BAD BUSINESS—GOOD BUSINESS

All will agree that it is exceedingly regrettable that a comparatively small number of persons have made their Wills. This is Bad Business, because failure to make a proper disposition of one's earthly possessions will give those who come after unnecessary trouble and expense.

Good Business prompts each one to make his Will, name the persons to whom he wishes his possessions to go, describe the manner in which this disposition shall be made, and appoint an Executor.

We strongly urge this important matter of Good Business on all. We are ready at all times to render any assistance in our power.

APPRECIATE THE OPPORTUNITY
OF BEING LISTED IN THE “BLUE HEN”
OF THE UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

ON New Year's Eve, one hundred and eleven years ago, a great crowd was gathered on Westminster Bridge, in London. A new chapter was about to be written in the world's history of inventions. The famous bridge was to be lighted by gas.

Suddenly the bridge was flooded with light. The crowd fell back, bewildered. An engineer stepped forward and touched the gas pipes. He invited a member of Parliament to do likewise. This gentleman refused until he had borrowed heavy gloves. He believed the pipes contained fire and would burn him.

Thereafter gas dominated the lighting field. Then came electricity and people said, “Gas is doomed.” But Edison replied, “Gas is destined to be the heating agent of the world.” What has happened? Today gas is used in five thousand different ways in industry. And it is growing fast!

Why Not Take Up DENTISTRY

The profession of dentistry is now regarded as an important branch of medicine. The dentist is no longer looked upon as a mere "tooth fixer," but as a medical specialist.

Out of every ten persons who should go to the dentist, only one goes. Yet every dentist in America has all the patients that he can properly attend to. The continually increasing interest in dentistry, with greater appreciation of the value of dentistry in preserving health and preventing disease, is bringing people to the dentist's office in ever increasing numbers.

More dentists are needed. It will be many years before there can possibly be enough dentists to do the work the public wants.

We will gladly give you information regarding dental schools, courses, fees, etc.
