Newark, Delaware

The Party Capital of the East

It is no small secret to University of Delaware students that the town of Newark is one of the partying capitals of the east. The students, after some time spent here, come to realize that Newark has perhaps the greatest night life in the entire country. The clubs and discos that dominate this college community are some of the best.

As a special tribute to Newark's place among exciting towns, the Blue Hen II held a contest in the early Spring; the prize was a whirlwind, nighttime tour of Newark. Here are some shots of the winners as they went on their "Dream of a Lifetime" date . . .

Our lucky couple arrived by rail, since they were from out of town. They are pictured here at the Newark depot, awaiting the arrival of a taxi that will whisk them into center city. The Newark depot is a very popular place; people from all around gather here to watch and wait for the two commuter trains that stop daily.

Dinner and dancing were next on the agenda for our couple. They were taken to one of the best restaurants in the Newark area, Burger King. Nationally known for their fine cuisine, Burger King served a delicious dinner. The main dish was Whopper a la cheese. The couple followed this with a Coke and some dancing.

Our couple wanted to continue dancing, but in a place where the drinks had a bit more of a bite to them. The unanimous choice was the Stone Balloon. After showing the required two ID's, our couple was allowed to enter and they had a most enjoyable time. Although the band that was playing that night was on break for the duration of our couple's stay at the Balloon, they were still able to kick up their heels and dance the night away.

The Balloon tired our couple out a bit, so the next stop was for something relaxing. They found it at the Newark Newsstand, that noted and popular hangout for the many literary giants that roam the streets of Newark. The couple found the expensive, imported cigars and intellectual magazine reading material very much to their liking.

A very popular thing to do in Newark is to window shop. People from all over Delaware come to Newark for just this purpose. Our couple did some window shopping between stops and enjoyed it immensely. They were more fortunate than most people in that they found a window that they wanted and were able to purchase it.

After buying their window, our couple was once again in the mood for food and games. This time they had a romantic pizza for two at Mr. Pizza for the food. For the games they went next door, to the back room of Sam's. Here they spent their time, as well as their money, on several rounds of pinball. They felt it well worth their time and money, though, as Sam himself made a guest appearance.

There is no better way to top off a romantic pizza for two than with a romantic ice cream for two. Our couple felt the same way and so they proceeded to the Malt Shoppe. Romantic ice cream cones for two are the Malt Shoppe's specialty, but they also serve delightful single cones.

Although the lady was reluctant, the man had to have several more drinks to finish the night properly. They first stopped in The Glass Mug. The lady enjoyed the quaint atmosphere of the place. He thought it was too quiet, and so after several rounds it was off to the Deer Park for some brew and some noise. They got both. Perhaps too much of both.

They say that all good things must come to an end; it certainly came abruptly for our couple. We think it was those last few brews that did it, but we can't be sure. All we (the Blue Hen II staff) know is that our couple was extremely disorderly and were so charged. They were released the following day into the custody of each
