses in Art Appreciation and History of Costume. The party will leave Newark Friday morning and return Sunday evening. The center of interest in New York will be, of course, the Metropolitan Art Museum, where, among other attractions, will be a specially arranged lecture by Miss Abbot, of the Metropolitan staff, on "Early Egyptian Costume." The girls will also have the opportunity to see a play, to visit the stores, and to attend one of New York's wonderful churches.

Those who have "signed up" to take this trip are: Sallie Calloway, Helen Cohen, Naomi Dawson, Madeline Forwar, Elizabeth Frazer, Sara Mahoney, Sara Massinger, Anna Passmore, Eloise Rodney, Marian Sharpless, Ruth Ewing, Marian Steele, Georgia Wiggins, and Katharine Barnard.

Miss McKinney entertained more than fifty girls from the biology classes at a delightful tea yesterday afternoon from four until six. The party followed the three-hour exam in biology and was a happy thought on the part of Miss McKinney and much appreciated by the girls.

Immediately after mid-years a new group of Juniors in Home Economics will take up residence in the Practice

House, where they will keep house during the next semester. These girls, under the direction of Miss Parker and Miss Spenser, who also live there, learn to put into practice the theories they have learned in the class-room. They take turns in planning the meals, buying, cooking, and serving the food; in caring for the house; in entertaining guests; all the while living within a certain allowance of money and keeping up with their class-room work.

The new Practice House family will be: Kitty Ady, Margaret Nunn, Elizabeth Wiley, Dorothy McDaniel, Thelma Buell, and Margaret Nunn.

Louise White of Great Barrington, Massachusetts, and Evelyn Johnson of Philadelphia were visitors at College yesterday. Both girls spent last year here, members of the Class of '28. Louise White is now a Sophomore at Syracuse University.

A number of the girls are having a nice vacation between exams and the opening of the next semester on next Tuesday.

Newspapermen Of Peninsula Elect Leaders

George Carter Chosen President Of
Del-Mar-Via Association Saturday;
Resolve To Boost Shore Advertising Program; Governors Unable To Attend

More than a score of newspapermen, representing practically every paper on the peninsula, gathered at Hotel DuPont Saturday for their annual meeting and election of officers.

The visitors were royally entertained by Harry Harkins, manager of the hotel, and a warm friend of every member of the De-Mar-Va Press Association. As host, he left nothing undone for the comfort and convenience of the guests.

Governor Robinson was unable to be present, due to illness. Governor Albert C. Ritchie, a member of the Association, and a regular attendant, also sent word that he would be unable to get to Wilmington due to pressing engagements.

The Association convened in business session about 9:30 Saturday morning. At its conclusion, a delicious luncheon was served in the Club room, during which several informal talks were given.

Carter Named Head

George Carter, managing editor of the Evening Journal, Wilmington, was elected president of the Association, succeeding Edwin H. Brown of the Centreville, Md., Record. S. Charles Walls, of the Centreville Observer, was elected vice-president. William F. Metten, publisher of the Every Evening, was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

The new executive committee follows: S. E. Shannahan, Easton, Md.; Fred G. Usilton, Chesterton, Md.; and Everett C. Johnson, Newark.

George M. Seaver, assistant business manager of The News Journal Company, and William Purnell Brown, the Centreville Record, were received as new members.

It was decided to hold the summer meeting of the association at Easton, Md., at the invitation of S. E. Shannahan. It was also decided to drop the "J" from the last part of the association's name. Hereafter the name will be Del-Mar-Va Press Association.

A resolution favoring the boosting of trade on the Peninsula of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia was passed.

Upon motion of Mr. Carter a resolution respecting a proposition to increase the development of foreign advertising for the Peninsula was made a special order of business for the summer meeting.

William A. Clark, of Philadelphia, a representative in accounting and auditing for the Wilmington Typothetae addressed the meeting on "News-paper and Job Costs." Mr. Clark spoke in the absence of Mr. Edwards, of Philadelphia.

Edwin H. Brown, of Centreville, was toastmaster at the luncheon. After the invocation by Bishop Philip Cook, Mayor G. W. K. Forrest welcomed the newspaper men to the city.

Bishop Cook delivered an interesting address stressing the point that any feeling of prejudice between the people of the Eastern Shore and Wilmington should be wiped out.

Geoffrey Gassaway, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke on the benefits to be derived from closer relationship between the people of Wilmington and the lower part of Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Virginia.

George Carter, the newly elected president, delivered a brief address asking for the co-operation of the members in making his administration a success.

Colonel Theodore Townsend, of Milford, and Colonel James C. Wickes, of Dover, also made interesting addresses.

Those present were: Edwin H. Brown, Jr., The Record, Centreville, Md.; George Carter, The Evening Journal, Wilmington; William F. Metten, Every Evening, Wilmington; Albert W. Cummins and Charles E. Gray, Morning News, Wilmington; Everett C. Johnson, The Post, Newark; E. S. Shannahan, Star-Democrat, Easton, Md.; Harry C. McSherry, The

Newark Bandmen To Broadcast Program On February 12th

THE CONTINENTAL FIBRE COMPANY BAND

Top Row—Griffith Moore, Sweeney, G. Mitchell. Second Row—Guy E. Hancock, Harvey Fulton, A. S. Barnett, Wilmer Hill, G. H. Roberts, W. A. Roberts and Calvin Worrall.

Professor Edwards, director of the band, was not present when this picture was taken.

Tune in your radios to Station WOO, the Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, at 8:30 on Friday, February 12th.

That's just a tip, but if you want more details, here they are: On that date and hour, the Continental Band of Newark will give a concert at WOO. They will go on the air for about three quarters of an hour.

Announcement of the recital has aroused no end of interest in the community, particularly among the loyal supporters of the bandmen and their director, Professor Charles Edwards.

Fine Tribute

That the Newark musicians have this opportunity of broadcasting to millions of people is no mean event in the life of the band. It is also a fine tribute to their workmanship. When it is remembered that not every band has a chance to broadcast from a "Grand" station, Newark people can be doubly gratified that their band has this new honor. It is therefore understood that practically every Newark owned radio will be tuned in to catch the concert. Radio parties for that night are already being planned, and a distinct impetus has been given this form of entertainment here.

Play Varied Program

Professor Edwards, and his leader, David W. Chalmers, have selected an attractive program for the broadcast. It combines not only standard band selections, but several popular tunes, generally understood to be severe tests of a band's ability.

Mr. Chalmers, soloists of the organization, will also have a prominent part in one of the numbers, a polka. Members of the band have been practicing faithfully for their debut in radio circles. Several rehearsals are yet to come before they will be satisfied.

The Continental men will likely go to Philadelphia in a large bus. William A. Stiltz, who has been handling the transportation problems of the band for some years, will again be in charge of the trip, it is understood.

in Wilmington and Philadelphia. More than that, and greater than all his honors put together, he is still the ruler of his own spirit, and never loses the poise which is a part of his character.

Now for those Delawareans. Let us go into their history. One hundred and fifty years ago, next July, the independence of the American colonies was hanging tremulously in the balance, and, to secure that independence, a Delawarean, Caesar Rodney, made a ride on horseback beside which Paul Revere's ride looks childish. Caesar Rodney was at home on his farm near Dover, Delaware, and was slowly dying from cancer of the face when word came that, without Delaware's vote, the cause of independence was lost and the Colonies must submit to King George. The day was frightfully hot and the State House, in Philadelphia, was 80 miles away, but, despite all that, and despite the pleas of doctor, family and friends, Rodney tied a veil over his disfigured face, mounted his horse, and set out on his wild gallop for Philadelphia.

He changed horses at New Castle and elsewhere, and reached the State House at the critical moment. Bespattered with mud from head to foot, he staggered into the room and announced that, in behalf of the people of Delaware, he cast his vote for independence.

It is easy to die for one's country—anyone can do that, but it takes a man, a man like Caesar Rodney, of Delaware, to live for his country. Disfigured and suffering agony, he made one supreme effort, broke the Old World's grip upon the New, and helped to stage a new and thrilling act in the Drama of Mankind.

And those Delawareans, patriotic, persistent and proud, have taken our Pennsylvania boy, "Bill" Highfield, from us, and made him one of the "bluest of the blue" When they are done yelling over the mention of Caesar Rodney and "Bill" Highfield, we will join them in singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." Who has a better right than a Delawarean to sing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee?"—Every Evening.

Massachusetts Granges mourn the loss of a former leader of prominence, Warren C. Jewett, who was head of the organization for four years and one of the best known farmers and leading dairymen of that state.

The Chafing Dish

Neil Farmer

For a long time I have considered telling you this story, and for a long time I have put it off. But now I am going to tell it. And I warn you that if you are one of those who dislikes to look life in the face and who turns to the sentimental scum of the popular magazines as an escape from reality, then do not read a word more of this. For this gripping tale, this gem of drama taken direct from the dirt of actuality, will not please you.

The train roared on toward the south. From the car windows the telegraph poles appeared as a solid board fence, such was the speed of the express.

"Fighting" Reginald Dwight, the paperweight champion of the universe, gazed out upon the telegraph poles and smiled—he was one in five. The fireman reached for his handkerchief and blew the whistle. Reginald smiled some more; for it was now but four miles to Sandtown and Mary.

He had decided, after considering the matter for twenty years, that Mary was the one he loved and that Pollyanna could never be more than a second wife. Consequently, he had written two postcards: a friendly one to Pollyanna and one proposing marriage to Mary, requesting that she should meet his train if she accepted.

Reginald had not been back to Sandtown for two decades—he had dared not. But now he was going home! And Mary would be there to greet him! He smiled some more still.

The train began to slow down. Reginald hurriedly returned to earth from his castle of day-dreams, and, rushing quickly about the car, he gathered up all the newspapers left behind by the more careless passengers.

The train slowed down some more. Reginald waited on the steps of the car to descend the moment that the train stopped; however, at present, it was still only slowing down. While he was waiting, Reginald smiled, and thought of Mary. He felt a great satisfaction glowing somewhere in his inside. At last he had decided. It could only be Mary. He wondered how he could have ever considered Pollyanna as a prospective wife for all of these—or those—years, and smiled at his lack of vision.

The train slowed down some more yet. One could begin to see between the telegraph poles now. Only a few more seconds and Mary would be clasped in his arms, thought Reginald.

The train stopped. And then it began to go backward—the engineer had gone clear past Sandtown without realizing it. Reginald smiled.

As the train was backing back to Sandtown, it seemed to Reginald that the car-wheels were singing over and over, "Mary, darling Mary." Thinking over this conceit of his, Reginald smiled.

The train stopped for the second time. It had arrived at Sandtown. The engineer smiled; the fireman smiled; the conductor smiled—Reginald was smiling already.

Descending from the car steps, Reginald heard the voice of a human female shriek, "Hello, Reginald!" He smiled and looked toward the station. On the platform stood a barrel, two trunks, and a girlish figure. Reginald got off, took three and a half steps forward, and suddenly stopped. For a few seconds he remained as motionless as the town council in the act of making improvements. Then he inhaled sharply—slightly lacerating both lungs. For it was Pollyanna, not Mary, who had come to meet him.

During the brief period that he remained standing there, Reginald thought many things—most of which would not be printable. He wondered how it was that of the two girls in Sandtown the postmaster should have mixed their mail—this is no pun. He wondered—oh, lots of things.

While he was trying to decide what course to take, he heard the conductor shout "All aboard," and then he suddenly smiled. For as the train began to pull out, Reginald turned about and grabbing the rail, hopped back aboard again.

Later, as he was reading over the thirteen newspapers he had collected, he thought of the happenings of the day and smiled.

Fifty Boys' Club Members In State Awarded Prize For Meritorious Work

Charles Warner Company, Wilmington, Through Club
Agent Willim, Makes Announcement Of Magazine
Offer; New Castle County Has Fourteen

Interest in Boys' and Girls' Club Work in New Castle county and the rest of the State was considerably heightened last week when County Club Agent Ed Willim, Jr., of Newark, announced that the Charles Warner Co. of Wilmington, had given fifty subscriptions to the "Boys' Life" magazine to that number of boys doing meritorious club work for the past year. This group of boys, who represent the younger farmers of the State, was carefully selected by the Club Agents in the three counties, to be rewarded for their good work in the past year and as an incentive to do even better club work in the coming years.

The Warner Company of Wilmington, manufacturers and distributors of a high grade agricultural lime, have always shown considerable interest in the agricultural extension program dealing with the boys in the 4-H Agricultural Clubs of the State, according to the statement of Mr.

Willim who handled their most recent award to the farm boys of Delaware. In talking to Mr. A. D. Warner, Jr., secretary-treasurer of this Company, Mr. Warner said, "Our Company has always been very much in favor of this work with the coming generation of farmers of our State. At several times in former years we have given support to things of this nature for the rural boys because we believe that the personal element in such activities is a big part of the work." He further intimated that their Company would furnish some kind of awards as goals for achievement for the coming year.

Of the fifty boys selected to receive these awards, New Castle county received fourteen; Kent county eighteen, and Sussex county eighteen. The winners are as follows:

The boys picked by the Club Agents have had several different projects, in cooperation with the Extension Division of the University of Delaware and the County Farm Bureau, under way during the year. Several of the boys have been raising pigs, others corn, and some sweet potatoes, and a considerable number have been raising chickens. In the pig project they secured a pig last spring and fed it during the summer months, ing feeding, etc., and keeping a record of the costs. One New Castle city boy, Harry Durbow of Marlton, raised a pig that gained 200 pounds net for the six months, or at the rate of 1.22 pounds a day at an expense of $0.052 per pound of gain. This was only one example of many boys who became pig raisers in their 4-H Clubs during the year.

The corn club members of outstanding note in the State to win subscriptions awarded the Warner Co., are George Cook, Newark, Lawrence Meredith of Greenwood, and Burnham Simpson of Eton, a representative from each club.

Poultry raising has always been a project in which the boys have always been much interested. The requirements here is that they set at least 50 high grade eggs and raise the baby chicks to maturity the first year. Then in the second year to manage a flock of laying birds for the season. Several Kent County Club members have made very creditable showings in poultry work during the past year. At Houghton the club has one boy that raised 42 chickens from 52 baby chicks furnished by the B. and O. Railroad in their commercial and agricultural development activities.

The Club Agents of the State are glad to receive recognition of the work among the rural boys by this Company in awarding these subscriptions on achievement basis. No doubt they will be glad to receive acknowledgments from other individuals, societies or companies who are interested in farm life and of keeping the boys of our State on the farm.

P-T-A. NEWS

WASH TRACT

Wash Tract P-T-A. met on Thursday, Jan. 21, when a program dealing with good health was given by the school children. The Health Crusaders were in charge of the program, which consisted of singing, games, health songs, dramatization of the Health Pinbow, memory work, and an exhibit of health posters. There was instructive talk on the Adult School of Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

MIDDLETOWN

Middletown Parent-Teacher Association read a membership of 163 at their regular meeting on January 21st. A very pleasing program was given by the Fourth Grade in the school, dealing chiefly with Thrift. There were songs, Thrift Jingles, a dramatization of "The Magic Thrift Lamp," and which W. K. Betts, cashier of the People's National Bank, and C. W. Wer, cashier of the Delaware Trust Company in Middletown, gave interesting talks on the value of a savings account to encourage thrift.

The president, Mrs. Beaton, read of the Adult Schools in other states, after which the members entered into a discussion of the question. Mr. Nickel, principal of the school, gave a report on school attendance, and announced that Middletown had won the County Banner for the second time this year.

OAK HILL

At the meeting of Oak Hill Home and School Association on Friday afternoon, January 22, the children of the upper grades gave a delightful little play, "Alice Through the Looking Glass," and a spelling bee was also enjoyed, by parents as well as children. Plans were made for a box social to be held Thursday evening, January 28.

EIGHT SQUARE

The married people provided the entertainment for the January meeting of Eight Square P-T-A. held recently in the school house. The program proved very pleasing to all who were present.

MILFORD CROSS ROADS

At the meeting of Milford Cross Roads P-T-A. on January 20, it was planned to buy a piano for the school, a committee being appointed to make arrangements for securing it. After the discussion of the topic for the month, the parents joined the children in giving an enjoyable program. The association will meet again February 17th.

TOWNSEND

The Civic Club of Townsend Grammar School gave the program for the meeting of the P-T-A. on January 22. Patriotic selections were enjoyed, and there were reports given from several rooms on attendance and punctuality. A girl of the eighth grade was the winner in a spelling bee held during the meeting. It was decided to give a poultry supper soon, since the association is eager to provide some needed things for their school.
