ENROLLMENT OF SUMMER SCHOOL SESSION BREAKS ALL RECORDS FOR FIRST TWO DAYS

Director Wilkinson Swamped by Applicants from Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and New York—Harter Hall and Women's College Buildings Comfortably Filled

SUSSEX COUNTY LEADS IN DELEGATIONS

The 1923 session of the Summer School at the University of Delaware started its six weeks' session Tuesday morning of this week with 323 students from six States in attendance. This enrollment is the largest ever made during the first two days of a Summer School in Newark.

The Faculty of sixteen members has organized the classes and this morning the program was running along smoothly.

Sussex County leads the list of Delaware students with 111 members. Wilmington has thirty-nine representatives, Kent County sixty-two and New Castle County forty-six. The balance of the enrollment includes students from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, New Jersey and New York.

The strong showing of Sussex County was again evident this year, the county leading the field in the past at every session. Practically every High School and grade school in the State is represented. Most of the students are taking courses here in preparation for College or for a State Teacher's diploma.

The following students were enrolled yesterday and up until noon today:

Kenneth L. Grant, Wilmington; Belle S. Snyder, Roxford, N. Y.; Robert C. Seasholtz, Ardmore, Pa.; Frances L. Jones, Seaford, Del.; Gladys A. Hearne, Smithfield, Va.; Henry C. Fiske, Farmington, Del.; Lester Judy, Greenwood; Marjorie L. Johnson, Newark, Del.; Mrs. Leta Wiley, Bridgeville, Del.; Helen Southard, Lincoln, Del.; Charlotte E. Cann, Elkton, Md.; Mary-Breame Jones, Seaford, Del.; Mary L. Powers, Newark, Del.; Mrs. Clarence Fairbank, Federal Park, Md.; Elsie G. Smith, Oriole, Md.; Mary F. Urian, Smyrna, Del.; Agnes T. Johnson, Houston, Del.; Mrs. G. J. Dickerson, Wilmington, Del., and Alice M. Watson, Federalsburg, Md.

Half Day Sessions

The revised daily schedule of the School has been announced. Classes start at 8.10 a. m. and continue until 1 o'clock p. m., with a daily Assembly at 10.50 a. m. The afternoons are free to the students and are given to enable them to study.

Both Harter Hall and the buildings of the Women's College are well filled with students. Arrangements are being made for the opening of the swimming pool in the College gymnasium for women members of the school, with a competent instructor present at stated hours. The entertainment committee has planned several functions for the visitors. Miss Dora Wilcox, Director of Music, expects to arrange a concert for the latter part of the session, and is busy picking members of a Glee Club to assist.

Longwood Visit Friday

The three hundred or more students, accompanied by the Faculty and officials of the School will leave

PROF. W. A. WILKINSON
Director of Summer School

at three o'clock Friday afternoon in special busses provided by the Service Citizens of Delaware for a visit to Longwood, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre S. duPont, on the Kennett Pike. After a trip of inspection through the famous conservatory and gardens, they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. duPont at an organ recital followed by dinner in their home.

The first Sunday evening service will be held in Wolf Hall and is open to the townspeople. Dr. Andrew Mutch of Bryn Mawr will be the speaker.

Director A. W. Wilkinson and Mrs. Snyder, Dean of Women at the Summer School, have been almost swamped the past few days with the rush of applicants to enroll in the school, but have now gotten things in hand and expect a very successful session. (Continued on Page Six.)

DR. RHODES RETURNS TO OLD STORE

Resumes Active Supervision of Important Newark Business

Dr. George W. Rhodes, founder and for many years proprietor of Rhode's Drug Store on Main Street, again returned to active business affairs Monday of this week when he returned to his former store, for the past two years or more operated by Dr. W. E. Brown. During this interval, Dr. Rhodes retired from active work in the drug business, but kept his residence in Newark.

Dr. Brown, who came here from a similar store in Federalsburg, Md., to take over the Rhodes business, proved himself a capable and sincere business man and was highly respected by the townspeople. Dr. Brown, with his wife and daughter, Ruth E. Brown, have taken over the fine old Mitchell mansion near Hockessin, where they will shortly be situated. His plans for the future have not been completed.

Dr. Rhodes first started in the drug business in a little shop down on East Main Street at the Chapel Street corner, and built the present store some ten years ago. His return to the old stand will be good news to his many friends in this community.

WILLIAM J. MOORE DIES AT HOME OF SON

Old Newark Resident Succumbs to Long Illness

RAILROAD VETERAN

Another old and respected citizen of Newark passed away last week, when William J. Moore, for thirty-five years a resident of the town, died after a lingering illness at the home of his son Chester Moore, 22 North Chapel street on Friday last. For the past few months, Mr. Moore was confined to the house and the latter weeks of his illness found his condition gradually growing weaker. He was known throughout the vicinity and had a host of friends. He was 67 years old.

The funeral services were held Monday afternoon of this week, with interment in Newark M. E. Cemetery. Rev. Frank Herson, pastor of the local Methodist Church officiated at the services.

The deceased was born in Pennsylvania in 1856. His first wife died in Newark in 1916. Two years later he married Miss Lillian Connell, of Landenberg, Pa., who survives him.

Most of Mr. Moore's active life was spent in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad, being connected with them for a space of forty-five years. For many years he was a brakeman. A valued and trusted employee and an energetic workman, he was one of the "old guard" which served the railroad during the years of struggle and toll when railroading was yet young in this country. He was retired from the service on November 1st, 1921, and at that time was presented with a handsome certificate of appreciation by officials of the company as a tribute to his faithfulness while in the employ of the railroad.

The deceased is survived by his wife, Lillian C. Moore, five sons and two daughters. They are: Mrs. C. A. Robinson of Newark; Mrs. B. P. Davis of Wilmington; Walter H. Moore, Chester Moore and Charles E. Moore of Newark, and Ellsworth B. Moore of Wilmington.

SLIGHT FIRE ON MAIN ST. YESTERDAY

Firemen Called to Blaze in Store Near Choate Street

A slight blaze in the ceiling of the store owned and managed by G. W. Singles on East Main Street, near the Newark Inn and Restaurant, gave the people of that section a little scare yesterday afternoon.

The Aetna Hose Co. was called out by the alarm and managed to extinguish the flames with but a slight loss. The fire started in a mattress on the second floor according to reports.

LOCAL POLICE SEIZE STILL AND LIQUOR ON IRON HILL FARM

Millard Taylor Held Under $1000 Bond for Court—Wife Swears Out Warrant Alleging Cruelty

DENIED CHARGES WHEN ARRESTED SATURDAY

A large copper container, well soldered, a remodeled milk can with a condensing coil inside, a piece of rubber tubing and some eight gallons of alleged liquor and wines remains as evidence gathered during a raid last Saturday upon the small farm of Millard Taylor, living on Iron Hill, a mile or two from Cooch's Bridge. The still and the seized liquor were brought to Magistrate Thompson's office when the arrests were made.

Mrs. Taylor appeared before the Magistrate Saturday morning and swore out a warrant for her husband alleging cruel treatment and intimating that he was engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquor. Mr. Thompson immediately placed the warrant in the hands of Constable Ellison, who, with two deputies, sallied forth to the raid. Mrs. Taylor stated that when she left the farm to come to Newark the still was in operation.

Taylor came in peaceably with the officers and was arraigned and given a hearing. He then accused his wife of making and selling wine, thus involving her in the case. After a short hearing, Magistrate Thompson held them under bail for another hearing in the evening.

It was at the final hearing that Taylor was held under the bond for appearance in Court.

Mrs. Taylor, while still involved and under surveillance by the police, was not held.

When Constable Ellison and his deputies arrived at the Taylor place, they found the owner at home. When the charge was read, he denied everything. A thorough search of the premises finally resulted in the uncovering of the still and alleged liquor. Taylor then submitted to arrest.

DAYETT DAM WILL BE READY SOON

Last Work on Barrier Will Be Finished in Two Weeks

With the completion of the "deck" or top of the dam breast, and the final touches, including the closing up of the release opening, the new fishing pond of the Newark Anglers' Association, backed up by the remodeled Dayett mill dam, will soon be a reality.

According to information received yesterday, the work will be completed in the space of two weeks, and then water will be backed up until the proper level is reached.

George Moore, local builder, who has the work in charge, and Prof. Robert Thoroughgood, the engineer who designed and is supervising the erection of the dam, both predict that with the filling up of the three mile basin, Newark and vicinity will have one of the finest ponds in the State. As soon as is practical, the water will be stocked with fish from the United States Bureau of Fisheries.

It is expected that many people from the community will take advantage of the charming situation of the dam for picnics, swimming parties, boating and other summer sports. The money for the new dam was raised during last winter by popular subscription among the members of the Anglers' Association.

LOCAL MAN REFUSED BUS LINE FRANCHISE

Wesley Wollaston Among Others Refused by Irate Officials

MUST MOVE TERMINALS

The Street and Sewer Committee of Wilmington met in regular session this week, during the course of which they announced their determination to refuse all applications for bus permits within the city limits until the present lines resume their good behavior.

Among the applicants refused was one made by Wesley Wollaston of Newark. Upon inquiry at the Wollaston home, nothing could be learned of the incident. The family expressed surprise at the news, but made no further comment.

While the Stiltz Line escaped the wholesale clean-up made by the Directors, several other lines were ordered to move from their quarters at Sixth and French streets as they were becoming a nuisance to residents of that section, who had requested their removal.

Despite the argument of bus line owners and officials the Directors stood firm in their convictions, and as a part of their program, refused permits to all who applied.

AUXILIARY MEETS

The Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles B. Evans. This was the last meeting of the organization until early next September. After the regular business routine was finished, Mrs. T. F. Manns gave an informal talk on "The Philippines." A social hour ended the meeting.

EPISCOPAL RECTOR CALLED TO IMPORTANT POST IN CINCINNATI

Rev. Edgar Jones Not Ready to Make Official Announcement as Yet—Expected That He Will Accept

MISS MCNEAL RESIGNS AS ORGANIST

Church circles were stirred Sunday last when it was announced that the Rev. Edgar Jones, for the past three years rector of the St. Thomas' Episcopal Church here, was contemplating leaving Newark to accept a call from Cincinnati, Ohio, where he has been invited to act as Dean of the Episcopal Cathedral of that city.

Dr. Jones left for Rehoboth Beach, Del., Monday afternoon, and at that time stated that he had made no definite decision with regards to the offer. Repeated attempts to get in touch with him during the past two days have proven fruitless. He is expected to return to Newark tomorrow and will make known his plans at that time.

It was also understood from reliable informants that Dr. Jones had received a call from a Wilmington church, but this rumor could not be confirmed today.

A Successful Regime

Since the advent of Dr. Jones to Newark, the congregation of St.

Thomas has been very well pleased with the progress made by the institution. The rector is a brilliant speaker and very prominent in State and national circles of the Church. For many years he was engaged in missionary work in Canada and the Far North, and there made an enviable record. He was born in England and spent the early part of his ministry in that country and Canada.

The post at Cincinnati is considered by officials of the local church to be a great advancement over his present status, and it is generally felt that Dr. Jones will accept the call.

Miss McNeal Resigns

At the Sunday morning services at St. Thomas, the rector, in a short address, announced the resignation of Miss Elizabeth McNeal as organist. Miss McNeal was presented with a beautiful bunch of flowers, six dozen in all, composed of pink and white carnations and Gladioli. The position of organist has not as yet been filled.

ORDER CLOSING OF STORES AT MIDNIGHT

Officer Lewis this morning made the rounds of the business houses in the habit of keeping open after midnight and informed the owners that they must close the doors promptly at midnight, from now on.

The restaurants and eating houses most affected by the closing order are Blockson's store, the Candy Kitchen and other Main Street eating stores.

The proprietors are somewhat surprised at the action and expressed their ignorance of any such ordinance being passed by Council.

Romance of Life on A Louisiana Farm

Russell Green, of Charles E. Wines Co., Philadelphia, in a talk before the Rotary Club last week used the following to illustrate the "romance of farm life," giving authority for the story to a Louisiana newspaper.

"Once upon a time a Louisiana farmer was awakened in the morning by the ringing of a Connecticut alarm clock. He sprang out of bed, pulled on a pair of Detroit trousers kept up by Chicago suspenders, and thrust his feet into cowhide shoes made in Ohio. Downstairs he washed his face in a Pittsburgh tin basin with Cincinnati soap and dried it on a New Hampshire towel. He then sat down to a table from Grand Rapids, Michigan, on a Wisconsin chair, to eat a breakfast composed of Indiana Corn Grits fried in Omaha lard on a St. Louis stove, and California fruit seasoned with Rhode Island spices. After breakfast he put on a Philadelphia hat, went out to the barn, threw some Texas harness on some Missouri mules, hooked them to a New York plow and commenced to plow a field covered with a Massachusetts mortgage. After his day's labor he retired to bed under New Jersey blankets, to be awakened at 2.00 a. m. by the howling of a Louisiana hound dog—the only home product on the farm."—Every Evening.

BELIEVED VICTIM OF TYPHOID GERM

Blood Tests, However, Dispel Fears of Local Family

Roland Wollaston, aged seven years, and grandson of Charles P. Wollaston of this place, whose case has been a puzzle to physicians for several days, was pronounced free from typhoid germs this morning by Dr. Charles W. Blake, after a blood test had been made.

Over a week ago, the child had his tonsils removed and immediately developed an illness. For the past four days he has been running a high fever. Relatives and friends were of the opinion that he had contracted a slight case of typhoid fever. Upon recommendation of the attending physician, the Board of Health laboratory here was ordered to make the tests, the results of which have made it clear that typhoid germs are not present.

W. B. CARSWELL DIES IN WESTERN CITY

Was Long a Resident of Elmere; Relatives in Newark

FUNERAL TOMORROW

Word was received in Newark yesterday of the death of William B. Carswell, well known in rural New Castle, and formerly Mayor of Elmere. Mr. Carswell died suddenly at his home in Knoxville, Iowa.

His body will arrive in Wilmington tonight, and funeral services will be held from the Chambers' undertaking parlors tomorrow.

The deceased was the father-in-law of Mrs. Robert M. Carswell, formerly Miss Eleanor Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Bowen, of Newark. Beside this son, he is survived by two sons, Capt. S. Randall, and Lieut. William Carswell, and one sister, Miss Sarah Carswell, of Wilmington.

Mr. Carswell was a graduate of the Naval Academy, class of 1883, and served actively in the Spanish-American War. He was engaged in civil engineering at the time of his death.

$500 CLEARED AT ANNUAL LAWN FETE

St. John's R. C. Church Scene of Large Carnival

The ladies of St. John's Roman Catholic Church of Newark held a very successful Lawn Fete on the church grounds for three nights, ending Saturday last. It was announced this week that a sum slightly over $500 had been cleared from the sale of table delicacies, fancy work, ice cream, cake and many novelties.

The committee in charge of the Carnival has been running the same affair as an annual event for a number of years and the success is, weather permitting, always assured. Lowering skies and slight showers one night last week kept down the crowd somewhat.

NEWARK MOTORIST FINED FOR SPEEDING

E. Allyn Cooch Hailed Before Magistrate Thompson and Treated to a Penalty

Charged with fast and reckless driving on Main Street yesterday afternoon, F. Allyn Cooch was called before Magistrate Thompson in the local Hall of Justice, and after pleading guilty, was made the recipient of a fine of $25.00 and costs.

Complaint was lodged against Cooch by several Main Street travelers, among them J. H. Savage, a salesman from Wilmington. The latter charged that the speeding coupe propelled by Cooch almost ran him down on the thoroughfare and reported the case to the police. It also charged that he was greatly exceeding the speed limit coming down Quality Hill and across the B. and O. tracks.

Cooch waived the serving of a warrant and appeared a few hours later in the Magistrate's office.

BOXING SHOW AT ELKTON BALL PARK

July 4 Will Inaugurate Series of Summer Outdoor Shows

The Elkton Baseball Team is sponsoring a series of boxing shows to be held at their park in Elkton during the summer months. The first of the series is scheduled for next Wednesday evening, July 4th.

In the wind-up of eight rounds, Battling Barnes, a Wilmington product, and very popular through the State, will clash with Italian Jack Dempsey, rugged puncher from Clifton Heights, Pa., the home town of the unfortunate Bobby Barrett. This bout will go eight rounds and the promoters feel that there will be action aplenty from the first to the final gong.

The semi-final contest is also worthy of mention. Willie Griffith, a soldier from Camp Meade, Md., and one of the best at his weight in the Army, will swap punches with one Arthur Colby, of Lenni, Pa. Both boys are experienced boxers and have waded through several bouts during the last few years which have proved their ability to take punishment and to deliver good old fashioned wallops. The latter boxer has recently been engaged as sparring partner to Alex Hart, a star lightweight who is after Benny Leonard's crown.

Will Erect Ring

These two and one other bout will be of eight rounds duration while the first two preliminaries will be of six rounds.

It is proposed to erect a ring, or use the one now in the Armory, and place it on the diamond near home plate. In addition to the seating capacities of the grandstand and bleachers, chairs and benches will be placed on the opposite side of the ring, to take care of the people.

While boxing shows in Elkton have not been hugely successful in the past, it is believed by those interested that the out-door series in the interest of the baseball team will draw much larger crowds. The dates for the balance of the series have not as yet been announced.

Olen Hackett of the Keystone A. C. in Wilmington and noted handler of local boxers has been engaged by the baseball management to act as match-maker. Bill McGowan is scheduled to referee the bouts.

ELKTON BOWS TO OLD, OLD RIVALS

Rising Sun in Late Rally Overcomes County Seat Team

able rivals came together Saturday in Elkton, when the home team and Rising Sun locked horns in a torrid ball game, which was finally decided in the eighth inning when the County Seaters' one-run rally failed of its purpose, to tie the score.

Despite the heat, dust, corn thinnin' time and the lure of the bay resorts, quite a crowd jammed into Ellis Deibert's amphitheatre to witness the two rival teams in action. Somehow it doesn't matter who wins the pennant in the league, according to the Elkton sentiment, just as long as Rising Sun is shoved down the ladder; and it works the same way with regard to the Elkton team. But somebody slipped up this season, for the Sun boys are leading Elkton by several dozen points and have second place cinched for the first half.

Anyhow, there was plenty of noise Saturday from both sides.

Elkton Jumps the Gun

Just to get the fans in the proper humor, Elkton took unto themselves four runs in the first inning and thereafter held their peace until the eighth.

Meanwhile Rising Sun was mending her sails and sailing along nicely. In the fifth the boys from up-county got unruly and shoved two runs over, cutting down the lead to one run. Then in the eighth, they set out every inch of canvas, and although being strict landlubbers, sailed right past Elkton into a two run lead, never to be headed.

Elkton blew up a little more wind for their own sails, managed to squeeze one tally over, and then subsided for the afternoon.

Old Man Finn, the war horse of the Elkton outfit, gathered three lusty blows, when some fans believe him to be ready to hang up his shoes. Peterson and Patton each found the ball for two hits. Shanner allowed eleven bingles, Knoedler, Cameron and Hasson doing the most damage.

It was a good ball game all the way through and Rising Sun deserved to win. The score:

"ELECTRIC JIM" CUTS CAPERS

"Electric Jim" Richardson, colored, a drayman in Elkton and well known by the townspeople in general, took an overdose of barb-wire liquor recently, and created such a turmoil at his home that Officer Potts was sent for to take him in tow. When the hand of the law reached out, however, Jim was nowhere to be found. Witnesses stated that he leaped from the second story window into a standing car and before he was seated had his foot on the gas. He made the Delaware line without trouble. That's the story, anyhow.

RADNOR RELIEF ELECTS

The Radnor Relief Association, an organization of employees of the Radnor Pulp Mills in Elkton elected officers at a recent meeting to serve for the coming year.

Those chosen were: President, Howard Bayne; vice-president, Wilham Montgomery; secretary, Herbert McNeal; assistant secretary, Walter Everett; and treasurer, Thomas Hutchinson.

ELKTON PLANS FOR GREAT CROWD AT BIGGEST "FOURTH" EVER HELD

Baseball, Boxing, Band Concert and Elaborate Fireworks Display to be Features of Celebration
COLORED CAKE WALK FOR GOLD PRIZES

The "Glorious Fourth" will be more than a mere slogan in Elkton this year, according to the program announced yesterday by William C. Feehly, chairman of the Fourth of July Committee of that town.

Determined to have a celebration which will linger long in the minds of the townspeople and visitors, Mr. Feehly has arranged for perhaps the most ambitious schedule ever attempted in the Maryland town.

Beginning at 10:30 in the morning with a Susquehanna League baseball game between Elkton and Bel Air, the league leaders, and terminating with a dance in the Armory late in the evening, there will be something doing almost every minute of the day. Nothing will be left undone to make it the biggest Fourth ever, and the busy chairman, aided by his assistants, will be on the job all day to see that things go as per schedule.

Mr. Feehly has with him as associates on the committee Messrs. John W. McCool, A. Victor Davis, William Creamer, Sidney Lipman, S. Ralph Andrews and Michael Lipman.

Great Fireworks Display

Perhaps the largest single feature of the celebration will be the fireworks display to be given out in Elkton Heights, north of town, under the auspices of the Victor Sparkler and Specialty Co., local manufacturers of fireworks and other explosives.

Through the generosity of J. B. Decker, head of the local plant, every piece of fireworks will be given free to aid the celebration. Included in the display will be elaborate designs of Washington, the American Flag and other historic symbols, all to burst high in the air. In addition, war bombs, rockets of various types and other fancy and colorful pieces will be set off. The interest displayed in the affair by Mr. Decker and officials of the Sparkler Company has gone a

CERTIFIED SEED BEST IN GROWING POTATOES

County Agent Bausman May Arrange Tour for Farmers To Inspect Fields

Good seed pays, especially good seed potatoes. County Agent R. O. Bausman is convinced of this after making an inspection tour of the certified potato demonstrations being conducted in northern New Castle County this year. The demonstrations are on the farms of Messrs. Grant Abbott of New Castle, J. Harvey Davis of Newark, J. Howard Mitchell & Sons of Hockessin, Joseph Pierson of Hockessin, and H. L. Dilworth of Centerville. In addition seventy-eight farmers purchased their main stock of seed potatoes from New York State through the certified potato pool which aggregated fourteen hundred bushels.

An interesting test is in progress on the farm of Mr. Grant Abbott. The New Jersey certified Cobbler is being tested against the Virginia Cobbler (not certified). It is too early to make predictions, but even at this early date the Jersey Cobbler is showing a little more size and the Virginia Cobbler is developing some scab.

On the farm of J. Harvey Davis the growth and stocky vine of the certified Green Mountain seed as compared with that of his home grown seed is quite marked.

It would be difficult to locate a field of potatoes that gives promise of a higher yield than that on the farm of Joe Mitchell grown from certified Green Mountain seed.

As soon as practical Mr. Bausman expects to arrange an automobile potato inspection tour. This tour will give the farmers an opportunity to see under field conditions the certified plots as compared with those from home grown seed.

MEMORIAL HISTORY OF UNIVERSITY

E. N. Vallandigham Makes Pertinent Suggestion. Commends Affairs Around Commencement Time

To the Editor of The Post:

The University of Delaware had this year a commencement of rare interest, distinguished by the presence of President Harding on one day, of Ambassador Jusserand on another, and Newark did herself proud in a non-partisan enthusiasm for the Head of the Nation, as in the crowded audience for the French Ambassador. The issue of The Post chronicling these events was, I am sure, one of the best not only of its own issues, but one of the best ever sent out from the office of a village newspaper. It is pleasant to think that our people could lay aside their often bitter political differences to welcome the President, that The Post should have treated the occasion in an equally generous spirit, without any attempt to make much of the occasion as it's own party's opportunity.

Your Commencement Supplement was a happy thought, and you carried it out with great success. It should be in the hands of all alumni, as of all alumnae. Dr. Harter's account of early commencements, and my old friend George Morgan's detailed historical paper are precisely appropriate to the occasion. These articles naturally suggest that there should be a history of our first century issued ten years hence as a memorial volume, and it is not too soon for Dr. Harter and Dr. Morgan to begin cooperating toward such a work, an undertaking to which many men and women should lend aid in research and suggestion.

Ambassador Jusserand's share in the commencement exercises reminds me that means should be found to place in the University Library a complete edition of his works in French, and copies of those that have been translated into English. His studies in English literature and history are delightful; no university library should be without them.

It is good news that Professor George E. Dutton has been appointed Dean of the University. I believe he has the qualities that will make him greatly useful in that office, though I hope its multiple details are not to interfere with his work as a teacher. It is worth much to have as Dean in succession to Dean E. Laurence Smith, another Delawarean, another alumnus of Delaware College, another loyal member of the Faculty tried by years of effective service. We really begin to be a University.

E. N. VALLANDIGHAM.

Leader Like Hamilton Needed

"If we will carry on, visualizing the nation of which Hamilton dreamed—if we will maintain the national viewpoint and emphasize the interwoven intimacy of all activities—interdependent, where none may permanently prosper without a prosperous whole—if we will throttle the false cry of class, where none need exist, in the beckoning of American opportunity—if we will be as hopefully American and as wholeheartedly American as they were in the immortal beginning—the future will be secure."

"Apply Hamilton's conception of financial integrity and the sanctity of obligation to world conditions today, and let there be asserted a leadership which rises above prejudiced opinion, whether that prejudiced opinion had its beginning in the war, or is emphasized by geographic divisions, and humanity will turn to the rational and only way of restoration. There will be the substitution of hope and resolution where hatred and resentment are now hindering recovery. There will be less thought of yesterday and more of tomorrow."

—From address of The President at unveiling exercises.

INTERESTING OLD DELAWARE

Bringing to Mind Again the Old Traditions of an Old State

(From the Boston Herald)

The following article from a great New England daily lends a most interesting view of Delaware prompted by the recent visit of President Harding.

The writer has evidently lived among Delawareans and knows their habits, dreams, and traditions. While not attempting an exhaustive study, he has caught the spirit of Delaware in a way that people of the State will surely appreciate.

President Harding has discovered that large family known as the state of Delaware, received a hearty welcome from the whole kindred, and tasted a hospitality on which the family prides itself. At Wilmington, where most of the aliens dwell, 15 per cent. of about 120,000 he saw half the population of Delaware. Thence he plunged into the deep green country of rural New Castle county, and found himself in a region where nine-tenths of the inhabitants are descended in at least one line from seventeenth century immigrants, and nearly all the rest, black or white, are natives of the soil. In rural Delaware most families are old families; even the duPonts begin to be accepted as such, after almost a century and a quarter. A name is enough to identify a man's origin to his neighbors in almost any part of the state, and there are knowing ones who profess to be able to guess by a man's speech not only which of the three

A COMMUNITY NEWSPAPER

THE LONG LAST TRAIL

A Comrade Stands Uncovered and Pays Last Tribute to a Friend

Below is printed the comment of a cowboy pal to a comrade of former years. By request, we withhold the name of the author. It breathes the spirit of the West and plains of yesterday. Simple honesty and manhood is writ large. Only a pal, only the West, only a man experienced and trained under a Western sky could have written it. It is the West speaking and the author—A MAN.

HOWARD EATON

It is rarely that this column makes mention of any man not of State or community interest, but once in a very long while, the nation loses one of its Princes—a typical clear-eyed, strong heart, with the pioneer instinct of a father LaSalle, the hunter's cunning of a Daniel Boone, the courage and tenacity of a Roosevelt. Such a man was Howard Eaton, who died, practically in the saddle, in January, 1922, at his magnificent ranch, Wolf, Wyoming, in the foothills of the Little Bighorns, not far from where Custer died.

He was one of the very few survivors of the old Roosevelt regime and it is to be regretted, that Hermann Hagendorn's "Roosevelt in the Bad Lands" did not give him more than brief mention. For Howard Eaton was no ordinary plainsman or cow puncher. He was of distinguished birth, highly educated, his mother a direct descendant of John Alden. It is well said that despite more or less feverish novelists and slapdash frontier and Indian literature, he did more to keep alive the true spirit of the West; the indomitable courage and self-sacrifice that this involved, than any other man, living or dead, excepting only Roosevelt himself.

When he covered his face with his blanket in a hospital at Sheridan, Wyoming, and died a victim of dread appendicitis, after facing a lifetime of storms, of danger, of bitter exposure and went West to join Roosevelt, Lewis and Clark, Custer and Crook, and that galaxy of intrepid heroes whose names are imperishable, he was 71 years old, but with the heart of a boy, singing his cheery songs, telling his wonder tales when leading exploring parties into the frozen glaciers of Northwest Canada, or across the parched deserts of New Mexico, seeking the habitations of the Cliff Dwellers. He lived in the saddle. He loved the West and knew it as a mother knows and loves her children. Canada or Mexico, border to border, it was all the same, and the West knew Howard Eaton and loved him in return.

Foreseeing the early slaughter of America's big game, he raised his voice in protection and when Howard Eaton talked, Washington listened. Just previous to his death, he had returned from an expedition to the Jackson Hole country, sent there by the Governor of Wyoming to investigate the winter condition of the elk. He was president of the American Bison Society and a string of titles, scientific, geographical and explorative as long as a rawhide lariat, followed his name. Yet he was a modest man and hated noisy acclaim and positively refused to be lionized. Yet at the superb Eaton Brothers' ranch of 6000 acres that could possibly accommodate 1000 guests, foregathered Governors, Senators, writers and men of national fame all the way from Maine to California. He was the hero and inspiration of Mary Roberts Rinehart, who spends her summers there.

In keeping up the spirit of the old West, by personal example, by song and story, by princely hospitality, the influence of Howard Eaton has been incalculable, as he has passed it on to the myriads of youth from seven to seventy who hung about in adoration and worshipped him. Nor was he compelled to do this, for Howard Eaton was a man of large means and could at any time have imitated the old Ogalla Chiefs at Pine Ridge Agency who sit at the doors of their teepees in the dying sun and croon of glories past; he died in the saddle as he lived in the saddle—a gentleman, a sportsman, a man who dreamed dreams as lofty as his own tower mountains and lived them.

He never married and when his brother, Willis, brought his body to be interred in the family lot at Pittsburgh, which he had left as a youth in 1879, the whole city turned out to give honor. His three brothers, Alden, Willis and Charles survive, the former two, with his niece, Miss Josephine Gillespie, keeping the camp fires still burning at Eaton's Ranch.

FIREMEN KEPT ON THE RUN MONDAY

The Aetna Hose Co. made two expeditions to alleged fires Monday morning within a total of fifteen minutes from their first venture from headquarters.

The first alarm called them to a small garage on Wilbur Street. The slight blaze had been extinguished by neighbors with buckets before the truck reached the scene. Very much put out, the laddies returned to their Academy Street home.

Hardly had they reached the center of town when the alarm again sounded. The truck continued merrily on to the home of Harry Reed, on Cleveland Avenue, where a blaze in the kitchen had developed. Chemical streams were used to extinguish the flames. Damage was placed at about $20.00.

NINE REASONS WHY PEOPLE BUY WORTHLESS SECURITIES HOPING TO CASH IN

Director of Investment Bankers' Association Gives Reasons For The Wave of Stock Speculation

Imagination, egotism and carelessness are foremost in the nine main reasons why people buy worthless securities, says a report by Samuel O. Rice, Educational Director of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, who has just finished an investigation of the causes that impel people to throw away millions of dollars for worthless stocks despite constant warnings from the newspapers. Dishonest greed, honest greed, ignorance, a belief that the law is a personal guardian and a notion that all crooks bear visible earmarks of crookedness are five more reasons, says Mr. Rice. The ninth reason is fraud, which, he adds, would be practically non-existent if the other eight reasons did not make it possible.

"An individual with an unharnessed imagination makes it wholly unnecessary," says Mr. Rice, "for a fraudulent promoter to use fraud in selling stock in a worthless 'new invention' or other scheme. The promoter simply tells of the fortunes made by well known inventions and industries; the victims' imagination does the rest. He sees the spurious enterprise achieving the same success. He doesn't let memory or reason tell him that the success of one company is absolutely no assurance that some other company will achieve success in the same line, or that the 'new invention' came from a 'laboratory' that specializes in turning out plausible, worthless 'inventions' to be used as a basis for worthless stock flotations.

"Egotism also enables the promoter to dodge risk of going to jail. He uses flattery instead of misrepresentation. Egotism prevents the buyer from heeding the advice of careful friends or of consulting a reliable dealer in securities.

"Carelessness is responsible for the losses by shrewd money-makers who are not familiar with investment-making principals and who are haphazard in investigation and careless of their sources of information. The careless 'investment' often is termed 'a flier in the market.' It really is nothing more than a nose dive to mud bottom.

"Dishonest greed makes the 'bird dog' type of buyer of worthless securities. There is one in every community. He exacts shady, 'ground floor' concessions from the promoter and the promoter 'reluctantly' consents. He always seeks something for nothing. He lets his acquaintances in on 'good things,' for a consideration from the promoter.

"Honest greed is a delusion that honest, safe investments paying 10 or 12 per cent., or more, are easily found. History, and the most reliable authority possible cannot swerve many thoroughly honest people who have this notion. They are the despair of every honest bond salesman and an unending delight and profit to fraudulent promoters.

"Ignorance, to be sure, takes in all the other reasons, but its most harmful feature is the failure of the uninformed investor to realize that he will never find a crook who isn't crooked and that he must go to a reputable dealer in securities who can and will tell him the truth, if he is to find profitable investments and avoid loss. Thousands, probably millions of people, do not know the difference between an investment banker and a broker, or the difference between investing, speculating, gambling and throwing money away.

"Many persons strangely believe that Blue Sky Laws undoubtedly keep many swindles from reaching the public, but they do not keep them all out, and never will.

"Nor does the crook talk, dress, act or look like a crook. He has a near-perfect disguise as a well-dressed, honest business man. Or, he may appear as a sturdy, old, diamond-in-the-rough oil man in boots and a two-gallon hat, who is too busy making money for his stockholders to put on a necktie. But never does he appear in the guise of Get-Rich Quick Wallingford, although, strange to say, many sensible men and women expect to see him only in that type.

"Fraud is often present in the sale of worthless securities, but is so adroit, is in what the promoter leaves unsaid, as well as in what he says, that it is difficult or impossible to convict despite the best efforts of prosecutors. What does the average man or woman know as to what constitutes criminal misrepresentation? Only a competent attorney can define it. Rather, the average man should guard against his own imagination, his egotism, and lack of information than against fraud. There is only one way to eliminate the nine reasons for buying worthless securities and that is to consult an honest dealer, just as you consult a reputable physician, lawyer or engineer when in need of expert advice. The reputable investment banker is just as much a highly-trained expert and specialist in his line as the physician, lawyer, or engineer is in his calling."—Evening Journal.

A Splendid Example of Enterprise and Organized Effort

The KIND OF SERVICE A GREAT ORGANIZATION IS CAPABLE OF GIVING IN A GREAT EMERGENCY UNDER PRIVATE OWNERSHIP

The Philadelphia Inquirer on Wednesday, June 13, published the following editorial:

"AN OBJECT LESSON IN RAILROAD EFFICIENCY"

The word efficiency has been greatly overworked in recent years, but it can be applied in all justice to the officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad who are meeting the emergency produced by the destruction of the trainshed of the Broad Street Station.

While the conflagration was still in progress heads of the engineering and construction departments were in consultation, and the fire had not been extinguished before numerous wrecking crews were at work. In the meantime the traffic department was called upon to make a readjustment of service, and special bulletins promptly informed the traveling public of the disposition of trains.

In less than twenty-four hours after the fire started the builders were employed in restoring platforms. Men had been summoned from everywhere, but there was a minimum of confusion, because every squad had a definite duty. It has been a splendid object lesson in efficiency on the part of the world's greatest railroad. In these days of speed, demoralized train service spells general congestion, and that this should have been so largely and quickly overcome is a matter of congratulation.

The American spirit is shown at its best when meeting seemingly unsurmountable difficulties. Say that a thing is impossible in this country and, as if by magic, men will appear to make it possible. Those who travel may be subject to some temporary inconvenience, but if the public be as patient as the railroad company has been enterprising, there will not be much reason for complaint.

Train Service in and out of Broad Street Station has already practically been restored to normal conditions.

BOY SCOUT HELPS SAVE WOMEN FROM DROWNING

Smalley's Dam Scene of Near-
Tragedy Last Sunday

Due to heroism of the husband of one of the endangered people and to the quick work of Harold McKenzie, a 17-year-old Boy Scout, a real tragedy was averted last Sunday afternoon at Smalley's Dam near Stanton.

Mrs. Betty Jordin, Miss Elizabeth Gallagher and Miss Virginia Gallagher were bathing in the dam when Elizabeth, aged 14 years, got beyond her depth, and sank below the surface. Her cries attracted the attention of her two companions and both Mrs. Jordin and Virginia rushed to the rescue.

The new frame residence which Peter Hackendorn is erecting on the tract of land recently purchased from Taylor Flinn is nearly completed.

William Pierson has purchased a new Chevrolet coupe.

Carpenters are remodeling the bungalow which Mrs. Mary Mitchell recently purchased and in which she will reside.

Philip Pierson, an aged man who had his left leg amputated at Hahemann Hospital, Philadelphia, has returned home, apparently well.

Harry Crossan who had an apoplectic stroke last Wednesday while delivering milk, died at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon without regaining consciousness. A strange co-incidence is that his brother was stricken in a similar manner while serving milk along his route and passed away while unconscious, several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ravilious spent Sunday at Marshallton with friends and in the evening motored to Elkton and return.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy of Wilmington spent Sunday here with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy.

AMERICA ON WHEELS

Can you beat it?

Henry Ford is credited with saying that one out of every eleven persons in the United States own automobiles, and that if the present craze for more speed and less scenery goes on, one out of every five inhabitants will be "proud possessors" in the course of two years.

In observing the situation on one of the most popular highways in the East recently, we are convinced that Henry is not very many miles from the truth at that. There never was in the history of the nation such a desire to get some place in a hurry.

From a technical standpoint, the great increase in the market of automobiles is due to the improvement in the mechanical parts of the machines. Upholstering, body finish, appointments—they are no better than they used to be (decidedly not). It is the great improvement in the running parts of the motor and driving apparatus that has attracted the dear old Public.

Time was when a trip to Philadelphia without a puncture or a cylinder misfire or the loss of part of the fittings was worthy of special mention in the family history. The driver of a car fifteen years ago had not time to look at the scenery. He was busy listening for dropping bolts and flat tires. He was the happy combination of a blacksmith, mechanic, circus strong man, nurse, and general all around cussier.

But oh, how tempus fugit. If a bolt drops from a motor nowadays, he sends the whole car back and gets its exchanged like a pair of gloves at a department store.

Mile after mile reels by and he sits behind the wheel and talks of eight cylinder motors, vacuum systems, electric gear shifts, puncture proof tires and the like.

That's what fifteen years and the abiding faith of the American people has done for the automobile.

But somehow, we don't think Mr. A. Motorist has much more time to gaze enraptured at the beautiful scenery in spring and fall than he did years ago. He is riding much more comfortably, but going a whole lot faster. Besides, he can't see the scenery for the signs.

MR. KEARNS VISITS SHELBY

With a horde of highly paid writers, photographers, publicity men and hangers-on now en-route to a place called Shelby, Montana, the folks back home will be wonderfully entertained with glowing accounts of the coming Dempsey-Gibbons battle for the championship of the world, including the Lower East Side.

Mr. Dempsey has threatened to fight several times since winning his championship from Willard many moons ago; in fact, if memory serves us well, he did fight upon two or three occasions. But, as advertised, this is supposed to be the biggest fight that was ever fought in this verdant nation. And worst of all, they picked out little Shelby to bear the burden.

As a writer in a Philadelphia daily aptly expressed it the other day: "Shelby always thought that boxing was a sport, but Mr. Kearns has convinced them that it is a highly commercialized business."

We, in our humble way, opine that the writer has expressed a most potent sentiment.

The idea of a world's champion exacting the huge sum of $300,000 before stepping into the ring; the subsequent idea of a group of small town business men agreeing to such wild cat schemes—well, it is entirely too deep for us.

We grant that Jack Dempsey is perhaps the best heavyweight in the world today. We grant that as champion he is entitled to the cream off the bottle, but it has reached the point that he wants the cream and milk both and would like to throw the battle at the Dear Old Public.

Mr. Kearns, who makes all the money for Mr. Dempsey, has soaked poor old Shelby good and proper. They had to sell all their automobiles to meet the second installment of $100,000 a few days ago. And on July 2, two days before the scheduled fight, they must shell out $100,000 more—or no fight.

Which brings to mind the thought that the only difference between Jesse James and a modern boxing promoter is that Jesse usually ran.

Somehow or other, this Shelby affair has not been resting easily on the stomachs of American sportsmen. Gibbons doesn't look like a real dangerous contender, and the bout has lost favor with everyone except the financial circle, and it makes them jealous.

And may we hazard a guess, that if Mr. Kearns lets one of his cards stray from the top of the table, there will be a ruckus out there in old Montana which will shake Broadway. The Westerner will fall for a scheme as easily as anyone else, but when the scheme isn't four-square, they'll have one awful time keeping him down.

DELAWARE BOYS WIN AT WEST CHESTER, PA.

Y. M. C. A. Championships Attract Many Athletes; Loose, France, Fouracre Win

Delaware was well represented in the Eastern District Y. M. C. A. Track and Field Championships held at West Chester, Pa., Saturday afternoon.

Harry Loose, Ralph France and Claude Fouracre, all track stars at the University of Delaware, France still being a student here, brought down honors in several events. Rogers Fouracre, of Middletown, a brother of Claude, won the mile run easily. France won the 220 hurdles and tied for second in the high jump, while Loose won the discus throw and took second in the javelin. Claude Fouracre, by a marvelous burst of speed in the final yards of the relay race managed to nose out Coatesville for second place in the mile relay.

A great crowd witnessed the sports on Wayne Field at the Normal school and they were thrilled time and again by the stirring finishes and the close competition between the teams. Wilmington placed second in the meet, Coatesville carrying off the championship.

"You know young Fillers, the dentist? Well, he's going to elope with Miss Travers."

NEWARK DROPS CLOSE GAME TO WILMINGTON CHURCH LEAGUE TEAM

St. Stephen's Noses Out Locals in Fast Fracas 6-5 Moore and Mote Use the Bat Freely

SEVENTH INNING RALLY SPOILS EVERYTHING

Newark departed from the County League roadway Saturday long enough to engage in mortal battle with the St. Stephen's Church League team from Wilmington on Frazer Field, and when the smoke had cleared, the figure experts found out that the local tossers were just one run shy, 6-5.

The game was a thriller from start to finish, however, both teams playing clean baseball, and with plenty of excitement when excitement was needed. The crowd was satisfying to the management, and the game was satisfying to the crowd. Therefore everybody was happy, the ever-present heat notwithstanding.

Moore's life on Sylvester's error, Challenger's sacrifice, and Fishback's single sent one marker over the pan in the first inning. St. Stephen's however, had garnered two a few minutes before, so Newark was still trailing going into the fifth.

In that inning, three hits, a pass to Mote and two visiting errors accounted for four runs and much applause from the grandstand.

The bats of Watkins, Pierson and Fishback were felt in this rally.

St. Stephen's tied it up tighter than ever in the very next session when a Newark error and three singles by visiting batsmen drove three unwelcome runs over.

Just to make it more irritating, the Wilmington clan sewed up the game in the seventh when with two out, Scott drew a pass from Watkins, stole second and scored on Lofink's single to right.

Newark tried hard in the two remaining frames but could not produce the necessary tallies.

Henry Mote with a resounding triple, the longest hit of the day, and Fishback and Griff Moore were the big guns with the stick from a local standpoint. Eissner and Mote had plenty of work in the outfield, while Challenger and Dougherty made some clever stops and throws in the inner works.

Watkins pitched a fairly good game, the visiting hits coming at the most inopportune moments, and usually bunched. The score:

Well the boys sure did drill hard last week.

But it was mighty interesting at that.

And then after drill Sgt. Ramsey entertained by explaining the new drill law.

He ran out of steam and had to stop.

We were visited by Thom Anderson. He had a new hat cord, too.

But he refused to accept one from the Supply Sgt.

Somebody borrowed his on the Milford trip while he was taking a nap.

Sgt. Baker ate too much squash pie on that trip, and hasn't been around since.

The 1st Sgt. will have to send him another slip of paper.

Anybody seen Dewey Reed lately.

The Chief reports that he is not in jail now.

Bill Crow is happy now days.

An old buddy is visiting him.

Bill says he is going to lose his "bay window."

He is trying to reduce with cold baths.

The Captain must be trying to reduce, too.

He took a cold one Thursday night.

Somebody says that it was his "annual."

We had the club election the other night.

The results:
Dewey Reed—President.
Harry Powell—Vice-President.
Harry Sanborn—Secretary.
Howard D. Jester—Treasurer.

Harry Powell was elected to two offices—Vice-President and Secretary.

They had to hold another ballot for Secretary.

A majority of men have signed up.

Now it is up to the fellows.

Only a short time before camp.

A few go in about ten days.

They are only to be gone six days.

They will have lots harder work than the rest will have at the main camp.

All hands on deck this week.

Big surprise for some.

The schools of Lower Baltimore, Felton, Frederica and Bridgeville have been discontinued from the ap-

ELK MILLS FORCES LEADERS TO A TIE

Thirteen Inning Battle Marks River League Race Saturday

HAVRE DE GRACE WINS

Elk Mills went to work Saturday in earnest and not only gave the league leading Bel Air team a real race but held them to a 5-5 tie after thirteen innings of red hot baseball.

Both sides now see where they should have carried off the honors, and no doubt breaks of the game had a lot to do with the final score. Allan and Spence, the star Elk Mills battery, were in fine fettle.

Havre De Grace furnished the other winner, when they trounced Darlington, 9-8 in nine close innings.

Aberdeen and Perryville did not play.

counties he hails from, but even, perhaps, his "hundred."

That word "hundred," the Delaware term for township, is characteristic of the way in which the little community clings to the precious things of the past. The name and the thing go back into the mist of early Anglo-Saxon civic life. In the names of Delaware's hundreds, one may read a rapid summary of the state's history. The aboriginal red inhabitants are memorialized in the name of Appoquinimink and possibly Mispillion hundred, the Dutch in Murderkill (a corruption of "Motherkill") and probably Brandywine, the English in St. George's, Dover, Lewes and half a dozen others, the Welsh in Pencader.

Delaware has preserved not only its traditional term for township, but has maintained the chancellorship as part of its judicial machinery, as also the whippingpost as a bit of ancient, punitive apparatus. A prothonotary and a clerk of the peace are among its county officers. Moving day throughout the state was, until recently, the 25th of March, the old first day of the Dionysian year, and tenants were "warned out" by Christmas day or earlier.

NEW OVERLAND RED BIRD COMPLETES CELEBRATED LINE

Fills Long Felt Want for Distinction Without Undue Extravagance

The enthusiastic reception given the Overland Red Bird, the newest addition to the Overland family has been remarkable for the glowing comments on an achievement, acknowledged by a critical public to be one of the most complete models of its kind introduced in motoring circles this year.

Everywhere this latest creation of the engineering and designing departments of the Willys-Overland organization has met with undisguisedly popular favor and reports from salesrooms spread across the continent indicate that this car singly, has attracted greater crowds of interested motorists than any display put on the floors in some time.

According to L. G. Peed, General Sales Manager of the Willys-Overland Red Bird will unquestionably span a gap in the line of Overland motor cars, which is now universally recognized as being complete. This new model is one of the outstanding, finest examples of automobile construction that has yet been shown to

DOWN AT Kells

¶ Ideals are Facts not yet realized. There is an Ideal back of Kells. At one time, it was a Dream---smiled at by our friends and scoffed at by our enemies. Today the Ideal, by honest work and the love of it, is gradually becoming an Idea that is recognized. And it is only a step from an Idea to a living Fact.

¶ Kells today has more equipment, more workers, more work than any day in its history---and that right at the vacation season. It has more friends, too. And just enough enemies to inspire.

¶ With all, our Ideal grows and like the old Indian, it lies in the Wawayanda---Just Beyond.

¶ Printing, work and life at Kells are interesting. Old friends worthy are friends always and acquaintances are becoming friends.

¶ Our Ideals are becoming Real---meaning more and better work for us all.

UNITED CANNERIES ENLARGING LOCAL PLANT TO MEET RUSH OF TOMATOES FROM 900 ACRES

Officials Report Normal Crop, Despite Scarcity of Plants — Build New Warehouse and Install Modern Canning Machinery

WILL MAKE CATSUP DURING WINTER MONTHS
Consignment of 5,000,000 Cans on Way to Hold the Pack

A visit to the Newark plant of the United Canners Corporation this week disclosed the fact that Newark is rapidly becoming the canning center of northern Delaware. Never before in the history of the town has such activity been noticed in preparing to can tomatoes and corn for eastern markets as is now evident along the railroad at the foot of Depot Road.

The usual early season troubles have been met and passed and the local officials predict a normal crop of the scarlet beauties, and one which will tax even the increased capacity of the plans here.

Ex-State Senator John F. Richards, a director in the corporation and a practical farmer and merchant, stated that he had just finished a tour of local tomato fields and reported some splendid stands of plants. "Of course," said Mr. Richards, "the weather conditions have not been of the best. Cold nights and dry days have held back many fields, but on the whole we will have a satisfactory crop."

R. H. Pollock, president of the United Canners was busy at his desk, but gladly showed the representative of The Post about the plant and explained the future plans and policies of the organization.

Mr. Pollock stated that the Canners have contracted to can the crop from over 900 acres of plants—the Newark, Elkton, Hockessin, Kemblesville and Bear territory.

To do this and to make sure of no holdups from the inconvenience of long hauls by farmers, receiving stations have been set up at several nearby centers.

There will be such stations this year at Elkton, Kemblesville, Bear Station and Hockessin, where the farmers will deliver their tomatoes, and save themselves the long trip to Newark. Trucks have been engaged for the transporting of the vegetables here.

The territory around Elkton has been carefully covered by the officials and the farmers in Cecil have responded by growing more tomatoes than ever before. The price is the same as was announced in the spring, $13.00, with a sliding scale, the net result being a comfortable increase over the stated price per ton, providing nothing unforeseen happens.

New Warehouse Building

One of the very much needed improvements of the local plant is the large warehouse now in the process of erection. The huge building is built entirely of wood with cantilever beams and girders, thus eliminating the bothersome posts down the center of the enclosure.

The new building measures 208 feet by 50 feet and is about 25 feet high, well ventilated and with a solid concrete floor.

The great need for this warehouse was driven home when the old storage room was inspected. This building is still about half full of filled cases, ready to be shipped during the balance of this month and in July. The tomatoes here were held over for better prices and the wisdom of the officials was justified, when they are now bringing the best price of the year. However, the building is not roomy enough for the expected crop this year.

Thousands in Machinery

Important changes in the mechanical end of the canning operations here in Newark have been made in preparation for this season's business.

Chief among these is the new Anderson-Barnegrow Continuous Cooker, recently received from the manufacturers in San Jose California. This machine, the last word in modern canning equipment, has a running capacity of 75 cans per minute. Allowing for a twelve minute cook, the total capacity of the cooker is 900 cans. Two of these cookers are now on the floor ready to be connected with steam and water lines, representing an expenditure of $7500.

In addition to the cooker, each has a separate arrangement for cooling the cans, making one complete canning unit. This addition to the equipment will greatly increase the capacity.

Additional expensive canning machinery has been added and the old machinery, completely overhauled. Four complete tomato "lines" will be in use this summer. Heretofore but two "lines" have been in operation.

Will Make Catsup

United Canners will branch out for the first time into the catsup business this year. Part of the crop of tomatoes received here will be converted into pulp and stored away until fall and winter.

In order to do this, more new machinery has been purchased.

A new Indiana pumper and a most modern finisher, the latter a marvel of craftsmanship, with part of it made from German silver, have been added to what equipment remained from the Ritter regime in Newark.

Tanks for the holding of the pulp and cans for the storage have been obtained. It is expected that 90 per cent of the canning force held through the rush season will be given employment during the fall and winter in the preparing of catsup.

The tomatoes this year will be rigidly inspected before going into cans. After first being thoroughly washed, they will be conducted to a sorting table, where each tomato will be inspected by experts, and only the perfect ones allowed to reach the scalders. From the scalders, they will then go to the "peelers" and thence to the cookers and coolers.

Plan for 400 Workers

About four hundred workers have already been engaged according to Mr. Pollock, for the coming season. Most of these are professional canning people, who go south in the winter and remain north in the summer. They are experts at their various lines. Ten more temporary bungalows are being built below the cannery for the housing of the increased number of workers. Most of them are women and girls of foreign extraction.

Two more cooking retorts for corn have also been installed in the corn department, making six in all.

From now on until the start of the tomato harvesting, the United plant here will be a hive of action. While, with eight cars of coal already in the bins, 36,000 baskets and 5,000,000 cans on hand, everything looks to be ready, there are still a thousand and one things for Mr. Pollock and his staff to do before they will be ready for the rush.

Newark residents perhaps are not aware that one of the largest canneries in this section of the country is about ready to start in on the yearly drive on King Tomato, a cannery which stacked up over 100,000 cases last season and whose possibilities this year are unlimited.

JEWEL ROBBERY STIRS STANTON COMMUNITY

Home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dickey Ransacked by Thief Sunday Night

A daring robbery, which fortunately resulted in a loss of but $300, but which for thoroughness and nerve has not been approached in some time, startled Stanton Sunday night last, when a thief broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Dickey, a young married couple living with Mrs. Lewis Dickey, and ransacked three upstairs rooms.

The robbery happened, according to reliable information, between 6 and 7 o'clock, standard time. Entrance was gained through the back door of the house, and the door strips, which had been torn off, were neatly placed on the kitchen table by the marauder.

Proceeding upstairs, the burglar completely ransacked three rooms, and littered the floor with clothes, trinkets, silverware and other articles removed from closets and bureaus.

Among other things, he made off with a diamond ring, several valuable pieces of jewelry, a watch, some old historic money and other personal effects belonging to the occupants of the house. That he was probably an amateur was evidenced from the fact that he overlooked much other material of value, including silver and money. It appears that he was in search of some particular object while on his visit.

County Policeman Fooks took matters in his own hands, and, gathering a list of the stolen goods, he notified the Wilmington police department who in turn notified the pawn shops to be on the look-out.

County Policeman Fooks has done everything in his power and is working strenuously on the case.

There has been four robberies, one murder and one Black Hand letter received in this town within the last year and the culprits have never been run down and very little attention has been paid to any of these.

Several clues are being run down, but no arrests have been made. Stanton townpeople are very much up in arms over the incident and it is expected that the culprit will be taken into custody within a few days.

TOURIST LEAVE FOR EUROPE SATURDAY

Newark To Be Well Represented On Foreign Soil This Summer

On Saturday of this week, Misses Edith Spencer, Alberta Heiser and Rachel Taylor will sail from New York for a visit of over two months in places of interest in England and the Continent. Several days will be spent at the main cities of England, France, Belgium and Italy, with the latter country the scene of their long-stay.

A group of American artists will be among the many on board the vessel leaving New York, and it is with this group that the three Newark tourists will travel.

Dean Winifred J. Robinson is also planning to leave for foreign soil this week, and it is understood that she will sail on the same steamer with the other Newark people.

The travellers expect to return to this country about September 18th.

ELKTON BUSINESS BLOCK BEING RAPIDLY REBUILT AFTER BIG BLAZE

American Stores Opened For Business Last Saturday Other Stores Will Be Active Soon — Firemen Did Heroic Work in Saving Business Section

CAUSE OF FIRE STILL A MYSTERY

With rapidity born of necessity and business energy, the row of Elkton business houses which were gutted by one of the worst fires in the town's history last Thursday, are now beginning to take on their normal appearance again. Workmen are busy every day in clearing up the debris, removing ruined stock and rebuilding.

Within twenty-four hours after the blaze, the Elkton branch of the American Stores chain was housed in temporary quarters at 132 East Main street, the front painted with the familiar yellow, and stock being placed on newly built shelves. At eight-thirty Saturday morning the doors opened for business as usual. This constituted a record for Elkton in the matter of recovery from a fire.

The Atlantic and Pacific store was likewise active and opened later on Saturday.

Several thousand pairs of fine shoes were damaged by fire and water in the Cohen Shoe Store and will be offered at a sweeping reduction this week.

Similar action will be taken by the other three stores which felt the flames and water of Thursday's conflagration.

Firemen On the Job

Eight nearby fire companies responded with ten pieces of apparatus shortly after the blaze had gotten beyond control of the hardworking Singery men. Before the blaze was ultimately subdued, Wilmington Company No. 5 responded and helped in the final drive on the flames. It was due the early and heroic efforts of Elkton, Newark and North East firemen, however, that the flames were kept within bounds. Chesapeake City's steamer pumped water from the creek like a Trojan, as did the small engine of the Elkton company. The creek water proved a Godsend to the firefighters, as the town mains could not hope to supply the demands made by three or four big engines. The tide in the creek was high, and the wind very slight—all of which was helpful.

During the heat of the battle with the flames, thoughtful Elkton men arranged with the Howard House, Burkley's restaurant and Pierce's for sandwiches and lemonade, the restaurants kindly contributing the food and Charles Jeffers the lemons. As usual, Frank Maloney was on the job with his gasoline truck and supplied gas and oil to the engines free of charge. Sandwiches were passed around by the ladies of the town.

The fire seemed to rage the fiercest in the rear of the doomed buildings and the attention of the firemen was kept there the greater part of the time. Passersby an hour after the first could hardly realize from a front view, the extent of damage to the block.

Every company which responded to the general alarm worked in harmony with their neighbors, all intent in saving the center of the town. The result was a well organized and efficiently managed offensive that slowly but surely drove back the stubborn blaze and finally smothered it in an avalanche of water.

A distressing incident came to light after the fire, when spectators found the charred remains of a huge dog lying in the wreckage back of Anthony Williams' barber shop. A heavy chain around its neck was still in place, the quick burst of flames preventing its owner from rescuing the animal from a terrible death.

IMPORTANT REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENT STARTED BY ELKTON BUSINESS MEN

"Elkton Heights," Part of Wagamon Tract, Bought By J. B. Decker; Plans Quick Action TOWN COUNCIL MAY EXTEND BOW STREET

What is considered the most important real estate transaction made in Elkton for many months and which has proven to be most popular with the townspeople was completed last week when J. B. Decker, head of the Victory Sparkler and Specialty Co. of that town, purchased from the Wagamon Realty Co., of Wilmington, the old Tuite farm, formerly owned by J. W. McAllister.

Fourteen houses will be built on the Elkton Heights plot, according to latest advice, most of which will be above the average in construction and conveniences. The Singery Road section of the tract will also see some building activity, Mr. Decker having in mind the building of several workmen's homes at low renting costs. Elkton Heights has been voted by many Elktonians, the coming residential section of the town, and with adequate water and sewer connections, it should rapidly build up. In addition, the new High School will be situated thereon.

May Extend Street

The matter of extending Bow Street from the Armory grounds terminus on out into Elkton Heights will probably be taken up by Town Council at an early date. No action has been taken as yet in bringing up the issue, but it is understood that several councilmen have spoken favorably of the project.

Ralph Barchus, for the past five years associated with Robert T. Jones in the undertaking business here, left Monday evening for Lewistown, Pa., there to establish a similar business for himself.

Mr. Barchus made many friends while a resident of Newark and the good wishes of the community follow him to his new field.

He formerly lived in Lewistown and stated Monday before his departure that an excellent opportunity has presented itself.

NEW HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER

J. Hall Anderson, a Dover attorney, has been appointed a member of the State Highway Commission by Governor Denney for a term of eight years, to succeed W. O. Hoffecker, of Smyrna, whose term recently expired. Mr. Anderson sat with the Board last week.

FORMER PROFESSOR ILL WITH POISONING

Firman Thompson In Serious Condition at Massachusetts Home

News has been recently received in Newark of the serious illness of Firman Thompson, well known among local people. Mr. Thompson contracted a form of Arsenic poisoning while engaged in research work in the laboratories of the Bowker Insecticide Co. at Melrose, Massachusetts.

While it is understood that his condition is very dangerous, there is every reason to believe that he has a chance for recovery. In the event that he does recover, the convalescent period will extend over at least three months. The company with which Mr. Thompson is connected specializes in insect powders and preparations containing arsenic.

Mr. Thompson left Newark about two years ago. He had been an associate professor of chemistry at the University and also was chemist for the Experimental Station here.

SUNDAY EVENING SERVICES OF SUMMER SCHOOL OPEN JULY 1

Popular Services Will Be Open To All During The Entire Session; Mr. Fraim Will Direct

The lecture and entertainment course furnished this year for the University of Delaware Summer School by the Service Citizens opens with a trip to Longwood on Friday evening. Students and faculty of the Summer School and members of the State Department of Public Instruction have been invited to spend the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. duPont. They will leave Newark in the afternoon by automobile, and after arriving at Longwood, a tour of the gardens will be made, followed by an organ recital given by Dr. H. Alexander Matthews of Philadelphia. A buffet supper will be served, after which the guests will return to Newark by moonlight.

The most popular feature of the Summer School last year was the Sunday evening service, when students from all parts of the State and representing all denominations, united with the congregations of the Newark churches and Delawareans from the surrounding towns. The first service this year will be held on Sunday, July 1, in Wolf Hall, at 7:30 standard time. The sermon will be delivered by the Reverend Andrew Mutch, pastor of the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church. The sermon will be preceded by a sacred concert of one-half hour under the direction of Mr. W. LeRoy Fraim, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Fraim who will preside at the piano and direct the four Sunday evening concerts, has been identified with the musical life of Philadelphia for the past twenty years. His activities have been principally of an educational nature, he having been associated with the leading schools of the city and for the last six years being the director of his own private school, the Philadelphia Institute of Music and Allied Arts. Mr. Fraim serves as a visiting member of the faculty of the Settlement Music School and has served in a like capacity at the William Penn Charter School.

Mr. Fraim will be assisted by Jane Neilson, soprano; Alix Einert-Brown, 'cellist; Pearl M. Heebner, pianist. Miss Neilson is a dramatic soprano who is truly remarkable. Possessing a natural voice of great beauty and unusual power, Miss Neilson is also endowed with a charming personality which at once appeals to her audience. She has had the advantage of ten years of study with the greatest teachers of New York and Philadelphia and has appeared as soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra in the regular series at the Academy of Music; in recitals in New York, Atlantic City and Willow Grove.

Alix Einert-Brown is an English 'cellist and received her musical training in London, Paris and New York, where she graduated from the Institute of Musical Art under the famous 'cellist, Willem Willeke. Since coming to this country Miss Brown has appeared in concert throughout the east and has toured the south and middle west for the Redpath Chau-

DELAWARE BOYS RATE HIGHEST AT CAMP

Placed at Head of List in 2nd Corps Area

A communication from Major Lathe B. Row to the President of the University of Delaware, recently stated, that in the official ranking of the colleges from the Second Corps area now in camp at Plattsburg, N. Y., Delaware ranked first.

In this rating, Delaware superseded Cornell, which for many years has held the distinction of being the leading R. O. T. C. College in the Area. The new honor for the State University came largely as a result of its recent designation as a distinguished college by the War Department.

Chapter 2

Second District

Chesapeake City, the most important town in this district, was settled by Augustine Herman a native of the city of Prague. He was one of the nine advisers of the government. At one time he asked Lord Baltimore to give him a tract of land in Cecil County, Lord Baltimore did this and he named it Bohemia Manor. In the upper part of the Manor the town of Chesapeake City was settled.

As the people of this city had a hard time to get to adjoining towns and cities, Augustine planned a canal to run from the present town of Chesapeake to the Delaware Bay. His plan was not recognized until the year 1767 when Thomas Gilpin and other surveyors made twenty-seven different surveys of the places to place the canal. At last the one from Welsh Point to the present site of Delaware City was agreed upon. Nothing much was done as the colonies were on verge of war with Great Britain. Later in 1799 the State of Maryland granted the stockholders a charter, this charter stated that if Delaware would not let them cut the canal through her soil the charter would be worthless. Five hundred thousand dollars was raised in shares of stock at two hundred dollars a share, for the building of the canal. In 1801 Benjamin Lathrobe, Cornelius Harvon and John Thompson, surveyors, were employed to run various lines from Welsh Point, at the mouth of Back Creek and Elk River, in a north easterly direction to Christiana Creek at Mendenhall's Landing about four miles from Wilmington.

The idea of using this route was to get the water from Big Elk Creek to fill the locks at Chesapeake City. In 1803 the work on the canal was stopped on account of the lack of funds, and the Irish and Negro laborers race-riots. It was started again, however, in the year of 1812. It was during the war of 1812 that the government saw how necessary it would be to have a canal at this point, as it saved ships about 400 miles on their trip to Wilmington, Philadelphia, and New York from Baltimore and Annapolis. The supplementary Charter was added to the original Charter which stated that the United States Government should subscribe for 750 shares and the State of Maryland 250 shares of canal stock.

In 1812 John Randal, a prominent Engineer from Albany, New York, planned that the canal should be made a tidewater canal.

His plans were very expensive as they required much cutting and excavation; building canals in those days was not like it is today as modern dredges can in one month excavate 2,339,770 cubic yards of dirt. The banks of the canal were to be lined with stone quarried from Marley Mill and Cherry Hill.

Had Randal had the large steam dredges of today he would have made the world open its eyes. The extensive use of concrete was not known in those days. March 26, 1824 Engineer Randal was given a contract to excavate the greater part of the canal. The work started at the time near the present Summit Bridge, Del. There he excavated a cut 76½ feet deep. The Company had given Randal the privilege of four years to complete the canal, but in 1825 the Company gave the work to another party. It was finished by this party in 1829 at a cost of $2,500,000 and was 13½ miles in length.

The canal was extensively used during the Civil War to convey men and food to the front. Not much of importance had been stated about the canal until the year 1920 when the government bought it at cost. At the present time they have made a contract with the W. H. Caughan Bridge Building and Dredging Company which has the largest dredge in the world on the job. They are to dredge it three feet deeper and 100 feet wider at a cost of $2,500,000 so that in the years to come it will be a Panama.

Third District

The third district is in the north eastern part of Cecil County.

RACING MATINEE AT GLASGOW SATURDAY

Local Horsemen Will Show Speed at First of Series of Events

The first of a series of matinees for harness horses will be held on the half-mile track out at Coweview Farms, near Glasgow next Saturday afternoon, starting at two o'clock, standard time.

J. Wirt Willis, owner of the farm and a thorough sportsman, has arranged with several associates for the meetings during the summer, and a large number of entries have already planned to appear.

Three events will be run off Saturday, and to avoid misunderstandings, post entries will be accepted. Several local farmers possessing nags with a marked turn for speed will be on hand to take down some of the prizes offered.

It is one of the smaller districts of the county.

Elkton, situated on the Elk River, is its largest and most important town, having a population of about three thousand thirty people.

During the Revolutionary War Elkton took a leading part. Many amusing stories are told about Elkton at that time, also some interesting historical facts.

Henry Hollingsworth, living on Partridge Hill, at that time distinguished himself by helping the "American Cause." He gave the troops supplies when they were in need of them and manufactured guns and helped them in many other small ways that are not recorded in history.

There are many historical buildings in the third district, some of which were standing during the Revolutionary War. Two of these buildings are the Bratton Property on East Main street in Elkton, and the Partridge Hill property on West Main street, also in Elkton. Amusing tales are told of these buildings.

At the time of the Revolution a man by the name of George Alexander was living on the Bratton Estate. He had prepared a great entertainment and banquet for the British Officers, and when he went out to meet and welcome them to the feast, Lafayette came in and took possession of the feast without ceremony.

REHAB BALL TEAM AGAIN TRIMS IRON HILL

Wilson and Slowey Play Well For Division Boys

SIXTH STRAIGHT WIN

The Rehabilitation baseball team continued merrily along on its winning streak Saturday last, running their string up to six when they took Iron Hill into camp for the second time in three weeks, score 6-5.

Owing to a late start, the game was called at the end of seven innings.

Wilson, on the mound for the Rehabs, pitched a careful steady game. Andy Walp played a stellar game at first base, making several sensational plays and also batting well.

Iron Hill was always dangerous, and strengthened by the Mayer boys, of High School fame, came near beating out the soldiers. Howell came near bringing in the tying run in the sixth inning. The lineup:

THE CAUSE OF THE FIRE

The insurance adjuster who had been investigating the fire turned to go.

"I came down here to find out the cause of this fire and I have done so," he remarked.

"That's what I want to know. What caused it?" remarked the house owner.

"It's a plain case of friction."

"What-ya-mean—friction?"

"The first was undoubtedly caused by rubbing a $3,000 insurance policy on a $2,000 house."—Houston Post.

SCOUTS SAY "BE PREPARED"

Tommy had been forbidden to go swimming and, on coming home with his hair wet and with a wet bathing suit under his arm, received a severe scolding.

"But I was tempted so badly, mother," the boy protested.

"That is all very well," his mother replied, "but how did you happen to have your bathing suit with you?"

"Well, mother, I took my bathing suit with me, thinking I might be tempted."—Youth's Companion.

WARNING IN REGARD TO SHIPPING WINDFALL APPLES

W. T. Derickson of the Bureau of Markets Makes Appeal To Growers

Last season the apple growers of Delaware lost many thousands of dollars on account of some growers shipping their windfall apples to the large markets, in New York City, particularly this stock was condemned by the health authorities as being unfit for human consumption. Thus, even before our apple season was on, we received a black eye in the largest market in the world which not only caused the Delaware apples to lose prestige but actually cost the growers thousands of dollars.

It can readily be seen how this happened. The consumer or retailer in New York purchased a basket of Delaware apples, not knowing that they were windfalls and off grade stock, and upon beginning to use these apples he found them to be of even such poor quality that they were condemned by the Board of Health. Naturally, he would not buy any more Delaware apples, and when our real marketable apples came in, which was about a week or ten days later, and when we should have met a ready demand, we found that there was no real demand for Delaware apples because of the fact that the buyers purchased such poor quality their first deal.

Delaware shipped a larger percentage of graded apples last year than ever before and we should be very careful of our quality this year. From present indications there will be a good demand this year at a price higher than last year and we should not sacrifice thousands of dollars for a few hundred dollars in the early season.

There is usually some local demand for these windfall apples and they should be sold where the buyers know just what they are and should never be shipped to the larger markets, where they are sold as simply Delaware apples of a representative quality.

Extensive experiments conducted by the Washington State College have proven that cull apples are worth $19.00 a ton as hog feed. Pigs which weighed 94.8 pounds at the start of the experiment gained in weight 65.1 pounds each or an average of 1.38 pounds per day. As apples are bulky containing little protein it is necessary to include a little more tankage in the grain mixture, the formula which they used in this experiment can be obtained by making application to the office of the Bureau of Markets, Dover, Delaware.

QUICK DROP IN PRICE

"Yes, sir," bragged the artist, "I value this painting of mine at $10,000."

"I thank you for your frankness," responded the stranger. "I am the tax assessor."

"At $10,000 from an artist standpoint," went on the artist without a break. "Of course you know, however, that a painting is actually what the materials cost. In this case that would be $2 for canvas, and for paints, say sixty cents, or $2.60 in all."—Studio.

REHOBOTH SUMMER SCHOOL DISCUSSES CHURCH PROBLEMS

How to Get the Farmer to Church Is One Item

Problems that confront "The Country Church" is expected to prove one of the most interesting courses which are being given at the Peninsula Summer School at Rehoboth Beach, this week. The Rev. George B. Gilbert, of Middletown, Conn., will direct this course and under the sub-heads of "The Sunday Service," "Social Life in the Country," "Economic Life in the Country," "The Wealth of Country People," and the "Country Church School," he has arranged a most interesting period of study.

How to get the farmer to church and after getting him there how to keep him awake, is one of the things that he will endeavor to show. Sunday amateur athletics in the country and how long should country people remain about the church after the service on Sunday are two important details of the first section of the course. The social life, why it has disappeared, its needs and the result and lack of results where there is no healthy social service in the country is another important problem for rural pastors. How to maintain order and a program for the country social are others.

The effect of economy, and the tariff on the country church and the church life insofar as the church's duty in connection with the farmer's living is another detail.

LOCAL MOTORISTS SHOULD TAKE HEED

Wilmington Changes Ordinance Regarding Passing Trolleys

At a meeting of the Street and Sewer Directors in Wilmington Tuesday, a brand new rule was passed in regard to the passing of a street car while discharging or taking on passengers. The new section reads as follows:

"Section 27. The operator or driver of a vehicle shall bring the same to a full stop not less than five feet from the rear of any street railway car headed in the same direction which has stopped for the purpose of taking on or discharging passengers, and shall remain standing until such car has taken on or discharged said passengers, however, that said operator or driver may pass such street railway car where a safety zone is established by the proper authorities, and provided further that he shall have slowed down and proceeds cautiously."

This repeals the portion of Section 27 that heretofore allowed an auto to pass a standing trolley car provided there was eight feet of clear space between the trolley car and the curb. Repeal of that privilege will require autos to stop back of street cars at all crossings except where there is a safety zone designated along the tracks.

This amendment, it is expected will do much to halt the danger from speeding autos on Fourth street and on other streets where complaints have been made about autos speeding past halted street cars.

STATE FAIR PREMIUM LIST IS ISSUED

Department Superintendents and Assistants Also Named For Big Affair

$700 IN GRAIN PRIZES

The official premium list of the Delaware State Fair has just been issued and is being mailed to thousands of women and exhibitors throughout Delaware, Maryland and surrounding states. The list is larger than ever before and is a fitting part of the silver anniversary of the organization, which this year is celebrating its 25th season.

The premium list comprises all of the items contained in the preliminary list of premiums distributed a few months ago, and in addition contains the rules and regulations governing the entry, judging and awarding of premiums. The improved method of scoring by judges in the selection of prize winners is presented in such shape that everyone can understand how the judges reached their conclusion. There are additions to many of the departments and the statement "Bigger and Better" is particularly truthful in describing the Fair. The department superintendents and assistants are as follows: Women, Miss Emeline Derickson; children, Mrs. Frederick C. Snyder; Miss Dorothy

Heyd, Miss Naomi Pepper; fruits, R. G. Buckingham; vegetables, Frank F. Yearsley; grain and forage crops, Frederick C. Snyder; Lawrence A. Othson; horse show, William duPont; races, J. A STAYER

Two rich business men were chatting together when an elderly man passed by. "That's Brown; he works for me," said one of the two. "He's an honest looking chap," remarked the other. "Has he any staying power?" "He has that," replied the first. "He began at the bottom of the ladder in '76, and he's stayed there ever since."—Boston Transcript.
