

ZONE DRAFT GIVEN FIRST, 2ND READING BY COUNCIL

Provisions For Expansion Of Business Area Still Debated

The old zoning issue between town business interests seeking provisions for future expansion of the commercial district and home owners wanting to keep their areas exclusively residential, arose again at the January meeting of the Town Council on Monday night.

Although the proposed zoning ordinance received its first and second reading, two important points connected with this long standing issue were left undecided.

The first was a proposal to permit the growth of the business district to other areas and the second a provision for allowing modern luxury apartments in residential districts.

Town Solicitor Samuel Handloff was instructed to study the possibility of an addition to the ordinance draft which will cover this point. If Mr. Handloff comes forth with any practical suggestion, and Council approves, it will probably be inserted into the draft at the February meeting before the ordinance receives its final reading and becomes law.

The move to liberalize the zoning act on commercial growth was fought up by a number of town residents, who were present at the session. They protested restrictions on the business district in the draft as it now stands.

Curiously enough, many of these restrictions were written into the draft at previous meetings when groups of home owners protested the proposed extension of the business district into residential areas.

Harold Sheaffer and William S. Hamilton were the chief spokesmen for the businessmen. The former asked for a provision to expand the commercial district along East Main Street from Pomeroy tracks to the town limits.

What is now a predominantly residential area. He wanted any residential business use permitted in that area voided the approval of 75 per cent the property owners within a radius one-eighth of a mile of the property question be secured.

Council agreed that more foresighted measures for business growth should be taken into the law, but decided that Sheaffer's suggestion should apply not merely to one district but, if able to all.

He was stationed first at Camp Croft, South Carolina, in 1941, and then at Fort McClellan, Alabama, in 1943. He was twenty-seven at the time of his death.

WHEELLESS TO ADDRESS CLUBWOMEN

Will Discuss Charter Draft Here Monday

F. A. Wheelless, member of the Town Council, will discuss the proposed Town Charter in a talk at the Newark New Century Club on Monday at 2 p. m.

Mr. Wheelless will outline the latest draft of the charter now being prepared for submission at the coming session of the General Assembly. He will also point up controversial issues in the measure, which will be aired at a public hearing scheduled for January 18 at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Mr. Wheelless is well-qualified to discuss the charter, since, in addition to his Council duties, he has directed a 13-man town committee the past year in revising the original charter draft, which caused much controversy when it was first submitted to the legislature about two years ago.

A retired business man and a resident here for 23 years, Mr. Wheelless was elected to Council a year ago. Previous to that, he devoted much time to town affairs, heading the local zoning commission and directing the town assessment one year.

His talk will be followed by a question and answer period. Hostess at the meeting will be Mrs. Charles E. Gregg.

WELL-KNOWN WOMAN DIES IN HOSPITAL ON SATURDAY

Miss Lena Evans Was First Nat'l Committeewoman; Native Of Town

Miss Lena Evans, one of Newark's foremost citizens, whose father, George Gillespie Evans, served for 33 years as secretary and treasurer of the University of Delaware, died Saturday night at the Delaware Hospital. She had been a patient there since December 15.

Final services were held privately yesterday at her home, 5 West Main Street, where she was born and lived her entire life. Her mother was the late Mary Black Evans.

Miss Evans was extremely active in state and national politics and held the post of Democratic national committeewoman during the Wilson era. She was one of the first women to be recognized by national political appointment.

The youngest of seven children, Miss Evans was educated at the Misses Hobb's School in Wilmington and at the old Newark Female Academy. She was one of the few women graduates of Delaware College.

Up to the last, Miss Evans maintained an active interest in the University of Delaware. In addition to her father, her brother, the late Charles Black Evans, also held offices at the University of Delaware for a period covering 35 years. A prominent lawyer, the younger Evans helped found the Newark Trust Company and was vice-president and attorney of the Security Trust Company, Wilmington.

Just about a year ago, Miss Evans presented to the University of Delaware's Memorial Library more than 8,000 valuable papers from her father's collection. These have served to fill in some of the missing links in the history of the university's predecessors and other previously unknown data. They have been catalogued and filed as part of the university's permanent collection. Evans Hall at the University was named in her father's memory.

Miss Evans was a lifetime member of Newark Presbyterian Church. She also was closely affiliated with the Colonial Dames and the Washington, D. C., Chapter of the American Association of University Women. During most of her life she spent the summers in Washington.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. John Neill, of Helena, Mont., and Mrs. Charles W. Reed, of Washington, D. C.; two nephews, George Neill, of Montana, and George Reed, of Washington, and a niece, Mrs. John Palmer, of Annapolis, Md.

LIONS SEEK SUGGESTIONS

Want Ideas On Town Projects

The Newark Lions Club is seeking suggestions from members or the general public on types of community projects it might undertake during the coming year.

The three chief proposals made to date are: procurement of additional bleacher seats for the high school athletic field, procurement of lights for night football games at the high school, development of a community center.

None of the three has been decided on as yet, and the club is open to further ideas.

Second vice-president W. O. White presided at Tuesday's dinner meeting, when a new Tail Twister, J. S. Steinouer, was appointed to succeed T. S. Smith, who resigned a week after his appointment.

Mrs. Kate Cleaver Dies At Age of 91

Mrs. Kate M. Cleaver, who was 91 last September, died on Thursday at the Red Men's Home here, where she had been a guest for the past seven years. She was the oldest guest there at the time of her death.

Services were held Sunday from the McCrery Funeral Home, Wilmington, with the Rev. Edward H. Ehart, Jr., curate of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, officiating. Interment was in Grace Episcopal Cemetery on the Concord Pike.

Mrs. Cleaver was the widow of the late George W. Cleaver, of Lakewood, N. J.

Plan To Treat Water Here With Flourine Is Proposed

Local Dentist Suggests Project To Curb Tooth Decay In Young Children

A proposal for feeding a solution of sodium fluoride directly into the town water supply as an efficient and inexpensive means of preventing tooth decay in young children was proposed at the Town Council meeting on Monday night.

The novel suggestion was made by Dr. P. K. Musselman, local dentist, who pointed out that the method has been used with much success in other communities.

Flourine, he said, has proved unusually effective in preserving children's teeth. The first indication of its remarkable powers came to light about 30 years ago when Army recruits from Texas were found to have a low average of tooth cavities as compared with the rest of the nation. The reason was later found to be the presence of Flourine in the drinking water of many areas of the state.

Dr. Musselman said that the chemical, which is approved by the American Dental Association, may be applied directly to the teeth or diluted in the drinking water. Local dentists offer Flourine treatments to children, he said, but added that the majority of families cannot afford them. Injecting the chemical into the town water supply would be a far more practical way of reaching every child. The chemical is effective only on children up to about 13 years of age, when their teeth are most vulnerable. It is tasteless and odorless, and, of course, would have no harmful effects on the water.

Dr. Musselman singled out Newburg, N. Y., as one community where the use of Flourine in drinking water has brought about remarkable results. Tooth decay in children of the community decreased by sixty per cent since 1945 as compared with nearby Kingston, N. Y., where the chemical is not used, he said.

Dr. Musselman emphasized that the equipment for injecting Flourine into the local water supply was fairly inexpensive and its upkeep almost negligible.

Council's reaction to the proposal was highly favorable, and the members indicated they probably would be willing to vote funds for the project if public reaction proved favorable.

To sound out residents on the scheme, Council suggested to Dr. Musselman that he bring a representative from Newburg here to speak at a meeting of the local Parent-Teacher Association if this could be arranged. Dr. Musselman agreed to approach the P-T. A. on the matter.

NURSE LISTS '48 REPORT

Aide Made 2,492 Visits Past Year

Newark's visiting nurse, Miss Alice Leak, made 2,492 visits during 1948, as compared with 2,580 in 1947, according to her annual report released this week. The drop, she said, is due to the fact that during her August vacation she could only secure a part-time substitute.

The year's total is broken down into 2,187 nursing visits and 305 instructive. The number of cases handled was 401. Most of the nursing care was for chronic cases, such as paralysis, arthritis, cancer, heart and kidney diseases. Majority of the treatments were given acute cases, such as grippe, pneumonia, burns, infections, post operative and fractures.

During December, Miss Leak made 205 visits, including 179 nursing and 26 instructive.

The breakdown follows: Paralysis, 3, visits 26; apoplexy, 2, visits; 32; anemia, 1, visits; 2; cancer, 2, visits; 23; arthritis, 2, visits; 20; heart disease, 4, visits; 21; gall bladder, 2, visits; 8; kidney disease, 3, visits; 15; diabetes, 1, visits; 4; miscellaneous cases, 11, visits; 27; treatments 17.

One patient admitted to Governor Bacon Health Center.

Town Purchases New Dodge Pick-Up Truck

Purchase of a new, three-quarter ton Dodge pick-up truck has been authorized by the Town Council. The vehicle, on which immediate delivery is promised, is being bought from the Rittenhouse Motor Company.

The additional truck is required, it was said, because several town personnel, including meter reader Clement Vallant and Town Supervisor Robert Neeson, are using their own cars a great deal in carrying out their duties.

Town To Seek Right To Raise Tax, Bond Limits In Special State Bill

The Town Council has taken steps to safeguard itself on several important points in case the draft of the new charter should not be ready in time for submission to the coming session of the state legislature or should fail to be passed this term.

The three most critical points in the new charter, on which Council needs immediate action, are provisions for raising the tax revenue limit, authority to increase the amount that may be raised through municipal bonds, and power to expand the town limits under certain conditions.

Council, therefore, has decided to submit a request for additional authority on these points in a separate bill to the state legislature, at the same time it enters a draft of the new charter.

The present charter limits the tax revenue here to $20,000 annually. Council feels this limit must be raised if it is to continue to meet its growing financial obligations, regardless of whether or not a new charter is approved for the town in the coming session of the General Assembly.

YULETIDE SEES DROP IN ARRESTS

Violations Down To 20 Past Month

The Yuletide season, with its emphasis on peace and good-will, must have had some effect on local law breakers, according to a report by William Cunningham.

Only 20 violations were nabbed the past month as compared with 49 in November and 41 in October. Speeding continued to top the list, although only eight motorists were fined. Again, as in the past few months, drunkenness was next with seven arrests.

Others were as follows: parking tickets, 4; assault and battery, 3 arrests; drunk and disorderly, and disorderly conduct, 2 arrests for each offense; and vagrancy, passing on the right, failing to stop at stop sign, and failing to give right of way, 1 arrest for each offense.

Thirteen investigations were carried out. Three cases of peeping toms were reported and cleared. Six accidents were reported and two cases of a boy molesting girls. A stolen bicycle, along with a tricycle, was recovered. An automobile stolen from Wilmington was also recovered. One case was sent to the Family Court, one to the workhouse and one was dismissed.

Magistrate Clarence Foster reported the collection of $185 in fines.

Dr. Lanier Heads Town Pension Study Group

The remainder of the group includes: George Ramsey, Rodney Dann and M. G. Amick, town engineer.

Exhibit Of Art By Local Children Opens Today In Flower Shop Window

An exhibit of children's art by four young pupils of the Laskaris School of Fine Art, will go on display today and continue through January 15 in the windows of Betty's Flower Shop, 53 East Main Street.

The exhibit is intended to show how art as a means of expression can stimulate a child's imagination and enrich his understanding. The school, which is under the direction of Leo Laskaris, well-known local artist, opened here in September.

The pupils whose works are represented are: Betsy Able, five; Sylvia Kauffman, eight; Connie Parker, nine; and Carolyn Maxwell, nine. They meet every Saturday morning for class at the Laskaris studios under the supervision of Carol Kinsel, senior art major at the University of Delaware.

The exhibit, which includes works in such media as crayon, finger painting, paper cut-outs, tempura, clay modeling and water colors, graphically illustrates the basic qualities of unhampered children's art—its artless directness, refreshing imaginative ap-

POWER PACT NEGOTIATION DEADLOCKED, REPORT SAYS

Light Company And Town Unit Fail To Agree On Rate Issue

A formal report on the negotiations begun last May between a special town committee and the Delaware Power and Light Company with a view towards securing a more favorable contract for Newark was submitted to the Town Council at its January meeting on Monday night.

The report, a complete review of details of meetings and correspondence between town and company officials, was made public by Rodney Dann, chairman of the special committee. It indicates that negotiations between the groups are now deadlocked and that little progress towards a new contract has been made. The way has been left open, however, for further talks.

The town committee had hoped to negotiate a new contract securing lower rates on the power it purchases from the company for resale to local consumers. Authorities here took the stand that the company's rate for municipalities was substantially higher than that charged industrial users in the same power consumption bracket. An equitable rate adjustment, approximating that granted nearby industries, was sought in the negotiations. The town committee also questioned the right of the power company to serve local industries, such as the Continental-Diamond Fibre Company or the Chrysler Mo-Parts Center, under its existing contract with the town.

The company's position, according to the report, was that since 1917, when it first began supplying power to Newark, its policy has been to furnish it at the lowest possible cost to the town. Company officials cited a number of instances of rate reductions granted the town in 1933, 1936 and 1940. They also pointed out that the "municipal resale rate" applying to Newark is the same schedule charged all municipalities served by the company. They further pointed to the large investment in transmission lines and substation installations they recently undertook for improved service to Newark.

Before Mr. Dann submitted his report to Council, a copy was sent to the company for its comment, which was to the effect that it could not agree with or be bound by the report.

Leighton Jackson Named Assessment Unit Head

Leighton Jackson, of 221 East Park Place, has been appointed chairman of town Assessment Committee, succeeding William S. Hamilton, who asked to be relieved of his duties.

The group is conducting a study of methods by which the town's procedure for evaluating real estate and assessing property can be modernized and made more equitable. The committee is expected to pass along its recommendations to the Town Council in the near future.

$100 VOTED FOR AMBULANCE

The Town Council voted $100 for the ambulance fund at its Monday night meeting.

YELLOWJACKET HIGHLIGHTS

Contributed By Members Of The Journalism Class At Newark High School

Assembly Program Interests Students

At least we have seen an excellent assembly program. By excellent we mean that the program held the interest of both junior and senior high school students.

The program was a talent show. The participants, of course, were pupils of N. H. S. The main feature was a program devoted to the ever popular Latin American dances. Jair dos Santos, our well-known junior from Brazil, was the man responsible for a colorful and "blood tingling" assembly. He took several of the best dancers from the school and taught them the art of the rumba and tango. He then worked out some intricate patterns for three couples as well as several soloists. Jair also designed and built the scenery.

People were amazed at the timing and grace with which the program was built.

We express our sincere thanks to the whole cast and to the other performers of the talent show.

Local Students Enter Nation-Wide Science Talent Search

Preliminary examinations in connection with the Eighth Annual Science Talent Search were held Friday, December 17, at Newark High School under the supervision of Miss D. Markert.

Students taking the science aptitude test were Harold Dexter and William Wilson.

The Science Talent Search for the Westinghouse Science Scholarships is conducted annually by Science Clubs of America, administered by Science Service. The purpose of the search is to discover and foster the education of boys and girls with skill, talent, and creative originality in science.

Forty boys and girls who lead in the preliminary examinations will be given all-expenses-paid trips to Washington to attend the Science Talent Institute for five days early next spring and take the final examinations for the scholarships. One contestant will be selected by a board of judges to receive a Westinghouse Grand Science Scholarship of $2,800 ($700 per year for four years). One other contestant will receive a Westinghouse Grand Science Scholarship of $2,000 ($500 per year for four years). Eight more contestants will receive Westinghouse Scholarships for $400 ($100 a year for four years) and $3,000 additional in scholarships will be awarded.

As part of the preliminary examinations, each contestant must submit an essay of about 1,000 words on the subject "My Scientific Project."

It will be the first of this sort to be held in 1949, so come out, support the team and the seniors, and have fun, because—each class sponsors a dance like this, and you're going to want the school's support to make your dance a success. Rain or shine, win or lose—let's all make it a point to meet in the gymnasium after the P. S. game to have a rollicking time at the first sport dance!

Ott's Chapel Sunday School

There was a Christmas party held Sunday evening, December 19, at Ott's Chapel. The program was opened by the reading of a prayer, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Then came the readings by the Senior Class, the Christmas Story, old and new, from the Bible. The Beginners Class sang "O Christmas Tree" and then they knelt and sang "Away in a Manger." The little tots spoke pieces and the Junior Class also gave recitations. George Hinkle then read "The Night Before Christmas." Santa Claus visited the children and gnomes following the singing of "Jingle Bells," by the children. After talking to the children, Santa distributed candy, oranges and a Santa sucker to each child. The gifts under the tree were given out. Miss Viola Pollard accompanied the singing on her accordion. There were 73 present during this entertaining evening.

The movie "A King Is Born" was shown on December 20 at the Chapel by Rev. Mueller of the Wilmington Lutheran Concordia Church. A large crowd gathered at the Chapel on this evening after Christmas. Then Rev. Mueller was presented with baskets of food, fruit, etc., donated by the members of the chapel and friends in the community. The movie was appreciated by the ones who were privileged to see it.

It's very odd, but often true that what we have will just not do. When it is hot, we gripe and groan and if it's cold we crab and moan. When Winter brings its sleet and snow, to Southern climes we'd like to go. And, should good fortune take us there, we'd, no doubt, pray for cool, crisp air.

Veterans' Forum

Q.—May I go to my own doctor for treatment of my disability and have Veterans Administration pay the bill?

A.—Only if you receive prior VA approval for such treatment or care. Approval is based on the following conditions: (1) you must have a service-connected disability; (2) VA must not be able to provide the treatment in its own hospitals or clinics; (3) travel to a VA station would work a hardship on you. In emergency cases, a veteran may apply to the nearest physician and have the physician notify the VA regional office having jurisdiction over the area.

Q.—I am a World War II veteran and intend to go abroad for several years. Does VA have representatives in foreign countries?

A.—The Foreign Service of the Department of State cooperates with Veterans Administration in the administration of certain benefits available to veterans in foreign areas.

Q.—Does VA attempt to improve types of prosthetic aids available to veterans?

A.—Yes, Veterans Administration conducts extensive research projects in attempting to discover new and better prosthetic devices.

Q.—Will Veterans Administration pay for the medical care of my dependents?

A.—No. Under existing laws, only eligible veterans are entitled to VA medical care.

Q.—Will the Government pay funeral expenses for a World War I veteran who dies of a nonservice-connected disability?

A.—Funeral expenses, up to $150, will be paid by the Government in the death of any World War I veteran discharged under condition other than dishonorable.

Short Hair-Dos Best With Long Dresses, Expert Says

Women should wear short tresses with long dresses, says Thomas Frank, president of the Illinois association of hairdressers and cosmetologists.

Long hair "makes a woman look like a long drink of water," he said.

"Women—especially those in their 40's—look better with the new style of wearing their hair higher on the neck," Frank said.

Short hair, according to Frank, "frames the face, does more for the features and goes better with hats."

Survey Results Of Soil Conservation

The record farm production of 1948 is but a part of the return on the investment in conservation farming for the past 12 years. The nation's assistance to farmers to help them carry out soil and water conservation practices is really paying off.

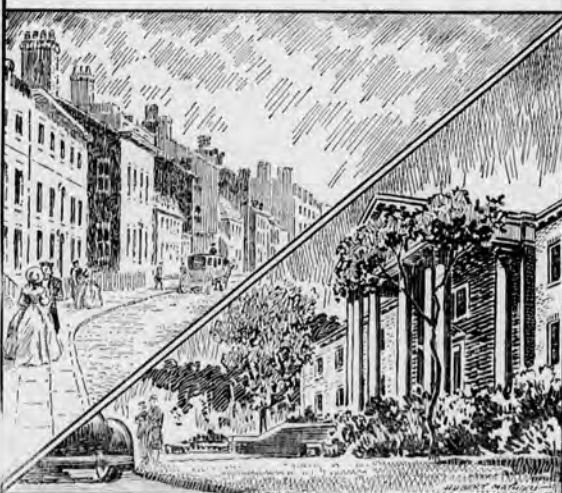

Conservation, of course, would not entirely overcome extremely unfavorable weather nor widespread losses from insects and disease but it does make possible increased yields from better strains, more efficient methods and improved insect and disease control. Without the right kind of soil conditions these other improvements would still be ineffective.

Under the Agricultural Conservation Program farmers of this country have in the past 12 years terraced 14,177,000 acres, about 700,000 miles; constructed 680,000 erosion and flood control dams on farms and ranches; planted 622,000 acres of trees seeded 102,000,000 acres of crops on the contour; applied 185,947,000 tons of lime to 104,733,000 acres of farmland and applied 123,440,000 acres of phosphate fertilizer to the growing of legumes for soil improvement and erosion control; and grew and plowed under 198,180,000 acres of cover and green manure crops to add organic matter and build resistance to erosion.

Safety Unit Advises On Winter Driving

Lists Precautions For Motoring In Snow, Sleet

"Be a 'winter winner' against traffic accidents!"

That's the advice of the Delaware Safety Council when driving in rain, sleet, or snow during the heavy storm season. With more vehicles on the street today than ever before, the Council cautions every motorist to be especially alert at the wheel and have proper equipment to cope with winter conditions. According to the National Safety Council, accident rates increase from 24 to 53 per cent during ice and snow months.

The Council urges all driving members of this state to study endorsed methods of reducing accidents and fatalities caused by poor visibility and other hazards of winter storms.

The National Safety Council, through testing and scientific research, has prepared the following rules designed to help all of us win the battle against the traffic hazards of winter.

1. Get the "feel" of the road surface when you start out. Test braking and acceleration ability when no other cars are near and before you are faced with an emergency.
2. Reduce speed when road surfaces are snowy or icy so you can stop in time. Remember at only 20 miles per hour it takes 4 to 12 times more distance to stop on snow or ice than on dry concrete.
3. Keep windshield and windows clear of snow and ice on the outside, fog and frost inside. Check your defroster and wipers.
4. Use tire chains when snow or ice conditions prevail. They reduce braking distances for cars and trucks from 40 to 70 per cent, and provide "grip" traction often needed to start on hills.
5. Carbon monoxide poisoning is dangerous! Never warm your car up in a closed garage. Check exhaust system and floor boards for leaks. Movable type heaters should not be used when frequently examined for leaks and other defects.
6. Good tire treads are desirable because they improve stopping on wet pavement, but do not depend on any new treads to help on ice or packed snow.

Conservation Aimed At Abundant Production

This year the Government is helping upwards of 3 million farmers carry out soil and water conservation practices on their farms. These practices include construction of terraces and contour farming which provide barriers to the rapid flow of runoff water. By checking and spreading the water, more of it soaks into the ground and gullies are prevented.

Other practices are the seeding of grasses and legumes to hold the soil and restore humus, and applying lime and phosphate to make the grass and legumes grow better.

In general, farmers carry out practices which meet the conservation needs of their farms and of the area in which they live.

The main purpose of all this activity and this program of soil and water conservation, according to C. E. Ocheltree, chairman of the Delaware State PMA Committee, is abundant production—"not just for this year or next, but for all the future."

"The amount of soil from which all people in the country must obtain food and fiber is limited. Population is increasing. Enough food for the future depends on keeping the limited land we have productive. If it washes or blows away or wears out and becomes unproductive that means just that much less land from which the food and fiber must come."

"So," says Mr. Ocheltree, "the next time you see a farmer applying lime or phosphate, building a dam or constructing a terrace, you can put it down that this means something to all of us. The soil and water conserved through these and similar practices will be enough to eat."

FILLIN' IN

In a sharp exchange at the height of the recent Yuletide, a Delaware mental hygienist called a Hot Springs, Ark., media a "screwball" (according to a report in the Sunday Star) for saying that lying to children about Santa Claus encourages juvenile delinquency.

We bring up the matter now because the post-Christmas season is a period of emotional exhaustion best suited to a cool, unbiased approach to the entire Santa Claus question. Surrounded by the Yuletide debris of broken toys, candy gorged children, gutted red candles, tinsel Xmas trees, and dried-out mistletoe, we can approach this issue with some degree of level-headedness.

No Yuletide would be complete, of course, without a bitter clash between scholars over the Santa Claus myth. Some brash expert always takes it upon himself to attack the noble Saint and is immediately overwhelmed by a barrage of moving pro-Santa statements by high public officials and pious pro-Santa editorials in newspapers.

What we would like to see is a less heated attitude towards Santa among grown-ups, especially the experts. Adults seem to take the portly Saint far more seriously than do the kids. We think, for instance, that the Hot Springs man is something of an alarmist in claiming that fibbing about Santa produces public enemies. On the other hand, we can't quite agree with the Delaware man, Col. H. Edmund Bullis, director of the State Society of Mental Hygiene, in his rebuttal, when he says, "... Children need to believe in Santa. All their lives they will look back on the period ... How many of us don't wish we still believed in the fat, jolly man who brings gifts in the middle of a cold winter and makes a warm spot in our heart ..."

We, for one, Col. Bullis, do not wish for anything of the sort. Some of the most distressful moments of our life were spent wondering whether or not this jolly, old man was going to cough up with the swag on Christmas Eve.

He gave us many a sleepless night. Even assurances by adults that he would most certainly not forget us, did not wholly ease our mind. Santa was a busy man, we reasoned, our home was off the beaten track. Besides, if the guy knew so much, how could he put us down as a "good" boy. We might buffalo grown-ups around us in this respect, but could we pull the wool over Santa's eyes? It was burning questions such as these that led to much tossing and turning in our trundle bed.

As a result, we have never ceased to congratulate ourselves on reaching the age where we can get some sleep on Christmas Eve.

Still, we are forced to move over to Col. Bullis' side of the debate when the question of psychological danger in fibbing about Santa Claus comes up. Our eventual disillusionment with Santa, far from starting us off on a career of crime, came as one of the most illuminating and profitable experiences of our life.

It took place gradually, the first seeds of doubt being sown by older boys who derided our devout faith. Since these gentlemen also smoked corn silk cigarettes without turning green, as we always did, we were forced to respect their opinions. Furthermore, their point that there were entirely too many Santas circulating about, all claiming to be genuine despite their shabby disguises, struck us as well taken.

Seeking higher authority, we cautiously questioned some adults on the matter but got only noncommittal answers or a flimsy reference to "Santa's assistants"—this latter from the very people who in previous years had insisted that the Santas we saw were the real thing.

Thus, from a fervid believer we became a secret sceptic. The reason for the secrecy was complicated but, sound. If we were mistaken and there actually were a Santa, outright scoffing on our part would cause the old boy to cut us off the Xmas gravy train. If, on the other hand, Santa was a phony, then the whole business had been cooked up by adults, who must themselves put the loot under the tree on Xmas morning. Since, for some curious reason, they still wanted us to believe in Santa, why not humor them? They held all the cards anyway.

It wasn't many Christmases there after that we finally wrested from an adult, whose opinion we respected, a frank admission that there was no Santa. We underwent a momentary let-down, but the adult in question shrewdly helped us over this by pointing out that increased knowledge meant increased responsibility and that we must be careful not to tell younger children or "it would spoil their fun."

This bit of strategy worked wonders with us. We felt the illumination that comes of attaining a new and higher truth. We were in the know, accepted in the inner circle of adult omniscience.

With our new assurance, we took on new airs, felt worldly-wise, adopted a condescending attitude toward younger children, maternally encouraged their innocent credulity, defended them against sceptics.

All in all, our disillusionment with Santa was most profitable. It cushioned us against similar shocks on different levels again and again. The only disappointment it didn't quite prepare us for was growing up to find grown-ups aren't all their cracked-up to be.

JACKETS OPEN WITH 28-20 VICTORY OVER A. I. DUPONT; HOME DEBUT TOMORROW

Jackets Lead All Way In A. I. Win To Gain Revenge For Two Defeats Last Year; P. S. Will Be Opponent Tomorrow Night

The Yellowjacket courtmen opened their 1949 season in a promising fashion on Tuesday when they handed A. I. duPont a clean-cut, 28-20, setback on the latter's court.

The victory was a savory one since the duPonters administered two overwhelming defeats to the Jackets last year.

Tomorrow Newark makes its official bow before the home fans here in a game with P. S. duPont. This will also be a revenge feud, and the Jackets are set for a victory.

Against A. I. the Jackets led all the way, although their position seemed precarious at half-time when they held only a three point margin at 10-7.

In the third quarter, though, the Jackets moved away on a 12 point spurt to clinch the win.

Top scorer for Newark was Ed Harrison who sank four from the field and four gift rows for a 12-point total. Next were Records and Rumer with six each.

The Jacket Jayvees went down to defeat in the preliminary game by a 36-20 margin.

Wholesale Prices Drop Fraction Under '46 Level

Wholesale prices dropped again during the week ended Dec. 28 to 163.5 per cent of the 1926 average. This point was below the 1947 level for a corresponding period for the first time this year.

None of the major groups of commodities in the index went up during the week. Sub-groups, like grains, livestock and meats, did show fractional increases.

The index decline during the week was 0.2 per cent. It was one per cent lower than the index a month ago.

Cashlard prices plunged to the lowest level since price controls were lifted in June, 1946. The Bureau of Labor Statistics, which keeps the wholesale price index, credited this to an announcement by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics that there would be an increase of 14 per cent in the pig crop next spring.

Delaware Park Will Finish Program Of Expansion Next Year

$500,000 For Increasing Seating Capacity At Stanton Oval

Delaware Park, one of the few race tracks to show a betting increase last year, will launch a $500,000 expansion program next season.

This was announced recently by President Donald P. Ross in collaboration with Bryan Field, general manager and vice-president.

The grandstand will be 795 feet long when the 1949 meeting opens on May 23, 274 feet longer than the stand measured last year and 360 feet longer than the original stands.

It will boast the seating capacity to 20,131, making Delaware Park one of the largest in the East.

Field said that with the additional seats—some 8,000 more than had been available previously—Delaware Park now has an attendance potential of some 50,000. The record crowd at Stanton is the 37,000 who turned out on Memorial Day in 1947.

The 242 foot addition to the present grandstand will cost approximately $250,000, while the 32-foot addition to the clubhouse will be built at an estimated $100,000. Other general improvements to turf and surroundings will take up an additional $150,000.

Delivery of the steel, which was ordered months ago, is set for January. Allowing ample cushion for delays there should be a seat for everyone next opening day.

A break-down on seating when the alterations are completed follows: Turf club, 267; Club house, boxes 406, seats in rear of boxes 738, seats on roof of dining room 480; seats in front of dining room 90; seats on lawn 935; club house dispersal area 240; club house dining room 312, seats at tables on club house lawn, 200; grandstand, boxes 600; seats in rear of boxes, 9,700; bleacher, 924; bench seats on terraces 1,734; bench seats on mound at paddock, 756; bench seats dispersal area, 2,529; seats at tables on grandstand lawn, 120. Total club house 3,501; total grandstand, 16,363; grand total, 20,131.

HEN COURT FIVE TO MEET SWARTHMORE TONIGHT; TO FACE URSINUS HERE WED.

Western Trip Proves Debacle As Delaware Bows To Toledo, 63-46, and Lawrence Tech By 66-48 Margin; No Wins So Far

The Blue Hen cagers face Swarthmore Saturday night on the latter's court and follow up next Wednesday night by playing host to Ursinus in the fieldhouse here.

Delaware's two-game western swing proved disastrous, with both Toledo and Lawrence Tech winning by one-sided scores. Toledo winged the Hens on the way out, 63-46, and the Detroiters sent them home with a 66-48 setback.

The last was the fourth defeat in a row for the Hens, who before they ventured west had been mauled by F. and M. and Gettysburg.

In downing Delaware, Toledo broke a four game losing streak. Main factor behind their victory was superior height. Although the Hens had an advantage in speed and team play, they lagged badly in the last two stanzas. The half-time count was a close 23-21. Delaware scorers were paced by Bob Gregory with 12. Jim McFadden and Jules Hoffstein checked in with 10 apiece.

The next night saw the Hens even more overshadowed. Lawrence Tech was in command throughout, sprinting away to a 27-10 margin in the first quarter.

Tech's height advantage was even greater than Toledo's, and they controlled most of the rebounds. Jim McFadden and Bob Gregory again led the Delaware point producers, with 10 and 11 respectively.

Report 2 Lynchings In U. S. Past Year

Of Lynchers Given Death Sentence; Data Compiled By Tuskegee Institute

Following is a report on the number and circumstances surrounding lynchings in the United States during 1948, as released by F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Number of Lynchings: According to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of Tuskegee Institute, Mr. Patterson finds that 2 persons were lynched during the year. This is 1 more than the number for 1947; 4 less than the number for 1946; 1 more than the number for 1945; and equivalent to the number 2 for 1944.

One of the victims was William H. Turner (alias Wilson Turner), a 26-year-old white farm tenant of Meriwether County, Georgia, charged with stealing cattle from his landlord. He was placed in jail but later released for lack of evidence. Upon leaving the jail, he was chased from Meriwether County into Coweta County by a group of white men, led by the owner of the stolen cattle, seized, beaten and his body burned.

The other victim was Robert Mallard, 7-year-old Negro of near Lyons, Tombs County, Georgia. There was no charge against him. His apparent offense was that he had incurred the enmity of his white farm neighbors because of his prosperity. Motoring home late at night accompanied by his wife, baby and two of his wife's young relatives, he was waylaid by a group of white men, who blocked the road and shot him to death.

Borderline Cases. There was 1 borderline case, not included in the total number of lynchings for 1948 for the reason that in one respect only it does not conform to criteria used. This victim was Isiah Nixon, 28-year-old Negro, who insisted on voting in Georgia's primary election after being advised not to do so. On the evening of the same day he voted, two brothers, white, went to Nixon's home and shot him. He died two days later in a hospital.

Lynchings Prevented. In at least 7 instances lynchings were prevented by officers of the law. All of these were in the Southern States. A total of 19 persons, all Negroes, were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Punishment of Lynchers. For participating in the lynching of William H. Turner, 1 person received the death sentence and 3 persons were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Livestock Diseases Still Major Threat

Even with abundant supplies of grain and hay this winter, farm livestock still run the risk of deficiency diseases caused by lack of certain vitamins and minerals.

This warning to the nation's farmers was issued today by the American Foundation for Animal Health.

No matter how "heavily" they are fed, the Foundation pointed out farm animals in winter quarters may actually be "starving" for elements provided by sunshine and green grass during the summer.

"Where symptoms of vitamin shortage appear, a veterinarian can give an emergency treatment, and permanent correction can then be effected by fortifying the rations with the proper supplements," the Foundation said.

"Deficiency of Vitamin A is probably the most common trouble. Results may include eye troubles, swollen legs, stillbirths in swine, and pneumonia in newborn calves and pigs. Another frequent sign of this deficiency is nutritional group in poultry flocks.

"Sunless weather, depriving animals of sufficient Vitamin D, may cause rickets in young stock. Crooked ones, enlarged joints, fits and convulsions are often symptoms of this deficiency. "Earthy minerals" also may be lacking in winter feed, curtailing milk production or causing lameness in dairy beef cows, the American Foundation said.

Immediate diagnosis of any apparent deficiency case was urged, to determine whether inadequate rations or some infectious disease is the actual cause of trouble.

Farmers Have The Power

The farmers of this country have as much mechanical power on their farms as there is in all of the country's factories. That is what one of the leading magazines of the country reported recently, according to C. E. Ocheltree, chairman of the Delaware State Production and Marketing Administration Committee.

The high productivity of the factories of this country has long been a marvel to other countries, Ocheltree said. Many foreign countries have sent groups to the United States to study our industrial system. One of the facts always brought out by these study groups is that the American farmer has a large amount of power at his disposal.

Recently, the high productivity of American farms has caught the interest of people the world over. At least part of the explanation of the American farmer's ability to break even his own production records has been that he has had this power at his disposal. At the same time, American soils have had a continuing producing ability built into them through the operation of the Agricultural Conservation Program. Hybrid corn, improved varieties of other crops, more fertilizer as well as machines such as the combine and corn picker are also important factors.

The effective use which farmers are making of this increased power in producing crops makes conservation and maintenance of soil through conservation programs of increasing importance, says Ocheltree.

SNOW, SLEET DELAY TOWN STREET WORK

Crews Complete Power Lines To Kadow Project

Though snow and rain, complicated by freezing temperatures, plagued town maintenance crews during December, a number of important electrical and street projects were carried out, according to Town Supervisor Robert Neeson.

Chief among these was the extension of water and electrical service to the first homes of projected 62-dwelling Kadow development on the southeastern outskirts of town. About 1,700 feet of distribution lines were laid to serve the two homes now completed. Others will be handled as they are built. Gordy Construction Company officials who are directing the building project say they plan to erect additional homes only as they are ordered.

Curb and gutter work, still underway on a number of streets, had to be held up in the middle of the month due to the weather, but the contractor made every effort to have the streets in a passable condition.

Since the heavy snow a week before Christmas did not seriously disrupt traffic here, no contract labor or equipment was used to remove it, according to Neeson.

In addition to the work on the Kadow development, the town electrical crews completed the removal of old poles on South College Avenue, installed six new services, completed a wire change over at Indian Road, and installed two new transformers.

Major job in the water department during December was the laying of 1,000 feet of six inch water main along Ritter Lane and Townsend Road. Three new water taps were installed and two services renewed.

The street department completed several street patching jobs at critical points, carried out snow removal where necessary, cleaned storm drains and gutters and applied cinders at hazardous intersections.

The crews also worked on improvements to the new town dump.

Crop Acreage In State Increases Past Year

402,700 Acres Harvested In 1948
Compares Well With 10-
Year Average

A total of 402,700 acres of all crops, including truck crops was harvested in Delaware in 1948, according to the Delaware Crop Reporting Service. This compares with 401,000 acres in 1947, and the 10-year (1937-46) average of 383,100 acres.

Excessive spring rainfall, continuing into June, reduced acreage of some truck crops and extended the planting season for corn and soybeans to a later date than usual. Weather after June was favorable for crop development, and late maturing crops were aided by good fall weather. The low wheat yield is attributed to wet weather before and during harvest. Production of both Irish and sweet potatoes is considerably less than last year, due to reduced acreage and lower yields.

Commercial apple production was a little above last year, but was less than half the 10-year average. Peach production was much above last year's very small crop, but only 2 per cent above average. Brown rot seriously affected the crop.

The total value of Delaware crops harvested in 1948, including truck crops, is estimated at $20,561,000, compared with $24,940,000 last year.

This is largely the result of the 25 per cent decline in value of all field crops.

The value of 1948 truck crops was 12 per cent higher than last year. Delaware farmers harvested 42,190 acres of truck crops for fresh market and processing, which is about 1 per cent less acreage than that harvested in 1947. Decreases in the acreage of asparagus, sweet corn and tomatoes for processing were offset by increases in green lima beans and snap beans. Low yields of canning tomatoes due to early wet weather was outstanding. In the fresh market group, cantaloupe and watermelon acreage was noticeably down but the remaining crops varied only slightly from last year.

Squares Want Change In Times Square

The Broadway Association announced recently that re-zoning of New York's Times Square area will be sought this year to eliminate the "carnival" atmosphere.

President Robert K. Christenberry said that the project, started a year and a half ago, will be one of the association's main objectives in 1949. He added:

"We are determined that the area's land and property values and its civic prestige will not be further impaired by additional establishments which create a 'carnival' atmosphere.

Delaware Power And Light Co. Protests Town Action

A formal protest from the Delaware Power and Light Company against the town's serving electricity to the new homes recently completed in the proposed 62-home Kadow development on the southeastern outskirts of town was read at the January meeting of the Town Council on Monday night.

Council has extended its lines to serve the two homes recently elected in the development and indicates it plans to serve the remainder as they are built. The company's protest did not state whether or not any definite reprisals against the town are being considered.

U. OF D. STAFF MEMBER IN TALK AT NHS

English Faults In High School Grads Stressed

Mrs. Sara Rogers, member of the English Department at the University of Delaware, spoke to the Newark Senior-Junior High School faculty Monday afternoon on "The relationship of high school English to college English."

Mrs. Rogers outlined the difficulties encountered by college freshmen in English courses as well as in other subjects. She stated that most common weakness among freshmen is in spelling. Poor grammar, lack of sentence sense, inability to read intelligibly, follow along in order.

The consensus of the university English Department is, she said, that more time should be spent in high school on grammar, spelling and writing under close supervision, even if it should be necessary to dispense with literature.

Mrs. Rogers briefly outlined the factors at the root of the college freshman's inability to do well in English courses. A great deal of the difficulty may result, she feels, from the atmosphere of the times, the way the home is organized, and the entertainment afforded by movies and comics.

Mrs. Rogers believes the chief concern of the teacher and the parent should be the preparation of children for the best that is possible for them whether it be a college education, business school education or a job. At one point in her talk, Mrs. Rogers posed this question: "If our college freshmen are so poorly prepared, what about our young people who go directly from high school into jobs?"

Northside Sewer Pumping Station Nears Completion

The new pumping station for the north side sewer project is expected to go into operation next week, town authorities have announced.

This will be the last step in completion of the large-scale sewer extension work there which will tie in a wide residential area north of Cleveland Avenue into the town sanitary system for the first time.

The Town Council also has authorized a $4,500 payment to the Pennsylvania Construction Company for part of the cost of the project.

POLICE LIST REPORT FOR PAST YEAR

569 Arrests; Speeding Was Most Common

A total of 569 arrests, an average of well over one a day, was made during the past twelve months by the Newark Police Force, according to Chief William Cunningham's annual report.

By far the most common offense was speeding which drew 212 arrests. Many of these were netted through a sustained drive on violations of the 25-mile limit in town begun by police this summer. Towards the year's end, the drive began to show results as motorists grew more cautious and violations fell off.

Second most common law violation here during 1948 was drunkenness which drew 111 arrests. Other types of offenses most popular with local law breakers were disorderly conduct, 79 arrests; assault and battery, 23 arrests; passing red light, 20 arrests; reckless driving, 16 arrests. In addition, 117 parking violations were reported.

The local force could also boast a creditable record on its investigations. A total of 26 accidents were investigated and cleared. Of 16 larceny cases reported, 15 were cleared. Another 100 per cent record was attained in breaking and entering cases, with 14 reported and 13 cleared. Among the other investigations was the return of five stolen cars, recovery of three runaway and two lost children, and the apprehension of ten fugitives from justice.

The remaining investigations were: two cases of malicious mischief, one fatal accident, one case of tampering with minor child, one attempted suicide, one highway robbery cleared, larceny of 13 bicycles cleared, three miscellaneous larcenies cleared, larceny of sanding machine, automobile and scooter motor, all cleared, seven cases of prowling reported and cleared, two gambling cases cleared, one lost dog recovered, two missing persons found, man reported annoying minor female child cleared.

Twenty-one cases were held for court, 31 were dismissed and 12 persons were sent to the workhouse.

Police calls for the year totaled 3,682, or around eight a day. Total fines collected by the magistrate came to $4,750.
