ALFRED H. DAVIS, OF IRON HILL, SERIOUSLY INJURED

Right Leg Got Caught in Belt of Gasoline Engine

Alfred H. Davis, a prominent farmer near Iron Hill, was seriously injured Wednesday morning when his right leg got caught in the belt of a gasoline engine, and was badly mangled below the knee. He was taken to Union Hospital, Elkton, for treatment. It was first reported that his leg would have to be amputated but this was not necessary. In talking of the affair last evening, Mr. Davis blamed himself entirely, saying it was due to carelessness on his part. Several years ago, Irvin Reynolds, a brother-in-law of the injured man, was fatally hurt in a similar machine involving a gasoline engine on the same farm.

H. E. VINSINGER AND FAMILY TO MOVE TO NEWARK, N. J.

Mr. H. E. Vinsinger, an official of the Kelo Pigment and Chemical Co., of Newark, has been transferred to a du Pont plant in New Jersey. The Vinsinger family will move to Newark, N. J., on September 1st. They have lived in Newark for a number of years and Mr. Vinsinger at one time was associated with the Farmers Trust Company and other enterprises in Newark. They will be missed by a large number of Newark friends.

WILKINSON'S AT REHOBOTH

Professor W. A. Wilkinson, who was director of the University of Delaware Summer School, which closed last Friday, Mrs. Wilkinson and their daughter, Miss Margaret Wilkinson, will leave tomorrow for a ten-days' stay at Rehoboth Beach. Later in the month they will visit Mrs. Wilkinson's relatives in Williamsport, Pa.

BARGAINS GALORE AT HOPKINS AND HANCOCK SALE

The bankrupt stock of Hopkins and Hancock store will be placed on sale this Saturday at 9 o'clock, and if ever there were bargains offered in Newark on high-grade merchandise this sale offers them. The different items are marked to sell and sell quick. We would suggest looking this merchandise over.

RICHARD G. BUCKINGHAM CELEBRATES HIS 90TH BIRTHDAY

Makes Trip Alone to Wilmington from His Farm Near Stanton

Although Richard G. Buckingham celebrated his ninetieth birthday anniversary Saturday at his farm near Stanton, he is not content to settle down to a life of ease.

Mr. Buckingham proved to himself and his family that he has lost little of the agility of youth by making a trip to Wilmington alone. He retains surprising health and spends his time in walking around his farm and other activities.

Sunday a family gathering was held at his home. He has three children, Mrs. J. Leslie Eastburn, R. Gloria Buckingham, Jr., of Newark, and Delbert Buckingham, of Chesapeake City, Md., also three grandchildren, Mrs. Breta Woolleyhan, of Chesapeake City, Md., Miss Elva Buckingham and Richard Buckingham, and three great-grandchildren.

Mr. Buckingham is a former member of the State Legislature and a veteran of the Civil War, having been a sergeantmajor in the Fourth Delaware Regiment.

HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Francis Coyle, of Elkton, the young man accused of statutory rape on Mary Shively, has been released under $2,000 bail. William Linton, the other accused, is still in jail.

U. S. DRY RAIDERS SEIZE POTENT "GRAPE BRICKS"

New York, Aug. 5.—A shop in Fifth avenue selling "grape bricks" which are convertible into beverages was raided and three men arrested today by prohibition agents who said under certain conditions the bricks would produce wine of 13 per cent alcoholic content. Acting on a warrant signed by a United States Commissioner the agents seized the stock of the establishment.

The prisoners gave their names as Charles W. Shenk and Charles McDonald of New York and John Skiff, Bloomfield, N. J.

INFORMATION

We failed to mention in our article last week in regard to the four gunmen arrested by Officer Mann, that he also seized one gallon of moonshine, and the driver of the car had no operator's card.

HELD ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE BY PENNSYLVANIA AUTHORITIES

Second Offense of Driving Car With No License

A coroner's jury, sitting in Oxford, Sunday afternoon, held a 15-year-old boy for Court on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, as the result of a fatal accident on the Baltimore pike, just south of Oxford, Saturday evening.

The boy is John D. Thompson, son of Norman Thompson, one of the Supervisors of Lower Oxford township. He is alleged to have been the driver of a truck which struck and killed Joseph D. Brown, 71, of East Nottingham township.

When struck at 10:30 o'clock Saturday evening Brown's body was hurled into a ditch at the side of the road, and lay there until noticed by a passing motorist at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Young Thompson told police that as he was driving alone at that point on his way home, something struck and broke his windshield. He did not know that he had struck a man, he said, but thought that someone had thrown a stone at the machine. He turned the car around and coming back to the spot saw nothing but the broken glass of his windshield on the road, he said. He then concluded that a passing machine must have thrown a stick or stone against his car.

The lad was arrested Sunday morning by Chief Samuel Lee, who learned of the damaged condition of his car and ascertained that he had passed that way the previous night. The boy, it was found, does not have a driver's license and has previously been arrested for operating a car without one.

Deputy Coroner J. Pennock Holton, who investigated the case, declared that Brown must have died almost immediately after being struck. Both legs were broken and his skull was fractured.

After the inquest young Thompson was taken to the Juvenile Home, West Chester, to await the action of the Court.

HAROLD D. WILSON LEADS FOUR RAIDS IN KENT COUNTY

Seize 1185 Pints of Home Brew; Mash and Liquor Destroyed; Three Arrests Made

Deputy Prohibition Administrator, Harold D. Wilson, made four raids in Kent County yesterday. He was accompanied by County Constable Lee Cokeran, of Dover, and some of his own agents. The raids were made with State warrants.

At one place 600 bottles of alleged home brew beer was seized and at another 500 bottles, the largest quantity of home brew beer ever seized in a raid in Delaware.

The first raid was made on a place known as "Scotty's Place" at Bowers Beach. The beer was found in a house next door to the place of Scott.

It was here that the 600 bottles of alleged beer were found. They also seized 42 gallons of beer mash, two gallons of alleged moonshine liquor and a capping machine and other machines used in the making and bottling of beer.

Crowd Watches Raiders

William Scott, alleged to be the owner of the place, was released on his own recognizance to appear at the next term of the Kent County Court.

The warrant was issued by Magistrate W. D. Burton, of Dover. A large crowd watched the officers smash the bottles of beer and a number of crocks, also containing alleged beer.

MAJOR W. RAY BALDWIN MAKES ADDRESS BEFORE HAVRE DE GRACE CLUB

Major W. Ray Baldwin, of Elk Mills, was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Havre de Grace Rotary Club at the Hotel Bayou last Wednesday evening when the club held its second consecutive 100 per cent meeting. Major Baldwin spoke first on the manufacture of rayon in his textile mills at Elk Mills and later gave an interesting talk on the American snake. He illustrated his talk on snakes by the exhibition of a six-foot blacksnake, which he had in a small box, and also exhibited two other snakes.

ARRESTED AND FINED FOR OPERATING TRUCK WITHOUT LICENSE PLATES

William Russell Beebe, of Drexel Hill, Pa., was arrested by Officer Cunningham and fined $25 and costs by Magistrate Thompson, for operating a truck without license tags, on Monday evening.

LARRY SMITH AGAIN IN CLUTCHES OF THE LAW

Larry Smith was fined this afternoon for taking an automobile without the owner's consent, preferred by George Fraim, and operating a motor vehicle without an operator's or chauffeur's license, preferred by Officer Keeley. Squire Thompson fined him $25.00 and costs on the first charge and $10.00 and costs on the second.

THRULOR HELD UNDER $1000 BAIL FOR NOVEMBER U.S. GRAND JURY

Government Claimed Beer Seized Tested 5%

3 FINED FOR DRIVING WHILE UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF LIQUOR

John Toyer, colored, of Chester, Pa., was arrested Sunday for driving a car while under the influence of liquor and paid $100.00 and costs. Officer Cunningham made the arrest.

Robert Harris, colored, of Boynton, Pa., arrested by Officer Mann, Sunday, for the same offense, was fined $100.00 and costs.

Alex. Calderwood, of Unionville, Pa., arrested by Officer Cunningham for driving while under the influence of liquor, also joined Magistrate Thompson's $100.00 Club.

George M. Taylor, of Phoenixville, Pa., was fined $10.00 and costs Sunday for reckless driving.

EDWARD McMAHAN OF WEST GROVE PAYS MAGISTRATE THOMPSON A VISIT

Edward McMahan, of West Grove, was arrested Saturday night by Officer Mann for reckless driving on East Main street. When the officer told him to turn around and follow him he started toward Wilmington, without lights. He was driving a high powered car and soon outdistanced the officer. Officers Mann and Cunningham journeyed to West Grove this morning and brought him to Newark and Magistrate Thompson fined him $65.00 on three charges preferred by Officer Mann, reckless driving, operating car without proper tags, and running without lights.

CHILD HURT IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Edward T. Halisey, Jr., of Upper Darby, crashed into the 6.15 bus leaving Newark, Monday in front of William P. Wollaston's store, the bus stopping suddenly in the middle of the street. Halisey was unable to stop and run into the bus, injuring a small boy in his car about the head. The child was examined by Dr. Burke. Officer Cunningham investigated the accident and no arrests were made.

CLARENCE BLACKBURN KILLED BY A COLONIAL STAGE AT MINQUADALE

Extricated from Wreckage by Motorists

Clarence Blackburn, 55, of Farnhurst, was fatally injured at 7:40 a. m. Monday when the truck he was driving figured in an accident with a Colonial Stage, bound for Pittsburgh, on the du Pont Highway, opposite the Delaware Flying Service field at Minquadales.

Blackburn died in the Delaware Hospital of internal injuries at 10:20. According to hospital attaches he never regained consciousness.

According to State police Blackburn was driving his small truck north on the highway and as he approached a parked truck he turned his vehicle to the left.

As he did so his truck was struck by the bus which was operated by William H. Mays. The bus was going in the same direction as the smaller vehicle and passing Blackburn's truck at the time.

The truck was struck on the left side, and according to State police literally thrown across the span of highway, over a four foot embankment, where it crashed between a large tree and a telephone pole. Police said that the vehicle was demolished by the crash.

Blackburn's truck, according to Service, was almost torn to bits and actually was wrapped around the pole. The debris was scattered about the parking space of the aviation field.

Blackburn was extricated from the wreckage by passing motorists and persons who were near the scene of the accident. He was removed to the hospital, in New Castle County ambulance that had been summoned from the Delaware State Hospital at Farnhurst.

Dr. William V. Marshall, Blackburn's personal physician, was in attendance and reported that the man

Frank Thrulor, proprietor of a road house known as "Frank's Place," three miles above Newark, was arraigned in Baltimore last Friday and held under $1000 bond for possession of the U. S. Federal Grand Jury, which will meet the last week in October or the first week in November.

The Government claimed that the beer seized tested 5 per cent. Thrulor's place was raided just two weeks ago today, the Prohibition Agents from Baltimore seizing 50 gallons of mash and 27 bottles of home brew beer.

JOHN H. KIMBLE ELECTED PRESIDENT OF INSURANCE CO.

At the annual stockholders meeting of the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Cecil County, held Saturday the following were elected managers for the ensuing year: Harvey H. Mackey, Dr. Winifred T. Morrison, James F. Evans, Elkton; Dr. H. Arthur Cantwell, of North East; Harry H. Howard, of Chesapeake City; S. Wills Lusby, Cecilton; John H. Kimble, Port Deposit; and Joseph T. Tyson, of Rising Sun.

Mr. Kimble was elected president and W. Sterling Evans, secretary and treasurer.

ACCIDENT CORNER OF MAIN ST. AND SOUTH COLLEGE AVE.

Herman Lewis, of Logan, Pa., was arrested by Officer Cunningham for reckless driving Tuesday night. He caused Miss Ruth Benedict to crash into a pole, and damaging her car to the extent of $28.00. He will be tried before Magistrate Thompson tomorrow morning.

CARD PARTY

The Tuesday afternoon card party met at the home of Mrs. Olivia Houghton, 99 N. College avenue, with a good attendance. Prizes were awarded and refreshments served, and it was decided to hold the next party at the home of Mrs. Mary J. Greenplate, McClellandville, next Tuesday, 2:00 p. m. Mrs. Mary Ash, of Coatesville, Pa., acting hostess.

MANN STILL ON POLICE FORCE

It was stated by several persons last week that Officer Mann would resign from the Newark Police force. There was no truth in this statement, as he is still employed by the town and has been on duty continuously, having made several important arrests this week.

MR. AND MRS. HUFNAGL BUY FARM NEAR NEWARK

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hufnagl, of Mermaid, have purchased a farm known as the Murray Farm, formerly owned by the Bowers Estate, located along the Elkton road about two miles from Newark. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hufnagl, Jr., are now residing at the farm.

The Market Basket

Family Food Guide

Every Meal—Milk for children, bread for all.

Every Day—Cereal in porridge or pudding; potatoes; tomatoes (or oranges) for children; a green or yellow vegetable; a fruit or additional vegetable; milk for all.

Three to Four Times a Week—Tomatoes for all; dried beans and peas or peanuts; eggs (especially for children); lean meat, fish, or poultry, or cheese.

This week the Market Basket family travels to Hungary in search of low cost meals. To most persons the thought of Hungarian cookery immediately suggests goulash, which has extended its fame across boundaries and oceans thousands of miles from the humble campfire of the herdsman where it originated. Though goulash is a simple shepherd's dish, it is as tasty as it is nourishing. Goulash is also the mainstay of the workers who gather in the vineyards each year to harvest the grapes.

The Hungarians are fond of well seasoned food and freely use onions, chives, chopped parsley and always paprika in cooking. They seldom fry vegetables, but serve them frequently with a sauce made from butter and flour mixed with a little of the vegetable water or, whenever they can afford to, with fresh or sour cream.

They eat the same meats as we do here in the United States. Beef is always the basis of the goulash although it usually contains pork and mutton as well.

The hogs in Hungary are carefully tended. A common ration is butter-milk and corn. Hams are frequently prepared by covering them an inch or so deep with bread dough and slowly baking them in an oven for four or five hours. This dish is one of their great delicacies. The dough becomes impregnated with the flavor of the ham, and also prevents the escape of any of the juices. But the ham must be baked very slowly or the dough will burn. Pork chops are also popular and Hungarians, especially the peasants, eat much bacon.

Lamb and mutton come in for their full share on the menus of the Hungarian household. Hungarians are partial to stews, cutlets, shoulder roasts and roast leg of lamb. But they always use a little garlic with lamb and mutton, and in roast of lamb bacon strips are drawn through the meat in much the same manner as a roast of beef is larded.

Goose is the Hungarian national bird as the turkey is ours, although they also have turkey as well as chicken. Even the poorest peasant family has a flock of geese which it herds carefully. The Hungarians have a practice of stuffing the geese with noodles in order to fatten them, but not quite as extensively as the Strasburg geese are fattened to prepare their livers for pate de foie gras. Stuffing is literally the word in this case for they don't leave the matter of food to the appetite of the geese themselves, but catch them and hold their bills open and force the noodles down their throats.

Salted butter is alien to the Hungarian table and only the sweet variety is eaten. For cooking, lard or bacon fat is usually used and not butter, although they do have a way of cooking down the sweet butter and storing it in crocks to be used only for cooking. This is usually done in the summer when there is a surplus of butter and when it is quite cheap. Sour cream is used freely in sauces and in many dishes much as we would butter.

Not so many potatoes are eaten as in this country and in their place are noodles and dumplings prepared in many different ways. The noodles may be served with the soup or as a dessert. Sometimes they are combined with cottage cheese and butter and often with jam and butter as a dessert. For these two dishes, the noodles are brought piping hot to the table where the other ingredients are added. A preserve of cooked fresh prunes, an old and popular Hungarian standby, is frequently used for this noodle dessert.

The Hungarians, in company with many other continental peoples, are fully aware of the value of the many varieties of wild mushrooms. During the season they gather them for the winter's use and a string of dried mushrooms is as familiar a sight in their kitchens and shops as the garlic plant is to the Italian's. The Hungarian fondness for mushrooms is shown by the fact that scarcely one meal is served during the fresh mushroom season without including them in some form or other.

Five meals a day is the usual Hungarian custom, beginning with a simple breakfast of coffee, rolls and butter. At ten o'clock comes a mid-morning breakfast, with dinner at noon, coffee with a bun or cake at four o'clock in the afternoon and supper at the end of the day. Usually no beverage is served with supper, unless, perhaps, a light wine or beer.

Since it is undesirable and impractical to offer a five-meal menu, the Bureau of Home Economics offers the usual American three meals. All of the meals are typical of Hungary, with the exception of the cooked cereal for breakfast, which is unknown in the land of the Magyars. Their cereals are barley, cornstarch and farina which are used in soups for thickening purposes. The menu which follows might be termed an agriculture menu since all of the foods could be produced on the farm.

The dinner of liver dumplings, squash and pancakes might be found in any Hungarian home. Pork liver is used for the dumplings, not only because it is less expensive but because it or calves' liver would be used in Hungary and not beef liver. Sour cream would be preferred to the milk and lemon juice in the cooked squash but except for persons with a cow, it would add considerably to the cost of the dish here in America.

The Hungarian pancake roll calls for three egg yolks, one tablespoon of sugar, two cups of flour and enough milk to make a thin batter, with the stiffly beaten egg whites added last. This is a more expensive mixture than the bureau's regular griddle cake recipe which is substituted in the following group of recipes. ((A recipe for goulash that has been tested and approved by the bureau, may be had by writing to the bureau. It is not given here since it is so well known.))

Buying

A family of two adults should buy every week: Bread, 9 to 12 pounds; flour, 1½ to 2 pounds; cereal, 2 to 3 pounds; whole fresh milk, 4 to 10 quarts, or canned unsweetened milk, 4 to 10 tall cans; potatoes, 7 to 11 pounds; dried beans, peas, peanut butter, 1/3 to 1½ pounds; tomatoes, fresh or canned, or citrus fruits, 3 to 4 pounds; other vegetables (including some of green or yellow color) and inexpensive fruits, 9 to 14 pounds; fats, such as lard, salt pork, bacon, margarine, butter, etc., 1½ pounds; sugar and molasses, 2 to 3 pounds; lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs, 2½ to 4 pounds; eggs, 2 to 6; coffee, ½ pound; tea, ½ pound.

MENUS FOR ONE DAY

Breakfast

Fresh Corn on Cob

Watermelon or Other Fresh Fruit

RECIPES

These recipes served five persons.

Liver Dumplings

1 lb liver
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons lard or bacon drippings
1 cup farina
1 can beef consommé

Remove the membrane from the liver and put the liver through a meat grinder twice. Add the finely chopped parsley and onion to the liver. Then add the salt, pepper, fat and farina. Shape into small balls about 1½ inches in diameter and drop into the boiling consommé, to which 1 can of water has previously been added. Simmer slowly for 5 minutes and serve piping hot. The broth should be saved and used as soup stock.

Cooked Squash

2 quarts pared and sliced squash
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon paprika
1½ teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon flour
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ cup milk

Cut the squash into uniform slices about ¼ inch thick. Add the water, butter, paprika and salt, cover and cook until the squash is tender. Remove the cover and cook until the liquid is almost gone. Sprinkle the flour over the squash. Stir and cook for a few minutes. Add the lemon juice and milk. Stir well and cook up once and then serve.

Pea Soup Made with Pods

2 quarts fresh green pea pods (2 lbs. peas should suffice)
2 quarts water
4 large carrots, cut in long slices
2 large onions sliced
2 teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour

Wash the pods thoroughly. Add the water, carrots, onions, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer about 1 hour. Remove the carrots, drain the stock and discard the pods and onions. Melt the butter and cook until golden brown. Add the flour, mix well and to this add a small quantity of the hot liquid. Stir until well blended and then return this mixture to the soup stock and cook for a few minutes.

Dumplings

1/3 cup milk and water (half and half)
½ cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted butter

Add the milk to the flour and salt, stir in the butter and beat until well mixed. Drop the batter quickly into the gently boiling soup by one-half teaspoonfuls. When the dumplings come to the top, serve the soup at once.

TALES... of the TRIBES

By EDITHA L. WATSON

The Skidi

It is not every tribe which can boast of being organized by the stars, but the twenty-two villages of the Skidi, a Pawnee tribe, made that claim.

It was said that the stars gave shrines named for them to certain men, and that the villages took their names either from the shrines or from some incident of their bestowal. The stars also "made them into families and villages, taught them how to live and how to perform their ceremonies." These rites began with the first thunder of spring, and ended when the long winter sleep set in. One of the most important of these ceremonies was the sacrifice of a girl, impersonating the evening star, to the morning star, and the last of these sacrifices became a drama equal to that of Pocahontas and Capt. John Smith.

At this time (the early part of the Nineteenth century), the Skidi chief had a son, Petaleshoro ("Chief of Men"), who was everything to be admired in a man. Tall, of fine physique and handsome face, the young chief was as brave as a lion and as wise as an old man, and with all these qualities he also had a tender heart. His exploits of chivalry and his quickness and daring had won him the respect and admiration of all his tribe. The day came for the sacrifice to the morning star. A Comanche maiden had been captured by Skidi raiders some time before, and it had been decided to offer her, rather than some girl of their own tribe, to the stellar deity. The unfortunate captive was bound to a framework, and the rites were commencing, when Petaleshoro appeared upon the scene.

In a ringing speech, he declared his and his father's opposition to such a ceremony, and their determination to end the custom. He daringly offered his own life in place of the captive's, should he fail to rescue her. Then, while his tribesmen were still under the influence of his surprising words and action, Petaleshoro cut the things which bound the Comanche girl, lifted her in his arms, and rushed with her through the crowd to where he had prepared saddled horses. They mounted and galloped away while the Skidi were recovering their wits, and were able to ride so fast and so far as to avoid all pursuit.

It would make a pretty romance if the historian were able to state that Petaleshoro and the Comanche maiden fell in love. However, it appears that such was not the case, for at the end of the ride, the handsome young Skidi brave presented the girl with a package of food and advised her to travel on until she came to her own people (who were some 400 miles away), while he rode back to his own village and nonchalantly took his place again among the men whom he had so cleverly outwitted.

This dramatic scene marked the end of the evening star sacrifice.

Besides the story of Petaleshoro, there is not a great deal to relate about the Skidi tribe. They were a member of the Pawnee confederacy, and it is said that centuries ago the Arickara were one people, who later separated, the Skidi family settling on Loup River, Neb., where they lived for two hundred years.

The tribe is also known as the "Wolf Pawnees," or "Pawnee Loup," as the French called them, and doubtless the river received its name from the tribe who lived along it for so many years. This is one of the puzzles of Indian lore: why the tribe, instead of referring to the celestial patronage and calling themselves "Children of the Stars," should affiliate with the wolves and be named for them.

The later history of the Skidi is that of many another tribe. They first fought against the white invaders, and to this end acquired as many horses as possible, so that horses became the standard of wealth among them. They later joined the whites and fought with them, signed treaties, and finally moved to Oklahoma, where they live today as United States citizens, owning their lands in severalty. Tradition tells us of their star-gilded origin and of their early wanderings, many years before their settlement of the Loup river district. History has preserved the story of Petaleshoro and the Comanche maid, and of the treaties which brought the Skidi closer to the government of the white men. The present finds them, their glories departed, assimilating with their conquerors, a people of little importance, whose passing would be no more marked than the sinking of a stone in the waters of Loup river.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S TRAVELS

Historically Correct Sketches
By CALVIN FADER

IN picking up historic odds and ends en route, the traveler is directed to Fort Frederick, fifteen miles west of Hagerstown, Maryland, on U. S. 40, turning south at Indian Springs, to Big Pool on the Potomac River. This crumbling entrance is one of the scarred reminders of anxious days on the Colonial frontier. Washington visited here while in command at Winchester.

TURNING in the saddle for a moment to survey Washington's travels as a youth in Colonial service, his perilous mission to Fort Le Boeuf in 1753, his surrender with honor at Great Meadows July 4, 1754, and his heroic conduct under Braddock in 1755 move swiftly in review as he approaches final action at Fort Duquesne.

HARD beginnings often make easy endings. It had fallen to the lot of Washington, at 21, to uncover French designs for older heads to prevent. But Fate willed otherwise, and on November 24, 1758, the French, having had enough of this persistent youth, abandoned Fort Duquesne and set it on fire. Washington raised the British flag on the ruins, rode to Williamsburg, resigned his commission, and prepared for his wedding to Martha Dandridge Parke Custis.

Our State Department In Washington's Day

Nothing illustrates more clearly the great growth of the United States since George Washington's day than the enormously increased activities of our government. As one evidence of this, the Division of Information and Publication of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission points to the expansion in the United States Department of State since its beginnings as a Committee on Foreign Affairs of the Continental Congress.

The first secretary of that committee, which might be called our first foreign secretary, was the famous Thomas Paine who wrote the lines, "These are the times that try men's souls." The state of Colonial finances at the time is reflected in the fact that Congress was able to offer him the modest salary of seventy dollars a month.

This was in 1777, and Paine held position for two years. At the end of that period Congress dropped him for publishing a state paper which it thought he should have kept confidential. After that the Continental Congress decided to manage its own foreign affairs. It soon found itself in confusion and chaos, however, as a result of hasty committee handling of a rapid expansion in its dealings with other countries. Accordingly, in 1781, Robert Livingston of New York was made secretary of the Congressional Committee on Foreign Affairs. He received the respectable salary of $4,000.00 a year, and was given powers closely approaching those of a present day Secretary of State.

To Livingston goes much of the credit for skillful management of our diplomacy during the later period of the Revolution, but in two years time Livingston complained to Congress that his living expenses were $3,000.00 more than his yearly salary. Besides, he was honored with election as chancellor of New York, and under pressure of this lure to another field, he resigned. Another period of chaos in our foreign relations ensued, until John Jay assumed the duties of foreign secretary, with still larger powers, which included authority to frame treaties with other nations.

Finally, in 1789, the Constitution having been adopted and the new

United States having been formally established, Congress passed the act creating the Department of State as we know it today. President Washington appointed Thomas Jefferson the first Secretary of State, but as Jefferson was away at the time, it was six months before he assumed the duties of his office.

Today the Department of State receives from Congress an appropriation of more $17,000,000.00, whereas the first annual budget submitted by Secretary of State Jefferson called for an outlay of $8,008.50. At this almost amusingly moderate cost to the country, the Department of State under Jefferson ran almost everything. In Jefferson's own words, the department "embraced the whole domestic administration, war and finance excepted."

The Secretary of State then transmitted all commissions to Federal officers appointed by the President, except military commands. He kept the great seal of the United States, and promulgated all the laws passed by Congress. He even ran the Post Office service, until President Washington decided that this belonged to the Treasury Department. Nevertheless the Secretary of State continued to manage the United States mint.

He had control of copyrights and patents. He took the census and issued all maps and charts. Many of the acts of pardon passed through his hands. He conducted all our territorial affairs, collected the customs, issued consular reports, and exercised authority over the sale of public lands. And all this domestic business, together with our foreign affairs, Jefferson managed with the assistance of two under secretaries, four clerks, two messengers, and a French interpreter. One item in his budget calculated to raise a smile in these great days was an annual outlay of $50.00 for firewood. And all this at an annual cost of $8,000.00.

Yet even now, when our country has become the greatest of world powers, and when many of these original duties of the State Department have been taken over by other great departments, like those of the Post Office, the Interior, and Commerce, the United States still requires perhaps the most highly organized of all foreign offices for the conduct of its steadily enlarging relations with the world.

It is one of the startling contrasts sure to arise in every American mind in 1932 when the nation celebrates the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington, the man who, more than any other, set going this vast political development.

SOLDIER, ILL, HANGS SELF IN POST HOSPITAL

Corporal Edward J. Fricke, Jr., aged 32, Company A, First Engineers, hanged himself in the post hospital at Fort Du Pont, early Saturday morning. His body was found hanging from a transom over the door leading to his room by an attendant at 6 o'clock. He had used a sheet to hang himself.

Corporal Fricke had been in ill health and it is believed that he committed the act while in a fit of temporary mental disarrangement. He only recently returned to Fort Du Pont from Nicaragua where he had been stationed with the detachment from Company A for the past 21 months.

He was a veteran of nine year's service including war service from May 1, 1917, to July 9, 1919. He was then with the 127th Infantry. He saw service in Panama with the 11th Engineers and has been at Fort Du Pont with the 1st Engineers, Company E, for the past few years. He was especially selected for duty with Company A, 1st Engineers in Nicaragua.

Corporal Fricke's home was in Manitowac, Wisconsin, and he is survived by the father, Edward J. Fricke, who resides there at this time.

The hospital authorities at the post state that Fricke hanged himself sometime between 2 and 6 a. m. Saturday morning. The night attendant saw Fricke at 2 a. m. and he was apparently sleeping. When he returned at 6 a. m., his body was found hanging from the transom. Fricke had taken a bedsheet and torn a strip from it which he used to hang himself from the transom. He apparently stood on a chair in the room and after making the sheet fast to the transom, jumped from the chair.

Corporal Fricke was given a military funeral Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock by the First Engineers regiment. His body was shipped to the home of his father at Manitowac, Wisconsin, following the services Chaplain William A. Aiken, post chaplain, had charge of the funeral. Members of Company A turned out without arms and escorted the body of their late comrade to the gate, together with the First Engineer's Band. The post flag was flown at half mast.

TAXATION RETARDS PROSPERITY

"I do not believe the next session of Congress will increase Federal taxes, nor do I see any necessity for so doing. Federal, State and local taxation is as heavy as the country can bear. Combined taxes are more than three times as great as prior to 1914. Taxation has become a great burden and if continued, much less increased, will be a great detriment not only to our home enterprises but to our foreign trade and commerce."

"It would be unwise to retard the return of prosperity by the imposition of any additional tax burdens at this time."—Senator Swanson, Democrat.

MARRIAGE NO BAR TO MD. TEACHERS

A warning against dismissing married school teachers simply because they are married was sent Monday to the county school superintendents and the members of the county boards of education by Albert S. Cook, State Superintendent of Education.

The warning, in the shape of a circular letter, was issued as a result of queries from Maryland teachers with reference to the employment of married women in the schools, Mr. Cook said.

All the queries embody the question of whether county boards of education have authority to dismiss married teachers for the sole reason that they are married and to make vacancies for young graduates.

Roses Need Dose of Fertilizer Now

Summer Feeding Helps Keep Bushes In Blossom Throughout Season

The climbers are now past the height of their bloom, although in many parts of New England beautiful climbers and ramblers can be seen throughout July. The hybrid teas, or monthly roses, are still blooming, and with proper care will continue to bloom until frost.

A little care during the summer will add much to the beauty of bloom. You will find the climbers and ramblers throwing many new canes, more than they can possibly use. Prune away the weaklings, training two or three of the finest over the wall or trellis which supports them. Later, if desired, the old shoots may be cut away. However, some very successful growers never cut away anything but the dead wood.

Every rose grower has his own pet ideas about fertilizer. Personally, I like to use chopped tobacco stems mixed with bone meal. Both of these are organic fertilizers, building up the humus content of the soil as well as supplying easily assimilated plant food.

Tobacco stems are rich in nitrogen and potash, while bone meal is rich in phosphorous. Together they form a balanced fertilizer.

If the climbers and ramblers have made good growth, further fertilization is unnecessary at this time. In any case, one more application should suffice for the season.

The monthly roses need heavy feeding, as they are expected to continue to bear flowers for several months. Work the fertilizer into the soil with the hoe. So far this season there has been plenty of natural moisture to dissolve the plant food and carry it down to the roots. Should the soil be quite dry, soak it thoroughly with the hose. Plants cannot use dry fertilizer.

The soil in the monthly rose bed should be stirred often enough to keep a loose dust mulch at the surface.

The two principal summer pests which annoy roses are the aphids, or green plant louse, and the rose chafer.

The plant lice accumulate at this season on the ends of new canes and on young buds, sucking sap from the fresh young growth.

The rose chafers are large brown beetles with voracious appetites for rose foliage.

Both these pests can be controlled by the regular use of a pyrethrum soap spray. There are several reliable brands on the market.

Not a coal yard
but a service station

WHEN we selected Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite, we knew we had chosen for you premium hard coal: slow, even-burning, dependable.

We realized, too, that you would expect service in harmony with the excellence of our product. So we train our force in the ways and means of producing the most heat for the least money. Every heater has its own personality. Every home has slightly different requirements. We have made our organization expert in heater management. Your neighbor may be best served by one size of Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite and your requirements may call for another. We welcome the opportunity to give you our recommendations for greater comfort and economy. Remember, look upon our company as a "service station" as well as a coal yard.

Accident Prevention on the Road

Bad manners on the part of drivers are held by many authorities to be the principal cause of automobile accidents.

According to traffic engineers and statisticians, the accident rate would drop to a minimum if drivers would display a little courtesy in operating their cars by giving way when other machines are passing, and would discontinue crowding cars coming in opposite directions, the unnecessary use of loud horns, driving slowly in the midst of fast-moving traffic, etc.

A survey conducted by the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research has shown that the automobile itself is least responsible for accidents. Poor brakes, steering and similar factors cause only a small percentage of mishaps. Human nature has not yet adjusted itself to take advantage of the full efficiency and safety of the modern car. Nine out of ten cars involved in accidents are in perfect condition. Thus, in 90 per cent of cases, accidents result from human carelessness, incompetence or bad judgment.

Good driving manners can cover a multitude of other failings. The driver who resents passing cars, who attempts to hold an undue share of the road, who has no respect for the rights of the pedestrian or other motorists, is a potential killer and destroyer of property. It is against him that future highway safety campaigns must be conducted if they are to show results.

GOVERNOR'S DAY OBSERVED
AT BOY SCOUT CAMP

Governor's Day was observed Wednesday at Camp Caesar Rodney, the Boy Scout camp on the Chesapeake. Officers, executive board members and newspapermen visited the camp. Governor C. Douglass Buck was unable to be present as he is recuperating from a minor operation at his home.

The party making the trip left the du Pont-Biltmore at 3 o'clock for Hexton, the estate of Frances V. du Pont, by automobile. There they boarded Mr. du Pont's yacht, Tech, Jr., for Camp Rodney, arriving there at 5.30. After an hour's inspection of the camp, and stunts by the boys, dinner was served in the large mess hall. The party returned by yacht to Hexton and arrived in Wilmington about 9.45.

ELKTON BUSINESS MEN SWINDLED

Several business men of Elkton, are victims of three swindlers, a man and two women, who visited the town several days ago, canvassing for advertising space in a proposed Catholic book having a large circulation among the members of that denomination.

The swindlers centered their activities among the Protestant men in business and in most every case collected from $5 to $25 for space in their proposed book, which has been declared a fraud by members of the Catholic Church.

TRUSTEE ESCAPES ELKTON JAIL

Cornelius Thompson, who was sentenced to Elkton jail several weeks ago, escaped Tuesday of this week and was recaptured by Sheriff Buckworth and Oscar Humes, Deputy. Thompson had only 35 days more to serve, and acting repentant, about two weeks ago the Sheriff made him a trustee. Tuesday morning Sheriff Buckworth stepped out of his office for a few minutes and when he returned Thompson and his gun and holster were gone.

When first arrested Thompson was with a woman in Elk Mills, and the Sheriff thought that would be the first place to hunt for him. He went to Elk Mills and caught Thompson as he was coming out the front door of the woman's home. Thompson had the gun strapped on him and tried to draw it and shoot, but the holster had a patented fastener in the way of a spring to keep the gun from falling out, and he was unable to draw it. The Sheriff trained a rifle on him, and he surrendered and is back in jail.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

RACKETEERING—WHOSE

BUSINESS IS IT?

The Newark Post has the reputation of giving its readers facts on many matters of interest. The Evening Journal of Wilmington last Friday in its "specials" from Newark questioned the truthfulness of the statement in The Post in regard to the gangsters or gunmen invading Newark by the following paragraph:

"Local officers say the report that the four men were gunmen or that there had been a gang of Philadelphia gunmen loitering around Newark during the past few days was false as far as they knew."

The actual facts of the case were Officer Mann found a car parked without lights on South Academy street in the lane leading to the home of Harry (Polly) Malin with two men inquiring as to the whereabouts of Polly Malin. They declared that "Polly" was not at home. Officer Mann, seeing the lights in Malin's home, thought things looked suspicious and upon inspecting the car found a loaded shot gun, a loaded revolver, a gallon of liquor, also, the driver without an operator's card; he immediately placed them under arrest. Later two other men appeared whom he had noticed carrying a can, supposedly gasoline. These he placed under arrest also.

The Journal state "three of the men were released shortly afterward but the fourth was held until Thursday evening as it was claimed he was wanted by the Maryland authorities. When the Maryland authorities failed to come for him by Thursday night he also was released from the Town lockup."

On the information of one of the men arrested a still was raided on Iron Hill by the Town officers and Sheriff Buckworth, of Elkton, and his deputy.

Several citizens of Newark have asked the writer by what authority or on whose authority the men were released.

We have seen many of our citizens fined for slight parking offenses but to the writer's mind the above facts prove that Officer Mann made a very important arrest and, whether they were Philadelphia gunmen or backwoodsmen, the case should have been tried. What offense is necessary to try men under such circumstances?

We recall about a year ago, several Town youngsters finding a gallon of moonshine along Elkton Road planted in a corn-field by bootleggers, and getting a little noisy from the contents, were hauled into court and one was fined $200 and costs. These boys didn't carry any guns, nor were they in the bootleg game, yet the officer threatened to shoot them if they attempted to get away.

This gunman case is causing our citizens to ask many questions. The following are some the taxpayers would like to have answered:

1. Who heads and instructs our Newark Police Department?
2. By whose authority were these four men released?
3. How many persons, the past year, have been arrested, placed in the Town lockup, and released without coming to trial?
4. Who is Chief; and what hours are the officers on duty?
5. What part does our Town Council play in checking over the arrests?
6. Are the Town officers instructed to enforce certain laws and overlook others?
7. What becomes of the evidence seized—such as guns, liquor, etc.?

A Reader of The Post.

Dear Editor:

Gas rates are a little better now, but one never hears a word about the electricity rate in Newark. I feel that this is the time when the council can do a little good and reduce the cost of electricity. What do you say?

Interested,

P. D. Q.

Dear Editor:

If it wasn't for your paper one would never know what is going on. I was glad to see the photo and to know that we had another thriving industry, employing about 60 people. What a great idea for Mr. Hearn, and what may it mean to the farmers. Instead of Wake up America, it will be Wake up Farmers. Go to it, C. P. Hearn, and my best wishes go with you, and I feel sure that the people of Newark feel the same way and are glad to have you in our midst.

Bert Widows.

AN IDEA

Newark, Delaware? Oh yes, of course, we drove through it, a very pretty college town, quiet, a lovely place in the summer, I believe, restful, and all conveniences. . . .

Such are the usual comments about Newark, and to a remarkable degree these are true. But, yes, there is always a "but"—there is one thing lacking, which might be called a convenience, by some a luxury, by some a ridiculous, unneeded accessory, and by still others an absolute necessity. We have reason to believe that the thing which is lacking is much needed and wanted. And, like many of the wants of the people in this land of representative government, it has been drowned out by the loud cries about corruption in the city government and universal "mud-slinging."

Why has Newark no municipal tennis courts? Some object that there are the college tennis courts. But, so far as we have been able to discover, these tennis courts are not open to the general public. To be exact, we have seen one net up on these courts—that court is being used continually, which evidence proves that tennis courts are both wanted and needed.

We say municipal tennis courts, because we feel that public utilities are more cheaply and more efficiently operated by the city government, as there is then no chance for private exploitation, nor a great desire for profits.

Some objectors say that such a large percentage of the population leaves Newark in the summer time, that it would be impossible to support municipal tennis courts. But they do not stop to consider that very many others come to Newark during the summer months, and that as large rural population would patronize these courts also. In a town whose population was 4,500 about four years ago, municipal courts could be operated.

We feel that it would be a good thing for Newark to have municipal tennis courts, for it is impossible for individual homes to maintain tennis courts due to the upkeep and to the lack of space. Not only that, but tennis is one of the most healthful and most enjoyable sports.

We should like the ideas of others on this subject.

LEWIS PHIPPS' HERD
LEADS NEW CASTLE COUNTY
COW TESTING ASSOCIATION

With an average butter-fat production of 32.5 pounds and 808 pounds of milk per cow the mixed herd of 21 cows owned by Lewis Phipps, of Centerville, Delaware, led the 495 Cows belonging to the 21 members of the New Castle County Cow Testing Association during July. The average production for all of the cows during the 31 days testing period was 24.8 pounds of fat and 569 pounds of milk.

The ten cows making the highest butter-fat production during the month were owned by: J. W. Willis, Bear; John Govatos, Hare's Corner; Wallace Cook, Newark; Granogue Farms, Granogue, and J. Howard Mitchell and Sons, Hockessin.

These ten men had the highest milk producers: Wallace Cook, Newark; John Govatos, Hare's Corner; Fred Martenis, Elkton; J. W. Willis, Bear; George Danby, Bear; Granogue Farms and P. E. Middleton, Hockessin.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, George W. Crowe, who passed away one year ago, August 2, 1930.

Nothing but memories as we journey on,
A constant longing for a voice that is gone;
Some day, some time, in God's own land,
We shall meet again and understand.

Sadly missed by Wife and Children.

The part you never see is the best part of the NORGÉ

When you look at a Norgé Electric Refrigerator you can see the beautiful design and lasting finish of its cabinet. . . .

You can see and appreciate the convenient height and arrangement of the shelves. . . . the spring hinged door that seals the freezing compartment. . . . the "Water-vor," the convenient water cooler that's always handy but never in the way. . . . the freezing control and defrosting switch, placed right where easiest to use.

But you might have a Norgé for years and hardly realize it has a mechanism at all—except, for the perfect refrigeration it gives you. Only Norgé has the Rollator. . . . simple, compact, powerful, almost everlasting. . . . the kind of mechanism you can depend on from one year's end to the next.

When you are ready to select your electric refrigerator, by all means see the Norgé before you buy.

The Norgé is manufactured by Norgé Corporation, Detroit, a Division of Borg-Warner, one of the world's largest makers of automotive parts, including free wheeling.

*The Water-vor is extra equipment, available for all models at moderate prices.

One outstanding error was made by G. Davis, when he left first base to hear what was going on between two players and was put out.

After the ball game the other sports continued.

First, Cracker Eating Contest—Winners, D. Vincent, Elizabeth Moore. Second, Running—Winner, James Moore.

Third, Balloon Race—Winner, Mrs. W. Miller.

Fourth, Smokers' Race—Winner, Mr. Beatty.

Fifth, Clothes Pin Race—Winner, Ella Moore.

After the sports the main event came—supper was served, then the Association treated everyone with cake and ice cream.

To end a very enjoyable day, Mr. Deemer gave everyone a pass to go on the Merry-Go-Round.

GAME AND FISH LAWS

STATE OF DELAWARE

1931

Correspondence intended for the Board of Game and Fish Commissioners should be addressed to the Chief Game and Fish Warden, Clarence S. Foster, Dover, Delaware.

BOARD OF GAME AND FISH COMMISSIONERS

DOVER, DELAWARE

President, Robt. P. Robinson, Wilmington Vice-President, Wilbert Rawley, Leipsic
Secretary-Treasurer, John S. Isaacs, Ellendale

NOTICE

The Newark Post, by popular demand, starts this week to publish in its columns the Game and Fish Laws of the State of Delaware together with an abstract of the Federal laws and regulations for the protection of Migratory Birds. To all interested, we earnestly request you to carefully read these laws, not only to acquaint yourself with the changes, but also to be able to inform others, if necessary, to protect the game and fish of our State.

One of the interesting things to know is that every person holding a license for hunting or fishing prescribed by law can arrest violators.

The Delaware laws in relation to Migratory Birds do not, in some respects, conform to the Federal Regulations. For the information of the public The Post will also publish an abstract of the Federal Laws and Regulations for the protection of Migratory Birds.

Where the Federal and State laws conflict, the law which is the most restrictive governs.

The State Treasurer is authorized and directed to pay to the Board of Game and Fish Commissioners the said sum of six hundred dollars, in equal semi-annual installments, under the order of the President of said Board. The State Treasurer shall not pay the second and subsequent installments of this appropriation, unless the order of the President, as hereinbefore provided, shall be accompanied by an itemized account of the expenditure of the previous payment. This itemized account shall be signed by the President and Secretary of said Board and shall be approved by the Auditor of Accounts. If for any reason the Auditor of Accounts shall deem that the previous installment of this appropriation was not expended within the meaning of the provisions of this Section, the subsequent installments of this appropriation shall be withheld and unpaid by the State Treasurer.

Note: This appropriation is no longer needed.

2373. Sec. 16. Unlawful to Catch, Kill, Have in Possession, Buy, Sell or Ship Birds Other than Game Birds; Exceptions:—That it shall be unlawful to catch, kill, have in possession (living or dead), purchase, sell or expose for sale, transport or ship any wild bird other than a game bird, or any part of the plumage, skin, or body of any such bird, or any game bird, or game animal except as expressly permitted by law; provided, however, that turkey buzzards, black birds, crows, English sparrows, starlings and hawks (except fishing hawks), may be killed, sold, or shipped by any person in any manner and at any time, and a bounty may be offered and paid by said Board on any or all of said unprotected birds.

2374. Sec. 17. Game Birds Enumerated:—The following only shall be considered game birds: The Anatidae, commonly known as geese, brant and river and sea ducks; the Rallidae, commonly known as rails, coots, mud-hens and gallinules; the Limicolae, commonly known as shore birds, plovers, surf birds, snipe, woodcock, sandpipers, tattlers and curlews; the Gallinae, commonly known as wild turkeys, grouse, prairie chickens, pheasants, partridges and quail; also the reed bird of the Icteridae and the dove.

2375. Sec. 18. Game; Open Seasons:—The open season during which it shall be lawful to catch or kill any of the following birds and animals shall respectively be as follows:

Quail (bob-white, partridges), from November 15th to December 31st, next following; partridge from November 15th to December 31st, next following; reed bird from September 1st to November 1st, next following; rails from September 1st to November 30th, next following; waterfowl, including ducks, geese, and brant (except wood-duck or summer duck, elder duck and swan), from October 16th to January 31st, next following; snipe from October 16th to January 31st, next following; woodcock, from November 1st to December 31st, next following; skunk, mink, otter and muskrat in New Castle, Kent and Sussex Counties from December 1st to March 10th, next following, provided, that in cases of embanked meadow in New Castle County, the date shall be from December 1st to March 20th, next following; fox from October 1st to April 30th, next following; raccoon from October 15th to January 15th, next following; opossum from October 15th to January 15th, next following; fox-squirrel, black squirrel and gray squirrel, from September 1st to October 15th, next following; hare and rabbit from November 15th to December 31st, next following; frog from May 1st to December 1st, next following; doves from September 1st to December 15th, next following, except that no doves shall be taken, killed or destroyed in New Castle County until after the first day of August, 1925, and then only from September 1st to December 1st, next following. The above open seasons shall include the days defining them. Provided, however, that any person may protect his property and premises from the ravages and depredations of any wild birds or animals protected by law, at any time and in any way; and provided further that landlords and tenants and their respective children may trap rabbits in the open season on their freeholds and leaseholds, respectively.

2376. Sec. 19. Hungarian Partridge or Pheasant Protection of; Penalties; Jurisdiction of Offenses:—It shall be unlawful for any person in this State to hunt, kill, take or destroy, sell or expose for sale, or have in his possession after the same has been killed, any Hungarian partridge or pheasant, except for scientific or propagating purposes.

If any person shall be found within the State hunting, wilfully killing, taking or destroying, selling or exposing for sale, or having in his possession after the same has been killed, any Hungarian partridge or pheasant, except for scientific or propagating purposes, such person shall be deemed guilty of a common nuisance, and shall be fined twenty-five dollars ($25.00) and costs for each offense, and failing to pay forthwith any fine imposed under the provisions of this Section, together with the costs of prosecution, unless an appeal be taken, such person shall be committed to the County Jail or Workhouse of the County in which such offense was committed for thirty days, unless said fine and costs be sooner paid.

The Justices of the Peace shall have plenary jurisdiction of all offenses against the provisions of this Section.

2376a. Sec. 19a. Ring Necked Pheasants; Closed Season:—That from and after the passage of this Act until November 15, 1933, it shall be unlawful for any person in this State to hunt, kill, take or destroy, sell or expose for sale, or have in his possession after the same has been killed, any ring necked pheasant, except for scientific or propagating purposes.

If any person shall be found within the State hunting, wilfully killing, taking or destroying, selling or exposing for sale, or having in his possession after the same has been killed, any ring necked pheasant, except for scientific or propagating purposes, such person shall be deemed guilty of a common nuisance, and shall be fined twenty-five dollars ($25.00) and costs for each offense, and failing to pay forthwith any fine imposed under the provisions of this Section, together with the costs of prosecution, unless an appeal be taken, such person shall be committed to the County Jail or Workhouse of the County in which such offense was committed, for thirty days, unless said fine and costs be sooner paid.

2376b. Sec. 19b. That from and after the passage of this Act, it shall be unlawful for any person in this State to hunt, kill, take or destroy, or have in his possession after the same has been killed, any wild turkey, except for scientific or propagating purposes.

If any person shall be found within the State hunting, wilfully killing, taking or destroying, or having in his possession after the same has been killed, any wild turkey, except for scientific and propagating purposes, such person shall be deemed guilty of a common nuisance, and shall be fined twenty-five dollars ($25.00) and costs for each offense, and failing to pay forthwith any fine imposed under the provisions of this Section, together with the costs of prosecution, unless an appeal be taken, such person shall be committed to the County Jail or Workhouse of the County in which such offense was committed, for thirty days, unless said fine and costs be sooner paid.

The Justices of the Peace shall have plenary jurisdiction of all offenses against the provisions of this Section.

2377. Sec. 20. Birds not Protected:—The English or European house sparrow, the redwing blackbird, and the purple grackle, sometimes known as the crow blackbird, are not included among the birds protected by this Article, and may be killed and sold without limit.

2378. Sec. 21. Devices, Drugs and Explosives; Use of Unlawful; Exceptions:—It shall be unlawful at any time to make use of any pitfall, deadfall, snare, cage, trap, net, pen, baited hook, or baited field or any other similar device, or any drug, poison, chemicals, or explosives for the purpose of injuring, capturing, or killing any birds or animals protected by the laws of this State, except muskrats, skunks, minks and otter, and except as otherwise expressly provided. The unlawful setting or placing of any of the devices or contrivances named in this Section shall constitute an offense against the provisions of this Section, and said devices and contrivances, when found unlawfully set or placed, shall be confiscated by the Board of Game and Fish Commissioners of the State of Delaware and disposed of as said Board shall see fit.

2379. Sec. 22. Nest or Lair of Protected Birds and Animals; Unlawful to Destroy, etc.:—It shall be unlawful to needlessly destroy, break, or interfere with any nest, den or lair of any bird or animal protected by the laws of this State, or to set fire to, burn, bark or in any way mutilate any tree, living or dead, stump or log, on lands of another, without the consent of the owner or person in charge expressly given.

2380. Sec. 23. Night Hunting; Prohibited:—It shall be unlawful to pursue, catch, take or kill any birds or animals protected by the laws of this State, except frogs, muskrats, raccoons, opossums, skunks, minks, otters and foxes between one hour after sunset of one day and one hour before sunrise of the following day. It shall be unlawful to shoot muskrats within the hours named in this section.

An Act Prohibiting the Killing of Raccoons and Opossums or Destroying Their Dens During Certain Hours of the Day.

Sec. 1. It shall be unlawful to kill any raccoon or opossum, or needlessly destroy, break or interfere with any den or lair of any raccoon or opossum, or to set fire to, burn or otherwise mutilate any tree, living or dead, stump or log for the purpose of killing or destroying in any way any such raccoon or opossum at any time of the year, between one hour before sunrise and one hour after sunset.

Sec. 2. All Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed as to such inconsistency only.

Approved March 23, 1931.

2381. Sec. 24. Swivel or Pump Gun; Artificial Light; Dogs with Bells, Etc., Unlawful to use in Hunting:—It shall be unlawful to shoot at or kill any birds or animals protected by the laws of this State with any device, swivel or pump gun, or with any gun other than which is habitually raised at arm's length and fired from the shoulder, or to pursue or kill the same, except frogs, raccoons, opossums, skunks, minks and otters, with the aid of any artificial light or lantern, or to hunt with dog or dogs wearing bell or bells or other noise producing device. Having such gun or lantern in one's possession while hunting, or having dog or dogs wearing bell or bells, or other noise-producing device in one's possession while hunting shall be prima facie evidence of an offense against this section.

2381a. Sec. 24a. It shall be unlawful to use any blencer or noise-reducing contrivance on any gun, rifle or firearm while hunting for game or fowl, under a penalty of twenty dollars ($20.00) for each offense.

2382. Sec. 25. Ground Covered With Snow; Unlawful to Hunt While; Exceptions:—It shall be unlawful to hunt, kill, take, or destroy any birds or animals protected by the laws of this State except muskrats, skunks, minks and otters, while there is snow upon the ground, in such condition that any such bird or animal may be tracked therein, or to track any such bird or animal in the snow, or to have in possession any such bird or animal that has been hunted, killed, destroyed or taken as aforesaid, under a penalty of twenty dollars ($20.00) for each bird or animal protected by the laws of this State, so hunted, killed, destroyed or had in possession.

SPRAY NOTES

Apples

No disturbing change in orchard pests has occurred since the last letter. Apple Scab has not shown any further secondary development. The present infection should be watched carefully especially with any change to extreme wet weather. The high temperatures caused considerable development of water core with some of the early varieties of apples. Scald also showed up during the month of July. Blotch was troublesome with some of the susceptible early varieties. Bitter Rot has been showing up the past two weeks but where Bordeaux or copper dusts have been used it is well under control.

Dr. Stearns finds that condition of Codling Moth infestation throughout the state are slightly less severe than in 1930 at the same period. In many orchards, where a serious endeavor at control has been made, the fruit is in reasonably good condition and prospects for a crop largely free from worms are encouraging. In general conditions of infestation throughout the United States are much worse than during 1930. Many states in both the East and Middle West report the most severe damage in years. This condition extends even into the Pacific Northwest. Dr. Stearns presents the following seasonal developments of this pest: The first mature first brood larvae were collected from bands, June 25 and the first moths emerged July 9. The first second brood eggs were deposited July 12 and the second brood larvae started hatching July 17. Band collections showed a progressive increase in number of larvae until approximately the end of the third week in July, which was the peak of maturity for this brood in New Castle county and probably likewise in those orchards in which the insect has been controlled by the application of recommended supplementary control measures and by continued thorough and timely spraying. In severely infested orchards, first and second brood activity will be practically continuous throughout the season.

Where washing equipment is available, apply lead arsenate 4 lbs., hydrated lime 5 lbs. to 100 gallons during the week commencing August 3 and August 17 respectively. Where washing facilities are lacking, lead arsenate-lime dust may be substituted. No sticker or spreader should be used at this time. If need for fungicidal spray or dust should arise, recommendations will be issued. Growers are urged to continue their efforts at control.

Peaches

Scab has become more prevalent than Brown Rot and all varieties that will be harvested this month should receive a spray or dust about one week or ten days before harvest. This is specifically for protection of the fruits and should be considered a fruit spray. Do not apply the dust or spray during midday periods when high temperatures prevail. When the water table is low and high temperatures prevail sulphur fungicides will cause defoliation. This shows up most commonly as a marginal disturbance and was generally experienced during the latter part of July.

Use Dry Mix 20 pounds to 100 gallons of water or self-boiled lime sulphur 16-16-100 or 80-20 sulphur-lime dust. Dr. Stearns finds the Curculio very abundant in certain orchards in the Bridgeville district, where sanitary measures last spring received scant consideration. No indication to date as to second brood development, but with continued hot weather the pest has every opportunity to develop. First brood considerably parasitized in New Castle county. Dr. Stearns' observations on the Oriental Fruit Moth showed the first brood, twig feeding larvae were parasitized to the extent of 13 per cent and the second brood to the extent of 79 per cent.

Federal Farm Board Makes Report Public Today

The Federal Farm Board made public today (August 6) the following brief report which is the first of a series of releases dealing with facts concerning agricultural commodities sold cooperatively by farmer-owned local and regional marketing organizations in twelve northeastern states—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and West Virginia.

The figures show the volume of business handled by these cooperatives for the year 1929 and were taken from records compiled following a survey made jointly by the Farm Board, state agricultural colleges, experiment stations, extension services and departments of agriculture.

These figures give cooperatives a complete inventory of their business for the year 1929 and were taken from records compiled following a survey made jointly by the Farm Board, state agricultural colleges, experiment stations, extension services and departments of agriculture.

A general preliminary summary of these figures was made public by the Farm Board on May 20. The details of the survey made in each of the twelve states will be published by the various agricultural colleges.

The volume of dairy products marketed cooperatively in the twelve northeastern states outtranks all other agricultural products sold cooperatively in that area. This was revealed in a recent survey of 1929 business handled by farmer-owned and controlled marketing organizations in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia.

Ninety-five cooperative marketing associations, serving 126,100 farmer members, marketed dairy products valued at $228,611,428. The sales amounted to 55.8 per cent of the total cash income of $408,000,000 received from dairy products sold by farmers in that area. Fifty-eight of the ninety-five associations handled fluid milk and cream valued at 96 per cent of the total sales of cooperatively marketed dairy products; the sales of twenty-six associations whose major product was butter constituted only about 1 per cent of the total sales; nine cooperative cheese associations sold about 1 per cent of the total, and miscellaneous products, including condensed milk, made up the remaining 2 per cent of the sales.

Below are the total 1929 sales figures of cream, butter, cheese and other products, handled by dairy cooperative marketing associations in each of the twelve northeastern states:

New York,	$91,814,840
Pennsylvania,	49,764,973
Vermont,	29,451,577
Connecticut,	14,616,792
Maryland,	14,297,891
Massachusetts,	9,503,738
New Hampshire,	5,209,764
Maine,	5,101,319
New Jersey,	4,609,261
Delaware,	2,592,157
Rhode Island,	910,000
West Virginia,	347,527
Total	$228,611,428

Most of the butter and cheese factories in these states have been gradually displaced by fluid milk plants during the last fifteen years. The majority of the remaining factories are in the surplus milk-producing areas of northern New York and northern New England.

When the survey was made the dairy associations were engaged primarily in marketing dairy products; only two of the ninety-five handled supplies. Eight regional fluid milk cooperatives, with a membership of 110,187 farmers, operating in Boston, Hartford, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, New York, Philadelphia and Washington, sold $197,005,222 worth of dairy products. In addition, two of these associations marketed a substantial amount of milk and cream for producers located in Ohio and Virginia.

The survey shows that the Dairy-men's League Cooperative Association, Inc., selling dairy products in New York City and other markets in New York State, operates 240 country plants. It owns most of these plants. An expansion program now being developed by the league will increase the organization's marketing facilities. The other seven of the eight regional associations are of the bargaining type, selling producers' milk at wholesale to distributors who own all facilities. In 1929 the total assets of all associations amounted to $30,812,395, and liabilities other than capital amounted to $9,685,181, giving a net investment of $21,127,214. Each of these associations forms in effect a centralized regional organization covering a milk shed around market centers in the northeastern states.

The organizations operating in Baltimore and Washington have associated themselves into a central selling agency, retaining their identity. In only one market, New York, do the dairymen have more than one large association operating in the same territory. In addition to these fluid milk associations that may be regarded as regional there are many independent local cooperatives marketing fluid milk. The largest of these groups are located in Vermont and supply fluid milk to Boston and nearby cities. The New England Milk Producers Association and local organizations have associated themselves into one regional. This regional is known as the New England Dairies, Inc. It will serve New England, excepting Connecticut which has an association covering that state and whose markets are somewhat independent of the Boston area.

There are many independent local cooperatives operating in New York that are competing with one another and with the large organizations. Bringing all of these associations together would materially assist milk producers in New York and northern Pennsylvania. The large fluid milk cooperatives mentioned handle from 50 to 98 per cent of the fluid milk supply in their respective territories. It is estimated that an average of approximately 70 per cent of the milk in these areas is handled by the large regional fluid milk cooperatives. If independent locals now selling fluid milk in these markets could be brought together with the large milk organizations, this figure probably would be increased 5 to 10 per cent.

A comparatively small amount of cheese and butter is handled by the cooperative associations in northeastern states. Approximately $2,000,000 worth of each of these products was handled by cooperatives in 1929. It is believed that any attempt to associate the butter and cheese cooperatives into regional organizations would offer little advantage to dairymen of that area. The best plan likely would be to bring these commodity organizations into the fluid milk associations.

Facts for Farm Folks

RED MITES

By Prof. H. D. Munroe

house infested with mites, will not do well. The poultry mite is a blood sucker. They work at night when the birds are on the roost. They are the bed bugs of the chicken. Fight them continually all summer.

Painting the roost every two weeks with used crank-oil will eliminate this source of trouble. Don't dilute this oil with kerosene. Put it on thick. There are many commercial preparations on the market that will do a good job and will not harm the birds as often.

SOAPY SPRAY USED AS BEETLE WEAPON

Tests Prove Value of Combining Contact With Stomachic Poisons In Mixture certain forms of soaps and poisons combined as a weapon successful—unable against numerous other insects that prey upon vegetation of all kinds.

To those who know the life history of the Japanese beetle and also to those who know the anatomy of this and other insect life the effectiveness of soapy poisons is an open book; Japanese beetles are killed by both stomachic and contact poisons, the stomachic poisons being taken into the stomach when consumed as food and by contact in entering the blood stream through the respiratory organs (small trachea distributed along the sides of the bugs through which air is carried direct to the blood), death following in due course, the time required to kill depending upon the available supply of poison.

In a test at Moorestown soaps of various makes were thoroughly worked out and the kill, with pyrethrum soap, was 65 per cent, the greatest kill with any soapy poison reaching 70 per cent—pyrethrum soap was comparable with other soaps with a kill as low as 2 per cent. Pyrethrum soap has none of the disagreeable odors of some other soaps.

Pyrethrum soap is always liquid and instantly mixes with water. This pyrethrum soap is used for the destruction of many garden, farm and tree insects which attack soil, bulbs, roots and foliage.

Scouts Having Busy Summer

Camp Caesar Rodney, operated by Wilmington Council, B. S. A., has been filled to capacity this summer and indications are that the fourth and last period which starts Monday, August 10th, will be filled.

Fourteen Newark Scouts have already been in attendance and a new contingent consisting of Vernon West, Neal Smyth, Orville Richardson and William Richardson have registered for the last period. This is the first year that over one-half of the Newark Troop has been enrolled in camp. Many of the boys have been so delighted with the life in camp that they have stayed for an extra period. Jack Geist has been appointed a Junior Leader and will be in camp for the entire season.

The local Troop Committee held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, August 4th. Scoutmaster T. A. Baker gave his annual report in which he stated that thirty-five scouts were re-registering for the current year and that over half of the scouts in the troop had advanced in rank during the past year. Assistant Scoutmaster C. Vernon Steele proposed a picnic and a trip to Chadds Ford for the month of August. Both the Troop Committee and Troop will participate in these activities.

During July the scouts made two trips to Philadelphia to attend ball games as the guests of the Philadelphia Athletics. The regular troop camp will be held at Lovers' Retreat over Labor Day week-end in accordance with the custom of past years.

Big Bargains In Houses in Elkton

$10,000 Homes Sold For $500

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which bought a number of residences on either side of North street, Elkton, in order to make a number of vast improvements to its line through Elkton, including the removal of the sharp and dangerous curve between the North street crossing and Big Elk Creek bridge, has sold a number of the buildings to local parties.

The price received for each of the houses was $500. The company paid as high as $10,000 for some of them. The new owners will be required to remove the buildings at once.

MERCANTILE LICENSES SHOW $10,000 DROP

A decrease of $10,000 during June and July over the receipts for the same months of last year for State mercantile and professional licenses was reported recently at the office of the Clerk of the Peace, John L. Wright.

The total revenue from receipts during June and July this year was reported at $91,733.21 whereas last year during the same period, a total of $100,459.15 was collected. This means a loss in that period to the State from New Castle County alone of approximately $10,000.

The falling off in the receipts is due, Mr. Wright stated, to decreases in the volume of goods turned out by local manufacturers and in the gross volumes handled by local mercantile houses, wholesale and retail.

Despite the loss in receipts, Mr. Wright said that there has been an increase in the number of licenses taken out.
