Spring officially arrived in Newark yesterday and there are encouraging signs that warmer weather is just around the corner. Here, Craig Mellinger helps his grandfather, Nick Bova, get a head start on yard work.

Plan passes, process continues

The long-anticipated vote for WILMAPCO's Metropolitan Transportation Plan came and went on March 14. Following a last minute delay caused by a snowstorm the previous week, the Wilmington Area Planning Council placed their seal of approval on the regional plan culminating more than two years and 180 meetings.

In a show of solidarity, each councilmember took turns congratulating their staff and the public for the work and effort that went into the plan before the unanimous vote.

Joseph Mitchell, president of the Public Advisory Committee, pointed out that "more people participated in the drafting of this plan than during the process for the MTP's in both southeastern Pennsylvania and the Bank robbery creates stir in neighborhood

Residents in several neighborhoods were sent into turmoil on Monday following a bank robbery at Suburban Plaza in Newark.

According to police, a still unidentified white male wearing a camouflage jacket with a hood around his face walked into the Wilmington Trust Bank around 10 a.m. and approached the teller, saying, "this is a robbery give me all of your money."

After the teller gave him an undisclosed amount of cash, he fled the area on a bicycle.

In the next few hours, police received numerous calls from persons who believed they had seen the suspect. Officer Thomas LeMin said he spent "several

Will traffic plan endanger students?

It certainly sounded ominous enough. "They're at it again," said Christina School Board member Michael Guilfoyle, holding up a copy of the Capitol Improvement Plan from DelDOT for the Churchman's Crossing area.

Guilfoyle explained that according to the CIP, DelDOT was proposing to open up Brownleaf Road, allowing office traffic to flow past Gallaher Elementary School.

"We lost Leasure School because it was in close to an untenable location for educational purposes with the congestion at Routes 40 and 7," said Guilfoyle.

Gallaher is presently on a dead end road but the transportation plans call for an extension to alleviate the congestion in that area. "I don't intend to see another educational environment deteriorated so that someone can get home five minutes sooner," said Guilfoyle.

According to the Churchmans Crossing Study published by DelDOT on Feb. 15, the Brownleaf Road Extension is one of 19 "potential roadway connections" considered in an effort to alleviate traffic congestion on Harmony Road.

At a meeting of the Churchmans Crossing Civic Council on Monday night, a spokesman for DelDOT

Lambda Chi brothers arrested

Newark Police report that on March 16 around 1 a.m. a sign was stolen from in front of the Sigma Chi fraternity house. Some of the fraternity members went after the thieves and caught up with a group of Lambda Chi Alpha members loading the sign into a truck at the Crab Trap restaurant.

Flagging down a passing police car, the Sigma Chi members told police what happened but persons present told police they were not involved. At that time the sign was returned to the Sigma Chi house.

Later, brothers from the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity entered the Sigma Chi house and started a fight. Three Sigma Chi brothers were injured. Lambda Chi brothers, Eric Rafail, 21, and Patrick Gilligan, 20, were arrested for assault. Gilligan was also charged for underage consumption.

Indecent exposure

On March 17 two women reported separate incidents of indecent exposure occurring between 3 and 4 p.m. According to police, the women were on Elkton Road when they heard someone call and looked up to see a man masturbating in a window.

Police are investigating. Persons with information about similar incidents are asked to call police at 366-7111.

Man found in street

On March 10 shortly after midnight police found a man lying in the intersection of Elkton and Apple roads. The man, sweating profusely and eyes rolled back, would not move but repeatedly chanted an unspecified word. Police suspected possible drug use and transported him to Christiana Hospital.

Money turned in

Police report that an unnamed person turned in money and a change cup from a parking meter to police on March 15 around 6 p.m. The person said the items were found on the sidewalk near Amstel and Beverly avenues near a damaged parking meter. Police are investigating.

Sexual incident charged

A woman told police that on March 17 around 2 a.m. she was the victim of unlawful sexual intercourse during a party at a residence on South College Avenue. The woman said she was intoxicated at the time of the incident and only knew the first name of the other person involved. Police are investigating.

Shopliftings at Rainbow Records

Rainbow Records was the scene of two shoplifting incidents this week. On March 11 around 4 p.m. a 16-year-old set off security alarms when he attempted to exit the store with two cassette tapes. On March 15 two black males, one 5'4"-5'5" and one 4'11"-5', stole three cassette tapes and fled leaving their bikes behind. The 16-year-old was charged with shoplifting. Police are investigating the second incident.

Dumpster stolen

On March 13 around 3:20 p.m. witnesses observed two white males in a 1980s Ford truck at the Southgate Garden Apartments. The men pulled up to the dumpster owned by the apartment, put it in the truck and left. Police have no leads.

Parking meter damaged

On March 16 around 9:19 p.m. two young males were seen damaging a parking meter near 92 East Main Street. Police said the top part of the meter was completely removed from the post. Police have no suspects or leads.

MTP passes, process continues

state of New Jersey."

The MTP is considered a revolutionary departure from previous transportation plans in the state because it addresses all modes of public and commercial transportation and attempts to link land-use planning to roads.

While prioritizing types of transportation projects before seeking funding from the state and federal government, the plan places emphasis on replacing at least 10 percent of auto trips with other modes of transportation by the year 2020.

Commending the plan, County Executive Dennis Greenhouse and Beverly Baxter from the Committee of 100 both cautioned that "level of service" on area roads would continue to be an issue even though not addressed in the plan.

Baxter said the New Castle County code requires that roads and intersections meet level of service D before adjacent land use proposals are approved. "You can proceed under level of service E," said Baxter, "so long as there is a fully-funded current project in DelDOT's Capital Improvement Plan which addresses the problem and will bring it up to level D."

Baxter said the "big problem" with this scenario is almost all "growth areas" in the MTP have level of service F or failing intersections and roads and WILMAPCO and DelDOT have placed priority on transit over road improvements.

"Alex Taft has said 'if the growth areas are congested, maybe people will take the bus,'" said Baxter. "But what will more likely happen is developers who cannot get approval because of the level of service problem will go where there is no restrictions–causing sprawl, something the council is supposed to be opposing."

Baxter added that "even if the 2020 goal for transit ridership were met tomorrow, we would still have failing intersections encouraging sprawl."

hours" tramping through the woods near the shopping center looking for the suspect.

Residents of Abbotsford and Country Place were alarmed when "tons of police" showed up and surrounded a house on a report that the suspect was inside. "That was a wrong lead," said LeMin.

A resident of Abbotsford told the Newark Post that a "man on a bike" had been seen riding through the neighborhood at the time but police found he was a resident in Country Place and not a suspect.

As of Wednesday, police and FBI were still investigating but had no leads on identification. Anyone with information is asked to call Newark Police at 366-7111.

New restaurant coming to town

The former Howard Johnson's Restaurant at the Route 896 exit of I-95 will become a Friendlys Restaurant soon.

According to district manager Bill Keklak, this will be the seventh Friendlys in Delaware. Based in Wilbraham, Mass., the company already has two restaurants in the Newark area on Elkton Road and Kirkwood Highway.

"The other two in this area are doing very well and we feel this will be in a market of it's own at this location," said Keklak.

The company has not set a date for the grand opening but renovations have begun. "We're putting in a new roof–it's going to look totally different," said Keklak. "Hopefully it will encourage the Howard Johnson's Motel to update their look. I know they're thinking of it."

Water mains to be flushed here

The annual water main flushing program is scheduled Monday, March 25 - Friday, March 29. As flushing of water mains is conducted in local neighborhood, residents may experience fluctuations in water pressure or changes in water clarity. These changes in water pressure and quality are temporary.

However, residents are advised to minimize their water usage between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. on their scheduled water flushing day and postpone laundering to prevent possible staining by discolored water.

If laundry becomes stained, keep the clothes wet and rewash with "Rover Rust" powder. Free powder packets are available from the Water and Wastewater Department located on the second floor of the Municipal Building.

For more information, call the Water and Wastewater Department at 366-7055.

Please check the notice in water bills, read local papers, and listen to WNRK (1260 AM) each morning at 7:45 a.m. during the water main flushing week for possible schedule changes.

Woman found dead in woods

An afternoon's fun turned tragic for two 11-year-olds when they came upon the body of a woman in the woods near their homes.

According to Newark Police, the boys found the woman's body on March 15 shortly after Noon in a wooded area about 300 feet off Barksdale Road.

The woman, since identified by police as 49-year-old Carol A. Christenson of Country Place, was lying in the leaves wearing a black leather coat, black shirt and pants and brown boots. Christenson had been shot and a weapon was found nearby.

Officer David Martin said the police are still investigating the incident and the medical examiner has not yet determined the cause of death. "We believe it might have been a suicide," said Martin. "However, homicides have been disguised as suicides in the past. Nothing has been ruled out at this point."

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to contact Detective Rick Williams at 366-7111 or 366-7121.

Homicide victim discovered at Glasgow High School

A man found dead in a car at Glasgow High School last Sunday was definitely a victim of homicide. According to the state medical examiners office, Stephen S. Harris, 42, of West Chester, Pa., died from asphixiation due to strangulation.

Police were called to the high school by a soccor coach who observed a 6'4 heavyweight man in the back seat of a red 4-door Oldsmobile with Pennsylvania license plates near the tennis courts around 9 a.m. Two hours later he saw the man had not moved and called 911.

Corporal David Thomas of the state police said the incident was immediately turned over to the state police homicide unit. As of Wednesday police were still investigating. "Detectives are interviewing and checking when he was last seen alive and we'll go from there," said Thomas.

Wellness center has food drive

By JULIA R. SAMPSON
NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

March is National Nutrition Month and the students at Newark High School kicked off the month with a food drive.

"Each week in March we are holding a different contest and at the end of the month we're having a grand prize drawing from prizes that were donated from the community," said Maryanne Eastep registered dietitian of the Wellness Center at Newark High School. The sophomore class collected over 243 pounds of food. The total gathered was over 300 lbs of food. "Last year we collected the most food in the state of Delaware," said Patricia Cotton the Wellness Centers coordinator.

Mary Novello the President and CEO of the Food Bank of Delaware, a non-profit organization, presented the sophomore class with a certificate of appreciation and a $50 gift. "Food drives provide often needed donations," said Novello. "Private donations give canned items such as meat, tuna, vegetables etc." Since hurricane Hugo each Food Bank has a National Disaster Plan.

Each student providing a donation will also receive an entry into the National Nutrition Month Grand Prize Drawing. Grand Prizes include a Starter Jacket from Wilmington Sports, a bike helmet from Bike Line, a free Tuxedo rental from Formal Affairs, a hair/nails gift certificate from Headlines and more.

Jacob Rudel, sophomore class president, Jonathan Meade, Vice president, Jeremy Danneman, class treasurer, Janelle Terry, Chris Gorzynski, and Joe Pika, class senators, all would like to thank Gary Goth from Pathmark who helped by donating two cases of food.

Amtrak to put $18 million in rail yards

Amtrak is investing $18 million to upgrade the Wilmington and Bear Maintenance Facilities.

The State of Delaware has made a $1 million investment from the state's Strategic Fund to ad to Amtrak's investment. Amtrak and Delaware's investment will help preserve more than 1,000 Amtrak jobs in Delaware to support improvements at the Bear and Wilmington yards.

With a huge Amtrak locomotive looming in the background, the $1 million check was presented at Amtrak's Wilmington yards to George Warrington, CEO of Amtrak's Northeast Corridor operations.

"This high speed rail announcement includes major news for Delaware and Amtrak workers here that will ensure our State's role as Amtrak's flagship maintenance site," said U.S. Senator Joseph R. Biden Jr.

He added that when the new high speed rail trains come on line in 1999, the current Metroliner trains will replace the traditional train cars, which means Amtrak will need new, electric-powered locomotives to pull the upgraded trains. Because of this, Delaware will be the site to re-manufacture and maintain the fleet of new high horsepower electric locomotives.

Currently, Amtrak's Wilmington and Bear facilities are the central location for heavy maintenance and overhaul work performed on Amtrak's electric locomotives and AmFleet passenger train cars.

Biden and Governor Thomas Carper also announced that beginning in May, Amtrak will begin a $10 million, three-year program at Bear to overhaul 36 of its AmFleet cars a year, giving them a new look with new seat fabrics, carpeting, wall coverings and a total remaking of the inside. This cosmetic upgrade and overhaul is in addition to a major, general maintenance overhaul of each car, with an estimated cost per car of $245,000.

Amtrak employs roughly 300 in Bear, with a total Delaware payroll of $30 million.

New Leasure School plans approved

The Christina School Board has unanimously approved plans for the new Leasure Elementary School at Route 40 and Lebanon Church Road in Bear.

According to Buck Simpers of Simpers and Haupt Associates, architects for the building, the designers used the Thurgood Marshall Elementary School off Walther Road as a model. "But we looked on this as an opportunity to build on something good–not just to build another school building," explained Simpers.

The new school, like Marshall, will have a visual theme carried out in the architectural details. "The theme is different than Marshall's crayons," said Simpers. "And we're not ready to share it yet."

The major differences in the new school will be space within each pod of classrooms for a kitchen and science lab area. In addition, the wall between the cafeteria and gymnasium will not be movable in the Leasure school.

Leasure principal Linda Ochenrider said the planners wanted a sound barrier between the cafeteria and gymnasium because noise made simultaneous use of the two rooms a problem. "We've also been using the space at Marshall as though the wall were not movable because if we housed the entire student body in that area, children in the back can't see and hear."

Boardmember Charles Mullin asked if the design would accommodate future use of the school for grades 1-5 under the district reassignment plan. Superintendent Iris Metts assured him, "The building could accommodate either K-3 or grades 1-5 with ease."

Capes Riley, assistant superintendent for planning and facility management, added, "The cost to convert when the time comes is not that great."

The school district is closing the current Leasure Elementary School at Routes 40 and 7 because traffic congestion in the area has made the location unusable for educational purposes. Groundbreaking for the new school is expected to take place in October.

Geography Bee puts Delaware on the map

Area young people will be putting their schools on the map at the state competition of the National Geography Bee on March 29.

Seven local students will be among the 55 Delaware competitors meeting at the University of Delaware in Purnell Hall.

Included are: Danny Babcock, Gauger Middle School, Agnieszka Szalewicz, Kirk Middle School, Jeffrey Paul Dawson, Holy Angels School, Phillip Wong, Wilmington Christian School, and Matthew Aungst, Tri-State Homeschool Network, all of Newark, and Andy Ryan, Red Lion Christian Academy, and Brian Ventre, Caravel Academy, both of Bear.

State-level winners in the competition, sponsored by National Geographic Society's magazine for children and Chrysler Corporation, will receive $100 and other prizes along with an all-expense-paid trip to Washington for the national level.

On May 29, the national competition, monitored by Jeopardy host Alex Trebek, will appear on TBS at 8 p.m. Local PBS stations will air the competition at a later date.

CITY ELECTION APRIL 9

Jane Tripp seeks re-election to council

■ Editor's note: On April 9, voters in the City of Newark's 5th District will decide who will become their new council representative. This week, we present a profile of incumbent Jane Tripp. Next week, challenger Nancy Turner will be presented. Two other city council incumbents – Anthony Felicia and Gerald Grant – have no opposition and will automatically be returned for a two-year term.

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

"I'VE BEEN INTERESTED in government ever since I moved to Newark," said candidate Jane Tripp. "I started in the 1960's attending council meetings to observe for the League of Women Voters."

Tripp later followed legislation for the state before running for city council in 1989.

"It always feels like coming home when I go to city hall because I also worked there for the city manager for eight years," Tripp observed.

Tripp lists her top priorities as a councilmember as: limited, controlled development in Newark; maintenance of open space and parkland; comprehensive transportation planning; and improved town and gown relations.

Jane Tripp has served as the 5th District representative on the Newark City Council since 1989.

Jane Tripp

Personal: Newark resident since 1960 and district resident since 1962; married to retired university professor; four children, all graduates of Newark public schools and the University of Delaware.

Education: B.A., Mathematics, University of Rochester; M.A., Urban Affairs, University of Delaware.

Professional experience: Special assistant to the Governor for human resources, 1975-1977; administrative assistant to Newark city manager, 1977-1985; executive assistant to the state personnel director, 1988-1993; 5th district city councilmember, 1989-present.

Civic experience: League of Women Voters, 1962-present; Newark president LWV, 1969-71; state president LWV, 1974; board member, Newark Senior Center, 1984-1990; former board member and 1992 Woman of the Year, University Women's Club; organizer and boardmember, Newark Historical Society; member, Fairfield Crest Civic Association and Friends of the Newark Library.

Tripp said she supports limited, controlled growth in the city by judicious annexation.

"People don't always want to annex more land because they think it's better left 'as is,'" said Tripp. "But we have more control over the amount and type of development of the land if we annex it."

Tripp cited the former Cook-Cullen property where the city negotiated an "old-fashioned neighborhood" in a modified "neo-traditional" plan after the developer initially proposed many more houses.

She also pointed to annexed land along Elkton Road where the council encouraged low-density industrial parks. "There's less traffic with less density," said Tripp.

The city is not adding open-space and parkland at this time but maintenance continues to be an issue, said Tripp. "Since 1989 the city has spent $2.9 million on 77 acres in six different places around Newark," said Tripp. "Now we have to concentrate on maintenance and use of that land. Even the land that's just left (undeveloped) is important to the city as open space."

"The beltway remains an important transportation issue," Tripp said. "We're further along than we've ever been in our discussions with the state, but it must be a cooperative effort because the city of Newark can't do it, frankly."

Most roads around Newark are state highways and only DelDOT can make the necessary improvements to change traffic congestion. "However, traffic light synchronization, and the possibility of changes to the Elkton Road intersection and making (Main Street and Delaware Avenue) 2-way again would help a lot, I think," said Tripp.

Tripp added that the council, and in particular the Mayor as chairman of WILMAPCO, try to keep Newark's traffic problems in issue with the state and regional planners.

Tripp credited fellow councilmember Harold Godwin, chairman of the Town and Gown Committee, with most of the efforts on city/university issues. "All of the councilmembers try to attend the committee meetings and keep informed, however," Tripp noted. "And this year for the first time the city and university are sponsoring workshops for students moving off campus."

Tripp continued. "The university now makes a real effort to answer citizens' criticisms and keep us informed. They didn't always do that." Either government and public relations vice-president John Brook or director Rick Armitage "always come to city council meetings," according to Tripp.

Another town and gown initiative, the mortgage program recently announced by the university, provides incentives for university employees to buy houses in certain city neighborhoods. "It's a real asset to the town to bring people in to buy older houses and keep the single-family neighborhoods," said Tripp.

The nearly complete Newark Senior Center off Marrows Road is another place where city-university collaboration helped, according to Tripp. "We worked behind the scenes to see that the city and university could lease land and work out the new senior center."

Tripp said business remains a major issue in the town at all times. "It's exciting what's going on Main Street," said Tripp. "But with five new retail complexes it's really important that all those businesses succeed. We don't want a failed mini-mall out there."

Tripp said the city wants to help attract business to the area as well and pointed to the market surveys being done by the Newark Business Association and the university. "We need information," said Tripp.

The adult community of Southridge on West Chestnut Hill Road is an example of city efforts paying off for businesses and residents, said Tripp.

"Council approved new zoning for that type of community, making it possible for a lot of people to stay in the area who don't want the upkeep of homes and yards anymore," said Tripp.

Tripp said most of her job is phone calls from constituents, reading council packages, attending council and civic meetings and talking to the city staff about problems.

"The phone calls tend to be people looking for information rather than complaining and I get more positive comments on city services than you might think," Tripp said.

Tripp concluded that she really enjoys working with the other councilmembers. "By far I spend more time on district-wide problems," she noted. "I always thought of myself as consensus builder. I'm not flamboyant but I think I do a good job."

Candidate Night scheduled

The Friends of Newark will hold a Candidates Night to meet the city council candidates for the 5th District on March 27.

Jane Tripp, present incumbent, and challenger Nancy Turner, will meet with local residents to discuss 5th District and city-wide issues at Heritage Hall in the Newark United Methodist Church at 7 p.m.

Amtrak is on track

AMTRAK IS BACK from the dead. After years of being on the chopping block during the Bush administration and more recently in the Republican controlled Congress, the federally supported railroad is poised to spend $1 billion to upgrade its Northeast Corridor system.

By the end of the century, we should see futuristic 150-mile-an-hour trains.

The decision is a boon for the Newark-area economy since it preserves 300 jobs at Amtrak's modern shops off Route 40 in Bear and another 650 at the antiquated facilities in Wilmington. The state of Delaware will kick in $1 million for the projects. Newark also figures in the equation, since the state is committed to building a line on a portion of the route between Newark and Wilmington that would allow a mix of commuter, freight and high-speed traffic to co-exist.

The new rail line would also pave the way for SEPTA commuter service in Newark that would, in turn, feed long-haul passenger traffic to the Wilmington train station.

The investment is badly needed in efforts to maintain passenger railroad service — a necessity in congested areas such as the East Coast. It will also cut travel times and make trains far more competitive with short-haul jet service.

Amtrak has already taken a number of cost-cutting steps that have eliminated long and medium-haul routes that are money losers and have a minimal effect on traffic congestion. With the new equipment, the rail system should move closer to its goal of eliminating operating subsidies.

What is troubling is the continued unwillingness of Congress to come up with plan to provide a reliable source of funding or a consistent financial strategy.

Delaware Governor Thomas R. Carper, a member of the board of Amtrak, says a tiny portion of the federal gas tax would be sufficient to get Amtrak out of a perilous financial situation.

The proposal would bring out the legions of road warriors, who jealously guard every penny.

Their stance is understandable, yet short-sighted. The problem in all areas of transportation is is an unwillingness by federal and state legislators to make hard decisions about investing in the infrastructure through modest increases in fuel taxes. While politically risky, the strategy would begin to address deterioration in all areas of the transportation system.

OUT OF THE ATTIC

This week's "Out of the Attic" photo shows the Newark Diner, which was erected during the early 1950's. It was later called the Hollywood Diner, Jimmy's Diner and is now known as Jude's Dinner. Note the two-way traffic pattern and shrubbery along the front of the building. The photograph which is from the collection of the Newark Historical Society was taken by Leo Laskavas around 1954 with research provided by Bob Thomas. In an effort to provide more complete descriptions of our "Out of the Attic" photographs, volunteer historians of the Newark Historical Society are identifying and researching the historic shots. Readers are encouraged to send old photos to the Newark Post. Special care will be taken. For information, call 737-0724.

Traveling with my brother on a baseball Odyssey

By DAVID G. W. SCOTT
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THIS SUMMER, my brother is traveling around the states on a personal odyssey watching baseball, and I'm going with him.

Of course, I won't be traveling from city to city sleeping in Red Roof Inns or in KOAs across our fine land. I'm going vicariously.

Scott

My brother and I are very close, even though he lives in San Francisco. One of the things we share is baseball.

After graduating from Princeton University and moving out west, he has decided to take a sabbatical from his job with a major computer company to figure out what he wants to do with his life. He figured the way to find out was through the easy pace, the leisure, the laziness of baseball.

We've shared baseball in many ways. Our greatest cross is the Boston Red Sox. Bearing that storied team's autumn failures is part of my history with my brother. Sharing it has made it a little easier. We spoke only once about that black day when Bill Buckner let the ball slip between his legs. We needn't torture ourselves with continual reminiscence. (Besides it was over before the ball even came off Mookie Wilson's bat. True Red Sox fans blame Calvin Shiraldi and Bob Stanley for the ninth inning demise.)

But our Red Sox connections have also had better days.

It was 1975 and the Red Sox were in the fall classic. One night late in October, Tim and I stayed up as late as we could watching a baseball game with our dad. The last thing I remember was my dad clapping his hands after a 'nobody' named Bernie Carbo hit a three-run homer to tie the sixth game of the world series in the ninth inning. Then we fell asleep.

The next thing I knew, bells were ringing. In our town of 800, they rang the fire bell after Carlton Fisk had hit his dramatic 12th-inning home run to end game six. My father came in and shook us both awake. It was dark. There was really nothing else happening under the stars in rural New Hampshire. We were awake because a baseball team had won a game in October.

But with the Red Sox, we have grown accustomed to expect lows with every high. In the fall of 1978, a dismal thing was happening indeed. All through the summer, the Red Sox

State finances reviewed after differing reports

Contrary to conflicting statements made by figure and political jugglers, Delaware is in no sense financially embarrassed.

There is today a cold cash balance in the Treasury of $1,769,122.

This amount will take care of regular expenses of the State Government, all the increases asked for, provisions by bond issue for permanent improvement and leave at the end of this year $104,551 balance-plus one-half of the present surplus.

Would-be burglars halted by alarm

The ringing of a burglar alarm and the prompt appearance of the proprietor frustrated an attempt to burglarize George Leak's garage early Sunday morning.

Mr. Leak was awakened about 1 a.m. by the ringing of the bell and hastening quickly to the garage nearby found two men emerging hurriedly from the shop.

Mr. Leak followed the men and was able by the aid of the bright moonlight to discover that the car they hastened to had a Delaware license whose number he was able to secure.

Virgil Fox to perform at Dickinson High School

Virgil Fox, generally regarded as the greatest of the small handful of concert organist in all the world today will be appearing on, Saturday, March 27 at Dickinson.

He'll arrive at the school at least two days ahead because he needs that much time to familiarize himself each new organ or concert hall in which he plays. Dickinson is the proud owner of a magnificent theater organ transplanted from a Philadelphia movie house two years ago.

Letter to the editor

We have a son and a daughter who are graduates of the Newark School District.

One of the worst features of the Delaware school system is this business of tenure.

Why should a teacher be given a life-time berth in a school district just because he or she has taught three years in the district ?

How wonderful it would be if business and industry gave tenure to employees after three years!

City Cab calls it quits in Newark

Skyrocketing insurance rates have driven Newark's only taxi cab business out of town. City Cab at 195 S. Chapel St. in Newark closed its doors at noon Monday.

Owners could not afford to pay insurance rates, which had risen more than 50 percent after Jan. 1.

Easter egg hunt set for Saturday

Peeking behind a tree stump and finding an Easter egg between the grassblades may sound like an easy task.

But just try to locate 4,000 of the chocolate goodies on Saturday, March 23 at Carpenter's State Park in Newark.

PER CHANCE

Hard work makes dream come true

By ELBERT CHANCE

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

JUST OVER A YEAR AGO, I used this column to urge Newark area residents to support the second phase of a capital campaign being conducted by the Newark Senior Center. Phase I, with a goal of $1.8 million, already had been completed through a rare combination of federal, state, city, corporate, foundation and individual support.

Phase II, with a target of $800,000, has been similarly successful, and a handsome, new, well-appointed Newark Senior Center at 200 Whitechapel Drive will be formally dedicated in week-long ceremonies, May 16-24.

■ The author, when not on the golf course, can be heard each fall as the familiar voice announcing University of Delaware home football games, a job he has done for four decades. Chance is a longtime Newark resident.

In my previous column, I attempted to explain that the Center project was unusual for two reasons—the extensive programs and services the staff plans to offer, and the number and diversity of those united to convert hopes into reality.

While it is impossible to acknowledge all who did contribute, NSC Executive Director Margaret Catts made a valiant attempt to do so during a recent interview. The names she mentioned constitute a roster of the city's "doers and shakers."

It was John Suchanec, president of the Center's board of directors, who "caught a vision of what an ideal facility should be" and transmitted his enthusiasm to his fellow directors.

Ruth Kratz, an architectural designer, created preliminary drawings that showed how a dream might look in brick and mortar.

Tom McFalls, the MacIntyre Associates professional who guided both phases of the fundraising campaign, also devoted many additional hours as a volunteer.

Chance

To Attorney Vance Funk goes credit for identifying land owned by the University of Delaware that proved a suitable site for the new building.

Welcome support was promptly given by state legislators Steve Amick, Stephanie Ulbrich and Tim Boulden. Mayor and Mrs. Ronald Gardner, Roy Lopata, City Manager Carl Luft and Maureen Roser were among the many city officials who played key roles. Vital University of Delaware participants were President David Roselle, Vice Presidents David Hollowell and John Brook, former Dean Donald Crossan and Tony Janiero.

Allen Smith and Eugene Trivits co-chaired the Phase I campaign and founded an annual Newark Senior Center Benefit Golf Tournament which will be held for a third time this year. Peggy Sullivan, a former UD alumni Relations staff member, directed the Phase II campaign and successfully involved a younger generation of donors and volunteers. Marilyn Stritzinger, Bernita Gerster and Ethel Crowe were responsible for receptions and other social events and Ron Baker handled newsletters and publicity.

Mrs. Catts also voiced special praise for the work of former city official Al Martin, architect Joseph Farina, interior designer Blair Smith, longtime board member John Mayer, and Jim Streit, publisher of the Newark Post and his staff.

Center member Will Shanor was responsible for raising more than $135,000 from Center participants. The swimming pool in the new building was the generous gift of former board member Genevieve Gore, and an entire room was given by Selena Bing, a member of the fund team.

Given such talented and influential supporters, it's hardly surprising that the new Newark Senior Center was rather quickly transformed from vision to fruition.

As fellow Newark Post columnist Phil Toman might say, "A tip of the topper to all concerned!"

'We still share baseball'

▶ SCOTT, from 6

had played inspired baseball. They led the hated New York Yankees by 14 games in August and all seemed right with the world.

But as we returned to school, the Red Sox slipped. Then they slipped some more, and then stumbled into a one-game playoff at Fenway Park on a late September afternoon. By the time school let out, the game was underway. Tim and I listened to the game on a pocket transistor radio. The signal rose and fell.

We turned a corner. The radio whined. Bucky Dent hit a home run off Mike Torrez.

We have driven by that spot in the road several times. We both know exactly where it is. Neither of us remember anything else about walking home that day.

My brother's trip is one into reminiscence, but it's also a trip into the future. He'll be reporting about his daily adventure on the World Wide Web. He's going to have his own page so anyone who wants to know what's going on will be able to peek into his odyssey.

We share in different ways now. Technology has changed. We're no longer two kids paused on a country road lifting our hands to attract a signal to our dimestore radio. One thing hasn't changed. We still share baseball.

Home alone: Is your child ready?

SOONER OR LATER, all parents must face the dilemma of when to leave a child home alone. For many people, that decision will come this summer. There's no magic age when a child is ready to be left alone for short or even more extended periods of time. This decision must be made by each parent and their child together.

Of course there are a number of important factors to consider, including the age and maturity of the child, the time of day and the length of time the child will be left alone as well as the availability of neighbors in the event of an emergency. When the time is right, staying home alone can be a very positive experience for kids. Children often become more responsible than we as parents ever imagined.

There are some signs that you should look for before deciding whether or not to leave your child alone. You need to consider your child's physical, mental, social and emotional maturity. First of all, is your child physically able to perform routine everyday tasks such as answering the phone and making phone calls, making themselves sandwiches, and being able to lock and unlock the doors? For most parents, this is the easiest area to assess.

This week's author: Mark Manno

To be mentally ready to be left alone, kids need to be able to tell time and have a pretty basic concept of the passage of time. They also have to have a good idea of who a stranger is and what an emergency is.

They should know how to recognize a dangerous situation and know what to do if it arises. Kids should also be able to solve small problems without calling you at work, yet know when a problem is too big for them and know where to get help.

The social maturity of children, especially your own, is often the most difficult to assess. Kids behave quite differently at home than they do in school. Many of us are the parents of "street angels" and "house devils."

To be left alone, children must be able to resolve basic everyday conflicts with siblings and friends and feel confident enough to get in touch with you or a neighbor if a conflict gets out of hand. They also need to be able to talk openly and freely to you about what went on while they were alone. Finally, kids need to be emotionally ready to be left alone.

Often, the impetus for staying home alone will come from the child. For many kids, self-care is a right of passage. If a child is not confident and secure about being left alone, then don't force it on them. They are clearly not ready. As a parent, you may have to do some detective work to find the answers to some of these questions. It's

A Woman's Time To Shine

Newark artists part of exhibit at Clayton Hall

By Gayle K. Hart

MY FATHER WAS THE one who taught me the value of friendship. My daddy would say to me that friendship is like a treasure. As I grew up, I understood more and more what he meant. I would say, "But daddy, I have many friends." He would say, "No, you have many companions. You have many people around you, but friendship is more." As I walk through life, I remember his words. Now I realize that if you have one friend, you are lucky."

The quilt (center) by Newark resident Terry Foreman entitled "What Surprises Spring Forth When the Earthy Visitor Settles Into Its New Home" is on display at Clayton Hall.

NORIS ESTEVES, a Delaware artist, expressed these thoughts about friendship in an essay written for the "Celebrating Our Friendships" art exhibit assembled in conjunction with the 1996 Delaware Women's Conference.

Twenty one women artists are featured including many Newark artists. Each piece, displayed at Clayton Hall, is accompanied by a photograph of the artist and the women who inspired her work.

Along with the photograph is a quote from each artist describing the friendship she chose to honor. The exhibit consists of 63 pieces including paintings, photographs, textiles, collages and ceramics. Curators Sally Donatello and Marilyn Stevens interviewed the artists and wrote essays in the voice of each artist explaining their friendships which were included along with a photo in an exhibit catalog. "We wanted to demystify the artist. The essays and photographs by Kathy Buckalew pay tribute to female friendships that every woman has in her life," said Donatello.

"Whether a mother, sister, aunt, or childhood friend, these relationships intersect with the artist's personal and professional lives."

Enjoy a meal, enjoy a play

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

FOOD, FRIENDS and theater, what could be better?

Conceived as a favor for a friend, the Gourmet Readers Theater company is a "loose group" of professional, university and community actors. The group originally came together to do a reading of a play written by a former Newark resident.

It was Joy Schweitzer's idea to perform a staged reading of Mary Rose Callaghan's play entitled "A House for Fools."

Schweitzer first met Callaghan when Mary Rose and her husband made regular trips from Ireland to teach one semester a year at the University of Delaware. While living in Newark, Callaghan taught Women's Irish Literature and since has published five novels and written a play.

James Cunningham, a theater professor at the University of Delaware, became the director for the group and was instrumental in hiring two professional actresses from New York City to work on the project.

Actors from the Chapel Street Theatre rounded out the group with community participation. "It was a lot of fun having a professional director and a nice experience for the local actors," said Schweitzer.

"My friends consider me a gourmet cook and I would make dinner at my home before rehearsals as my way of paying them back. We rehearsed and ate a couple times a week," added Schweitzer.

With a staged reading the actors perform with book in hand. "Most actors don't like to eat a lot before a performance but the beauty of a reading is there is less movement and you can eat first."

Truly a one-man show

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

ON APRIL 7, Edwin L. Loper, Sr., Wilmington artist and educator, will celebrate his 80th birthday. From now through that octogenarian feast, the Delaware Art Museum is offering an outstanding one man show including 74 of his works called "Edwin L. Loper, Sr.: From the Prism's Edge.

It is a retrospective not to be missed. The 74 works were brought together from both private and public collections and this may be your only chance to see them all in one place at one time.

In addition to paintings from the DAM's permanent collection, the exhibition is drawn form the National Gallery of Art, Museum of American Art at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia Museum of Art, Afro-American Historical and Cultural Museum, Howard University Gallery, Clark Atlanta University and the Tampa Museum of African-American Art.

I was surprised to learn from museum PR director Lise Monty that this show is the first one ever to examine Loper's long artistic career. The exhibit both shows him to be a painter of remarkable stature and is a really great 80th birthday present as well!

On display are figure studies, cityscapes, landscapes and abstract studies. As might be expected from Loper, Wilmington scenes dominate his early works.

The current offering at the 2301 Kentmere Parkway gallery gives us an excellent chance to see the growth and development of this painter. His earlier works, particularly those of Wilmington, are dark. You can see his work begin to change as the 40s drew to a close and in the early 50s his lines and brushwork become much bolder. By the middle of that decade, he had begun to fracture the plane of his pictures.

With his individuality in full bloom, over the next thirty or so years began to emphasize color more and more, finally abandoning shading altogether and going for simple juxtaposition of colors, working from dark to light and vice versa.

Oranges and reds were dominant in those three decades.

Another stage of development came in the decade before this one. Loper by now was incorporating two separate pictures into one composition. Lise Monty explained, "With this technique he paints and abstract painting from memory using flat, angular areas of light color, which then becomes the underpainting for another composition. The two paintings are woven together, often with many of the lines from the underpainting showing through."

Mounting this exhibition at the Delaware Art Museum is really appropriate for two reasons. The first, obviously, is that Wilmington is Loper's home. The other, and more interesting, reason is that it was here in 1937 — when the museum was still under its original name of Wilmington Society of Fine Arts — that Loper submitted his first painting, "After a Shower," for inclusion in a show.

Painted in 1937, the oil on canvas "After A Shower" by Wilmington artist and teacher Edward L. Loper, Sr., is part of 74 paintings now on exhibit at the Delaware Art Museum to celebrate Loper's 80th birthday.

It took Honorable Mention, was placed in the museum's permanent collection and is in the current exhibit. "After A Shower" is the picture with my column today.

The picture depicts the City of Wilmington as seen from the kitchen window of the artist's home. Longtime residents may even be able to recognize the outline of the long-gone Hotel Darling along with the still standing du Pont Building. The rainslicked streets add much to the interest with there reflections. I only hope my words will whet your appetite to see the real thing at the museum.

Loper graduated from Howard High School (formerly only public

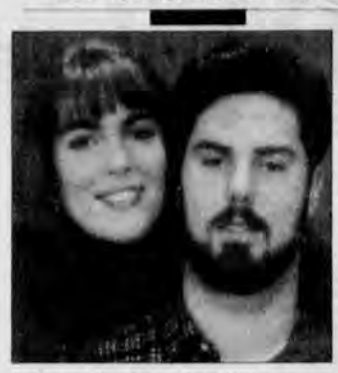
ENGAGEMENTS

Damian, Wilson to wed



LeAnne Damian, Chao Wilson

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Damian G. Evans of Dover announce the engagement of their daughter, LeAnne Marie, to Chao E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Wilson Jr. of Newark.

The bride, a 1991 graduate of Caesar Rodney High School and the University of Delaware. Currently she is a communication coordinator at The Center of Health Policy Studies in Columbia, Md. She is also enrolled in a masters program in publications design at the University of Baltimore, Md.

The groom is a 1991 graduate of Newark High School and a graduate of the University of Delaware. He is currently working on his masters degree at the Johns Hopkins University of Whiting School of Engineering. He is employed as an electrical engineer at Northrop Grumman in Linthilum, Md.

A Nov. 2, 1996 wedding is planned.

Will traffic endanger children?

▶ TRAFFIC, from 1

told a concerned group of parents and residents at the Gallaher Elementary School that the proposed road connection was a "rumor" and he didn't know how it started.

"The rumor started because of the colored line on this map," said Guilfoyle, pointing to the exhibits included with the Study. "DelDOT puts these things out as trial balloons to see who screams. Well, we're screaming and we'll keep screaming until that colored line disappears."

DelDOT officials explained that the community was heard on this issue and the roadway connection "was dead." However, in response to persistent questioning from the audience he admitted that he could not say "it would not come up again in the future."

According to the official, the Brownleaf connection was to be used for a bus route and other traffic would be prevented from using the road by an unspecified "preemption system."

On March 12 the Christina School Board unanimously voted to send a letter to transportation secretary Anne Canby, with copies to the House and Senate Educational Committees, opposing the plan.

Free guide for parents available usually best to let the kids stay alone for brief periods of time such as an hour or two, before you move into longer periods of self-care.

▶ OUTLOOK, from 8

Even if you've decided that your child is ready for self-care, there are a few other considerations to take into account. Is your home and neighborhood safe?

How long will your child be alone and how accessible are other adults such as friends or neighbors? It really is hard for a parent to feel positive about leaving their child alone, but if you express a great deal of concern over the issue, you may cause a confident child to lose their confidence.

There are many excellent resources available for parents who are considering leaving their children home alone. Delaware Cooperative Extension has an excellent publication called

A Guide for Parents with School-Agers who are Home Alone. If you would like a copy of this publication, please send a #10 self-addressed stamped envelope with 55c postage to : Home Alone, 910 S. Chapel St., Newark, De 19716-1303.

Artists honor their friends at show

▶ FRIENDSHIP, from 8

She continued, "We wanted to showcase the women artist living and working in Delaware. Each artist was selected for their outstanding contributions to the arts in Delaware and in many instances nationally and internationally. Organizing this exhibit was like producing a child. It was an extraordinary experience."

Newark resident Debbie Hegedus choose to honor her friend, Rowena Macleod, who was also a featured artist in the exhibit from Newark.

Describing her friendship with Macleod, Hegedus said, " Not long after we met, we started a business together making hand-painted furniture. We met weekly and those working sessions naturally cemented our relationship. Most artists are solitary creatures and they often miss the sense of community that comes in other professions. We had the best of all possible worlds, a growing friendship, the chance to talk about our art and time to collaborate our pieces."

'We have to have dinner first' before reading

▶ GOURMET, from 8

The reading was performed and recorded at the University of Delaware student center and Callaghan was able to focus on the performance and make changes to her play.

"The 'House of Fools' reading was so well received and we had such a good time" that the group started to look for another project, said Schweitzer.

"There aren't many readings done around here, and yet they are so doable." It takes less time and less money to put a reading together than a full production of a play, according to Schweitzer.

The Gourmet Readers Theatre is now working in conjunction with the University of Delaware English Department. Their first project was "Cat On a Hot Tin Roof" which Professor Richard Davidson is currently teaching his students.

"We wanted to entice the students to seek out a real production rather than rent the movie because those scripts are different. It seemed like a good idea because so many plays are being taught and it was a way to connect two departments at the university (Theatre and English) as well as connecting community and professional actors," said Schweitzer.

"We are a social, congenial group, striving for high quality performance, with a commitment to bring the theater to the public. We were going to do our next reading at 5:30 p.m. but we moved it to 7:30 p.m. We have to have dinner first," Schweitzer said.

The group performed the reading of "Cat On a Hot Tin Roof" to a full house at the Bacchus Theatre in the UD Student Center on March 18. "These actors bring us to our knees," said Schweitzer.

Gourmet gala benefits Food Bank

WHAT DO YOU GET when you mix five of the area's most celebrated gourmet chefs, six wineries, a silent auction of superior items and the melodious sound of Tony Grandberry and Friends?

It's Share Our Strength's Taste of the Nation Gourmet Dinner scheduled for Monday, April 15 from 6:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. at Harry's Savoy Grill, 2020 Naaman's Road in Wilmington.

The event benefits Emmanuel Dining Room and The Food Bank of Delaware.

According to organizer and Harry's owner, Xavier Teixido, the event will feature one hors d'oeuvre and one signature dish each from five guest chefs including: David Banks, Harry's Savoy Grill, Wilmington; Dan Butler, Griglia Toscana, Wilmington; David Keener, LaLa Land, Rehoboth Beach; Jack McDavid, Jack's Firehouse, Philadelphia; and David Grear, Samuel's, Wayne, Pa.

"This is a unique event and has the potential to be the best meal prepared in the state of Delaware this year," Teixido said. "One hundred percent of the funds raised benefit hunger relief."

Share Our Strength's Taste of the Nation presented by American Express and Calphalon is the largest nationwide benefit for hunger relief and prevention. The annual series of food and wine tastings are held in the month of April in more than 100 cities throughout the United States and Canada.

Tickets to Delaware's April 15 event are $125 per person and may be purchased by calling Harry's at (302) 475-3000. Sponsors include Wilmington Trust Company, Delaware Importers, WJBR 99.5 FM, Harry's Savoy Grill and Delaware Today.

St. Mark's seeks title

The St. Mark's girls soccer did everything but win the state championship last season. The Spartans lost to Dickinson by a 4-1 count in the finals of the state tournament.

So naturally a state title is at the top of the wish list for this season.

"It's definitely in the back of my mind," said Katie Phipps, an All-State forward who led the team with 30 goals, "but I'm going to start over fresh. Hopefully we'll get there and come out with a victory."

Gone is a productive group of seniors led by All-State sweeper Susan Sauer. But St. Mark's Coach Tom DeMatteis expects another strong showing, especially if the team brings the same work ethic to the field it brought last season.

"Our returnees can't be as good as last year," said DeMatteis, whose team posted an impressive 16-3 record in '95. "They have to be a notch better. Everybody else has improved. If we haven't, then we're going to fall behind.

"I'm hoping to see improvement each game so that we're playing our best when the tournament rolls around."

DeMatteis declined to put the team's prospects for this season in terms of offense and defense. "Just as long as we score more than each team we play, that's it," he said. "I think we have a strong defense. And yes, I think we can score some goals. I think we're a well-balanced team.

"I'm looking for everyone to step up so we don't have to rely on one or two people."

From the looks of things, DeMatteis probably won't have to worry much about this area. The squad is an experienced one, with a significant number of players who earned post-season honors in '95.

They include goalkeeper Courtney Berkholtz (second team All State), wing fullback Jen Way (honorable mention), stopper Amy Pietlock (first team All State), halfback Kara Humphries (second team All-State), halfback Susan Oberlander (second team All-State) and wing Erin Lindell (second team All-State).

"We're working hard," said Pietlock, who will serve as one of the team captains. "I think the team is stronger, but I think we have to work for it. We have to work up to our full potential."

Softball teams eye return to tourney

By DAVID G. W. SCOTT

Glasgow wondering

Glasgow High softball coach Larry Walker is spending the spring wondering if his young team is "gutty enough to make the state tournament." But with several players from the Canal softball team who have played in regional and national competition, the Dragons should be fine.

Walker and his team will find out quickly if they've got what it takes this year with a difficult opening schedule. The Dragons will face Concord, St. Elizabeth's, William Penn, Mt. Pleasant and Newark in its first five games. With the chilly and rainy weather, that doesn't give his team much time to warm up.

The team is led by senior catcher Megan Hart. Hart will catch freshman Julie Van Deusen who will attempt to transfer her diving skills into accuracy on the mound.

Senior Cara Lee Lenoir will be in the outfield. The infield behind Van Deusen will be sophomore Kristin Nau at shortstop, junior Melissa Latta at third, sophomore Jamie Sassaman at second and sophomore Brandy Redrow at first.

Walker's team is loaded with outfielders who also play catcher. Sophomores Melissa Pettee and Laura Vella, freshman Jessica Marley, and junior Gabbi Dockery will see time in the outfield and occasionally behind the plate if Hart can't go.

"We have a lot more flexibility than we had last year," said Walker, but he continued, "that can be both good and bad."

Many players will be in positions in which they don't have a lot of experience.

Freshman Ericka Richardson, sophomore Kirsty Lloyd will also see time in the outfield positions. Gerry Proffitt will be a backup catcher.

"We're replacing five starters from last year's team," Walker said. "We've got our work cut out for us."

"I'd be disappointed if we didn't make the tournament," said Walker. "We have a good tradition and I want to keep it going."

Walker said he'd be relying on Hart, Nau and Van Deusen throughout the year.

Mills: Just playing ball

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

She isn't really looking to make a statement. Nor is she looking to be one of the boys. She just wants to play baseball.

So Kristin Mills does. A freshman at tiny Caravel Academy in Bear, Mills is beginning her second season on the Bucs' junior varsity baseball team. She is perhaps the only girl in Delaware competing on a high school baseball team.

"I pretty much always played baseball instead of softball," said Mills, 14, who got her first taste of the sport six years ago through Newark National Little League. "I liked it a lot and really didn't have a reason to switch over."

Mills is no stranger to success. As a point guard on Caravel's girls basketball team, she earned third-team All-State honors after leading the Bucs to the second round of the state

Caravel Academy's Kristin Mills keeps a steady eye on the baseball.

Mud by any other name...

David Scott

Direct Kick

If you're a high school athlete or the parent of one, you know one thing these last few weeks: mud. No, your name isn't mud, but your cleats are probably caked with it.

Here in Delaware we have beautiful mud. It's got a robust rusty hue when wet on the ballfields of Newark, and when it dries and scatters to the un-vacuumable places in your house, it takes on a delightful rosy color.

For softball and baseball players the difficulty is knowing just when to get muddy. Start your head-first sliding too early in the afternoon, and you'll end up one chilly Yellowjacket by the time the sun goes down. Think you'll be cool and dive for that infield grounder and even though you might be a Dragon, you'll know what it means that March comes in like a lion.

Lacrosse and soccer players have it a bit easier. Even if you get muddy early in practice you'll be alright as long as you keep moving. But once you're soggy, and the mud slick on your shorts has become a permanent stain, pray your coach doesn't decide to give one of those long winded pre-season preambles after the sun goes down.

Hope he went to the Abraham Lincoln school of short speeches (ask your history teacher about that one).

But mud's mud. I for one am glad it's here. I'll take mud over permafrost any day.

Mud means that if you don't hit it on the sweet spot your hands are going to ring until Friday. Mud means if you miskick, you'll be lying on your back quicker than you can say, "Jack Frost!"

But it also means the earth is warming and the kids are outside. Mud means the air is that curious mixture of warm and cold molecules.

Everywhere around town, maintenance of muddy fields is as much a priority as set plays and teaching the curveball.

Newark High's softball coach John Taylor's arms are sore from raking mud.

Caravel Academy's headmaster, Carl Rice rides a tractor, dragging the day's worth of mud even for the next day's use. They might complain, but hey, they love mud too.

Maybe I love mud because I know those thirty springs I've spent will not come again.

Maybe the older we get, the more expensive our clothes, the more metaphorical the mud we toil in, the less likely we are to actually get out there and get down and dirty.

But it's spring again. We've got our chance to roll out the bats and balls and watch the athletes play. In Newark, they'll be playing in the mud.

Athlete of the Week

Newark High's Caron Marra wasn't expecting much of anything when she finally let her older brother Joe talk her into going out for cross country before her junior year.

"It was just to get in shape at first," said Marra, a 17-year-old senior. "The only reason I went out was that I got sick of swimming."

Marra has come a long way since those first painful runs with Joe Marra, a former Newark cross country runner. Last fall, she was a first-team All-State selection. Cross country led to auditions for the indoor track team, which competes during the winter. She also found her way onto the spring "outdoor" track team.

She won state titles in 3,200-meter race during the winter and spring seasons last year, and was also a first-team All-Selection this past winter.

Last winter, she finished first in the 1,600-meter race despite colliding with two other runners during the first lap. "Three of us went down," she said. "We were in a big [group]. The girl in front of me tripped. I basically tripped over her. Then another girl fell on both of us.

Caron Marra

"It took me a couple of laps to catch up. At that point I was so distracted that I had no clue. I just ran."

As her senior year winds down, Marra looks forward to defending her championship in the 1,600, her favorite event. "It's fast, but you still have to pace yourself," she said. "And there's usually pretty good competition. The 3,200 gets a little long. And the 800 is like a sprint for me."

Another trip to the Penn Relays in Philadelphia is also on her schedule. Top runners from all over the world show up for the annual event. "It's just neat to place in your heat," she said.

But even with all her success as a runner, her No. 1 priority remains in the classroom where she maintains a 3.7 grade-point average and will likely graduate among the top 15 in her class. She enjoys science and math in particular, and is considering a career as an engineer or a teacher.

Though some college coaches have expressed interest in having her run on their teams, she wants to earn a scholarship based on her mind rather than her legs.

At Caravel it's 'Get on, get 'em over, get 'em in'

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Caravel will look to rebound from its first losing baseball season in some time. The '95 Bucs finished 8-10 and were shut out from the state tournament after seven straight appearances.

"Last year was a difficult year," said Caravel Coach Paul Niggebrugge, 39, a former minor-league outfielder who has held the job since 1986. "I think we had five extra-inning games that could have turned the season around. We were very close."

The tiny private school in Bear will take on powerhouses like Salesianum, the defending state champion, St. Mark's and Caesar Rodney. In the past, the Bucs have won their share of these battles, going 39-14 during the past three seasons which included a 16-1 mark in '92.

On plus side, both the top hitter and top pitcher return from last season. Shortstop Jon Markle hit .383, driving in 16 and scoring 13. He led the team in hits (23) and extra-base hits.

Pitcher Greg Huff compiled a record of 4-3 with 2.64 ERA. He struck out 49 in 58 1/3 innings while surrendering 13 walks. Huff, a senior, also threw a six-inning no-hitter against St. Andrew's.

"He's a competitor," Niggebrugge said. "He doesn't throw the ball very hard, but he gets people out. He knows how to pitch."

But the coach's problem is finding somebody to throw behind Huff. "I think we're going to be better offensively," he said. "If we get the pitching, our defense is good."

Jimmy Frazier returns at second base and will team with Markle to form an experienced double-play combination. First baseman/pitcher Dan Foraker, a senior, also returns after missing a large portion of last season.

Catcher/designated hitter Matt Rice, who spent a good bit of last season on the disabled list, has some pop in his bat and will likely hit somewhere in the middle of the order.

"He's very strong and very enthused about playing the game," Niggebrugge said. "He can drive the ball a very long way. We have to make sure he's consistent."

Outfielder Bryan Gollicker, a senior who has a strong arm, is another senior the coach expect to contribute.

Beyond that, Niggebrugge said, there are plenty of jobs for the taking. He anticipates filling out his lineup card with any number of underclassmen, some of whom played on the junior varsity last season.

"Markle's a certainty," he said. "The others we have to develop. It's going to be interesting."

Niggebrugge also expects this season's lineup to provide speed on the bases. And to deal effectively with the situations presented to them at the plate even if they can't hit the ball over the fence. Last year's team compiled a team batting average of only .257, about 20 points lower than he'd like to see.

"Hitters have three responsibilities," Niggebrugge said. "Get on, get 'em over or get 'em in. Batting averages can be misleading [in high school baseball]. It's such a short season."

Newark's Yellowjackets poised for soccer run

Newark's girls soccer team begins its season tonight at Hoffman Stadium against Ursuline at 7:30 p.m. in front of senior Erin Calvert (above) who will start in the goal.

By DAVID G. W. SCOTT

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Mike Clair, third year head coach of Newark High's girls soccer team is excited about this season. As he shares a practice field with spring track and lacrosse, not to mention gallons of water and tons of mud, Clair's enthusiasm is limitless.

After Newark beat St. Mark's in a preseason game last week, Clair's optimism is soaring.

"We have nearly 40 girls out for soccer," said Clair. "We'll have a JV schedule and maybe even some freshman games. We have 13 freshmen playing."

Last year, Newark had big wins over Ursuline and St. Mark's before being eliminated in the first round of the state tournament by Ursuline.

And this year's first game will be against Ursuline under the lights at Hoffman Stadium in Newark.

Newark is led by the Marx sisters. The junior twins make Newark skilled and fast in the middle of the field. Emily will play sweeper and Julie plays center midfield.

"The great thing about the Marx girls this year is their flexibility," said Clair. "I can move them up front, or drop them into defense. We're a dangerous team because of them."

Senior co-captain Nicolle Clair will play stopper and senior co-captain Erin Calvert will be in the net. Calvert has never played goal before, but Clair says she's a natural in the net.

Playing forward for Newark will be freshman Stephanie English and senior co-captain Mackenzie Streit.

"This is our year to put it together," said an excited Clair. "Our strength is going to be in the midfield and on defense."

Also expected to perform this year will be freshman Amy Hunt and sophomore Jill Cope. Cope had eight assists last year. Junior Andrea Beach will play forward.

Clair is assisted by Steve Cope who will handle the junior varsity team.

Attitude is key for Dragons' season

By DAVID G. W. SCOTT

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IF GLASGOW HIGH'S baseball coach Dave Kohan had it his way, his team would forfeit batting practice and take lessons in attitude. Kohan, who starts his first spring as head coach of the Dragons, feels the key to his team's season is a healthy attitude.

Last year, Glasgow had its chances to make the state tournament and failed. Kohan believes that team had enough talent to be in the tournament, but didn't have the discipline.

"This team has the talent," said Kohan at Monday's intrasquad game. "We have to find a way to get it out of them."

Kohan thinks his team's strengths are pitching and team speed. Led by senior captain Scott Broderdorp, the team is loaded with seniors everywhere. Joining Broderdorp on the pitching staff will be senior Brian Barone and juniors Mike Duncan and Bob Trzonkowski. Working behind the plate, senior captain Matt Telep is expected to provide leadership and a strong bat.

Senior captain Justin Taylor will roam the outfield with seniors Mike Needam and Matt Lantagne.

But Kohan continually goes back to attitude.

"We have to change the attitude first," he said. "Every person on this team knows they may be called on to help the team win."

The Dragons have the lofty goal of making the state tournament this season, something no other Glasgow baseball team has been able to do. Kohan had success with the girls swim team, leading them to a conference crown. Now he'll take his show to the diamond and see if he can win there as well.

Kohan will be assisted by coaches Bob Lingenfelter, John Reinholt and Paul Wamsley.

Ducks Mites win

The Delawae Ducks Mite hockey teams won first place at the Pittsburgh Tiger's Ice Hockey Tournament last weekend. The ducks beat the Lawrence County Lightning in the Mite B championship game by a score of 6-4.

Coach Bob Riley said that teamwork and passing were the keys to victory.

Goal tender Eddie Bruce received the Most Valuable Player award for the Ducks.

PeeWees make finals

In the Pee Wee Division, the Ducks finished second, losing in the championship game to the Harrisburg Rockets 5-2. Coach Matt Patzek said his team played really strong games to get to the finals. The final game came down to the final six minutes when the Rockets were able to score two goals.

Goalie John Danko received the M.V.P. award for the Ducks.

Glasgow soccer team starts season with youth on its side

By DAVID G. W. SCOTT

GLASGOW COACH Bob Bussiere's goal is for his girls to make the state tournament. This year, with the tournament's expansion to 12 teams, that should be a little easier.

But the Dragons face two problems: finding a goalkeeper and having young players step up to the challenge.

Glasgow opens the season with two tough games.

First, they will face last year's runners-up, St. Mark's and then they will face Ursuline, who lost to eventual champion Dickinson in the semifinal round.

"We want to be as competitive as possible in the Blue Hen Conference this year," said Bussiere. "And we want to finish in the top half of the tournament field."

In order to do that the Dragons will need big years from young players.

Junior forward Beth Norris will provide scoring punch while senior captains Sara Patterson and Trish Lascomb will play in the midfield.

Sophomore Jill Biggs will play in the midfield or in the back alongside sophomores Kim Burkhardt and Natalie Dunlap.

Kaziah Williams will also play in the fullback position.

Seniors at Newark 'fired-up' for upcoming lacrosse season

First year head coach Chris Barker is fired up about the upcoming lacrosse season. He and his Yellowjackets charge into the spring season with senior leadership and confidence. Coming off last year's 4-8 record, the team's goal is to make the state tournament.

With six returning starters, Barker feels his team will be carried by the seniors.

"We're committed to the same goals," said Barker. "Losing is not an option for this team because of all the seniors."

Senior co-captains Dennis Adams, Ben Garrison, Will Crossan and Kevin Hudson begin the season with pride and hunger. Garrison and Hudson will anchor the midfield while Adams will play defense and Crossan will play attack.

Junior goalie Colin Cromer will mind the net in front of junior defenseman Mark Dixon who is also expected to contribute. Junior Brian McCloud will play attack and is expected to provide goal scoring punch.

Newark begins its season at Glasgow next Thursday. Barker is assisted by Jeff Weaver.

Caravel will rely on strong pitching worried about being in games. He's worried about scoring runs.

▶ CARAVEL, from 18

"Pitching is definitely our strength," said the Buccaneers head coach. "I'm concerned that we're not going to score enough."

The Caravel pitchers are juniors Kati Salony and Megan Biddle. Salony, who was injured much of last season, was a second team All-Stater as a freshman. Biddle, who transferred from Middletown High School was a second team All-Stater last year.

"Not only are they my pitching staff," said Baker, "but they are my three, four hitters in the line-up."

When Baker is not looking for great things from his pitchers, he'll look to his chief utility player, junior Lisa Delcollo. Delcollo, a co-captain, will play first, catcher and shortstop for the Bucs. Senior captain Tammy Frazer will play second base and junior Rose Tassone will handle the duties at shortstop. Freshman Stephanie Rice will get the nod at third base and freshman Cori Abshagen will catch Biddle and Salony.

The outfielders for Caravel will include senior Krissy Eaton, freshmen Jamie Keyes and Megan Heuberger and sophomore Casey Wanros.

Last season was disappointing for a Caravel team that won a state title in 1991 and was runner-up in '92. The Bucs finished 9-11, missing the tournament for the first time since 1988.

"If we didn't make the tournament, I'd be disappointed," said Baker. "We only have eleven players on the bench so we'll be doing a lot of juggling."

Baker thinks Wilmington Christian, William Penn, Glasgow and Brandywine will be the top teams in the state.

Sports briefs

Hatt named to team

University of Delaware women's soccer standout Beth Hatt has been selected to the GTE/College Sports Information Directors of America District II Fall At-Large All-Academic team.

Hatt, a junior midfielder, was one of 21 women student-athletes named to the first and second teams.

A native of Downingtown, Pa., Hatt is a three-year starter who has led the Blue Hens to back-to-back second place finishes in the North Atlantic Conference. she owns a 3.623 grade point average as an applied nutrition major.

Hawks fall

The Delaware Hawks mites lost to the Northern Virginia Hockey Club this weekend 8-3. Justin Dawson scored two goals for the Hawks and Ricky Beeson scored his first goal of the season.

The Hawks will rest up for next weekend's Tim Roman Memorial Tournament which will take place on Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the University of Delaware's ice Blue and Gold rinks.

Viking softball team faces tough conference

By ERIC FINE

Christiana's softball coach wants to see her players dedicate themselves to improving last season's record.

"We need commitment," said Coach Joan Lumb, who is entering her second season. "We're going to struggle. The [Blue Hen] conference is very strong, but we're going to hang in there and give everyone a run for their money."

> JOAN LUMB
> CHRISTIANA HIGH SOFTBALL COACH

The '95 Vikings finished well under .500, but Lumb was more upset with her team's lax practice habits and that only one player showed up for all 18 games.

"The record doesn't actually reflect how competitive we were," Lumb said. "We lost lots of two- and three-run games." This category, she said, included Brandywine, the runner-up in the state tournament.

So far, her players support her notion that it's a whole new ballgame this time around.

"We got to work together," said left fielder Erin Orndorff, a senior who is serving as captain. "[Last season], priorities were different. Teamwork was definitely lacking."

"The same thing wasn't on everybody's mind," shortstop Felicia Freimuth added. "Winning wasn't on everybody's mind. Everybody's mind is now on winning since we haven't had a win-

Pitching could be difference in Christiana tourney bid

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Christiana's pitchers could be the difference between last season's dismal record and a state tournament berth.

The Vikings could start the season with a three-man rotation of juniors Joe Rineer (2-1, 2.84 ERA) and Jordan Donovan (1-1, 3.76) and senior Jeff Fleming (0-5, 4.35).

Combine this platoon of experienced arms with a lineup that includes all-conference players like first baseman Paul Oakes and center fielder Andrew Allen, and the team is bound to improve on its 3-14 mark from a year ago.

"The goal is to win 10 or 11 games and qualify for the state tournament," said Scott Tuozzolo, Christiana's first-year head coach. "And six of our nine starters will be juniors, so technically we're still young."

Tuozzolo, 30, who has coached both the freshman and junior varsity teams, believes each starter is strong in his own way. Rineer has picked up speed on his fastball, he said. Donovan has added a curve to make his fast pitch more effective. And Fleming has guile.

"Jeff may not have the same velocity as the other two, but he's a smart pitcher who knows how to work the hitters real well," Tuozzolo said.

Oakes, a junior, returns from a monster season. He hit .433, with two home runs, 12 runs and 14 RBIs. He led the Vikings with 26 hits and eight extra-base hits. Allen, the Vikings' speedy lead-off hitter, hit .327, with nine stolen bases and 10 runs.

To capitalize on the pitching talent, however, Christiana will have to play well in the field.

"None of our pitchers are overpowering," Tuozzolo said. "So obviously we have to cut down on the multitude of errors we made last year. I think defensively we could be a good team.

"In our three preseason games we've turned four double plays. So we've shown potential. We've done the little things well. Our outfielders have hit the cut-off men, and we are talking and communicating well."

Tuozzolo also believes the rest of the lineup behind Oakes and Allen will hit. But things other than batting averages and ERAs have an influence on which team wins.

"The biggest thing is that we have to learn to win the close games we lost last year," Tuozzolo said. Flipping through last season's score book, he recalls Mount Pleasant's two-game sweep of the Viking by identical scores of 2-1. Concord beat them 2-0. Delcastle beat them 5-4 as did Newark.

"If we can turn those around this year, that puts us on the road to the 10 or 11 wins we need to qualify for the state tournament," he said.

Trout stocking begins April 1

DELAWARE'S WINTER weather has many New Castle County fishing enthusiasts itching for the opportunity to wet a line. Thanks to the trout stocking program of the Delaware Division of Fish and Wildlife, they will get their chance April 6 with the opening day of trout season.

This year the Division will be stocking 30,900 rainbow and brown trout in six New Castle County streams. Stockings will begin April 1 and continue through May 2. Streams to be stocked include White Clay Creek, Wilson Run, Christina Creek, Beaver Run, Mill Creek and Pike Creek. As part of the program 500 trophy size rainbow trout averaging 14 inches will be stocked in all six streams on April 5. On April 18, 2,400 brown trout will be stocked in White Clay Creek, Wilson Run and Christina Creek. All other stockings will be rainbow trout averaging 11 inches in size.

Fishermen are limited to six fish per day and are required to have a Delaware fishing license and trout stamp if they are between the ages of 16 and 65. Youngsters between the ages of 12 and 15 are required to have a juvenile trout stamp.

Funds for the stocking program come from annual sale of trout stamps.

ning season in about four years.

"We still fight a little," said Freimuth, a junior who made the all-conference team. "But as a whole, we're getting along better. We're on the same page."

Sophomore Heather Burke replaces Courtney Miller on the mound. (Miller opted for the lacrosse team this season.) Burke, who pitched on the junior varsity in '95, has made a fan out of Orndorff.

"She's young, but she's improved a lot over last year," Orndorff said. "She's going to do very well."

Burke will throw to catcher Kelly Stellfox. Andrea McGeehan (first base), Tammy Ellis (second base) and Christine Sutlic (third base) round out the infield.

Melissa Griffitts (center field) and Karyn Vanveen (right field) are the other starters. Maggie Wheeler, Lisa Fuhrmeister, Kristen Fuhrmeister, Misty Dobson and Eryn Halfen are the reserves.

"All the other teams should watch out," Freimuth said. "They better have their heads in the game when they're playing us."

Mills: Just playing ball

▶ MILLS, from 18

tournament. (For the record, she has no plans to audition for the boys basketball team.)

On the diamond she is primarily a shortstop, but she also pitches and plays second base. "Gender's not an issue at all," Mills said. "Everyone at Caravel is so nice. I get looks sometimes [from opposing players], but after the game I'm just another player."

During interviews, Mills is laid back and unpretentious. And patient. No, she repeats calmly, playing baseball is about baseball and not about winning the battle of the sexes. And no, competing on even terms with boys doesn't provide her any special thrill.

"Succeeding in any sport is a great feeling," she said.

At the same time, Mills doesn't take the opportunity for granted. "I've heard from people in other states that they haven't been allowed to play, but Coach Nick [Paul Niggebrugge] is just great about it," she said.

"He doesn't base it [ability] on gender. I'm just like anybody else."

Mills reluctantly admits she could be viewed as a role model, but adds that breaking new ground places a distant second behind playing the game. "I guess if another girl sees me doing it, she might feel more comfortable playing baseball," she said.

Given a choice, Mills would prefer seeing high schools give girls baseball programs a try. Last summer, she watched the Mid-Atlantic Pride, a women's professional baseball team, play at Frawley Stadium. And she liked what she saw.

"I think if there's enough interest in pro teams for women," she said, "then eventually there might be the same interest in high school baseball for girls."

At 5-foot-9, 130 pounds, Mills gives up some arm strength when she's on the mound, but she compensates with technique.

"Instead of having an 80 mile-per-hour fastball, I concentrate on location and hitting the corners," she said. "I like to get ahead on the first pitch, then throw off-speed pitches to see if I can get the batter to chase something."

> "Succeeding in any sport is a great feeling."
> KRISTIN MILLS
> CARAVEL ACADEMY BASEBALL PLAYER

A right-hander, Mills' repertoire includes a knuckle curveball and a change-up. In the batter's box, she describes herself as a contact hitter. "I'm not really much of a power hitter," she said. "I make contact most of the time."

Statistics prove Mills is no novelty act. She pitched her way to a 2-2 record and a stingy 2.33 ERA; she also saved two games. As a hitter, she struck out only three times last season.

Coach Niggebrugge believes in Mills for two reasons: her grasp of the game's fundamentals and her self-esteem.

"Her sense of security comes from within. When she develops and matures [physically], you may see her on the varsity level," he said. "You may see her soon."

Newark narrows margin

By DAVID G. W. SCOTT

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

LAST YEAR NEWARK HIGH'S softball team improved a great deal. Coach John Taylor begins his fourth season at the helm with high hopes for his team.

"Last year we narrowed the margin (in loses) considerably," he said. "This year we should be competitive because the attitude is positive and the girls have played together."

Taylor thinks defense will keep his team in a lot of games. Relying on the battery of Becky Streets and senior captain Alison Bernick, Taylor has a team with seniors in key positions.

Senior Nicole Vance will play first base and help in the pitching rotation. Senior Monique Hite begins her third year on varsity in the outfield along with seniors Erin Conway and Wendy Reusch.

Junior co-captain Jen Jones and sophomore Meredith McIntosh provide strength at the middle infield positions and Taylor expects contributions from freshman Pam Rossetti at third.

"We lost two good players in Bev Elliot and Jen Rossetti," said Taylor. "Those players are tough to replace. We'll have to work for every run and every run will be earned."

Taylor sees Mount Pleasant, Glasgow and William Penn at the top of the Blue Hen Conference.

"If the right things happen, if we can stay healthy and get some key hits," Taylor continued, "we hope to surprise some people.

"When other teams come to Newark they better be prepared for a game because they are going to get one."

Obituaries

James H. Toots Money, mail carrier

Newark resident, James H. Toots Money, died Feb. 23, 1996, of heart failure in Veterans Affairs Medical Center, Elsmere.

Mr. Money, 78, had been a mail carrier for many years. He was a member of St. John's AUMP Church and on its Trustee Board.

He was a 32nd degree Mason and past grand secretary of Most Worshipful Eagle Grand Lodge AF&AM. He was an Army veteran of World War II.

He is survived by sister, Mabel V. Reed of Wilmington; niece, Doris Lambert of Wilmington, who cared for him.

A service was held Feb. 29 at St. John's AUMP Church. Burial was in Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery, Summit.

Willard W. Taylor Sr., WW II Army vet

Newark resident, Willard W. Taylor Sr., died Feb. 29, 1996, of heart failure at home.

Mr. Taylor, 73, was a director of finance for the Cecil County Board of Education, retiring in 1979 after about 30 years.

He was an Army veteran of World War II, serving in Europe and the Pacific. He attended Goldey-Beacom College.

He is survived by his wife of 47 years, Mariam Moore Taylor; son, W. Warren Jr. of Pittsgrove, N.J.; daughters, Deborah A. Carman of Newark and Joan E. Hutson of Middletown; sister, Doris M. Trimble of Bayview, Md.; and three grandchildren.

A service was held March 4 at Robert T. Jones & Foard Funeral Home, Newark. Burial was in Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery, Summit.

The family suggests contributions to the Arthritis Foundation.

Alpheus H. Price Sr., retired electrician from Chrysler Corp.

Newark resident, Alpheus H. Price Sr., died Feb. 27, 1996, in Kent General Hospital, Dover.

Mr. Price, 75, was a maintenance electrician at Chrysler Corp.'s Newark assembly plant. He retired in 1986 after 30 years.

He was a member and committeeman of the United Auto Workers Union Local, and a former member of Calvary Baptist Church, Newark.

He is survived by his wife, W. Marie Parker Price; children, Alpheus Price Jr. of Newark and Alphia C. Pierce of Kirkwood, Pa.; sister, Ellen Lee Price of Irwin, N.C.; five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

A service was held March 4 at Spicer-Millikin & Warwick Funeral Home, Newark. Burial was in St. Georges Cemetery.

The family suggests contributions to the American Cancer Society.

Gary T. Smith, Purple Heart recipient

Bear resident, Gary T. Smith, died Feb. 29, 1996, of cancer at home.

Mr. Smith, 49, was born in Philadelphia, Pa., and had lived in Delaware for many years. He was a senior lab technician at Lanxide Corporation in Newark for ten years.

He received a Purple Heart while serving in the U.S. Army in Vietnam.

He was a member of the Disabled American Veterans and VFW Post No. 11357. He loved jazz, sports and was an avid reader.

He is survived by his wife of 18 years, Bonnie M. Smith; one son, Stephen G. at home; one daughter, Valerie M. at home; his mother, Geraldine Smith of Philadelphia; one sister, Linda S. Yeck of Poway, Calif.; three nephews; and one niece.

A service was held March 5 in Immaculate Conception Church, Elkton, Md. Burial was in Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery, Summit.

Paul O. Wiland Sr., 77, cabinetmaker

Newark resident, Paul O. Wiland Sr., died Feb. 28, 1996, of cancer in Christiana Hospital.

Mr. Wiland, 77, who lived in Salem, N.J. from 1943 to 1955, was a cabinetmaker at Congoleum-Nairn Inc. in Marcus Hook, Pa., for 25 years.

He was an Army veteran of World War II. He was a member of Asbury United Methodist Church, New Castle. His wife, Bernice, died in 1961.

He is survived by sons, Paul O. Jr. of Newark and Frank O. Rishel of New Castle; daughters, Sheila F. Schnee of New Castle, and Faith L. Zdziech and Ann F. Warrington, both of Newark; brothers, Frank Jr. of Aiken, S.C., and Thomas of Elsinboro, N.J.; sisters, Dorothy March of Florida, Margaret Young of Lower Alloways Creek, N.J., and Anna Davis of Pennsville, N.J.; daughter-in-law, Terri Wiland of Newark, who helped care for him; 10 grandchildren.

A service was held March 5 at Woodside Funeral Home, Salem. Burial was in Salem County Veterans Cemetery.

The family suggests contributions to Delaware State Hospital's Meals on Wheels.

Joseph R. Murphy, 61, former legislator from Newark

JOSEPH R. MURPHY, a former state legislator who sponsored a bill that established Delaware's system of kindergartens, and later lived in and ran a homeless shelter in Phoenix, Arizona, died March 4, 1996, of cancer at his Phoenix home.

Mr. Murphy, 61, formerly of Newark and Wilmington, served as a Republican in the House of Representatives from 1968 until 1972.

In 1972, he unsuccessfully ran for the state Senate, losing by about 600 votes to Roger A. Martin. He returned to Avon Products and retired as a personnel administrator in the late 1970s. He also taught adult education at night at Wilmington High School.

He moved to Arizona in 1985. Mr. Murphy was involved in a traffic accident after arriving in Arizona that left him hospitalized for a month. He said medical costs wiped out his savings and he ended up on the streets.

Mr. Murphy's plight became nationally known and in 1987, Mr. Murphy appeared on NBC's morning news show, "Today." Also that year, he received a $1,000 check from a California entertainment company that wanted his story for a movie.

Mr. Murphy was an Army veteran of the Korean War. He was former Health and Safety District Chairman of Boy Scouts of America, and a former member of United Mine Workers of America, Knights of Columbus, Brookside Community Inc. and the Jaycees.

He is survived by two sons, Christopher J. of Newark and Michael D. of Phoenix; mother, Anne Murphy of Philadelphia; sisters, Joan Dutka of Scranton, Pa., Marie Brennan, Theresa Kuney and Frances Carlson, all of Philadelphia, and Ellen Preiss of Denver; brother, Jerome of Scranton; and former wife, Barbara Murphy of Newark. A daughter, Kimberly, is deceased.

A memorial service will be scheduled at a later date.
