WWF INVADES NEWARK

Pro Wrestling fans came out in droves Monday night to watch their favorite characters obliterate each other in several World Wrestling Federation matches. The sold-out event ran live on the USA network from the university's Bob Carpenter Center. (Clockwise from top) Ahmed Johnson came all the way from Mississippi to body slam his rival Hunter Hearst Helmsley. Animal, of the Legion of Doom, gives a pre-match scream. And Rob Van Dam stands in the lights for all his adoring fans.

Memorial parade and concert this weekend

FOLLOWING A 1 P.M. memorial ceremony on the University of Delaware Mall to honor war veterans, Newark's annual Memorial Day Parade will step off on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Except for some years during World War II, Newark has held a Memorial Parade every year since 1919, according to parade committee member and local historian Robert Thomas.

As National Guard helicopters fly over to start the event, Colonel Daniel N. Sundt, USA, (Ret.) will lead the marchers down Main Street from South College Avenue to Academy Street.

Among the 80 units expected this year is the 25-member, historic 3rd U.S. Infantry (The Old Guard) Fife and Drum Corps, and the 1st STARTING IN FALL 1997, three more Christina District schools will have dress codes for students.

The Christina school board has unanimously approved uniform-look dress codes for the Early Childhood Centers at Bayard and Bancroft elementary schools as well as elementary students at Drew-Pyle. The plans will be evaluated again by the school board in June 1998.

Tenant occupancy must be posted

NEWARK CITY COUNCIL continued make adjustments to the city code this week in an effort to tighten housing and property maintenance ordinances and limit disputes over alleged rental abuses.

On Monday night, council approved an amendment to the property maintenance code to require a posted certificate stating the maximum permitted number of tenants in a one-family and/or two-family dwelling.

"This is similar to the certificates seen in elevators," noted city manager Carl Luft. "It must be posted Sexual assault on Chapel St.

Newark Police report that on May 9 around 7 p.m. a 21-year-old female student was approached by an unknown suspect as she walked on North Chapel Street near the railroad underpass. The woman told police that a stranger, described as a light-skinned black male in his late 30s, with very short hair, a skinny face, about 5 feet, 11 inches, average to thin build, wearing a buttoned-down shirt that was tucked in very neatly, grabbed her breast as she walked by him. She pushed him away but he grabbed her a second time before she crossed the street and got away from him. Anyone with information is asked to call police at 366-7111.

Gauger student clashes with teacher

State police and Christina School officials are still investigating an alleged assault by a teacher on a 7th-grader at Gauger/Cobbs Middle School on May 8. The boy's mother told police that the teacher grabbed her son and pushed him against a wall leaving bruises on his arms. The incident reportedly occurred after the student was ordered out of the classroom for being disruptive. On May 13, deputy superintendent Frank Rishel said the district was still looking into the incident and a report of their findings would be released when the investigation was complete.

Fraternity melee results in bite

On May 1 around 2 a.m. a 21-year-old Maryland college student was bitten on the nose during a fight in front of the Kappa Alpha fraternity house. He required 14 stitches for the wound. Police said numerous individuals were involved in the large fight involving local fraternity students and others from out-of-town. Police chased one student several blocks down Main Street before he was stopped. Police are investigating.

Cars coming and going

A man shopping at the Acme in Suburban Square on May 6 between noon and 1:10 p.m. said his 1983 yellow, 2-door Cadillac was gone when he came out of the store. While investigating, police discovered a previously stolen 1987 Cadillac two spaces over from where the 1983 had been taken. Police are investigating.

According to Newark Police, this bogus traveler's check was presented to a Main Street merchant for payment this week. The item was returned when the merchant attempted to remit the item to his bank for payment.

"It was determined to be an elaborate IOU after inspection by our department detectives," explained media officer Curt Davis.

Newark police said this was the first report of this nature received here, although similar schemes have already been reported in parts of Maryland. "We are concerned that other businesses may be the victims of this or similar schemes," said Davis.

Persons with concerns or questions should call police at 366-7111.

Residents want limit on tenants

RENTALS, from 1

somewhere in the residence where the tenants will see it."

The certificate must include "the maximum number of unrelated persons who may lawfully inhabit the dwelling pursuant to a valid lease, (and) a statement of penalties as established herein for failure to comply with the requirements."

The name and telephone number of the owner or owner's agent, and the telephone number of the city of Newark building department must also be posted.

Both landlords and local residents complain that students regularly ignore the permitted occupancy of four non-related tenants per single-family residence. Capping the number of rental units and limiting or even reducing tenants per unit in Newark has been sought by neighbors weary of student rentals.

At a recent council workshop, city solicitor Roger Akin told councilmembers that in his opinion, city council has the authority to establish a moratorium on the number of rental units in Newark and to reduce the occupancy level from four tenants per residence to three.

No proposals have been brought before council on these measures; however, in March, an ordinance to make minimum fines for violation of the property maintenance codes mandatory was tabled after landlords and others complained it was too restrictive.

According to councilmember Nancy Turner, many landlords have asked her about clarification so that their tenants will know how many people can live in a rental residence. "The landlords are convinced that young people just don't understand their rental contracts," said Turner, "even though the landlords explain the leases which state the maximum occupancy."

City building director Junie Mayle said that a form will be sent out with each rental permit renewal to generate a certificate at that time for each unit. "The certificates will go into effect over the next year as the permits become due," said Mayle.

The posted certificate will be one more item for property inspectors to check when they go through rentals. "It should be in any visible place," Mayle said. "Obviously down behind the furnace is not OK."

Massive neighborhood drug raid in Bear

Undercover officers from New Castle County, Newark, and Dover Police departments closed a six-week investigation dubbed "Operation Birdcage" in Brookmont Farms on May 8.

A total of 14 houses, targeted as drug distribution centers, were entered simultaneously around 6 a.m. by officers armed with search and arrest warrants.

Police arrested 28 people on charges ranging from cocaine trafficking to a minor traffic violation.

Seized during the raid, according to New Castle County Police Chief John L. Cunningham, were 4.1 ounces of marijuana, 10.2 grams of crack cocaine; $3,000 in cash; and three weapons.

The massive raid was designed to stabilize the Brookmont Farms neighborhood off Route 40 in Bear and remove the criminal element.

Police were assisted by the County Complaints office, the state Division of Probation and Parole, and the F.B.I. Fugitive Task Force Division.

In addition, county representatives inspected for code violations, and the State Division of Family Services and the S.P.C.A. took custody of children and household pets.

MEMORIAL DAY TRASH COLLECTION CHANGES

The Memorial Day holiday will be celebrated on Monday, May 26 in Newark. Trash normally collected on that day will be collected on Tuesday, May 27, and trash normally collected on Tuesday, will be collected on Wednesday, May 28. There will be no special bulk pickups during the week of the holiday.

Regular council workshops scheduled

For the past two years, Newark city council has held periodic workshops to discuss items of city interest prior to putting them on the regular council agenda.

Workshops, open to the public, have been scheduled on an as-needed basis. Councilmembers recently voted to schedule these workshops every third Tuesday of each month, starting May 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber.

"We have had a problem in the past getting all the members here on a particular night," said councilmember Harold Godwin in proposing the arrangement. "We can always cancel a workshop 10 days in advance if we decide there isn't anything to discuss."

Attention: off-campus students

AS A TENANT of a rental property within the city of Newark, you are probably aware of the large amount of old furniture and excessive trash that is abandoned by students as they leave for the Summer, and to a lesser extent, as they arrive in the Fall.

In an effort to protect the welfare and safety of our neighborhoods, city officials would like to advise tenants of the following:

Arrangements for the "scheduled" collection of three bulk items, at no expense, can be made by calling the public works department at 366-7045. Any pick-ups greater than three bulk items and/or items without scheduled appointments for pick-up will be collected on a fee basis. These scheduled pick-ups are on a limited, first-come-first-served basis. Items must be placed at the curb for pick-up no earlier than 6 p.m. the day prior to the scheduled collection day.

Under city code, excessive refuse, defined as an area three-feet by three-feet by four-feet if piled, or a maximum of four 32-gallon containers, or items which would take more than two minutes of collection time for one man, will be collected from one unit on a fee basis. A unit is described as a single-family residence or one-half of a duplex house.

Owners/manager of rental units have been notified of this collection criteria and invoices for said collections will be forwarded to their attention. Students who are in doubt as to whether or not their collection will be on a fee basis should contact the public works department.

Guilfoyle returned to Christina

Christina School Board member Michael Guilfoyle was elected to a second five-year term by a substantial margin on May 10.

Almost 1000 Christina District voters went to the polls on Saturday when Guilfoyle received 581 of 991 votes to defeat challengers Iris Rosa who had 348 and Eveline Armstrong with only 62.

"I'm pleased to be re-elected but I was disappointed by the turnout," said Guilfoyle. "A lot of people said the Saturday before Mother's Day when the Flower Market is held was a poor choice."

Guilfoyle said he would like to see the Christina election change to Tuesday in the future. "Some people have insisted that the election be held on Saturday to allow working parents, particularly in Wilmington, the opportunity to vote," said Guilfoyle.

District officials said that only 184 persons voted at polling sites in the city of Wilmington in this most recent election.

A statistical consultant at the University of Pennsylvania, Guilfoyle has pledged to continue his attention to financial accountability and equity issues in the district in his second term.

Transit workshops scheduled

A draft of strategies to increase customer convenience is the topic of public transit workshops being held by the Wilmington Area Planning Council.

In the Newark area, workshops are scheduled for May 22 at Thurgood Marshall Elementary School, off Walther Road in Bear, and May 29 in the WILMAPCO Conference Room, 850 Library Avenue, Newark. Workshops start at 7 p.m.

WILMAPCO encourages all those interested in combating congestion to attend a workshop where citizens can hear about short term plans to improve customer information, accessibility, and reliability for bus and rail transit in New Castle County and Maryland.

"One of the proposals is a possible Newark-Elkton transit link," said WILMAPCO planner Anthony DiGiacomo.

Other proposals include: "Guide-A-Ride" displays at all bus stops; making Newark a major transit destination with transit connections at the commuter rail station; and adding non-traditional services along the Route 40 corridor.

For additional information call WILMAPCO at 737-6205.

Maintenance of rentals big issue for locals

A group of local residents were less than enthused with plans by the recently formed Newark Landlord's Association to help them live with rentals in their neighborhoods.

Anthony Panaccione, president of the new landlord association, told the Old Newark Civic Association that his organization thought they could come up with better ways than those tried by the city officials to address problems caused by single-family rentals in the community.

"We have divided the issues into four committees for Rentals/Density & Occupancy, Noise, Leases, and Parking, Garbage and Maintenance Adherence issues," explained Panaccione. "This is a cutting edge approach where we'll come up with a program and propose the community and the city try it for a period of time."

Both Panaccione and fellow landlord, Dominick Gallo, said the city's proposal to limit the number of tenants in a residence was not the answer.

However, residents thought differently. "One of the reasons for limiting tenants is to limit the number of cars," said resident Jenny Dean.

Dean.

Gallo said that one of his ideas was to require one off-street parking space for every tenant. "Have parking in the backyards?" asked Dean incredulously. "I didn't realize on-street parking was that big a problem."

Gallo claimed that others he has talked to in Newark liked this idea.

Dean wanted to know why the landlords didn't address issues like maintenance, "on which there's agreement," and then address more complex ones on which there is less agreement? "Maintenance is a horrible issue that needs to be addressed," said Dean.

"The landlord who keeps up property is in the minority," agreed resident Ron Walker, "a tiny minority."

Gallo responded that his group was trying to attack all issues at once and suggested that the police and building department powers could be used to address nuisance problems.

"I'm tired of the residents being the 'keepers' of the neighborhood, the jailers so to speak," said homeowner Kay Lutz.

"And all the services that the city of Newark has to provide to enforce the codes should be billed to the rental permits so taxpayers don't have to pay," said Walker. "This is a small revolution going on here - (rentals) have wrecked our neighborhood and destroyed our quality of life."

Another resident said it took a month before complaints about a particular student rental with trash in the yard was addressed. "There was even old furniture that just sat there," said the woman.

Dean added that vindictive retaliation by renters has stopped some older people who tried complaining to the city. "People urinate on their doors and slash their tires," said Dean. "We've seen that."

Lutz suggested the University find land somewhere for new dorms. But Bob Brunner pointed out that "they destroyed a whole neighborhood to build a dorm on Ray Street."

Downtown resident David Robertson claimed that once-cohesive neighborhoods were destabilized when rentals expand into them. "I lived on Cleveland Avenue when Ray Street was destroyed," Robertson said. "One black man who had to move said, 'they can't pay me enough to replace a community.'"

"The balance in the neighborhoods is the real issue," said another resident. "The number of rental houses per neighborhood not the number of tenants per house."

Dean said loss of private residences to rentals contributed to the problem. "Private buyers can't compete economically if a house can have five or more renters - it's too expensive to be a single-family home, anymore."

And another resident noted, "A high property value only helps people who want to sell for a rental."

Dean said that people get frightened when they see a house in a neighborhood with renters and poor maintenance. "Renters usually do not have a long term commitment to a neighborhood," said Dean. "They put their energy into different things if they are not staying for years and years."

Stan Harper concluded that just having students in a single-family neighborhood was a problem. "No matter how carefully a house is kept up, having students there is the problem," said Harper. "You can walk down the street and pick them out."

Alan Wessel and 6-year-old Mark Wessel gave Mark's father, Dennis, plenty of room to prove he could still perform on a unicycle.

Wessels remain unique and different

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

BERNARD O. WESSEL of Newark celebrated his 80th birthday in grand style on May 11 when his children threw a party attended by almost 50 relatives.

Family members came from as far away as the state of Washington for a week of celebrating, according to daughter Joan Rossi of Newark.

"My dad had eight children and 17 grandchildren," said Rossi. "About 37 of us went to the Three Little Bakers for dinner on May 10 and the next day we celebrated with a birthday picnic at the home of my brother Alan Wessel, in Middletown."

Bernard O. Wessel of Newark shared more than his lap recently when he and two of his grandsons, 2-year-old Kyle Wessel of Middletown and 6-year-old Mark Wessel of Limestone Hills, all celebrated their joint birthday on May 10. Other grandchildren partied on a trampoline.

Dennis and Alan Wessel gained fame of their own back in the early 1970s when they used to deliver the Daily Post in Newark on their unicycles!

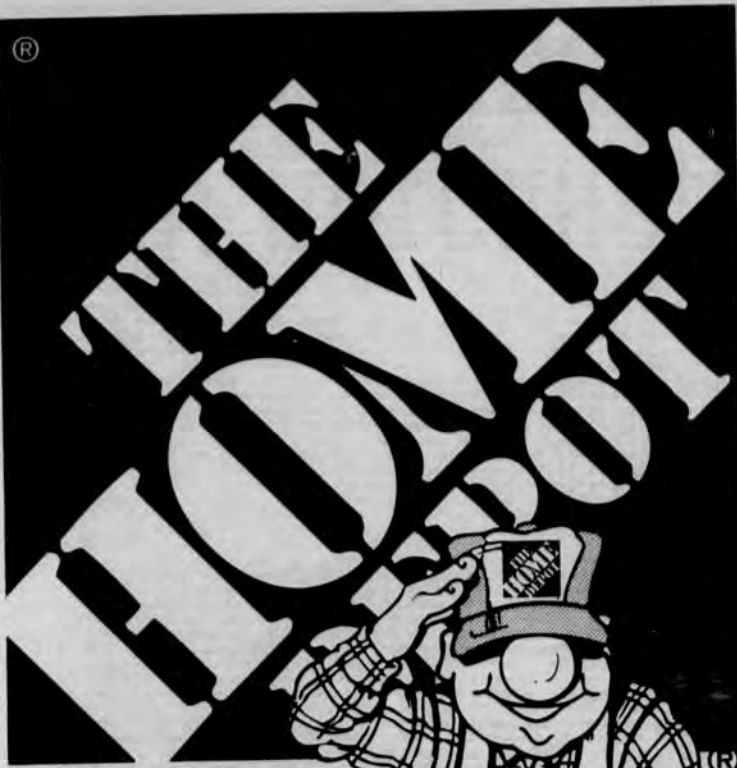

But Wessel's festivity was only a part of the fun. By incredible coincidence, Wessel shares his May 10 birthday with two of his grandsons, 6-year-old Mark Wessel of Limestone Hills, and 2-year-old Kyle Wessel of Middletown.

"Mark and Kyle are the sons of my brother's, Dennis and Alan," explained Rossi. "They are the two youngest of my brothers."

Rossi said Dennis and Alan Wessel gained fame of their own back in the early 1970s when they used to deliver the Newark Post on their unicycles! "They were featured in an article in the Post in 1973," said Rossi. "As I understand it, they used my brothers to promote the paper as 'unique, different and daily' when it temporarily became a daily newspaper."

In addition to Rossi and her brothers, Dennis and Alan, Wessel's children include Peggy Wessel of Detroit, Mich., Steve Wessel of Newark, David Wessel of Port Orchard, Wash., and Anne Jogurst of Lynchburg, Va. Ron Wessel is deceased.

The elder Wessel, a widower, has lived in Newark with his family since 1962 when he moved here from Michigan. He retired from Chrysler Corporation after 40 years of service.

That was then, this is now

"THAT'S HISTORY. Life goes on" was City of Newark planning director Roy Lopata's response last week when pressed to endorse a development plan. He was right.

The planner was commenting on a scenario that would allow a Galleria-like structure on the nearby Roy Rogers site. The new building's "footprint" would have consumed most of the decaying restaurant property and required significant off-street parking. When Newark's planners balked at such an idea, the developer-to-be noted that his plan was similar to a plan approved for a different developer at the same site last year.

"This is now," Lopata said, "and new parking concerns have arisen downtown in the past year. We just can't continue to issue parking waivers as we have in the past."

The planner's attitude may seem unfair on the surface, but he's right on the mark. If too many parking waivers have not been issued already, certainly there's not room for more. The increased activity downtown, particularly around the Galleria and new eateries, has created what some are even calling a crisis. We're not sure we agree with that assessment but surely Lopata is wise to send the Roy Rogers site plan back to the drawing boards. As much we would like to see the eyesore replaced by an attractive, functional building, doing so without addressing the parking situation today is wrong.

That was then. This is now.

OUT OF THE ATTIC

This week, "Out of the Attic" features a photograph taken about October 1937. It shows Miss Maxwell's third grade class in the old school located on the corner of Academy Street and Delaware Avenue. These "children" soon will be hosting their 50-year class reunion on June 14. Some of the children shown in the picture have moved away and new students later joined the class to make up the Class of 1947. Identity of the students, as provided to us, is, left to right: bottom row - Bill Clancy, Jack Fossett, Irvin McCall, Alfred Lindell, unknown, Peggy Guhl, Miss Maxwell, Burton Campbell, Shirley Short, unknown, Gladys Reynolds, Edna Zimmer, unknown and unknown; second row - John Jay Williams, Alton Haney, Bill Marrs, "X" Johnson, Bill Harrington, unknown, "X" Johnson, Chris Irwin, Reds Carmine, unknown, Ronald Ewing, unknown, unknown and unknown; third row - unknown, unknown, Elizabeth Ann Tweed, unknown, Charles Deer, Herbert Stone, unknown, unknown, unknown and Ethel Weaver Zabenko; and top row - David Kennedy, Pearl Campbell and unknown. "Out of the Attic" features historic photographs from Newark's history, recent and long ago. Readers who have a historic photo and would like to share it with other readers are invited to loan their photos for reprinting in this space. Special care will be taken. Moral training lacking in schools

The final meeting of the local parent-teacher association was held in the High School on the last Thursday night and Rev. Edgar Jones, of St. Thomas' Church was the speaker.

The rector of the local church spoke of the great need for moral training in the schools of today.

In his address, Dr. Jones said that the children of today have a hazy conception of what moral principles are because of the lack of moral and religious training in the homes.

He further added and suggested that the school children be sent in groups to the various churches at regular periods during the week for definite religious instructions by the ministers.

President here

Many persons of Newark saw President Harding and his party when it passed through here last week enroute to Atlantic City.

The party was traveling by automobiles and when the University of Delaware was passed the automobiles were driven very slowly.

On his return trip President Harding and his wife were the guests of Senator duPont.

Clean-up days

Last Wednesday and Thursday were Clean-Up Days in Newark.

That they had their effect was evident if a tour of the town was made on Friday.

Of course there are those who will say that the Clean-Up Days were just the same as any other days of the year but those who were interested in the movement and the welfare of the town know that for all along the streets of the town there could be seen large boxes of tin cans, broken bottles and rubbish of other nature awaiting the wagon for the removal of this refuse.

Sewer fight truce

An eight-week cease-fire has been declared in the rapidly escalating sewer battle between the city of Newark and New Castle County.

The truce came just as the state court of Chancery was about to rule on two suits brought against the county by Newark.

'BWP' was the key for Hen Thinclads

The University of Delaware track team had been preparing for last weekend's Middle Atlantic Conference Track and Field Championships with "BWP" as the key letters.

"That's Best Way Possible," said varsity coach Jimmy Flynn who led a 26-man contingent to the annual extravaganza hosted by Rider College Friday and Saturday.

Methanol cars debut at Newark Chrysler

Chrysler's Newark Assembly Plant has become the only Chrysler facility in the country to build methanol-powered cars.

The plant recently built 25 of the cars, and plans to manufacture between 4,000 and 5,000 more during the 1993 model year.

Nau leads Glasgow to rout of Newark

Sheri Nau did it all for the Glasgow High softball team as it routed Newark High 13-0 on a sunny and warm Tuesday afternoon.

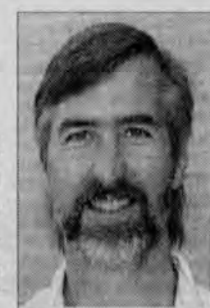

Nau, a senior, pitched a three-hitter and collected three hits, four runs-batted-in and scored three runs in the Dragons' victory over their Flight A and crosstown rival.

EDUCATIONAL PERSPECTIVES

Actions speak louder than words

By JACK BARTLEY

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

Bartley

IN A STUNNINGLY CREATIVE move to solve crime problems in inner city Philadelphia, the police commissioner announced at a press conference yesterday that the city has been declared a "Crime Free City Zone." When pressed for details on the "zone" implementation, the commissioner responded, "Police patrol cars will cruise through the city streets every morning and make announcements to the citizens."

A hush fell over the reporters gathered at the conference. One reporter timidly raised his hand and asked, "Um, just out of curiosity, what will be said on these announcements?"

"I'm glad you asked," said the Commissioner. "We will broadcast important pronouncements like, 'We know we have a crack dealing problem at Broad and Greene. We need the help of all the citizens there in solving that problem and getting the area cleaned up,' or 'There have been a number of murders at 42nd and Market. We know who you murderers are and we need your help in making sure this doesn't happen again.' Variations of this script will continue intermittently throughout the year." The Commissioner paused, obviously pleased with his solution.

The murmurs in the audience increased in intensity until one grizzled old reporter asked, "Just what will happen to criminals who violate this policy?"

"They will be taken to various precincts throughout the city, depending on their last names and their ages."

See PERSPECTIVES, 7 ►

'Does this seem like an unrealistic scenario?'

► PERSPECTIVES, from 6

Occasionally, lists of known criminals will be announced from the police cars. They will be directed to report to a particular precinct for their punishment. We expect criminals to do this voluntarily and respect the officers who will tell them to 'Move along. Get to your police station,' or 'You are supposed to be in jail already. Where is your cell?' Officers will be directed not to touch or in any way detain the criminals to prevent them from being upset."

The reporters looked at one another in disbelief. The old reporter said, "Let me get this straight. You are going to send criminals all over the city to be dealt with by different districts, even if they are involved in the same crime."

How will the precincts know the details of the crimes to be able to deal with the criminals fairly?

An even better question, how will police officers know the criminals' names?"

The Commissioner sighed. "Look. In our daily announcements we will direct the criminals to cooperate with officers and voluntarily give them their correct names."

The naiveté of this idea seemed transparently obvious to the people at the press conference. Another reporter commented, "Commissioner. A recent poll of the officers and citizens of the city indicates that people believe officers should have more authority to detain criminals and that criminals should be taken to a central precinct office without worrying about the criminal's name. At this point, all the details of the crime could be reviewed efficiently and fairly."

The commissioner responded, "Well, that's not going to happen."

"Why not, if that is what the people want?"

The Commissioner looked the reporter squarely in the eye and said, "Because I said so!"

Does this seem like an unrealistic scenario?

It is not happening in Philadelphia, but it is happening at some local high schools. In at least one school, announcements are made in the morning imploring students to behave, and in spite of being declared a "Fight Free School Zone," teachers continue to be threatened and assaulted, and brutal fights still occur.

In a fight last week at the "Fight Free School," one student had repeatedly bashed another student's head against a tile wall until it was bruised and bleeding.

Students are chronically late to class and openly smoke cigarettes and pot in gangs of twenty or more outside school exits, with the knowledge of administrators.

"There is nothing we can do about it," has been the response when teachers have asked for help.

It is time for action not words. At our high schools, teachers and security guards should be able to issue detentions ON THE SPOT and detention should be held EVERY day after school.

When the bell rings for class to start, doors should be shut, the halls swept and parents notified of chronic tardiness. Students should be issued computer coded I.D. cards to be displayed at all times (similar to many businesses in the area).

Finally, a school needs a central discipline office that can fairly and efficiently deal with discipline problems. This would permit other advisors to actually ADVISE students on personal issues, courses to take, and plans for after graduation.

Over 19,000 pounds of food for mailmen

Postal workers at the Newark Post Office report that they set a new record in the National Association of Letter Carriers Food Drive on May 10.

According to Newark Food Drive coordinator Paul Himmelstein, as of 6 p.m. on Saturday, local carriers had collected 19,077 pounds of food.

"Our previous record of 12,058 pounds was set on May 11, 1996," said Himmelstein. "This was an increase of over 50 percent from last year's drive."

In 1995, the annual Drive, co-sponsored by the Letter Carriers, the U.S. Postal Service, the AFL-CIO and United Way of Delaware, collected 10,925 pounds of food in Newark.

Food collected along mail routes and at the post office was taken to the Food Bank of Delaware and other charitable food distributors. Himmelstein said the drive was an "overwhelming success due to the generous contributions from the residents of Newark."

BOOK GIVEAWAY AT GALLAHER

More than 130 students from Gallaher Elementary School received personalized storybooks at the school on Monday thanks to the Young Readers Program.

According to school spokesperson Ellen Revit, the program was initiated by Mary Riffel of K.C. Associates, a Bear company that custom publishes children's books.

Among those attending to distribute books was state senator Donna Reed (R-Breezewood II).

The books were provided through donations by sponsors Bell Atlantic, ADT Security, Liberty Mutual Insurance, Home Waste Inc., Countrywide Nursery & Garden Center, Millers Furniture, Residence Inn by Marriott, McFoy Refrigeration Inc., MEDICAL, Murray Transportation and K.C. Associates.

NEWARK OUTLOOK

The yard can be a dangerous place

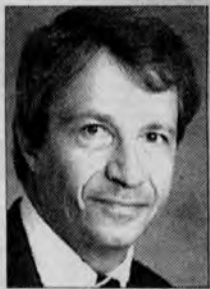

■ This weekly feature on the Lifestyle page is authored by the staff of the Newark-based Cooperative Extension Service.

Last weekend was Mother's Day, and it was a pretty good weekend, except for the wind. Kids were out playing in the yard, riding bikes and playing ball. Despite the wind, plenty of Newark residents were outside doing their yard work, gardening and more.

Environmental hazards are a big problem this time of the year. I'm not talking about polluted creeks, toxic waste dumps and foul air. Our own homes and neighborhoods are as big an environmental risk to our children as any factory.

Kids spend a good part of their day at home, and for the most part feel secure there. There are a number of environmental hazards that put children at risk for illness and possibly even death. One thing that comes immediately to mind on a nice weekend is the risk from pesticides and fertilizers. For many of us, the only time we have to work in the yard is on the weekend. Unfortunately, not all weekends are created equal. Last weekend was a terrible weekend for spreading fertilizer and spraying garden chemicals, due to the high wind. Not only do we put our kids at risk when we spray or fertilize in those conditions, but we put pets and our water supply in jeopardy also. It's never a good idea to use lawn chemicals in windy conditions, but there are also a few other rules to follow. First, keep kids and pets out of the area when spraying or using fertilizer. Read the label instructions carefully to determine when it's safe to let the kids out on the lawn again. Also, it's always a good idea to let the neighbors know what you're doing. Especially young children are more susceptible to pesticides. It doesn't take much wind to blow an insecticide or herbicide in through an open window into a sleeping child's room. Also, make sure to keep all chemicals secured properly in their original containers and away from the kids.

Another problem that we get in Newark every summer is those darn mosquitoes. Now Shari Trnka (in hat) with her Main Street family and staff, currently does designing, pattern cutting, inspecting, and shipping from her Newark site. The designer will open a retail outlet store in Traders Alley on May 20.

Trnka's secret garden

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

SURROUNDED BY CLOTHING in many hues hanging like exotic flowers around the workroom, Shari Trnka is all business and intensely focused while explaining her designs.

"I use colors and ideas from nature in most of my clothing," said Trnka. "When I was at the University of Delaware I majored in plant science — which may sound strange for a designer — but I get a lot of inspiration from nature."

Trnka, whose clothing line is carried in over 800 stores in the United States, Venezuela, Bermuda, and Canada, has been a well-kept secret on Newark's Main Street for over two years.

"When Cuppy Sullivan came here last year for a National Main Street meeting, she was wearing one of my jackets that she had purchased in Georgia," said Trnka. "Gene Danneman at the business association had to tell her that the designer was right here in Newark."

Starting May 20, Trnka will have a factory outlet store at her Trader's Alley location to augment the customers she made through her previous wholesale contacts.

"Up to now, I've only had three-day studio sales here," Trnka said. "I advertised those sales through a mailing list but I've gotten quite a following in Newark."

Trnka moved here with her family while she was still in middle school. "I've had the opportunity to take the business out of Newark," Trnka said, "but I like it here."

Her first designs were for children after her son, Jason, was born. "I was a very young mother at age 19," said Trnka. "I custom-made children's clothes and also sold wholesale to a children's store that used to be on Main Street."

While attending college, she took a job in product development for Outer Limits and spent over eight years learning the clothing industry and marketing. "I never finished college," said Trnka. "When I left Outer Limits I was already doing free-lance designing."

Three years ago, some local people approached her with capital which permitted her to go national with her small wholesale business. "I had 80 stores the first year but we've seen tremendous growth," said Trnka, explaining that she does designing, pattern cutting, inspecting, and shipping from her Newark site.

Contractors sew the clothing from natural, undyed fabric which is then sent to a dye house to be produced in a palette of 14 complementary colors.

"I work mostly in texture to create simple silhouettes in a classic but not traditional style," said Trnka, whose customers range from college students to their mothers. "I try to make clothing that lets women make their own statement — designs that let them express themselves."

Her passion for nature extends to the garment colors which in the Spring 1997 collection included begonia, coral, periwinkle, robin's egg, celadon, butter, cocoa, stone, natural, black, white, amethyst, jade and lapis.

The heat in the dye process sets the pigments in the American-made fabrics, making the resulting clothing easy care and long-lasting. "Everything I make is cold-water washable and dryable," said Trnka.

"I want a product that people can depend on," she added. "I like that they can come back the next season and get another piece that goes with one they have already purchased."

A disaster during her first year in business made Trnka even more cautious in buying materials for her clothing. "We discovered that the elastic was breaking down, and because of the way the garments are made, you had to replace the entire garment," said Trnka. "I wrote to all my customers and told them to check the elastic."

The decision to alert customers "cost quite a bit" and was obviously risky. "Even some customers said, 'nobody does that unless they have to,'" said Trnka. "But it was too much risk not to do it — this was the right thing to do for the reputation of the company."

Trnka, whose teenage son now walks to her store from Newark High School, no longer designs clothing for children.

But recently in the Goodwill store she found one of the baby jackets she made at age 19. "I bought it, of course" said Trnka. "It was still in good condition."

Trnka will be open Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. starting May 20. On June 13 and 14, the store will be open until 10 p.m. for the grandopening celebration and Newark Nite. Ten percent of all sales on those two nights will go to benefit Emmaus House.

Transportation festival choo-choo-choosing to Delaware

DO YOU LIKE RIDDLES? I do. Two of my favorite cartoon characters used to use them effectively and I would borrow from the dynamic duo to open my column. Scene: Night, atop a tall building in Gotham City.

The older says, "Riddle me this, Robin. When is the eighth busiest railroad station in our great country not an Amtrak Station?"

The younger, smiling with pride, "Golly-gee-wilakers, Batman, that's an easy one. It is the time when Pennsylvania Station in Wilmington, Delaware, becomes a great transportation museum, but only for ONE day!" Fade to black.

Thank you, cape covered crusaders!

The one day is this Saturday, May 17, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The event is the 1997 Delaware Transportation Festival. The location is in and around Penn Station at Front and French Streets in Wilmington, outside along Water Street and along the north bank of the historic Christina River.

The primary sponsors of the festival this weekend are DelDOT, the Delaware Transit Corporation and Amtrak but many other organizations are involved. These include SEPTA, DART, The Wilmington and Western Railroad, The National Railway Historical Society and many more groups interested in both land and sea transportation. Admission to the annual event is, as always, free.

Doug Andrews, rail specialist and coordinator of Operation Lifesaver Delaware, is always a busy man. We find him in schools helping children to understand how to be safe in today's very fast moving world, working to better our rail system in the Diamond State, planning and carrying out the annual Rails to the Fair event each July, etc., but this time of year it is easy to meet Doug coming and going all at the same time! As busy as he is, a pleasant word and a smile are never missing.

I asked Doug why we were having a transportation festival. His response was very quick. "Phil, we want to make people aware of the many modes of transportation that operate here in Delaware and to let them see equipment from the past that has helped us get where we are and to see things that are just on line or coming on line to make our future transportation system better."

THE ARTS

He cited rail transportation as but one example of all the exhibits this weekend. "For instance in the railroad exhibits we will have the only ALCO 4-4-0 'American Class' steam engine still in regular passenger service anywhere in the world up on Track One under a full head on steam and also, further down the same track, the latest, modern, powerful locomotive from Amtrak." The steam engine he referred to is Number 98 and belongs to the Wilmington and Western Railroad.

Two beautifully restored Reading Company "F" units, 902 and 903, belonging to two chapters of the National Railway Historical Society will also be on Track One. Amtrak will have its newest sleeping cars and coaches open for inspection. At pre-World War I Pullman coach with cane seats will offer some contrast. SEPTA will be offering train rides from Wilmington to Newark throughout the festival. Model railroads will be represented at the festival too.

Other displays will include highway construction and maintenance equipment, emergency response vehicles of all kinds, antique cars and the newest busses in service. There will be boat rides on the Christina River. Video will be the medium for showing the latest in transportation technology.

The only ALCO 4-4-0 "American Class" steam locomotive still in scheduled passenger service anywhere in the country, Wilmington and Western Railroad's No. 98, will be oldest locomotive on display at the 1997 Transportation Festival at Pennsylvania Station in Wilmington this Saturday.

Many demonstrations will be offered including Operation Lifesaver information. Of course, food and beverages will be available.

I rarely miss Delaware's Transportation Festival and in the past I had thought it to be one of our state's "best kept secrets." Now, however, the crowds are coming and enjoying themselves. This is a festival which can be enjoyed by all members of the family, regardless of age.

I have only skimmed the events, there is much more to see and do at Penn Station in Wilmington this Saturday. This is the ninth time the festival has been set up here in Delaware. Isn't it time you and your family paid a visit?

There is a multi-story, security patrolled parking garage just across the street from the main entrance to the railroad station. Everything is within easy walking distance.

By James C. McLaren

A tormented Park Ranger,
Wanting thrills ever stranger,
Brushed up against Old Faithful's geyser.
He was scalded by steam,
Let out ear-piercing scream,
And decided home-stays were much wiser.

A most lazy Termite
Felt incredibly light.
He bored into softest wood: balsa.
Quite unthrilled by this feat,
He did the upbeat,
And chewed on some chips dipped in salsa.

What is a huge female version of a monster?
A monstrous monstress.

Why was a podiatrist hired to fix a decaying Paris landmark?
It had a fallen Arch.

It is always sad to contemplate the distress of crops in a drought.

■ Author's note: Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws - the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope Newark Post readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

Danger in your own back yard

► OUTLOOK, from 8

granted, we don't have the super size mosquitoes that they have elsewhere in the state, but ours are bad enough. When you factor in ticks and the threat of Lyme disease, many parents become concerned about insect bites and the potential for disease and illness. One way to protect the kids is to use insect repellants. Be careful about the insect repellants that you use on your children. Most popular insect repellants use a chemical called DEET (diethyltoluamide). This chemical is absorbed into the skin and can be harmful to children. Choose an insect repellant made for children, preferably with less than 10% DEET. Apply insect repellant to the clothes, and not the skin where possible.

There are plenty of hazards in raising children today, but many of them can be prevented, contained or even eliminated. Using a little common sense when using lawn and garden chemicals can go a long way toward keeping the yard looking nice and keeping the kids healthy so they can enjoy it.

Open-air concert also planned for Saturday

► MEMORIAL DAY, from 1

Delaware Regiment (American Rifles), an historical unit of the Delaware Army National Guard. The Old Guard will perform on the Mall and again on Main Street.

Other military units which accepted invitations to attend include the U.S. Army from Aberdeen Proving Ground, Dover

Air Force Base, Marines and Navy reservists, Sea Cadets, JROTC, and the Continental Color Guard.

Veterans will be well represented by representatives from World War II, Korean War and Vietnam War, as well as American ex-POWs and Disabled Veterans.

Marching bands from four high schools and the Smyrna Fire Company Band will provide music for marchers and vehicles from local fire companies, antique cars, and local organizations.

Tomorrow night, the city is sponsoring an open air concert by the 287th U.S. Army Band from 6 to 8 p.m. behind the Academy Building on Academy Street. The Independence School Jazz Band will perform during the concert intermission. Attendees at the free concert are encouraged to dress in military uniform.

Following the parade on Sunday, a memorial service will take place at the reviewing stand at Academy and Main streets after which trophies will be presented by Mayor Ronald Gardner.

Newark has enacted a series of strict parking and towing laws. The parade committee suggests parking in the University of Delaware parking garage, University lots with the gates open, or the Newark Parking Authority lots which are free on Sunday.

The management of the Newark Shopping Center will also permit parking for parade-goers on Sunday afternoon.

In case of inclement weather, announcements will be made on major radio stations in New Castle County.

NEWARK POST ❖ IN THE NEWS

NEWARKER WINS SECOND SPELLING BEE

For the second year in a row, Newark resident Caroline Williams (back right) took first place in the Annual Spelling Bee for Catholic schools in Delaware and Maryland. Williams, a 6th-grader at Immaculate Conception School in Elkton, was among 67 students from 23 schools participating in the event. Also competing were Chelsea Brown (sweater) of St. John the Beloved School in Milltown, MaryAnne Kozman (plaid jumper) of Immaculate Conception School, and James Harrison (in tie) of Holy Angels School in Newark. Williams received a $100 bond, her homeroom teacher received a grant of $100 toward the purchase of literature published by sponsor Houghton Mifflin; and Immaculate Conception School will receive a $1,000 grant toward the purchase of program materials.

Newest plans more than dress codes much more limited than the guidelines installed at Shue-Medill Middle School last year, — more a “uniform” than a dress code.

Students must wear solid white shirts or blouses and navy blue jumpers, skirts or pants. Shoes must be black. Navy blue shoes or boots are also acceptable in the elementary schools. T-shirts may only be worn on gym days at Drew-Pyle, when gray or navy shorts are also appropriate.

Elementary students may vary their look with sweaters and vests in solid red, white or navy. Jewelry must be non-distracting and appropriate for school and is not permitted on gym day.

Shue-Medill was the first school in Delaware to implement a dress code following highly-emotional public meetings in which some parents and students criticized the cost and regimentation of the plan.

Clothing acceptable under the Shue-Medill dress code includes "appropriately-sized" dress pants or jeans, dresses, jumpers, skirts, collared, turtleneck or polo-style shirts, and sweaters worn over shirts. Clothing may be of any color. Low-top shoes or sneakers are also allowed.

Shue-Medill principal Robert Adams was praised by the school board in July 1996 for his courage in being the first to try the idea, and then school superintendent Iris Metts predicted that other schools would follow.

According to school administrators, more than a dozen community meetings were held to obtain parent and student input for the recent proposals.

"We had an overwhelming response from parents," said Drew-Pyle principal Robert Klatzkin. "The meetings were well attended, especially in the suburbs."

Assistant principal Harriet Billops said participation by parents of upcoming kindergarten students was not very good but the early childhood staff had done everything possible to inform them of the plan.

Because many kindergarten students do not register until late August or during the first week of school, the plan in the early childhood centers will be phased in over the first marking period.

Staff at the affected schools believe that a dress code will promote discipline and an atmosphere of learning without stifling personal differences.

"As in a an orchestra or a sports team, where every individual dresses alike to demonstrate their commitment to working together, each individual remains unique and possesses their individual talent," said the committee in the Drew-Pyle proposal.

Deputy School Superintendent Frank Rishel said the district had not had any objections to the proposed policies since their reading at the April 1997 school board meeting.

A proposal by board member George Evans that K-6 schools throughout the district develop a uniform dress code was not acted upon by the school board. Instead, the board directed that a task force be formed to study the idea.

Christina teachers get Presidential Awards for Excellence

By AMY C. SIMS

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Two Christina District teachers have been chosen to receive the Presidential Award for Excellence in Mathematics and Science Teaching.

Sharon Louise Meyer of Maclary Elementary School, and Linda Willey-Impagliazzo of Thurgood Marshall Elementary will each receive a $7,500 grant from the program established by the White House in 1983 and administered by the National Science Foundation.

During an all-expense paid trip to Washington D.C. in June, the two will receive the Presidential Citation and have a chance to chat with leaders in education and government.

Both teachers had to submit a biography, three letters of support, examples of student work, and evidence of teaching talent to be considered as finalists.

"I was elated when I got the (news of the award), and very shocked," said Willey-Impagliazzo. "It was announced over the intercom at school and all of my second grade students were cheering."

Willey-Impagliazzo grew up in Delaware, graduated from Milford High School, and got her undergraduate and masters degree at the University of Delaware. She has taught at Marshall since 1993 and has a background in science and math, but teaches all subjects.

After asking for feedback from her colleagues about what to do with the grant money, Willey-Impagliazzo has come up with an idea to create an outdoor habitat science center. "Students could observe nature and write about it," she explained. "It would be a field trip within the school grounds where we have rabbits, geese, wetlands, and there are animal tracks everywhere."

Willey-Impagliazzo would also like to have a nature trail, and possibly a boardwalk that students could walk on so they wouldn't harm the area.

Meyer, who teaches kindergarten, said, "I am happy to have won the award, but there are a lot of other teachers who are deserving of this recognition."

A graduate of Newark High School, Meyer attended the University of Delaware and will receive a masters degree from Wilmington College this June.

A teacher at Maclary for 14 years, Meyer plans to use the grant money to improve technology at the school by purchasing more computers and equipment such as scanners.

The money will also be used for Meyer's expenses at an annual National Mathematic Conference, and for staff development at Maclary.

Both of these award winning teachers have an idea of what they want to speak to legislators about when they travel to our nation's capitol. "I hope they continue to support programs for the at-risk population - students who have difficulty in school," Meyer said.

Willey-Impagliazzo wants "continued funding for education, especially for science education, so teachers can teach in new ways and not just by a text book."

DIAMONDS SPARKLE

V-ball team one of best in East

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IT WAS QUITE a year for the Delaware Diamonds junior volleyball team.

The Diamonds, an 18-and-under squad competing out of the Delaware Junior Volleyball Club, won the Gold Division of the Atlantic Rim Power League tournament last weekend in Conshohocken, Pa. The team compiled a 19-5 game record over the weekend on its way to the title.

"It was a great weekend," said Diamonds' coach Hugh Mitchell. "The team really played well. It was a fitting way for this team to end the season."

The wins in Conshohocken improved the Diamonds' season record to 139-51 (73 percent winning percentage) in games and 67-18 (79 percent) in matches.

Not only did the Diamonds have a terrific win percentage but they also finished first or second in 12 of the 14 tournaments they participated in over the season.

"It really came together nicely," said Mitchell, who has been involved with the Delaware Juniors in one capacity or another for 11 years. "We had some new players this season and we weren't sure what to expect."

"But this group really had great chemistry. They got along great together. It was just a great season."

Two of the key members of the team were Kristen Darby and Kate Hubbard.

Both seniors at St. Mark's this year, Darby will attend LaSalle University on a volleyball scholarship next fall while Hubbard will attend Virginia Tech on an academic scholarship and play volleyball for the Hokies.

"Kate and Kristen are phenomenal leaders on and off the court," Mitchell said. "They have played for me for four years — that's probably about 1,000 games — now and they really know what I expect out of them and the team."

"They are a huge asset to the development of the younger players as well. They really have been great to work with and they'll be tough to see go."

"This is just a great program," said Darby. "In high school you just play a couple of matches a week. Here, you play five and six times a weekend."

"Plus, Mr. Mitchell is a great coach to play for."

Hubbard echoed those sentiments.

"If it wasn't for Coach Mitchell there's no way I'd be able to play in college," she said. "He motivates us to do our best in each practice and each game. He really made me a better player. This whole program really prepares you to play against the best competition."

Other members of the team include Lisa Darby, Alyssa Fanelli, Meredith McIntosh, Andrea Clarke, Cori James, Megan Hoosty, Briana Gracon and Simone George.

Blue Hens stunned in tourney

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

WILMINGTON — It certainly wasn't an ending that anybody who had seen the University of Delaware baseball team play expected.

After cruising through the regular season with a 43-8 record, the nationally-ranked and top-seeded Blue Hens were unceremoniously eliminated from the America East conference tournament Saturday at Frawley Stadium. A 4-3 loss to Vermont, barring a now unexpected berth to the NCAA Tournament, ended Delaware's prodigious season.

Although it was the Catamounts that ended the Hens' season, it was eventual champion Northeastern that sent Delaware reeling with a 4-1 defeat in Saturday's winners' bracket final.

The Huskies' lefthanded pitcher, Tim Bonehill, kept the nation's leading hitting team off balance. Bonehill shutout Delaware for eight innings before finally surrendering a home run to Tim Mahony in the ninth. That, however, was not enough as Northeastern advanced to the championship game.

"We didn't hit the ball when we had the scoring opportunities," said Delaware coach Bob Hannah. "I thought Bonehill was in control the whole game."

After falling to the Huskies in the afternoon, Delaware had to come right and play Vermont Saturday night.

The Catamounts scored an unearned run in the sixth inning to take a 4-3 lead. Despite a ninth-inning rally by the Hens, Vermont was able to make the one-run margin stand.

The losses dropped Delaware's record to 45-10 and put its once sure hopes of an NCAA regional

Biddle helps lead Caravel softball past Ursuline

BEAR — The Caravel Academy softball team got ready for the state tournament in fine fashion.

The ninth-ranked Bucs blanked eighth-ranked Ursuline 4-0 Tuesday afternoon behind the pitching effort of Megan Biddle. Biddle struck allowed just one hit and struck out 16.

The win improved Caravel's record to 13-3 before Thursday's regular-season finale at St. Mark's. The 16-team state tournament begins May 21.

"This was definitely a good win for us," said Biddle, who will attend the University of Connecticut next fall on a softball scholarship. "Playing good teams and winning is a great way to go into the tournament."

Caravel jumped off to a quick start, scoring twice in the first inning.

Lisa Delcollo led off with a sharp single to center field and moved to third base with a steal and Kati Salony's sacrifice bunt. Delcollo scored the game's first run on Melissa Beatson's ground ball.

Beatson came around to score on a wild pitch to improve the lead to 2-0.

Ursuline pitcher Lauren Mark, who is headed to the University of Delaware on a softball scholarship, held the Bucs scoreless for the four innings.

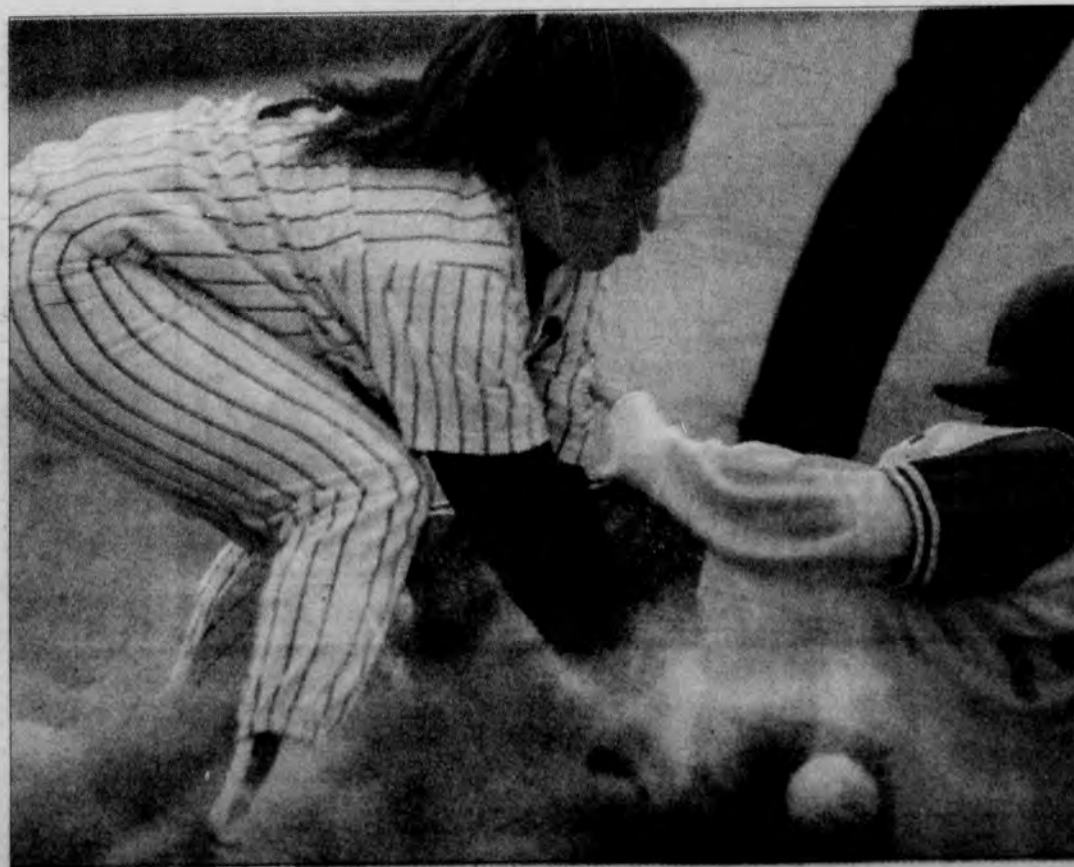

But Caravel struck with two more runs in the sixth inning.

Tiffany Eshelman led off with a walk and Stephanie Rice followed with a bunt that was mishandled to allow both runners to advance safely to second and third base. Consecutive ground balls by Megan Heuberger and Ashley Niggebrugge scored Eshelman and Rice and stretched the lead to 4-0.

Delcollo and Beatson led the Bucs' offense with two hits, a run scored and a stolen base each.

Salony and Rice also added hits for WINNING big track meets takes big performances from many different people.

The Glasgow High boys and girls teams each got those in capturing the New Castle County team championships Saturday at Baynard Stadium.

Two of those big performers were Nick Fedé and Kina Thornton.

Fedé finished second in the 1,600 meters and third in the 800 meters to help the Dragons to their first-ever boys' team county title.

Thornton helped lead the girls to their second straight county championship with a first place showing in the 300-meter hurdles and as a member of the winning 4x200 meter relay team.

"Both of them really give us senior leadership," said Glasgow coach Art Madric. "It takes a lot of depth to win and they provide that for us."

"They also have great attitudes."

The two efforts symbolized the way each team won. The boys had only one individual winner but a bunch of seconds and thirds. Fedé was part of that effort.

The girls had numerous individual titles led by Thornton.

"The boys team has a lot of depth," said Madric. "The girls team doesn't have the depth but they do have a lot of quality."

St. Mark's girls top Archmere

Spartans ready for state tourney

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

MILLTOWN — The St. Mark's High soccer team continued its march toward the state tournament with a 2-0 win over Archmere Monday afternoon at the Delcastle Recreation Complex.

Jennette Wikel scored twice in the game's first 12 minutes to lift the Spartans to the victory. The win improved St. Mark's record to 11-1-2 on the season. Goalkeeper Christy Ganc recorded four saves in earning the shutout.

The Spartans, ranked third in the state, completely dominated the fifth-ranked Auks, outshooting them 28-6.

"We played a nice game," said St. Mark's coach Tom DeMatteis. "Our intensity was really good throughout the game."

Wikel, who had missed six games because of injury this season, got the game started on the right foot for the Spartans. Her first goal came on an assist from Kara Humphries just five minutes into the match.

Her second goal came on an assist from Anjulee Alvares seven minutes later.

"Jennette has been great since she came back," DeMatteis said. "She really can be a weapon for us."

With the state tournament beginning next week, the Spartans are also fortunate to be getting healthy at the right time of the season.

"We played with everybody but one player [against Archmere]," DeMatteis said. "That's the first time we've done that all year. In all my years of coaching I've never seen a year like this — with so many injuries and sickness."

DeMatteis also pointed out key contributions from Susan Oberlander and Anjulee Alvares.

"Susan is really the heart and soul of this team," the coach said. "With all the missed time we've had this year, she hasn't missed a single practice or game."

"And Anjulee has really played strong all season."

The team, along with top-ranked Alexis I. DuPont and second-ranked Newark, will enter the state tournament as one of the favorites to win the state crown.

"Everybody has really pitched in this year," DeMatteis said. "With all the injuries and sickness we've really needed everyone to play. All that key playing time should really help us down the road."

Lacrosse high school all-star games slated

The Delaware High School All-Star lacrosse games will be played May 30 at Alexis I. DuPont High School.

There will be an opening ceremony at 5:45 p.m. with the girls' game beginning at 6 and the boys' game to follow.

Admission is $5 and all the proceeds will benefit the Boys and Girls Clubs of Delaware and the Delaware Lacrosse Foundation.

Glasgow boys and girls win county track and field titles

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Glasgow High put on a dominating performance at the New Castle County Track and Field Championships Saturday at Baynard Stadium.

The Glasgow boys' team, on the strength of a well-balanced and deep performance, rolled to its first county title in school history. The Dragons racked up 96 points to easily out-distance second place Delcastle by 30 points.

Hodgson finished eighth, Christiana placed 10th and Newark 14th.

Shot-putter Bobby Bryant captured the Dragons' only individual championship but Glasgow ran second in five events and third in two more. The Dragons' 4x400 relay team of Darius Crawley, Shaun Lockett, Brian Miller and Vincent Giles also was a winner.

Other local winners included Hodgson's Alvin Ennis (300-hurdles) and Newark's Craig Stanford (200-meters).

The Glasgow girls squad captured its second straight county crown, albeit by a much slimmer margin. The Dragons, after having its winning 4x400 meter relay team disqualified, totaled 102 points to Ursuline's 101 points.

Christiana was fourth and St. Mark's seventh in the girls competition.

"It was really a good meet with the boys and girls both winning," said Glasgow coach Art Madric. "We got a lot of good performances from a lot of people. The boys team has a lot of depth and, while, the girls team isn't as deep they do have a lot of quality."

Kisha Mayo won the 100-hurdles while Kina Thornton won the 300-hurdles for the victorious Dragon girls. The 4x200 relay team of Tammy Adams, Thornton, Dominique Lynch and Mayo was also triumphant.

St. Mark's 4x400 relay team of Sarah Conway, Lisa DiVincenzo, Jen King and Eileen Duffy was a winner while Christiana's Sharna Gray won the high jump competition.

The Vikings' 4x100 relay team of Adeeshur Baker, Shannon Brown, Talia Hewitt and Lynn Harris also captured a county title.

The Dragons, along with the rest of the qualifiers, will compete in the Division I and II state championship meets Friday and Saturday at Polytech.

"Prom," said Madric when thinking of obstacles to a state title. "This weekend's the prom. But our kids have decided that the state title means a lot to them too. I believe they will handle the prom responsibly."

WHAT MAKES FLEAS FLEE ... AND TICKS TICKED?

DR. JIM BERG, a Delaware native, earned a degree in veterinary medicine from Michigan State University in 1975. In December 1996, after practicing veterinary medicine at Academy Animal Hospital, Hockessin Animal Hospital, Pet Practice and Hermitage Animal Hospital, Dr. Berg started his successful house-call practice. He is past president of the Delaware Veterinary Medical Association, a member of the Advisory Panel for Delaware Humane, and can be heard on WDEL (1150AM) every Thursday, 8:45-9:00 a.m., and every other Saturday 11-noon. The local seeing eye chapter, Guiding Paws, calls him their "club-Vet." Residing in Bear, Delaware, married with three children and an Akita named "Nikki," Dr. Berg announces his newly established "Animal Veterinary Center," located on Bear-Christiana Road (at Routes 273 and 7).

Caravel girls ready for state tournament

► CARAVEL, from 17

Caravel.

Meanwhile, Biddle shut down the Raiders' offense.

She allowed just four base runners all game and just one to get as far as third base.

"I felt good out there," Biddle said. "I feel a lot more in control of the game now. I'm thinking about what to throw and everything is working well."

Caravel now turns its attention to the state tournament.

In addition to Ursuline, Caravel has knocked off highly ranked (and probably tournament teams) Milford, Smyrna, Caesar Rodney and Wilmington Christian. The Bucs have lost just three games all season — to Indian River, Wilmington Christian and St.

Elizabeth. All three losses were close games and all three were directly related to Bucs' mistakes.

"We can't let those things bother us so much and get us down," Biddle said. "We weren't going to win all our games, so it's better to lose games early in the season instead of late in the tournament."

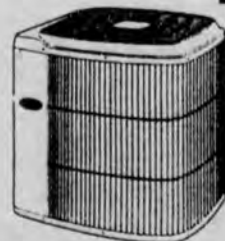

"We feel we can play with anybody in the state."

Glasgow softball falls to Brandywine

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

WILMINGTON — Another big Glasgow-Brandywine softball game brought another tight, emotional contest.

In a showdown that in all likelihood determined the Blue Hen Conference Flight A championship, the Bulldogs rallied to nip the Dragons 3-2. Earlier this season Brandywine, ranked first in the state and 21st in the country by the USA Today/National Fastpitch Coaches Association poll, defeated Glasgow 4-3 in extra innings.

The win improved the Bulldogs record to 14-0 overall and 12-0 in Flight A. Glasgow dropped to 13-3 overall 10-2 in Flight A.

Glasgow was the first team to score in the pitcher's duel between the Dragons' Julie Van Deusen and the Bulldogs' first-team all-stater Carrie Green.

Terry Mangini started a third-inning rally with a sharp single to left field. Van Deusen then sacrifice bunted her to second base. Jamie Sassaman's single scored Mangini for the game's first run.

Sassaman then came around to score on a Kristin Nau's single.

Brandywine got one run back in the bottom of the third inning as Alicia Fox tripled home Megan Fulcher.

The Bulldogs then came up with two unearned runs in the fifth inning to take the lead. The go-ahead run scored on an Angel Kyelberg's bunt.

The Dragons attempted to rally in the seventh inning but Lisa Scanlon's apparent lead-off single to right field was neatly fielded by the Bulldogs' Margaret Lipinski who fired to first base for the first out.

Mangini was then called out on a controversial play at first base for the second out. Green, who is headed to Maine on a softball scholarship, then got the last out to secure the victory.

"We played a good game," said Glasgow coach Larry Walker. "But that call at the end took away a chance to come back. It was horrible."

Brandi Redrow and Van Deusen also added singles to the Glasgow offense.

The Dragons finished their season Thursday against Delcastle and now have their sights set on the state tournament, which begins Wednesday.

The quarterfinals are scheduled for May 24 and the semifinals May 28. The state championship game will be played May 31.

LITTLE LEAGUE RESULTS

NEWARK AMERICAN

Rangers 13, C-S O's 6 — Greg Slater and Brad Needham each collected two hits to lead the Senior Division Rangers to the win.

Rangers 13, Midway O's 8 — Tony Manno pitched a complete game to help lead the Senior Rangers to the win. James White and Isaiah Robinson each hit doubles while Clay Langensiepen, Austin Kisner, Dan Blanton, Kyle Read and Eric Justice helped the offense as well. Matt Savage scored twice and Greg Slater picked off two runners. The win improved the Rangers' record to 5-0.

Rangers 9, Midway Indians 3 — The Senior Rangers scored six runs in the sixth inning to earn the victory. Greg Slater and James White each had two hits while Austin Kisner, Billy Reid and Isaiah Robinson collected hits in the game-winning rally.

Rangers over C-S Pirates — Bobby Genau and Austin Kisner combined to pitch a two-hitter to lead the Senior Rangers. James White hit a triple and Kisner doubled to lead the Rangers to their seventh straight win.

CANAL LITTLE LEAGUE

Dodgers 7, Mets 3 — Nick Pruitt had three RBI to help lead the Dodgers. Ryan Williams, Bubba Sassaman and Justin Esposito each scored two runs while Tom Moffa scored once. The Mets' Ryan Weisgerber hit a two run homer and Ben Raymond hit a solo shot. Lamir Handy and Andrew Duebert had singles for the Mets.

Twins 3, Blue Jays 0 — Sean Joyce and Daniel Richardson combined on a two-hit shutout to lead the Twins. Ryan Biddle collected two hits and an RBI. Dave Moore gave up only four hits and struck out nine for Blue Jays. Marcus Alexander and Nick Poore each had two hits for the Jays.

Blue Jays 1, Yankees 0 — Nick Poore pitched a one-hitter and struck out eight to lead the Blue Jays. Mark Dimaio, Mike Falkowski and Poore each had a hit for the winners. Dave Moore had the only RBI of the game. Bud Baer hit a double for the Yanks.

Twins 8, Orioles 0 — Sean Joyce, Daniel Richardson and Richard Lewis combined to pitch a no-hitter for the Twins. Richardson also had two doubles and two RBI.

Pirates 8, Cardinals 5 — Tim Larkin and Josh Pro combined to earn the pitching win for the Pirates. Pro also collected two hits. The Cards' Pete Folke and Eric Mouton combined to strike out eight batters. Jason Gilfilland and B.J. Sturdivant each had two hits.

Blue Jays 4, Mets 3 — The Blue Jays scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning including Mike Falkowski's single that drove home Mark Dimaio with the winning run. Nick Poore pitched three shutout innings, singled and scored while Marcus Alexander had two hits and Dave Moore had three.

We thank Dave Moore for the Canal Little League write-ups.

Diamonds v-ball completes great season great athletes, but well-rounded as well," Mitchell said. "The average grade-point-average of this team is about 3.5."

► V-BALL, from 17

The highlight of the season came at the prestigious Shamrock

Festival held at Virginia Tech in March.

The team finished second in a field that included some of the best teams in the east and Hubbard and Darby were selected to the All-Tournament team, which was selected by college coaches who were scouting the tournament.

"This team has been just a joy to coach," Mitchell said. "It was a long season and a lot of the girls were playing other sports for their high schools. It's a real testament to their determination and character that we were able to have such a great season."

August earns conference Player of the Year honor bid in the hands of the selection committee, which will announce the 48-team field Monday afternoon.

► HENS, from 17

August sets standard

Junior Brian August, the America East Player of the Year, hit .432 with 20 home runs and 82 runs-batted-in this year. His average is ranked 11th nationally and his home run and RBI totals set school records. His batting average led the team this season.

He hit safely in 45 of the team's 55 games including 28 multi-hit and 26 multi-RBI games.

Defensively August, playing third base or shortstop all year, committed just six errors.

THANK YOU NEWARK! YOU'VE DONE IT AGAIN!

Dorothy Speir Parrish, piano teacher 64 years

Newark resident Dorothy Speir Parrish died Tuesday, April 22, 1997, of complications from Alzheimer's disease at home.

Mrs. Parrish was a piano teacher for 64 years before moving to Delaware in 1995. She was a longtime resident of Greenville, Ala., where she was a member of the First Baptist Church. She originated Every Light a Prayer for Peace, a Christmas tree lighting held in the state capital.

She is survived by her daughters, Helen P. Townsend of Newark, with whom she lived, and Priscilla P. Riley of Huntsville, Ala.; ten grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

A service was held April 26 at Dunklin-Herndon Funeral Home, Greenville. Burial was in Magnolia Cemetery, Greenville.

The family suggests contributions to the Alzheimer's Association, Delaware Chapter, Wilmington 19801 or the University of Delaware Adult Day-Care Center, Newark.

Odelle Kilmon B. Guy, 96, homemaker

Newark resident Odelle Kilmon B. Guy died Friday, April 25, 1997, of heart failure in Union Hospital, Elkton, Md.

Mrs. Guy, 96, was a homemaker. She moved to New Castle from Tasley, Va., in 1944 and moved to Newark in 1978.

She was a member of New Castle Methodist Church and a life member and past worthy matron of Easter Star, Ruth Chapter No. 19, OES.

Her husband, Elton, died in 1977.

She is survived by her nephew, Roy E. Russell of Newark; a great niece, Leilani Walker of Newark; great nephews, Dana Russell of New Castle and Garth Russell of Los Angeles; and her friend, Betty Risko, with whom she lived.

A graveside service was held April 29 at Gracelawn Memorial Park, Minquadales.

The family suggests contributions to the American Heart Association, Delaware Affiliate Inc. 1096 Old Churchmans Road, Newark.

Donald F. Snyder, World War II veteran

Former Newark resident Donald F. Snyder died Thursday, April 24, 1997, of cancer at Christiana Hospital.

Mr. Snyder, 74, of Elkton, retired as a foreman in 1987 from W.L. Gore & Associates Inc. Cherry Hill plant in Elkton.

He was a Navy veteran of World War II, and member of Disabled American Veterans. He was a former member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Newark.

He is survived by his wife, Virginia F. Sacks Snyder; children, Donna J. Wilburn of Elkton, and Ritchie A. of Wilmington; stepmother, Letitia Baersch of Panorama City, Calif.; sister, Gladys Mihalski of Minersville, Pa.; and Doris Sidor of Seattle, Wash.; and seven grandchildren.

A service was held April 29 in the chapel of Schuylkill Memorial Park, North Manheim Township, Pa. Burial was in Schuylkill Memorial Park.

The family suggests contributions to The American Cancer Society.

Hilda Sweetman Woodruff, homemaker

Newark resident Hilda Sweetman Woodruff died Friday, April 25, 1997, of cancer at Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Woodruff, 55, was a homemaker. Previously, she was a cafeteria supervisor for Marriott Corp., based in Wilmington.

She is survived by her husband of 40 years, Donald G.; and daughter, Donna Woodruff of Newark.

Sandy Brae attracts all ages

WHEN Magness Construction designed the townhouse community at Sandy Brae Meadows they thought it would attract young people looking for their first home.

"It's not the way I thought it would work out," said sales representative Chris Case. "We're getting a very diverse group of people—a lot of them have lived in Newark a long time and want to stay here."

According to Case, the size and the price of the three-story homes are selling them not only to young people, but to couples downsizing after their children are grown. "At nearly 1,600 square-feet including garage, this is the biggest townhouse in its price range in Newark," he said. "We've had people coming here from North Wilmington, Hockessin, Maryland—all over the place."

Following the recent grandopening, 14 of the 68 townhomes in the community at Otts Chapel and West Chestnut Hill roads have already sold. Prices for two-bedroom houses start at $91,900, ranging up to $99,300 for those with a garage. Three-bedroom homes range in cost from $92,900 to $100,300.

Even the two-bedroom homes also have a room that can be finished as a third bedroom or office on the ground level. The "great rooms" on the main levels are a minimum of 18 feet long.

"All the homes also have nine-foot ceilings on the first floor and the prices include a deck and a built-in microwave and dishwasher," said Case. "The master bedrooms have a cathedral ceiling."

The homes feature gas heat, central air-conditioning, and copper plumbing instead of PVC pipes. "Our construction also includes 8 inches of concrete block instead of drywall and an air pocket between the units," said Case.

"It takes longer to build but the homes are better quality and quieter."

The community is laid out in a circle so that homes will not back onto a neighbor's yard. "The landscaping includes a variety of trees around the development," explained

Case, "and there will be a picnic area with play structure and a mulched jogging trail around the open space when we're done."

Case estimates that maintenance for snow removal and care of the open space will cost individual homeowners about $46 a year.

Magness has been in the construction business for more than 45 years with over 12,000 homes built in Delaware.

The company expects to complete Sandy Brae by Summer 1998.

A 'BETTER' AWARD

Rainbow Books & Music received the "A Better Newark" award recently from Newark's Conservation Advisory Commission. The award was given to owner, Joseph Maxwell Jr., for the dramatic change in the overall exterior appearance of the building following improvements last year. Maxwell, who has operated music stores at two other sites on Main Street, purchased the former mini-mall in 1996 and completely gutted the interior first floor before renovating and opening a new and expanded store at this location. In addition to offering a full range of printed materials, Rainbow Books and Music sells classical, jazz and international music. Maxwell and his brother, James, still operate Rainbow Records at 56 E. Main with independent, alternative and imported recordings.

Apartment turnaround in Bear project planned

AMERIMAR Enterprises, Inc. and Angelo, Gordon & Co plan to turnaround a Bear-area apartment complex, after enjoying success in Newark.

The companies announced the acquisition of Buckingham Place Rental Townhomes, a 278-unit garden apartment complex on Old Baltimore Pike.

Jon Cummins, senior vice president of Amerimar Enterprises, noted that the new ownership will be making significant capital improvements to the community, which is currently 54 percent occupied.

The company plans to refurbish apartment interiors (including carpeting, appliances and bathrooms), replace heating and air conditioning systems and upgrade the property's exterior appearance.

"The property's central location and overall aesthetic appeal make it an ideal candidate for this kind of renovation and turn-around program," Cummins commented. "We feel that the improved facility, combined with our hands-on property management skills and dedication to improving service levels, will enable us to quickly return the community to full occupancy levels."

Amerimar, a Philadelphia-based real estate investment, management and development company, purchased Paper Mill Apartments in Newark, now known as the Apartments at Pine Brook, in a similar transaction in December 1993. When the company acquired the property, it was less than 50 percent occupied and in need of significant renovation and resident-sensitive management expertise.

"After we completed our renovation program and turned the management focus toward the needs of our residents, we were able to fully lease the community," Cummins explained. "Today, referrals from our current residents are among our leading sources of new residents."

Angelo, Gordon & Co. is a New York-based investment manager which manages money for high net worth individuals and institutional clients.

Affiliates of Amerimar Enterprises, Inc. currently own and manage over $1 billion in real estate assets throughout the country.

Previously, affiliates of Amerimar Enterprises, Inc. and Angelo, Gordon & Co. have purchased fifteen properties in excess of $300 million in value.
