New baseball league pays homage to Willis

by David Woolman

Around the turn of the century, Victor "The Delaware Peach" Willis pitched for 13 years in the National League.

The onetime Newark resident won more than 20 games eight times in his career, and won 248 games in all, including 50 shutouts, while playing for the simply dreadful Boston Braves. In 1905, he lost 29 games despite an earned run average of just

Willis' shutout total and lifetime ERA (2.63) put him in the top 15 when compared to pitchers in the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y. But he is not remembered with a plaque there.

He will be remembered in Delaware with the formation of the Vic Willis Semi-Pro League, which will begin play this spring.

The five-team league is made up of squads formerly in the Newark Amateur league, which disbanded this winter after plans were announced to change it from a summer league to a pre-season warm-up for the Wilmington Semi-Pro League.

The intention of the Vic Willis League is to provide a venue for local college players and players too old for American Legion ball to continue to play. An aspiration of the league is to sometime in the future use National League rules and wooden bats.

The five teams are the Newark Buccos, managed by Leroy Hill; Gilday's Enterprises, managed by Bob Gilday; the Elkton Rockers, managed by Kevin Brown; the Newark Rebels, managed by Bill Christ; and the Bear Buckeyes, managed by Wally Goff.

They will play a 20-game season, with twilight games on Wednesdays at 6 p.m. and doubleheaders on Saturdays, starting at 11 a.m.

The teams will play at Peter Marshall Park (formerly Doubleday Park) on Barksdale

Road in Newark, Banning Park in Wilmington, St. Mark's High School, Caravel Academy, Eder Park in Elkton, Md. and Holly Hall Park, also in Elkton.

In an era of ironman pitchers, Willis was made of steel. He pitched in 513 games and completed 388, 82.4 per cent, fourth on the alltime list since 1900.

In the 1902 season, Willis was 27-20 after starting in 51 and completing a whopping 45 games. That year, he allowed no home runs.

He also has one career no hitter to his credit. For a number of years, his name has been before the Veterans Committee for inclusion in the Hall of Fame. One year, he received sufficient votes but failed to be inducted because two other players received more votes and the committee is allowed to install only two per year.

Though Willis is still waiting on Cooperstown, he is remembered in Newark.

Newark edges Elks, 3-2

ELKTON, Md. — It was in most ways a less than perfect performance by the Newark High School baseball team. But it was a win, 3-2 over Elkton Wednesday afternoon, and for the opening game of a so-far unseasonable spring, it was actually kind of nice, particularly for Shane Noonan.

Noonan, in his first varsity appearance for Newark, started and pitched five innings, giving up one hit, walking two and striking out two. He also went two for three at the plate, with a home run.

Noonan was told he would start two days before.

"I was very much looking forward to it," said Noonan, who felt the performance was a good sign for the rest of the season. "I felt pretty good for the first three innings. In the fourth inning, my arm started getting tired."

"I was mostly throwing fastballs. I was really relying on them. I had no control over my curve today."

"If this was a regular season game, I probably would have kept Shane in there," said coach Harry Davies, who feels Noonan could end up being the team's seven-inning man. "I wanted to get a look at three pitchers, but Shane felt good, and his pitch count was very low, so we just let him go a little longer."

Noonan got the side out in order in the first two innings, and let only two men into scoring position in his term on the mound. Elkton threatened only with two outs in the fifth, when designated hitter Mike Frey reached on a two-base error and went to third on a passed ball. Steve Corron hit a fly deep to leftfield that Bill DiLenno caught to end the inning.

Newark, in the meantime, put men in scoring position in the first three innings on Elkton pit-moved to second on shortstop Curt Bedford's ground ball single, and scored on DiLenno's hard ground ball single over second base.

Newark disposed of Potts in the sixth inning, when rightfielder Craig Klockars and Noonan hit back-to-back home runs one pitch apart to make the score 3-0.

Elkton came back in the seventh inning against Klockars, who went two innings and gave up two hits and two earned runs in relief of Noonan.

The Golden Elks' Tim Bawer hit a leadoff single, and moved to second on a walk by Mike Holmes.

Those two were moved along on Frey's ground out, and Bawer scored on a sacrifice fly to deep centerfield by Deron Brown. Corron hit a hard line drive over third baseman George Chakar to knock in Holmes, and bring the score to 3-2.

Mike Oller leads St. Mark's past Glasgow, 11-1

Belts two hits, fans seven

by David Woolman

It didn't take long for an opponent of the St. Mark's High School baseball team — Glasgow on opening day — to send out an SOS. As in "Same Old Spartans."

The final score was St. Mark's 11, Glasgow 1.

Indeed, the St. Mark's of last year looked to be back, putting the game against the host Dragons out of reach in the middle innings and cruising home on good pitching.

"We showed some offensive firepower and the pitching was there," said St. Mark's coach Tom Lemon. "It was a very nice way to begin the season."

The Spartan pitching was surprisingly effective for this early in the season, with Mike Oller and Brian Swed combining for a three-hitter.

Oller went five innings, giving up just three hits and one earned run. He walked just one batter and struck out seven. Swed didn't allow a single hit, and struck out two.

Both had two effective pitches, speed, and control to shut Glasgow down offensively.

"I was pretty pumped up for the game," said Oller, who threw only 62 pitches. "I usually don't pitch that well in cold weather."

"I had control. I just tried to make sure I got it down and over the plate. I hope I can keep this up the whole season."

Glasgow took the first lead of the game in its first at bat, when leftfielder Roy Woodham walked and moved to third on shortstop Paul McDonald's single to right. Woodham scored on a double steal to make the score 1-0.

SOFTBALL

• Caravel (2-0) defeated Archmere 4-1 Wednesday. Veronica Homiak pitched a two hitter. Defeated Oxford 14-8 Thursday. Kristi Taylor went four for seven with three RBIs and four runs scored over the two games.

• St. Mark's (1-0) defeated Glasgow 4-0 Thursday. Sue Thurs hit a three run triple, and Christine Etherington pitched a three hitter.

• Glasgow (0-1) lost to St. Mark's 4-0.

The Dragons would only get one more runner to second base the rest of the game.

St. Mark's, on the other hand, started out slow against Glasgow starter Josh Nudge (3.1 inn, six hits, four earned runs), scoring its first run in the third inning on a double by shortstop Mike Smyth (who went two for five with one RBI) and a single by Chris Milyo (two for four).

The Spartans broke the tie in the third on runs scored by leftfielder Kevin Lazarski (one for two, one RBI), rightfielder Joe Laznick and first baseman Keith Faust, chasing Nudge in the process.

In the fifth inning, the Spartans put the game away, scoring six runs off pitchers Mike Mahew and freshman Tony Carlini, utilizing four hits and a number of errors. Milyo, third baseman Brian Wallace (one for three), centerfielder Mike Donovan (one for four), Lazarski, Lasnik and Oller (two for three, two RBIs) each scored in the inning to make it 10-1.

Trainer Metz makes his mark

by David Woolman

On the uppermost floor of Delaware Park, the windows opposite the racetrack look out over the parking lot and then up into the Pike Creek hillsides. Halfway up the low rise, a set of tan buildings jut out at odd angles to form St. Mark's High School.

Some of the classrooms in front of the school afford a similar, if reversed, view of the valley and the racetrack, one no doubt familiar to Larry Metz, one that could hardly have helped but feed the dream he had long before he came to St. Mark's, the dream of working with horses.

"There were a couple of classes I didn't make because I was over here," says Metz. "A lot of mornings I came in a little late, especially in the springtime."

"I just kind of went there for school and cut out for afternoon jobs with the horses, on farms. I don't remember hardly anything about school, to tell you the truth. Get in and get out was my main goal."

Metz got out and started chasing the dream that 14 years later has found him the leading trainer of thoroughbreds at Delaware Park the last two years.

Metz grew up in Charlestown,

DelPark prepares for Saturday opening

As if picking a winner out of dozen $5,000 maidens wasn't hard enough, Delaware Park will for the first time offer as many as 14 different betting entries in each race.

The change should mean that payoffs at the Stanton track, which opens for its 52nd season on Saturday, April 1, will be bigger in general, and the Twin Trifecta carryovers should grow to appetizing levels this summer.

Delaware Park will offer racing Mondays, Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays through Sept. 17 with a 1 p.m. post time. The Stanton track has applied for additional dates in order to run on a three-day-a-week basis from Sept. 20 to Nov. 5.

Sports caps will be given away to the first 5,000 paid admissions opening day. Also featured on Saturday will be the $20,000 Inaugural Stakes for three year olds and up at six furlongs, and a "simulcast" of the Jim Beam Stakes from Turfway Park, one of the stepping stones to the Kentucky Derby.

The centerpiece of the meet, the Grade I Delaware Handicap for fillies three years old and up at one mile and a quarter, will be run Saturday, July 22.

A slate of 26 other stakes, including the upgraded Royal Crown New Castle Handicap and the Gladys Brown Edwards stake.

Handicapping tournaments, holiday activities, a full schedule of simulcast races and Arabian races will be back, as will last year's leading trainer, Larry Metz, and leading jockey, Carl Burns.

Pitts is impressive in Viking relays

Track star enjoys challenge

by David Woolman

Perhaps nothing makes the talent of Christiana High School track star Diana Pitts more shockingly clear than a relay race. A sprint medley, a 4x200 or a 4x400 will find her receiving the anchor leg baton meters behind her competitors.

Then Pitts, defending state champion in the 200 and 400, goes to work, effortlessly closing the gap and eating up her opponents one by one. It's an effect lost watching her on the lead in open races. But in the relays, the ground she makes up on the leaders and those she leaves behind provide a marvelous perspective.

Pitts leaves the impression that she is competing in a different event, if not an entirely different sport.

Her efforts Saturday helped Christiana High to a second place finish in the sprint medley (4:24.6), a tie for third place in the 4x200 (1:51.5) and a fourth place finish in the 4x400 (4:16.4) at the annual Christiana Relays, the annual early season test for area track teams.

The host girls team finished fifth place overall, with 33 points. Delcastle won both the girls and boys divisions.

"I look at other peoples' backs. I hate that," says Pitts, who ran the three relays with Jane McKee, Dana Crampton and Traci McMillan.

"She get's what's left," says McMillan. "As long as we keep it close, she'll pull it out. It makes us run better, so we can give her better position to work with."

"Especially when we run against people like Howard and Delcastle," says Crampton. "All of us have to work really hard so Diana can close up that space."

And as Pitts motivates her teammates to run hard, she is motivated in kind to give her all when put in a position to catch up and win. Someone to catch is usually enough.

"In the open races, I run good times, but it's hard when you're out front," says Pitts. "When I'm out front, I'm not really pushing. My relay times are faster than my open times."

The rest of the relay team finds that to be true as well. As a whole, the relays have served as runners, win or lose.

"If you look at each of our individual times, they've improved," says Pitts. "I don't even care what place we come in. I hope I can catch up, but the main thing is the times. If she improved her time, I know that she ran her best."

"She always tries to get us to push ourselves," says McMillan. "She doesn't say 'don't worry about it, I'll bring it up at the end.' She wants us all to run our best."

Weightlifting has improved Wanda Brown's abilities in the shotput and discus, to the point where the Christiana field star threw over 100 feet last week. She placed at the state championships in the discus last year, and placed third, with Stacy Thomas, in the shot and discus relays.

"I'm going to win the states this year for sure in the disc," vows Brown, a senior.

The Viking girls also placed fifth in the distance medley (15:06.4), sixth in the 4x1600 and sixth in the 4x800 (11:44.6). Patty Cleveland, Cindy Harvey and Cathy Cleveland ran with Kim Clark in the 4x1600, with Karen Reese in the 4x800 and with Heather Wintusky in the medley.

Newark and Glasgow sent minimal girls teams, with Newark's Tonya Fussell and Carrie Rash finishing fifth in the shot relay. The Yellowjackets finished tied for 15th. Glasgow placed two relays in the B divisions, with Heather Wintemantle, Lisa McGlavin, Julie Pynne and Mindy Stayton taking third in the sprint medley (5:24.6), and with Jen Olson taking Stayton's place in the 4x200 that finished fourth (2:10.3).

Christiana's boys finished 11th in the meet on the strength of a pair of jumping relays with E.J. Bley and Jason Williams. The duo finished third in the triple jump at 81' 2 1/2" and fourth in the long jump at 37'. The 4x1600 relay finished fourth in the B division (21:04.2) on the efforts of John Ramirez, Dave Ziegler, Paul Issacs and Danny Farren. Bley, Everett Pringle, Mike Hildebrandt and Ken Pritchett finished fifth in the 4x100 B relay with a 51.6.

Newark finished tied for 13th by placing three teams, the 4x100 (tied for fifth), the 4x200, (sixth, 1:37.6) and the sprint medley (sixth, 3:57.8). Glenwood Jackson, Steve Smith, Jeff Taylor and Jermaine Jones made up the 4x100, Taylor, Jones, Steve Gibbs and Curtis Douglas made up the 4x200, and Gibbs, Douglas, Jones and Steve Frankes were the sprint medley.

In the words of Glasgow coach John Reinhold, "We're in it for the medals." The Dragons stuck to the B races, earning no team points but three first place finishes and a pair of thirds.

The sprint medley of Chris Hall, Tony Taylor, Paul Thomas and John Thomas won the sprint medley (3:52.4), Mike Kane, John Thomas, Rob Reiley and Dan Amberg won the 4x800 (9:13.1) and Kane, Jeff Vidal, Reiley and John Thomas won the distance medley (11:55.2).

Amberg, Reiley, Mike D'Aiuto and Dan Walzl took third in the 4x1600 (21:03.9), and Taylor, Hull, Paul Thomas and Chuck Purnell finished third in the 4x200 (1:38.8).

Md., close to but not quite in horse country.

"It's more boat country, actually," says Metz, 32. "It's a small little town right off the (Northeast) river. We have a restaurant there. Still do."

"I got into horses on my own. Started out with show horses. I can remember coming here when I was knee high tall."

"I always dreamed I'd be a trainer. This was a goal I set in my life, something I always wanted to be."

After a brief time in college, Metz got a job at Winfields stud farm in Chesapeake City, Md. before a man named Tom Cunningham gave him some horses to train on a farm in North East. Three years later, at 23, Metz got his license and went to work at Delaware Park.

His work took him to the Maryland circuit and then to Penn National near Harrisburg, Pa. When Delaware Park returned to racing, he returned.

"We shipped back here the fall after the spring they reopened. We got settled in, and I said that it would be nice to be leading trainer and set that goal."

It took a few years, but Metz reached his goal, tying for first place on the trainers list in 1987 and taking the title outright last year with 30 winners.

Though the goals Metz has set since have led him to continue to improve the quality of horses he trains to the point that quite a few are now too classy for the cheap claiming races that make up the bulk of the Delaware Park condition book, the Stanton backstretch is still his home base.

The central location, with eight racetracks within an hour and a half drive, and a liberal policy towards shipping give the up-and-coming Metz some freedom.

"It gives me a lot of options to work with," says Metz, who says he will run about half of the two dozen horses in his barn at the upcoming Delaware meet. That barn, out by the half-mile pole on the backstretch, will have a healthy portion of nice three year olds in the stalls. Nevertheless, the lessons of working with older, less talented horses have not gone to waste.

"It's been a good learning process for me," he says. "They've got their problems. They're cheap and you have to play mind games to get them to run."

"In this business, you learn every day. You appreciate it. I know things now I wish I knew 10 years ago."

"The thing about training horses is if you keep learning, you will get better. I set goals every year. I wanted a nice horse, and Tan came along."

"It's been fun. He's really the first horse we ever had that's really run in stakes. He was a bargain for $8,500."

Tan, for the DelPark neophyte, is the celebrated Kiss My Tan, who had an eight race winning streak last year, including two stakes in West Virginia, and once held the Delaware Park record for five furlongs. Though not quite the equal of famous rags-to-riches horses bought out of cheap claiming races to win stakes such as Stymie or Princequillo, Tan does show Metz as having at least a little of the rare ability (and luck) needed to identify and develop such underrated talent.

"He was just a horse my owner and I saw run," says

Metz. "We watched him win for $8,500 and we decided we would take him. That was April 18, 1987 at Pimlico. He's won 11 races for me since then."

Given the chance, Metz wanders by the stall of his star, rubs the six year old's muzzle and the underside of his chin and talks to the horse for the benefit of visitors.

"He's all racehorse — loves to be a racehorse, huh?"

The horse does not reply, but in two years has given Metz a lesson in training a good horse. "Tan's helped a lot with that. He's been a stepping stone."

"When we claimed him, he had a lot of problems. He didn't get good overnight. It took us a year and a half to get him really good. We straightened the problems out and he did the rest."

"You can't make them run better than what they've got. All I can do is make them give me what they've got. When they do that, we win races."

Kiss My Tan is unlikely to race more than once or twice, if at all, at the upcoming Delaware meet, as he has run out of eligibility for the starter allowance races he so dominated last year.

"When I get depressed — and this is a very depressing business at times — and I feel I'm not going anywhere, I try to think I'm doing a lot better than other people considering what age I am and I've done it on my own."

"It wasn't handed to me. I wasn't an assistant to somebody, or their son, and they retired and gave me the whole operation. I started out with one and built it up to 20 or 30."

"We seem to be going the right way."

Glasgow High pitcher Josh Nudge looks for the sign in loss to St. Mark's.

OLLER

Lazarski scored on a fielder's choice and two errors in the sixth inning for the Spartans' final run.

John Permar (2.2 innings, with three strikeouts) pitched the end of the fourth inning and reentered to finish the game for the Dragons.

"It was a very nice way to begin the season," said St. Mark's coach Lemon. "They put some pressure on us early. Mike Oller did such a nice job on the mound and some of our hard hit balls finally found the gaps out there. We were very happy to get out of the blocks the way we did today."

Charlie Remsburg, coaching his first game at Glasgow, didn't want to play in the cold weather early in the day, but ultimately was glad he did.

"I've got one letterman," he said. "I didn't mind that one bit. We came out of it with experience and a lot of answers that I didn't have coming in."

"It's better seeing this against St. Mark's than to have beaten a team of lesser quality. I'm very pleased."

"Coming in, we needed the attitude, and we have it. We need to settle, and we'll get there."

NEWARK

foul that Newark catcher George Raftovich caught to end the game.

"Craig (Klockars) came in and did what we wanted him to do, which was throw strikes — we didn't want him to fool around," said Davies, who has Noonan number one in the rotation for now. "I've seen Shane pitch before. He has the potential to be a good pitcher. I'll get a better chance to look at Craig next week."

Clogged air filter can seriously affect your car's performance. Replace filter once a year or every 20,000 miles, whichever comes first, or anytime you can't see light through it.

••• If you pass a truck, don't stay alongside, but return to lane as soon as you safely can. The driver may signal by blinking his lights that it is clear to pull in; be sure you can see the truck in your rear view mirror.

••• Windshield wiper blades should be replaced when the old ones smear the windshield. Even top quality blades are inexpensive.

••• Extra storage space in your car: cut the side off an empty antifreeze jug. It'll hold travel necessities that don't fit in the glove compartment, and will slide under the front seat.

••• Auto trips are more fun if you have your car checked out on home territory before you hit the road. You'll avoid road emergencies and probably save money.

Elizabeth Johnson of Newark has joined the Barron Associates advertising and marketing communications firm as account executive and copywriter for the print and graphics division. Johnson has a diverse background in corporate communications and public relations, most recently as New Castle County public information officer.

Michele A. Robertson of Newark has been appointed bookkeeper by the Franklin-Lake advertising agency. Robertson, who attended Fairleigh Dickinson College and who is currently completing studies with the Center for Degree Studies in Scranton, Pa., has eight years of bookkeeping experience for a variety of companies. At Franklin-Lake, she will be responsible for computer-based accounts payable and receivable, general ledger, employee payroll and tax administration.

Medlab Clinical Testing Inc. of New Castle has finalized an agreement with Mayo Medical Laboratories in Rochester, Minn., to be the exclusive distributor of services in Delaware. "We are very pleased to have the opportunity to work with Mayo medical laboratories as they complement our existing services," said Jeffrey M. Petrizzi, Medlab president. "Their expertise in esoteric testing, together with the resources of Mayo Clinic, will supplement what we can currently provide for our customers." Under the terms of the agreement, Mayo will provide services including technical consultation, medical consultation, technical literature, conversion assistance and technical speakers.

Rosenbluth Travel has expanded its Pike Creek Shopping Center office to serve its increasing clientele. "Since we opened the vacation and cruise center in 1984, our sale volume has increased significantly and our staff has grown from two to five travel consultants," said Lee M. Rosenbluth, executive vice president of Rosenbluth Travel. "It was clear that to accommodate our clients, we needed a larger, more comfortable office." The new office is adjacent to Wonderland Records, six doors down from Rosenbluth's former location.

A grand opening celebration will be held 5:30-7:30 p.m. Friday, March 31. The event will feature a drawing for two free airline tickets.

According to Peter Taylor, supervisor of the Pike Creek center, office hours will be expanded to include evenings and Saturdays. Those hours will take effect by April 24.

Stokes, Dryden announce merger

Two large Delmarva real estate firms — Anderson-Stokes and Lit Dryden & Associates — announced last week that they will merge.

Paul Curtis Stokes III, president of Anderson-Stokes, said the new company will be in a position to provide a broad range of real estate services by combining the management and marketing skills and facilities of the two firms.

Anderson-Stokes has been a leader in resort real estate rentals and sales in southern Delaware and Maryland's Eastern Shore for 30 years. Lit Dryden & Associates has emerged as one of Delaware's top five real estate companies since its founding just three years ago.

The merged company will bear the name Anderson-Stokes, and Littleton T. Dryden Jr. will become executive vice president.

Dryden said the merger "offers our firms the opportunity to fully utilize the professional skills of our management and support groups over a broader range of geographic as well as service areas."

The merger increases the number of Anderson-Stokes offices to 18. The new company employs 235 licensed real estate agents and 40 administrators.

As executive vice president, Dryden will be responsible for development and implementation of overall marketing and sales programs, for the smooth and profitable operation of branch offices, and for total operations of the company.

Stokes will continue as president, and will be responsible for overall management and direction of administrative and financial services. Phyllis W. Stokes will remain as chairman of the board.

"Both of our companies were interested in expanding services throughout a broader geographic area, and this merger gives us the manpower and facilities we sought in order to do so," said Paul Stokes.

The firms have been discussing merger for six months. The action was approved March 16 by the Anderson-Stokes board.

SBDC director named

Linda Lucas Fayerweather has been named director of the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) at the University of Delaware.

As director, Fayerweather will provide day-to-day leadership for the center, as well as mapping long-range program development. She also will be directly involved in the management services the center provides to Delaware small businesses.

Fayerweather, who holds an M.B.A., from Augusta College in

Sacks chief officer of First Federal

Steven E. Sacks of Newark has been named chief operating officer of First Federal Savings Bank of Delaware.

As chief operating officer, Sacks will oversee the bank's entire retail and branch network in the Newark and Wilmington areas.

Sacks has extensive experience in retail banking. During 10 years with Citibank in New York, he held a number of senior-level positions in the operating group and the consumer services group.

Most recently, Sacks was the senior executive responsible for building the nationwide marketing and sales division of the College Savings Bank of Princeton, N.J., a bank totally dedicated to saving for college.

Sacks will replace Trudi Wilcox Wood, current president and chief operating officer, who has decided to leave First Federal to pursue new career opportunities. She will continue as a director of the bank.

John D. Fitzmaurice, current chief executive officer and vice chairman of First Federal, will assume the additional duties of president of the bank.

Newark's Washington connection

by Nancy Turner

On April 16, a commemorative reenactment of George Washington's inaugural journey from Mount Vernon to New York will begin.

It 200 years ago that Washington was sworn in as the nation's first president.

While many Delawareans have had a hand in organizing next month's celebration, it is interesting to note that Newark had several hometown connections with the 1789 event.

The first presidential election took place in 1789, with two electors from each state mailing their votes to the nation's capital, then New York, where they were verified by Congress.

The electors could vote for anyone, but when the results were tallied, Gen. Washington emerged the unanimous winner.

Congress was anxious to contact Washington with the results. After all, Washington had not even campaigned to be president and as far as anyone knew, he was minding his own business, enjoyed a little postwar R&R with Martha back home in Virginia.

Enter Charles Thomson of Newark, the first treasurer and one of 13 trustees of Newark Academy.

Thomson was the second secretary of the Second Continental Congress, a distinction which fetched him the dubious honor of traveling nearly 250 bumpy, rutted miles from New York to Mount Vernon with the official election news.

Thomson arrived at Mount Vernon on April 14, 1789.

Washington must have liked what he heard because he let Thomson ride back to the capital with him in his carriage.

On their way to New York, the men passed through the heart of colonial America — Alexandria, Baltimore, Christiana, Wilmington, Philadelphia and Trenton.

Trenton turned out to be the high point of the trip (this was long before New Jersey jokes became popular) during a stop about the 21st or 22nd of May.

Gen. Washington mounted a ceremonial white steed outside Trenton, scene of one of his greatest military triumphs.

When his entourage arrived in town, it was greeted by 13 maidens bedecked in white gowns, carrying baskets and strewing flowers in his path.

All the while the maidens sang: "Welcome, might chief, once more. Welcome to this grateful shore. Now no mercenary foe, aims the fatal blow. Virgins fair and matrons grave, those they conquering arm did save, build for these triumphal bowers, and strew our hero's way with flowers, we'll strew our hero's way with flowers."

A photograph of the portrait of Richard Howell, courtesy of the New Jersey State Library. The original painting is in Colorado Springs, Colo. and is believed to be the only portrait of Howell in existence.

Does the whole scene sound a little too flamboyant for the times? Yes, but it was true, and according to noted Newark historian James Owen, the event was organized by a second Newarker, Richard Howell, who wrote the maidens' ode to boot.

Best remembered for his position as secretary of the Supreme Court (1788) and governor of New Jersey (1792-1801), Howell was a graduate of Newark Academy and a student of law.

Howell was born in 1754 of Welsh Baptist parents, Ebenezer and Sara Bond Howell. His grandfather was Reynold Howell, an elder of Welsh Tract Primitive Baptist Church and one of six Newark residents who applied to King George II for a town charter in 1757.

Howell's childhood home was the Three Hearts Tavern, now Klondike Kate's, on Newark Street, now Main Street.

The family sold the tavern and moved to New Jersey sometime between 1770 and 1774.

While living in New Jersey, Howell participated with his twin brother, Lewis, in both the Greenwich Tea Party of 1774 and the Battle of Cooch's Bridge here in 1776.

In 1777, Howell undertook the delicate mission of traveling to New York for Gen. Washington to purchase clothing for the troops and is believed to have share personal friendship with the leader.

Howell died Feb. 5, 1803 at his residence near Trenton.

According to Owen, there is very little in New Jersey history books about their Gov. Howell's Newark roots.

Simpson hopes to become woodwork master

by Anne Brizzolaro Davis

Although hard work and special skills are essential ingredients for building good-quality furniture, most people see only the finished product, not the efforts behind it.

But when 18-year-old Dan Simpson of Newark looks at a piece of furniture, he sees the whole construction process. He recognizes the type of wood and the style, notices every detail of the design, and considers the different tools and patterns used to fashion the piece. And he appreciates the many hours of labor that go into the process.

How does he know so much about furniture making? One reason is Simpson's 10 years of work on a wood science project for 4-H, the youth branch of the Cooperative Extension System. Through the Meado-Larks, a local 4-H club, Simpson not only built furniture, he also built a foundation for a career in woodworking.

Last year, he was one of eight students selected nationally to attend North Bennet Street School, a private, nonprofit postsecondary trade school in Boston, Mass. One of the youngest students there, he's studying 18th- and 19th-century reproduction furniture making.

In addition, Simpson was one of the six 4-H'ers selected by Extension in 1988 to receive the $1,000 Gertrude L. Warren national 4-H career scholarship. This award goes to 4-H'ers whose career choices are influenced by 4-H.

Simpson started his 4-H project with three other boys 10 years ago. They met in their project leader's basement, learning the basics of wood science. He says his earliest efforts included an extension cord reel, a trivet and stilt. His first piece of furniture was a chest of drawers.

In 1985, he was named 4-H state winner in wood science for project work that included three bunk beds as well as trays, plaques, bowls and candlesticks.

He also volunteered 40 hours to renovate a house for a Methodist Action Project.

Not only does Simpson have the talent for his chosen trade, he even looks the part. He's 6'2" with the muscular build and healthy appearance of an outdoorsman who can handle and enjoy hard, physical work. He was on his high school wrestling team and has worked part-time as a carpenter for the past three years, working full-time in the summers.

Simpson smiles easily and talks enthusiastically about his goals, which include building a bombe chest. This piece of furniture is narrow at the top and bottom and has a middle section that curves out like a pot-bellied stove. "It's not easy to build because the curve of the wood is carved, not molded," says Simpson, who welcomes the challenge. "I'd especially like to learn how to carve wood that's 3 inches thick to a 3/4-inch-thick

Dan Simpson is at home in the wood shop.

Runners world

Fair warning: today's column may offend some readers because I will be exposing an intimate and personal problem in all its sheer horror. It is time to cut all the humor and fun stuff and deal with a fundamental feminine predicament. Pantyhose.

At 7:15 this morning I was faced with and overcame several standard pantyhose problems. The first pair I slithered into snaked a run from my ankle to my knee. The second pair had so many dabs of hardened nail polish that I gouged my calf. The left leg of the third pair insisted on winding clockwise up my leg like tendrils of ivy going up a tree trunk. In the process of getting the left leg semi-straightened out, my pantyhose told me that my right leg was attached to the wrong side of my body. Once that problem was solved, the right leg entwined my thigh in a grip that would have done a tourniquet proud.

That is why at 7:28 this morning I was forced to scabble around in the back of the drawer behind the slippers where I luckily came up with a pair of pantyhose that not only went on straight, but stayed intact and didn't groan as they went across my tummy.

At 9:31 this morning I suddenly remembered why those pantyhose had been shoved to the back of my drawer. They suffered from an acute case of creeping crotch, which means that the pantyhose pretended they were a contracting rubber band and attempted to get the waist band the toe seams as close together as possible as quickly as possible.

Do you know what that does to a person's confidence and posture? Not to mention her temper.

Just try to converse intelligently with your fellow workers as your pantyhose begin to pleat around your ankles.

Just try surreptitiously to yank up the waistband — when you know you look like a person who enjoys caressing her own love handles.

Just try to stride down the hall like you have everything under control when your knees are bound together.

Just try to be polite and calm while your thighs are being chafed unmercifully.

Just try to present the picture of competency when you know the second you stand up your pantyhose will hit the floor.

In other words, just try to function like a normally efficient human being when you know that at a crucial moment your pantyhose are going to make a blithering idiot of you.

Creeping crotch is just one of the documented syndromes associated with pantyhose. I've already touched on another major problem, that of the lethal leg twist which in its most virulent form has forced women to miss planes, resign from beauty contests and skip their own weddings.

As any woman can tell you, once the leg has been twisted, your chances of getting the pantyhose on straight in this lifetime or the next are about the same as Paul Newman falling for me. (As an interesting aside, my fashion advisor recently confided to me that the recent interest in garter belts and stockings is directly attributable to twisted leg syndrome.)

Smithsonian presents the musical theater

If I were to ask you this question, could you answer it? What recording organization could trace the history of the Broadway stage from its beginnings, gather recordings of the original artists in the shows from 1906 on, get clearance from the various companies for whom the show tunes were originally recorded, digitally remaster them superbly and be able to sell the set of four top quality CDs for just over fifty dollars? It is not a tough question. Which recording organization is doing things as exciting as this and much more these days?

The answer is our own Smithsonian Institution. Who else? The Smithsonian Collection of Recordings has just issued a four CD set called "American Musical Theater: Shows, Songs and Stars." For those who want only a specific part of the collection, which is chronologically arranged, the Smithsonian will sell you just the CD with that time frame.

All the excitement, energy and entertainment of a Broadway musical are captured on "American Musical Theater: Shows, Songs and Stars," with 81 songs taking over four hours to enjoy, and enjoy them you will. I have been through the entire set twice and now I am programming my CD player to pick out my favorites, and there are plenty of them on the four CDs.

It begins with a 1906 recording of "The Gypsy Love Song" from "The Fortune Teller" featuring Eugene Cowles and continues for 78 years. There are the turn of the century tunes to the full scale production numbers of our own times. The new Smithsonian album showcases composers and performers. It reflects the significant trends, innovation and achievements that occurred over the years as the Broadway stage and the American theater matured.

Hundreds of recordings were auditioned to create this great anthology, this authoritative history. Each of the selections that made it to the album demonstrates an effort to maintain the vitality of the original performances and, in most cases, the original stars are heard in the roles they created on the Great White Way.

There are some "firsts" in the set, too. As an example, the first national release of "Friendship" by Cole Porter with vocal by Bert Lahr and Ethel Merman.

"American Musical Theater" spotlights many of the biggest names on Broadway including, Al Jolson, Mary Martin, Fred Astaire, Robert Preston, Ezio Pinza and Barbara Streisand. If I carried the litany too far I would run out of space for this week. You need to see it and hear it for yourself.

All the great Broadway composers are here, too, Irving Berlin, Leonard Bernstein, George and Ira Gershwin, Richard Rogers and Oscar Hammerstein, Jerome Kern, Cole Porter, Stephen Sondheim, Alan Lerner and Frederick Loewe, Jerry Hermar and so very many more.

Dwight Blocker Bowers of the Smithsonian has written a 132 page book which comes with the four CDs. In addition to containing many photographs and illustrations, the tome provides informative commentary on each selection as well as biographies for all of the performers and composers featured. It is must reading for the expert and the novice and all of us in between. The photos with my column today are from that book.

Two of the performers in the new Smithsonian series are Ethel Merman (above), seen in the 1930 hit "Girl Crazy," and Judy Holliday (below), seen at the switchboard in "Bells Are Ringing."

The complete set of four CDs and the book sell for $54.95 and may be purchased at the Smithsonian Shops or through the mail: Smithsonian Collection of Recordings, P.O. Box 23345, Washington, DC 20026. The cost of postage and handling is $4.99. For more information you may call (800) 678-2675. The single CDs are for sale in CD stores around the country for about $15.98.

A Tip of The Toman Topper to our Smithsonian for another super recording achievement.

• Harlequin Theatre Company will host the reading of an original play by Chadds Ford, Pa. resident Rea Redifer at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 4 in the Westminster House of the Kennett Square, Pa. Presbyterian Church on South Broad Street. All participants are welcome. For details, call Jackie at (215) 430-1366.

• Delaware Art Museum is offering two special trips. The first, to tour SoHo galleries, will be held April 6. The second, to visit Washington, D.C. during the Cherry Blossom Festival, will be held April 8. For details, call Margaret Crescenzi, museum travel coordinator, at 571-9590.

• The Kennett Symphony Soiree, an event to benefit the Kennett Symphony Orchestra, will be held Friday, April 7 at Longwood Gardens with a concert the following evening. Special guest will be the French ambassador, Emmanuel de Margerie and his wife. The Kennett Symphony is led by Mary Woodmansee Green, a native of Newark. Tickets for the soiree cost $85. For information, call (215) 444-0434.

• Benefit art auction for the Bayard House, a residential program for women who are pregnant but lacking the resources to see them through their pregnancy, will be held Saturday evening, April 8 at Salesianum School, 18th and Broom streets, Wilmington. It is sponsored by Patterson-Schwartz Real Estate. Preview will be at 6:30 p.m., with bidding at 7:30. Art is from the Fine Arts Gallery of Ardmore, Pa. Tickets cost $5. Call 654-1184.

Acclaimed Ridge to perform at UD

The Ridge String Quartet will present a free recital at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 5 in Loudis Recital Hall of the University of Delaware's Amy E.; duPont Music Building.

The program is the last of four string quartet recitals sponsored by the University music department during its Season of Strings series. Seating is on a first-come basis.

Performed will be the String Quartet in f minor, Op. 55, No. 2 by Haydn; "Langsamer Satz" and Six Bagatelles for String Quartet, Op. 9 by Anton Webern; and the String Quartet in A Major, Op. 41, No. 3 by Schumann.

The Ridge String Quartet will also present a free master class, and observers are welcome to attend. Call 451-2577.

The quartet was founded in 1982 and made its New York debut in 1983. First prize winners of both the Coleman and Fischhoff chamber music competitions, it has performed extensively throughout the United States and abroad.

Highlights of recent seasons have included a three-week tour of Australia and performances in all of New York City's major chamber music series, including the 92nd Street Y, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and Lincoln Center's Great Quartets series.

In May 1988, the Ridge made its debut at Carnegie Hall, becoming the youngest quartet ever presented there.

The Ridge has served as quartet-in-residence at the Spoleto Festival in Charleston, S.C., and has also performed at the Spoleto Festival in Italy.

A successful European tour in the spring of 1987 earned them immediate reengagements everywhere they played.

Plans include performances this summer at the Helsinki Festival and the Spoleto Festival in Charleston, and in the spring of 1991 a return invitation to Australia.

The members of the Ridge String Quartet — Krita Bennion Feeney and Robert Rinehart, violinists; Maria Lambros, violist; and Peter Wyrick, cellist — are former Marlboro Music Festival and New York String Orchestra participants who studied at the Curtis Institute of Music, the Eastman School of Music and the Juilliard School.

The Ridge String Quartet.

Jewish couple honored

Drs. Rona and Nisson Finkelstein, long active in the Delaware Jewish community, will be presented Israel's City of Peace Award during a special event Sunday, April 9.

The Finkelsteins will be honored for dedication and leadership in Jewish life. They have long been involved in Jewish and secular, cultural, educational, civic and political activities in Delaware.

The reception and dinner will begin at 5:30 p.m. in Congregation Beth Shalom, 18th St. and Baynard Blvd., Wilmington.

The tribute, staged on behalf of State of Israel Bonds, is a cooperative effort of five synagogues, including Temple Beth El of Newark, and the Jewish Federation of Delaware.

It is chaired by Gov. Michael N. Castle, U.S. Sen. William V. Roth Jr. and Harry and Mimi Haskell.

Drs. Rona and Nisson Finkelstein, recipients of the City of Peace Award.

Nisson Finkelstein, a Bostonian and graduate of Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was employed by Bausch & Lomb and General Dynamics before moving to the Delaware in 1964.

Here, he founded ILC Industries and directed development of the Apollo space suit program which led to lunar landings and space walks.

He is president and member of the board of the Albert Einstein Academy, and is a columnist for the Jewish Voice newspaper.

Rona Finkelstein was born in Rochester, N.Y. and holds a doctorate in philosophy from the University of Rochester.

She taught as Delaware State College and served as chairman of the philosophy department.

She helped form the Delaware Humanities Forum and served as its executive director from 1972 to 1981.

Long a leader in women's rights issues, she served many years on the Governor's Commission for Women and in 1976 spearheaded formation of the first Jewish Federation Career Women's Council in the nation.

'Parish nurses' serve St. Paul's

The maintenance of good health is a Christian responsibility.

That is one of the underlying convictions of the newly-formed Parish Nurses, a group within St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Newark.

The group was founded following an article on parish nurses in The Lutheran, the magazine of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.

Noting the large number of nurses in the St. Paul's congregation, the pastors and members of the Christian Education Committee decided to initiate a local organization.

St. Paul's Parish Nurses already has 21 members representing diverse health care expertise. There are educators, school and industrial nurses, maternity and pediatric nurses, a cardiac and acute care nurse, psychiatric and home care nurses.

"At the core of nursing is the concept of caring," said a spokesman. "We care for the total health of St. Paul's members and want to share our caring and kills in a variety of ways."

Two programs were initiated in February with the assistance of the Christian Education Committee. The first was a series of blood pressure checks made during Sunday morning coffee hour and the second was a two-session program, "Dealing With Grief and Bereavement."

Workshops planned for the future include a heart-saver course, offering cardiopulmonary resuscitation training; care of the very young child for teenage babysitters; health issues related to aging; the place of holistic medicine in health care and treatment; and eating your way to good health.

Parish Nurses also hope to hold a health fair.

The theme for National Nurses Day 1989 is "Nurses Change Lives." The Parish Nurses of St. Paul's believe they can do just that by contributing their expertise to the congregational family.

Communication makes happy homes

In many modern households, family members take off in different directions every day. Often, adults work away from home, and teenage children work part time or are involved in extracurricular activities. As a result, they don't spend much time together.

"Complicated schedules can lead to communication problems," says University of Delaware Extension 4-H program assistant Joyce Simpson. "In a busy household, people don't always take time to listen and to care. Even though they share the same home, family members may not really know one another."

Simpson suggests some simple ways for busy families to improve communication and show greater appreciation for each member.

For example, parents should know what's important in their child's day and what goes on in school. Also know where your children spend time after school, says Simpson. And be sure they can reach you if they have a problem or get sick.

Parents should also remember to compliment their children. "Let them know you approve when they get good grades or clean their room," Simpson suggests. "You can also praise them for their manners or their appearance."

It's important for parents to show trust in their children and to tell them their care, Simpson says. Ask yourself, "Have I said 'I love you' or given them a hug or a kiss lately?"

Children can ask themselves the same questions about their parents. And they should always let their parents know where they are. "Be considerate enough to leave a note or call to get permission," Simpson says.

If you don't know the location of your parents' workplace or what they do, take time to find out. In addition, try to be aware of the sources of stress in your day, Simpson says. "For example, be considerate to your parents when they arrive home with a 'traffic headache.'"

Children can also do little things such as noticing their mother's new dress or their father's new tie. "And remember to give your parents credit for living longer than you," Simpson suggests.

Nutrition subject of session

Does fiber really help in lowering blood cholesterol? Would it be healthier to use olive oil than a commercial dressing on your salad?

Delaware Cooperative Extension will try to ease some of the confusion over fats and cholesterol during a three-session course to meet Tuesdays, April 11, 18 and 25 in Room 032 of Townsend Hall on the University of Delaware campus.

Participants can choose to attend either a morning session, 10 a.m. to noon, or an evening session, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The course will cover dietary factors affecting blood cholesterol, food selection and preparation to reduce fat in the diet, and modification of basic recipes to make them low in calories, fat and cholesterol.

Fee is $7.50 per person or $10 per couple. To register, send your name, address, telephone number and check payable to the University of Delaware to: New Castle County Cooperative Extension, Townsend Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19717-1303. Deadline is Wednesday, April 5. For information, call 451-1239.

SIMPSON

curve." Simpson graduated from Christiana High School in 1988. During high school, he was a share-time student at Hodgson Vocational-Technical School, where he took courses in cabinetry and architectural mechanical drawing. These helped prepare him for his current training at North Bennet Street School.

This trade school, which was chartered in 1885, is located one block away from Old North Church, not far from Boston Harbor. Immigrants went there to learn skills that would help them survive in a new country, Simpson says. Today's students learn many of the same trades that their predecessors mastered.

Simpson is enrolled in a 20-month cabinet-and furniture-making program. He says students start by making small-scale drawings of items such as wood joints. Then they move to large drafting tables to complete drawings of seven pieces of furniture: a steptable, a small drum table, an oak blanket chest with carved panels, a lowboy cedar chest, a slant-topped desk, a Chippendale ladderback chair and a Queen Anne side chair.

"These drawings are based on traditional furniture styles," says Simpson. "But one style may have many variations, such as the direction the claws point on ball-and-claw feet."

Students are required to attend school from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. every day, but they're responsible for pacing themselves in order to complete all the requirements within 20 months.

Comparing this flexibility with the fixed schedule at Hodgson Vo-Tech, Simpson says, "Here you can draw for six or seven hours a day. In high school, a drawing class was much shorter. I get more frustrated after the long hours of concentration because the longer I look at my drawing, the more problems I find with it."

But the extended time also gives Simpson an opportunity to perfect his work. And he doesn't object to that, he says.

Simpson enjoys his training at North Bennet Street School and says, "It offers a chance to learn about a variety of interesting career positions, from furniture making to cabinetry to pattern-making. And the required work is not a burden to me. It's something I look forward to."

RUNNERS

Of course no catalog of pantyhose syndromes is complete without mentioning wasp waist and its opposite, wobble waist. Wasp waist pantyhose are designed to halt all blood flow and neural transmissions below the Betty button within 35 minutes of being put on. Or as my acerbic friend Grace says, "They can cut a woman in half faster than the Amazing Kreskin can say abracadabra."

Wobble waist pantyhose have a waistband that doubles in circumference every 54 minutes, thereby creating the distinctive wobbling motion a woman must maintain in order to keep her pantyhose above her knees.

Though I have come to the end of this week's column, I know that I haven't run through all aspects of the pantyhose problem. Stay tuned for further revelations of this seamy issue.
