Sunday Exercises Replaces Annual Event Held In Whiteman's Grove

At the Sunday morning service of Ebenezer Methodist Church on August 27 at 11 o'clock, Lieutenant Ernest G. Sullivan, U. S. Army, will render special vocal solos. Lieut. Sullivan is a special friend of the pastor, Rev. A. D. Ward, who will deliver the message this Sunday on the subject "The Divine Presence". The pastor, Rev. Ward has announced that due to rationing conditions the annual Harvest Home celebration, which has in former years been held in Whiteman's Grove, will not be held this year.

In place of the usual Harvest Home picnic there will be a "Harvest Home Sunday" which will be held in the church on Sunday, September 10. Oliver J. Collins will be the guest speaker. Dr. Collins is the Superintendent of the Wilmington District and a former pastor of Ebenezer Church.

The choir is preparing special music for this event and a thank offering of $400 is being asked for that day. A cordial invitation to all friends of Ebenezer Church is extended to be present.

AUTO TAG RENEWALS CLARIFIED

Card Must Be Mailed With Fee

Persons applying for renewal of registration of their automobile licenses by mail should send in the entire auto registration card along with the fee Frank L. Reed, manager, Wilmington office, Motor Vehicle Department, said today.

Many persons have called or phoned to the office of the department regarding the mailing of applications for licenses. Motorists hesitate to send in the entire registration card for fear they may be stopped by police and asked to produce the cards. Mr. Reed said police always permit 24 hours to the motorists to produce the registration cards. The cards may be secured on short notice at the department office.

Nearly 2,000 of the 10,000 motorists of New Castle County who have registration cards which expire Sept. 30 have obtained renewals of their tags.

J. A. DEFIORE CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF

No Contest For County Offices In Primary

Republican candidates for all county offices will be unopposed at the Republican primary election Saturday, there remaining only two conflicts, one in a senatorial and one in a representative district, with likelihood that they may be eliminated before election time rolls around.

Joseph A. DeFiore, Wilmington manager of the Park Theatre, is the unopposed candidate for Sheriff following announcement of the withdrawal of Elwood S. Leach, present superintendent of the Wilmington incinerator.

Mr. Leach has thrown his endorsement and support to Mr. DeFiore whom he described as "an able business man, a loyal Republican and an exceptionally strong candidate."

Mr. DeFiore is making his second race for public office having been an unsuccessful candidate for the state senate in 1936. With perfect harmony reigning in Republican ranks and the exceptionally strong ticket the primary is sure to put forth for the coming general election, a county-wide Republican victory is predicted in November.

VACCINE DEVELOPED

Cholera Cure Perfected Here

New promise for the elimination of cholera in the areas where it prevails, particularly in Asia, is given in an announcement that an anti-cholera vaccine has been discovered and developed during the past three years at the local laboratory of the Biochemical Research Foundation.

The announcement was made by Dr. Eilice McDonald, director of the foundation, who has worked on the vaccine with the assistance of Drs. Robert J. Jennings and R. W. Linton, both of Newark.

A single injection gives immunity from the dread plague for more than a year. The vaccine can be produced in a few days and 65,000 doses can be carried in a small flask.

"The vaccine, which has been used with great success the past year in India, contains no reaction-producing substances and is inexpensive," said Dr. McDonald.

There has been no use of the new vaccine in the United States because no known cases of cholera are here, it was explained. In other countries, especially the crowded ones of Asia, the disease causes many deaths.

REV. HERSON SPEAKER AT COLLEGE EXERCISES

55 Graduates Get Diplomas At Services Held Last Sunday

The Rev. Dr. Frank Herson of the Avenue Methodist Church, Milford, was one of the speakers at the annual commencement exercises of the smallest class to graduate from the University of Delaware for many years. The baccalaureate services and commencement exercises were held in Mitchell Hall last Sunday afternoon, at which time 11 men and 44 women received their diplomas.

"The dollar sign is never the sign of manhood and womanhood", Dr. Herson stated. The sign most worthwhile is the sign of service. Dr. Herson warned that "No Civilization, no matter how well armed, can last that turns its back on life's spiritual things and allows the material things to become the masters.

The Commencement exercises were preceded by a parade and review staged by Army students at the university and witnessed by Gov. Walter W. Bacon, Brig.-Gen. Paul B. Binard, adjutant general; Col. John B. Grier, in charge of training for the Second Service Command; Col. Donald M. Ashbridge, commandant of the military unit at the university and Dr. W. Owen Sypher, acting president of the university. The review was staged on the campus in front of Wolf Hall.

POLICE WORK IS DISCUSSED

Police Commission Holds Special Session Monday

The Police Commissioners of the Newark Town Council, Mayor Charles C. Hubert and members of the Newark Police Department held a special meeting in the Council chambers on Monday night.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the double parking situation and other matters pertaining to police work in the town of Newark in an effort to make the town a safer place to live.

The town has recently painted yellow lines on the curbs designating that there is to be no parking along these yellow lines. This has been done in front of the Deer Park and at the intersection of Main Street and Elkton Road which has been a very dangerous corner and the many cars parked in that vicinity has greatly obstructed the motorists' view.

The tall bushes and shrubbery at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station have been cut down to give a better view for motorists approaching the intersection.

Additional police protection at George Read Village was also discussed at the meeting and an additional special officer may be appointed in the near future.

URGE FINAL PRE-SCHOOL EXAMS FOR YOUNGSTERS

School officials state they expect that over 4,000 children will enter the first grade of Delaware schools this fall. Dr. Carlisle P. Knight, director of the Division of Maternal and Child Health for the State Board of Health, reminds the parents of these children, (and all parents whose children are going back to school) that a healthy child learns much more rapidly than does a sickly one, and that all possible physical and dental defects should be corrected before a youngster of any age commences the pursuit of an education in September.

Though the State Board of Health has had pre-school health examinations all over the state during the spring and summer for the five and six year olds, it is the job of the family physician and dentist to care for any defects found at these clinics.

Dental cavities are among the highest in the list of defects found among this age group, as two-thirds of the children examined were in need of dental corrections. These children averaged 4 decayed teeth per child according to the report of Miss Margaret Jeffreys, director of the Division of Dental Hygiene for the State Board of Health.

It is important that these cavities be filled in order that the children may be able to keep their first teeth until the second teeth are ready to come through. Baby teeth, lost early because of cavities, may mean that the jaws will change shape so that the permanent ones do not come in as evenly as they should. It is a matter both of better personal appearance for the child and of better chewing surfaces, if the teeth are regularly spaced. The baby teeth hold the spaces open for the second teeth.

Other defects which were found among the prospective first-graders were poor eyesight, faulty posture (often due to inadequate nutrition), poor hearing, skin diseases and heart conditions.

Dr. Knight stresses that any child who is found to have poor eyesight should be taken to a physician who is especially trained in diseases of the eyes so that he may examine the child and give a prescription for the proper kind of glasses. Buying glasses without a prescription is dangerous for people of all ages because, if the lenses are not adjusted to the needs of the individual, they may do more harm than good.

Many defects in this preschool age group are nutritional ones due to the lack of the proper foods. When the protective foods—milk, eggs, leafy green vegetables, Vitamin C rich foods (such as tomatoes, citrus fruits, cantaloupe, or raw cabbage) and whole grains, are included in a sufficient amount they supply 95 percent of the young child's energy needs. This leaves very little room for cookies, cakes, soft drinks, or sweet desserts, which many parents feel are essential because they contain some milk. It is preferable, says Miss Eleanor Wilkinson, the Board's nutritionist, to give milk in beverages, soups, or other made dishes where milk is used. Parents need to give children plenty of whole grain breads and cereals, which are vital to health at any age, but are particularly important in developing firm muscles and warding off fatigue in active children.

PLANNING SHORTENS WORK DAY

"Most homemakers are suffering these days from the common ailment of chasing the clock around," says Miss R. Whitcomb, home management specialist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service. "There doesn't seem to be any cureall for too-full days, but if you're really serious about wanting to get the upper hand on the hours and minutes, take time to sit down and study the factors involved—yourself, your job, your tools, and what you want to accomplish. Sit on the fence and watch yourself go by. And then rearrange your work accordingly, so that you can get the most for your time."

First, Miss Whitcomb suggests that you check up on what kind of worker you are. Are you a dawdler or a driver? Do you worry about getting your laundry on the line before your neighbor? You can get more done if you find the speed at which you work best and stick to it—forget about Mrs. Jones.

Convenience of your working arrangements and tools may be slowing you down—do not waste time on details that could be simplified by rearrangement. Use the proper tools, keep the materials you use in one operation together, make your working surfaces a convenient height.

And do you carry all the responsibility of the home on the theory that it is more work to teach the children to help than to do all of the work yourself? Give them a chance to help—it's their home, too.

Checking up on yourself and making a plan of work is like using a road map. Though you may have to make detours or have a flat tire, the map will still help you make a faster trip.

DELAWARE FARM FRONT THIS WEEK

Several New Farm Bulletins Are Available

Several new agricultural publications have recently been announced by G. L. Schuster, director of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service and the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station at Newark.

"Farming for Freedom", Extension Bulletin No. 41, gives a report of the major activities of the Extension Service during the past year, and is available from the Extension Service.

Experiment Station Bulletin No. 247, a report of "A Preliminary Investigation on the Use of Certain Dried Vegetable Wastes as Poultry Feeds", by Prof. A. E. Tomhave and Edmund Hoffmann of the Department of Animal and Poultry Industry, is available from that department.

Also available from the Department of Animal and Poultry Industry is Experiment Station Bulletin No. 248, a report on "The Intensity of Feeding as Related to Milk Production", by Dr. T. A. Baker and Prof. A. E. Tomhave.

Experiment Station Circular No. 15 reports on "Yield Performance, Baking Qualities, and Seed-source Studies of Certain Potato Varieties in Delaware", by E. P. Brasher, head of the Department of Horticulture, and is available from that department.

Experiment Station Pamphlet No. 15, "Costs of Producing Broilers in Sussex County Delaware—Winter of 1943-44", by Hugh A. Johnson, associate agricultural economist, is available from the agricultural library at the University of Delaware.

Rotene imports for 1945 are expected to be slightly in excess of those received for the preceding year, predict officials of the WPB Chemicals Bureau.

Equalization payments to canners will be employed until April 30, 1945, by the War Food Administration to support farm prices of important Delaware canning crops—all essential war foods. Payments will be made to processors who are certified by the Agricultural Adjustment Agency as having paid their producers government support prices. Payments will be on the basis of sales instead of the raw product basis formerly used, according to Clarence E. Ocheltree, chairman of the state AAA committee.

The wheat carryover of the United States in July, 1918, after one year at war, was 40,000,000 bushels. This year, after thirty-two months at war, the carryover is 350,000,000 bushels. From the 1944 crop the War Food Administration will reserve for seed alone supplies double the total 1918 carryovers.

Vegetable seed supplies, including stocks on hand, imports and domestic production, will total 364,000,000 pounds this year. It is believed that 302,000,000 pounds will meet all requirements for the next twelve months.

Ernest S. Mattiford, state committee-man for the Delaware Agricultural Adjustment Agency, says that the more fertilizer Delaware farmers buy and store on their farms during the next four months the greater will be the national production of plant foods. Output can be upped 1,000,000 tons for the year if early farm buying keeps fertilizer plants working at capacity from late summer to early winter.

The WFA has given assurance that shell eggs purchased this year for producer price support purposes will not be "dumped" on the domestic market, and purchasing of graded shell eggs is being continued under the price support program. Volume of purchases, however, has been greatly reduced by generally improved marketing conditions.

Motorists Are Tardy In Renewing Licenses

Long waits in line loom for motorists who are delaying in obtaining registration renewals, Frank L. Reed, manager of the Wilmington office of the State Motor Vehicle Department, predicted this week.

The current registration expires Sept. 30. Only 750 New Castle County motorists out of 19,000 have renewed car registrations.

At present, renewals can be issued in a few minutes by the present force, whereas it may take as long as a week for owners who wait until the final few days.

The use of the mail was recommended if possible. Failure to obtain registration renewals by Sept. 30 requires the use of a special permit for operation of the car to the inspection lane.

Council of Newark

We promise

At the top of every War Bond you buy are these words:

"The United States promises to pay . . ."

These may not sound like such brave words. But actually they are the hope of the world!

THEY ARE a promise by the country to its citizens, but also a promise by the citizens to the country and to the people of the world; a promise that obligations recognized and accepted will be paid in full.

The millions of us who buy these Bonds, do proudly and solemnly promise:

. . . that partial victory shall not breed the kind of weakening over-confidence which can rob us of complete victory;

. . . that unity shall rise above all squabbles, and differences;

. . . that this war shall be fought through to a finish with all that we have and all that we are;

. . . that the sacrifices of today, and the larger sacrifices of tomorrow, shall be accepted willingly, in the humble knowledge that they are small when set beside the sacrifices of our men who are fighting;

. . . that we will not turn our backs on the rest of the world after victory is won; but will reach out the hand of friendship, and assume our proper share of responsibility in seeing that freedom, equality, and orderly justice become possible for all people, everywhere;

. . . that neither our own fighting men nor any of our allies shall be let down in any way whatsoever now, or in the hard-fighting days to come, or in the peace that will follow victory;

. . . that we, the people, will dig into our pockets, purses, and savings to make the success of the War Bond program a symbol of our determination.

These things we subscribe to. These things we believe in. These things we promise.

RUMORS OF FEED EXPORT ARE DENIED

C. E. Ocheltree Says Reports Are Groundless

Rumors to the effect that large supplies of protein meal and feed grains have been shipped out of the country during the last year or so are entirely without foundation, according to word received by C. E. Ocheltree, chairman of the Delaware State AAA Committee.

"For several months reports have circulated that huge amounts of protein meal and feed grains have been shipped to other countries," Ocheltree declared. "These reported exports, in some instances, have been blamed for shortages of feed supplies here at home."

"A report from the War Food Administration states that these reports are groundless. For reasons of military security, definite export figures cannot be released, but I can state that all exports of protein meal have totaled less than one-third of one percent of the amount used here at home."

Imports of protein during the past year have been more than seven times the quantity exported, according to WFA. These included fish scrap and meal, and vegetable proteins — most of which came from South America.

Mr. Ocheltree pointed out that during the past year the U. S. imported more than 200 times the amount of barley and oats exported.

No corn or wheat has been exported for use as feed, he said, and only very small amounts of food or industrial uses. On the other hand, the U. S. has imported large quantities of wheat and some corn to augment domestic feed supplies.

CAN CORN FOR WINTER SUPPLY NOW

Care Required For Successful Canning Job

Last year canned sweet corn was one of the high ration point value vegetables. While points were removed on corn recently, it was a temporary measure, and point values on corn have been restored. To be sure of a winter supply of corn, homemakers should can corn this summer. Corn is a good starchy vegetable, and it provides some protein, roughage, minerals, and vitamins. Yellow corn contains vitamin A.

Great care is required to can corn successfully, according to Miss Pearl MacDonald, extension nutritionist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, on account of the protein content and the fact that the product is compact in jars, making it difficult for heat to get into the center of the jar. Pint jars are recommended for this reason.

Corn for canning should be young and tender—in the "milk" stage. Equipment should be ready in advance so canning may be done as soon as possible after harvesting corn. Do not prepare more than 2 or 3 dozen ears for canning at one time.

To can corn, husk and remove the silk, and cut corn from the cob without precooking. For cream style corn, cut off tops of the kernels, not more than one-half the depth of the grain, then scrape out the pulp with the back of the knife. Add half as much boiling water as corn, heat to boiling point and simmer 2 or 3 minutes, stirring to prevent sticking. Add ½ teaspoonful of salt per pint, fill hot into jars (leaving ½ inch head space), wipe sealing surface and adjust covers. Process pints 100 minutes and quarts 3 hours after water around jars boils for boiling water bath. Keep jars covered with 1 or 2 inches of water and keep water boiling steadily. In pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure, process pints 75 minutes and quarts 80 minutes.

For whole grain style corn, cut corn off deeply enough to get most of kernel without cutting cob, and do not scrape cob. Process as for cream style corn, in boiling water bath use same processing time, but in pressure cooker process whole grain corn 60 minutes for pints and 70 minutes for quarts at 10 pounds pressure.

After processing is finished, remove jars and complete seal, unless jars are self-seal.

Members of the first temperance society, the Order of St. Christopher, pledged themselves in 1517 to drink not more than seven goblets of liquor at a meal except when this amount did not quench thirst.

FARROWING QUARTERS MAY SAVE YOUNG PIGS

Ventilation, Proper Care Aid Reduction Of Pig Losses

Most Delaware hog producers will have many sows farrowing during the next two months. Good farrowing quarters are an important factor in keeping pig mortality low, according to Prof. A. E. Tomhave, head of the Department of Animal and Poultry Industry at the University of Delaware. And here are Prof. Tomhave's recommendations for providing good quarters:

Warm, dry, well-ventilated clean quarters will help to lower pig losses.

The pen should be scrubbed thoroughly with a mixture of about 13 ounces of lye to 5 gallons of boiling water about a week before the sow is due to farrow so that it will dry before the sow is placed in the farrowing pen.

Little bedding is needed at farrowing time, and it should be short and chaffy to keep the little pigs from becoming entangled. A few days after farrowing, as pigs become more active, a liberal supply of bedding should be provided.

Little pigs must be kept from chilling. In cold weather warm houses and even artificial heat are needed. In extremely cold weather, pigs should be put in a straw-lined box beside a stove as soon as they are born to prevent chilling, but they should be returned to the sow at least every three hours for feeding. One pig saved by this extra care in cold weather will pay for the labor required.

If the weather is not cold, the sow should be left alone during farrowing, since in most cases she will farrow normally and will need no assistance.

The farrowing pen should be provided with a pig guard rail to prevent the sow from overlaying her pigs, and this will save many little pigs from being crushed. The guard rail should be constructed so that it extends 8 to 12 inches from the wall and is 8 inches above the floor.

Any farm woman from Newark or vicinity who wants a box of "Southern Breakfast" pancake mix can secure same by attending the annual patrons meeting of the Southern States Newark Service next Tuesday evening at Wolf Hall. This cooperative of Richmond always has quite a shindig each year when they hold their annual meeting.

For the past several years the favors given out by this group has been lead pencils. Sureshot usually gets enough pencils to last until the next meeting. For this send off I should get enough pencils to last for a while. I bet they try to sell everyone a gallon or so of maple syrup after they give the pancake flour FREE.

The Junior Legion baseball team was scheduled to play the Continental-Diamond Fibre Company team on Frazier Field Tuesday night and we are told that Paul Whitman was the only member of the Fibre Company team that showed up. Well, we all know that Paul is somewhat of a ball player but he would have to be better than RED HOT to beat those Junior Legion Boys all by himself.

A story appeared in the Wilmington paper yesterday stating that six United States LABOR leaders DROPPED in on Gen. Eisenhower for lunch on August 22. That was nice of them. They FLEW from the United States. How do they rate the GASOLINE?

The article further states that "Clad in G.I. uniforms with leggings, tin hats and field jackets, the labor leaders stood in front of Eisenhower's tent and talked informally after lunch. Now ain't that something. With all the shortage of everything we have to furnish those fellows with uniforms.

This war seems to be just one sight-seeing trip after another for some group or individuals. If some of these people who are always getting a free trip out of this war would stay at home and get something done they might accomplish more.

The motoring public is restricted in their use of gas and other commodities but there are some folks that just gad about all the time at the expense of the public.

We still hear a lot about unemployment benefits after the war. I am heartily in favor of payments being made to returned soldiers. They deserve everything we can do for them or give them. BUT, when it comes to paying war workers unemployment benefits, that is the time for any right thinking person to BALK. Those folks have made all the BIG money and as I said before if they were too dumb to save any of it—they could starve as far as I am concerned.

There are a lot of folks working (?) in defense plants, ship yards and other places getting more money than they ever saw before. There are those who are riding in better cars than they can really afford. Just because they have the money now they think it will last forever.

Some of these folks who are working in war industries are 100 per cent, but there is a large group who are NOT WORKING. They are employed and their names are on the PAYROLL but they are doing very little for the big pay that they are getting. And they are not entirely to blame. A large share of the blame should be placed on some of those dishonest employers who were operating on a cost PLUS system. The more it cost, the more they made. They would hire one man as a mechanic and ten men to carry that one man's tools.

Then back to Newark—The town has painted yellow lines along some of the curbs of the town. Those yellow lines mean NO PARKING and anyone who disregards those lines will be given tags that will require the payment of fines. This was not just thought up by the towns governing body to collect fines. This is an honest effort on the part of the town to make it a safer place to live. If you avoid accidents you LIVE—if you have accidents there is sure to be someone hurt.

Then everyone is warned about the practice of double parking. That is very dangerous and can cause serious accidents. This double parking is caused to a great extent by folks stopping at the paper store for papers. We are sure that the paper dealer would be glad to deliver that paper to your home if you would only ask him. That would save a lot of that double parking. Then there are a number of truck drivers who would not pull into the curb even when there is all the empty spaces in town. They are the ones that should be hooked. These trucks will park alongside of a fellow's car and when you are ready to leave, you have to wait until that truck driver gets good and ready to let you out. If the town will break that practice up they will have done a good job.

Service men writing in this week included Seaman 2C Samuel Howard Tibbitt and Albert Vogel who expects to be an admiral in the navy. Tibbitt is now stationed at Gulf Port, Miss., and Vogel must be some place in the Pacific as his address is in care of the San Francisco Post Master.

Norval Robinson was home this week and he has as his guest Chief Gunners Mate Boarder who is on the same ship. Both boys looked fine.

OPA Campaign To Push Food Price Regulation

An educational campaign to familiarize consumers with food price ceilings will be conducted from September through December by the OPA and leading food trade associations.

Chester Bowles OPA administrator, said this week the campaign is particularly timely, since in the next few months "we may be facing even more critical inflationary pressures."

Grocers' organizations will sponsor a campaign of local advertising and store displays urging housewives to discuss ceilings openly with merchants, Bowles said, and to report to local price panel cases of uncorrected or repeated violations of price regulations. Several million price lists will be distributed to guide consumers.

Employment In State Drops, Payrolls Rise

Employment in Delaware factories decreased one per cent from June to July, while employe hours increased one per cent and payrolls advanced three per cent, according to the reports to the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia.

July figures compared with those for a year earlier show decreases of 6.5 per cent in factory employment, 5.8 per cent in payrolls and 4.7 per cent in employe hours.

In the Wilmington industrial area alone July figures show a decrease of eight per cent for the year and one per cent for the month. Payrolls are down two per cent and three per cent, for the same two periods, and employe hours are down six per cent for the year and up two per cent for the month.

DAIRY FEED PAYMENTS DEADLINE

Aug. 31 Final Day For Farmers Applications

The last day for Delaware farmers to apply for government dairy feed payments on their May and June production will be August 31, Clarence E. Ocheltree, chairman of the State Agricultural Adjustment Agency announced today.

Payments on the July and August production will be due September 1 and payable until October 31, 1944.

Rates of payment for the May and June period were 45 cents per hundred-weight for milk and 6 cents per pound of butterfat. During the period from September to March, inclusive, the rates will be 70 cents and 10 cents, respectively. The lower rates were in force during the period when dairy cattle were in pasture.

Government dairy production payments were inaugurated last October to increase milk production without the inflationary effect which an alternative increase in the consumer price of milk would have. Higher consumer prices would also have proved a hardship to the 70 percent of the American families with pre-war incomes.
