Corner Stone Laid For Century Club

Interesting Documents, Including Fashion Plate Placed

Work on the New Century Club building under the direction of supervising architect Hough is going along nicely. The cornerstone of the new building was placed in position last Thursday afternoon at four p. m. in the presence of eighteen members and friends of the club. Owing to the death of one of the members the formal program arranged by the directors was dispensed with. Mrs. Delaware Clark, a founder of the club, placed the box in the corner stone, delivering a short address by Miss Hurd, the president of the club. Mrs. T. F. Manns read the poem, "Non Solum Nobis," written by Mrs. E. W. Dawson. Mrs. A. T. Neale read the Federation Prayer for club women. The exercises concluded with a vote of thanks to Mr. Hough, for the donation of the cornerstone. The box contained a copy of the New Century Clubhouse, a charter, a Bible, an American flag, a Lincoln penny, a program of the 1915-16 Federation meeting, a letter from Dr. Mitchell, president of the college, a short history of the club, a list of members and a fashion plate of 1916.

Opera House Admits Children Again

Manager of the Opera House Hubert has lifted the ban on children to take effect on Saturday evening next. This closing the doors to children under sixteen was not a forced order or suggestion from the Board of Health but only a Safety First precaution. Now that Wilmington is lifting the ban, Mr. Hubert feels amply justified in again extending a welcome to the young—and right well will they enjoy it.

SOLDIERS EAT WAR BREAD

Correspondent Sends Recipe

Since arriving in Camp Deming with Co. E, Corp. Ellis Pierson has been transferred to the Field Bakery. The following is a copy of a recent letter received by his mother, giving the recipe of the bread they make for the soldiers to use on long hikes:

Camp Deming,
Deming New Mexico
8-26-16

Dear Mother:

There is a rumor in camp that we will be back home in November, but I have not heard from any one who knows that we will be home at that time, so we are not looking forward to it very much at present.

Next Tuesday the soldiers in our company take a three days' hike across country and we in the Bakery have been preparing for the hike, as they have to use what is called "War Bread." This is the recipe: 100 lbs. flour, 6 gals. water, 1-2 lb. salt, 1-2 lbs. sugar, 8 lbs. yeast. Mix well. It is some job to mix, as you have to knead it as there is no other way of having it thoroughly. Then the dough is made up in 4 lb. loaves, then baked for an hour and a half. If it has to stand at least 48 hours before it is issued to the companies, then it is as hard as a stone on the outside but it is fairly soft on the inside. That is the way bread the boys get down in Mexico, that is the troops that are over the border, as it will keep fresh for a long time. Of course it isn't very fresh or soft at any time and it takes the air a very long time to get thru the crust, so it is always fresh and soft on the inside, and is relished by the men in a like. But it is very hard to work up. That is the reason it is called War Bread, I suppose.

Well, I have to go back to work now, so will close for this time. Love to all at home.

From your son

Ellis.

Play Ground Equipment Placed

The Playground equipment purchased during the summer by the Parent-Teachers' Association of Newark, has arrived and will be installed at an early date on the playgrounds of the elementary schools. Two see-saws have been placed, and only the inability to secure carpenters has prevented the installation of the entire equipment.

Gunner Shoots Valuable Horse

A careless gunner shot a valuable Percheron brood mare on the Chas. H. Lafferty farm, near Newark, one day last week. The mare developed lockjaw from the wound and died a few days later. The fool artist who did the trick has not presented his card. Accident, as it no doubt was, it can well serve as a warning to gunners, to be more cautious.

Ladies To Hold Bake

The ladies of the M. E. Church will hold a bake in Mrs. Butler's store room on Saturday, September 16, both afternoon and evening. Bread, pies, rolls, cakes, and doughnuts will be for sale. Orders over 'phone may be given by calling 37 of 206.

W. C. T. U. Workers Plan Convention

The New Castle County W. C. T. U. will hold its fall institute September 21, in Mt. Pleasant M. E. church, Brandywine Hundred. Visitors can take Darby cars at Wilmington, to reach the church. An interesting program has been arranged which presents Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis as the principal speaker. Morning, afternoon and evening sessions will be held. Box luncheon and dinners will be served.

The State convention will be held October 4, 5, and 6, in Delaware Avenue Baptist church, Wilmington.

SCHOOL PREPARATIONS

List Of Promotions Made Public

With the opening of the schools next Monday, the thoughts of teachers and pupils alike, are turning enthusiastically to the "new beginning" that comes with each early September. Hundreds of happy youngsters are looking forward in joyful anticipation of promotion, and an initiation into more advanced work. A list of the promotions through the elementary and grammar grades follows:

Boys To Attend Conference

Representatives of the School Garden class, of the Newark Public School, to attend the conference of boys and girls of the eastern states, to be assembled in Springfield, Massachusetts, in October, were announced this week. They are George Schain, Howard Reed, and John Clancy. The selections were made purely on merit. All expenses will be paid by the U. S. Government, as a part of the extension work of the Department of Agriculture.

Institute Program Announced

Dr. James E. Carroll, superintendent of Kent county public schools, has completed the program for the annual County Teachers' Institute to be held in the Dover Opera House, November 27, 28, and 29. The day instructors will include Miss Julian F. Walker of Indianapolis, Dr. McFarland of Columbia University and Professor Mahoney of Philadelphia. The evening entertainers will include Dr. James Shera Montgomery, pastor of Metropolitan M. E. Church, Washington, D. C., and the Marigold Girls and Panama Quartet.

Prof. Smith Returns From Cruise

Professor Van G. Smith returned this week, stepping like a thoroughbred. A trip to New Orleans, a cruise around South American port waters has put him in tune for a year's work. Every body is hailing him. Without formality (Prof. Smith couldn't be formal) he tells us he is glad to be with us—and we are glad to have him. Now for the story of the sea.

Miss Merrick In Hospital

Miss Grace Merrick of the Post was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital in Wilmington this afternoon. While not definite, the case has all the symptoms of typhoid. This brings the season's record up to thirty. No other cases have been reported since September 1st.

WHITE CLAY LEADER- SHIP A MYSTERY

Who Will Lead the Democrats to Defeat? Old Pencader Leader May accept the Crown—or Take it.

Just who is the leader of White Clay Democracy promises to be an interesting topic for the approaching campaign. Joseph Hossinger for years the recognized leader, prominent in the State Councils of the party, as well as Chief of Senator Saulsbury's local advisors, has retired. While this leadership was disputed at times, in some local contest, it was generally acknowledged that in order to get next to the powers, it was necessary to get O. K. J. H. H. This leadership came from party service in victory and defeat under the training of his father, the late James Hossinger.

But today, Mr. Hossinger is not the leader. He acknowledges it. When, where, and for what reason, he has given up his sword, is the mystery of the hour. In his release, no one has been able to assume command. Several have ambitions but the rank and file question their generalship. Up-town, down-town, eastern or middle district, who shall it be? Several of Hossinger's staff officers have been suggested but their ability is questioned. Mr. Hossinger refuses to take any active part in the campaign. When spoken to by a representative of the Post, he replied without explanation, "You may say for me that I am out of politics. I am the last man who can tell you anything. I have no part in the campaign." Sad news for Mr. Saulsbury! Sad for local Democracy! Very sad! The Handy man cannot assume command after that convention. With Mr. Hossinger as an onlooker, Mr. Saulsbury will have difficulty with his local fence-viewers.

Still why not Mr. Hossinger? Going back a few months. On the election of President Wilson, the postmastership of Newark was supposed to be given to the whim

College Notes

Lieutenant Hoey, the new commandant at Delaware College, with Mrs. Hoey, came to Newark this week. They will reside in the Dr. Porter House, on West Main street. Dean Cullimore of the engineering department, with his family, also arrived this week. They will occupy the residence on Welsh Lane, recently owned by C. W. Strahorn.

James H. Hastings, president of the Y. M. C. A. of Delaware College, is in town completing plans to be carried out by that organization, in welcoming new students to Delaware. A large committee of young men has been appointed whose duty it will be to help newcomers find comfortable boarding houses, and be at hand with all the information that is appreciated by a stranger. Headquarters will be at Purnell Hall, where students will be in attendance during all of next week.

All the members of the faculties of Delaware College and the Women's College of Delaware will be in Newark by next Monday, after vacations spent in various parts of the country. The first faculty meeting of the college year will be held at the President's office on Monday, at 10.30. Entrance examinations will be held the 19th and 20th.

Tom Daly Stops And Has Drink On Post

Mr. Thomas Daly, I mean Tom Daly, right from his Daly column in the Evening Ledger, the soul of the Spagetti poetry and Wm. Penn wit, paid a call to our office this afternoon and got a drink of water, paid his respects and was off to the College Farm. His son expects to enter the agricultural department and learn to earn the living for the family. His father, being a newspaper man is interested. He approves because he can write Bout De Merica Man and think not of the high cost of living.

FAKE TELEPHONE MEN

Beware Of Suspicious Characters

Beware of the epidemic of fakes such as telephone men, floor oil salesmen and the like. During the past week several residences have been annoyed by professed telephone men, making some excuse to examine the 'phone. Asked to see their badge found a slim excuse. Asking Central it was learned he was not known at headquarters. Another, a floor oil salesman, resented the fact that the lady of the house did not care for a demonstration. Investigation put him on the train for "furrin" parts.

Apparently there is a concerted effort of an organized gang. Any one coming from the telephone Company will show his badge. That is what they are for. It would be wise for a little caution to be used. These fake artists may be getting the lay of the land, making ready for a night raid.

The topic of this story is the gist of three telephone calls this morning, two of them coming from Newark and one from the rural section. Officer Apsley is on to them, but alert as he is, you can help by calling his immediate attention to any suspicious characters.

ART EXHIBIT ANNOUNCED

Wonderful Collection Of Pyle Pictures To Be Displayed

John Singer Sargent, Daniel Garber, George de Forest Brush, Frederic J. Waugh, Childe Hassam, Frederick Frieseke, Gari Melchers, Edmund C. Tarbell, Joseph T. Pearson, Jr., and Emil Carlsen, all artists of distinction in Europe and America, have been invited to send pictures to the fifth annual exhibition of the Wilmington Society of Fine Arts, but it is not known yet how many will comply.

The other exhibitors include pupils of Howard Pyle and Delaware artists. The outside exhibitors are invited in order to broaden the scope of the exhibit, which is nevertheless exceedingly interesting to every Delawarean and to artists of all schools and localities.

The New Century Club, Wilmington, was definitely decided upon as the place for the annual exhibition to be held November 6-13, and it was decided to exhibit the permanent collection of Howard Pyle pictures at that time. They will be placed in the parlors on the second floor, and they will be especially guarded from fire or other destruction by the employment of guards. Last year the pictures were not exhibited because they were at the Panama-Pacific exhibition, and it was decided that the public should be given an opportunity to view them this year, because of the long interval since they were available. They are now stored in the du Pont Building, the only fire-proof structure available.

Tribute To Mr. Pyle

As a tribute to the late Howard Pyle, an Englishman, Gerald R. Hayes, has offered to give to the Wilmington Society of Fine Arts two paintings by representative British artists. The offer was made through Mrs. Pyle, who attended last week's meeting, and was immediately accepted. Mr. Hayes, who is an artist and the son of an artist, also writes and is preparing an article on Howard Pyle and his work. He states that Mr. Pyle's pictures are better known in England than his books, and he wants English people to appreciate Mr. Pyle's books in some of which he pictured English life so happily and faithfully.

The society at the meeting voted to join the American Federation of Arts, an association which will admit of wider notice of the annual exhibitions and will provide advantages of various kinds.

Pencader Republican Enthusiastic

State Ticket Endorsed

An exceptionally well attended and enthusiastic meeting of Pencader Republicans was held at Glasgow last Thursday evening. Republicans from all sections of the Hundred responded to the call of the chairman, W. H. Evans.

The State Ticket as nominated at the recent convention was endorsed unanimously. A rising vote was called for with the result of not a dissenting vote. Especially pertinent to the local situation when it is noted that the meeting represented both sides of the recent primary contest.

W. H. Evans, ex-Representative, was unanimously endorsed as Pencader's choice for Senator, after which Mr. Evans in a neat speech expressed his appreciation of the compliment.

For Representative a health contest is predicted. J. Irvin Dayett was named following which W. C. Brooks and Warren O. Armstrong were nominated. It is not yet known whether Mr. Dayett will consent to the use of his name. He is generally considered a strong candidate. Mr. Armstrong has stated that if Mr. Dayett runs for the nomination, he will withdraw.

Daniel Thornton was renominated as Inspector without opposition.

The campaign in Delaware's close hundred was gone over, most of those present making some interesting comment.

With a strong hundred ticket, backed by strong county nominees, Pencader will remain in the Republican column.

Missionary Society Pleasantly Entertained

The Newark Auxiliary of the W. H. M. S. held a most interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Osmond Friday afternoon, Sept. 8th.

After dispensing with the business, Mrs. Manns took charge of the program. Topic, "The Year's Outlook."

The October meeting will be held at Mrs. S. J. Wright's the 13th. Officers will be elected for the year.

Mary T. Williams.

Delaware Fails To Measure Up

Efforts of the recruiting officers, to bring the 1st Delaware Infantry, now at Deming, New Mexico, up to full strength make apparent the apathy with which the great mass of people of the country views the duty each owes when the government is endangered. In June the President called for 1, 196 men from Delaware for national defence and received as Delaware's contribution, less than

To be of real service to the government it has many times been demonstrated that men must be prepared before they are called upon for serious duty. This preparation to make a soldier of an ordinary man requires at least six months or more, depending upon the character of the service he enters.

Our more patriotic citizens no doubt, would answer a voluntary summons, should danger to the government be made plain to them but we then have to deal with the thought of necessary time wasted to make those citizens of value in a military sense, and by this time the occasion would probably have passed.

Another phase, too, is that in the efforts to satisfy the individual citizens that the necessity for his services is warranted, it is impossible to conceal much important military information from the enemy.

Under our present system it should awaken the dormant and poorly nourished patriotism of our people when the President calls for men, and not wait till the necessity of the call is fully explained.

A rude and inevitable shock will be administered to our country before its citizens arouse themselves to the careless and weakening falsity their logic has led them to.

WINTER EGGS IN DELAWARE

A. M. Pollard begins a series of practical articles on Eggs and How to get them on the ordinary farm under ordinary conditions. This article tells of Preparation of Winter Quarters and Formula for feeding used in his Egg Record Competitions. Eggs and more eggs is the theme of these articles rather than Scientific Poultry Husbandry.

They are easy to get if you only know how. Every farmer should remember that getting winter eggs helps pay off the mortgage, buys the clothes for the family, the groceries, papers and paints the house, and other things too numerous to mention.

Still most farmers let their opportunity get away from them. Generally the farmer seems to be perfectly satisfied if their hens loaf around all winter and just eat their heads off, if they will only just lay from spring until they go into a molt. Now would these same farmers be satisfied if their cows just loafed around all winter, and did not give any milk, when at the same time they were perfectly capable of filling the milk pail if properly handled, just the same with hens. Early hatched pullets must be relied upon for the volume of winter eggs. March and April hatched birds should now be placed in their winter quarters. It usually requires three or four weeks to get settled down to business in their new quarters. Have the floor of these houses deep with good clean sand, and cover this sand with four inches of dry wheat straw. Clean the nests, put in new material and add a small handful of lice powder, spray the houses thoroughly, look under the roosts for mites, and now don't forget to handle every one of those pullets, examine them closely for lice, if you find any, dust the birds with some good insecticide.

Lots of people think if they attend to these details just once, they should last for a life-time. Here is where the hard work comes in handling poultry successfully. All these details must be repeated every three or four weeks. Don't lay down on your job. Put plenty of pep in your work and you will get winter eggs. Now feed liberally. Remember it takes considerable feed to just maintain the body, and you must feed a surplus above this to make eggs. Keep a dry mash before the hens at all times. Here is an important point—avoid the mistake so many people make—they will have dry mash before the birds Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, then in a careless way they find themselves out of mash for the next two or three days. On the surface this little slip does not appear to amount to much but right here is where you get your first set back. The damage done in letting the hens go without their mash takes a week to repair, and each time this mistake is made just so much longer it takes to make repairs. Feed whole grain only once a day. Above all things don't neglect your water, see that your hens have clean water at all times. Remember that an egg contains 70 to 80 per cent water.

These are just a few of the things that a person is up against in the poultry game. It has been proven time and time again, that no kind of livestock requires the detailed attention that poultry requires to get from them their maximum production. Be sure that your house is tight at the top and bottom. Look out for any crack that will allow the wind to blow in on the floor. We believe for the climate of Delaware that the open front house is the best, with cloth curtains to use in case of a driving storm.

Don't overcrowd your house. Better sell any surplus pullets you may have than try to keep more than the capacity of your house. There are so many good laying rations, that one is at a loss regarding the one to adopt. We do not aim to have the best feed formula in the world, but we do claim that there is none better, and I think the results of our laying competitions for the past year will bear us out in our claim. The following are the formulas we recommend:

Dry Mash

Wheat Bran	200 lbs.
Corn Meal	100 "
Gluten Feed	100 "
Ground Oats	100 "
Middlings	75 "

Fish Scrap	30 "
Beef Scrap	30 "
Low Grade Flour	25 "
(Red Dog)
Scratch Feed
Cracked Corn	60 lbs.
Wheat	60 "
Oats	40 "
Barley	20 "
Kaffir Corn	10 "
Buckwheat	10 "
Coarse Beef Scrap	10 "

We believe that by following the suggestions we have made, giving plenty of water, using the feed formulas we have mentioned and attending to the details all the time, that the farmer can be assured of a good supply of winter eggs. We predict that the retail price of white eggs this winter in New York City, will reach the figure of nearly one dollar per dozen. Is this worth hustling for?

Red Cross Takes

Up Fall Work

The Red Cross Relief Committee of the Delaware organization renewed their efforts on Monday of this week, for the war sufferers abroad. The Crosby and Hill Company has most generously offered to let the committee remain in possession of the third floor of the building so they can get to work at once. Letters and bulletins from the American Relief Clearing of Paris tell of the great need in the countries at war.

The rooms are open daily from 9 to 12.30 to receive donations of old and new clothing, materials for bandages and other hospital supplies. All who have helped sew, wind bandages, or assisted in any way in the past, are asked to attend the meetings of the Sewing and Hospital Supply Committees, which will be as usual on Tuesday and Friday mornings at ten o'clock. Volunteers are invited and will be most welcome as helpers are very much needed.

Knocked Out By Rain Spout

During Friday night's storm Joseph O. Chandler, a farmer living near Montchanin, noticed that the rain spout at his home was leaking at the top. He stooped to clear it of leaves at the bottom. The wind tore it loose and it fell striking him on the head, rendering him senseless for a time. Dr. H. L. Springer was called and closed the wound with six stitches.

Railroad Wages Health Campaign

As a means of protecting public health, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad system has inaugurated an anti-spitting campaign through which it will make a personal appeal to those who patronize its trains and passenger stations to refrain from expectorating in public places.

One a designated day each month the company will distribute through the coaches of its trains a small card on which the attention of the public is directed to the danger of spreading disease. Public health and other authorities in the States through which the railroad operates have lent their approval to the campaign, which will give effective co-operation to those who are striving to safeguard the public health.

Trainmen will distribute the cards on the 15 day of the month.

Instructions to the train employees and station forces concerning distribution point out that the plan adopted offers an inoffensive and forceful means of directing the attention to the danger of spitting in public and makes it possible for the railroad to lend its assistance in a compliance with the law and promoting sanitation.

Theda Bara Can Only Work To Music

Theda Bara, the star of the new William Fox photoplay production, The Galley Slave, based upon Bartley Campbell's great Broadway success, is the only motion-picture actress whose temperament is so constituted that she is unable to give her best efforts to a part unless music suitable to the emotion portrayed is provided.

In consequence, Mr. Fox has upon his pay-roll for the sole use of Miss Bara an orchestra consisting of a piano, violin, violoncello, and flute. In making outdoor and street scenes in The Galley Slave the orchestra attracted so much attention that it was necessary in several cases to call out the police reserves.

Will positively produce more milk than any other ration either home mixed or purchased, and do it without giving your cows constipation or other trouble. Ready to use right out of the sack without any mixing or bother.

LARRO-FEED

Absolutely free from adulterants and fillers, just like the feed you would mix for yourself, is a special combination of choice cottonseed meal, dried beet pulp, gluten feed, corn distillers' grains, wheat bran, wheat middlings and a little salt, that's all; each ingredient weighed by automatic scales and all thoroughly mixed in huge power-driven mixers, so that it is always absolutely uniform, and always good. An extra quart or two of milk daily from each cow may turn a loss into a profit. Try LARRO-FEED for more profit. Sold in a place of "Money made if you are not satisfied."

RURAL SPORTS

WITH SEPTEMBER comes the thought of a day afield with dog and gun. Every rural out-door man has to have his days off for gunning. The boy on the farm will work like fury if he has in view, a rifle, a dog and a day off.

¶ I have always made it a point to supply the gun and ammunition in the selection of the gun, experience and information from all crack shots hereabouts---they say Remington.

¶ Shells---The Winchester shell and the U. M. C. No one disputes their superiority. These and all other supplies are here ready for your O. K.

¶ Of course. NOW is the time to make your choice.

PINCHOT HITS HARD

Thus far in the battle of political principles and persons that is in progress the air has been conspicuously free from offensive personalities. The amenities of political debate have been scrupulously observed in the main, and the lower depths of controversy have not been drawn upon for ammunition. This is as it should be. Yet it is all the more surprising to find in Gifford Pinchot's recent declaration of faith in Hughes the most cutting personal attack that has been made upon the character of President Wilson. This ardent Progressive and conservationist bluntly tells the American people that he is for Hughes because he trusts him, and he does not leave the reverse of that proposition to be inferred, but with equal frankness pillories the President as one whose word is not to be taken. Listen to these sentences:

In the end I came to see that President Wilson has a greater power than any other man in public life to say one thing but do another, and get away with it.

With war on every side of us we all heard him * * * solemnly assure the country that we had not been negligent of national defense. It was not true.

We have all heard him ridicule the idea of a greater navy, then declare for the greatest navy in the world and then go back on that.

We have seen him elected on a platform which pledged him to a single term as President and then become a candidate for another term.

What Mr. Wilson says is no sign of what he has done or of what he will do. The one thing his record shows is that what he stands for now is not likely to stand for long.

I cannot vote for Wilson because I cannot trust him. He does not do what he says. Hughes does.

If any more scathing indictment of a candidate were possible within the limits of legitimate and allowable debate it would be difficult to find it. This amazing discrepancy between what Mr. Wilson says and what he does is the most conspicuous feature of the record on which he stands and on which his supporters propose to make their fight for his reelection. Mr. Pinchot has put his finger unerringly upon the vital weakness of President Wilson's personality, and in it will be found the explanation of the feeling of uncertainty and distrust that is deepening throughout the country wherever people are really awake to the issues on which they are being called upon to pass.

—Public Ledger.

MAINE SPEAKS

To Mr. Vance McCormick, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and to other wilful optimists of the same persuasion, who see in the Maine results the indications of a sweeping Democratic victory in November, we commend perusal of the following little review of gubernatorial majorities there in recent years:

1906	7,838 Rep.
1908	7,653 Rep.
1910	8,753 Dem.
1912	3,295 Rep.
1916	13,000 Rep.

In 1908 when Maine went Republican by 7653 in the gubernatorial election, she gave Taft 30,584 in November. In 1912, when a Republican-Progressive truce yielded the party a plurality of 3,295 in September, the combined vote in November outtotaled Wilson's by 23,925. What does a September majority of 13,000 forecast for November 7? By the rule of proportions, about 60,000.

PEOPLES' COLUMN

Mayor Hossinger takes exception to Post News articles and shows Editor's criticism was without foundation.

Mr. E. C. Johnson, Editor Newark Post.
In reply to the article in your last week's issue, relative to acquainting the public as to what Council is doing toward securing an expert engineer, beg to say that the Council held a special meeting the next evening after the Citizens' Meeting and that a Committee of three, consisting of Mr. Wilson, Mr. Frazer and myself were appointed to take the matter up with the U. S. Government authorities. We received a letter from Senator Saulsbury stating that the Department of Public Health at Washington insisted upon such a request coming from our State Board of Health. I took the matter up with Dr. Frantz, secretary of the State Board and he told me to write a letter making such a request and that he would forward it along with his letter. I am enclosing you his acknowledgment and also a letter from Senator Saulsbury. I wish to say, however, that I did not make the statement as to the situation being properly looked after, as I believed the object of getting an engineer was to confirm the report of our local Board. The matter has been discussed at the last two Council meetings, and as we were informed by the Secretary of our local Board, the conditions were much improved, we did not think it necessary to go to the expense of employing a Sanitary Engineer at this time. We have written to the government, asking them to send a Sanitary Engineer as soon as one is available.

Signed,

Joseph H. Hossinger.

Letter From Dr. Frantz

Hon. J. H. Hossinger, Mayor, Newark, Del.

Dear Sir:—Your letter with the enclosure of Senator Saulsbury's letter, relative to having an expert from the U. S. Public Health Service sent to Newark in connection with the outbreak of Typhoid Fever there to make a sanitary survey of your town, has been received.

I will communicate with the government authorities, and if possible will try and have them grant your request.

Very truly yours,

State Board of Health of Delaware

A. E. Frantz, Secretary.

Letter From Senator Saulsbury

Hon. Joseph H. Hossinger, Mayor, Newark, Del.

Dear Mayor:—The Acting Surgeon General has advised me that two of the Delaware Staff are well advanced in the investigation of the typhoid outbreak at Newark and that it would appear unnecessary to rely on outside assistance. Because of this fact and the extreme demands on the Surgeon General's Staff at the present time, he states that while he will not assign anyone at present, if need for co-operation should urgently arise he would like to be informed promptly. I sincerely trust that health conditions so far as Newark is concerned are rapidly getting back to normal.

Yours very truly,

Signed, Willard Saulsbury

OUR SIDE

The above communication is in reply to our criticism of last week in which we stated that Council had taken no action on the request made at the Citizens' Meeting.

Our conclusions of last week were based on this information. A representative of the Post called at the office of the Secretary and asked for report of the meetings. Our reporter was given the Secretary's notes of the meetings. Further, E. C. Wilson, a member of Council, told us the matter was not discussed at the last meeting. He was not present at special case Huber meeting. According to the letter above he was appointed a member of the Committee to look into the matter. When spoken to over 'phone this P. M. Mr. Wilson knew nothing of the matter.

These are the facts as we learned them and upon them we based our criticism. The Secretary of Council had no note of it and Mr. Wilson has no knowledge of it to date. We make this statement in justice to the news department of this paper and in order to verify our own criticism of last week. We have a sense of pride in the accuracy of the news columns of the Post. Secretary's notes of minutes seemed to us sufficient evidence to warrant the publication.

The above letter implies we have grossly misrepresented the facts and suppressed the news. The facts, as we have stated them, presents our side.—Editor.

He Shriveled Up

A man was afraid of a thunderstorm and crawled into a hollow log. The thunder rolled, the rain poured down in torrents, and the log swelled up until the poor fellow was wedged in so fast that he could not move. All his past sins began to pass before him and he suddenly remembered that he had not paid his newspaper subscription. It made him feel so small that he was able to crawl out of the log through a knot hole.

Constitutional Amendment

An Act Proposing an Amendment to Section 1 of Article 9, of the Constitution of the State of Delaware, in Relation to Corporations.

BE IT ENACTED by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Delaware in General Assembly met (two-thirds of all the members elected to each House concurring therein):

SECTION 1. That Section 1 of Article 9 of the Constitution of the State of Delaware be amended by striking out all of Section 1 of said Article 9, and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. No corporation shall hereafter be created, amended, renewed or revived by special act, but only by or under general law, nor shall any existing corporate charter be amended, renewed, or revived by special act, but only by or under general law; but the foregoing provisions shall not apply to municipal corporations, banks, trust companies possessing banking power, or corporations for charitable, penal, reformatory, or educational purposes, and all of which said last mentioned corporation shall be created, amended, renewed or revived only by special act, and shall possess only those powers, rights, privileges and franchises conferred by the special act creating, amending, renewing or reviving them, and shall not merge or consolidate with any other corporation except upon the consent and approval of the General Assembly, two-thirds of all the members elected to each House thereof concurring therein. The General Assembly shall, by general law, provide for the revocation or forfeiture of the charters of all corporations for the abuse, misuse or non-use of their corporate powers, privileges or franchises. Any proceedings for such revocation or forfeiture shall be taken by the Attorney-General, as may be provided by law. No general incorporation law, nor any special act of incorporation, shall be enacted without the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected to each House of the General Assembly, and with a reserved power of amendment, revocation or repeal by the General Assembly with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected to each House thereof."

Miss Shepherdson has made a special study of voice culture, in addition to a thorough study of method in teaching young children. She comes with splendid recommendations.

ELIMINATING HAND-BORNE INFECTIONS

Personal Habits Our Greatest Protection

The dial on the face of the "Health Clock," appearing from month to month in "The Delineator," points in the late number to contagious diseases, which are most prevalent during August, September, and October. Dr. Charles E. Terry, editor of the department, relates incidents of direct communication in the spread of diphtheria—a disease which he takes as illustrative of the class under discussion. "It is the same old story," he concludes,—"the endless chain of contact, direct or indirect."

In response to a parent's query, "My Mabel was in the same room with him. Do you suppose she will get it? must not the air in the room be dangerous?" the doctor replies, "No, the air is not dangerous, but fingers are."

"Remember always that a dozen or more communicable diseases are caused by germs, or bacteria found in the secretions formed in the mouths and noses of both sick and well; and that, for the most part, they would be found nowhere else, except for the improper and dangerous uses to which we put our fingers, ten valuable aids to daily existence."

"It is quite possible you moistened your finger with your tongue as you turned the page, and unless you are more than ordinarily careful, you will do it again when you turn away, disgusted, to a more pleasing bit of reading. Certainly, depending on your sex, you hold in your mouth, hairpins or tacks and, at one time or another during the day, many other articles."

"In childhood especially, the period of contagious diseases, do the fingers travel most frequently to the mouth and nose, and almost every article of suitable size to permit of its being lifted by youthful fingers finds its way to saliva-moistened lips and, in the intimacies of children's play, to possibly a different pair of lips, during a recess hour. Before he pitches, Johnny moistens his fingers to insure accuracy and because he has seen the Big Leaguers do it, while Billy adds his quota before returning the ball."

"All day long, in countless ways we are busily engaged in this traffic in saliva. If disease germs are present—and all too frequently they are—we pass them on to those with whom we come in contact. Not only are our fingers so frequently responsible for infection, through the medium of articles handled in common, but we go even further, borrowing handkerchiefs with the utmost indiscriminate, tasting each other's food, or testing the temperature of the baby's milk, cooling it if too warm with our breath."

"Sneezing, coughing and other violent expiratory efforts expel myriads of tiny drops, laden with germs, from the nose and mouth, on persons and things about us. In countless ways we gather them, sooner or later, and carry them on our fingers or food to our mouths. A generation ago, it was thought that diseases were air-borne, that they traveled from house to house and even over great distances by currents of air. A quarantine sign caused pedestrians to make hurried detours to the opposite side of the street or around the block, to avoid the malignant effluvia from the sick-room windows. For many years after aseptics, (the use of clean dressings, instruments and hands) made possible the feats of modern surgery by excluding bacteria from the field of operations, the tissues of the patient, it never occurred to us that the practice of medicine could also be "clean," that the surgeon had no greater onerous task than his operative cases than the general practitioner over his cases of contagion."

Why, indeed, should we look to the winds for our epidemics, when through the carelessness of our every-day acts we take such pains to extend them ourselves? No one may doubt but that we are daily, nay, hourly, in contact directly or indirectly, with foreign secretions; it is a fair game of give and take, and protection lies not in quarantine and fumigation but with ourselves. Drinking fountains, individual cups, paper towels and other substitutes for common articles have done much to protect us in public places; but in our homes and those of our natural and careless intercourse with each other, such devices may not assist us to any great degree. A chance handshake, a borrowed pencil, delivers its gift of diphtheria or scarlet fever, and later we have passed it on to the baby at home, and the next week we are wondering where the child got it.

The development of thoughtful and intelligent cleanliness—not dish-towel cleanliness—a thorough washing of hands before eating or handling the food of others, a realization of the dangers attendant upon a hundred daily operations and of the fact that more infections reach us, hand-borne, through our mouths and noses than in any other way, will, if put into practice, afford us greater protection from communicable disease than may be had by all the quarantine and fumigation in the world.

Petticoats Hold Balance Of Power

The largest new element in our presidential election this year is the woman vote. It is bigger than the negro vote and the old-soldier vote combined—two powerful factors in former days.

The female vote is double the total organized labor vote. In States which have female suffrage there are four million women of voting age. Add their ballots to what Doctor Taft received four years ago and he would have beaten Woodrow Wilson by a million. Colonel Roosevelt's Bull Mooseers, plus the ladies, would overthrow the Wilson vote by two million. Verily the candidate who now overlooks the possibilities concealed beneath the skirted ballot jeopardizes his chances of obtaining four years of free rent in the White House.

—Girard in Public Ledger

Beaufort Farm

At the Delaware State Fair in Wilmington last week the Clydesdale mare Lady Clive and her colt foal Beaufort Refiner entered by Beaufort Farm, near Earleville, Cecil county, Maryland, were returned winners in every class in which they were shown, as follows:

Draft mare and foal, mare to weigh 1400 lbs. or over (foal to count 50 per cent) First prize
Foal, either sex, weanling First prize

Registered Clydesdale mare and foal First prize
Registered Clydesdale mare over 4 yr. old First prize

Lady Clive was imported from Scotland in 1911 and shown in the two-year-old classes at Trenton, York, and Richmond being placed first at each of these fairs. The classes that year were particularly strong owing to the presence of several of the western breeders who had come east to "clean up." She was not shown after that until this year, her owner, Mr. Robert A. Fairbairn keeping her as a brood mare and as a part of the working force at Fairholme Farm. She with her foal was sold to Mr. Frazer last April.

The foal Beaufort Refiner is by Criterion, one of the greatest Clydesdale sires in America. Princess Fortune who was twice champion at the International at Chicago, and Charnock, who in 1912 at the International won the yearling class, won the American bred championship, all ages, the junior championship, open to imported horses as well, and was made reserve grand champion of the show are but two of Criterion's get. The sire of Criterion, Woodend Gartley, was also the sire of Ambrosine, the dam of Mr. Fairbairn's great mare, Harviestoun Baroness, a Cawdor Cup winner in Scotland and twice champion at the International at Chicago. A son of Harviestoun Baroness by Dunure Footprint was sold at the age of nine months for $5,000.

Beaufort Refiner was dropped April 1st and gives every indication at this time of developing excellent type and refinement.

Lady Clive is at present in foal to Fairholme Warrior, a prize winning and very promising son of Mikado, first and champion at the Chicago International in 1910.

SQUIBS

It has not been announced when the Fall Meetings of the Board of Trade will begin. The same officers and committees hold over.

The Ledger says there must be no "pussy footin'" on the sanitary conditions. If we know anything about it, some one has chloroformed the cat. "But the cat'll come back."

Lady Eglantine is dead. Well, she was one girl that got her flowers while she lived. Now that she has passed away, we can say she produced more fresh eggs than most chickens. Success led her to New York. When Kitty Gordon and Turner were caught in a flash light holding her ankle, she began the road to oblivion.

Safety First Rule for Public Officials—Own your own property. You are liable always to receive "Vacate Notice." Doing your duty is liable to cause inconvenience.

Local Politics is suffering just now with infantile paralysis. "I am told that Newark is highly cultured. Is it purely individual? I see no public expression. Outside of the news-stand I am told there is no reading room."—A Newcomer.

Wilson's bid for the labor vote in this strike agitation was ill becoming a ward politician—let 'lone a president.

"Stop-watch legislation" is a new phrase in American politics. Men have often been held up but never before, the nation.

Farmer Votes Wet, Prays Wet

"Never expect to find a farmer satisfied, he doesn't exist," said Ed Howe. His remark was supposed to be sarcastic. It shows lack of appreciation of the men who battle the elements in the production of the world's food. Howe is a newspaper man and makes his living by feature stuff that startles the crowd.

Farmers hereabouts two months ago were desperate for clear weather. Crops could not be tilled, hay and wheat were spoiling. The constant rains caused loss of money. Now the drouth begins to be serious. Early corn, just at this time in the making, needs rain. The local crop depends much on weather conditions during the next week or so. Again, but little of the fall ploughing is done and impossible to continue under present conditions. Late potatoes need rain badly as well as all the late truck.

So just now it is difficult to find a satisfied farmer—but no profession has the bump of hope as the old "Agricola" (Latin for the World's producer, sometimes known in small towns as hayseed.)

NEW RECORDS MADE AT STATE FARM

Egg Laying Competition Reports

The Egg Laying Competition at Newark is keeping its lead over all other competitions in America. The total production for the 500 hens up to the end of the forty-fifth week, being 80,041, the highest previous record being 79,069.

The Delaware pens are more than keeping up their advantage over the average pen. At the end of the forty-fourth week the average for the Delaware pens was 813 eggs per pen and for the whole one hundred pens the average per pen was 770. The records of the Delaware pens to the end of the forty-fourth week are as follows:

James Spiers, Newark, 965; Park Place Poultry Farm, Newark, 931; Frank McVaugh, Hockessin, 926; J. M. McKessing, Hockessin, 888; O. A. New on, Bridgeville, 880; M. G. Price, Delaware City, 834; Delaware College, Newark, 808; E. H. Bancroft & Son, Wyoming, 803; Jacob Kesseling, Dover, 697; Diamond Egg & Poultry Farm, Wilmington, 684; Delaware College, Newark, 671.

The records of high yielding pens outside of Delaware are as follows:

Tom Barron, White Wyandottes, 1080; Tom Barron, White Leghorns, 1045; Paul W. Wehrle, Pa., 1020; Ellis Ames, Ballard, Pa., 698; Valley Green Farm, 961; Will Barron, 950; Ivywood Farm, Pa., 941; Thomas Hutt, Manila, 923.

Only four pens in the whole list have better records than the pen of James Spiers of Newark.

Seventy-five Thousand Attend State Fair

According to official statement the 1916 State Fair passes into history as "the best ever" held by the Association. There were 75,000 people passed through the turnstiles during the week, and of these all were over 16 years of age. The figures compared favorably with those of last year, and, although the quarantine on infantile paralysis hurt the attendance somewhat the size of the midway, which was bigger this year than ever, will offset the loss caused by the barring of children. The daily attendance according to figures given out were: Monday 15,000; Tuesday 5,000; Wednesday 10,000; Thursday, 30,000; and Friday 15,000.

Wilson's Ignoble Unsuccessful Little Wars

President Wilson took Vera Cruz in 1914, as we were officially informed at the time, to get a salute for the flag, and to prevent the shipment of arms into Mexico. He did not get his salute. He did not prevent the shipment of arms. But several hundred men were killed or wounded; and then he brought the army home without achieving either object. President Wilson sent an army into Mexico in 1916, as we were informed at the time, to get Villa "dead or alive." They did not get him dead. They did not get him alive. Again several hundred men were killed and wounded. Again President Wilson is bringing the army home without achieving his object. Of course it is a mere play upon words to say that these were not "wars." They were wars, and nothing else; ignoble, pointless, unsuccessful little wars; but wars. They cost millions of dollars and hundreds of lives, squandered to no purpose; they accomplished nothing; but they were wars. From the speech of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, delivered at Lewiston, Maine, in behalf of Charles E. Hughes.

McKinley's War Cost Less Bloodshed Than Wilson's Peace

By Theodore Roosevelt
 Under President McKinley we had a war with Spain. Under President Wilson we are assured that we have had "peace" with Mexico. These are the words. Now for the deeds. During the war with Spain fewer Americans were killed by the Spaniards than have been killed by Mexicans during the present "peace" with Mexico. Let me repeat this. A greater number of Americans have been killed by Mexicans during these years, when we are officially at peace with them, than were killed by the Spaniards during our entire war with Spain. Moreover when the war with Spain was through, it was through. But peace continues to rage as furiously as ever in Mexico. Nor is this all. The instant effect of the outbreak of the war with Spain was to come of the war with Spain was to put a stop to the dreadful butchery and starvation in Cuba and the Philippines, and the entry of both Cuba and the Philippines on a career of eighteen years of peace and prosperity such as they had never known before in all their checkered history. But during these three years of Mr. Wilson's "peace," the Mexicans themselves have been butchered by their own bandits steadily and without intermission; and Mexican women and children have died by thousands—probably by scores of thousands—of starvation, and of the diseases incident to starvation. In other words Mr. McKinley's war cost less than President Wilson's peace; and it reflected high honor on the American people; whereas Mr. Wilson's peace has been one of shame and dishonor for the American people, and one of ruin and bloodshed for the Mexicans.

Empty Phrases Instead Of Concrete Action

Not once has President Wilson squarely placed before the American people the question which Abraham Lincoln put before the American people in 1860; what is our duty? Not once has he appealed to moral idealism, to the stern enthusiasm of strong men for the right. On the contrary, he has employed every elocutionary device to lull to sleep our sense of duty, to make us content with words instead of deeds, to make our moral idealism and enthusiasm evaporate in empty phrases instead of being reduced to concrete action. From the speech of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, delivered at Lewiston, Maine, in behalf of Charles E. Hughes.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

The Woman's Party has one object and one only, in its present campaign. At its conference at Colorado Springs, on Aug. 12, the following resolutions were passed:

Resolution 1: Whereas, the present administration under President Wilson and the Democratic party, has persistently opposed the passage of a national suffrage amendment, and

Whereas, each of the other national parties, either by its platform or through its candidates, is pledged to the passage of a federal amendment, enfranchising women, therefore, be it

Resolved, that the National Woman's Party, so long as the opposition of the Democratic Party continues, pledges itself to use its best efforts in the twelve states where women vote for President, to defeat the Democratic candidate for President; and in the eleven states where women vote for members of Congress, to defeat the candidates of the Democratic party for Congress.

Resolution 2: Resolved, that we congratulate the Progressive, Prohibition and Socialist parties upon the definite stand which they have taken in their endorsement of suffrage for women by national action.

Resolution 3: Resolved, that we commend the position of the Republican candidate for President, Charles Evans Hughes, for the unequivocal stand which he has taken for human liberty by his endorsement of suffrage for women by national action, and assure him of our appreciation of his statesmanshiplike position.

Thus it is shown that the women have selected for themselves, the ground of complete political independence. The reason for such a stand is to be found in the realization that to affiliate with one or another party, would stamp the Woman's Party with the label of the party affiliated with, and thereafter it could gain a hearing before no other audience. Now, it can appeal freely to all.

"Governor Hughes, I am a Democrat by tradition," says Mrs. Weston, "and I never expected to see the day when I would be congratulating any Republican presidential candidate for anything whatsoever. But I find that I am a woman first. Loyalty to women comes first with me, party affiliations second. I believe this is the point of view that all thoughtful women will take when they understand the situation fully. We appreciate the privilege of being able to vote, and we want all women to have that same privilege, and to have it soon."

At Frontier Park, Wyoming, Mr. Hughes said, in part, "I met scores of women in Cheyenne, and I noted with great interest, the pride that they took in the possession of the right to vote at elections. I think it was with pride that the women of this state presented themselves, knowing well that they lost nothing of grace and charm or effectiveness in the finer duties of life, because they were privileged, with men, to take part in bearing the responsibilities of government. Let us give the right to women."

other states, which we men treasure, as a privilege in a free country. If I can serve you to that end, it will be the greatest pride of my life, to have had a part in its attainment.

There can be no question as to the constitutionality of a federal amendment, because it is an amendment to the constitution itself (and the right to seek an amendment to the constitution is provided for in Article V of that famous document) and therefore, it cannot possibly infringe upon states' rights." Our women are persistent in their demands that they shall be accorded full equality with our men. To my mind, there can be no doubt that the great Lincoln had them in mind when he spoke of "government of the people, for the people and by the people."

Early Meal Proves Costly

Elmer Pusey, of Harrington, arose early on Friday morning to catch the express and started to get a hasty breakfast on a gasoline stove which suddenly exploded. The flames spread quickly and destroyed the dwelling which was owned by A. Hopkins with all its contents including a player piano. Pusey luckily escaped injury.

Odd Fellows To Build Hall

Philodemic Lodge I. O. O. F. of Dover, has purchased the Rust property on Lookerman street, and will soon begin on the site the erection of its proposed new Temple. The building will be three stories in height with the first floor for business purposes and the second and third for lodge rooms. Charity Lodge of Odd Fellows of Laurel, has appointed a committee to select a site for a new hall and as soon as it is secured its present building will be disposed of and work will begin on the new one.

Rounded Up Young Robbers

Detective Kempski of Wilmington on Saturday arrested Edward McTay and William Fisher, each aged 12 years, and Leonard McElroy, aged 14, who were held for the action of the Juvenile Court, charged with plundering launches moored along the Christina and the Brandywine. For several weeks past owners of the crafts have found them stripped of brass fittings, lead and articles left on board. Whether the youthful trio worked alone or had confederates remains to be seen.

HERE AND THERE

Laurel firemen will hold a carnival September 15-25 on the lot at Delaware avenue and Market street, owned by the Peoples' National Bank, which has been cleared and leveled for the occasion.

Milford's Firemen's Carnival opened on Monday and will last throughout the week. Various organizations are working for the success of the affair. The main prize offered is a $200 diamond ring.

Riding his bicycle on Pine street, Laurel, last Monday, Curtis Spicer, Jr., was run down by an automobile driven by a colored chauffeur of a local garage. He was thrown in the air and falling was cut and bruised about the face and body.

Attendance during the five days of the State Fair at Wilmington last week totaled about 75,000.

Wilmington bank clearings last week totaled $2,147,266.62 against $1,663,669.98 for the like week last year.

The New Castle Century Club will give a dance in the Battery park pavilion this Wednesday evening which, it is expected, will be largely attended.

Scarcity of labor has delayed the completion of the new Wilmington High School which will not be ready for service at the opening of the school year.

Andrew Marvel, largely engaged in farming in the Georgetown section, has purchased an oil burning tractor with the aid of which five furrows can be ploughed at a time.

Mrs. John W. Banks saw in a field on her husband's farm near Stanton, one day last week, a deer, which it is thought, was one of T. C. duPont's herd.

Telephone Service of Tomorrow

N almost prophetic vision, forty years ago, enabled Alexander Graham Bell and his fellow pioneers to conceive that mammoth network of telephonic communication which now binds together the cities of the land, each with every other.

The purpose of the first Bell Company was to provide telephone communication in and between "all the States and foreign countries," and so did these pioneers build, ever with an eye to the future. Invention has piled upon invention, betterment has crowded betterment; the telephone has spanned the continent and the oceans! Such is still the unchanging progress! While only recently Chief Engineer John J. Carthy of the Bell System said: "No one can tell how far away are the limits of the telephone art. I firmly believe * * * that some day we will build up a world telephone system, which will join all of the people of the earth into one brotherhood."

There is no such thing as success unless there be a great compelling ideal and purpose towards which to strive! When, as in the Bell System, that striving is realized even in the little things of service, there can be no doubt as to the continued accomplishment of to-morrow.
