Fire sprinklers now required in Newark

Does not affect existing homeowners unless they convert to rentals or other uses

By MARY E. PETZAK

All new construction, as well as some existing structures, are now subject to the city of Newark's requirement for sprinklers in the event of fires.

City council spent three hours on Monday night discussing the amendment to the city's BOCA National Building Code. The city ordinance now requires sprinkler systems in all new structures and houses, as well as all prefabricated structures moved into Newark or moved within the city, existing structures which undergo a change in primary use or which receive renovations to more than 50 percent of their area at any one time, and any single-family homes converted to rentals in the and an employee of New Castle County Emergency Management Services, sponsored the amendment in Newark. Farrell gave an impassioned and detailed presentation to support his proposal.

"I know what goes on at fire scenes," said Farrell. "For 33 years I've watched it happen, but the general public doesn't know other than watching TV."

Farrell said sprinklers in buildings, especially residences, where the greater percentage of fires start during the night, would reduce risks for firefighters as well as occupants.

"Fire is relentless," Farrell said while showing a film demonstrating that smoke detectors only help those who wake up to heed them. "Temperatures at floor level can be 375 degrees when we arrive (minutes after a fire alarm is called in)," he said. "The carpets are already starting to smoulder as we enter the home. We're expected to do magic — and we do — but not always."

Farrell reminded those at the council meeting of a recent fire in Newark in which two Aetna firefighters became trapped in a home and almost lost their lives.

helped students find their classrooms, including some who forgot they were promoted to third grade. Single-family homes annexed into the city do not have to be sprinklered, but become subject to the ordinance after that time. Accessory structures, like sheds, which do not exceed 500 square feet, do not have to be sprinklered. Councilmember John H. Farrell IV, a former fire chief for Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder

Apartment complexes busy with students moving in for new year

Almost all locations full in downtown area of Newark

Ahh, that familiar smell of bagels, perfume, pizza, coffee, sweat socks and beer, mixed with that scent of whatever that is stuck behind the refrigerator.

Yes, the fragrance of college life has seeped back into town, with the fall semester upon us, and with it an influx of more than 19,000 students.

This year, the dorms are overflowing once again, with 7,187 students, including 3,220 freshmen registered to live in them as of Aug. 24, said Linda Carey, director of housing assignments for the university. The total number of dorm dwellers has increased by about 350 students since last year.

One hundred and fifty-four rooms are doubles converted into triples this year, Carey said, but since this week marks the dropoff date for students who are signed up for a dorm room but not yet registered for classes, the number of converted triples will go down within the next few weeks.

"Some people decide that the University of Delaware is just not what they expected and for whatever reason, they decide not to attend."

But even though students will soon have the choice to be in doubles instead of triples, many still decide to live together for the academic year, she said.

According to property managers, students are moving in rapidly at local apartment complexes throughout the city as well.

The 880 beds in the one-year-old University Courtyard apartments at Delaware Avenue and Chapel Street are completely full, according to Masha Sapper, property manager. She said move-ins are hectic right now, but staff at the complex try to get a system going so students move in throughout the year, not all at once.

The Courtyard apartment complex on East Main Street is also full for the fall, and students are even on a waiting list for next year, said Karen DeVenney, spokesperson for the Commonwealth Group.

Commonwealth has 42 apartments in The Courtyard with another 34 apartments in other buildings on Main Street and 48 in the Mill at White Clay on Paper Mill Road.

DeVenney said all of the Main Street properties, except for two of the four apartments which will open in October above Happy Harry's, are full. One hundred percent of the tenants are college students, she said.

At The Mill at White Clay complex, however, tenants are college students, young professionals and families, according to DeVenney.

Commonwealth staff have been busy this week helping students in the downtown locations get their utilities hooked up, Devenney said. But for the most part, things have not been overly hectic.

"All of our leases run from June 1 to May 31, so it was more hectic in June when (students) were turning over their keys," she explained. "Students pay rent for the apartments all summer; whether they choose to stay in town for that time is up to them."

Main Street Court, a complex of 48 apartments between Main Street and Delaware Avenue on the former Newark Lumber site, still some apartments available, according property manager Brian Lorom, though he opted not to say how many.

Nonetheless, the rental office has been busy all week. "Busy is an understatement," Lorom said.

Hot diggidy dog!

By KATY CIAMARICONE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Oscar Mayer Weinermobile has come a long way since it debuted in 1935 as a 13-foot metal hot dog on wheels to carry around the company spokesperson. Now, during its 65th year on the road, the vehicle's modern version is both beefier and better equipped for the road.

Standing the length of 24 hot dogs high and weighing as much as 140,500 franks, the 27-foot long Weinermobile rolled into town last Friday and mustered up some smiles on the faces of local shoppers. The pit stop was part of its summer tour, which spans from Washington, D.C., to Portland, Maine.

Michael Grover and Marshawn Brown, certified Weinermobile drivers, were at the Suburban Plaza Acme to give both kids and adults a chance to spin the Weiner Wheel and win prizes, including Weiner Whistles and Weinie Babies.

The drivers said they were hired to take the giant hot dog to various sites — usually supermarkets — to spread excitement and hunger for the giant "German" frank. When they're not on the road, they stay in hotels.

Brown said someone recruited her while she was a student at Howard University in Washington, D.C. Grover applied for the job online. "It's just something I've always wanted to do," Grover said.

Tolls are doubling on Maryland roads

Special from the Cecil Whig by Cory Penn

Tolls are expected to double on Interstate 95, Route 40 and Route 301, pending a final decision next month by the Maryland Transportation Authority.

Current $2 tolls would become $4 on the John F. Kennedy Memorial Highway and at the Hatem Memorial Bridge, and be hiked from $1.50 to $3 at the Nice Memorial Bridge.

A study conducted by the MdTA in 1999 calculated that more than $4.7 billion will be needed for capital improvement projects throughout the next 20 years.

Nearly $1.7 billion of the estimated costs will go toward improvements along the John F. Kennedy Memorial Highway alone. The three tolls that will be affected by the increase are located near the 50-mile stretch of Kennedy highway.

Lori Vidil, director of media and customer relations for the MdTA, admitted the Hatem bridge was chosen for a price hike to discourage traffic diversion from Interstate 95 to Route 40 to avoid the toll on the Kennedy highway.

The cost of Automatic Vehicle Identification tags on the Hatem bridge used by commuters will remain at $4 a year. The cost of discounted commuter passes valid for trips on the Kennedy highway and Hatem bridge will also remain the same price, $20 for a set of 50 trips. "We made every effort to minimize the impact on those people who have to frequent the facility," Vidil said.

The last time tolls on the Hatem bridge increased was in 1989, when the cost to cross was raised from 50 cents to $1 in each direction. The toll had been set at 50 cents for 14 years before the last change. Tolls along the Kennedy Highway were last raised in 1975, from 90 cents to $1 in each direction.

However, in 1991, toll collections were only taken from motorists going in one direction, thus making the tariff $2.

Even if the $4 toll is approved, Vidil claimed, "by 2005 we are projecting negative unencumbered cash balances."

Stories about fires put out by sprinklers seldom make the front page serious injury because a third fireman risked his life to stand inside the front door and spray the stairs with a hose to improve their chances.

Farrell said in cases where fires are extinguished by sprinklers, firefighters merely "mop up" the scene. "When we enter a building with 'cold smoke' we do a systematic search for possible occupants of the building," he explained. "A few squirts of the hose take care of any remaining embers of fire and a firefighter on a stepladder uses a pine wedge to stop the flow of water from the sprinkler head. Then we remove any burned property in debris buckets, vent the smoke and squeegee the floor to remove any water."

Farrell said this is a success story that seldom makes the front page of a newspaper. "No 'Film no firefighter injuries."

Firefighters from other local jurisdictions urged city council to approve the ordinance. "The lack of fire suppression devices killed two people in the house next door to mine," said Thomas Minton, a lifemember of the Elsmere Fire Company. "I ran out, but no one could do anything — fire exploded out of their split level home."

One resident expressed concern that persons subletting their homes temporarily would be subject to the sprinkler requirement. However, building director Junie Mayle said homes rented during sabbaticals of one year or less are not considered conversions to rentals under city regulations.

John Baucher, president of the Newark Landlords Association, said he believed the ordinance is discriminatory toward rentals. "This will make single-family homes unavailable to low income people," he said. "I'm going to

However, Dwayne Wayland, who installs fire protection devices, said he has installed thousands of sprinklers in HUD homes. "They're required in Section 8 homes in some areas," Wayland told council.

According to Farrell, sprinklers are individually heat-calculated and supplied with water at a predetermined pressure through a network of small bore piping in much the same way as the domestic heating system. "When the heat from a fire raises the temperature of the operating element to approximately 155 degrees Fahrenheit, the sprinkler releases water in a controlled pattern directly over the source of the fire."

Unlike scenes in some movies, Farrell said merely lighting a match does not set off a rain of water all over a building.

Patty Brawn of Woodbury, N.J., and Virginia Mendoza of York, Pa., were delighted to see each other at Freshman Convocation at the University of Delaware on Monday. The two met this summer through the University's Rise Engineering Program. Classes began at UD on Tuesday.

Farrell noted that many people killed or injured in fires are the elderly, disabled, person impaired by drugs or alcohol or young children. "Often these people are unable to react to a smoke alarm," he said. "Sprinklers take that extra step — they not only detect fire but also react on the person's behalf. In addition, we have mandated smoke detectors in all homes, but we have yet to figure out how to get occupants to maintain the batteries."

Sprinklers use about 210 gallons of water to douse a fire, while firefighters can use almost 3,300 gallons for the average fire. With sprinklers, an average fire will cause $1,945 in damage," Farrell said. "Without sprinklers, an average fire can cost $17,067."

Representatives of the New Castle County Board of Realtors asked council to delay their vote for more review of the issue. "It's not that we oppose it," said board member and West Main Street resident Fran McCann, "but similar ordinances in other locations didn't get passed because of economics. We'd like more time to review it."

Sprinklers, while saving lives, do not come cheap. "Nationally on the average, home fire sprinklers add one to two percent to the total building cost in new construction," Farrell said. "Estimates for retrofitting in existing home are about $2.25 a square foot."

Using these figures, it would cost about $3,600 to install the system in an average 1,600-square-foot residence.

Still, said Farrell, that's cheaper than a funeral.

County police 100 percent accredited

Delaware State Police in process of reaccreditation

Assessors from the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA), found that the New Castle County Police department is in 100 percent compliance with over 430 standards established by the commission. According to the assessment team, there are only nine other law enforcement agencies in the United States that have equaled this rare achievement.

A team of assessors CALEA currently is examining Delaware State Police policies and procedures, management, operations, and support services. The State Police were originally accredited in 1988 and re-accredited in 1993 and 1998. Maintaining this status is an on-going process and requires constant monitoring and updating of policies and procedures. Re-accreditation is a formal recognition of the agency's professional excellence.

The Delaware State Police were the first law enforcement agency in Delaware to receive International Law Enforcement Accreditation. There are approximately 450 Accredited agencies in the United States, Canada, and Barbados.

Persons wishing to offer written comments about the State Police's ability to meet the standards for accreditation are requested to write: Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies Inc. at 10306 Eaton Place, Suite 320, Fairfax, Virginia, 22030-2201 or call (800) 368-3757.

CALEA was formed in 1979 by the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP), the National Organization of Black Law Enforcement executives (NOBLE), the Police Executive Research Forum (PERF) and the National Sheriff's Association to find the best police practices and policies and use them to ensure better training and education of police officers and to form professional standards to be utilized on a national level.

APARTMENTS, from 1

Property managers at Main Street Court meet with the tenants and give them some pointers to keeping their living space safe. "For a lot of the kids, it's their first apartment, so we try to let them know that if they have a problem, they need to let us know right away and not come to us when they're moving out and say, 'Oh, it was like that when I moved in,'" Lorom said.

The majority of tenants are either graduate or undergraduate students, he said.

The 135-unit University Garden Apartments, on the corner of Elkton and Beverly roads, have only about 10 units that are not occupied by students, said Grace Watts, the office manager.

Shirly Graves, who works at West Knoll apartments on Elkton Road, said about 70 percent of the tenants there are students this year. "We kept a lot of the students who were living here last year," she said.

Nearby Park Place Apartments are filled with more graduate students than undergrads, according to managers. "We lost some tenants to all of the new apartments, but graduate students definitely took up the slack this year," said Sarah Madanat, manager of the 276-apartment complex. "I think it's because (the apartments) are a lot cleaner and not as noisy."

Directly across the street, however, the 430-unit Towne Court complex houses more undergrads than graduate students, said assistant property manager Tonya Watts. The complex is about 95 percent full right now, she said. "We have a lot of students coming in at the last minute."

Staff at apartments at Christina Mill and Victoria Mews apartments nearer Suburban Plaza, said their complexes are hardly impacted by the inpouring of students. About 30 percent of tenants at Victoria Mews are students, and Christina Mill has a minimal amount of student renters.

Don't celebrate with unsafe driving

This weekend is summer's last hurrah. Vacation season is over – at least for most of those people who have children still in school.

People with and without children will be celebrating the end of summer in big and small ways – the majority of which will require hitting the roads.

The Delaware Department of Transportation is anticipating heavy traffic throughout the state. Plans are ready for traffic patrol units to assist motorists who break down, as well as statewide monitoring of traffic flow. DelDOT also announced major efforts to adjust signal timing to keep the traffic moving.

However, if all this travel help is not enough to keep drivers calm behind the wheel, the Delaware State Police and other police departments in Delaware are putting an aggressive driving campaign into effect.

Drivers who run lights and stop signs, pass on shoulders or make unsafe lane changes, follow too close, fail to yield or signal a turn – or just plain drive way too fast – are all likely to get a ticket this weekend.

That is, if they're lucky.

The unlucky ones may end up with a quick ride to the hospital or the morgue.

Vo-tech district officials dispute claims

Officials in the New Castle County Vocational-Technical District are crying foul over a series of news articles that presented faculty retreats as fun-filled getaways paid for with tax dollars.

Recent allegations in the News Journal that the district paid the teachers' bar tab and for a DJ at two-and-a-half-day conferences at the Great Oak resort near Chestertown, Md., were distorted, school superintendent Dennis Loftus said.

Loftus admitted the district paid the cost of keeping the bar open late- which amounted to the

I was disappointed in your coverage last week regarding the intersection improvements made to Library Avenue, Route 273 and Main Street in Newark. I drive or bike through there several times a day. I found the workers to be courteous and helpful as I maneuvered through their work zone. They worked diligently to complete improvements to five separate sections of roadway in less than three months. I think that's pretty good, especially considering how well the construction crew kept cars moving through there. While traffic going directly onto Main Street was halted periodically to allow work on the one lane road, cars flowed fairly smoothly in all other directions. In fact, I found there to be tion than I normally experience during the school year.

By MARVIN HUMMEL

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

As the very smug and officious Chief of Library Police was leading me to the exit, I thought back to those kids in my junior high class who had gotten caught and punished years ago for a "crime" just the opposite of mine. As Chief Javert hustled me by the university students, I saw their startled faces at the library's study tables, some of them shocked, others amused. Everybody within a hundred yards of that august building's great library doors heard him shout at my retreating figure: "And don't come back!"

Twelve years before my own embarrassment, a bunch of kids with names like Mickey and Muggs and Bobo had been caught in our junior high study hall reading pornographic literature which they had hidden behind their textbooks. (One of them had whistled out loud at something he had just seen in his "porn" book.) The teacher, knowing those guys were never prompted to read let alone whistle at a textbook's contents, snuck up behind them and saw the books behind the books. She gave a choking scream, then seized the contraband (holding it the way new fathers hold their child's first dirty diaper), then marched them into the principal's office for Operation Red Bottom. We heard the repeated "thwacks!" of Mr. Dodds' wood-ed paddle all the way through his door across the hall and through our closed classroom door. Puberty had just visited an added torture upon those poor, dumb kids!

As graduate students, our trouble at the University library started simply enough—professors gave us assignments that required reading books on reserve that could never leave the building. Sounds simple, but even when you could get the books, there was no place to sit to read them. Every seat was ALWAYS taken, and people circled each table just waiting for somebody to go to class. It was like a mall parking lot the week before Christmas. Ironically, even as we circled the table, we could hear the construction noises across the street as workers prepared the new Randolph Library for its opening 2 years away!

We tried everything to get those required books read—some brought their own metal chairs—but the chairs were deemed as blocking the aisles and were disallowed. Other grad students leaned up against the wall, but they were always one hand short—I for the book; I for the notebook, and I for the pen. Besides, they were declared to be blockers of the aisles. As for tape recorders, they broke the sacred code of silence.

I never did it, but some desperate scholars took over bathroom stalls, then locked "theirs" and set up academic shop. But that didn't last long. Apparently a professor, suffering in extremis with intestinal urgency, was rejected 15 stalls in 3 men's rooms on the first floor. (He did not make it to the second floor—but those would have been full, too. And from what I hear, his students were grateful for the suddenly cancelled class.) The next day? Signs in each men's room: ABSOLUTELY NO STUDYING IN THIS RESTROOM! And the fine print promised dire penalties.

I tried something different—I signed out a reserved book, then walked out the front door and studied on the steps in plain view of the policeman. I explained why I was sitting there—he told me I was technically a thief and could be persecuted by the university and prosecuted by the police. I told him to just shoot me with his water pistol, that I was a desperate man and didn't care any longer. He told me he didn't like me.

Why didn't we just explain our problem to our professors? We did! They said a true scholar always found a way. Then quite by accident, I discovered the scholar's Dream Room on the 6th floor!

I was up there looking for a seat, when I espied—carefully blocked to vision by several floor-to-ceiling bookcases—a small room with 10 Corinthian leather chairs (with arms!) circled around a burnished oak table, with indirect lighting and a coffeemaker!

I read the sign on the door—this was the Randy Randolph Victorian Pornography Room and might only be used by students doing their theses and dissertations on Victorian Pornography. No exceptions! Aha! A true scholar had just found his "way!"

I told Randy Randolph (he was his own unpaid librarian!) I was doing my thesis on unnatural sex acts among opium eaters in Soho in the winter of 1883. Randy felt that he could help me if I broadened my topic and omitted the word "unnatural" from the title. With staged reluctance, I finally agreed. (Randy was gracious in victory.)

For days, while Randy brought in parts of his own collection and applied for inter-library loans on my behalf, I got all my reserved book reading done—behind dozens of volumes of Victorian pornography! It took discipline to ignore the art

Celebration of maritime art coming to Riverfront this month

John Fitzgerald Kennedy once remarked that man's fascination for the sea stems from the fact that man came from the sea and longs to return to his home.

I have no intention of entering a philosophical debate on that point but I will readily concede that human beings do have a fascination for that which covers the majority of our planet's surface. The more I have traveled, especially across the oceans, the more that fascination has grown. I am genuinely looking forward to my first sail on Mare Nostrum this winter.

If you share that interest in the sea and have a love of art, two of Delaware's museum venues and combining forces to bring an exhibition that is right down your alley. Or, should I say, right in your channel. "Maritime Art America: A Celebration of Marine Art and History" will be on view at the Riverfront Arts Center and the Delaware Art Museum's Downtown Gallery from September 28 through November 25. 919 Market Street in Wilmington, not the main museum on Kentmere Parkway.

The traveling exhibition is the 12th National Exhibition of the American Society of Marine Artists. The society's purpose is to recognize and promote marine art and maritime history. Since its founding in 1978, the society has brought together some truly fine exhibitions and shared them through art and maritime museums. They have a very interesting web site at www.marineart.org.

More than 100 new works will be on exhibit at the RAC during the two month visit. The subjects include naval battles and submarines to tall ships, racing sailboats, raging seas and tranquil marshes. While many paintings and sculptures feature scenes which could be seen today, others go back to World War II.

I found the picture with my column today one of the most beautiful and peace filled of the 100 to be on display at the RAC, 800 South Madison Street in Wilmington. It is called "Early Departure" and is by Leonard Mizerek. Here the artist captures a moment at the water's edge when the sun and the water seem to meet. Almost everything is still in the harbor except for the movement of the passing ship. If you stand very quietly, you may even hear the rustle of the sails.

DAM's Downtown Gallery will feature 30 works by ASMA members. Some of these efforts are prize winning paintings from previous exhibitions and some new works by ASMA fellows. I think you will find "Rough Seas" by Michael B. Karas especially interesting. It is as though you have taken a quick step from Market Street to the rocky shores of Maine. Don't get wet by the splashing surf and flying spray!

This joint art exhibition venture is a first for the Delaware Art Museum and the Riverfront Arts Center. Steve Bruni, executive director of DAM, was very pleased. "Anything that heightens awareness of our abundant cultural riches is a good thing for all of Delaware and the area."

Admission to the satellite show at the Downtown Gallery is free. The Gallery is open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Admission to the main exhibition at the Riverfront is $5 for adults, $4 for seniors, $3 for ages 5 to 17 and free for children

NEWARK OUTLOOK

Is safety worth it?

As a parent, I would like to think that we are concerned enough about the lives of our children to spend the money and effort to ensure they are protected at home, in the community, in our vehicles and on our roadways.

I was shocked to read a recently published article in the National Safety Council's magazine, "Traffic Safety." Progressive Insurance Company conducted an opinion survey which collected the alarming news is that most people who purchase cars do not consider safety factors a priority when choosing the family car. According to the survey: 47 percent of consumers considered the color of the car more important than whether the vehicle had side airbags; 22 percent considered a CD player more important than the choice of ABS brakes; 24 percent said the choice of leather seats was more important than the choice of four-wheel drive; those with children were nearly twice as likely to say the monthly payment figure was more a deciding factor than the safety features of the car; those who have had more than one accident in the past three years were six times more likely to drive fast after purchasing a new car; those who were asked about their change in driving behaviors after purchasing a new vehicle were more likely to be concerned with eating and drinking less in the car than they were about speeding or tailgating less often; and men were more than three times more likely than women to report they drove faster after buying a new vehicle.

It appears from these statistics that most people consider a vehicle a toy. Many children are left unattended in vehicles, which can cause some hazardous results. Within 30 days in the summer of 1998, 11 children died after trapping themselves inside the car trunk. In 1999, 29 children died from intense heat while trapped in cars during the months of June, July and August. Other hazards that occur when we let children play in vehicles are ill-

FAMILIAR RELATIONS: THE DUPONTS & THE UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

Familiar Relations: The du Ponts and the University of Delaware," written by Carol Hoffeecker, Richards Professor of History at the University of Delaware, was published in conjunction with the 200th anniversary of the arrival of the du Pont family in America.

Members of the du Pont family have played an important role in the emergence of the University of Delaware, and their influing partnership with us continues to make the University a place that can bring a better future to all who are touched by it."

caused by inadvertently putting the car in motion.

Our cars should be the safest tool we use to transport our families because traffic crashes can happen to anyone, anywhere, and anytime. Traffic crashes affect us emotionally and financially.

Parents and caregivers need to take safety to heart. If you are serious about the safety of your family, purchase a vehicle based on the priority of the safety features it offers, not its color or CD player. Exhibit safe and courteous driving behaviors. Teach children cars are not a place to play and never leave them unattended in a vehicle at any time, for any reason.

300 win mark is a big deal

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

There are a lot of people excited about the prospect of University of Delaware football coach Tubby Raymond getting his 300th career victory. Just don't count Raymond among them.

Raymond, not that this should be a surprise to anyone that has followed Delaware football, is publicly downplaying the milestone.

"I really don't think about it," the coach said. "But for Delaware athletes to have won 300 games over 36 years is a tribute to those players and staff that have been a part of it. We don't want to make a big deal about it. That would be hypocrisy. We talk about the Delaware football family and it takes everyone involved to have success."

Despite Raymond's low-key approach, there are fans, media members and university officials that are all over the record. In fact, there is a big billboard-type countdown on the Carpenter

Talented senior class key to Jackets' run

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The "Drive for Five" has officially gotten underway at Newark High.

The four-time defending Division I state football champion Yellowjackets began practice with a lot to look forward to. Despite losing All-American lineman Orien Harris, the Jackets return a host of Division I recruits amongst its large and talented senior class.

That senior class has had nothing but success at Newark, winning state championships in each of its seasons. Many of the seniors have contributed significantly since they were sophomores.

"This will be the first time in the last four years that we will be so senior dominated," said Newark coach Butch Simpson, who has guided the Jackets to six state championships in his 24 years at Newark. "It's undeniable that this is one of the deepest, most experienced team we've had going back to the 1984-85 teams. We have strong feelings we can be competitive again."

The Jackets boast a large number of quality players that have the potential to be playing Division I football next year.

Senior fullback/linebacker Brandon Snow (6-2, 218) has received an overwhelming amount of national attention. He is listed as high as the eighth highest recruit in the country by a national recruiting expert and has already been offered a scholarship by the likes of Florida, Florida State, Miami, Penn State, Notre Dame and numerous other schools.

Snow, however, is not the only big-time player at Newark.

Seniors Steve Selk (6-4, 240), Erec Spiese (6-3, 210), Austin Kisner (6-0, 200), Kevin Wiggins (6-2, 297), John Parkinson (6-2, 207), Greg Moore (6-3, 234) and Greg Collins (6-3, 196) are all highly touted.

Most of these players will play both offensively and defensively this season.

Spiese will be the starting quarterback and also see some time at linebacker. Selk will play tight end and defensive end, Wiggins will play on both lines, Parkinson will see time at split end and linebacker, Kisner will play line backer and running back, Collins will play split end and defensive end/line and linebacker and Moore will be the center on offensive and see time in the defensive line.

Additional seniors that will play include lineman Antonio Gonzalez (5-10, 249), tight end/defensive lineman Rasheme Waters (6-3, 215), lineman Michael White (5-7, 231), lineman Joey White (5-9, 240), halfback Andrew Ficarra (5-11, 166), halfback Ryan Kirchenbauer (6-0, 154), halfback Brad Needham (5-4, 133), halfback Art Steimer (5-9, 162), linebacker Jim Unsworth (5-9, 182), lineman Keith Reddick (5-11, 204), lineman Alex Seeman (5-10, 181) and halfback Garth Spencer (5-7, 150).

Two juniors that started last year and are expected to again this season are halfback/defensive back Drew Kisner (5-11, 184) and safety Pete Callahan (5-selection last year. George Potts (6-1, 270) and Francis Clark (6-0, 245) will also play on the defensive line. Senior Brandon Bailey (6-4, 225) will be a defensive end.

The linebacking unit is one

South end zone.

The record, while not diminishing from the current season, is a tremendous one. Just seven other coaches in college history have done it — Eddie Robinson (408), John Gagliardi (377 and counting), Bear Bryant (323), Joe Paterno (322 and counting), Pop Warner (319), Bobby Bowden (315 and counting) and Amos Alonzo Stagg (314).

Eastern Kentucky's Roy Kidd has 299 and will also break the 300 barrier this season.

What's up with the field?

Was it the weather or what?

Did anybody else notice how ratty the Delaware Stadium field looked? There were more brown spots this year than at any other time I can remember — and that was before a game was played on it.

Every other year the field looks like a beautiful fairway on a great golf course. Hopefully, it's something that can be restored.

Women's tees

The Delaware Secondary School Athletic Association last week adopted a rule that girls can play from women's tees during high school golf events.

That's great, except for one thing — there are no girls' matches or tournaments. The girls playing are playing on the school's golf team with boys.

If there is no separate boys and girls events, then everybody playing should play from the same tees (many courses now don't even designate men's or women's tees, that is done by handicap).

I don't remember DSSAA widening the goal posts for the girls that are successfully kicking extra points and field goals during high school football games. I don't remember Caravel's Kristin Mills having to face underhand pitching while she was

Defending Flight A soccer champs hope to repeat

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The outlook is again bright for the defending Flight A soccer champions.

Glasgow High, which finished 9-6-1 and won the conference last season, return a host of starters and most of its scoring to this year's squad.

The Dragons did lose some key players from last year's team including starters Rob Poore, Rob Pierce, Barry Smith and Jon Katz.

Senior midfielder Matt Goff, who was first-team all-conference and first-team all-state last season, leads the returnees. Senior goalkeeper Matt Smith is also back. Smith was a first-team all-conference selection and a second-team all-stater.

Additional players that return with honors include junior midfielder Justin Esposito (first-team all-conference, second-team all-state) and senior midfielder David Nimrooz (second-team all-conference, third-team all-state).

Other starters returning include senior midfielder Mike Ruggiano, senior midfielder Joe Santo and sophomore forward Tolu Olowafe.

"The entire midfield returns as well as the top six scorers from the 2000 season," said coach Bob Bussiere. "The program returns a lot of players and many of those will be asked to move into the defense."

Mark DelPercio likes a lot of things that have happened to the Glasgow High football program over his four-year tenure. The only thing that he hasn't been wild about is the team's record on the field. This year, he hopes, will mark a turning point for that too.

The Dragons are led by a senior nucleus that has had success at lower levels (an undefeated freshmen team, good junior varsity teams) and this is the first class that has been with DelPercio all four years. In addition, Glasgow returns nine starters on both sides of the ball.

DelPercio feels this combination is one that could lead to success.

"We've had a great preseason," the coach said. "This is a special group. It's my first class and it has a lot of talent. These guys also have the experience of going through last season. It's a group that we think can get the job done."

The Dragons should have a strong defense led by senior lineman and captain Steve Jewell (6-0, 260), which was an all-state captain Mike Richardson (6-3, 225) leads this strong group with junior Brandon Bazemore (5-6, 175), junior Van Shorts (5-11, 235) and senior Frank Houser (6-0, 180) rounding out the unit.

Junior Patryck Depa (5-9, 150), senior Antoine Haskins (5-11, 175) and senior Brandon Smith (6-0, 180) make up the secondary.

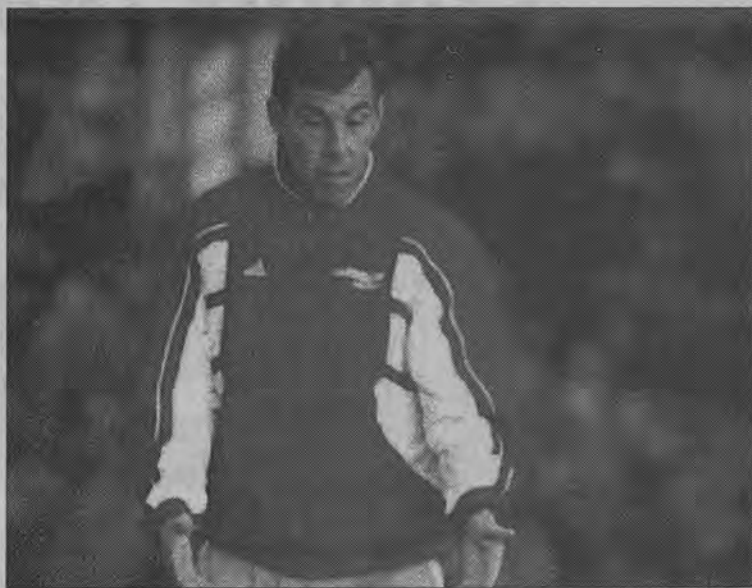

Offensively, junior Shawn Lane (6-0, 160) gets the nod at quarterback while Haskins and Bazemore will be the halfbacks. Shorts will lineup at fullback.

Bailey will be a slot back while Depa will be the split end and Richardson will be the tight end.

Potts and Jewell will be the guards, Senior Chris Isaac (6-3, 275) and junior Saul Rosario (6-5, 210) will be the tackles. Clark will be the center.

One key for the Dragons will be getting off to a good start against a difficult schedule. Glasgow hosts Dover — a favorite to win the Henlopen North and return to the state tournament — and Christiana in its first two

Christiana High gridders buoyed by good attitude

Vikings look for good start

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Christiana High football team may not have a large number of players on it this season, but the ones it does have could be very good.

While numbers are down for coach Marvin Spence the talent is not. The Vikings have quality at all the skilled positions and a solid first unit up front. All that makes Spence believe it's possible for Christiana to improve on last year's 5-5 record.

One thing that Spence doesn't want to see happen is a rough start to the season. Last year, the Vikings were touted as one of the best teams in the state. Then they blew a second-half lead to St. Mark's in the opener and struggled to regain their form after that.

"I think it's important to get off to a good start," said Spence, who's beginning his fourth year at Christiana. "I think last year's loss [to St. Mark's] ended up costing us more than one game."

"I do like the attitude of this team much better though. I like the work ethic. They've really worked hard throughout the pre-season and shown a willingness to put the team ahead of the individual."

One of Christiana's assets should be its backfield. Junior quarterback Ryan Robinson (6-2, 185) will direct the offense.

"We're very high on Ryan," Spence said. "He's done a good job in practice and is athletic."

Senior Rob Reaves (6-1, 175) will be one of the running backs as will junior Omar Williams (5-11, 180). Junior Eddie Stevenson will be the fullback (5-10, 210) while junior David McCombs (5-8, 160) will contribute at halfback.

The receiving corps will be led by junior tight end Alphonso Brown (6-4, 210), senior split end Tim Bradley (6-1, 170) and Levi Gordy (6-3, 195), who can play split end or tight end.

Senior guard Mike Murray (6-0, 240) leads the offensive line while junior Ken Thomas (6-1, 210) will play the other guard. Junior Chris Cooper (6-3, 320) will be one of the tackles while senior Vincent Davis (6-1, 240) will be the other. Senior Brad Bell (6-2, 310) will line up at center.

Many of the same players will be on the defensive side of the ball.

Other players that will play defense include senior defensive end Mike Johnson (5-11, 210), junior defensive lineman Jamar Davis (6-0, 260), senior outside linebacker Alfredo Austin (5-11, 210) and senior outside linebacker Tim Francis (5-11, 195).

The Vikings' schedule is again a difficult one. In addition to a tough Flight A schedule that includes four-time defending state champion Newark, William Penn and cross-town rival Glasgow, Christiana plays Dover and Sussex Central — both of whom qualified for the state tournament last year.

The season will also get underway against St. Mark's — just like last year.

"That game and the game against Dover are games we won't have to talk to the kids about," Spence said. "They know what happened last year and they know it's important to get off to a good start. If we can win at least two of those first three games we could be in good shape."

No matter what happens Spence feels he has a team that will be competitive no matter whom the opponent is.

"We'll battle people," the coach said. "You'll know that you've been in a fight when you play us."

Glasgow's senior class will be one the keys to the Dragons' success this season.

games.

"If we can get off to a good start, it will be easier," DelPercio said. "If we don't then we'll be battling uphill all year. We want to get to a level where we can play with the big boys — no matter who they are."

In addition to the tough Flight A schedule that includes Newark and William Penn, Glasgow's non-conference games are against Sussex Central and Salesianum as well as Dover.

"We feel the program is moving in the right direction," DelPercio said. "Academically and attitude wise, things have gotten much better. The first year I was here we had 12 guys in summer school. This year we had none."

"The thing is that we have to translate the progress on to the field."

Jackets go after fifth straight

11, 153).

Other juniors expected to play include linebacker/lineman B.J. Roth (6-0, 214), defensive back Eddie Lucas (5-10, 171), split end/defensive back Matt Angeloni (6-1, 166), quarterback James Senkus (5-11, 165) and lineman A.J. Colbert (6-4, 362).

Sophomores that could see varsity playing time include fullback Chris Leamy (5-9, 194), halfback Dan Perkins (6-3, 175) and back-up quarterback Steve Spiese (6-1, 158).

There are two freshman that Simpson singled out and probably will play.

Offensive guard John Senkus (6-4, 224) will probably start and running back/defensive back Sam Cotton (5-10, 145) has a chance to contribute.

Newark will return to female soccer players to do the kicking chores. The Jackets had great success with Julie Marx and Amy Hunt in the past and this year sophomore Jen Baird and junior Brianna Filingeri will be vying for the place kicking spot.

Newark will enter the season as a favorite to win Flight A and the state title. William Penn, despite the retirement of Bruce Reynolds, is once again expected to be formidable.

"William Penn has a lot back," Simpson said. "St. Mark's is quietly going to have a good team. I also think Dover will be good and Sussex Central will be good again as well. Christiana is also a team that will have a lot of good athletes and could be good."

Girls need own golf tourney playing on the Bucs' baseball team.

If everybody is competing in the same event, the same rules should be followed.

Ideally, there should be boys and girls matches. But I realize there are not enough girls playing right now to do that. Maybe this new rule will encourage more girls to play. That would be a positive. However, I'm not sure that will be the case.

In the mean time, why have a great girl golfer win a big event and then have everyone complain she had an advantage?

That's not fair to anyone involved.

Glasgow soccer looks to defend Flight A title

I. Du Pont are two other teams that many coaches feel should be in the hunt for the title.

A 1-0 loss to Salesianum in the opening round knocked Glasgow out last year's state tournament. The Dragons hope their returning leadership and talent can lead the team to a longer stay in this year's tourney.

'Bon Bini' offers open styling, large great room

Brick accents the exterior of the Bon Bini, giving the home a more contemporary look. There is a bay window on the front and skylights in the roof overhead. The stairs to the porch have brick sides and pillars on the side.

To the right of the entry is a large aquarium. To the left are the stairs that lead to an attic that runs across the center of this home. While the Bon Bini is a modest home with 1,600 square feet, it has large open rooms.

BON BINI
—406-35—

BON BINI (406-35)
OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 54'-0" X 58'-0"
LIVING: 1618 square feet
ATTIC: 880 square feet
GARAGE: 658 square feet

The front right corner is the vaulted great room, accented with a wood stove on the side, skylights overhead, and French doors leading to a large deck in the backyard.

The kitchen occupies the rear section of the great room with a huge corner pantry behind double doors. A range and oven are located in the center island with the rest of the counter space running in a boomerang shape around the walls. Off the kitchen is a door that leads to the two-car garage. It also provides access to a storage area under the stairs.

Down the hallway is the utility room on the right. It has direct access to the side deck. Beyond the utility is the master suite. Three wall closets, running consecutively down one wall provide more than ample space for clothing. An oversized shower and "his and hers" sinks make nice amenities in the master suite.

The left side of the home has two large bedrooms with a full bath between. The rear bedroom would be ideal as a guest suite, if not needed for the teenager in the family.

The Bon Bini has many amenities that make it a special home. The larger bedrooms, a huge great room, skylights, an open kitchen, and a large deck coupled with an attic are all shown off to great advantage in this unique home.

For a study plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, sections, and an artist rendering, send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road East, Cottage Grove, OR 97424. Please specify plan name (Bon Bini) and number (406-35). A catalog featuring hundreds of home plans is available for $12.95, or save by ordering both for $29.95.
