Influenza Still Raging

Doctors Battling With Disease

Townswomen Nurse Patients at Harter Hall

Health conditions in Newark are reported as little better by local physicians. Dr. Steel has been confined to his home since last Monday, suffering with a severe sore throat, which, however, bacteriological test has shown is not diphtheria as at first reported. Doctors Kollock and Blake are on the go night and day, and find it necessary to give daily attention to only serious cases. One physician reported yesterday one hundred patients in bed, and eight new ones on Tuesday.

In the emergency hospital there are eight cases today—seven children in the Ellis family, whose father and mother died on Sunday, and Mr. Speer, of near Cooch's Bridge. These patients are under the care of the Red Cross volunteer nurses.

When it became known that there were patients in Newark suffering for lack of attention, owing to illness among the family caretakers, and in order to spare the doctors, Dr. Mitchell of Delaware College was consulted, as a result of which the vacant dormitory—Harter Hall—was loaned as a temporary hospital. Mrs. H. R. Tyson has arranged a schedule for volunteer nurses, by which they go on duty in three hour shifts. Townspeople who have responded to the call are as follows: Mrs. McGougan, Miss Edwina Long, Mrs. C. A. McCue, Miss Blodgett, Miss Foster, Miss Comstock, Mrs. Vinsinger, Miss Spencer, Miss Elizabeth Wright, Mrs. Pilling, Miss Cornelia Pilling, Miss Helen McNeal, Miss Eleanor Fader, Miss Hilda Emerson, Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Haupt, Miss Nellie Wilson, Mrs. Ruh, Mrs. William Lindell, Miss Richardson, Miss Helen Updegraff, Miss Churchman, Mrs. Havell, Miss Katherine Steel and Miss Stanford. Louis L. Curtis, secretary of the Newark Board of Health, is spending his entire time at Harter Hall, having been on duty since the beginning of the epidemic. It is probable, with the opening of college, that the patients will be moved to the Parish House of St. Thomas' P. E. Church. Under the supervision of Dr. Watson representing the State Board of Health, every room in Harter Hall will be thoroughly disinfected and made safe for the returning students. The Infirmary, it is hoped, will be amply able to care for the cases among the Training Detachment which have, except in a very few cases, been light.

In Old College Hall an extension system of shower baths and plumbing fixtures is being installed and a new boiler added so that ample facilities for heating will be provided. In order to have everything in readiness by Monday, the plumbers are working until late at night.

The influenza cases among the Student Army Training Corps are being discharged daily, so that today only one, a pneumonia case remains in the Infirmary. This patient has recovered sufficiently to be allowed to sit up.

(Later)—Delaware College, it was announced by Dr. Mitchell today, will not open before October 14th; perhaps at a later date. The situation is in the hands of the Board of Health.

RE-OPENING OF WOMEN'S COLLEGE INDEFINITE

Influenza Patients all Recovered

Dean Winifred Robinson reported this morning that the six influenza patients who have been under treatment in the Infirmary at the Women's College have been discharged and have gone home. Bernice Hastings and Marie Leagues of Laurel, went on Thursday of last week. Virginia Harrington of Harrington, on Saturday; and Nellie Hughes, of Felton, Margaret Groves of Marlinton and Dorothy Ford of Wilmington, left early in the week.

With regard to the opening of the Women's College, Dean Robinson stated that no definite information could be given until authority to open was received from State Board of Health. It is hoped, however, that conditions throughout the State will justify the Board's permitting the college to open on Monday.

FOR EVERY PATRIOT

The Women's Liberty Loan Committees of Delaware ask every citizen of the State to adopt this resolution:

WHEREAS, The 59th Pioneers are doing their duty in the face of danger over there;

AND WHEREAS, The Liberty Loan Committees are hampered in the work of backing up these boys by the Spanish Influenza over here;

NOW THEREFORE, I, a loyal citizen of Delaware, do hereby resolve;

That in spite of all difficulties my State shall be foremost in the Fourth Liberty Loan;

That I will take my subscription to my local canvasser without waiting to be called on;

That I will ask my family and my neighbors to do likewise.

DELAWARE COLLEGE WILL RE-OPEN ON MONDAY

Influenza Cases Nearly all Discharged

Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell announced this morning that Delaware College will re-open on Monday, October 14, at noon. Everything, he states, will be in good shape by Monday. Most of the influenza cases now in Harter Hall will have been discharged in a few days and the few who are yet in need of care will be transferred to the Parish House of St. Thomas' P. E. Church. Under the supervision of Dr. Watson representing the State Board of Health, every room in Harter Hall will be thoroughly disinfected and made safe for the returning students. The Infirmary, it is hoped, will be amply able to care for the cases among the Training Detachment which have, except in a very few cases, been light.

In Old College Hall an extension system of shower baths and plumbing fixtures is being installed and a new boiler added so that ample facilities for heating will be provided. In order to have everything in readiness by Monday, the plumbers are working until late at night.

The influenza cases among the Student Army Training Corps are being discharged daily, so that today only one, a pneumonia case remains in the Infirmary. This patient has recovered sufficiently to be allowed to sit up.

(Later)—Delaware College, it was announced by Dr. Mitchell today, will not open before October 14th; perhaps at a later date. The situation is in the hands of the Board of Health.

Liberty Loan Sale Lags

Illness Keeps Canvassers at Home

Every Citizen Urged to Subscribe Through Banks

Liberty Loan sales in Newark, as elsewhere throughout Delaware are lagging owing to the inability of workers in many instances to make house to house canvasses. The total sales up to noon today were as follows:

Men's Committee	$66,000
Women's Committee	53,200
Total	$119,200

The amount from the Women's Committee does not include, however, reports from three committees which will increase the amount subscribed at least $1000. The community faces the task of raising $150,000 in ten days, unless it wishes to go down in history as failing in the nation's crisis.

Forms Clearing House between Employer and Employed

Newark is one of the community centers established by the U. S. Department of Labor, and working in conjunction with the U. S. Employment Service. The Community Labor Board of which Mr. Eben Frazer is chairman, is doing an excellent work in enrolling for essential war work men and women who are at present unemployed or employed in what the government classes as non-essential industries.

This Committee is composed of J. Warren Marshall of Yorklyn, chosen by the manufacturers; Irving Durnell of Newark, chosen by the working men, and Mr. Eben Frazer, appointed by the government. The district under the jurisdiction of this committee com-

ORPHANS IN OUR MIDST

The death of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ellis of pneumonia following influenza, at Harter Hall on October 6th, leaves seven children temporarily without homes. An appeal is made to the people of Newark, to provide temporary care in homes of the community for five of these children, all of whom are now at Harter Hall, victims of the influenza. Further particulars may be obtained by consultation with either Dr. S. C. Mitchell or Louis L. Curtis.

Kitchen Runs at High Speed

Ritter Plant Operated at Full Capacity

Local Labor Replaces Immigrants

Wheels are humming merrily at the Ritter Ketchup Kitchen this week, every click of the many machines shouting defiance to Kaiser Bill, and registering so much more savoriness for the diet of the allied people. Every machine at the plant, for the first time this season, is running at its maximum, and the boxes in the shipping department are piling up at a splendid rate.

Two weeks ago the local management faced a crisis, when at the height of the season in this community, the Italian employees, frightened by the death of one of their number from Influenza, walked out. Several of the factory bosses, at the same time, were confined to their homes, and conditions seemed serious. Tomatoes piled up, wagons in close order filling the long lane, and lining Depot Road for several hundred yards on either side of the entrance.

Bringing tomatoes to the plant became an all day job, and farmers, hard pressed for time, were loud in their expressions of dissatisfaction. A number, however, out of sympathy born of their own labor problems, turned in to help remove the congestion. Posters were distributed around town urging local people to help save the crop as a patriotic measure, at the same time offering big money. The result has been a kitchen fully manned, turning out eighteen baskets of ketchup—4500 cases—daily.

Although the local crop is practically harvested heavy shipments are still being received from southern Delaware and the Company expects to be making ketchup until December first.

Mr. H. D. Reynolds, assistant superintendent, when discussing the situation today, spoke highly of the work of the help now employed at the plant. Of the 140 on active duty many are colored, from Newark, and they are doing their work in a manner highly satisfactory to the superintendent.

One of the most interesting features of the plant to a casual visitor are the bottle filling machines. From moving troughs the empty steam drenched bottles, in straight soldier-like rows, file by, to drop automatically into the "filler" where Ketchup from myriad funnel-like pipes runs into them. From here they file on again, 125 a minute, this time a scarlet procession, to the labelers and packers. In the face of a starving, food-craving world, the kitchen is an inspiration.

About 800 acres were contracted by local farmers, which in practically every instance have yielded large crops. One hundred twenty-five farmers have made deliveries at the plant during the season.

What's Asked of Us

WITHIN a year the nation has loaned its Government nearly ten billions. The full subscription and allotment of the fourth loan will increase that sum to nearly sixteen billions in sixteen months. Prodigious!

But is it, after all, so very much that this nation is asked to do? Sixteen billion dollars means about $160 for each member of the entire population. Now the average wealth is fully $2000, so that we are asked to lend to the Government only eight per cent of what we have. That isn't much, is it?

Take another view: France has already raised loans, entirely among her own people, aggregating $19,800,000,000. Now that is a great deal more, absolutely, than what we have given and are now asked to give—or lend. But, relatively, it is very much greater still. France, with Algeria, has less than half our population. Estimate it at 45,000,000. Then the loans already made amount to $440 for each member of the population, or pretty nearly three times as much as we are now asked to make up.

In addition to this, it must be remembered that France has suffered losses, of property and of lives, and also of commerce and industry, immeasurably greater than ours, and that we have been making profits out of the war immeasurably greater than hers. When all this is taken into consideration, it would be unutterably disgraceful if we should fail promptly to subscribe and to oversubscribe the Fourth Liberty Loan. When we have done that, we shall still have done only a fraction of what France has done. France has done it for us as well as for herself. It would be shameful, indeed, if we shrank from doing the smaller task for France as well as for ourselves.

Discharged Because of Physical Disability

Eliwood Hoffecker has returned to his home here after serving three months in the Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburgh, N. Y. He was recommended for a commission along with the other Delaware College boys but failed on physical examination and was discharged because of physical disability. Young Hoffecker was accepted at Plattsburgh in the beginning because physical examination regulations were not then uniform for entrance to the various branches of the army. On his return to Newark, Mr. Hoffecker appealed to the Local Board for re-examination with the request that he be put in "limited service." As a result he was retained in his original classification, Class V G.

Woman's Home Missionary Society Cancels Meeting

The meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church scheduled for October 11, will be canceled owing to the epidemic of influenza.

George H. Madden Wins Commission

The friends of Lieutenant Geo. H. Madden, C. O. Student, Company No. 3, Camp Johnston, Jacksonville, have been notified of his winning a commission. He was a star student in Delaware College and is particularly remembered by reason of his rare musical gifts. Those who know him feel that he will make an officer of unusual promise. He played on the college baseball team and was also a member of the orchestra.

Corporal Witsil a Victim of Influenza

Corporal Lawrence Raymond Witsil, a member of the class of 1918, Delaware College and Art Editor of The Blue Hen, died at Camp Meade on Friday, October 4, of pneumonia, following influenza. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Witsil of 706 West Twentieth Street, Wilmington from whose home he was buried on Monday afternoon.

At the outset of the war Corporal Witsil left Delaware College to take up work in the Ordnance Department of the U. S. Government as assistant chief inspector of Ordnance material, stationed at the works of the National Brass and Copper Tube Company at Hastings-on-Hudson, New York.

He remained in this work until he was voluntarily inducted into military service, going with the contingent leaving Wilmington for Camp Meade on August 26 last.

Upon arrival at Camp Meade he was made corporal in the Field Artillery and had been recommended for commission as second lieutenant.

Extremely patriotic and enthusiastic for military service he had made application for enlistment to all the branches of the service prior to induction, but was declined on account of slightly defective eyesight.

He was a young man of high character and marked ability and would have undoubtedly done great service for his country.

PLAN TO DEFER AGRICULTURAL WORKERS

ADVISERS APPOINTED FOR EACH DISTRICT BOARD

Under the rules of the War Department for executing the new draft law, special provision is made for increasing the district boards in regard to farm-labor requirements in order that necessary food production may be maintained, says a later statement issued by the Department of Agriculture. The statement continues:

In the new draft the district boards are charged with the duty of putting into deferred classes those persons who are more likely to further the war by remaining in civilian occupations than by entering the Army. Accordingly, three advisers are to be selected for each district board—one for agriculture, one for labor, and one for other occupations. The agricultural adviser will be appointed by the board upon the recommendation of the Secretary of Agriculture. The advisers are not members of the board, but may when invited attend its meetings.

How Agricultural Adviser Will Aid

The duties of the agricultural adviser will be to furnish to the board facts relative to farm-labor requirements, not only of his own district, but of the whole country. He should be the repository of all facts having relation to the deferment of agricultural workers, whether these be necessary farm laborers, managers, or operators. He will be expected to advise the district boards as to a shortage or surplus of necessary farm workers for any given district, as well as for the entire Nation. Such information will be supplied to the advisers by the Department of Agriculture. This will make it possible to have necessary workers transferred from districts in which they may not be necessary to other districts in which they are surely needed.

The adviser may also concern himself with individual cases that come before the district board. He will have the right, under certain conditions, to examine the questionnaires and other records in the files of the local board for the purpose of ascertaining whether persons entitled to deferred classification have actually claimed it. In case he finds the names of such registrants he may file them a claim for deferred classification with the district board, which, in turn, may require the local board to certify the questionnaire and record of any such registrants for consideration. Reasonable time will be given for the purpose of obtaining information and supplying the affidavits required. If a local board determines to consider a case for deferred classification because a registrant is engaged in a necessary occupation, notwithstanding no claim for deferred classification on that ground has been made, it shall endorse the recommendation on the questionnaire of the registrant and forward it to the district board having jurisdiction. The district board will thereupon consider the case and proceed to classify the registrant, notwithstanding the fact that no claim for deferred classification by or in respect of the registrant has been made.

MAKING SIRUP FROM SUGAR BEETS

Extension Workers tell how to Prepare Sugar Substitute

Miss Helen G. Bishop and Miss Agnes P. Medill of the Junior Extension Department of Delaware College have been demonstrating recently to the garden club members in Delaware how to make sirup out of the sugar beets which they have grown in their home and school gardens during the present year.

Last spring the U. S. Department of Agriculture distributed sugar beet seed among garden club members who promised to grow the beets in their gardens as an emergency sugar production project. This was done at Newark, Stanton, New Castle, Harrington, Bridgeville, Selbyville, Redden, Delaware City and Frederica.

The boys and girls are being instructed to harvest the roots when the foliage shows a yellowish tinge and when the beets leave the ground almost free from dirt on being pulled. The roots can then be made into sirup at once, or they may be stored until a more convenient time.

The roots may be stored either cutter has been found satisfactory for this work. The thinner the slices the more rapidly the sugar is extracted.

A further duty with which the adviser is charged is to confer with employers of necessary farm workers, and to instruct them as to their right under the regulations to file a claim for deferred classification in respect of any registrant who has failed or refused to file a claim for deferred classification in his own behalf.

This, in the opinion of the War Department, is a very important matter. The apparent injustice of placing many registrants in Class I is often due to the fact that employers have failed to make claims for deferred classification on behalf of necessary workers. It is to avoid a repetition of this trouble that farmers should see that all of their necessary employees, whether sons or other laborers, of the draft age have made for them just claims for deferred classification.

The juice should now be drawn off through several thicknesses of cheese cloth. No pressing is required to remove the juice from the beets. The light-brown liquid drawn off will contain the sugar. The refuse beet slices are valuable feed for chickens, hogs and other live stock.

The juice should be placed in a kettle or other receptacle, where it should be heated slowly or simmered, until it has evaporated to the proper consistency. In boiling the juice, care should be taken to avoid burning.

While the boiling is progressing, a scum will rise on the surface of the liquid; this scum should be removed carefully by means of skimmer. The object in skimming is to remove the scum as completely as possible without wasting any of the liquid. Skimming removes the strong, beet-like flavor and leaves a palatable product. The removal of the scum tends also to keep the liquid from boiling over. As soon as the sirup has reached the desired consistency it should be canned or bottered while hot and tightly sealed or corked to prevent moulding.

The sirup produced from beets is dark in color. Since it is not to go on the market, the color is not objectionable. The flavor of the sirup is pleasant, and is a wholesome, nutritious food, which to a certain degree can be conveniently substituted these war times for sugar. Beet sirup may be used for all purposes for which other sirups or molasses would be employed. If evaporation is carried out far enough and the sirup is allowed to stand, a dark sugar will settle to the bottom. This sugar will be found very satisfactory for home use in cases where refined sugar is not necessary.

The whole idea of the U. S. Department of Agriculture is to cause each home to help produce a sugar substitute as a war emergency project.

It is not the thought that sugar beets should be grown commercially, but rather that each family that can should raise a row in the garden for home consumption.

One ounce of beet seed, when put in hills, will plant a row 400 feet long, and should produce 400 to 500 beets after thinning. From 80 to 100 beets of average size will make one bushel, and this amount is sufficient for about one gallon of home made sugar beet sirup.

The sugar beet is a biennial plant, so beets intended for seed will be stored for the winter and set out again next spring.

The boys and girls have had a good time while growing beets and making the sirup; they have joined the sugar beet battalion and have gone into the beet trenches, in order that they may sweeten the job for our soldiers and allies across the sea.

Mercury's Messengers

In the London Mail, Evangelie Ryves shows the poetic side of a postwoman's calling. "I am the postwoman," she writes, "the bringer of tidings, the world messenger, the slow, feminine Mercury, * * * irrefutable, final. The hand of fate am I, and no prayers to me may avail. My only gift is to give. I have no power to withhold, to create, or to destroy. I give life and death and foolish trifles. My game is change. I shuffle the cards and deal from the same pack cards of the dead and the newborn. I am dispassionate and aloof. Though I give laughter, I may not smile; though I bring tears, I may not weep. The postwoman never stays; almost before she is here she is gone again."

This postwoman rises in winter in the deep dark, at 20 minutes after 5, and goes on foot or bicycle over her long rural route. She says no one looks at her face—only at her hand. Once a little child waited for her, took her hand, and trotted along beside her. It seemed to her incredibly strange. Could it be that after all she was a body—a heart instead of being only a hand?

"Where is the Fire?"

IT seems like a small thing to ask of the operator—but what does it mean?

Possibly, at the same moment, hundreds are asking the same question and from the way the signal lamps on the switchboard glow one might say that the switchboard was on fire.

It requires as much time, as much use of the operator's service and telephone equipment to answer such a call as it does to establish an ordinary connection, and calls made at such critical times may delay the really important calls—calls for doctors, police and other emergency necessities—for the operator cannot distinguish the calls of a curious nature from important ones.

Now, as never before, all telephone facilities must be available to carry forward the really important business which is presented every hour. Please make only the necessary calls and help us as we strive to serve.

prices Pencader, Mill Creek and White Clay Creek Hundreds. Miss Alice Carr is secretary and Mr. Daniel Thompson field agent for the committee which has its headquarters at the Hose House. Recently two women, Miss Lena Evans of Newark and Miss Anna Glenn of Yorklyn, were added to this committee. Their particular line of work includes the interviewing of women within their district with a view to discovering what is their present employment, whether or not it is essential, what are their qualifications for doing certain lines of war work and urging women at present unemployed or employed in non-essential industries to enroll as war workers and wherever possible release men for active service. These women will meet on Thursday evening, October 10, for organization and will assume their duties in a few days.

The field agent takes in effect a census of the industries within his district with regard to number of workers, vacancies, positions now held by able-bodied men but which might be filled by women and those employed in essential industries but not essential to them.

A clearing house is established by this committee between employer and employee. Already 6 or 8 men have been transferred by this board to essential industries; one non-essential industry has been closed down; and numerous applications from local industrial plants for workers, have been filed and a few men procured for local concerns.

Newark is one of seven such community centers established in the State, the others being Wilmington, Dover, Georgetown, Smyrna, New Castle and Seaford.

PRESIDENT WILSON PROCLAIMS LIBERTY DAY

Anniversary of America's Discovery, October 12

"Every day the great principles for which we are fighting take fresh hold upon our thought and purpose and make it clearer what the end must be and what we must do to achieve it. We now know more certainly than we ever knew before why free men brought the great nation and government we love into existence, because it grows clearer and clearer what supreme service it is to be America's privilege to render to the world. The anniversary of the discovery of America must therefore have for us in this fateful year a peculiar and thrilling significance. We should make it a day of ardent rededication to the ideals upon which our government is founded and by which our present heroic tasks are inspired."

"Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do appoint Saturday, the 12th day of October, 1918, as Liberty Day. On that day I request the citizens of every community of the United States, city, town and countryside, to celebrate the discovery of our country in order to stimulate a generous response to the Fourth Liberty Loan. Commemorative addresses, pageants, harvest home festivals, or other demonstrations should be arranged for in every neighborhood under the general direction of the Liberty Loan committee, in co-operation with the United States Bureau of Education and the public school authorities. Let the people's response to the Fourth Liberty Loan express the measure of their devotion to the ideals which have guided the country from its discovery until now, and of their determined purpose to defend them and guarantee their triumph."

"For the purpose of participating in Liberty day celebrations all employees of the federal government throughout the country whose services can be spared may be excused on Saturday, the 12th day of October, for the entire day.

Dear Mrs. Wilson:

No doubt you have been notified, long before you receive this letter, of the death of your grandson, Lieutenant James A. O'Daniel, but I have just returned from the funeral and want to write to you while still under the influence of the event. Your grandson was a stranger to me, indeed a new arrival to this camp, but I saw his machine just before it fell; after the fall I saw the wreck of it beside the hedge where it struck the earth, and today I was called upon to conduct the service. The event has made a powerful impression upon me; indeed it has made an impression upon all the camp. He is the first officer to be laid to rest in the little cemetery here.

Publication of "Blue Hen" Seems Unlikely

It is rumored that owing to existing war conditions, publication of "The Blue Hen," the Delaware College year book, will be suspended. Many vacancies appear in the personnel of the staff. F. Bayard Carter, 2d Lieut. U. S. A., editor in chief; Draper Smith, 2d Lieut. U. S. A., assistant business manager; Donald Dare, 2d Lieut. U. S. A.; Alexander Blair, Allison Bernard, 2d Lieut. U. S. A., and many other assistants in the various departments are now in various branches of the service. The S. A. T. C., which has been inaugurated at Delaware, makes many phases of college life impossible and although nothing definite has yet been decided it seems very improbable that under existing conditions this publication can be continued.

cemetery. First marched the band playing Chopin's wonderful piece of music. The body rested upon the caisson drawn by six large black artillery horses. A group of officers acted as pall bearers, and another group including in it the commander of the camp, followed, and then the men of the aviation section. As we passed countless soldiers they came to attention, and uncovered or saluted until the procession had passed.

Dear Mrs. Wilson:

No doubt you have been notified, long before you receive this letter, of the death of your grandson, Lieutenant James A. O'Daniel, but I have just returned from the funeral and want to write to you while still under the influence of the event. Your grandson was a stranger to me, indeed a new arrival to this camp, but I saw his machine just before it fell; after the fall I saw the wreck of it beside the hedge where it struck the earth, and today I was called upon to conduct the service. The event has made a powerful impression upon me; indeed it has made an impression upon all the camp. He is the first officer to be laid to rest in the little cemetery here.

Soldiers Allowed to Write for Publications

According to information received from Washington Monday, American soldiers hereafter will be allowed to write for publication and receive pay for their work. The general staff announced yesterday that the order prohibiting such writing has been modified to keep alive interest in individual achievements at the front and in view of the fact that practically all of the literary ability in the country has been called into the service by the draft laws.

Soldiers will not be permitted, however, to act as regular newspaper correspondents, nor write criticisms of conditions and activities. Writing of fiction or letters for publication will be allowed, providing the work contains nothing relating to the military profession, the war or to current events.

Extension Workers Speak at Kent County Meeting

Miss Gertrude Blodgett and Dean Harry Hayward were speakers at a reception held by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Soper of Rising Sun, Del., in honor of County Agent Zimmerly who left on Sunday to take a position at the Virginia Truck Experiment Station.

The members of the Kent County Farm Bureau and others were guests. Miss Blodgett advocated the introduction of hot lunches into the rural schools and presented a most interesting and convincing argument on behalf of the child in the rural school.

Dean Hayward discussed the importance of co-operation among farmers especially in these times and showed the benefits of the Farm Bureau to the farmer.

Origin of Nickname "Doughboy"

According to a recent communication in the Baltimore Sun, the term "doughboy" as a nickname for the American infantryman is a very old one, dating back to the Mexican War of 1846.

In that year the United States regular soldiers first made acquaintance with the houses of mud-colored, sun-dried bricks that are seen everywhere, even today, in New Mexico, Arizona and the southern part of California.

These bricks are called by the Mexicans adobes (pronounced "doh-bees").

When the American invaders entered what was then Mexican territory the infantrymen found these dwellings—mostly deserted by their panic-stricken inhabitants—handy as billets, and promptly occupied them as such. But the cavalrymen, who had to be near their picketed horses out on the open prairie, were unable to avail themselves of similar accommodation.

Partly in envy and partly in good natured chaff, they christened their more fortunate comrades "doble dudgers," afterward shortened to "dobbies," a good, round sounding nickname that was bound to stick, and which in course of time became corrupted into "doughboys."

Rural Carrier Examination

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for the County of New Castle, Del., to be held at Newark and Wilmington on November 9, 1918, to fill the position of rural carrier at Marshallton and Porters and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other post offices in the above-mentioned county.

The examination was formerly open only to male citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a post office in the county.

During the continuance of the present war the Commission will, in accordance with the request of the Post Office Department, admit women to rural carrier examinations upon the same conditions as men. Applicants must also meet the other requirements set forth in Form No. 1977. This form and application blanks may be obtained from the offices mentioned above or from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C. Applications should be forwarded to the Commission at Washington at the earliest practicable date.

Mrs. Anna Armstrong is spending several days each week at Delaware City, where she has organized a large class of music pupils.

Red Cross Appeals for Tin and Platinum

Will Receive Donations at Local Headquarters

If you have on hand platinum articles for which you have little use or which are not of any particular value from the point of view of personal association, Uncle Sam urges you to turn them over to the Local Red Cross which has been designated by the War Industries Board as the collecting agency.

There are many forms of jewelry in which platinum appears, such as pins, brooches, rings, mesh bags, cigarette cases, watches, watch chains, purses, vanity cases, cigar cutters, lavallieres, sleeve buttons, chains, lorgnettes, studs, key rings, key chains, etc.

Platinum is needed by the Government and by the industries of the country for many vital purposes. Among its industrial uses are the making of contact points for magnetos to be used in tractors, trucks, automobiles, motorcycles and gas engines; the making of contact points for telephone and telegraph systems and wireless plants; X-ray tubes, hypodermic needles, chemical apparatus for laboratory and research work and scientific instruments.

Tin is also needed by the government which finds after careful computation, a deficit of SOME FIVE THOUSAND TONS IN THE AMOUNT REQUIRED TO MEET OUR NEEDS.

Tin, of course, is found in innumerable forms, but for the purpose of the Red Cross, the forms in which tin worth collecting may be found, are limited to three. They are:

FIRST: Foil of every kind.

It is impossible for Red Cross members generally to know the difference between tin foil, lead foil and combination foil, and for the present purpose it is not necessary for them to know the difference. Every kind of foil is worth collecting, because every kind contains a sufficient proportion of tin to be of value. Tobacco foil, cigarette foil, chewing-gum foil, chocolate foil and foil used by florists are some of the varieties.

SECOND: Collapsible Tubes.

These are such as contain tooth paste, shaving cream, salve, paints, etc. Every kind of collapsible tube is worth collecting, as every kind contains a sufficient proportion of tin to be of value.

THIRD: Pewter Articles.

In pewter articles of every kind, a very large percentage of tin is found, so that the collection of pewter articles is very important.

NOTE: Tin cans, so called, contain a trifling percentage of tin, and because materials for detinning is scarce, are not worth collecting.

Mrs. C. B. Evans announces that the above mentioned articles will be most gratefully received at the Local Headquarters and urges every patriotic citizen to aid in the collection of these two necessary metals.

TO PROVIDE HOT LUNCHES FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

Project Being Launched in Delaware

One of the most vital things attempted by the government with the aid of educational authorities is the improvement of school conditions everywhere.

In connection with the campaign to improve the health and school records of rural school children the following is issued:

"Is your child doing as good work in school as you wish? Are the children in your district interested in their school work?

"It has been found by investigation in many cities, that children are able to do better school work, will remain in school for a longer period of time, when provided with a hot lunch than when the ordinary cold lunch is eaten. The rural schools in Delaware may with very little expense and labor provide for the children of that school one hot dish to supplement the cold lunch brought home.

"Our government is urging that we do everything possible to conserve the health of our children. This is one very important method.

"Any teacher or parent, who is interested and desires information as to cost, methods or dishes to be served, may secure same by writing to Miss Gertrude L. Blodgett, State Leader, Home Demonstration Work, Newark, Delaware.

Would Christen Big Ship at Hog Island

Delaware women are after the honor of naming the 7,500 ton steamer at Hog Island. It will be named by the district that gets the highest over its quota in the Liberty Loan Campaign of the Third Federal Reserve District of which Delaware is a part. It is desired that a Delaware woman christen the boat and give it the name chosen by the state.

The splendid showing made by Delaware in previous loans makes it highly probable that this honor will come to the Diamond State.

Resigns from Work Bureau

E. Ross Farra, assistant director of the Compulsory Work Bureau of the State Council of Defense, resigned his position on Saturday to go to the Jackson and Sharp plant of the American Car and Foundry Company as employment director and welfare worker.

He has been with the Compulsory Work Bureau since July 25, as chief inspector for Wilmington district of the compulsory bureau. He has been an energetic hunter of slackers. Mr. Farra is a member of the National Probation Association and director for Delaware of the National Association, working with adults as well as juveniles.

Harry K. Hoch, attorney, has been appointed as assistant director of the Compulsory Work Bureau, to succeed Mr. Farra. The new official has a reputation as a baseball player, and is of athletic build, well qualified for the strenuous work of this always busy bureau.

GARDENS AND POULTRY YARDS POSSIBLE WITH GOOD FENCES

Department of Agriculture asks for Co-operation Between Neighbors

The redress of the home gardener against the intrusions of the neighbor's chickens will depend on the laws of the State or ordinances of the town or city in which the gardener lives. In some states owners are liable for damage done by stock running at large; in other states the person who wishes to grow a crop must fence it against depredation. In most of the eastern states owners of stock are required to keep it under fence.

These facts are set forth by the United States Department of Agriculture in response to queries by gardeners who have neighbors raising chickens that harvest the products of Liberty gardens before such products are mature. The department is not prepared to say which type of food-raising is the more profitable and praiseworthy, but says that both can go hand in hand if there are proper fences. Whether the poultryman or the gardener must provide the fence depends upon local statutes or ordinances, and the rights of the case would be determined under general principles of law.

It is related that a Liberty gardener and a Victory poultryman lived side by side. One morning the poultryman saw the gardener industriously digging.

"What are you doing?" asked Egbert.

"Replanting some early peas," replied Cornelius.

"But that looks like my brown leghorn lying beside that hole."

"It is," said the gardener; "my first planting of early peas is inside her."

The legal authorities of the department say that the chicken-and-garden question, far from being a subject of humor, is undoubtedly a serious one, and has probably led to as much trouble, dispute, and ill-feeling between neighbors as any other single cause.

The department believes, however, that in war time there will be more of a principle of co-operation and a theory of live and let live. With everyone interested in a maximum war-time food production some way can usually be found out of the difficulties that may arise through the proximity of chickens and gardens.

FLAG ETIQUETTE

Compiled by Committee of Patriotic Societies

William Mather Lewis, secretary National Committee of Patriotic Societies, states with regard to the flag:

The United States military regulations and other rulings give well defined statements as to the respect to be shown the flag. The most important of these follow.

When the colors are passing, the spectator, if a man, should halt if walking, arise and uncover if sitting, holding the head-dress opposite the left shoulder with the right hand; if bareheaded, he should salute with the right hand. A woman should stand at attention as the flag passes by.

When the flag flies from a stationary flag-staff it is not ordinarily saluted with the hand.

Used in decoration, the flag should not be festooned or draped, but hung flat. If the flag is hung with the stripes horizontal, the Union should be in the upper left corner. If hung perpendicularly, the Union should be in the upper right corner.

When the flag is carried in parade, or when crossed with other flags, the Stars and Stripes should always be at the right.

The law specifically forbids the use of and representation of the flag in any manner in connection with merchandise for sale.

The flag should be raised at sunrise and lowered at sunset. It should not be displayed on stormy days or, except when under fire of the enemy, left out over night. Although there is no authoritative ruling which compels civilians to lower the flag at sundown, good taste should impel them to follow the traditions of the Army and Navy in this sundown ceremonial. Primarily the flag is raised to be seen, and secondarily, the flag is something to be guarded, treasured; and so tradition holds that it shall not be menaced by the darkness. To leave the flag out at night, unattended, is regarded by some as proof of shiftlessness, or at least of carelessness.

On Memorial Day, the flag should be displayed at half-mast from sunrise until noon, and at the peak from noon until sunset. It should, on being retired, never be allowed to touch the ground.

When "The Star Spangled Banner" is played or sung, all present should stand, uncover, face towards the music, and remain standing, in silence, until the music ceases.

Applause at the conclusion of "The Star Spangled Banner" is out of place.

Worn-out and useless flags should be destroyed, preferably by burning.

A flag torn or frayed by the wind and weather should not again be hoisted until it has been repaired. This is a regulation of both the Army and the Navy and should be followed by all civilians.

ARMY SALVAGE IN THE ECONOMY PLAN

Our army salvage is a gigantic affair.

In former French railroad yards and car shops trains of box cars unload mountains of junk from battlefields and trenches, permanent and mobile American camps and hospitals. There are mountains of old shoes and leaky rubber boots, mountains of battered helmets and rusty field ranges, soiled uniforms, discarded underwear and unloved socks.

But the American boys are in clean ones. These are the combings of war. It is the death blow to vermin and dirt. It saves tonnage. It gives work to thousands of poor refugees. It supplies our German prisoners with suitable dark uniforms to work in, nicely cobbled shoes and all conveniences. Not a dead mule is wasted. Hospital slippers that would sell with a rush on the Paris boulevards at $2.80 per pair are made from old felt hats and ruined pants. Gloves are made from old socks.

In the clothing repair shop 750 nimble-fingered but work-worn French widows and orphans are helping Uncle Sam to win the war, the pick of fine needlewomen. Girls have sorted the garments. Though disinfected, washed, dried, sterilized and inspected, the garments are unsightly, and no soldier would wear them. They are hence classified: (1) Garments fit with proper remarking for reissue; (2) not so slightly, but with greater repairs good for workers back of the lines; (3) badly worn or damaged, to be refurbished up for German prisoners; (4) stuff for the rippers. The rippers take every good patch, button, eyelet and piece of waist band lining. The American soldier fights clean. Thank the salvage.

Mountains of old shoes are cast aside by the American soldiers and sent to the army salvage department.

Shoes almost new—that hurt a boy's feet; fine goods, trench soaked; first class articles mysteriously abandoned; run-down stuff, with perfect uppers; holes cut in new leather to air bunions; there are worn shoes that require half-sooling; old shoes to be cobbled for German prisoners and piles and piles of dead ones, only fit to rip with sharp knives to save the part that can be used for some purpose.

In a long hall where hundreds of French women at hand-work and sewing machines patch and glue slippers, shelter tents, and so on, American specialists of rubber boots cut off worn parts and smooth the spot for new heels, soles—anything—by the cold dry cement process. Leather shoes—wa-hed, dried, sorted, remade or repaired—are finely pounded on taut and receive doses of drabbing. Thus done over by specialists a thousand pairs of fine shoes, fit for reissues, have come out of the salvage in a single day. Some will go to the front, some to workers in the rear, but none of these to German prisoners.

The cobbling holls for prisoners' wear are in themselves immense. Further on French girls rip dead shoes all day. Nothing is lost. Bits of good leather are kept for patches. There are great sole cutting machines. The debris is ripped up to repair cartridge belts, haversacks, leather leggings, canvas leggings, equipment harness patching and the manufacture of leather shoe laces. Nothing is lost, and everything is used in this great branch of the salvage department.

Psychology of War On Women's Dress

By LENA MADESON PHILLIPS,
Y. W. C. A. National Board Secretary for Business Women.

"Work while you work and primp at home" is the new slogan for the woman in business. With the call to her new duties brought about by war has come to woman the knowledge that to succeed in business she cannot think of her clothes during office hours. The old fashioned idea that woman is always clustering about her dress is rapidly being killed in action.

If the business women are to meet the demands of the present day challenge, thus fulfilling the promise of their past achievements, the standards of the average woman must be raised as a means thereto, and the raising of standards means sensible dressing. To appear at the office with fuzzy hair, high heels and the primping attitude; to work all day with one eye on the clock and the other on the mirror, had a tendency to lower standards. Ideas on the change in the attire of business women have been fermenting for some time. One clever woman has even gone so far as to work out the fact based on a canvass and statistics that the woman who was always fussing over her clothes and primping during office hours did not get her salary raised.

With the coming of the war woman's work has been made real, and all these fermenting ideas are fast being crystallized. Women have found the waists that must on the slightest provocation, like chiffon, and other materials designed for the drawing room, impractical for the real work they are now called upon to do. They have found that high heels advertise weakness, and those who are doing Uncle Sam's work must think of their feet in terms of strong ankles and strong arches. They have discovered, above all, that clothing reveals personality, and that to gain personality they must consider their work, its ideals, and their own social responsibility.

Forty-nine hairpins and a fluffy cascade of feminine adornment are becoming obsolete since Uncle Sam is accepting woman workers. Modesty in dress means the right attitude toward the dignity and worth of the human body, and respect for dignity does not go with a neck too exposed for business. Again women are learning that a business proposition is not an anteroom to matrimony. While it goes without saying that for the average woman marriage is a state both right and great to be desired, it by no means justifies her using her place in the business world primarily as a means of securing a good husband. The woman today who wishes to fill a place in the business world until such time as it is convenient for her to marry, in all fairness to other women who assume business responsibility permanently, must surrender herself to the task she has chosen in no half hearted way. Employment must cease to be merely a means of securing money for attire clothes.

Women are fast learning that if they desire equal pay for equal work the first emphasis must be placed on the work. The time has come when they must cease to demand both the rights of men and the privileges of women. If they desire to be laborers with men in the business world, with equal opportunities and equal pay, they must face business with a man's steadfastness of purpose and real desire to succeed. The business woman of today must be willing to forego such styles of dress as will distract from the business in hand and surround them with a sex consciousness which is not conducive to solid work nor to sound morals.

APPEAL FOR CANTEEN WORKERS IN FRANCE

Red Cross asks for 180 from Delaware

A cable received from the Foreign Commissions of the American Red Cross asks for two thousand women for canteen and hospital hut service to be sent over during the next six weeks. Of this number, the Pennsylvania-Delaware Division must supply one hundred and eighty.

In order to render the most efficient service to troops, in canteens and hospital huts abroad, these women should be strong, cheerful, good-looking, energetic and typically American. There very appearances should have an invigorating and refreshing quality, which will bring something familiar and homelike and pleasant into the strange and exhausting conditions of army life.

Women who are "good mixers" and have a "social gift" are particularly valuable for this work; music, ability to read aloud well, and to organize entertainments are important assets. The knowledge of French is useful, but not essential. An ability to do good team work with the other women in charge of the hut is essential. Candidates must be between the ages of 25 and 35.

Volunteers who will pay their own expenses are preferred for this service, but good candidates will be accepted, who are willing to serve for equipment, transportation and 600 francs per month; it being understood that an equitable reduction will be made when all or parts of quarters and sustenance are furnished.

Each volunteer must fill out an application blank and secure three letters of recommendation. The blanks may be obtained from Miss Emily P. Bissell, 1404 Franklin Street, Wilmington, Secretary of the Red Cross, and when filled out should be returned to her with the three letters.
