"THREE GUN" WILSON TO FIGHT GANGSTERS IN NEBRASKA

Left Delaware Monday Night for Omaha; Rewarded for Making Good; Published Book While in Delaware

Harold D. Wilson, stormy petrel of the prohibition service, retired Monday as deputy prohibition administrator for Delaware, a post he has held for almost fourteen months.

Monday Mr. Wilson, whose activities as prohibition agent and administrator have kept him in the limelight of publicity for more than a decade, goes to Omaha, Nebraska to become deputy prohibition administrator for Nebraska to cope with what is declared to be "a terrifically bad law enforcement situation."

Mr. Wilson's transfer to Nebraska was announced at Washington last Thursday by Colonel Amos W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition administrator.

Colonel Woodcock, when interviewed by long-distance telephone, denied that any complaints made concerning Mr. Wilson's methods of law enforcement in Delaware had anything to do with the transfer.

"The complaints were negligible in character and nearly all of them came from persons who did not wish to see the law enforced," he said.

Colonel Woodcock declared that he looks upon the transfer as a distinct promotion for Mr. Wilson.

Gang warfare in Omaha, Colonel Woodcock said, made it necessary to strengthen dry forces in Nebraska by placing of a younger man in charge of the agents.

Mr. Wilson is 47 years old, Brigadier General William H. Rowan, retired, formerly in the United States

STATE TO BUILD SIDEWALK ALONG CAPITAL TRAIL

Local Labor to Be Used on Project

The State will advertise in the next few days for bids for laying a sidewalk from the limits of Newark on the east side of the Capital Trail to Roseville. It was stated this morning that the contract would specify local labor being used.

This sidewalk has been needed for several years due to the number of school children who live in this section and several Newark citizens have been working hard to bring this about.

It is gratifying that the State is doing this work on Governor Buck's relief plan to help the unemployed and he is to be congratulated on doing this type of work which not only benefits the unemployed, but makes the highways safer for traffic. With the number of sidewalks being laid in the State along the most used roads, the fatalities for the coming year should be lessened considerably.

J. ELMER ELLISON AGAIN HEADS AETNA FIREMEN AS CHIEF

Charles Tasker was Elected First Assistant Chief and Edward Shakespeare, Second Assistant; Dr. George W. Rhodes Named President

J. Elmer Ellison, who has served as chief of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company for about ten years and who was previously assistant chief for more than ten years was re-elected chief at a meeting of the company last night. Charles Tasker was elected first assistant chief and Edward Shakespeare, second assistant.

Other officers elected were as follows: Recorder, Charles Eisner; chief pipeman, Ewell Buckingham; assistant pipeman, Robert Cook, Vernon Steel, Herbert Murphy, Nathan Davis and Clarence Richards; directors, George W. Rhodes, Daniel Stoll and Robert J. Crow.

The newly elected directors met with the holdover members of the board and organized by electing Mr. Rhodes, president; Mr. Stoll, vice president; Arthur B. Eastman, secretary; and Warren A. Singles, treasurer. The annual report showed that the company responded to 85 fires during the past year, 37 within the town limits and 48 in the rural sections. In 1930 there were 101 calls. The company estimates the loss from the fires in town last year was $4,280 and from those in the rural section which they were called to, $73,540.

A committee consisting of Daniel Stoll, Ira Shellenor and Henry Gregg, was appointed to look after the matter of securing new uniforms for members of the company to be worn in the parade in Wilmington at the annual convention of the State Firemen's Association next September.

J. OLIVER KOELIG, JR., CHAMPION FOR THIRD SUCCESSIVE YEAR

J. Oliver Koelig, Jr., of near Newark is again, for the third successive year, Delaware's Champion Corn Grower and Exhibitor. He won this distinction this year, as in former years, by having his ten-ear sample of yellow corn take the Sweepstakes Ribbon and Prize over all other corn at the annual show of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association at which over 250 entries of corn, other grains and forage were exhibited last week in Milford.

Koelig is a student in the Newark High School and was a former 4-H Poultry Club member. He has shown corn at the State Show for the past four years, and has been a winner every year. Aside from his Championship ten-ear sample, which also won first place in the interstate competition, he won first prize in the 50-ear class in New Castle County, and second prize yellow single ear, beaten only by his father, who had the champion single ear of the entire show. The senior Koelig's 50-ear sample was second and his ten-ear yellow sample was fourth in the Amateur Class.

Forty-five samples of corn, other grain and forage were shown at this show from the upper county. This was the largest exhibit ever made in the history of the organization which has sponsored 25 annual events of this nature.

Lambert Seemans, son of Harry Seemans, of Odessa, won second prize on his ten-ear yellow sample of corn in the Amateur Class, while his 50-ear sample was in the placings in that class. Alfred Davidson, of Bear, showed and won on his entries in the corn and forage classes.

At the annual meeting of the Association, held on Friday, January 8, Dewey Sapp, of Houston, was elected president for the coming year, and Roswell Schaffer, of State Road, was chosen vice-president for New Castle County.

DR. R. E. PRICE HEADS DELAWARE STATE DENTAL SOCIETY

Fifteenth Annual Meeting Held at Wilmington Country Club

HEADS DENTAL SOCIETY

ATTEND CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Sloan and Mr. and Mrs. Sterling E. Dunbar, of Elkton, left Monday to attend the convention of Memorial Craftsmen at Atlantic City.

A description of the progress made by the dental profession in the last fifty years and a plea that the dentists of today continue to advance the profession to greater heights was made Wednesday night by S. B. Luckie one of the founders of the Delaware State Dental Society who spoke at the dinner of the fifteenth annual meeting held all day Wednesday at the Wilmington Country Club.

Doctor R. E. Price a resident of Newark was elected president at the morning session. Dr. Price is well known in the State; he is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and spent several years abroad before the war and was stationed at a military hospital during the war where he gained expert experience in X-ray diagnosis. He is a member of the Wilmington and Newark Country Clubs, the Wilmington Whist Club, and the Torch Club. He is president of the Newark Music Society and a member of several dental societies. He has given clinics on the subject "The Practice of Dentistry" for the American Dental Association and Chicago Dental Society.

The necessity of fuller cooperation between the dental and medical professions as well as complete cooperation in the dental profession was stressed in a talk given by Dr. Walter O. Stack, retiring president of the society.

Newark Scouts Pioneers In Christmas Toy Repairing

The last annual report of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America to President Hoover gives recognition to two phases of Delaware scouting which it considers of prime importance, the first being the development of Camp Rodney and the second being the program of repairing and distributing toys at Christmas time which was inaugurated by Newark Scouts and has been successfully conducted by them for five years. The National Council gives the Newark Troop credit for being a pioneer in this form of activity and it is interesting to note that during the past season similar work has been inaugurated in many parts of the country. The Wilmington Council has recently developed a plan for similar work whereby Wilmington Scouts are working in cooperation with the Fire Department.

This work was started in Newark five years ago by a small group of local Scouts under the leadership of James Crooks. At this time about eighty toys were reconditioned in the basement of Dr. E. B. Crooks' home and were distributed under the direction of the Welfare Committee. This initial effort was so successful that the local troop has continued the work and in each of the past two years over two hundred toys have been distributed to approximately one hundred children.

The success of this work depends to a large extent on the co-operation of the citizens of Newark and it is hoped that our local Scouts will receive the same generous response to their calls for toys in the future that they have in the past. Any work that contributes to the Christmas cheer of over one hundred children is certainly worth while.

SERVICES AT THE RED MEN'S HOME

Apache Tribe No. 51, I. O. R. M., of Wilmington, held divine services at the Red Men's Home on Sunday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. H. C. Jeffers, pastor of First United Presbyterian Church of Wilmington. Several solos were sung by members of the choir. The services were appreciated by all, especially the residents of the Home, and it is their wish that other tribes will do likewise. The Great Chiefs of the Great Council of Delaware were present, as well as visitors from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and other nearby points, numbering about 150 people. It would be a fine thing if all the tribes in the State would make an annual visit to the home and hold services, as it would help the old folks to pass the time and would be a benefit to the Order as well.

Accomplished Lecturer to Appear at Mitchell Hall on January 16

One of the busiest men on the lecture platform this season will speak in Mitchell Hall, University of Delaware, on Saturday evening, January 16, under the auspices of the College Hour Committee. The man is S. K. Ratcliffe, of London, who writes for such leading publications as The New Statesman and the Observer, and who is in close touch with the leading political leaders of England. In a recent letter to William B. Feakins of New York, Mr. Ratcliffe's lecture manager, George Bernard Shaw, wrote the following: "S. K. Ratcliffe is a very accomplished lecturer, even by the standards of America, where every man is introduced as remarkable. He is a student of public movements; and he keeps in front of them all without ever letting himself be caught in a groove. He knows more about most of them than they do about themselves. He has been on the track of every leader of today from the telltale time when only a few obscure followers expected anything from them. He remembers everything that they have forgotten. He knows everybody worth knowing; and not one of them can tell you anything about him, or where and how they met. Though they know he is a journalist they give him information as a matter of course, just as they give it to Colonel House; and they care tell why. As a public speaker he is heard easily by everyone in the audience; and the art with which he effects this is perfectly concealed. You may take it from me confidentially that S. K. Ratcliffe is a first-rate proposition as a lecturer."

Mr. Ratcliffe was originally under contract to speak in America only four months during the current season, but such was the demand for him that following pressing cables from this side he consented to extend that period to six months.

Mr. Ratcliffe has been coming to America for fifteen years, addressing a great variety of audiences, especially in the universities and colleges. He has appeared before the Institute of Arts and Sciences at Columbia University every winter since 1914. Mr. Ratcliffe is one of the radio speakers on events of the day for the British Broadcasting Corporation, London. After a series of six radio talks last fall on "America Today," in the adult education series, so many appreciations from listeners all over Great Britain were received that Mr. Ratcliffe's name was listed on the top level of broadcast speakers. And in Town Hall, New York, last season he drew the largest audience of the year, people being obliged to sit on the stage and stand in the aisles. His lecture subjects for the present season include "England Under Ramsay MacDonald," "President Hoover and England," "India After Gandhi," "The Uprising of the Orient," etc. Mr. Ratcliffe's subject here will be "The Future of Great Britain."

FAREWELL SPEECH OF HAROLD D. (THREE GUN) WILSON

St. Paul's M. E. Church, Sunday Evening, 7.30 O'Clock,
January 10, 1932

Whatever your reactions to my transfer may be this is a sad occasion for me, for I have learned to like and believe in Delaware and its people. I appreciate very much the confidence the National Prohibition Director has shown in assigning me to a larger and more difficult field and at the same time stating publicly that my services here have been entirely satisfactory, and that the only reason for my transfer is the greater need in another district, but that is not adequate compensation for abruptly breaking the friendships formed during my stay here, especially since I realize that the work I have started is far from completed.

In fifteen months in Delaware I have met a tremendous lot of people, most of whom I can list as friends—honest, sincere, courageous, self-sacrificing apostles of law and order, who have at all times stood loyally behind my enforcement endeavors. Delaware may be small in size but I have found that Delawareans are in no sense small in ideas or ideals. This state is truly the first state in the union in inherent respect for law. Wherever I have gone, with a very few exceptions, I have found the people and their officials ready to cooperate with the United States Government. It is the purest imaginative bunkum to assert that the great American people are losing its respect for law—my experience in Delaware certainly proves to the contrary.

It is the practice of some people to bewail the wickedness of the general public and to point out how much worse we are today than prior to National Prohibition, but if Fact Finders of the State have accomplished no other purpose they have at least pointed out the absurdity of such statements as more liquor is sold and consumed now than in "Ye Good Old Days." When I first came to Wilmington I was told that there were over 1000 speakeasies in the city and that by going to the top of the du Pont Building I could see the purveyors of poisonous, sudden-death hooch scurrying up and down the streets of the city carrying on their nefarious practices in open defiance of law.

When these assertions were challenged and some 200 public-spirited citizens instituted a survey to actually find out liquor conditions in the city, an entirely different picture was portrayed. Facts, comparative, digestible, understandable facts are hard to get around. That is the type of information Fact Finders have been disseminating each week and that is the reason the esprit de corp in Delaware is much better today than fifteen months ago.

Say what they will, it is not conducive to peaceful slumber and sure profits to have to carry on any trade in defiance of law. Furthermore, it is not possible to get honest, decent people to engage in the liquor business. The worst enemy of the liquor traffic is the liquor itself and the lazy, good-for-nothing, greasy aliens who sell it—I say aliens advisedly—while all who sell liquor are not aliens, they are all aliens to the principles of the great American Government which stands for equal opportunity for all. There can be no equal opportunity when some children because of soul-degrading booze are born into this world with a heritage of stunted bodies and minds through the excessive use of liquor on the part of their parents.

Yesterday I was talking with an estimable lady who has lived some sixty years in the City of Wilmington. She told me of the drunken scenes that she herself had seen in front of the du Pont-Biltmore Hotel prior to the adoption of National Prohibition. On numerous occasions this good lady told me she had noticed drunken women and men dancing on the street in front of the hotel early Sunday mornings waiting for a street car to take them home. Do you see such scenes today? This same lady knows of no less than twenty prominent families in the city who have lost a dear one through drunkenness. All were members of a prominent Wilmington Club and all died prior to National Prohibition. Think it over—would cheaper, better, easier-to-secure booze pay?

The need of the Dry Cause today, whether it be in Delaware or any other part of the country, is strong-hearted champions who will stand and be counted as in favor of constitutional law—red-blooded, fearless men who believe that the home and child-life of the nation should stand above stomach urge and worldly pleasure. Let those who would tear down our present laws present a workable substitute that has not been tried and found wanting or else hold their peace and curb their thirst.

"What do you think of Prohibition and the possibility of its enforcement now that you have been transferred?" This question was propounded by the Managing Editor of one of the Wilmington newspapers. The prohibition law can be enforced and has been enforced in this district much more effectively than some synthetic politicians want and a lot of parched wets will admit, was my answer.

Fifteen months ago an actual survey showed 45 saloons in Wilmington with the old-time swinging type of door. At that time I personally entered 15 of these places, purchasing liquor in five and arresting the barkeep for violating the law. I should amend this statement for in one of the barrooms, the biggest of all, the Democratic League, I did not succeed in making a purchase of liquor as I was recognized, but there were ample evidences that liquor was being sold and while I did arrest the two bar-keepers, I did not succeed in landing them in the Police Station because of the wild scramble that immediately followed my entry into this "holly hollies," this sanctum sanctorum that was supposed to be above and beyond the law.

Everyone of those old-time barrooms is now closed, some being adorned with a United States padlock and others awaiting the action of the court. Speakeasies, far too many of them, and a few barrooms still exist in Wilmington but everyone of them carries on in picaresque way behind closely guarded and locked doors. The instituting of no less than 33 padlock proceedings during the past year has had a most wholesome effect on many of the landlords who have been prone in the past to stand back and be ignominious of the violations going on on their property as long as rent was forthcoming each month. Other places, such as Perry's Tavern, the Old Central Hotel in Delaware City, and a number of gas stations, have been transferred into legitimate business propositions through the cooperation of the owner with the United States Government.

In the face of this record it is useless to ask me whether the law can be enforced. Of course it can be enforced whenever and wherever there is an honest desire on the part of the officers responsible for enforcement to have it enforced. Many discouraging situations are constantly arising in enforcement. Often persistent violators escape through legal technicalities, inefficiency in enforcement and wet jurors, but all the time enforcement grows more effective. Offenders beat the law for a time, sometimes seemingly indefinitely, but eventually the truth catches up with falsehood. As long as there is a God in heaven, crookedness will not prevail over honesty. "The mills of the Gods grind slow but exceedingly fine."

Cooperation among enforcement agencies of the State has been growing increasingly more cordial and wholehearted. This is especially true of the State Police. I have found a large majority of the people of the State sincerely interested in impartial, thoroughgoing enforcement. Some of these people admit they are wet, not only in theory but in practice, nevertheless they have assured me that they believe in law enforcement. Delaware is essentially a law-abiding state and it has been a pleasure to work in such an atmosphere.

Unfortunately we have a number of places in the state where there is no possibility of enforcement other than Federal because there is no local machinery for enforcement. Some of the smaller communities are dependent upon constables for enforcement and the Delaware law which has stood without alteration for some forty years, provides such a pitifully small payment for the services of constables that no one can afford to take the job and fulfill the functions of the office. The state is badly handicapped also in a State Law that fails to conform in many respects to the Federal Law. Under the Delaware State Liquor Laws, there is no padlock feature and no adequate punishment for the transportation of liquor. The loophole permitting the possession of one quart of liquor or twelve pints of beer, is also a tremendous handicap to enforcement. I have found that the bootleggers plan to keep within the State Law, that is, as far as the possession of liquor on the immediate premises is concerned. One quart or less is kept behind the bar or on the premises where the liquor is sold and when this is dispensed another quart is obtained from the supply base, which is always far enough removed from the selling point to make possible the defense that there is no connection between the supply and the selling premises.

Fact Finder Committees throughout the State are familiar with the discrepancies in the law and it had been my fond expectation that we would be able to eliminate many of these weaknesses by drawing a State Code that would not in any way weaken the present provisions of the law, but would strengthen it at least to the point that it would be in conformity with the Federal law in regard to the illegality of the possession of any liquor and with padlock and transportation provisions similar to the Federal law.

There seems to be some misunderstanding in some quarters as to the reason for my transfer from Delaware, some asserting that political pressure was responsible. I wish to spike this rumor. I am satisfied that the only reason that Colonel Woodcock has ordered my transfer is that he feels that he needs me more in Nebraska than he does in Delaware. I have absolute confidence in his integrity and in the sincerity of his enforcement program and I do not believe for a moment that any political pressure could possibly influence his decisions. As to the Lewes affair, I have never even received the slightest indication that Washington had given this frame-up the slightest consideration. My contempt case with the local U. S. District Court has not interfered with my work with the Court. Judge Nields has never in any way considered this a personal matter.

When I first came to Delaware it seemed to be a common practice in many quarters to distrust public officials entrusted with the enforcement of law. I wish to state emphatically that I have found practically every public official in the State ready to cooperate with the United States Government. In leaving Delaware I wish I could impress upon the people their public officials are nothing but ordinary human beings, who have been elevated to positions of trust. They are no worse or better than the rank and file of the people. Some may lack ability in fulfilling the functions of their offices; some may be afflicted with inertia and sleeping sickness, but I have found very few who are not honest. Give the local officials your wholehearted support and I am sure you will obtain much better enforcement. In closing I wish to pay my respects to Supt. Black, Chief Boyd, and the police force. It is as efficient an outfit as any I have found in any city in which I have worked.

My earnest plea in leaving Delaware is that Fact Finders throughout the State carry on in the splendid work that they have started; give my successor, General William H. Rowan, the same loyal support you have given me; give the public the facts—the true facts, unadulterated, unexaggerated, unbiased, unmistakable comparative facts, and above all, give the facts sanely, impartially and without spleen. Courteous, dignified arguments may change a partially fermented wet into an informed dry, but rancor and personalities will lead only to endless controversy. I have absolute confidence in an informed American public—the job of Fact Finders is to inform the public.

There is no reason why fresh or properly preserved fish should not be eaten at the same meal with milk. Fish and milk are often cooked together in the form of milk chowders or creamed dishes.

JANUARY ISSUE OF "SIGNPOSTS" FEATURES A NUMBER OF ARTICLES

The January issue of "Signposts," the State Bulletin of Education, features a number of articles on Nutrition and Health, the topic which the State Parent-Teacher Association Program Committee is urging locals to consider during this month. A general report of four meetings held during December to show the possibilities in a Nutrition and Health program will be helpful to program chairmen. Related articles are: a survey of Milford School lunches, a report of the Health Education program at Seaford, the solution of the lunch problem at Willow Grove, Fork Branch-Colored, Kenton-Colored and Lockwood-Colored Schools.

This number also contains a review of the State Physical and Health Education program as conceived by George F. Hendricks, director, who has been attacking the inadequate school lunch as one of the problems of his department.

The address of Dr. L. P. Jacks, England's outstanding leader in the adult education field, heard by a comparatively limited group at the invitation of Mrs. C. Douglass Buck, is printed as an inspirational message to Delaware's adult educators since the State's working program and that advanced by Dr. Jacks have much in common.

The report on President Hoover's Conference on Home Ownership is limited to the phases covering the work of the group for whom the article is prepared as the financial slant received wide publicity in the daily press.

Art Education for Primary Grades as carried on by Wilmington teachers is described by Miss Jane Driver, Supervisor of Art Education. Three cuts in the magazine are related to Miss Driver's article. Others illustrate work at the Georgetown Demonstration School, West Hill, and the A. I. du Pont School.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for January 17

JESUS AND NICODEMUS

LESSON TEXT—John 3:1-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Tells How God Loves Us.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Answer to a Ruler's Question.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Significance of the Christian Life.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The New Birth.

1. The History of Nicodemus (vv. 1, 2). 7:45-52; 19:38-42.

The lesson today has its peculiar significance in the light of Nicodemus' action in life. He was a learned rabbi, a doctor of the law, and presumably a man of good character. His position in the synagogue indicates his timidity, like Joseph of Arimathea, he was afraid to openly espouse the cause of the new teacher of Galilee. Though timid, as an honest man, he investigated and obtained first-hand information. Because of this information, he uttered the brave words in the darkness of night, "I know that thou art a teacher come from God, for no man can do these things which thou doest unless he be from God." (John 3:1-10).

2. Jesus' Discourse to Nicodemus on the New Birth (vv. 3-17).

1. The necessity of the new birth (vv. 3-7). If one is ever to see or enter the kingdom of God, he must be born again. There can be no personal choice in the matter. Regeneration is the first demand of the gospel of Christ makes upon man. The reasons for this are:

a. The Kingdom of God is a spiritual kingdom, therefore there must be a spiritual birth in order to enter it (v. 3). As we enter the physical kingdom by a natural birth, so we enter the kingdom of God by a supernatural birth.

b. The nature which is ours through the natural birth is radically and essentially bad (v. 6, cf. Gal. 5:19-21). That which is born of the flesh is flesh. In the Galatian text Paul gives a catalogue of the works of the flesh. The flesh cannot be improved (Jer. 13:23). In order to enter into the kingdom of heaven there must be a nature fitted for heaven. There is nothing that can be substituted for the new birth. Men today are trying to substitute morality and education for the new birth. Nicodemus possessed these, yet Christ declared that he needed more.

2. The mystery of the new birth (vv. 8-13). Though the new birth is mysterious, its results are definite. This mystery is illustrated by the wind. We cannot discern from whence it cometh or whither it goeth, but we know by its effects that it blows. The fruit of the life demonstrates its nature, whether it is heavenly or carnal. We need not be told that we have had a physical birth for our bodies with their various faculties in exercise prove it. Even so, the presence within us of a nature which has no affinity for the things of the world, a strong affection for God and a disposition to yield prompt obedience to his commands proves our birth from above. Just as the tree is known by its fruit, so tastes, desires, and ambitions prove the quality of our nature.

3. The ground upon which the new birth rests (vv. 14, 15). Christ's atoning death on the cross makes regeneration possible. His infinite merit was placed to his account. He suffered in the sinner's stead. Just as the Israelites had only to look upon the brazen serpent in the wilderness, so the sinner needs only to look upon Christ uplifted on the cross. (Num. 21:4-9; John 12:32; II Cor. 5:21; I Pet. 2:24). Our salvation rests on the part of God the giving up of his only begotten Son, and on the part of Christ the suffering and shame of the cross.

4. For whom the new birth was provided (vv. 16, 17). "Whosoever believeth in him." These verses give in condensed form the whole plan of salvation. Observe:

- Its source—"God so loved."
- Its ground—the death of Christ—He gave.
- Its recipients—"Whosoever."
- Its condition—"Believe in him."
- Its results—"Should not perish—have everlasting life."
- Man's Attitude Toward Christ (vv. 18-21).

1. Some believe and are saved. Those who believe are now free from condemnation.

2. Some will not believe and are therefore resting under the condemnation of God. The awful sin which keeps men to be eternally lost is unbelief in Christ. The cause of their unbelief in him is their love of sin.

Work and Worry
It is not work that kills men; it is worry. Work is healthy; you can hardly put more upon a man than he can bear. Worry is rust upon the wheels. It is not the revolution that destroys the machinery, but the friction—Henry Ward Beecher.

Overcome Difficulties
The soul that the Holy Spirit is filling will be taught to expect difficulties, and to patiently plod on and overcome them.

MILFORD CROSS ROADS SCHOOL NOTES

The monthly meeting of the P-T. A. will be held in the school room this coming Wednesday evening January 20 at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Edwin Guthrie, program chairman, is working wholeheartedly and well in order to make Wednesday night's program one of the best ever given by the adult group. And the adults have given some excellent programs in the past—remember the play, "The Truth Ballon" that they gave in November?

The adults always like to surprise the audience, but the writer has been "let in" on the secret enough to know that there will be a play, some "outside" talent, besides a most delightful way of presenting the subject of "Nutrition."

Mark the date February 20, on the calendar in red, and plan to be at Milford Cross Roads at 8 o'clock.

Assembly Programs
The student chairman began their work on Tuesday of last week. The fifth and second grades were in charge under the able leadership of Carolyn Guthrie.

Tuesday's program included: Bible reading, Carolyn Guthrie; Salute to the Flag and Lord's Prayer, School; song, "My Banjo," school; recitation, "Two Little Beavers," by Scottie Guthrie; and a story, "We Three Kings," by Carolyn Guthrie.

Wednesday's program was varied: The Bible reading, flag salute, and prayer were in charge of Gladys Walmsley. Edward Kwiatkowski recited "The Snail." There was a reading, "George Washington," by Gladys Walmsley, and a song, "Oh! Susanna," by the school.

Thursday's and Friday's programs include Bible readings by Agnes Kwiatkowski and Lewis Fisher; the song, "John Peel," and two stories, "The Pot that Could Speak," and "Trapped in Crumbrake Swamp," by Gladys Walmsley.

Hot Lunch
The school continues to do its bit towards the State nutrition program. This week three of the boys have tried their hands at cooking. Good?—Indeed it has been good cooking. The boys, Paul Nelson, William Kwiatkowski and Paul Ayars, even like it themselves. That's proof enough, isn't it?

Gladys Walmsley, Agnes Kwiatkowski and Annie Kwiatkowski have been unusually good as dishwashers and cleaners when the hot lunch period is over.

Adult Education
The adult music class will meet again on Tuesday evening, January 19, at 7:30 sharp. Thirty-six people greeted Miss Helen Martin, the teacher, the first night of the winter session. That was a good "turn out." Let's have at least 50 in attendance for the second winter meeting.

Personals
Mrs. Martha Barnes, Visiting Teacher, paid us a visit on Monday. Mrs. Edwin Guthrie, P-T. A. Program Chairman, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stradley attended the meeting that was held in the Newport School on Wednesday evening. Plans for the next four P-T. A. programs were outlined by Dr. Agnes Snyder, Columbia University.

Diphtheria Treatment
It gives us great pleasure to announce that Milford Cross Roads had 100 per cent attendance for both diphtheria treatments. Seventeen children became immunized against diphtheria. Seven of the children are of pre-school age. They were accompanied by their parents, Mrs. Allan Reed, Mrs. Aubrey Short, and Mr. Harry Reed.

The Charred Match

CHARLIE, the hired man, hunted for the limment. Old Nell was limping again. It was dark on the barn floor, but Charlie struck a match and found the charred match-end aside.

Before he had finished with Nell, a thin whisp of smoke was curling from the barn door. It grew quickly to a billowing cloud. Then Charlie heard the crackle.

"Fire!" He rushed to the farmhouse and seized the telephone. "Fire at Farmer Blake's!" he shouted to the operator.

The alarm was spread. Neighbors raced to the rescue. The town's fire company clanged along the highway. Working feverishly, Charlie and Farmer Blake drove out the livestock and battled the flames. Then help came and the worst was over. Once more the telephone had saved the day!

Should Please "Three Gun" Wilson

Quite apart from the effort that is being made by the "dry" forces to have Harold D. Wilson, known more widely as "Three Gun" Wilson retained as deputy prohibition administrator for Delaware, Mr. Wilson cannot fail to be gratified exceedingly by the farewell testimonial meeting that was held in his honor last night in St. Paul's M. E. Church in this city. One of its outstanding features was a telegraphic appeal to Colonel Amos W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition administrator, to resign the order transferring Wilson to Nebraska.

Those who do not know "Three Gun" Wilson doubtless have pictured him as a dashing, fire-eating gunman who spends much of his time cutting notches in the butts of his three guns. In reality, he is just the reverse. He is a quiet, mild-mannered, reserved sort of a man, who has nothing of the Wild West sheriff or marshall air about him. He looks like a serious, plainly-clad business man and is pleasing in conversation which is much to the point. Much of his early life was spent in newspaper life.

Once, during a long conversation with him, we asked him how he came to be known as "Three Gun" Wilson.

"When I went to Boston," he replied, "I had three pistols which had been given to me by friends who had an exaggerated view of my work in the prohibition field. Having no use for them, I drove three nails in the office wall back of my desk and hung them up by their trigger guards. Some of the Boston newspaper boys came in, saw the three guns there, and, to put color into their stories, dubbed me 'Three Gun' Wilson. The nickname stuck, and it accompanies me wherever I go. The truth is that I seldom carry as much as one gun, and then only when I deem it prudent to do so for the protection of my own life."

That is the Howard D. Wilson, who is slated to go to Nebraska unless his friends in Delaware can break the slate.—Evening Journal.

Parents Visit Newark School

More than one hundred parents and friends of the public schools visited the new school building Tuesday night, the occasion being open school night. The visitors were welcomed by Superintendent Ira S. Brinser and members of the faculty and shown over the building.

Short talks were given by members of the faculty, explaining the work that is being carried on at the school as follows: Miss Mary Hammond, for the kindergarten; Miss Madeline Johnston, for the elementary school; William Gillespie, for the junior and senior high school; Charles Boone, for the noon-day in the junior and senior section, and Miss Rose Leary, for the noon-day in the elementary section.

Robert S. Gallaher, Edward L. Richards and W. Frank Wilson, members of the Board of Education, were also present. H. Harrison Gray, president of the board, was unable to attend because of illness.

Thirty-fourth organ recital by Firmin Swinnen, Monday, January 18, at 7.30 p. m. Program:

1. Variations de Concert J. Bonnet
2. Joseph Bonnet (Bordeaux, France, 1884) is at present organist at St. Eustache, Paris, and of the "Concerts du Conservatoire." This work opens in the form of a Fantasia as an introduction, then the theme played softly, followed by four variations and ending in a brilliant climax.
3. Andante Cantabile

P. I. Tchaikowski.
Peter Illiyetsh Tchaikowski (1840-1893). This is the Andante of his first string quartet. How much Russian composers are under the influence of Folk-songs can be noticed here, when a few bars of the Volga Boatman song are heard.

3. (a) Songs My Mother Taught Me
- (b) Hungarian Dance No. 6

(c) Cradle Song
Here are the two most celebrated songs (a and c) of these two great composers. In the Hungarian Dance, Brahms has penetrated deeply the Hungarian spirit—color, swing, melancholy and reckless joy.

4. Prelude in B Minor J. S. Bach
- Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750) was probably the greatest musician of all time. Alexandre Guilmant, the famous French organist says: "If all the music of the world were destroyed excepting that of this great master, music would still exist. This Prelude is often called the "Cathedral Prelude" because of its enormous proportions.

5. Elegie J. Massenet
- Jules Massenet (1842-1913) is best known as a composer of operas. This Elegie is a movement from his Suite "Les Erinnyes" and is a sample of the "Soulful" Massenet.

6. Andante Con Moto F. Mendelssohn

Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy (1809-1847) will always be known for his endless resources of melody in his music. The number here presented is the second movement of the Italian Symphony composed while in Italy. It is like a Ballad or some sort of Procession. It is said Mendelssohn had in mind an old Bohemian Folk Song. There is an almost continual staccato for the basses through the whole work.

7. Finale (New World Symphony)

A. Dvorak
This work was written by Dvorak while residing in this country (1892-95). Antonin Dvorak, born 1841, died 1904.

Next recital February 1, at 7.30 p. m.

CHILDREN'S MEALS

Children will enjoy their meals and take more interest in eating what they are given if they have their own set of dishes and table implements. The knife, fork, and spoon should be easy to grasp and use, the tumbler for water should fit small hands, and the pitcher for milk should be sturdy, easy to pour from, and not too heavy to hold. Very young children soon learn to feed themselves without mishaps if given the right articles to handle. At first it may be necessary to guard the floor and furniture against spilling, but after a few accidents the child will be quite independent.

GRADES OF TEA EXPLAINED

The words "Flowery Orange" or "Flowery Orange Pekoe" on tea labels have nothing to do with flowers or oranges, but designate the size of the tea leaf, according to tea experts of the Federal Food and Drug Administration. India, Java, Ceylon, and Sumatra teas are separated by machine into 5 grades: Flowery Orange Pekoe, Orange Pekoe, Pekoe, Pekoe Souchong, and Souchong. Flowery Orange Pekoe consists of the tenderest leaves from the tip end of the tea plant, Souchong represents the coarsest large tea leaf, and the others are grades in between. Mixtures of these grades are called Orange Pekoe Blend, Pekoe and Orange Pekoe, etc.

John is Surely Tickled With His Shirts Now!

Certainly John is tickled with his shirts. At last they are washed as he likes them to be--with the same crispness as they came from the store. * * * Many a man is finicky about his shirts, and well he might be. Linen is a part of his picture. Why not help him make a good impression.

There is a big difference in modern washing. Our linens go into gentle, soothing soapsuds, prepared scientifically. The water, the suds, the temperature are scientifically controlled to do an efficient job. * * * Every piece is handled with a mother's care, throughout the drying and ironing. Supreme whiteness and crispness is the final result.

We invite every woman with a particular husband to call us to call for her laundry.

H. WILSON PRICE'S HERD LEADS ALL IN BUTTERFAT DURING DECEMBER

The Jersey herd of H. Wilson Price, of Glasgow, led all other herds in the New Castle County Cow Testing Association during the month of December. Price's herd had the highest butterfat average of 45.7 pounds per cow; the highest individual cow which produced 92.9 pounds of butterfat and the largest percentage of cows, according to the size of the herd, giving over 50 pounds of fat each and over 1,000 pounds of milk each during the thirty-one day testing period. Beside these placings of the nineteen herds tested during the month, his 17 cows were third in average milk production.

The Holstein herd of eight cows belonging to Wallace Cook, of Newark, led the organization with an average of 1005 pounds of milk per cow, while one Holstein in the herd of Mitchell-Samendinger, of Hockessin, more than doubled this amount, producing 2080 pounds during the month. All of the ten highest individual cows were Holsteins with production ranging from 2080 to 1630 pounds each.

During December, the ten highest herds in butterfat production were: (1) H. Wilson Price, Glasgow, Jerseys, 45.7 pounds average per cow; (2) H. Wallace Cook, Newark, Holsteins, 38.7 pounds; (3) Mitchell and Samendinger, Hockessin, Holsteins, 32.7 pounds; (4) J. Wirt Willis, Glasgow, Jerseys, 32.3 pounds; (5) Logue Brothers, Wilmington, Mixed, 29.4 pounds; (6) Edgar Bishop, Warwick, Mixed, 29.3 pounds; (7) T. Harold Little, Newark, Holsteins, 27.9 pounds; (8) J. H. Mitchell & Sons, Hockessin, Jerseys, 27.9 pounds; (9) F. B. Martens, Elton, Mixed, 24.8 pounds; and (10) Robert Walker, Hockessin, Holsteins, 24.6 pounds.

The ten highest herds in milk production were: (1) Wallace Cook, Newark, Holsteins, 1005 pounds per cow; (2) Mitchell and Samendinger, Hockessin, Holsteins, 913 pounds; (3) H. Wilson Price, Glasgow, Jerseys, 848 pounds; (4) T. Harold Little, Newark, Holsteins, 823 pounds; (5) Edgar Bishop, Warwick, Mixed, 717 pounds; (6) Fred B. Martens, Elton, Mixed, 690 pounds; (7) Robert Walker, Hockessin, Holsteins, 674 pounds; (8) J. G. Smith, Middletown, Holsteins, 664 pounds; (9) Logue Brothers, Wilmington, Mixed, 642 pounds; and (10) J. Wirt Willis, Glasgow, Jersey, 588 pounds.

A high average fat production was made by the following ten highest cows during December: (1) Wilson Price, Glasgow, Jersey, 92.9 pounds fat; (2) T. H. Little, Newark, Holstein, 77.9 pounds; (3) J. Wirt Willis, Glasgow, Jersey, 75.2 pounds; (4) Mitchell and Samendinger, Hockessin, Holstein, 73.1 pounds; (5) J. Wirt Willis, Glasgow, Jersey, 70.6 pounds; (6) H. Wilson Price, Glasgow, Jersey, 66.6 pounds; (7) T. Harold Little, Newark, Holstein, 64.4 pounds; (8) Mitchell and Samendinger, Hockessin, Holstein, 62.1 pounds; (9) Edgar Bishop, Warwick, Holstein, 61.1 pounds; and (10) Pusey Passmore, Wilmington, Guernsey, 60.8 pounds.

County Agent Ed Willis, Jr., of Newark, who presented the December report, comments on it in these words:

"The Association members are going about their job of producing milk at a low cost, and in spite of the low prices of milk, which by the way are higher here than in surrounding markets, they are making their herd pay by culling out the low producers or boarder cows and feeding the high producers, more feed to maintain this large flow of milk. It is safe to say, that members of this organization are getting at least a fourth more milk from their cows than the average dairyman of other counties is getting. By reducing the number of cows in his herd to the highest producing ones, he often sells more milk from a fewer number of cows. This means a lower feed cost per quart of milk sold, while the price he receives remains the same as that received by his neighbor. A saving of one cent per quart on feed costs is the same as adding one cent per quart to the selling price of the product."

"To know your cows and to feed accordingly is one of the results of keeping records on the milk and fat production of the cows either by means of the cow testing association or by the individual dairyman weighing and testing his milk. I urge every man in New Castle County who produces milk for the wholesale market, to weigh the milk from every cow and the feed given every cow at least once or twice a month, and to have the milk tested for butterfat at frequent intervals."

"The New Castle County Cow Testing Association is doing this for its members at a nominal cost per member. There is now an opportunity for two or three herds to be enrolled in this organization by getting in touch with the County Agent at Newark or Paul Mitchell, president of the association, at Hockessin."

For the dairymen who want some help in this work, the County Agent will be glad to call on them and talk over their milk production problems at any time in the near future.

NEW JAIL BUT NO PRISONERS

Sussex county has a new problem. Its new jail is nearing completion but there are no prisoners except the short term men who have been sentenced. Prisoners from Sussex County who were committed to the New Castle County Workhouse will, it is believed, have to remain there until there is legislative or some other action to transfer them.

One object of Sussex County in building the new jail was to take care of its own prisoners. Under the present law the county must pay $1 a day for the care of its prisoners sent to the Workhouse. It is claimed that they can be cared for a much smaller amount at the jail which is now nearing completion.

Colonel Glassburn Presents Medals To Members of the R. O. T. C.

On Tuesday morning at the regular drill period the R. O. T. C. Battalion of the University of Delaware honored the members of the Advanced Course by a ceremony "Presentation of Decorations." The decorations presented were silver medals for marksmanship won last summer at the R. O. T. C. Camp at Fort Monroe, Virginia.

The Battalion was formed by Cadet Major Dunn and presented to Colonel Glassburn. The Cadets to receive medals were then marched to the front and center and halted within a few paces of Colonel Glassburn. The Colonel pinned the medals on each cadet, and then in a short, inspiring talk he reminded them that shooting straight was not confined alone to the rifle range, but could well and with good effect be applied to their every day life in their attitude toward their fellowman, their university and their country. The following cadets received medals:

A. T. Bennett, J. D. Caulk, B. Cohen, C. G. Dunn, R. W. Fulling, R. E. Kepple, W. H. Lee, M. McCully, H. W. Orth, R. P. Sharp, R. M. Snyder, P. G. Townsend, J. A. Waddington, H. O. Wardell, E. Weldon, G. Chase, I. I. Klien, Chas. Jackson, F. Lynch.

Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association To Issue Master Booklet Covering Peninsula

A master booklet covering each individual community on the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula and presenting all their attractive features will be prepared, published and distributed as the official book of the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula by the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association.

Action deciding this was taken Monday at a meeting of the Executive Committee, Vice-Presidents and Governors of the Association held in the Century Club Rooms, Dover. President Stewart K. Powell presided and Association officials from each of the three States represented in Del-Mar-Va and the majority of the counties heard the plan outlined and voted approval.

In explaining the proposal it was stated that requests from numerous communities and individuals have brought the need of such a publication before the Association. The features favorable to the publication, according to Association officials, include a sound and official distribution and circulation by the Association in answer to inquiries and through contacts with the leading travel bureaus and tourist agencies throughout the country which the Association has built up over a period of six years, thereby making it possible for the Association to guarantee a greater distribution than through any other source.

A second outstanding feature advanced in connection with the plan is that every community on the Peninsula will be given equal opportunity to secure individual publicity. This is said will not only make possible smaller communities compiling the same material which they might use in individual booklets, at far less expense, but will provide a distribution which they would otherwise be unable to secure.

The Del-Mar-Va Association in issuing this book plans it to be an annual edition so that every community may have opportunity to bring up to date such features as may develop throughout the year. The book will replace the original master booklet issued and distributed by the Association to the extent of many thousands of copies.

In the plan presented to the Association's official board attention was called to the fact that a book of this type would eliminate one of the handicaps the Association has experienced in that residents in numerous communities appear to have the impression in some instances that the Association has been of greater benefit to some sections than others. The proposed book will offer exactly the same opportunity to the smallest community on the Peninsula as it will to the largest. The Association's official map which through the cooperation of the State Highway Departments in Delaware Maryland and Virginia is brought up to date and published annually will be included. This will carry not only the complete highway routes but present every community in Del-Mar-Va.

Estimates for the printing of the Del-Mar-Va book will be confined to printing houses on the Peninsula as the book is to be purely a Del-Mar-Va product.

From expressions made by Association officials in various sections, the plan will meet with approval because of its being the first opportunity whereby all communities in Del-Mar-Va have had equal chance to present their story through an official medium.

Lodge Notes

JR. O. U. A. M.

The American Flag Council, No. 28, Jr. O. U. A. M., convened at 7:30 p. m., Monday, with Councilor Nichols presiding. The semi-annual financial report was received with great interest. Deputy Councilor Naylor, of Townsend installed the new officers for the sixth term.

Our new Councilor Devonshire after accepting the gavel, gave a very stirring address on "Our Relation to Jurimorphism." We trust his words sunk deep and will bear much fruit.

Monday evening next we again expect a class of candidates. Show these new brothers a hearty welcome by our presence. January 25 is our 35th anniversary night in the New Century Club Building. All Juniors and lady friends are cordially urged to be present. A pleasing program will be announced next week.

The Jr. O. U. A. M. was first organized May 17, 1895, in the old Concord School House, Germantown, Philadelphia, by 12 youths. Today there is nearly 3000 Councils in the United States. Our order supports and maintains two children's homes for our deceased brother's children. These homes care for and educate over 1250 such children. We would be glad to tell those interested more if you come to our door any Monday night.

"Three-Gun" Wilson To Fight Gangsters

braska, is 60 years old. General Rowan will succeed Mr. Wilson as deputy prohibition administrator for Delaware.

Colonel Woodcock, in the telephone interview, was enthusiastic in his praise of Mr. Wilson and lauded him as "a man who made good."

"Mr. Wilson is being transferred to what I regard as a larger and more difficult field where there is great need for a vigorous and capable man who has made good in the past," Colonel Woodcock said.

"I regard this transfer of Mr. Wilson as a distinct promotion for him. I have selected him for this Nebraska work out of all the Deputy Administrators in the United States, believing that he is better equipped to handle the peculiarly difficult situation in Omaha and the rest of braska."

"Omaha is almost a frontier town and was formerly the gateway to West. There have been a number of gang killings there, these killings having developed from a terrible bad law enforcement situation. It is the reason that I have found necessary to strengthen our force there. I have great confidence in General Rowan, but I believe that Wilson, a much younger man, can better handle the situation."

Mr. Wilson's transfer surprised him as much as it did his many friends among the dry forces of the State. It is definitely known that until most noon last Thursday Mr. Wilson had had no intimation that he was to be asked to accept a new post.

While the bootlegging fraternity was not sad over Mr. Wilson's departure there was no talk of celebrating his departure from the State. Many of them declared they recognized the deputy administrator as a believer in fair play. They point his policy of very rarely arresting women and taking her off to a cell. He would in almost all cases not follow the woman law violator to appear the following day for a hearing.

During his career Mr. Wilson was never accused of being vindictive. He has never been known to express a hope except the most flagrant case that any law violator be given a hard jail sentence. He believed that law enforcement could be had not only through raids but through education.

Mr. Wilson's family moved here recently from Wilmington, Mass. His son is a student at the Wilmington High School and another is a student at the University of Delaware.

Mr. Wilson, while in Delaware published a book, printed by the Craftsman at Kells, entitled "Fact not Fiction," which had a large sale. He published a similar book while in Boston, which went like wild fire nearly 50,000 copies being sold.

A petition that was signed by hundreds of Delawareans and presented to Colonel Woodcock to resign the transfer, was refused by him.

Mr. Wilson was the speaker at a farewell meeting held Sunday night in St. Paul's M. E. Church, Wilmington.
