First Vice-President of A. A. E. To Address Local Chapter At Annual Banquet

Former Dean Cullimore Likely To Attend

The third annual banquet of the University of Delaware chapter of the American Association of Engineers will be held in Old College May 23 at six o'clock. A. N. Johnson, dean of the engineering college at the University of Maryland and first vice-president of the A. A. E., will be the guest of honor at the banquet and will be the principal speaker.

The subject of Dean Johnson's address has not been announced but will doubtlessly deal with a subject of present day interest to Delaware engineering students. He is prominent as a educator on technical subjects and in him the local chapter has procured the services of an excellent speaker for the annual banquet.

Allen R. Cullimore, former dean of engineering at Delaware, also has been invited to visit the chapter at its gathering. Though his acceptance has not been received he is expected to attend, in which event he will doubtlessly speak before those present. Members of the engineering faculty have also been invited to the affair.

Howard Yost, president of the local A. A. E., will preside at the speakers table.

Since the above article went to press word has been received from A. D. Johnson that his subject will be: "The Engineer, His Opportunities and Responsibilities."

H. W. Cook Wins Rifle Match

In the members' rifle match held in the Armory last Friday, gold, silver, and bronze badges were awarded respectively to H. W. Cook, J. B. France, and E. H. Pierce for making the three highest scores. The records of the ten highest men are as follows:

Cook, Capt.	223
France	222
Pierce	219
Woodrow	217
Keith	214
Boyce	201
Garatwa	199
Lynch	199
Harper	196
Holton	187

The above contestants, with the exception of Captain Cook, participated in the match with the Women's College last evening. Unfortunately, the Review went to press before the results were obtainable.

A. S. Houchin, Jr. '13 Addresses Rehabs

A. S. Houchin, Jr., '13, spoke to the rehabs at their weekly assembly and extended to them the invitation of attending the major league ball games in Philadelphia free of charge. Mr. Houchin is connected with the United States Bureau of Rehabilitation of Philadelphia.

DELAWARE PLACES THIRD IN MIDDLE STATES MEET

Simth and McDonnell Take Firsts In Their Events

Delaware, mainly because of the achievements of Smith, Betzmer, Harmer, and McDonnell, captured third honors by a total of nineteen points at the Middle States Meet last Saturday. Rutgers romped away with first honors after amassing forty-five points. This is the fourth consecutive year that the New Jersey athletes have carried away the largest slice of the bacon. Theirs was the greatest number of points ever hung up by a team in the ten years existence of the Meet.

"Jerry" Smith ran the best race of the Meet when he finished first in the hotly contested half-mile run. Of the ten men that ran in the event, Smith was the last away from the starting point. A furlong and he was in first place. He held this running position until rounding the oval for the last time, when he gradually moved up on Robinson of Rutgers. In the final spurt for the tape "Jerry" nosed out his opponent by a scant foot, completing the race in 2.03 4-5. Fred Harmer added to Delaware's score in this race by finishing closely on the heels of Robinson and giving us a well run third place.

Tom McDonnell was at his best and tied for first honors in the pole vault with Pratt of Rutgers. McDonnell jumped one inch better than he has ever done in competition before, clearing the final height of eleven feet and nine inches.

Betzmer's record throw of 172 feet last year was surpassed by Reinhardtz, of Bucknell, who tossed the javlin 176 feet and 8 inches. Betzmer's best heave at the Meet this year was 164 feet, which brought him second place. "Betz" also easily captured second place in the discus throwing.

Besides earning third place in the half-mile run, Harmer placed third in the 440-yard run. He kept up a good pace at the start but lost out for a higher place in the last few yards of the race.

Pitman threatened to dethrone his opponents in the 100 and 200 yard dashes. He qualified as high man in the various heats and would have placed in the semi-finals but for an unusual lack of endurance.

It used to be that men strived for honors such as a laurel wreath or some oak leaves; but now they want something that can be pawned.

I. N. A. HOLDS SEMI-ANNUAL CONFERENCE AT DELAWARE

Frederick William Wile Speaks

The Seventh Semi-Annual Conference of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association held here at the University last Friday and Saturday was a huge success both in its accomplishments and in the frictionless manner that it was conducted. The entertaining of the representatives could not better have been manipulated, reflecting, as it did, credit to those in charge, particularly Walter Dent Smith, and to the University.

The representatives of sixteen colleges and universities were met at the various trains Friday afternoon and conducted to the Faculty Club, where each delegate registered. At seven-thirty o'clock, the embryo journalists and guests of the Delaware Review Board banqueted over a sumptuous and appetizing dinner in the small dining-hall of the Commons. Walter Dent Smith, retiring editor of the Review, was toastmaster of the evening. Immediately after the repast, Dr. Walter Hullihen, President of the University, welcomed the delegates to Delaware, saying as he did that he earnestly hoped the organization would accomplish the purpose of its meeting.

Drew Pearson, organizer of the I. N. A. introduced the speaker of the eveneing, Mr. Frederick William Wile. Mr. Wile is a newspaper correspondent and literary man of international repute. In his long and varied career as a journalist, he has travelled far and wide, searching the corners of the earth for possibilities of news and for the

Blue Hen Appointments Not Permanent

At the regular meeting of the Blue Hen Board last Monday afternoon it was announced that permanent appointments to the staff would not be made until one month before the book goes to press and at that time would be made on a basis of work done by the candidates for appointments. Any member of the 1923 and 1924 class is eligble for the positions and may turn in work. Any Sophomore or Junior desiring an appointment to the Board should get in touch with the editors. These new regulations, it was stated, have been made in an effort to raise the standard of the book and to award positions to the most deserving men.

The Gods Will Laugh At The Minstrel Show

Annual Farce Promises To Be Huge Success — End Men At Both Ends

The second annual saturnalia of fun, jokes, end men, and song of the Footlights Club and 'Varsity Club will be enacted tomorrow evening in Wolf Hall. Those who have seen past productions of minstrel shows need no other incentive to attend this performance. Those who have never tasted the delight of contemplating the scintillating effect of the limelights on the reflective ebony of an end man's countenance are missing an integral part of their education.

Songs, current and "raisin' ", originated especially for the annual production, will be sung by students whose versatility and "vocal validity" are well established.

As a headliner we mention with much gusto and approbation Mistah "Skeetah" Wilson, Smyrna comedian and pocket edition of Al Jolson. "Mistah" Wilson will "rendah a vocal s'lection, honey."

Opposite Skeeter, we shall find that inimitable "whiskey" soprano "Fritz" Harmer. We, who have watched rehearsals, tell you confidentially that Fred has lost none of the corporeal energy and flexibility of countenance that made "My Sweet Hortense" so famous.

"Charlie" Green, first year end man, will surely make you respond when he tells about his uncontrollable legs in time of danger. But we must comment on the others who won't daub in the shoe polish.

The halls will re-echo with strong-voiced Magee's intonations. "Ted" Dantz will feature in a sentimental song that will make all lovers forsake the movies and seek minstrel shows thereafter.

Unconventional interlocutor will be enacted by "Wild" Bill Lilly. He's an end man in the middle.

In addition to the minstrel show, there will be four snappy vaudeville acts. The participants say that these acts are so good that recourse to expensive vegetables and high-priced bricks as missiles will be absolutely unnecessary. Daly, Brandt, Ivory, and "Cliff" Smith are "teaming" this year both in numbers and with heterogeneity Aubrey Travers is putting on an act that in the past has been very successful. And there are others. A dynamic element will be George Madden "himself" at the piano.

SONS OF DELAWARE PAY ANNUAL VISIT

Hon. W. C. Redfield Addresses Gathering

Hon. William C. Redfield, former Secretary of Commerce, addressed the Philadelphia Sons of Delaware at their annual banquet in Old College last Saturday evening on the subject, "Our Daily Touch With Other Lands."

In the course of his remarks Mr. Redfield traced the development of the United States from the Revolution to the present time and brought to light some little known historical facts that have determined the fate of our country. Two-thirds of the soldiers who made Cornwallis surrender at Yorktown were Frenchmen. George Washington's army at Valley Forge was trained by a German. A Russian fleet in the harbor of New York persuaded Great Britain not to recognize the Southern Confederacy. In short, as Mr. Redfield expressed the idea, "We started as an international organization."

"The task of restoring Europe," continued Mr. Redfield, "rests on the United States." We looked to Europe in time of our distress; so Europe is looking to us now for financial assistance. "We cannot be American and be narrow."

Succeeding Mr. Redfield's stirring appeal for assistance, the Hon. Charles R. Miller closed the occasion by expressing the appreciation of the Sons of Delaware to Mr. Redfield. Judge Daniel O. Hastings, "to fill an important man's place," spoke in the absence of Hon. Josiah O. Wolcott. President Hullihen welcomed the Sons of Delaware on behalf of the University of Delware.

The Philadelphia Sons of Delaware is a society composed of prominent business men in Philadelphia who are natives of Delaware. The Society has a keen interest in the University and has done much for its welfare, an example of which is the Sons of Delaware Scholarship established in 1919. As a token of their appreciation of the way in which the University entertained them, the Sons raised a contribution of $213, which was divided between the Athletic Council and the Waiters' Union.

One of the major affairs of the Society is the annual outing on the campus. A special train conveyed the men to Newark and, after arriving, the two hundred members and guests proceeded to the Women's College where they witnessed the beautiful May Day Pageant given by the girls. Next on the program was the Haverford-Delaware baseball game, which afforded the Sons a great deal of amusement. The evening was spent in consuming the excellent baked shad dinner and in digesting the speeches of the evening.

OUR OPENING BOW

As the new Review Board receives the torch of progress which the retiring Board has commendably held high; there comes a feeling in each staff member's breast that can best be illustrated by the words of Thomas Jefferson in his first inaugural address:

"I avail myself of this [opportunity] to express my grateful thanks for the favor with which they have been pleased to look towards me, to declare a sincere consciousness that the task is above my talents, and that I approach it with those anxious and awful presentiments, which the greatness of the charge, and the weakness of my powers so justly inspired. . . . I see the honor, . . . I shrink from the contemplation and humble myself before the magnitude of the undertaking."

To say that this shall be our policy or that such a thing shall not be our policy would be equivalent to saying that the retiring Review Board did not have the right ideals and that therefore, we are going to change them accordingly. But we envy the record of Walter Dent Smith and his staff and we hope in our small way to try to carry on the work which they have so ably done.

However, since previous Review Boards have established the custom of stating their policy, we feel that we should make at least a cursory statement of our plans, which will be a continuation of the old Review ideal—progress.

The Review is primarily a student publication and one devoted to the best interests of the University. Consequently, all contributions of either a complimentary or a critical nature from the student body will be welcomed.

Another duty of the Review is to act as the official historian of the campus, and it is through this medium that we hope to engage the interest of the Alumni. As Shakespeare has tersely said, there shall be "news, old news, and such news as you never heard of."

With a keen appreciation of the fact that most of the news is "stale" by the time it appears in the columns of the Review, we, the staff, will undertake to make your paper a bit more interesting to you by the addition from time to time of material which will partake of a literary or personal nature.

We acknowledge our indebtedness to the benefit of the retiring Board's experience and with the hope of having every student's support we throw ourselves into the work with our whole heart and sincerty.—C. N. W.

GENTLEMEN AND SCHOLARS

The conduct of the students in the College Hour recently was not what the conduct of this group of students usually is. The audience became uneasy, inatttentive, and rude in general, and a condition was thus created which was nothing short of deplorable. When such a condition reflects upon the name of the institution it is time to act.

Like all human beings we become unmindful of our conduct occasionally and make blunders. Too often we use our fallible nature as an excuse for our acts; but when such errors come at a time when the damage they do is irreparable, there can be no excuse.

For the sake of the University it behooves us to look more towards our conduct, especially when that conduct is representative of the University.

Since great pains have been taken to make the College Hour lectures appealing to the student body the least we can do is to be appreciative and discourage any conduct unbecoming a gentleman and a scholar.

* * * * *

MORE SCHOLARSHIPS

The Philadelphia Sons of Delaware by establishing a scholarship at the University have set an example which can be well followed by many of the business and social organizations in this vicinity. The Wilmington Chapter of the Alumni have fallen in line and have created a scholarship, which will begin next fall, and it seems appropriate that the other Alumni Chapters should follow the action of the Wilmington Chapter.

The problem of establishing a scholarship in the University centers on the question of raising the necessary money, which is a small matter indeed. The method used by the Sons of Delaware is one that has been proven successful and effective. Each man is assessed one dollar more than his regular dues. In this way the scholarship money is raised and the entire burden is spread over a large number of men.

More scholarships in the University will mean a bigger Delaware.

THE EDITOR WISHES TO ANNOUNCE that the appointments to the Review Board are not permanent ones. The duration of time a man remains on the Board is contingent upon the manner in which he performs his duties.

A THINKER AND A DOER

Do soberness and thought necessarily go hand in hand? We wonder. If so, and not knowing the man, one would immediately label Walter Dent Smith with pensiveness. Knowing him as we do, however, and having perused the fruit of his thought thru the past year, we greet him as a thinker and a doer. Walter Dent Smith has been an active man on the campus particularly in the past year. He has published a paper the equal if not better than preceding journals of former years. He has headed the A. A. E. in a commendable manner, procuring as speakers men of repute and knowledge. He has had convictions, sometimes right, sometimes wrong. He has adhered to them and upheld them. That is an integral part of sound character. We know him as a lover of books and a man of ideals. True we realize that many men do not understand all of his ways. He is not loud, nor does he often seek the society of the proletariat thinker. The soberness of his demeanor is now and then illuminated by streaks of real wit and humor. He has an aim in the world, though we think that the road to this goal is hardly along the precise and mathematically correct road of engineering. An embryo writer and journalist will hardly enjoy contemplating the black insulation of a copper wire. We wish "Doc" better and earnestly hope that life will be good to him as he has been to his Alma Mater.

DELAWARE CHECK-MATES HAVERFORD IN TENTH

Rothrock and Jackson Wield Wicked Willow

Delaware, with three varsity men absent from the contest, defeated their ancient rivals of Haverford last Saturday by the score of 16 to 15 after ten innings which afforded more thrills of pathos and elation, huzzas and groans, cheers and tears, than a five-reel cinema gives. The exhibition was aptly called "tragi-comedy." The looseness of the game can be attributed to no individual. The whole team had their allowable "off-day" on the same occasion and the unlucky thirteenth came near running true to form.

Haverford, realizing the strength of their oppoinents and feeling the sting of the previous Saturday's defeat, played their hardest and their best. The Blue and Gold, a bit over-confident after their easy win of a week ago and lacking their two heaviest hitters, were sadly surprised when the Red and Black in the sixth inning recovered from an 8 to 4 score and without registering a hit, ended the inning with the contest 13-8 in their favor. The Chicks then settled down and played ball. In the ninth with the score 15 to 14 against them, they staged a desperate rally and tied it up; in the tenth singles from the bats of Dantz and Hoch won the game. Home runs by Jackson and Rothrock featured the batting.

Challenger pitched good ball after the sixth inning and got out of a bad hole in the tenth with two on. "Tat" Brown was the Haverfordian star; he secured a homer, three singles, and a walk out of six trips to the plate. Dick Hoch kept the visitors close to the bases by his accurate and swift pegging. He also fared well at the plate with three singles, one of them winning the game. The score:

Rifle Team Completes National Match

The National Inter-Collegiate indoor rifle match came to a close last Thursday. Delaware represented the second corps area in this shoot.

The match began March 15th, and consisted of six stages—Prone, Standing, Prone, Kneeling, Prone, Sitting. One stage was fired each week with the exception of Easter vacation. The highest possible score was placed at the 600 mark and, of the men entering the match, the scores of the highest ten were to be taken for the final count. The total for Delaware was 4993. It is considered that this score will be one of the highest among the 97 colleges and universities competing in the Match.

The last four stages of the Match were made more interesting and more closely contested by a twelve carat gold filled ever-sharp pencil to be given to the highest scorer. The pencil was donated by Brown's Drug Store for the occasion. "Buddy" Harper copped the prize with a score of 365 out of a possible 400. Boyce came a close second with a score of 357.

The final standing of the team in the match is not known as the targets are sent to Washington for official marking and placing of the teams. It is expected that the Blue and Gold will be well up on the list. The following individual scores attest to the fact: Cook, 531; Harper, 521; Boyce, 505; Woodrow, 500; Keith, 497; Pierce, 491; Brown, 489; Geoghegan, 488; Fletcher, 485; Cooper, 483.

ARE WE INTELLIGENT?

And now, to the Movies we turn. Shall we name our complaint, "Has the Moving Picture Producer Any Intelligence, or is He All-intelligent and His Public Wholly Non-Intelligent?" For an example, we refer to "Liliom." Was not this play one of the finest productions of recent years? Here was some of the sincerest work ever done by any group of actors. Here was a play so beautiful that we never wished to see it again for the memory of "Liliom" would always be enough. The movie producers now grasp "Liliom" with a greedy hand. "Liliom" is but wounded. He dreams when he awakes there is a "movie" reconciliation. After thus diluting the very life blood of the play, the mangled version is thrown at an ignorant public by the super-intelligent revisionists, under the new and much more suitable title of "A Trip to Paradise." We say nothing of De Mille's distortion, "Male and Female," or of a "movie" version of "Enoch Arden," with the Jazz-intelligence title of "The Fatal Marriage."

But, the moving picture producers do, on rare occasions, admit that some cities possess intelligence. Witness the correct naming of "Peter Ibbetson" for Philadelphia, and for other large cities, but a change of title to "Forever" for such towns as Wilmington and Newark, which are presumably without any intelligence at all.

There are, of course, a few pictures which are eminently satisfactory. But that is another story.

Faith Baldwin's poem, in the Outlook of May 3, "The Pretty Soul," is one of the finest little poems we have met in many years. In but twenty lines there is expressed the pitiful tragedy of a human soul.

An especially interesting study, in the Contemporary Review for April, is Helen M. Enoch's "A Literary Pitfall." Here is a most apropos consideration of good and bad art in literature, from a certain William Shakespeare to the rather well known Edith M. Dell.

St. John's Bows to Delaware

The Chicks fairly smothered St. John's on Thursday in one of the slowest games witnessed this season on the home diamond. The visitors drew first blood by scoring one run in the initial inning, but after that it was a walk away for Delaware. Roth-rock started on the slab and worked in his usual snappy style. Incidentally, one of the bright aspects of the game was that Joe fattened his batting average.

When Delaware came to bat in the third the score was 1 to 1; when they left the dug-out it was 10 to 1. The time which elapsed during the changing of these scores was filled with long hits, stolen bases, and clever work for the Blue and Gold warriors. Excitement reached its height in this inning when McDonald stole home, almost precipitating a riot.

From then on the only things that kept the spectators awake were two snappy double plays and some fast work on the bases executed by the home team.

In the fifth, Baynum and Ramsey took turns on the mound. Ramsey stayed in till the eighth, allowing one run during his work-out; whereas Delaware chalked up four more runs.

The eighth inning found "Skeeter" Wilson twirling them over, "Yonk" Challenger on third, Naughton on second, and Hunt in center. The Chicks piled up two more runs and the game closed with Delaware on the long end of a 16 to 2 score.

Prof. Dutton says that the days of the grinds are over.

Q.: What is a grind?

A.: A grind is a man who is better than ourselves in the class room. It hurts us to acknowledge that fact; so we call him a grind.

Inter-Class Games

Seniors 7, Juniors 5; Freshmen 12, Sophomores 4. No not the odds being given upon the chances of the classes to pass the finals, nor the results of the last "tiddle-wink" game; but the results of the preliminary battles of the greatest sporting event of the year at Old Delaware—the Inter-Class baseball games.

The series was officially opened last Monday when the "Yearlings" humiliated the sophisticated second-year men by a 12-4 victory. As of old the contest was fast, furious and closely contested. Hoffecker was the stellar performer and with 14 strike-outs to his credit was easily the biggest factor in giving the Freshmen their merited victory. Gibson and Hanby were also very much in evidence. The caliber of their playing sets them out as promising material for the next Blue and Gold squad.

Tuesday the series was continued. The "sedate" Seniors barely managed to top the Juniors by a 7-5 score. For the first five innings it was a scoring contest with each side alternately jumping into the lead. At the end of the fifth with the score 7-5 in their favor the Seniors realized that they must use other tactics as the Juniors were scoring almost as freely as they were. The Seniors were in favor of no more scoring and although their opponets tried hard to defeat the decree the Seniors by virtue of their rank won the decision. Of course they threw the ball around the lot and once in a while somebody hit it, and then somebody missed it; but every one saw that, while the above "inside dope" is a new phase and should make perfectly plain to everyone how the Seniors managed to win.

At the Ag Club meeting held last week the following men were elected as the officers for the coming year:

H. W. Cook, President.
H. Nunn, Vice-President.
E. H. Pierce, Secretary.
F. Else, Treasurer.

study of problematical issues of interest to the reading public. During the war Europe was his field of work. At present he is the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, a position in itself that speaks for his ability as a journalist. His topic for the evening was "The Weal and Woe of a Washington Correspondent." Since Mr. Wile covered the Washington Conference, it is readily concluded that his talk was full of interesting sidelights and personal opinions on that famous meeting.

Mr. Wile said he was extremely gratified to see so many college students interested in journalism as a life's work rather than a temporary avocation. He said college graduates are greatly needed in the field and his greatest point was the encouragement to the gathered college journalists to continue their application along newspaper work as a life calling.

Saturday morning the meeting for the discharge of business and election of officers was held at Kells at 8.30. President Slocum introduced Mr. Everett C. Johnson to the convention. Mr. Johnson explained the origin and purposes of Kells and bade the organization welcome. Discussion of business followed. Each paper reported its doings of the past year. The Honor system was thoroughly discussed, but no definite policy to be followed by the respective papers was formulated. The meeting was closed with the election of officers for the coming fiscal year. The officers are: W. J. Jones, Haverford, president; W. D. Boyce, Delaware, vice-president; Miss Arnita Miles, Albright, secretary; Reuben Chauls, Stevens, treasurer. The next meeting will be held at Muhlenberg in October.

The colleges represented were: Washington and Jefferson, Ursinus, Bucknell, Franklin and Marshall, Lafayette, Muhlenberg, Swarthmore, George Washington, Rutgers, Susquehanna, Stevens, Haverford, Gettysburg, Delaware, Albright, and Lehigh. Thirty-five men from these schools constituted the total number.

And, readers, all for seventy-five sous—the soft twang of a guitar, the sentimental ballad, the joke, supple boys dancing as inspired, the mellow accent of the South floating out to you from the periphery of heavily-laden lips, the strains of the orchestra.

But come and see
And you'll agree
That what we've told is veracity.
