Christina considers city middle schools

Neighborhood
Schools Plan
must be ready for

The Neighborhood Schools Committee in Christina District will most likely request two additional district elementary schools and two middle schools in their state-mandated plan which must be completed this month.

The 36-member committee must have a draft plan — one that includes where each student in the district will go to school, where new schools will be located, which existing schools will house which grades, and logical reasoning for their decisions — ready ready for public review starting at the end of August.

Members have spent the past few meetings reviewing and making changes to feeder pattern blueprints, the committee hopes to have a final plan this week.

This is their most crucial time in the planning process, said committee co-chair Deborah Rodenhouser.

"Right now, things are open in terms of what can be considered in the plan," Rodenhouser said. But after members finally settle on a feeder pattern plan, they are unlikely to change it unless "there is an important reason for that change."

Five public hearings on the plan are scheduled for both city

The new bridge — a 90-foot span of self-weathering steel constructed on the original stone abutments — crosses the creek along the western portion of the Northern Delaware Greenway. recreational trails and state lands. A $20,000 donation was made by Newark resident Frasier Russell in memory of his wife Shirley, for whom a plaque was placed on the bridge during the dedication earlier this summer.

The original bridge on Wedgewood Road reportedly went down in a flood around 1900. The surviving stone bridge abutments and wing walls were restored, reinforced and rebuilt, and stringent testing was done to ensure the safety of the foundation. The 49,600-pound bridge was prefabricated by Steadfast Bridges of Fort Payne, Ala., and set in place last December.

EPA director gets close look at vehicles touting DaimlerChrysler's fuel efficiency

Newark Assembly plant may produce Hybrid Electric Vehicle in 2003

Christine Whitman, current head of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, made a pit stop at Newark's DaimlerChrysler plant last Friday to promote fuel efficiency and test drive two new Chrysler vehicles.

The former New Jersey governor, along with Delaware Gov. Ruth Ann Minner, Lt. Gov. John Carney, Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control Secretary Nicholas DiPasquale and John Wik, director of the Delaware Economic Development Office, visited the plant to speak with Chrysler officials about a flexible air permit, which allows industrial companies to balance marketplace changes with reductions in air emissions.

Whitman tested the Smart, the world's first mass-produced three-liter car, which can go 68 miles with just one gallon of gas.

The Smart, which has the smallest passenger car engine of its type in the world, is produced in France but the company has no plan to sell it in the United States, said DaimlerChrysler spokesperson Max Gates.

Whitman also drove a Neighborhood Electric Vehicle (NEV) which is shaped like a golf cart and powered by a 72-volt motor and six 12-volt batteries.

DaimlerChrysler is the first major automaker to offer NEVs for sale in the United States. The company produces the electric cars through Global Electric MotorCars LLC (GEM) of Fargo, N.D., which DaimlerChrysler acquired in December 2000.

NEVs are approved in 38 states and Gates said the car, which can not exceed 25 miles per hour and produces zero emissions, is very popular in this country, especially in retirement communities, and on college campuses and military bases.

Intends to remain a city supporter

Mary F. Conway, who retired this week after working for the city of Newark for more than a quarter of a century, is an prime example of the often unregarded behind-the-scenes labor that keeps a city like Newark running.

Hired in April 1975, as a receptionist in the parks and recreation department, Conway's more significant contributions started two years later when she transferred to the city's planning department.

Since that time she has served as secretary to the Planning Commission and the planning department, and her work in that capacity reads like a mini-history of land use developments in Newark.

According to planning director Roy Lopata, Conway has typed drafts, redrafts, and final copies of the zoning code, subdivision regulations, the Adjacent

Final phase approved for Academy Hill plan

Stormwater runoff is biggest concern of nearby residents

By CHRISTINE E. SERIO

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Local residents lined the wall at a New Castle County Council meeting to share their views and photos of water on the downside.

The plan up for review and approval by the council was the fifth and final phase of the community of Academy Hill located off of West Chestnut Hill Road.

Residents from the surrounding area were not concerned with the plan to keep trees on the property or the 130 single family dwellings planned for the site.

They were concerned with the drainage issues associated with the property and the storm water management techniques proposed for the project.

"This fight has been 10 years for me and about 25 years for the community," said councilmember Karen Venezky (R-Newark). "What was originally proposed by the developer to deal with the (drainage) issue has been questioned by the Land Use Department and in effect changed in a major way."

The developer originally submitted plans that included two storm water management basins on the site. After reviewing the plan and consulting an outside firm, Duffield Associates Inc., the land use department eliminated one of the basins.

The department determined that one basin had the characteristics of a dam and that it was unsafe because of its elevation, explained Charles Baker of the land use department.

If the basin became full there would be "no way for water to cascade down the hill" and to "keep the community out of harms way," according to George Haggarty of the land use department.

"We asked the applicant to redesign the storm water management plan because we are con-

Underage drinking leads to arrests

Newark Police made numerous arrests for underage drinking recently. On July 29 around 1:45 a.m., police charged Mark T. Adams, 18, of Newark with underage drinking at Elkton and Casho roads. On the same date, around 2:15 a.m., police charged Kristen Sotkiewicz, 19, of Newark and Alexandra Champney, 18, of Wilmington with underage drinking in the unit block of Madison Drive.

On July 28 around 10:25 p.m. police charged Enoch E. Docktor, 20 of Newark with underage consumption after he was stopped for a traffic offense in a parking lot on West Main Street. Police report Docktor tried to flee the scene before the arrest.

On July 28 around 2:15 a.m., police charged Frank Lucas Jr., 19, of New Castle with underage drinking and Jamal C. Roane, 25, of Wilmington with having an open container of alcohol in the unit block of Kershaw Street. Both men were also wanted on various capias by the courts.

On July 28 around 12:55 a.m., Michael E. Boyer, 20, of Newark was charged with underage drinking and Edward B. Stewart, 22, of Harrington was charged with driving while suspended/revoked on Wilbur Street.

On July 27 around 11:45 p.m., Jessica Jennings, 18, of Newark was charged with underage drinking on Madison Drive.

Two Newarkers killed in separate crashes

Delaware State Police are investigating two separate crashes that killed two people on highways in New Castle County on July 27.

The first crash happened around 1:35 a.m. on Route 40 at Glendale Boulevard. Scott E. Leszczynsky, 28, of Newark was driving a 1999 VW Passat westbound on Route 40 and turned left into the path of a 1985 Pontiac Firebird. The Pontiac was driven by Katherine M. Harvey, 31, also of Newark. Both drivers were taken to Christiana Hospital where Harvey was later pronounced dead as a result of her injuries she sustained in the crash. Leszczynsky was admitted and his injuries are unknown.

The investigation is still ongoing and no charges had been filed at the time of the report. Both operators were wearing their seatbelts at the time of the crash and alcohol is suspected on the part of both drivers.

The second fatal crash occurred around 6:45 a.m. on Route 4/Chestnut Hill Road, just west of Pearson Drive. Witnesses told troopers that a 1988 Chevrolet Beretta was driving erratically eastbound on Chestnut Hill Road when the Beretta drove off the right of the roadway and struck a group of trees. The driver was pronounced dead at the scene. The driver was later identified as Sergio Cruz Ruiz, 22, of Chestnut Crossing Apartments in Newark.

It is unknown if alcohol played a part in this crash. The investigation is still on going.

Teens charged in window smash spree

New Castle County Police charged a 16-year-old and two 18-year-old males with felony criminal mischief after they were caught smashing car windows in the Pike Creek, Hockessin and Wilmington areas.

On July 29 at approximately 4 a.m., police began receiving multiple reports of subjects smashing out vehicle windows in the Wood Creek Community. Over the next two hours, police received several similar reports in the areas of Arundel, Sherwood Park, Wood Creek, Limestone Hills, Hunters Ridge, Birch Point, The Village of Lindell, Thistleberry Farms, Limestone Gardens, and Lamatan West. The area was flooded with patrol cars in an effort to locate the suspects. Around 6 a.m. an officer stopped a suspicious gold-colored Hyundai Accent in the area of Peeksniff Road in Sherwood Park and found the three male occupants were in possession of a baseball bat and had glass particles on their clothing. The teens were linked to the crimes and investigators are estimating the total damage at approximately $30,000. The total could increase as additional victims report damages.

Police charged Stephen Joslin, 18, of East Delaware Street in New Castle, Douglas Smith, 18, of Netherfield Drive in Wilmington and a 16-year-old male who resides on Ridge Road in Claymont. All three face felony criminal mischief and conspiracy charges.

If you have been a victim involved in this investigation and have not already contacted police, call police at 573-2800.

Vandalism at Gallaher School

Delaware State Police are investigating the vandalism to Gallagher Elementary School, located at 800 North Brown Leaf Road, on July 23, at 11 p.m. A man walking his dog saw some suspicious activity at the school and upon further investigation saw that the school had been broken-in to and notified police.

When troopers arrived they found that the vandals had destroyed four classrooms and had thrown paint throughout the classrooms and the hallways. State Police estimated that the damage was in excess of $50,000. Police also believe that the suspect(s) may have red, green, and/or purple paint on their shoes.

Anyone with information, please call the State Police at 323-4411 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-TIP-3333.

Yo-yos among rewards for safe bicyclists

The Newark Police Department are conducting selective enforcement patrols this summer to target bicycle-related traffic offenses which could lead to accidents and injuries.

These patrols, which are funded by a grant from the Delaware Office of Highway Safety, will target areas that have experienced frequent bicycle collisions.

Officers will look for bicyclists riding the wrong way against traffic, riding on the sidewalk in prohibited areas, disregarding traffic control devices, and children under the age of 16 riding without a helmet.

Officers will reward children wearing helmets with a yo-yo. Parents may also bring their children who wear helmets to the Newark Police station during business hours to receive a free bicycle safety yo-yo while they last.

BOW program registration

The "Becoming an Outdoors Woman" program in Delaware will be held on Sept. 28, 29, and 30, at Camp Arrowhead in Lewes.

Courses during the weekend include archery, surf fishing, camping, shotgun shooting, basic boating, sea kayaking, hunting skills, flyfishing, nature photography, and various other outdoor activities.

While aimed primarily at women, the program is open to anyone 18 or older. Cost of the three-day program is $125, which includes lodging, meals, instruction, and the use of all necessary equipment and supplies.

Registrations will be accepted until Sept. 17, or until the workshop is full. For information, call 323-5334 or 323-5336.

in Md. for seniors

Residents of Delaware and Pennsylvania, 60 or older, may attend classes through the new Senior Computer Club at the North East and Elkton campuses of Cecil Community College. Class size will be limited to ensure students receive the necessary individual attention.

Steps needed

World Heritage, a non-profit student exchange program, is seeking local representatives to provide students from several countries with local program support. Representatives plan an annual student orientation, meet with the local high schools, provide support coun-ing manufacturing another type of Durango in the Newark plant in 2003, Gates said. According to company officials, the Dodge Durango Hybrid Electric Vehicle (HEV) will improve fuel economy about 30 percent, lower emissions and keep batteries charged by capturing energy when the driver brakes or slows down.

The patented through-the-road hybrid powertrain drive system will offer better performance and greater mileage than fewer stops at the gas station, said Bernard Robertson, DaimlerChrysler senior vice president for engineering technologies. "It's exactly what people want — to have a positive impact on the environment without having to pay for it."

Gates said DaimlerChrysler officials will be comparing plants to see which will best facilitate manufacturing the NEVs.

Grieving parents share support at M.A.D.D. meetings

Special from the Cecil Whig by April Capochino

It was March 16 around 9:30 p.m.

Laura "Ashley" Kauffman, 17, and four friends were celebrating. She had just gotten her high school diploma after a long struggle with school following her dad's death from cancer.

It was supposed to be a happy night.

Kauffman was on her way to drop off Aaron Stahl and Justin Salapow, both 15, at their Newark homes.

She was driving on Otts Chapel Road, a back road that she drove frequently and knew well. It connected her hometown of Elkton to her friends in Newark.

A 1995 Jeep Cherokee crossed the centerline and crashed into her 1992 Chrysler LeBaron. The headlights were bright. It hit the car head-on nearly crumbling it.

Kauffman, Stahl, Chad A. Stein Reeves, 18, and Shaun Loomis, 16, both of Elkton, were dead at the scene.

Salapow was the sole survivor of the crash.

The driver of the Jeep, James Galyen, 26, of Elkton, was also dead.

Police said he had been drinking.

* * *

It was July 25 shortly after 7 p.m.

Deborah Kauffman and a group of friends had just gathered at a Newark home.

They were celebrating the lives of their children – lives lost to drunken drivers.

They had become bitter-sweet friends, leaning on each other for support, but willing to give up the friendships to spend another day with their children.

"This is not a club you want to be in," Kauffman said bluntly after greeting another member of the group.

Mary Ann Loomis, Nikki Reeves and Phyllis Stahl sat on couches and chairs inside Stahl's home.

Posters with their children's pictures were propped near the fireplace of the living room.

Stahl wore a T-shirt with a picture of her son on the front of it.

It's the third meeting of a Wednesday tradition the mothers have learned to share. They gather along with other family members to put into words what they're feeling and learn the many stages of grieving.

David and Judy Talanca of Newark, who lost their son Kevin, 19, in a drunken driving crash more than a year ago, joined them.

Vivian Alvarez of Bear, was the newest member of the group. Her son, Alex, 23, was killed in May while hailing a cab in Ocean City, Md. She buried him on his 24th birthday.

She misses her son, but she doesn't cry.

She's too angry.

Hilde Carter of Conowingo completes the group, sharing the story of her son, Jason, 16, who was struck and killed by a man in January who is accused of taking prescription pills and drinking while driving.

M.A.D.D. representative Joseph Dulany was running the meeting. He's an older man, with graying hair and a salt-and-pepper beard. He smiles while talking and speaks in a gentle voice. He offers advice and allows the hurt and angered parents to share their feelings since their children's death.

He turned to Alvarez of Bear, and invited her to speak – knowing that she might not be ready.

"I don't know if I can say anything without falling apart," Alvarez said.

She took a deep breath and continued. "I happen to be a very strong person by nature," Alvarez said. "I'm able to lose myself through work."

She doesn't cry and her voice is steady as she talks about her son. "I guess I'm angry," she said. "I went to the hospital thinking 'he's too young.' I really thought he was going to pull through that night. I begged and I pleaded for him to live. I'm angry at everybody. I'm angry at the world."

Dulany assures the family members that anger is one of the healthiest steps of the phases.

"Anger is a key word here," he said. "As long as you have anger you won't be depressed."

The Talancas are the veterans of the group. Their son Kevin died May 25, 2000. He was killed when the boy he was driving with crashed his car into a telephone pole on Elkton Road in Newark. The driver is serving time in a Delaware prison for drunken driving.

The Talancas are learning to live with the loss.

"At first I could only think about that night," said David Talanca. "Now I can remember the good things and talk about Kevin. It never gets any easier; you just learn how to deal with it."

(R to L) Judy and David Talanca, Joseph Dulany and others who have lost children to a drunk driver meet in a local M.A.D.D. support group.

"The last conversation I had with Kevin, we were picking up furniture to help friends move. It was the night before the accident. Kevin rode with me. He told me that he wanted to be an electrician. He opened up to me and talked about his future. It was the last time I spent with my son."

Phyllis Stahl still can't believe her son is gone. "It's been over four months, and I still don't believe it," she said. "It's cruel. I don't understand – when things are going so well – why, why this?"

"I've lost other family members – my sister, my in-laws – and I was sad, very sad. But this is like taking a piece of your soul away and losing it."

The four mothers of the teens killed on Otts Chapel Road call each other every week. They have good days and bad days, depending on the day. But all have the same hole in their hearts.

"Nothing is ever complete," Nikki Reeves said. "I feel better talking about it. Being here is comforting. It helps more than anything else."

Stahl agrees. "Literally, we walk in the same shoes," she said, looking at the three women sitting on the floor of her living room. "And our children are still together."

The New Castle County Chapter of the M.A.D.D. Support Group meets on the third Wednesday of the month. For information, call 731-2777.

New schools cost millions of dollars, and committee members said they don't think legislators will agree to pay state money to implement them. Land acquisition and construction would cost approximately $14 million for a new elementary school, $20 million for a middle school, and $26 million for a high school, said committee member Dr. Capes Riley, district supervisor of facilities management.

Wilmington students in the district are bused nine years of their lives to the suburbs, under the current conditions.

But other committee members said busing only some suburban children to city schools while others are sent to schools nearer their homes might upset some parents.

The initial plans for the housing project were approved before the current Unified Development Code was adopted, therefore the County Council had to approve the plan. Council can have technical questions about the plan, but once "it reaches the code or standard it has to be passed," Kowal said.

Members have already agreed that schools will be structured as follows: kindergarten through grade five in elementary schools, grades six through eight in middle schools and grades nine through twelve in high schools.

They reviewed a proposal on July 25 under which Bayard and Bancroft – now both intermediate schools in Wilmington – would each be converted into either a middle or high school, so students who live in Wilmington could attend city schools starting in grade six.

However, they decided against putting a high school in Wilmington, because of insufficient space in the Bancroft and Bayard buildings and the lack of land in the city to build a new school.

The plan under consideration still includes one – possibly two – new middle schools in Wilmington. But, converting schools and building new ones is not going to be as easy as 1-2-3.

Some members said they are “getting fed up,” trying to develop a major district reorganization plan without the legislative guidance and funding they need to carry it out.

Committee member Margaret Crosby, parent of two district students, said their plan should include every resource they need, regardless of the cost, to convert district schools back to neighborhood schools.

“When those legislators see that we don’t have the money or the schools to complete this plan, they will see that they have created a monster,” Crosby said.

District suburban students probably won’t get bused to city schools after the plan takes effect and as a result, those schools will be underutilized, Crosby said. She suggested that two new middle schools be built in Wilmington and some suburban students take the bus into the city, to ease the overcrowding in suburban middle schools and fill empty space in city schools. “It’s only fair,” she said, noting students. One plan will place one of the new elementary schools in Wilmington and the other will place one in the city, the other in the suburbs.

The committee must complete a Neighborhood Schools plan in time for the public hearings. In subsequent months, the district and state boards of education will vote to accept or reject the plan, and in January, it will be in the hands of General Assembly members.

reviewing the project’s storm water management plans and its effects on the surrounding communities.

Many of the residents who spoke at the meeting felt that the study should be updated and others chose to let photos of their flooded property speak for themselves. Some said they felt the land use department made “significant community changes with late notification.”

“The preliminary plans with the two basins were found acceptable by the community and tioned and an engineer came to the conclusion that it is not flawed and it is updated periodically,” said Jeff Bross of Duffield Associates. “There is always room for improvement but it is a pretty good estimating tool. The new drainage plan could result in some reduction of flooding in the area.”

According to Vince Kowal, public information officer for the land use department, the developer for the project is also giving $15,000 to the city of Newark to be used for restoration projects with congratulatory remarks for the community’s hard work in dealing with the issues pertaining to the project.

“We have gotten better in involving the community (in land use plans), but we still have a long way to go,” Baker said. “We can’t tear up all the development in the watershed but we can make the existing problem better, especially on northern New Castle County.”

“And as more southern areas develop we hope to avoid the problem at the front end.”

Motiva needs oversight

On fortunately far-between occasions, when the wind was just wrong, the immediate Newark area has been subject to the odors and air pollution coming from the Motiva oil refinery site at Delaware City.

Homes nearer to the company's tanks and air vent equipment spend the greater part of their summer with the windows tight shut against possible incursions of unwanted threats to their air passages.

But, as has become all too apparent, the worst threat, real and imagined, was reserved for the company's own employees and contractors.

Last week, even hundreds of miles was not far enough to prevent tragedy from striking home when a Bucks County, Pa., man lost his life while working there.

Motiva, and Star Enterprise before them, has long been one of the state's largest violators of environmental standards. Given the nature of their product, this is not surprising.

However, while called on the violations and fined in record numbers, the company has continued to be allowed to police itself when conforming to current environmental requirements.

Internal notes reported in the past week, and admitted to by the company, indicate this system is as flawed as any tree-hugger could have guessed.

Initial reports of the condition and maintenance of equipment to date sound like stories which came out of eastern Europe following the breakup of the Communist regimes there: dilapidated, outdated equipment in dangerous states of disrepair.

Unlike some foreign countries, however, Motiva has the money and opportunity to use the best educated manpower in the world. Some of these workers were among the very people warning of desperately needed repairs and upgrades.

The state and the country owe it to these employees, if not to the rest of the community, near and far, to create and follow a system of oversight at this facility.

The time is long, long past to trust the chickens to watch the oil fields.

Steedle home damaged by fire

On Friday evening of last week, the home of Elroy Steedle, on Park Place, was threatened by fire. Because of the efforts of A. C. Huston and J. Mr. Steedle, who was playing golf at the time, knew nothing of the fire until he dropped into a downtown store on his way home. The loss is covered by insurance and rebuilding is already under way.

GUEST COLUMN

Testing is an integral and valuable part of teaching

By JEANNE ALLEN

NEWARK POST GUEST COLUMNIST

Congress isn't expected to come out with a final compromise over President Bush's education plan until September, and much of the disagreement centers around his proposal for annual tests, using the National Assessment of Educational Progress, or NAEP tests, as an "audit" of state standardized tests.

Opponents to using any national tests for any reason are an odd coalition of liberals and conservatives: Liberals seem opposed to anything with the word "test"; conservatives seem to oppose anything with the word "national."

But, on the basis of recent reports from around the country, it's clear that both need to put aside their opposition for the sake of our children.

There is a consensus that the NAEP exams are an accurate reflection of student achievement. And without a "national audit" of state tests by an accepted national tool, parents will be left to wonder whether their state's examination is a good one or not.

Consider:

1) Mandatory annual testing was first proposed by U.S. Senator Robert Kennedy (D-New York) in 1965. It was then that he urged that the new Elementary and Secondary Education Act include a provision that districts report testing results to the federal government.

Unfortunately, because it was left to districts to decide, it didn't work and, according to historian Diane Ravitch, the tests were spotty and not consistently applied;

2) Having a national benchmark can reveal which standards work well and which do not:

The most recent NAEP scores reveals that in Virginia, where there is a rigorous set of Standards of Learning, the gap between high and low achievers has decreased over the last decade.

Meanwhile, in Maryland, where the curriculum and the tests trend more toward the "touchy-feely" constructivist approach, the gap between high and low performers has widened.

This phenomenon isn't new. Because of NAEP, we know that many state tests really do not tell us anything about how our children are performing. Even as far back as 1997, there were massive differences between NAEP scores and the state tests. That year, parents in South Carolina were told that 82 percent of the students were passing, but when they looked at the NAEP exam they discovered that only 20 percent were meeting a rigorous standard.

The same "credibility gap" existed for other states. In Louisiana, there was a 70 percent difference in seventh grade math exams; in Oklahoma, there was a 50-point gap between pass rates; and in Wisconsin, 88 percent met the state's reading standard, but only 35 percent hit NAEP's reading standard.

State tests — and a national audit of those tests — are vital to educating students in high-poverty, inner city areas. Research shows that "A" students in high poverty schools test at about the same level as "C" or "D" students in wealthy communities. For children in low-performing schools, an intense focus on well-defined, measurable educational outcomes is long overdue.

Without a standardized test, there will always be a concern of college admissions officers and employment counselors: that if a student went to school in Harlem, the grades are going to be inflated.

Perhaps Education Secretary Rod Paige said it best in response to the charge that students will be "tested to death."

"That's a charge made by people who feel that testing is somehow external to teaching. But it isn't. It's the other side of the same coin. If you don't assess where you are, what the students have learned or not learned, you're teaching in the dark. That's analogous to driving at night without headlights. Do you ever hear anyone saying we're teaching them to death?"

Allen is the president of the Center for Education Reform, a national, independent, non-profit advocacy organization providing support and guidance to individuals, community and civic groups, policymakers and others who are working to bring fundamental reforms to their schools. Opera Company of Philadelphia season promises exciting favorites

A dilemma faces me, dear reader, as I prepare to tell you about the exciting 2001-02 season at the world class Opera Company of Philadelphia. Should I begin with "Fanget an" or "Io sono il Prologo" to tell you about a season with expanded offerings?

I guess it simply comes down to which wing of the opera house you favor, the Wagnerian wing or the Italian wing. So I shall let you make the decision.

"(Reader, please insert choice here)" is my operatic greeting to you at the beginning of an Opera Company of Philadelphia season with more performances of more operas in any time of their history!

This is to be a season filled with excitement. It includes the Delaware Valley premieres of Jaques Offenbach's "La Perichole" and Vincenzo Bellini's "I Capuleti e i Montecchi," a new production of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's powerful "Don Giovanni" with reprises of two favorites, Gaetano Donizetti's "L'Elisir d'amore" and Giacomo Puccini's "Madama Butterfly." The total number of performances is up this year to a company record of

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

35! OCP has added a new Saturday matinee. (When general director Robert B. Driver came upon the scene about ten years ago, the total performances numbered eight!)

Since we are on the topic of Driver, in addition to his job heading the company, he will also take on the directorship of two of the productions "L'Elisir d'amore" and "Don Giovanni." Robert has earned an excellent reputation directing Mozart works and I am anxious to see the outcome of his labors in the comedy. We will all get a chance to see for ourselves since it is the first opera of the season at the Academy of Music.

"L'Elisir d'amore will be on the stage of the Grand Old Lady of Locust Street from October 13 to 28. It is a rollicking tale of the hapless bumpkin Nemorino, William Burden, who attempts to purchase an elixir of love from the nefarious Dr. Dulcamara, Kevin Glavin, to win the heart of fair maid Adina, Christine Brandes.

The laughs will be many. I am sure Driver will see to that. The company's principal conductor, Maurizio Barbacini will be in the pit.

Jan. 19 through Feb. 2 "La Perichole" will not only be the first opera of the new year but also the first production of this work ever offered in our area. It is the only opera this season to be sung in English. It is the story of Peruvian street singer Perichole, Denyce Graves, who spurns the love of the Viceroy, Robert Orth, for her impoverished lover, Richard Troxell. Stephen Lord will conduct and Dorothy Danner will direct.

Puccini's "Madama Butterfly" with the American naval officer who "likes 'em young," Misha Didyk, and the totally trusting Japanese girl, Sun Xiu Wei, blend their voices in an opera even the most hard of heart come away from with tears in their eyes. This is a revival of the acclaimed 1996 OCP production with Maurizio Barbacini conducting and Kay Walker Costello directing.

The story of "Don Giovanni" must be toned down for a family paper like this one. Suffice it to say that the Don, David Pittsinger, enjoys having his way with as many women as he encounters while his sidekick Leporello, Richard Bernstein, keeps count and actually offers us a litany of the conquests. Do you remember how many there were in Spain? (1,003!) Patricia Schuman will sing Donna Elvira; Christine Brandes, Zerlina and Wendy Nielsen, Donna Anna. The Commendatore, Ricardo Ferrari, will still drag the Don to hell in Act II. With Robert Driver directing and Corrado Rovaris conducting, Mozart's epic will run from March 15 to 30, 2002.

"I Capuleti e i Montecchi" is Bass David Pittsinger will sing the title role in Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and soprano Patricia Schuman the role of Donna Elvira with the Opera Company of Philadelphia at the Academy of Music.

the classic story of Romeo and Juliet with music by Bellini. Singing the roles of the star-crossed lovers are Ruxandra Donose, in a trouser role, and Anna Netrebko. The new production will be performed from April 7 through April 21, be conducted by Maurizio Barbacini and directed by Kay Walker Costello.

Get a beautiful, full color brochure, more information or order tickets for a great season of opera by calling 215-928-2110. Even with more performances, OCP will sell out a season like this quickly. Enjoy!

NCCo Mounted Patrol wins at horse show

The New Castle County Police Mounted Patrol Unit won three awards at the Devon Police Horse Show held in Pennsylvania.

Lieutenant Elmer Setting, a former Mounted Officer, placed second overall on his mount, Bob. Officer First Class James Henasey took seventh place overall on the unit's youngest horse, Frisco. Officer First Class Eric Roberts, who recently returned to the Mounted Unit after serving as a police academy instructor, placed eighth overall on the Unit's oldest horse, 20-year-old Wellington.

The New Castle County Police Mounted Patrol Unit is the only Mounted Unit in Delaware.

Cook competes in national rodeo

Jordan Cook, an 11th grade student at Middletown High School competed at the 53rd Annual National High School Rodeo in July.

Cook and his partner David Ballantyne of Pennsylvania, earned more points in the team roping event than any other rodeo member for the 2000-2001 rodeo season. Cook also placed fourth in the calf roping competition.

Featuring over 1,500 contestants from 39 states, Canada and Australia, the High School Rodeo is the largest rodeo in the world. The Rodeo will be televised locally this month. Cook participates in Pennsylvania because there currently is no high school rodeo organization in Delaware.

tions, the Peak Shaving Report, the Christina River Basin Committee Report, the Historic Preservation ordinance, the Downtown Street Tree and Sidewalk Program Report, the University Student Center Street Vacation Report, the Neo-Traditional Land Use Planning ordinance, the Landscape ordinance, the Landscaped Traffic Islands Plan, Water Resources Areas Protection Regulations, Town and Gown Survey Reports, the Noise ordinance, and five Resident Survey Reports.

Conway has also dealt with the voluminous paper work for the Community Development Program and Community Development/Revenue Sharing Advisory Committee, the Newark Nite and the Asian Wars Memorial committees, the Downtown Newark Partnership Board and its committees, the assumption of Parking Authority operations, the HyettPalma Study, CSX negotiations, Bond Referenda publicity, the Amtrak Bikeway plan, the Unicity Bus System, FEMA reports and studies, and Census Data requirements.

Despite her long, sometimes tedious, and always intricately filled hours, Conway still retains her sense of humor. Reminded of a night when a mouse insisted on joining her at the Planning Commission meeting in council chambers, Conway burst out laughing, and then announced, "That was the worst day of my life."

According to Lopata, Conway is known for her great sense of humor and compassion for her fellow employees and has been called upon to help plan and participate in retirement and birthday celebrations for many of them.

"Mere words are not enough to express how much she has meant to the city and the department,"

City Hall and throughout the community she served with such dedication and kindness."

Conway said her retirement was welcome but more sudden than planned following a heart attack in March. "I want to make sure you mention the paramedics who came to my home when I had the heart attack," said Conway. "They saved my life."

Conway said she had no symptoms prior to the attack which uncovered a blocked artery requiring three stints to keep open. "It takes a lot of stamina to do this job," she said on Tuesday, her last day for the city. "I decided to take things easier."

Conway said she plans to rest this summer but might go back to school in the future. "I'm not anxious about what I'll do," she said. "I might even take a part-time job."

Learning to play golf better is also in the future. "The planning department gave me a gift certificate for the Three Little Bakers golf course and I'm going to use it to improve my game," she said. "I might even beat my husband one of these days."

Conway, who said she and her husband of 42 years were sweethearts at Newark High School, was born and raised on Cleveland Avenue. "I was the 11th of 13 children. That's probably what made me not afraid to speak up," she said with a laugh.

Conway also hopes to spend more time with her five grandchildren. "My son works in the city's electric department and he has two girls," she said. "But, my daughter lives in Atlanta and she has three boys I'm looking forward to seeing more of now."

However, aside from travel, Conway has no plans to retire elsewhere. "Whatever I do, I will stay in Newark," she said. "I have such a great love for Newark."

Many choices for fertilizer!

For gardeners, labels on the bag of fertilizer will help save money, labor, and the environment.

Each bag of fertilizer will have a series of three numbers that describe the percentage by weight of three basic nutrients. The first is nitrogen, the second is phosphate, and the third is potash. One common formulation is 10-10-10. This means for every 10 pounds of this fertilizer, one pound of it is actual nitrogen, one pound is phosphate, and one pound is potash.

The other seven pounds is materials that aid in the use and stabilization of the product. Some lawn fertilizers have formulations approximating 30-3-3. This product would supply nearly three times the nitrogen but only about one-third the phosphorus and potassium as the 10-10-10 fertilizer.

Simply speaking, nitrogen contributes to green color and leaf growth. Phosphate is responsible for fruit, flower, and root development. Potash gives plants the ability to withstand the effects of drought.

By Jo Mercer

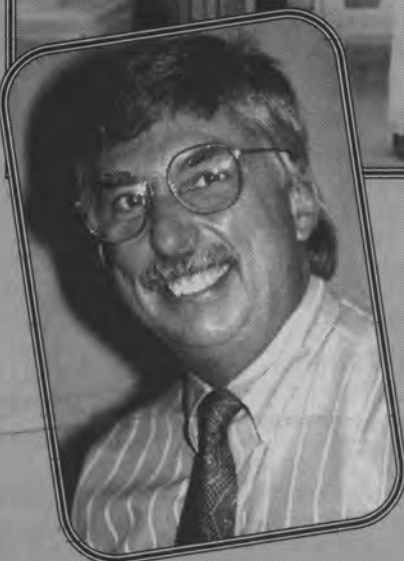

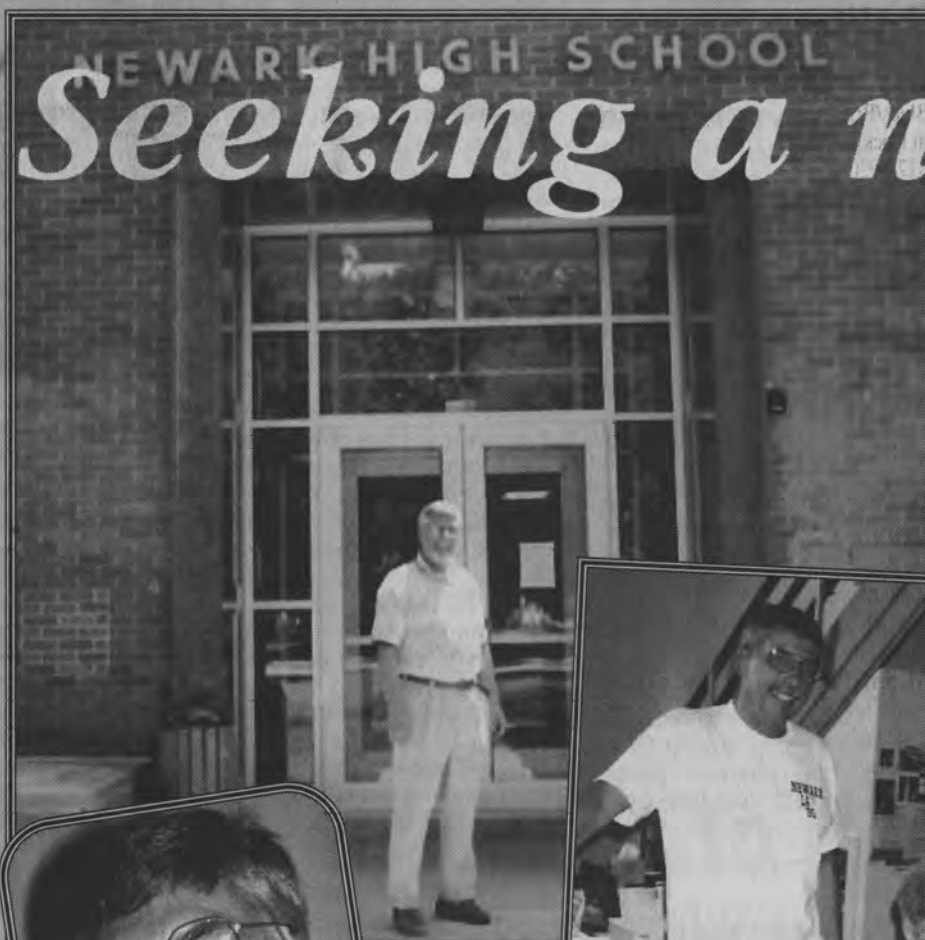

Deficiencies of any of the three can result in weak, pale plants that have trouble defending themselves against diseases, pests, heat, and drought. A soil test will reveal the soil conditions and the nutrients needed.

Nitrogen can leach down through the soil out of the plant's root zone. It can also be converted to gaseous forms that escape into the atmosphere. For these reasons, a soil test for the home lawn and garden does not try to measure nitrogen.

On the other hand, phosphate and potash bind tightly to soil particles. Once you apply the recommended phosphate and potash for a certain garden or lawn, you won't need to add any more for the next two to four years. Then take another soil test and see what's changed.

Nitrogen overuse is always an environmental concern because it is so soluble. Phosphate becomes a pollutant in surface waters when soil washes into streams and lakes, carrying the phosphate which contributes to overgrowth of algae and can lead to fish kills.

The man known for shooting off the cannon at local sporting events is opting not to leave his position with a bang. Instead, Frank Hagen's quietly spending his first summer off in 40 years relaxing and trying to get some work done around the house.

Hagen, who served as principal of school government.

Then, in 1987, he came back on board the Christina District staff as principal of Newark High School.

With help from students, parents and staff, a lot has changed at NHS since 1987, Hagen said.

"There used to be more of an emphasis on at-risk kids, and a number of parents at the school felt we weren't listening to their concerns, so for him.

"Obviously, it would have been better to have known sooner (about Hagen's retirement)," said Dr. Nicholas Fischer, the district superintendent, who added that district officials are not rushing the hiring process.

Fischer recently named Florence Rieman, a former assistant principal at Glasgow High School, as interim business; there are so many people involved – students, parents, teachers, staff – and the principal is the captain of the ship," Fischer said. "Their job is to make sure to maintain a positive atmosphere in the school, keep a good relationship with the district, be a positive role model – and they're constantly under scrutiny now because of accountability."

Some principals work 16 hours a nutrient. I buy what the recommendations say I need, and only when it's on sale.

Organic sources of plant nutrients often have analysis numbers that are much smaller than their synthetic counterparts. For example, a fish emulsion product I saw on the store shelf had an analysis of 4-2-4.

For fertilizing large areas of lawn or gardens, this product could be cost-prohibitive. But for the nutritional needs of a few houseplants, or a small vegetable garden, it could be of insignificant cost to the household budget.

retired from the position in mid-June, citing the need for a change. The Bear resident said he's been catching up on life this summer.

"I'm getting to know my neighbors, who are used to seeing me leave for work at six (a.m.) and come home around 9 p.m.," he said.

After a stint as a financial analyst, Hagen started working for the district in 1973, teaching and later chairing the social studies department at Christiana High School. In 1984, he became principal of Cape Henlopen High School, he said, because he wanted to be more involved with placement courses," he explained. "We've gone from the smallest high school in the district to the largest, with a large number of students choosing in for our academic programs, music and athletics."

He said he's not sure what his next venture will be. "I've been contacted by an organization about doing consulting work, but I'm really not sure," he said, adding that he's spending his time off reflecting on his professional growth, and his personal life.

And while Hagen is getting some rest, district administrators are busy searching for someone to take over Fischer said preliminary interviews began in July. The position has been advertised in national educational journals and in local newspapers, but Fischer is not sure how many people have applied so far.

"Someone who can walk on water," the superintendent said, when asked what qualities he's looking for in an applicant. "High school principalships are one of the most challenging jobs in the high school system."

"In addition to being an educational institution, a high school is like a moving school house and extracurricular activities, such as high school sporting events and concerts, that they are expected to attend.

But, that is just what Hagen said he is not quite ready to give up. "I'll still be attending a few events - I will be returning to shoot off the cannon at times at games," he said. "I missed very few events this year. The events are probably what I'll miss the most."

There are some things he won't miss. "I won't miss dealing with the bureaucracy of the district - I'll just leave it at that," he said.

NABF World Series here

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) had such a good experience with Delaware during last year's 18-and-under World Series, it decided to do it again.

Grand Slam hosted last year's tournament at Frawley Stadium, University of Delaware's Hannah Stadium and Wilson Field. Obviously the tournament was a success because Stahl Post, in its first year as a NABF member, is the host team as the county again gets the World Series.

A bonus to this year's tournament is that both Stahl - as the host team - and Grand Slam will be in the field. Grand Slam earned its berth by winning the Elkton (Md.) Regional last weekend.

Grand Slam entered the tournament with a 41-4-1 record while Stahl came in with a 22-12 record and has played its best baseball late in the season.

Grand Slam advances to NABF World Series

Team wins Maryland Regional

By TIM VAILLANCOURT

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Before last week's National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) Regional the Grand Slam Diamonds took a seven-game road trip to New York to play some quality teams to get ready for the regional. Thanks to some great pitching, the Diamonds were able to run the table in New York and take a lot of confidence into the regional.

It came as no surprise then that pitching was again the key as Grand Slam won the Elkton (Md.) Regional and advanced to the NABF World Series.

The key game came when the Diamonds knocked off the Columbia Reds 4-0 last Friday in a winner's bracket game.

The Diamonds gave pitcher Jason Rogers a 2-0 first-inning and that was all he needed. Rogers, a first-team all-stater from William Penn, pitched a three-hitter and struck out 16 of the 23 batters he faced throughout the game. He didn't allow a walk and no Columbia runner reached second base.

The win improved the Diamonds' record to 40-4-1 and advanced them in the tournament.

"Pitching has been a great part of our success this year," said Diamonds' pitching coach Bill Gibbons. "And probably this is one of the better staffs we've had since the development of this program."

Rogers, who will play for the University of Delaware next spring, was also part of the first-inning offense, leading off with a single up the middle. Daryl Holcomb followed with a walk and Brett Wallace and Derek DiGrazio hit back-to-back singles to score the runs.

"I had been working on a cut fastball and touching up my change up to make my other pitches more effective," said Rogers, who was clocked at 89 miles per hour in the last inning.

The work appeared to pay off well as only one Columbia batter looked to be not overmatched by Rogers.

The Diamonds added single runs in the fifth and sixth innings to provide Rogers some insurance.

Mark Rash singled and came around to score in the fifth while Holcomb was hit by a pitch, stole second and eventually scored in the sixth.

The Diamonds also got great pitching in a 7-0 victory over the Cecil Johnnies in the winner's bracket final.

Mark Romanczuk, an all-stater from St. Mark's, retired the first 17 batters he faced and struck out seven in six innings of work. Only Jeff Winterling's two-out single in the sixth prevented Romanczuk from a perfect game.

Offensively for the Diamonds, Holcomb had an RBI-triple, Brett Wallace and Dan Richardson each had run-scoring doubles; DiGrazio and Ian Wallace each had RBI singles.

The World Series will be hosted by Stahl Post this week and be played at Frawley Stadium, Wilson Field and the University of Delaware.

Newark National falls to Midway in district final

Midway wins seven straight to take crown

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The Newark National All-Star Little League team had its hopes of winning the Delaware State Tournament dashed last week after a pair of heart-breaking losses to Midway in the District Two (New Castle County area) finals.

Heading into the title series, Newark National was undefeated in the double-elimination tournament, and had to win only one of the two championship games against Midway, which lost its opening game.

Midway battled through the losers bracket to set up final round, held this year at the Newark American Little League Richardson (Caravel), Jason Rogers (William Penn), Mark Rash (St. Mark's). Stahl has its share as well with pitcher Tom Cochran (St. Mark's), outfielder Bryan Fitzgerald (St. Mark's) and outfielder R.T. Plumsky (Caravel).

Games will take place all weekend at the three sites. The first round is a round robin format with two divisions. The top two teams from each division will advance to Sunday's semifinals, which will be played at 11 a.m. at Wilson and Hannah. The championship game is scheduled for 2 p.m. at Wilson Field.

Pennell will be missed

Former Caravel Academy girls basketball coach Joe Pennell died last Friday.

Pennell guided Caravel to the state semifinals in each of the past two seasons. Pennell was also a highly successful coach at Ursuline.

More than just a great basketball coach, Pennell was an outstanding person. He will be sorely missed from not only the basketball scene, but in every other aspect as well.

Football anyone?

Believe it or not, the University of Delaware will begin preseason camp Thursday.

The Blue Hens' season begins Thursday, Aug. 30 in a home night game against Rhode Island.

Coming off a trip to the NCAA I-AA semifinals a year ago, the Hens are hopeful of another good season.

Look for this year's squad to be led by a strong defense while the offense tries to settle in with a new quarterback.

Unbelievable as it may sound, it won't be long until we're all watching football again.

Canal falls in state final

Georgetown wins 2-1 heartbreaker

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

There are cruel ways to lose games, and then there's what happened to the Canal Senior Division All-Star team in Tuesday night's state championship in Georgetown.

Canal fell 2-1 to Georgetown in a game that easily could've gone the other way if just one of three or four different plays had gone Canal's way. The biggest of those came when Canal appeared to have tied the score 2-2 in the sixth inning. But on a Georgetown appeal the home plate umpire ruled that Canal's Matt Pettinato did not touch home plate. The play took the run off the scoreboard and sapped Canal's momentum.

Georgetown, with the victory, advanced to the Eastern Regional in West Deptford, N.J.

"We battled back all tournament," said Canal manager Ernie Spence. "But that's just a terrible way to lose a game."

All of Georgetown's runs came on a two-run home run by Tyler Wilkins in the fourth inning. While Wilkins blast couldn't be denied, the first run came because of a controversial call at first base.

Georgetown's Justin West led the inning off with a bunt down the first base line. Canal pitcher Billy Harris raced over, stumbled, but threw a strike to first base that appeared to be in time to get West out. The runner, though, was ruled safe. Two batters later Wilkins hit his blast.

Canal, which had scored 26 runs in its two previous games, opened the game as if its offensive onslaught would continue.

Leadoff hitter Chris Lewis drew a walk and Ryan Sassaman followed with a sharp single to left field. Two batters later Nick Poore singled to right and it looked like Canal would take an early lead. Lewis, however, was game 6-5 and the second 7-3 to advance to the state tournament.

The deciding game had all the drama and excitement of a World Series game.

After two scoreless and well-played innings, Midway broke out on top with a 1-0 lead in the third, when Jon Domenici walked and later scored on an error with two outs.

Newark National then sent seven men to the plate and built a 2-1 lead in its half of the inning. Jared Keith and Jimmy Keener tallied for the Nationals. Kenny Wilkins tied the score in the fourth with a solo homer.

With tension mounting and the large crowd cheering on every pitch, Midway took a 4-2 lead in the fifth on a double by shortstop Evan Zachman, plating Matt Harden and Billy Crowe.

National moved closer in the bottom of the fifth when Danny Watson crushed an Evan Lewis pitch over the fence, making the score 4-3.

Midway then solidified its lead in the top of the sixth, when Richard O'Donald belted the first home run of his career, and Adam Cowen hit a two run shot for the 7-3 lead.

Lewis then whiffed three of the four batters he faced in the last frame to close out the victory, and the championship. He had a total of six K's for the game.

Midway majors win first ever state championship

Team heads to Connecticut for regional

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Midway Major Little League team captured its first-ever state championship Wednesday night with a convincing 9-5 victory over Camden-Wyoming at the Midway Little League complex.

Midway's Matt Harden pitched all six innings, giving up five hits on the night in the six-inning contest, while striking out seven Camden-Wyoming batters.

Harden said he had "good stuff" on the cool, crisp evening. "I felt really good all night, so I thought we had a good chance of winning," he said. Harden won both of his starts in the double-elimination tournament.

Fresh off their stunning 2-1 victory over Midway on the previous night, Camden-Wyoming jumped out to a 1-0 lead when shortstop Shaine Fuller belted a solo home run in the top of the first.

C-W coach Dennis O'Shea said he and his team was confident coming out of the gate on a positive note. "Getting that first run was big for us, but the bottom of the inning was the probably the turning point of the game," he said.

Midway broke the game wide open in the bottom of the inning, scoring five runs on just two hits. Catcher Billy Crowe walked to start the inning, and four walks, a wild pitch, and a hit batsman later, Midway forged the four-run lead, as three C-W pitchers had trouble finding the strike zone.

Midway tacked on another run in the second on a Harden double and a single to center by center-fielder Kenny Wilkins.

Midway put the game out of reach in the fourth when Crowe and Adam Cowen singled and Harden belted a three-run homer to right center, building the lead to 9-1.

C-W valiantly fought to get back in the game with a rally in the top of the fourth.

First baseman Jon Lust and Jonathon Gemmill walked to lead off the inning. Lust scored on a single to right by Eddie Stratton. Gemmill scored on a fielder's choice by Kyle McGuire, who scored on a ground out.

C-W tallied once more in the top of the sixth, but Harden coaxed Fuller to hit a grounder back to the mound for the final out.

Midway coach Jack Agnew said he was very pleased for his young players.

"I'm so excited right now, that I won't realize what has happened until sometime tomorrow," he said with a big smile. "That was sure a lot of hard work by the boys," he added.

Agnew has been coaching at Midway for more than thirty years.

C-W's O'Shea said he was also very proud of every player on his squad.

"We battled very hard for five games, and gave it all we had, so congratulations to the champs," he said.

Midway now moves on to the Eastern Regional Finals in Bristol, Conn. The team will play in the Mid-Atlantic Division with its first game Aug. 5 against the New York state champions.

"Now the fun really begins," said Agnew, as the team began preparations for its weekend trip to New England.

Midway's first win

In the tournament's second game, C-W called on host Midway. The home team squeaked out an early run and took a 1-0 lead into the final inning, the game was continuing despite a steady downpour.

Midway sent ten batters to the plate in the top of the sixth, and scored five more runs to build a 6-0 lead. Matt Harden then shut down the C-W offense to register the six-run victory.

Canal seemed poised to finally get over the hump in the sixth inning. Pettinato led off with a the championship at all.

The team battled back with a 14-4 romp over Dover last Friday to advance to play undefeated Georgetown.

tual game-winning run.

Midway ace Harden then plowed through the next six batters to win the game and force the winner-take-all final game the next evening. Harden had seven strikeouts in the contest.

Despite appearing in the state tured four championships in 32 years.

Midway has never won the title at this level since the tournament began in 1969. Agnew said it's been a long time getting this far, "and it's been worth every minute to see these boys playing on a wild pitch but was thrown out. Georgetown pitcher Jonathan Ricketts then got a strikeout to leave the bases loaded and end the inning.

Canal mounted another threat in the fourth inning when, with only one out, Pettinato walked and Mark DiMaio singled. Ricketts, though, was again able to get out of the jam.

"We had our chances," Spence said. "But you have to give their pitcher credit. He did a great job. I watched him warm up before the game and could tell we might have a little trouble."

Canal finally broke through with a run in the fifth inning. Joe Roth led off with a single to right field. Mike Mundy followed with an infield ground ball that the Georgetown third baseman threw down the first base line. Roth came all the way around to score on the play and Mundy ended up on second with no outs.

Ricketts, however, minimized the damage, getting the next three Canal hitters out to preserve the Georgetown lead.

Canal pitcher Billy Harris, meanwhile, kept his team in the game. Harris struck out nine Georgetown batters and, other than the home run, never let a runner past second base.

"Billy Harris pitched a hecku-back to strike out the next two batters. With Pettinato on third, Clint Kuhl hit a ground ball to shortstop for what appeared to be a routine play. The ball, though, skipped between the shortstop's legs and into left field allowing Pettinato to score the tying run.

Pettinato apparently did not touch home plate, however, and was called out when Georgetown appealed the play. The call ended the threat and the inning.

Ricketts got all three batters he faced in the seventh and while Georgetown celebrated the state championship, Canal and its fans were left to think of what should've or could've been.

"This team did a great job all tournament," Spence said. "It's just a tough way to have it end."

Canal bounces back

After losing 4-3 to Dover in the tournament's opening game, it certainly didn't look like Canal would be in the position to win jumped all over the District 3 champs, scoring 11 times in the first two innings on its way to a 12-0 victory.

The first four batters Canal sent to the plate in Monday's game all scored. Lewis and Sassaman singled to start the rally and Ryan Buckland doubled them both home. Nick Poore and Pettinato drew back-to-back walks and DiMaio singled them both home.

DiMaio would score on Josh Jacobs' single.

The second inning was more of the same. Buckland and Harris both hit run-scoring doubles in the inning and Jacobs had a two-run single.

Poore finished off the scoring with a solo home run in the third inning.

Buckland was also dominant on the mound, pitching a three-hitter.

Canal, between district and state play, won six of its eight games.

ie said. Agnew has been coach- ing at Midway for more than 30 years.

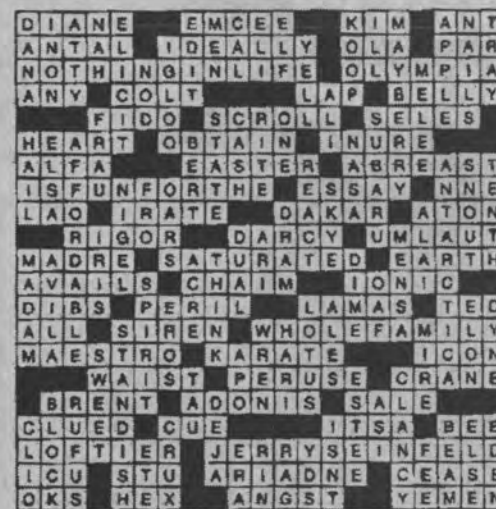

In the first championship game last Wednesday, Midway broke out on top by scoring three runs in the top of the first off of National's top pitcher Packer Larson. Midway's center fielder Wilkins drove in two runs with a two-out single.

Newark struck back with two runs in the bottom of the inning thanks to a line-drive double by Justin Schmidt. The left-fielder later tied the score 4-4 in the third inning, with a mighty two-run homer to right field.

Newark took its first lead 5-4 in the bottom of the fourth, on a blast to center field by left-hander Billy Morton. But Midway fought back again with two runs in the top of the fifth. The rally was aided by four walks from Larson, who also recorded 10 strikeouts on the night. Midway's second baseman Eric McGivney drew a walk to drive in Tommy Ogden with the even-tournament several times in the last few years, Newark National has not won the State Tournament at this level, (11 and 12 year-old players), since 1992. Newark National teams have won four state titles, and Newark American teams have also cap-so well at this time of the year. Midway now faces Camden-Wyoming for the state championship and the chance to move into the Eastern Regionals in Connecticut, which starts this weekend.

Services were held at St. John Fisher Church in Boothwyn, Pa. Interment was in the Lawn Croft Cemetery in Lower Chichester, Pa.

Vincent Gibellino, served in Italian Army

Bear resident Vincent Gibellino died on Saturday, July 14, 2001.

Mr. Gibellino, 64, was born in Italy and served in the Italian Army before coming to the United States in 1960. He worked as a concrete finisher for A-del, and most recently as a driver for Brooks Courier Services, during his retirement. He became a United States citizen in 1979.

He is survived by his wife, Katherine; sons, Edward Gibellino of New Castle, and Steven Markman of Norfolk, Va.; daughters, Suzanne Markman of Wilmington, Stacy

Mary M. of Newark, and Robert J. Haas of Newark; five grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; and a close friend, Gwen McPherson.

Services were held at the Holy Family Church in Newark. Interment was in the Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery in Bear.

Marion H. Mobley, member St. Philip's

Newark resident Marion H. Mobley died on Saturday, July 14, 2001.

Mrs. Mobley, 88, was a member of St. Philip's Lutheran Church.

She is survived by her daughters, Jean M. Wacksman and her husband Gerald of Newark, and Janet Meara and her husband Edward of Charleston, S.C.; nephew, Charles W.

Lathbury died on Friday, July 20, 2001.

Mr. Lathbury, 78, was an insurance agent for Prudential Life Insurance Company, retiring in 1985 after 31 years of service. After his retirement, he worked part-time for the city of Newark as a building inspector from 1987 until the present.

He was a U.S. Army veteran of World War II with the 19th Infantry Regiment, where he fought in the battles of New Guinea, South Philippines Liberation and Luzon. He was a member of the Peninsula McCabe United Methodist Church and a former member of Stahl Post #30 American Legion.

He is survived by his wife of 59 years, Audrey V. Wilson Lathbury; children, Richard A. Lathbury and his wife Karen, and Denise L. Hallsted and her husband Robert, all of Middletown; brother, Donald N. Lathbury and his wife Lavern of Wilmington; five grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Services were held at the Spicer-Mullikin Funeral Home in New Castle. Interment was in the Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery.

Sara P. Hitchens, Aberdeen Proving Ground accountant

Newark resident Sara P. Hitchens died on Friday, July 20, 2001.

Mrs. Hitchens, 85, had retired as an accountant for the Aberdeen Proving Ground in Aberdeen, Md. She was a member of Salem United Methodist Church, and a life member of Elkton Chapter #84, Order of the Eastern Star, where she was a past matron.

She is survived by her son, Harry L. Wilson and his wife Sondra of North East, Md.; two grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and nieces and nephews.

Service and burial was in the Bethel Cemetery in Chesapeake City, Md.

Joseph M. Phillips, was car dealer

Newark resident Joseph M. Phillips died on Friday, July 20, 2001.

Mr. Phillips, 59, was a car dealer. He is survived by his wife, Geraldine (nee Chiodo) Phillips; daughters, Michele Sunstrom of Pike Creek, and Cheryl Phillips of Newark; two grandchildren; and cousins, Paul and his wife Janice Phillips of Cooksville, Tenn. and Walt Frick and his wife Joan of Lansdale, Pa.

Services were at the Kirk and Nice Funeral Home on the grounds of George Washington Memorial Park in Plymouth Meeting, Pa. Interment followed.

Newark Post and Route 40 Flier

'Chapin' offers open living space, private bedrooms

The roof lines and brick accents across the face of the Chapin enhance the eye appeal of this medium-sized home. Numerous windows, including a bay window in the living room, provide great curb appeal. The garage is on the front but faces the side, ideal for a curved driveway.

The entry to the Chapin is vaulted with a skylight overhead bathing the area in solar light. A built-in bookshelf is directly opposite the front door while an archway on the right leads to the living room and a smaller arched doorway leads to the vaulted family room. The living room has a gas fireplace on the right side, adding warmth to the room, as does the bay window.

Beyond through another archway is the formal dining room, with large windows on two sides. The dining room is separated from the kitchen with a pocket door. The kitchen, nook, and family room are all vaulted and form one big room.

There is an island work center in the middle of the kitchen, while a pantry in the corner adjacent to the dining room. The nook sits in a bayed window area. The family room, open and spacious, has a corner gas fireplace along with sliding doors that open onto the rear deck.

Convenient to the family room as well as the bedrooms is a full bath with a tub. The linen closet for the rooms is located in the hall area. The master suite occupies the left rear corner, with a private bath and large walk-in closet. The master bath has twin sinks, an oversized shower, with the closet tucked behind a pocket door.

The other two bedrooms are across the face of the Chapin behind the garage with utility room separating them. Each has a wall closet and a large window for light. The utility room has the washer and dryer, along with a storage closet. Access to the garage is through this room.

At 2,084 square feet, the Chapin is an ideal home for the family with younger children. The bedrooms are close yet ideally spaced for privacy. There is a lot of open living area for the family to share, along with separate areas for guests to be entertained.

For a study plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, sections, and an artist rendering, send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road East, Cottage Grove, OR 97424. Please specify plan name (Chapin) and the number (B2084). A catalog featuring hundreds of home plans is available for $14.95, or save by ordering both for $29.95. For faster processing, call 1-800-562-1151.

CITY OF NEWARK DELAWARE BOARD OF ADJUSTMENT PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

AUGUST 16, 2001 - 7:30 PM

Pursuant to Chapter 32, Article XIX of the Code of the City of Newark, Delaware, notice is hereby given of a public hearing at a regular meeting of the Board of Adjustment on Thursday, August 16, 2001 at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber, Newark Municipal Building, 220 Elkton Road, Newark, Delaware, to hear the following appeal:

The appeal of Mark D. Sisk, Esquire, Agent for 7-Eleven, Inc., for the property at 235 East Delaware Avenue, for the following variances:

(a) Chapter 32, Section 32-45(a) requires 30 parking spaces. Revised plan shows 27 spaces.

(b) Chapter 32, Section 32-87(f) requires substantial landscaping on the site if use is changed, as proposed, to a service station/convenience store. A substantial variance for landscaping is being requested.

(This appeal was tabled on June 21, 2001.)

ZONING CLASSIFICATION: BC

Any questions regarding the above appeal may be directed to the City Secretary's Office at 366-7070 prior to the meeting.
