Summer School Has Almost 350 Students; Biggest In History

359 Enrolled Up to This Morning—Almost All From Del.—Newark Sends 18

ORPHEUS CLUB OPENS LECTURE SERIES THURS.

The 1924 session of the six weeks summer course for teachers maintained by the University of Delaware opened officially Monday morning with the largest enrollment in the history of the school. Three hundred and fifty-nine students have been admitted up until this morning, and it is said by officials in charge that at least 15 more will drift in during the week.

Compared to this banner attendance, the former years are quite a bit behind. Since the inception of the present type of summer school back in 1914, however, the enrollment has grown each year, with the exception of the war period. A brief survey of the attendance shows the following comparison:

1920	157
1923	325
1924 (incomplete)	359

Local Students

Of the 332 registered Monday 302 were from this State, 29 from adjoining counties in Maryland and one from Pennsylvania. There are 55 registered from Wilmington, 64 from rural New Castle county, 60 from Kent county and 121 from Sussex county.

Newark has sent so far 18 students, as follows: Marion Cornelia Gallagher, Lora Little, Alice W. Hutton, Ida L. Kimble, Evelyn T. Kimble, Anna Roberta Bland, Mrs. Marian Lovett Newton, Hazel Sergeant Collins, Mrs. E. Newman Rose, Emilie P. Carpenter, Irma R. Jaquette, Sarah Elizabeth Potts, Alice E. Jaquette, Anna Elizabeth Frazer, Anna Elizabeth Crooks, Sarah F. Steel, Martha R. Straborn, Mrs. Jennie Raub Frazer.

Those from Hockessin who registered Monday are: Cora Mae Kimble, Mae Winfred Keidel and Mrs. Anna M. Hobson.

Cecil County, Maryland, took quite a boost in the enrollment this year, sending 16 teachers to the summer session divided among the towns as (Continued on Page 4.)

"ONTO THE WABASH"

The Lowly Wheelbarrow Makes Its Debut as Tourist Wagon Here Monday

Memories of the Covered Wagon days, the Gold Rush of '49, and the prairie homesteader came tumbling back Monday to those Newarkers in whose breasts still burn the fires of Romance and Adventure. The spectacle was real; it was earnest.

On January 24th last, J. R. Leddy, his wife and two children, Hilda Rose, aged 4 years and 4 months, and Irving, aged 2 years and 1 month, left St. Petersburg, Florida. Just five months later to the day they arrived in our own Newark. Slow, you say? Pray consider their equipage.

The Leddys are walking. Ahead they are pushing, in turn, their "Covered Barrow," nothing more, nothing less. It's a plain, old wheelbarrow, covered to keep out the weather, and squeaky, as are all wheelbarrows. Behind them, they drag another American family institution—the express wagon. Not very romantic, you say? But different, you must admit.

To the Hoosier State

Day in and day out they have tramped. Every inch of the way, Mr. and Mrs. Leddy are heading for good old Indiana. It appears that it might just as well be Timbuctoo, for, as they put it, they are "jes travellin'." From Newark they will head towards New York, thence to lower New England, to Niagara Falls, to Buffalo, and on to the banks of the Wabash, the home of Jim Watson, Riley and a million Hoosiers. When they get to their destination, it's a safe bet they will buy more wheelbarrows and start out again. They smilingly admit they love the open road; then the smile fades to be replaced by wistfulness. They want a little home, somewhere, anywhere. And they are making these trips pay (Continued on Page 4.)

HEALTH BOARD LAB WILL SOON BE MOVED

Meeting In Dover Yesterday Confirms Rumors of Past Weeks

As a result of a meeting of the State Board of Health, in the offices of the Health and Welfare Commission in Dover yesterday, it appears that rumors of closing of the State laboratory here have been well founded. An effort to locate Dr. Robert Middlebrook, the new Director of the laboratory here failed this morning. It is understood, however, that the decision to move the laboratory was definitely made yesterday in Dover, and that only the details remain to be worked out.

Where the scene of the work will now be is a mystery, although many believe Dover will be the town decided upon. Secretary Davis of the Health Commission is said to have presided over the meeting yesterday.

The proposed move on the part of the Commission is meeting with considerable criticism and opposition both in Newark and other parts of the State.

There are others, however, who believe the change will work to the advantage of the Board.

LIGHTNING BOLT FIRES BARN ON WHITE CLAY CREEK ROAD

A bolt of lightning struck the big barn on the old Hossinger farm along White Clay Creek road near Newark about four o'clock this afternoon, and within half an hour, the building was a mass of flames. The farm is owned by George Green. The stock was saved. Fire menaced a nearby granary, also, but further damage was averted. The house was too far away to be in danger. Firemen with their truck had difficulty getting to the scene because of the muddy road, and lack of water hampered their fight.

STORM CREATES HAVOC

Great damage to trees, chimneys and wires were caused by the storm. Streets were strewn with debris, and many large trees were blown down. The Academy grounds were a mass of broken branches. A chimney atop Mechanical Hall at the University collapsed under the strain. Wires were down, and the town was without light or power for several hours. It was the worst gale Newark has experienced in years.

A storage silo at the United Canneries plant here was lifted bodily from its foundation and tossed over by the wind. During the height of the storm, a big tree fronting the property of George Casho on Main street was blown down. No one was injured.

Trees and shrubbery were leveled throughout the community by a 70-mile gale. By five o'clock the storm was over.

Tons Of Supplies Ready For Carnival Of Newark Firemen

New Century Club to Cooperate With Aetna Co. to Help the Cause

EXPECT TEN COMPANIES AT "VISITORS' NIGHT"

Literally tons of handsome and useful prizes are stored away awaiting the opening of the annual Carnival of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company of Newark, which opens on Saturday night, July 5, for a week of excitement. These supplies do not include the major awards, but are to be given away at the various booths on the Academy grounds.

John R. Fulton, general chairman of the Carnival this year, and his aides have purchased many new and attractive articles for the booths. There will be 800 blankets ready on the opening night, together with 600 pounds of candy. In addition to these most popular awards there will be scores upon scores of silver sets, aluminum kitchen articles, lamps, smokers' sets, bathrobes, rugs, and traveling bags.

The biggest award will be the big new 1924 Buick Touring Car on display now at a local garage.

Arrangements are also being made to provide some lucky person with a real live pony. Other free awards will be a kitchen cabinet, refrigerator, 9 by 12 rug, cedar chest, several floor lamps and rocking chairs.

Century Club To Help

The Newark Century Club, under the leadership of Mrs. J. P. Cann, is planning to actively help the firemen in this year's event. The club ladies met this afternoon with Mrs. Bayard Perry, chairman of the women's division of the carnival, and her aides, at Mrs. Cann's, for final decisions. It is understood that the Club will maintain a booth on the grounds with home-made delicacies as its feature.

Although many people believe this is the first time the Century Club has entered into the Carnival, it will be remembered by older residents that the first sprinkler purchased by the Aetna Company came through the proceeds of a series of "Country Fairs" held in the rear of the College, and supplemented by blackface minstrel and vaudeville in the old Oratory of Old College Hall. So, after a lapse of many years, the club ladies are back on the job.

Firemen's Night

The Continental Band of Newark has been engaged to furnish music each night of the Carnival.

On Thursday evening, the 10th, visiting companies will take over the town. A big parade in which they will compete for three valuable prizes is being arranged. Chairman Fulton said he expected 10 companies and several bands. Twenty companies were invited.

Magistrate Daniel Thompson of this place issued a marriage license Monday last to Miss Mary E. Potts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Potts, of Newark, and Mr. Eddie L. Miller, of Coatesville, Pa.

Raymond M. Upton Drowns In Elk River; Body Recovered After 36 Hour Search

Director of Rehabilitation School Here Succumbs to Exhaustion at Chesapeake Haven, Md., Sunday—Gallant Rescue Attempt Fails

—Evening Journal

RAYMOND M. UPTON whose tragic death by drowning last Sunday cast a pall of sorrow over the community.

SERVICES HERE FOR RAYMOND W. UPTON

Members of the Rehabilitation Division of the University, Faculty members and many townspeople, joined with the bereaved family in brief but impressive service over the body of Raymond W. Upton, in the Methodist Episcopal Church here at 1 o'clock today.

Rev. Frank Herson had charge of the services and conducted an inspiring half hour's devotion. He read passages from the Scripture and the 23rd Psalm. In a prayer, he referred to the dead Director as a loyal church member, and offered thanks for the "Godly example of his life." The services closed with a recital of Tennyson's immortal "Crossing the Bar," and the benediction. The body was then transported to West Chester, where further services were held at 4 o'clock.

The altar of the church here was banked high with floral offerings of great beauty. Among them were wreaths from the University Faculty, Rehabilitation students, and from Hiram Lodge, A. F. and A. M. of Newark.

GET $4000 AT CARNIVAL

Money Will Be Used By Lodges For Building and For The Poor

General Chairman William S. Armstrong reported yesterday that the proceeds from the recent joint carnival given by local Red Men and Heptasophs amounted to about $4000. The money, he said, will be used toward a building fund, and a part of it will go towards the relief for the needy of the community, a custom which the lodges have been maintaining.

Mr. Armstrong also desires to thank through the columns of THE POST, those in the community who helped make the carnival a success.

Attend Conference

Dean Charles A. McCue, M. O. Pence, C. R. Runk and George L. Schuster, all of the Experiment Station here, were recent guests at a conference of farmers held at State College, Pa. The Delaware agricultural solons traveled with great velocity and agility in Mr. Schuster's Ford. They report a most enjoyable visit of several days, including the pleasure derived from passing expensive cars on mountainous roads.

R. R. Sues For Theft

It was reported this morning that attorneys for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad are bringing suit for the recovery of an auto load of furniture, which they claim was stolen from a freight car during the wreck at Elk Mills last week. Rumor has it that several Elk Mills youths figured in the theft. The hearing is expected to be held in a few days.

Sinking from exhaustion in the ebbing tide of the lower Elk River at Chesapeake Haven, Md., Raymond Melville Upton, for the past four years director of the Rehabilitation Division of the University of Delaware, came to an untimely death Sunday afternoon last. The tragedy occurred while one of his companions was swimming to his aid, and two others standing on shore, powerless to aid.

The body was found floating at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning by a searching party, 500 yards from the scene of the drowning. Friends of Mr. Upton from Newark, members of the crew of a Government bay patrol boat, and nearby fishermen worked all day Monday in an effort to locate the body. Several charges of dynamite were exploded in the vicinity to raise it. A searching party in a small boat spent all Monday night on the scene.

Services were held over the remains in the Methodist Church here this afternoon at one o'clock. Later in the afternoon further services were held at Mrs. Upton's home in West Chester, Pa., and interment made in that town.

Gallant Rescue Attempt

Mr. Upton, in company with Warren A. Singles, O. W. Mosher, Jr., instructor at the University, and George L. Baker, assistant chemist at the Experimental Laboratory in Wolf Hall, were at Chesapeake Haven on a swimming party Sunday, leaving Newark shortly before noon. They were enjoying hugely the warm waters of the river, and all were in the best of spirits.

Leaving the others on shore, Messrs. Upton and Baker waded out a score of yards or more on the gradual slope of the beach, and then struck out for a swim together. They swam for several yards side by side, still able to touch bottom. Then Baker bore to the right and made for the end of the old pier which juts down into the water. In the meantime, Upton swam out a bit further, then turned, and called to Baker that he was going back to shore. At this time Baker was struggling up the end of the slippery pilings and was almost exhausted himself when he suddenly heard a cry for help from his companion.

Without hesitating an instant, Baker threw in a plank and then dove in himself. He churned the water in a desperate attempt to reach Upton, but the latter sank with his chin's name on his lips. Baker was within 150 feet of him when the end came. By this time, Messrs. Singles and Mosher were running out the pier, towards the scene. Baker, feeling himself weakening from exhaustion, pulled for safety. He was completely worn out.

Several youths sitting on the end of the pier were said to have assured Upton that he could go several yards further without getting beyond his depth. On the other hand Baker warned him to keep closer to shore, as he was only a fair swimmer. It is believed that the dead man, finding himself beyond his depth, began to struggle shoreward, became exhausted and collapsed.

The first inkling of the tragedy came through a phone message sent to Newark by Mr. Singles. Lester W. Tarr, state chemist here, upon receipt of the message, immediately notified Dean McCue and Mrs. Upton, who at the time was visiting in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Early Monday morning, Dean McCue, L. W. Tarr, C. R. Runk, Mr. Singles and Mr. Baker went back to Chesapeake Haven to supervise the search for the body. A reward of $100 was offered for its recovery. During the day a government boat crew exploded dynamite in the waters of the river.

After the body was brought ashore Tuesday morning, E. C. Wilson was notified and took charge. The remains were brought to Elkton for the inquest and later in the day arrived in Newark.

HOORAY FOR ME!

BY MR. JOE SPIVUS

For those who don't read nothing but the pictures in the papers, I am privileged to announce that the Democrats are on the front page again—bein' the first time they has been there since the League of Nations was suspended from Organized Baseball.

They is in convention assembled trying to find somebody to run second next November. Now as far as I can gather from the Public Press, this here man has got to be (1) Dry, (2) for light wines and beer, (3) against the Kluxers, (4) willing to have them around. These is a few of the stands he will take. In addition, he must be able to make sixteen speeches a day, in which he will say in sixteen different ways, what would happen to the country if the Republicans get elected again. Outside of these measurements, they don't care who he is, so long as he wears that pained look of a martyr, like dear old Grape Juice Bill.

All eyes is turned on Delaware this week. The Demos. here has got two men who they says will do all these tricks and if necessary walk the tightrope to get to the "Workhouse" in Washington. Mr. Saulsbury is the choice of the swamp dwellers and muskrat hunters of Kent and Sussex, while Mr. Davis is the highbrows' athlete, with the distinguished Every Evening blowin' his laud and raucous horn. It ain't often, folks, that one state has two favorites like this.

I just heard over the radio today some Democrat boss out West say that he thought Saulsbury was a cigarette maker, not a politician, and moved that he take time to get acquainted. They say that if somebody poisons all the leading candidates, Saulsbury has a chance to be secretary of Agriculture.

I advise Republican radio fans to put their machines out of order this week, for they're in for a turrible tongue-lashin'.

The Lesson This Week
They's no use breakin' your neck passing a Ford on the road; there's always another one just ahead of you.

WORKING ON NEW ROAD

Newark-Kemblesville Section Delayed
By Wet Weather

Although seriously hampered for the past few weeks by weather which made the road an impassable mire, the Lincoln Highway construction company, contractors for the 3 1/4 mile stretch of road between the Delaware line and a point just south of Kemblesville, Pa., are now making the dirt fly. The grading work has not been finished, but with good weather it will not be many days before the concrete will be laid. The grading gang is now working in the vicinity of the Garrett farm.

During the protracted rainy spell recently, two or three trucks belonging to the company were stuck in the mud near the Newark end for almost a whole week. The contractors have experienced every difficulty imaginable to road building. Stone and materials must be hauled from Newark, and the success of the company depends entirely on the weather.

MILLS ARE STILL DULL

Prospects for Decreased Production
During Summer Increase

A recent inquiry into the let up among all three local mills shows that the situation remains about the same as three weeks ago. The National Vulcanized mill is still working on part time, usually four or five days per week. As far as can be learned no more men have been laid off at the Continental mill.

The prospects for a continued let down during the summer months appear to be increasing. Optimistic ones predict a general revival of business in the Fall.

"Horse Sense is more reliable than Horse Shoes"

Centuries ago, in the age of superstition, the horseshoe was widely employed as an omen of good luck. That old tradition has endured and there are still many who are "trusting to luck" to "strike it rich."

But the wise ones build on a more solid foundation than luck. They use common horse sense and save a part of their income. Do you?

STRAWBERRY PRICES STEADILY GOING DOWN

Strawberry growers of the Eastern Shore are not going to realize very much from their crop this year, and many of them, it is said, are going to be lucky if they get enough out of them to pay for their crates, picking and the labor spent on growing them.

This week the bottom dropped out of the market and some of the good quality of fruit was selling on an average of 6 cents per quart box or $1.92 per 34 quart crate.

Growers are paying the pickers from 2 1-2 to 3 cents per quart, or at the rate of 96 cents a crate, and when this is added to the cost of the crate, amounting to 32 cents, the average cost per crate is $1.28. When fruit is selling for $1.92 per 32 quart crate, the grower has only 64 cents left for his labor in cultivating them during the fall and early spring, time lost in hauling them in many instances 6 and 7 miles to the markets, high cost of fertilizers and the use of the land. Growing berries in these days of high cost of production for 64 cents per crate is a losing proposition to the farmers; and unless there is a sharp advance in price sometime during the week, many growers are going to lose money and the result is going to be a decrease in acreage next year.

Another Idol Shattered

"Though one of Democracy's axioms is that it provides freedom of speech, the Convention hit a terrific blow at free speech before adjournment today.

"On motion of Senator David I. Walsh, Massachusetts, introduced by the temporary chairman, Pat Harrison, a resolution was adopted that all resolutions presented to the Convention are to be referred to the Resolutions Committee without reading or debate."

Here falls another idol: We can't conceive of a Democrat not talking—at a Convention.

Don't Forget

Don't forget the Orpheus Club with Frank Palmer and Noah Swayne. Newark welcomes them always.

Must Adhere To Truth

"As human beings, whatever may be our party, we are bound to differ on many subjects; but as good citizens we can unite to demand from those who represent us in political debate that they present our differences honestly and not from the standpoint of passion and prejudice. The man who distorts facts—the man who preaches a pleasant doctrine to one portion of our people and another pleasant but absolutely inconsistent doctrine to another portion is a menace to the safety of our fundamental institutions. As good citizens, irrespective of party, we must demand from our political leaders a strict adherence to the truth, including the disagreeable truth."—Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for Vice-President, in Chicago address.

Common Sense Demanded

"An orgy of demagogism has been running rife in the world, and we here in the United States are feeling its devastating effects. All good Republicans and all good Democrats who put their country above their party demand the beginning of an era of common sense in public discussions."—Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for Vice-President, in Chicago address.

The President on The Constitution

"There is no greater obligation on the community than that of properly educating its youth, of training its future citizens for the duties which in their time they must assume. The world has always contained a dangerously large proportion of people who have believed that the way of progress was by way of destruction. They are commonly in a minority, but a distressingly active and determined minority. They would begin the reconstruction of human affairs by tearing down everything that has thus far been erected. It seems as if well-nigh every generation in modern times is destined to try some of these experiments in reorganization by the process of utter disorganization. * * * The only assurance against their machinations is to be found in the inculcation among the people of sound ideals.

This is a fair comment on the trend of the times and the weakness of human nature and human society. In American history, every period has had its discontented factions, its professional reformers. The adoption of the federal Constitution was a battle against those who refused to profit by experience or to learn from the lessons of history. The struggle to establish and work out the principles of the Constitution was against the strong tide of so-called reform, determined simply to change "what is."

Civil government, like life itself, is a process of development, beginning with fundamentals inherent in human existence. No principle has endured that is antagonistic to human welfare. No social or political organization among men is or ever can be perfect; but that which endures builds on what is worth while already.

Our own federal Constitution was well-nigh wrecked in civil strife, because a minority desired to destroy what already existed and start something new. This obsession has not departed altogether; and even now not a few seek to discard the fundamentals upon which our national structure is reared and again experiment with what have hitherto proved false.

There are minorities or "blobs" in Congress, and minorities in sections, filled with discontent, and imbued with the false notion that Congress can wave a magic wand, cure all political and economic ills and create wealth by a mere

"Be IT ENACTED."

In many of the committee rooms in Congress today repose hundreds of bills offered by these minorities, which, if enacted into law, would strike at the very foundation of our institutions and overthrow the financial and economic principles upon which the republic is built.

There never was a greater need of properly educating and training the citizens of the land in the basic principles of the Constitution, the powers of Congress under the Constitution and the duties and obligations of citizenship, than now.

Sound ideals of government must be in harmony with sound ideals of human existence, individual liberty consistent with duties and obligations to others, the common defense and the general welfare. Sound ideals include sound money, sound morals and sound patriotism.

After all, whatever success this nation has enjoyed is due to the self-restraint and moderation of the majority, and the silent yet effective determination of that majority to check the tendency toward destructive and radical notions.

Our public schools and higher institutions of learning should teach the simpler ideals, founded on conscience, confidence and common sense.

Often it seems as if our modern education was altogether cold and "scientific," too far removed from the human side of life and too much absorbed in materialism, if not agnosticism and atheism.

Ideals of government must be saturated with human interest, self-sacrifice and personal nobility. They are not mere theories or scientific formulas. Citizens are not mere people to be catalogued and classified according to some scientific dogma. They are the living and throbbing heart of the republic. To them, the Constitution is not a rule of law, but a guide to personal conduct and personal relationship to each other.

As a Foreign-Born Citizen Sees It

Americans who have never known living conditions other than the sort common in this country, would do well to occasionally enter casually into conversation with some man born and reared in Europe before coming to the United States to better himself. The writer did that and here is what the man said in substance:

"Americans eat white bread all the time which is something that cannot be said of any other people in the world I think; certainly not of the people of Poland where I came from. In America people eat too much; they hurt themselves that way. In the Old World when a man eats it is to satisfy his craving for food. His palate is not tickled by sweet things and his nose is not assailed by appetizing odors of cooking chickens and the like and as a consequence he does not overeat. He might if he had the fancy food that everybody has in the United States. But people abroad do not have the good food that we all eat here, they live plainly.

"In Europe soup and black bread and a very little meat once a week or so constitutes the diet of the masses. There the farmers sell the chickens and pigs and eggs and all the produce that they can find a market for. They do not eat the good things they produce for market because they cannot afford to. Here it is different. The American farmer eats what he likes and sells the rest—if there is any left.

"You know that in Europe the people have small farms and big families and they have to save everything they can in order to get along. The children are dressed as cheaply as possible and the houses are small and poorly furnished because the people cannot afford the things that everybody has in the United States. I live here on as good food as Rockefeller has, but in Europe the rich man has, in the line of food, what the poor man can never have. This is a wonderful country. Americans do not appreciate what a great land they have. I would never go back to Poland. I could not stand it after having lived in the United States."

What the imported citizen had to say is not new. It has been told many times, but it is repeated here in order to impress upon the native reader, who finds fault with things in this country, the vast difference between his condition and that of the common citizen of other lands. Only a simpleton, who thinks that somewhere else are living conditions better for the average individual, kicks about life in this favored land.

As the man quoted said, here the poor have what only the rich are able to get abroad.

Here the farmer has plenty of land and when he has eaten as much of his produce as he cares for he sells the remainder.

And the people who eat what the farmer raises get so much money by a few hours of work that they overeat—which is a great national vice—and many of them die between forty-five and sixty who would have lived to seventy or better had they controlled their appetites. It is so easy to eat in the United States and the food is so plentiful and the money with which to buy it is so quickly obtained.

There is nothing like it elsewhere in the wide world.

And yet we have among us a large number of people who turn a willing ear to demagogues like Bob La Follette who tells them that they are oppressed and that if they will keep him in office that he will better their living conditions. He is just a plain damn liar and those who listen to him and vote as he directs are silly donkeys.—New York Commercial.

SUMMER SCHOOL HAS 350 STUDENTS follows: Elkton, 6; North East, 3; Perryville, 2; and one each from Charlestown, Havre de Grace, Principio, Aiken and Warwick. Those from Elkton in attendance are: Ada M. Barr, Flora Davis, Blanche Emma Ford, Elizabeth C. Maloney, Ella Maloney and Lillian Russell.

In order to handle the heavy influx of students, officials of the University had prepared every room in Harter Hall for occupancy. Out of the 360 odd students so far enrolled, about 200 will reside in the dorms; 12 or 15 are boarding with private families in town, and the balance are commuting. Rooms at the Women's College are being pressed into service to handle the situation.

The 1924 Evening Lecture Series provided in connection with the Summer School by the Service Citizens of Delaware, will open on Thursday evening with a concert given by the Orpheus Club of Wilmington. For three successive years an effort has been made by the Service Citizens to bring the opportunity to hear this group to the teachers of Delaware. It has never before, however, been possible to arrange a summer concert.

Noah Swayne, Soloist.
The soloist at the concert is to be a man inspired by the same motives as those which have given to Delaware the Orpheus Club. Noah Swayne, bass, Philadelphia, who will be with the Club, is not strictly speaking a professional singer, although his work compares with many of the leading professionals in the country. He is a prominent business man of Philadelphia, president of the Coal Dealers' Association of that city, who sings not for pay but for the love of it. He has been heard at the University of Delaware at a previous winter concert and the announcement of his return is indeed hailed with enthusiasm by all who heard him. Mr. Swayne is a prominent member of the Orpheus Club of Philadelphia.

Although the concert is given primarily for the benefit of the Summer School students, a cordial invitation is extended to the public. There is little doubt that Wolf Hall will be crowded to capacity in honor of the occasion. The program follows: "The Song of the Jolly Roger," C. F. Chudleigh Candish; "The Music of the Sea," Joseph Mosenthal; "Mother O' Mine," H. T. Burleigh, The Club.

"Bonnie Dundee," Old Scotch; "Over the Steppes," Gretchaninoff; "Kypriis," (Lullaby) Holmes, Mr. Swayne.

"Swabian Folk Song," Johannes

Brahms; "The Bells of St. Mary's," Adams, The Club.

"Farewell," Ephraim Cutter, Jr., The Club and J. Frank Ayres.

"The Hundred Pipers," Arranged by Arthur Whiting, The Club and Mrs. Riggs-Hanby, assisting accompanist.

Negro Spirituals: "Go in the Wilderness," Gest; "Were You There," Manney; "Nobody Knows," Burleigh; "Some o' Dese Days," Guion, Mr. Swayne.

"Summer Evening," (Old Finnish Song) Selim Palmgren, The Club and J. Frank Ayres.

"Old Man Noah," Bartholomew, The Club.

The officers of the club are: President, Frank F. Palmer; Vice-President, William M. Mask, Jr.; Secretary, Beverley R. Gause; Treasurer, Harvey Booker; Librarian, Brenholtz G. Strickland.

ON TO THE WABASH

for it in advance, besides getting them a living. But that's another story.

Hold Forth Here

The quaint little caravan trekked down Main Street Monday afternoon and came to a squeaky halt at the Washington House. In a few minutes a crowd had gathered. By supper-time, the scene had shifted to the Opera House corner, with an even bigger crowd.

In response to questioning, Mr. Ledy deposed and said that he had traveled this way for nearly 7000 miles, had worn out four wheelbarrows, sold his camping outfit at Havre de Grace, Md., to lighten the load on the 'spress wagon; that he was a sign painter by trade, and Irish, begorra.

But his pesky liver wouldn't be good, he said. It began kicking up on him a few years ago, and he underwent a serious operation. As a result of his long illness, his eyesight became affected, and he had to give up his trade. From that day until this, he has been on the road. And just to prove his point, Mr. Ledy gladly showed any of his audience who professed such a desire, the jagged scars of the surgeon's knife.

The Leddys camp out, of course. When they get to sizeable towns, they sell a few post cards for that little house they're going to have in Indiana,—or is it Texas?

Be that as it may, the Leddys are on their merry journey this afternoon, faces set to the future, whatever it may hold; and backs to the past. The old barrow is still squeaking, the 'spress wagon rattling, and the babies gurgling. They're Indiana bound!

"The Origin of the Power of the Supreme Court of the United States to Declare a Law Unconstitutional"

By JOHN G. LEACH

(Essay which won the $100 Saulsbury Prize at University Commencement)

Down in Washington sits the most powerful tribunal in the world. Not only does it interpret the laws of our country, but it also possesses the extraordinary power of declaring unconstitutional laws, which, in the opinion of a majority of its members, are in conflict with our written constitution. This power of declaring null and void a law of Congress is unique in jurisprudence for the reason that in no other country can a law of a legislature be so dealt with. The absolute power of the Court on this particular point is always a source of interest to the foreign student of comparative governments, and in recent years, especially since the advent of social and industrial legislation, there has arisen in this country among certain elements, particularly the more radical, a question as to the validity of this power. While it is not our purpose to discuss the merits of the issue involved, it will probably be useful to inquire into the origin of this power. Is it implied in the Constitution? Did the framers of the Constitution intend for the Supreme Court to have this power? If they did not, when and how was the power first asserted, and by whom?

Early Precedents

The seventeenth and eighteenth centuries showed some remarkable developments in the theory of government. During the period there were spasmodic attempts to create fundamental laws—at least a small minority of political "heretics" believed that "in every good government there should be something fundamental, somewhat like a Magna Charta, which should be standing and unalterable." These attempts failed, but the idea involved lived to find a rebirth and growth in America, incidentally under English government.

In granting charters to the colonies, England began the foundation for our future constitutional structure. For these charters were essentially constitutions—two states, Connecticut and Rhode Island, made only a few formal changes in their corporate charters after the Revolution and they served as state constitutions until 1818 and 1842, respectively. We may say that the fundamental law which became a reality in the colonies in the period between 1780 and 1803 was due in part to the influence of charters. If there was to be a fundamental law, who was to interpret it? It is this phase of the development in which we are particularly interested. Parliament or the organs of Parliament had been the omnipotent power down to the time of the Revolution. "On the ground that they conflicted with the colonial charter or with the laws of England, acts of the colonial legislature were disallowed from Virginia in 1677, from Rhode Island in 1704, from Connecticut in 1705, from North Carolina in 1747, from Pennsylvania in 1760, and from Massachusetts in 1772." By the time of the Revolution it became evident that the legislative power must be limited—a very natural feeling, for oppressed by an omnipotent Parliament it would hardly seem logical that men giving their lives for freedom would turn around and give another legislature unlimited power. The means was at hand. Simultaneously with the growth of the fundamental law idea had come the idea that judges were the guardians of the various constitutions. The beginning of this theory may be traced to the works of Sir Edward Coke (1552-1634) a celebrated English lawyer.

Warm Weather Brings Up The Corn; Local Farmers Feel A Bit Better

With the continuance of the hot wave of the early part of the week, Mr. John Farmer's stock should take on several more points, according to Newark sages.

While the corn season is reported to be anywhere from three to six weeks behind schedule, the spectre of heavy losses seems to have been wafted away by the burning sun of the past few days.

North of Newark, the corn looks to be in splendid shape, while reports from Pencader and across the Maryland line indicate slightly poorer prospects. The stalks are running from eight to twelve inches high in most fields. Needless to say, the farmers are out there working the ground.

Wheat is turning rapidly this week, and in ten days, the binders will be humming down the line. The problem of working the corn and harvesting the wheat and hay at the same time is causing most of the worry to the farmer. In the bigger farms, the labor problem is added to the discountagements.

Hay is weedy, according to reports, and in some localities near Newark, very thin. Tomatoes, a rapidly increasing crop here, are transplanted and doing fine. It is understood that the utmost season's capacity of the United Canneries here is not only contracted for but is in the ground growing.

RAYMOND W. UPTON DROWNED SUNDAY

Notify Relatives

Mrs. Upton, who before her marriage last December was Miss Edna Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer of West Chester, Pa., accompanied by her parents, arrived in Newark Monday from Pittsburgh. All the members of the family were greatly unnerved by the shock, and Mrs. Upton was nearly prostrated.

The dead director's venerable father, H. F. Upton, of Peabody, Mass., arrived here Tuesday morning and was taken to the apartment on Main street where the stricken wife waited. The elder Upton, about 60 years of age, and a frequent visitor to Newark in past years, was shaken with grief. Raymond was his only son, and, since the death of his wife several years ago, was the biggest single factor in his life. Both the father and wife were buoyed up by the news that the body had been found.

The news of the sudden death of Mr. Upton came as a terrible shock to the entire town and community. He was well known not only by his students and the University staff, but by the townspeople at large. He was always fond of athletics, never missing a chance to engage in sports. The deepest sympathy of the community is being extended to the stricken family, and to the chums of the dead man who were with him on the fatal trip.

At the close of the Rehabilitation Division here in October Mr. Upton had planned to accept a position as agricultural economist with the National Department of Agriculture and he and Mrs. Upton were planning to move in the fall.

Mr. Upton was a graduate of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, class of 1915. After graduation he entered agricultural extension work and later became connected with the Veterans' Bureau in Philadelphia. When the Rehabilitation School was started here four years ago, Mr. Upton was transferred by the government to Newark as director of the school. Under his management the school was recognized as one of the best the government had for former service men. More than 400 men who saw service and most of them partly incapacitated as the result of wounds, received instruction in agriculture in the school during the four years.

Mr. Upton played several years on the faculty football team in the annual game with the University seniors and was a lover of most all kinds of sports. Two years ago he was given his master's degree in agriculture by the University of Delaware. For the past four years he had been taking graduate work in forestry, insurance and taxation at the University of Pennsylvania.

The dead man was prominent in Masonic circles of the town and State, being a member of Hiram Lodge here and of St. John's Commandery No. 1, Knights Templar, of Wilmington.

In December of last year he was married to Miss Edna Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer, prominent West Chester residents. A number of local people attended the wedding.

Following their marriage, the Upton's lived in apartments in the residence of Dr. Charles Dunlevy, on Main street.

WILMINGTON FIRM IN 44th ANNIVERSARY

James T. Mullin and Sons A Real Institution

This week marks the forty-fourth year of the business firm of James T. Mullin & Sons, Delaware's largest men's and boys' clothing house.

Since the establishment of the business, three generations of Mullins have actively directed its growth, and as it approaches the 50th year, the firm is becoming more and more the leader in its line on the peninsula.

In commenting editorially on the anniversary this week, the Wilmington Evening Journal says: "We call it an institution because, in the minds of many persons, resident here, throughout the Delmarva Peninsula and in the neighboring sections of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, it is something more than a store, and really is an institution with which they have held business-social relations, so to speak, for many, many years."

DOYLE WINS AUTO

Depot Road Family Death on Carnival Prize Packages—This Makes Two

James Doyle, resident of Depot Road, won the new Durant Sport touring car given away by the Red Men and Heptasophs of the town as the closing feature to their annual carnival Saturday night. The drawing was in charge of William S. Armstrong, and the winning number was pulled from the receptacle by a little girl in the crowd.

This makes the second car in as many years to come to the Doyle family. Mr. Doyle's son-in-law won a Buick sedan at Elkton's Carnival last summer.

Mrs. Edna Woods was awarded a cedar chest; Fred Kenelhardt, an electric floor lamp and Mrs. William Marrs a wicker chair, as additional prizes.

Fight Draws Crowd

Just as the big crowd was at the proper stage of excitement a few minutes before the drawing of the winning car ticket, the scene suddenly shifted to another part of the grounds, where William Crow, of this place, said to have been intoxicated, became involved in an altercation with Mr. Springer, of East Main Street father-in-law of John R. Fulton. According to witnesses, Crow became abusive and threatened to strike the elderly man, but the latter, who had been quietly watching the carnival in progress, stood his ground. It is then said that Crow walked behind him and suddenly struck him. The crowd immediately surrounded Crow and in an instant, the automobile booth was deserted, with "Billy" Armstrong still haranguing the crowd. Chief Lewis, due to his position in the front rank at the booth and to his bulk, had difficulty getting to the scene of the altercation, but when he did get there, he subdued Crow, and ordered him off the grounds. The crowd then went back to gather the details of the free car award. It is reported that Crow has left town.

Arrested For Speeding

W. G. Lockwood of Washington, D. C., was hailed into the local court Monday by Highway Officer Jones, charged with speeding and reckless driving. After hearing the testimony in the case, the Magistrate fined Lockwood $25 and costs.

The institution has had forty-four years of success under James T. Mullin and his sons, and we congratulate the present head and other members of the Mullin family upon having an opportunity to celebrate such a significant anniversary.

No business institution lasts and thrives forty-four years in an enlightened and discriminating community unless it be based upon a high standard of commercial ethics.

AWAIT WORD FOR LEGISLATOR PARTY

Only Ten So Far Accepted For Rehoboth Outing

Arrangements for a proposed reunion of the last Legislature at Rehoboth this summer are progressing slowly, due to the tardiness of the legislators in giving their approval or disapproval to the proposition.

Only ten of the fifty-two members of the General Assembly have so far forwarded to Representative J. Rogers Holcomb, who is chairman of the committee in charge of the proposed meeting, their sentiment concerning the reunion. Of the ten, eight approve of the plan and two disapprove. The two dissenters are from down-State.

If the majority of the legislators favor the reunion, it will be held in the form of a dinner at Rehoboth on Thursday evening, August 14, the week of the encampment of the Delaware National Guard at the resort.

Among the invited guests will be Senators Ball and Bayard, Congressman Boyce, Governor Denney, the chairmen of the two State political committees, and several of the National Guard officers.

The dinner will be held in either the Hotel Henlopen or the Belhaven. No hotel arrangements have yet been made by Mr. Holcomb, however, because of the slowness with which the legislators are answering his letters explaining the plan. The reunion was originally suggested by Lieutenant Governor J. Danforth Bush, who felt that the week of the National Guard encampment would be the most suitable time for such a gathering.

Mr. Holcomb has given the various members of the Senate and House of Representatives until July 1 to give their approval or disapproval of the reunion, which would be the second of the Legislature. The reunion was held last summer at Rehoboth and it proved to be a decided success.

Until he learns the sentiment of the majority of the legislators as being in favor of the reunion, Mr. Holcomb will be unable to proceed with arrangements.

Local Talent Gives Five Points Hard Battle For Saturday's Game

Naylor's Team Pushes Over Run in Ninth to Win 3-2
—High School Players in Newark Lineup

In one of the closest games of the season, Newark lost to Five Points in an exhibition fracas on Frazer Field Saturday last, score 3-2. The game was not scheduled as a league contest, being played to fill in between the two halves of the pennant race.

Manager Ewing took advantage of the off-day to give local talent a chance to shine. Biff Hopkins and Chalmers, both High school players were in the lineup and played good ball throughout. Three Wilmington Church League boys were also playing for Newark, the Shelladay brothers and Paul Garvine.

Ewing ascended the hill for Newark and held the Pointers down without much trouble, but weak hitting and several pieces of foolish base running ruined chances for local scoring.

In the first inning, hits by Vannort, Boyle and Smith, and an error by R. Shelladay in right field sent the Pointers away to a two-run lead. Newark got one of them back, however, when Tribbit singled sharply to right, went to third on Bland's single and scored on a sacrifice fly.

From then on until he sixth, the honors were even, with Ewing and Goebner pitching good ball, and hits scarce.

In the sixth, Bland poled out another hit, stole second, and then was caught flat-footed between second and third on Shelladay's rap to Kerns. In the run down, however, Gerstenberg dropped a throw and Bland got back to second safely. While the Pointers were standing around discussing the play, Bland sprinted for the uncovered third base, drew a wild throw and scored easily, amid the cheers of the crowd, which up to this time had been extremely apathetic.

With one out in the eighth, the same Bland reached first safely, but got his signals mixed and was caught dead on Chalmers' bunt.

The final run of the game was scored by Ike Kerns on his one-base blow, steal of second and A. Miller's hit. Johnny Naylor, the peppery Five Points manager, got in the game the last three innings, catching in place of Pugh. "Rule" Taylor, evidently a home town idol at Five Points, pitched the last three innings for the winners, and looked very good. In fact, Five Points cannot be said to be weak in pitching at any time.

Reggie Rose relieved Ewing in the seventh and kept up the good work. His speed and coolness helped him through several bad situations. With a little more seasoning, he looks ripe for League competition.

Jimmy Thompson, a Westtown Varsity player, home for vacation, also got into the game towards the last, but they wouldn't hit the ball near him. He played second base. A bright Newark rally in the last home stand looked good until Vannort started a fast double play which called the game to a halt.

A small and very quiet crowd greeted the athletes when the game started. Fully one-half of the assemblage came from Five Points. It was a good game, however, and well worth the price. The score:

ELKTON BUMPED OUT OF FIRST PLACE, 5-3

Perryville Turns Trick With Help of One Big Inning
Saturday

Elkton's Susquehanna League entry struck a snag on the journey pennantward Saturday last when they were unceremoniously bumped out of the triple tie for first place by Manager Alexander's Perryville railroaders. The score was 5-3.

One big inning did the trick. Aside from that barrage of enemy bats, the county reuters held the leaders safely at all times. In the second inning, the Perryville boys hopped on the offerings of Clay, and before they could be stopped, had sent five runs across the plate and won the game. It was more maddening to Elkton rooters because of the fact that the railroaders only got five hits in all, but they seemed to come at the worst time.

Arrants, who relieved Clay, had the Perryville team eating out of his hand for the balance of the game. Norris also pitched good ball for the winners. From the second inning on, the game was a continual and desperate effort on Elkton's part to tie the score. Several promising rallies were nipped by good defensive work. Robinson and Rothwell hit best for the losers, while Gill and Crawford had plenty to do on the defense for Perryville.

Providence visited Perryville Saturday and lost two hard-fought games to the home team by the scores of 3-2 and 8-6. BOY LEAVES HOME

Ralph Cunningham, Newport,
Missing Since Thursday

The lure of greater wages that he hoped to receive in the cities is believed to have been the cause of J. Ralph Cunningham, 19 years of age, forsaking his work on his father's farm, near Newport, and leaving home.

Young Cunningham has been missing since last Thursday. He was last seen at 10 o'clock on that morning near the P., B. and W. Railroad station at Stanton, but his father learned from the ticket agent that the youth did not purchase a ticket there.

J. R. Cunningham, the father, said this morning that he believes his son either came to Wilmington by trolley or headed southward on foot. No word has come from the boy since his departure from home.

Ralph is described as being five feet, nine inches in height, and having dark hair and of light complexion. He had often spoken of the wages that he understood could be earned in the cities, and this inducement, with the manifest palling of farm work on him, is believed to have lured him from his home.

"IOWA" RED CEDAR SHINGLES

They Cost Less---

Exaggerated as this statement may seem, yet it is a fact that the cost of a roof is not determined by the relative cost of a bundle of shingles. The difference between "Iowa Brand" High-grade Edge-grain Shingles and the slash-grain product in the bundle is more than offset in the cost of sub-structure, because "Iowa" Edge-grain Shingles will lay more to the weather and will last from three to five times longer. Every half-inch more a shingle is laid to the weather saves approximately 10 per cent. in sheathing strips, sheathing nails, sheathing labor, shingles, shingle nails and labor applying shingles. This fact is obvious because more area is covered by labor in the same time, and less lumber, shingles and nails required.

DAIRY EXHIBIT AT THE FAIR

Plans for the exhibit of dairy cattle at the Delaware State Fair this fall, made at a meeting of the Dairy Cattle Committee of the Fair Association, call for many special in addition to the regular prizes offered and which ought to result in the greatest display of dairy cattle ever seen at any State Fair. Attending the meeting were Harry G. Haskell and Henry J. Krebs and Oliver C. Jones, of Philadelphia, who represents the Eastern Guernsey Breeders' Association; H. G. Twaddell, of Westtown, Pa., and H. E. Grogg, of Elkins, Md. Jersey breeders and T. W. Baughman, of this city, who is interested in Guernseys.

When the question of prize money for Guernseys was discussed, Messrs. Haskell and Krebs, in a friendly debate, agreed to double the $400 pot-up by the Fair directors for Guernsey prizes, each giving $200. This will give $800 for Guernsey prizes. It will enable the committee to arrange for four prizes in each class.

Mr. Baughman, who is interested in what the boys' and girls' clubs are doing to advance the breeding of cattle, offered to give a prize of a full-blooded Guernsey bull calf to the boy or girl, member of a club, in Delaware and adjacent states, who has the best Guernsey cow at the fair.

Mr. William de Post, when informed of what Mr. Baughman and Mr. Krebs and Mr. Haskell had done, offered two special prizes of $25 in cash. One of these will be given to the boy or girl, member of a club, producing the best grand champion and the second $25 to any one, man or woman, boy or girl, for the best Guernsey display. So that in addition to the regular prizes offered in the usual classification, if a boy or girl should have the best Guernsey cow and the best Guernsey display and the best grand champion, they would win a bull calf and $50 in gold.

In order that there may be no questioning the judge's decision, Mr. Twaddell, with Mr. Jones and Lewis P. Randall, secretary of the Fair, will comprise the committee to arrange for the entries. Mr. Twaddell will seek a competent Jersey judge and the Eastern Guernsey Breeders' Association will see that a competent Guernsey expert judges the Guernsey cattle. As now planned the Guernsey and Herford breeds will be judged on Tuesday, the Holstein-Friesians on Wednesday and the Jerseys on Thursday. All the judging will be in a covered ring with seats for spectators and the judging will be explained point by point so that it may be made as much of an educational feature as possible. Although the Guernsey and Jersey exhibits will be elaborate the big feature of the dairy display this year centers about the Holstein show.

ANOTHER HEAVY FINE

Providence Man Rans Afoot the Law Here Saturday

The more or less recent adage that gasoline and liquor can't be mixed was again proven here Monday.

On that day Magistrate Thompson plucked a fine of $200 and costs upon Alvin Parks of Providence, Md., for driving a auto while intoxicated in the streets here Saturday afternoon.

Parks was picked up by Chief Lewis on Main street, and because of his condition and by reason of the fact that he could not raise bail, was lodged in the town jail over the weekend.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Monday and the fine was paid by a friend from Providence. It is understood that Parks is an employee in the paper mill there.

LIBERAL RECKONING

There once was a clerk who worked for an old Scotch merchant, and he computed the profits of the house during the preceding year. The amount was amazing, and the surprised old Scotchman cast his eye over the figures.

"Well," he observed, "ye are certainly a liberal computer; ye've added up the year of our Lord among the pounds!"—London Telegraph.

Coolidge Sayings

Compiled by
ARTHUR McDONALD

We need more of the office desk and less of the show window in politics.

Office holding is the incidental; the standard of citizenship is the essential.

Every man is a politician, whether he will or no, for government does not rest upon the opinions of men but upon their actions.

The development of the State has ever been from anarchy through despotism, through oligarchy, broadened into democracy, and ending in representative government based upon universal suffrage. But many nations have fallen along the way.

Our public schools have made education possible for all and ignorance a disgrace.

Let there be a purpose in all legislation to recognize the right of man to be well born, well nurtured, well educated, well employed, and well paid.

Roosevelt the people looked upon as a reflection of their ideals of true Americanism. He appealed to the imagination of youth and satisfied the judgment of maturity.

Lincoln was in wisdom great, but in humility greater, in justice strong, but in compassion stronger, becoming a leader of men by following the truth. He overcame evil with good.

Laws must rest upon the eternal foundations of righteousness.

Men do not make laws, but discover them.

Laws do not make reforms make laws.

THE ORIGIN OF THE POWER OF THE SUPREME COURT

Chief Justice and Chief Justice, who during the reign of James, urged the supremacy of the common law courts and whose writings the "Institutes" were closely studied by leading lawyers and judges in this country. The influence of the "Institutes" was so great and the fear of legislatures so widespread that by the time of the federal convention the theory of judicial review "had crystallized into a well defined doctrine." An eminent authority has carefully tabulated in chronological order a number of state cases in which the court authority is shown, but these could not be repeated here. Space forbids us to make a detailed survey or examination of all colonial precedents and state cases to support our first statement, but it is generally agreed that by 1789 the principle that state courts could invalidate acts of the legislature and that "in practically every case where there was resistance to judicial decrees invalidating legislative acts the court's opinion and judgment were ultimately accepted and vindicated."

In a recent essay Van Mischewitz points out that by 1800 nine of the thirteen original states had taken a stand for judicial review. If a truly national feeling could be instilled into the hearts and minds of the people, what could be more natural than to transfer the same power to the Federal courts in their interpretation of the constitution?

Did the framers of the constitution intend that the Supreme Court should pass upon the constitutionality of acts of Congress? Here, as elsewhere, we shall have to cull freely from the works of others, particularly the comprehensive research made by Prof. Board of Columbia.

She Blows At Last

It can now be announced that the new steam ship the Astor House House here underwent a lumbering up exercise yesterday afternoon. Experts from the manufacturers, and local officials, however, were convinced that she was not quite in top form, and a small road will be placed over the stern to deflect its mean, down upon the town to a greater degree.

It is understood upon good authority that this is the final struggle, the result of which is expected to put an end to months of delay.

WEDDINGS

Smith-Challenger

Miss June Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Smith, of Newark, and Bradley Robert Challenger, son of Mrs. H. L. Rice, of Claymont, will be married at 6 o'clock Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. Frank Herson, pastor of the Newark Methodist Episcopal Church.

The bride will be attended by Miss Elizabeth T. Challenger, sister of the bridegroom. Norris Smith, a brother of the bride will be best man. Mr. and Mrs. Challenger will make their home in Wilmington. The bride-to-be's many friends in Newark regret her departure. She has been associated with the University of Delaware. Mr. Challenger is a graduate of the University and is now associated with the Wilmington Gas Company.

Building Bandstand

The foundations of the new community bandstand on the Academy lawn are about finished and work will start in a few days on the upper structure. In response to comments on the undesirable location of the stand, back in a corner of the lawn, it has been explained that with the completion of the new High School, the two story east wing of the Academy will be torn down, and the open ground developed into a park, thus giving the bandstand a splendid location.

HOW THE CAT CAME BACK

"Ever try to lose a cat, old man?" "Yes, once. And I hit upon a plan that I thought was sure fire. I wrote a note inclosing $10 and tied it to the cat's neck. The note read: 'Finder may keep both the cat and the money.'"

"And how did it work?" "The cat returned the following day with another note tied to its neck. The note read: 'Don't need the cat, but can use the money. Please send $10 more.'—Boston Transcript.

NUMBER 23

A BRIEF SKETCH OF CHARLES G. DAWES

According to intimate friends and business associates of years' standing, Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Dawes, running mate of Calvin Coolidge on the Republican ticket, is not what one would call a profane man. The nickname, "Hell and Maria" came from Dawes using this expression when he appeared before a Congressional investigating committee which was trying to ascertain whether certain Army expenditures had been regular or not. Dawes, noting that something out of the ordinary had to be done to arouse some of the committee and the press to the fact that the waste of government money was going on every day, adopted heroic measures and shouted, "Hell and Maria, if you men would spend more time trying to stem the millions of waste going on under your noses, instead of looking for flaws in the brilliant record of the Army, we would have a 'Hell and Maria' of a lot better Government." The newspapermen seeing a committee being told the truth in a most emphatic manner about the waste of the people's money, seized upon his "Hell and Maria" exclamation as a good point on which to hang a news story and this secured for Dawes the attention of the citizens of the nation. The explosion awakened the people and they sided with Dawes in his demand to stop the waste. This "cuss" word undoubtedly was the cause of the saving of millions of dollars.

Dawes' career has been a most interesting one. He was born in Ohio in 1865. His father was General Rufus R. Dawes, Commander of the famous Iron Brigade of Wisconsin. "Charley" Dawes worked during his college years as chief engineer on a small railroad in Ohio. He graduated from Cincinnati Law School at the age of 21. In 1887 he moved to Lincoln, Nebraska. A great stream of clients did not come hurrying to the door of his office and odd jobs of engineering during the intervals of clients afforded him money on which to live. The majority of his meals were eaten at a 15c lunch counter conducted by a man named Don Cameron, who catered to university students and struggling young business and professional men. Here Dawes met General John J. Pershing, who had been sent as a "shave-tail" from West Point to drill cadets of the Nebraska State University. This friendship has been further cemented as the years have passed.

After building up a fair law practice, he moved to Wisconsin in 1894, where he became President of the La Crosse Gas Light Company, later moving to Illinois. He was very active in behalf of President McKinley during the campaign of 1896 and later became Comptroller of the Currency under the Ohio President. In 1902 he organized the Central Trust Company of Illinois and it was largely through his personal efforts that many farmers throughout the middle and the Northwest were helped through financial stringencies. He served with distinction in France as Chairman of the General Purchasing Board and showed Europe how American business men can handle big things. He enlisted in the Army, was made a Major of Engineers and came out of the service a Brigadier General. In June, 1921, General Dawes was named as Director of the Budget, accepting the place with the understanding that he could resign at the end of a year. His first year in office resulted in a saving for the year 1922 of $1,600,000,000 of the people's money. Useless expenditures were stopped, superfluous clerks were let go, and some heads of Departments were publicly taken to task for their slack cooperation in behalf of economy in government affairs. He headed what is known as the Dawes Committee of experts to see if order could not be brought out of economic chaos in Europe. His report met with the favor of the German people. It disclosed a way by which they could meet due obligations and yet not be condemned to a life of economic slavery. Strangely enough, the French did not look with disfavor upon his plan and if Germany regains her place in the industrial world, it will be largely because of the calm, sensible, business-like plan worked out by Charles G. Dawes.

While Dawes is dynamic, hard-hitting, and forceful to the extreme, there is an intensely human side to his character. In memory of his son, Rufus, General Dawes erected and operates the Rufus F. Dawes Hotel for Destitute Men, in Chicago. There is also a hotel of like character in Boston. It might be mentioned that clean, comfortable beds in these places can be obtained for 5 and 10c and excellent meals are served at the cost of 7c each, and no man who is "on his uppers" is ever permitted to feel that he is the recipient of charity. A similar institution was founded by Dawes for women.

With Coolidge in the White House and Dawes as Vice-President, the people of the United States can go to bed at night with the feeling that these two men will see that none of their money is wasted and that taxes will be brought to as low a point as it is humanly possible to bring them. Even many democrats in Washington are forced to admit that it is a good, honest, sensible, business-like team that the Republicans have put up to be voted for in November.

REMEDY CONDITIONS AT PERRYVILLE BASE

Veterans Bureau Investigation Prompts Action

Remedial steps have been taken by the Veterans' Bureau as the result of its investigation of conditions at United States Rehabilitation Center, No. 2, Perryville, Maryland.

Tentative steps have been transferred from the barracks they formerly occupied and about which they complained to 14 bungalows which have just been completed. Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau, announced. No change in the personnel of the management of the center was announced but in a formal statement the bureau said General Hines was "giving the situation at Perryville his personal attention and if any employee is found to be at fault corrective measures will be taken immediately."

These steps were taken as the result of an investigation following the complaints of trainees that the barracks were infested with vermin and were generally untidy and that food was unfit for consumption.

The report of the bureau's inspection service to General Hines said the complaints generally were exaggerated. On June 1, it was said, some of the kitchen and mess employees resigned and the mess was maintained under very adverse circumstances, even to the extent that the trainees and station employees volunteered their services.

New Plan for Visitors' Days at Longwood

Owing to the congestion of automobiles on the road and parking place at Longwood, the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre S. du Pont, it has been found necessary to limit the number of visitors' cars to 300 at any one time. The corresponding number of visitors, that is, about 1500, is all that can be handled conveniently. Recently 3000 to 5000 persons have visited the grounds on open Sundays.

In the future entrance on Sundays will be on the southern corner of the property, as indicated by a sign. Admission to visitors will not be permitted at other points. The parking space at the conservatory will accommodate 300 automobiles. When the space is filled no more cars will be permitted to enter.

PASS $550,000 LOAN FOR SALISBURY WATER

Also Decide On Levy For Municipal Band In Vote Last Week

Both the bill authorizing the city of Salisbury to issue bonds not to exceed $550,000 for the purpose of providing adequate water and sewerage systems and the measure authorizing the Mayor and Council to levy a tax, not to exceed five cents on each $100 of taxable property in the municipality for the purpose of organizing and maintaining a municipal band, were ratified by the citizenry of Salisbury at the special election last week.

That the Sewer and Water bill would pass was generally conceded but the big majority of 801 given the measure was undreamed of even by the most sanguine of its boosters. Those in intimate touch with the situation at noon predicted its going over by a 2-1 margin but the insignificant vote against it was unexpected although there apparently was but a trifle of organized effort to defeat the bill.

The success of its passage may be attributed to several causes, chief of which were the progressive thinking of the electorate, and the personal solicitation of practically all the qualified voters of the city made by a picked committee of which Oscar L. Morris was the untiring chairman and every member of which was an enthusiastic exponent of the proposed bill. By this method the views of each voter on the question was ascertained and by a follow-up in the cases of those favorable about 600, it is said, of those favoring the bill as indicated by the canvass were gotten to the polls. Of those whom the committee did not get to see who voted a better than 50-50 vote was secured for the bill, results showed.

CALLED HOME SUDDENLY

Mrs. Tarr and Mrs. Runk Summoned By Mother's Illness

Mrs. Lester W. Tarr and Mrs. C. R. Runk, sisters of this town, were called to their home in Danville, Ohio, last week by the sudden illness of their mother. They are expected to arrive back in Newark sometime this week. Mr. Tarr accompanied the ladies to Danville, and later attended a convention in Chicago.

The double frame dwelling on East Main Street, occupied by Messrs. John Hopkins and John Cunningham, has been extensively remodelled during the past few weeks. A new porch runs the full frontage of the house, and new doors have been placed. Other improvements, including redecorations, have been noted.

Prof. Tiffany, since 1915 connected with the department of chemistry at Delaware College, has entered the commercial chemistry ranks, and has established his own business in the Ford Building, Wilmington. Prof. Tiffany resigned from the Faculty here this month. The Tiffanys will, it is understood, continue to live in Newark.

REBUILDING POND

Newark Anglers' Association Hope to Have Work Finished by August

Rainy weather has greatly delayed the work of the Newark Anglers' Association in repairing the break to the dam at Sunset Lake, the old Day-ett mill pond in Pencader hundred. The Association has men at work on the dam and it is expected the repairs will be completed by the middle of August.

Despite the many drawbacks, most of the members of the association are enthused over the prospects of having one of the best fishing ponds in the State in the course of a few years with some fishing as early as next year. Those who saw the pond after it filled following the completion of the first dam are especially anxious to get the work done.

"When we get through this time the dam will stay for many years," This was the comment of O. W. Widdoes, president of the association who has given much of his time to the work of providing an ideal fishing pond for the members of the association.

Several hundred tons of stone is being hauled from Chestnut Hill and is being used to brace the dam on both sides. After the stones have been placed piling will be driven in front of the dam and it will then be filled in with about 600 cubic feet of earth to a coffer dam that has been built about forty feet from the concrete dam.

If the work is completed in August it is possible that the pond will fill up in time for the members and their families to enjoy boating if not fishing this year and it will be an ideal place for skating next winter.

That the break last winter did not carry all the fish out with it is evident from the fact that fish have been caught this spring in the little stream.

SCOUT NEWS

Last Thursday, by clipping off a half hour of meeting time, we left for "Ye Ole Swimmin' Ole" at 7 p. m. Before we left, however, Scoutmaster Shaw gave us a few preliminary life-saving instructions; also explaining, and meanwhile illustrating, the "tired swimmers" carry (to one Scout's great discomfort, since we were on "terra firma"). In a short time after we reached our destination, the splash! splash! of bodies going overboard could be heard. Then there followed the customary foolin', leaping, diving, ducking, and dropping into the water from the swing. Some even went as far as to imitate buffalo and "grizzlies" by making a "clay wallow" (really a mud wallow) on the bank. Strahorn and Emiegh passed the first class test of fifty-yard swim. Then the whistle blew, and everyone scrambled out. We marched back to the Parish House. After a short business meeting we were adjourned with the Scout oath.—Scribe.

AS "THE WORLD" SEES THE CONVENTION

Probably no more aggressive Democratic newspaper exists in the country today than the New York World, established by Joseph Pulitzer in 1883. And no more powerful political broadsides emanate from any newspaper during this Convention, that those which hurtle forth from the World's editorial page. These editorials are raising a storm in New York. The World is stubbornly, persistently and brilliantly marshalling sentiment for Governor Smith, and just as persistently blasting the underpinnings from the McAdoo boom. A part of Monday's leading editorial follows:

BEHOLD THE LEADER

The Democratic Party is fighting for its life. It is threatened with dishonor, disunion and defeat.

The candidacy of Mr. McAdoo menaces the soul of the party, the integrity of the party and its hope of victory. To nominate McAdoo is to confess to all the world that the party has learned nothing from and proposes to do nothing about the lessons of the last four years. To nominate him is to confess that the party which wrote the Bill of Rights and established the tradition of American liberty has surrendered to secret and organized and lawless bigotry. To nominate him in the face of the profound hostility of the masses of people in the pivotal Democratic centres of population is to invite certain defeat. It is to go once more into that wilderness of confusion in which the party wandered helplessly between the passing of Grover Cleveland and the rise of Woodrow Wilson.

The issue between the Democracy and William G. McAdoo is not a personal issue. Four years ago he might very well have qualified as a leader of the party. But in the years which have intervened a reckless ambition for power and money has led him into political associations and professional practices that are, if encouraged, a menace to the party and to the Nation. A man seeking the highest office within the gift of the people did not have to be rich in disregard of the best standards of public service; a man who had been honored as he had been honored had no right to stoop to the sale of his political influence; a man presuming to lead the Democracy need not have entangled himself with secret organizations that defy and deny the American spirit. Five years devoted to the pursuit of money and power have made William G. McAdoo the symbol of intolerably low standards in public life and the representative of forces with which it is impossible to compromise.

The struggle to defeat this menace is national in its importance. It transcends all other issues. It overshadows all differences of policy about which men honestly differ. It transcends the fortunes of individual men. Whatever the Democratic Party in convention assembled may finally decide to do, it can do nothing that is wise, honorable or expedient until it has freed itself from the menace of this candidacy.

In that struggle the best interests of the Democratic Party are not without champions. But among them one man stands out today the leader. That man is the Governor of New York. That man is Alfred E. Smith. On the fight he is waging today depends the possibility of victory and the right to victory. On him depends the possibility of a wise decision by the convention. On him depends the unity of the party. On him depends the chance of every other available man to fair consideration. On him depends the party's loyalty to itself and its capacity to mobilize its whole strength in the campaign with a good conscience and a whole heart. He has raised the standard, and The World ranges itself squarely behind him. . . .

ELK RIVER CAMP FOR 'SHORE BOY SCOUTS

Camp Rodney, Near Chesapeake City, Again Will Be Center This Summer

Eastern Shore Boy Scout headquarters, W. Goldsborough Bradford, Scout Executive, announced recently that the annual summer encampment for the boys of the Eastern Shore of Maryland will be held in conjunction with the Delaware scouts, at Camp Caesary Rodney, on the Elk River, about three miles from Chesapeake City.

The date of the camp has been set for July 14-September 1st. Accommodations are adequate at the camp to care for 200 boys each week and it is likely that the maximum number will be in attendance throughout the time. Several substantial gifts have been made to this camp and the officials are looking forward to the best season of the many which have been conducted.

A number of permanent buildings have been erected on the new site including a mess hall, recreation hall, kitchen and others and the bathing beach is said to be superb. Such courses as woodcraft, handicraft, bird study, botany, seamanship including life saving and others will be given by competent instructors.

An Indian chief, who will instruct in Indian lore, will be one of the features. Another will be the camp navy. The United States Navy has given the camp a sub-chaser and a half dozen cutters and the boys will utilize these, under competent supervision, to the full extent.

The directors of the camp will be Scout Executive Amos Shields, of Wilmington Council. The Eastern Shore Executive, Mr. Bradford, will be a member of the staff. There are now 30 troops on the Eastern Shore of Maryland in eight counties and these troops represent 600 Boy Scouts.

Some of the older boys will remember with pleasure the pleasant ten days spent at Caesar Rodney last year.

A RECREATION PROGRAM

Widesome Play, as Well as Strenuous Work, Featured in Grange Plans

The National Grange was represented at the recent recreational conference, called at Washington, D. C., by President Coolidge and which he personally addressed, and in attendance there were B. John Black, overseer of the National Grange; T. C. Atkeson, Washington Representative, and S. L. Strivings, master of the New York State Grange. The Grange officials are in hearty sympathy with the nation-wide recreational program there outlined and that organization has already complete machinery for putting such a program into operation in rural districts.

For years Granges everywhere have stressed the need of well-organized play and have urged farmers and their families to take occasional "play days," as well as enlisting communities in athletic contests, games and competitive events. Many Granges support competent baseball league of teams is every year maintained under Grange auspices. Illinois features basketball teams among the Grange membership, while "barn-yard golf" has attracted a wide following at Grange gatherings in the western states and teams have been extensively organized.

In hundreds of Grange localities the summer field meetings are featured by competitive athletic events, with cups, banners and cash prizes offered to the winners. Many State Granges make an annual appropriation for such awards, county and local Granges lead in similar undertakings and competition between rival neighborhoods and evenly-matched teams runs very high.

TWO CARS SMASHED; HOLD UP TRAFFIC

One Hurt Near Ball Run on Highway Sunday Last

Two Pennsylvania cars, an Overland and a Nash, both almost new, figured in a bad smash along the Lincoln Highway at Ball Run, east of Newark, Sunday afternoon last. Both cars were filled with holiday pleasure seekers, but only one man, the driver of the Overland, was hurt. He suffered cuts about the head and arms. Passersby took the occupants of the cars to Wilmington before their names could be learned.

Traffic along the road was held up for about twenty minutes by the twisted and battered cars. They were locked together in the middle of the road. The Nash was moved under its own power but volunteers were called to drag the badly wrecked Overland to one side. In the meantime, fully sixty cars were lined up on each side of the scene of the accident, waiting for the road to be cleared. State policemen and spectators helped to clear the right of way.

The rear axle of the Overland and one hind wheel were ripped from the body and the tonneau was crushed in. The Nash suffered broken fenders and damaged wheels.

Many people stopped their cars at the scene to view the wreck during the afternoon, adding to the confusion and holding up the stream of cars.

BETTERTON NOW HAS GOOD BUS SERVICE

Joyous Celebration Friday To Welcome First Car To Resort

Hundreds of people from the upper Eastern Shore joined with the Board of Trade of Betterton in welcoming the advent of bus transportation connecting this bayside resort with the shore, north and south, and linking Betterton with rail communication at Elkton.

For the first time Betterton is with in three and one-half hours of Philadelphia and Baltimore. Friday morning almost 100 automobiles and decorated trucks journeyed to Still Pond to meet the Elkton bus. Horns were blown and children yelled, old men and women were almost hysterical, for Betterton at last was upon the map.

Service will be maintained daily, it was said by the Board of Trade, of which Howard Turner is president; Walter S. Brice, vice-president, and Elizabeth M. Brice, secretary and treasurer.

Charles W. Duffield was the chairman of the committee and marshal of the parade.

The Board of Trade during the past month arranged an elaborate program for civic improvement. A community park is in the making. A pageant will be staged about July 15th, and Betterton, at the meeting of four rivers, will awaken to its advantages.

THE Big-Six Touring is a seven-passenger car—not merely a seven-passenger body mounted on a five-passenger chassis.

It was designed and built for seven-passenger service—with a motor of ample power and stamina for seven-passenger satisfaction.

Then, too, with the auxiliary seats folded away, the Big-Six becomes the most desirable five-passenger car in which you have ridden, with room enough for all the luggage you will ever need.

Big-Six appearance is attractive, distinctive, and in good taste. Its performance, acceleration, flexibility and dependability are known and respected the world over.

No car, regardless of price, surpasses it in quality or completeness of equipment.

If a smaller manufacturer or assembler were to build the Big-Six—of equal quality and workmanship—his price would be $3,500—perhaps more.

But Big-Six overhead is distributed over six times as many units as are built by any Big-Six competitor, hence Big-Six cost and selling price are surprisingly low.

Don't buy blindfolded. Examine, ride in and drive the Big-Six before you buy any other car.

The Declaration of Independence

The Constitution of the United States of America

These are the greatest documents in civic and political history. Upon them rest the Idea and Ideals of Liberty and the Future of Christian Civilization.

Have you a copy?

Listen to what Lincoln said:

THE CONSTITUTION

LET EVERY AMERICAN, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution, never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of "seventy-six" did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and the Laws let every American pledge his life, his property, and his sacred honor; let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap. Let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges. Let it be written in primers, spelling-books, and in almanacs. Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation.
