Students of the 10th-grade English class at William Penn High School posed with Debbie Pfozter, during a farewell party on her last day of student teaching there.

Success is sweet for graduating mom

By SHARON R. COLE
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

RELYING on a dream in her heart and a desire to succeed, a Newark mother tells an inspiring story of how she achieved her place in this year's graduating class at the University of Delaware.

Single mother of three Debbie Pfozter said a visit to the social services office six years ago became the turning point in her life after her 20-year marriage ended in divorce.

"I thought to myself, 'I could either stand in welfare lines or I was going to have to do something,'" she said matter-of-factly.

Determined to take control of her life and move on, Pfozter decided to enroll in the University's department of education. Since then she has been balancing family, work and school so that she could pursue her dream of becoming a teacher.

"It is something that I knew I would always be rewarded for," explained Pfozter, who yearned to be able to affect people in a positive way.

While holding down part-time jobs in addition to her own paper-hanging business, Pfozter found motivation through continual support from close friends and family.

"There were many times when I was trying to get food on the table; I had papers due, finals coming up, and I considered giving up," admitted Pfozter.

Her typical schedule included going back and forth from class to work at two-to-three hour intervals throughout the day only to come

Cars rescued just before roof collapses

THE SKY was blue and air calm Tuesday morning as Michael D. Kandra surveyed what was left of his two-car garage. Only 18 hours earlier, a vicious wind-storm sent a large tree crashing into his home at 213 Hullihen Drive.

However, more excitement came a few hours after the crash when Kandra and his son narrowly escaped serious injury. The entire garage flattened while the two were rescuing their automobiles.

Kandra said at first he was unaware of any major storm damage. "Just the lights went out," he said. Investigating, he discovered the top of a large tree that had blown across his garage, resting most of its weight on the main roof of the rancher.

Around 5 p.m. Monday, his son arrived and the pair began to extricate the as-yet-undamaged family cars from

'Student homes' pass in Newark

Few new student rentals possible in future

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE BIG SURPRISE on Monday night was not that the ordinance establishing student homes in Newark was approved. The big surprise was that the process only took 90 minutes.

Much of the passionate debate heard on this issue since January during six previous council meetings and a hearing before the city Planning Commission was lacking this week.

University of Delaware student Heather Wilson, who said she lived on Choate Street, told council she believed there was a "little bit of discrimination" against students and landlords in Newark. "I think this is a reaction against the University which is not providing housing for students," said Wilson. "That should be your focus instead of this ordinance."

According to city planning director Roy Lopata, the new ordinance establishes a definition for a "student home" category of rentals in which more than one, but no more than three, unrelated college students reside. "This covers all students presently enrolled or intending to attend college in Newark — graduate and undergraduate," said Lopata. "Once this is passed, there are very few areas in the city where you could have student homes, but that doesn't mean you couldn't have a rental."

Brothers charged after fight

Newark Police report an argument between two Newark brothers ended in injury and assault charges for both on May 23 around 4:10 p.m. Officers report a 15-year-old allegedly hit his 14-year-old brother with his closed fist causing a cut and some swelling to the younger boy's face. The 14-year-old was accused of causing a small bump and cut on the forehead of the older boy when he hit him with a hammer. Both were charged with assault 3rd.

Man jumps on moving car

On May 21 around 11:25 p.m., Newark Police observed Darrell A.

Harris, 18, run into Main Street and jump on the hood of a Dodge Shadow causing the driver to rear-end a Dodge Ram truck. Harris was charged with disorderly conduct. There were no injuries.

Mother, boyfriend arrested for harming son

New Castle County Police arrested a 17-year-old Newark woman, and her boyfriend, Albert Emory, 29, of Bear, for endangering the welfare of her two-year-old son.

Officers were alerted of a possible child abuse investigation at A.I. Dupont Hospital on May 21 about 9 p.m. and found the child had sustained abrasions and contusions to the back of his legs while his mother was disciplining him for using abusive language.

The mother and Emory also had allegedly placed tabasco sauce on the boy's tongue after washing his mouth out with soap.

The mother was charged with assault. Emory was charged with offensive touching. Both were also charged with endangering the welfare of a child.

Man arrested for child porn

Newark Police arrested William Sean Dahl, 38, of Newark on May 19 and charged him with 24 counts of unlawfully dealing in material depicting children engaging in prohibited sexual acts. The investigation was initiated in January after child pornography was found in his home during a visit by officers of the Probation/Parole Operation Safe Streets Program.

He is currently incarcerated by the Department of Corrections.

Man arrested for CDs theft

Newark Police arrested Patrick T. Breckin, 31, of Center Street for allegedly stealing more than $2,900 in compact discs over the course of a year. According to police, Breckin used fictitious names to open 30 separate accounts with BMG Music Service of Indianapolis, Ind.

He was charged with felony theft by false pretense, 29 counts of forgery 3rd and 30 counts of criminal impersonation. He was committed to Gander Hill Prison.

Money taken from Subaru dealership

Newark Police received a report from Matt Slap Subaru that between October 1998 and April 1999, a female suspect allegedly took almost $10,000 from customer deposits at the auto dealership and attempted to hide the thefts in bank transactions.

No arrest had been made at the time of this report.

Rock-throwing leads to arrests for three

On May 12 around 11:15 p.m., Newark Police charged Astaré R. Gannon, 18, and James E. Price, 22, both of Newark, and Matthew McCoy, 22, of Wilmington, with disorderly conduct after they were allegedly throwing rocks at people leaving the Deer Park Tavern on West Main Street.

Police stated the three were on the roof of the Wonderland Records during the incident.

DelDOT gears up for holiday weekend of vehicles

In anticipation of the expected Memorial Day traffic, crews from the Delaware Department of Transportation will have as many as 30 Summer Traffic Patrol units in operation at once during peak travel times Friday through Monday. All units will be equipped to assist motorists who encounter breakdown troubles.

DelDOT officials said a major effort will be made to adjust the signal timing of many of the signal systems statewide to allow for the smoothest flow of traffic.

DelDOT will also cease all roadwork from noon on Friday, May 28 to noon on Tuesday, June 1. Motorists can get updated travel related information at www.state.de.us/deldot.

DART First State will not operate statewide on Memorial Day, May 31, except for Resort Routes 201-207 and related paratransit service. SEPTA R2 will not operate within Delaware. It will operate on a Sunday schedule starting at Marcus Hook, Pa. For information, call 1-800-652-DART or 1-302-652-DART or visit DART's website at www.DartFirstState.com.

Powell salutes Delaware mentors

By SHARON R. COLE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

General Colin Powell wowed Newark on his visit last week to honor Delaware Mentors for being role models for children.

"You are here today as witnesses to (the) crusade," said Powell at the "Celebration of Mentors" held at the Bob Carpenter Center in Newark on May 19. Powell was chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the U.S. Department of Defense before his retirement.

Since 1997, Powell has been serving as chairman of "America's Promise - The Alliance for Youth," a national nonprofit organization working to mobilize individuals, groups and organizations to strengthen the character of American youth.

Woodbridge High School senior Willie Savage, a mentor for his local Boys and Girls Club, declared, "I stand before you with pride," before introducing Powell to a crowd filled with excitement.

Powell, who spoke of his childhood involvement with a dedicated public school system and a Jewish youth center in New York City, beseeched his listeners to look beyond all racial, ethnic and socioeconomic barriers to touch children in need.

"They are all of our children whether or not they are in our family or our community and we've got to take care of all of them," he said.

“They are all of our children...”

COLIN POWELL

FORMER CHAIRMAN OF JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF

Currently, Delaware leads the nation in mentors per capita with more than 10,000 volunteers, a goal that was pledged by Governor

Thomas Carper when he took office in 1993.

"We have emerged as a model for mentoring in the United States," Carper said.

According to a study conducted by the Big Brothers/Big Sisters of America, children with mentors are 53 percent less likely to skip school, 48 percent less likely to become violent, and 46 percent less likely to begin using illegal drugs.

Cleanup underway at old lumber site

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Developer Richard Dudek is not making any guesses these days about when he will complete the apartment/retail complex he and his wife plan for the old Newark Lumber site.

"We aren't even leasing right now," he said this week. "I can't even estimate when that will be."

The Dudeks got the go ahead for the development 10 months ago from Newark city council but aside from a lot of sitework, not much else has happened. "Right now we have machinery down there to start removing some soil as soon as we get approval," said Dudek on Monday.

According to N.V. Raman, manager for site investigation and restoration at the Delaware Department of Natural Resources, the Dudeks submitted their own soil cleanup plan after several contaminants, including metals and petroleum compounds, were found at the property on Main Street.

"The highest concentrations were found in the southern portions of the property bordering Delaware Avenue," said Raman.

A petroleum spill of 1,200 gallons of fuel oil in March 1978 and 200 gallons in May 1994 were documented at the property. "We are also aware of the plane crash and fire in 1954, but believe the other oil spills are the primary causes of the contamination," said Raman.

The remediation plan had a public hearing on May 19 and Raman said DNREC didn't see any changes based on the discussion.

Raman said excavation and removal off-site of highly-impacted, arsenic-and-petroleum-laden soils can probably begin immediately. "DNREC will oversee this process and signs will be posted," he said. "The remaining, lower-contaminated soil will be excavated and then reburied around the foundation of a building on the site."

A deed restriction will prevent excavation or demolition around that building without DNREC approval in the future.

"The building will act as a cap and this method saves money," explained Raman. "The petroleum contained in this soil does not pose a threat to human health and the environment."

RTD Investments has already removed all but one building on the site and plans to erect a 15,000 square-foot, four-story "L-shaped" building with retail on the first floor of the section facing Delaware Avenue and parking on the first floor of the longer wing.

The old building on Main Street will have six apartments, 4,500 square-feet of retail space, and maintenance and storage for the complex. Dudek said Monday that no one had yet leased that space.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST BY JEAN TOMAN

Military officials and railroad lovers who gathered to dedicate Steam Engine No. 58 included (L to R): an unidentified WW II veteran; Linda Woodcock in her WW II uniform; Brigadier General Wilma Vaught, USAF (Ret.); Brian Woodcock in his WW II uniform; President Walter Evans of the First State Chapter Tuskegee Airmen; and Coast Guard officer Curtis Cox who led the Wilmington & Western restoration team.

Railroad dedicates 'The Veterans' Locomotive'

Steam engine is a many numbered thing

Special to the Newark Post

After 17 months of overhaul, volunteers on the Wilmington and Western Railroad this week dedicated their newest piece of rolling stock, a 1907 Baldwin Steam Locomotive.

Owners Brian and Linda Woodcock gave the 92-year-old steam engine to Historic Red Clay Valley (HRCV), owner and operator of the Wilmington & Western Railroad, in December of 1997.

About 3,000 people-hours of renovation later, the cold mass of iron and steel is again a fire-breathing master of the railroad.

According to Philip Toman, president of HRCV, Engine No. 58 was built by the Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia in October 1907 for the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad. Its Baldwin serial number was 31899. About 1923, the railroad changed names to Atlanta, Birmingham and Coast and the engine number was changed to 27. The next name change of the road was to Atlantic Coast Line.

In March 1945, No. 27 was sold to the Army and numbered 6369. Moved to Fort Holabird in Maryland for a complete rebuilding, No. 6369 rolled out of the shops with a brand new firebox the same month the war ended.

The Army stored the engine until 1948 when it was sold to the Virginia Blue Ridge Railroad. On that line the engine was first numbered 2 and then 4. It worked on that railroad until May, 1951, when it was sold to the Mead Corporation of Lynchburg, Va.

The Mead Corporation numbered the engine 300. It was used in the company's yard as a switcher. In 1963, Malcolm Ottinger of the Ottinger Machine Works in Phoenixville, Pa., purchased No. 300.

The engine was used on the newly-formed Valley Forge Scenic Railroad which operated on a rented portion of the Reading Railroad's Chester Valley branch line out of Phoenixville for one season. When the line was abandoned, the locomotive was put in storage.

The Woodcocks purchased the locomotive, renumbered it to its original 58, and stored it for a time before the presentation to HRCV.

Dedicated at Greenbank Station on Sunday, May 23, its new name, "The Veterans' Locomotive," honors American and allied veterans of all the wars during which the engine was in service.

Newark Nite coming next Saturday

Newark Nite takes place next Saturday, June 5, on Main Street in downtown Newark from 5 to 9:30 p.m. Raindate is Saturday, June 12.

In addition to crafters, food vendors, exhibitors and entertainment lining the length of Main Street, many downtown businesses are planning special sales and activities. New this year is a Dance Area where four different dance styles will be taught throughout the evening.

Three music stages featuring local bands and performers will be located in Market East Plaza next to East End Cafe, on the Academy Building lawn, and next to the Galleria near the University of Delaware Mall.

A Children's Area in Newark Shopping Center will feature a Youth Performance stage. Among the entertainers scheduled to appear there are Jungle John, Seaweed the Giant Sea Serpent, and the Juggling Hoffman's. Other children's activities will include games for all ages, the Giant Castle Moonbounce, and pony rides.

Owners of Antique Automobiles will exhibit their vehicles along Main Street between the shopping center and Tyre Avenue.

home to balance studying with family time.

But encouraging words from supporters and the desire to practice what she preached kept her going. "I would always ask myself what I would say if one of my students wanted to quit," she said.

Pfotzer's courage and strength inspired some William Penn High School students where she did student teaching in drama and English in addition to coaching volleyball.

At a recent good-bye party, Pfotzer was presented with a journal containing notes written by admiring pupils.

Tenth grader Robert Klingler wrote a poem which included the passage, "This stranger had a spark so strong it could cause a 12-alarm fire."

Another student, thrown out of class for one day, wrote, "Thanks for not giving up on me."

Daughter Erin said the family is really proud of her. "I think she's been a very good role model for all of us," said the 19-year-old who attends Villanova University on a volleyball scholarship.

Pfotzer's 24-year-old daughter, Heidi Matthews, attended Wilmington College on a volleyball scholarship and now teaches kindergarten. Youngest child, 14-year-old David, is a student at Shue Middle School.

Although the road has been long, Pfotzer explained that it was well worth it.

"I think that what makes this whole process so sweet is that there is a (happy) end to it," she said.

Currently Pfotzer is interviewing in all school districts but admits that she really found something special at William Penn High School.

"It's an atmosphere that I have not found any place else," she explained. "There is a real sense of family there."

Tomorrow, this determined mother of three will march in to Pomp and Circumstance to accept a bachelor of arts in English education from the University of Delaware.

Despite her achievement, she takes time to point to the hard work of many others who will walk with her.

"There are a lot of heroes out there who are trying to put their lives back together again," she said.

The University of Delaware rededicated one of the signature buildings on the Newark campus on Sunday, May 16.

Memorial Hall, which reopened earlier this spring after a $9.8 million restoration and renovation, lies at the heart of the University of Delaware Mall. It was first dedicated in 1924 to honor the Delawareans who lost their lives in World War I.

The renovation was financed with $8 million from the state of Delaware and additional funds provided by the University, the Unidel Foundation and private gifts.

the garage.

"The ceiling of the garage was barely touching the cars and we wanted to get them out," Kandra said.

They cut parts of the tree branch and some of the wooden garage structure. In a short time they were able to back the cars out the garage. Expecting more rain Monday night, they began hanging a huge, blue tarp to cover the gaping hole in the eaves of the brick home.

Included in the restoration were replacement of windows, updating mechanical, electrical and communications systems and addressing safety codes. The project also included in-filling the courtyards to provide additional square footage for classroom and office space and reopening the north/south central corridor. The renovated Memorial Hall now has 74 faculty offices. There are two problem-based learning classrooms, 12 traditional classrooms, one case study room, two computer labs, one theatre classroom and two classrooms in the Writing Center.

"My son was on the garage roof and we heard a creaking sound," Kandra said. His son switched his clean-up work to the roof of the house. Suddenly the entire garage flattened to the ground as if a giant had stepped upon it.

The sound Kandra described as "a big boom" brought neighbors out of their homes to investigate. After securing their home as best they could, the Kandra's spent Monday night with family in Pennsylvania.

No one was hurt and Kandra was able to retrieve his two slightly scratched vehicles.

UD refuses to foot bill for student housing

THE UNIVERSITY of Delaware will not be a part of the Ambling Associates student housing project on South Chapel Street when it comes before Newark city council for review on June 28.

According to University director of public relations Rick Armitage, the University trustees felt the price tag for the school's involvement was too steep. "It was a fiduciary decision by the trustees when the request for $30 million was set before them by (University of Delaware) President Roselle," said Armitage this week.

Ambling, the University would have owned the site which would have been developed and managed by Ambling. "Fiducially the trustees were very nervous about the bonds which would need to be sold to fund the project," explained Armitage.

Armitage said the University was still in support of the housing. "It's a good project and offers another alternative for students to live in the city of Newark," said Armitage. "I will speak in favor of it when it comes before council."

As recently as Monday night, students were urging city council to find ways to make the University provide more housing for students. "We have very little power over the University, but we try," said city councilmember Gerald Grant.

District Four councilmember Thomas Wampler who co-sponsored the so-called "rental cap" ordinance, voted down on Monday, said the town has done more than the University has to help. "The community has provided thousands of additional beds for students over the last few years," said Wampler. "That's more than the University has."

Grant casts lone council vote against ordinance

► HOUSING, from 1

Starting immediately, student home rentals will only be permitted on a lot which is "no closer to any portion of another lot lawfully used for another student home" than 10 times the required lot width for a single-family dwelling in the particular district in which the home is located.

The exact distance will vary since the lot widths vary in the six zoning districts affected.

Rental permits still are required as with all other rentals.

Council amended the ordinance to clarify that when calculating the above distance, "nonowner-occupant single-family detached, semi-detached and row homes with rental permits for the taking of boarders and roomers existing on the date of this amendment, shall be considered student homes."

Kells Avenue resident David Athey begged council to approve the ordinance. "Think about how long it took to get here and what could happen in five or 10 years if this is not passed tonight," said Athey. "The political will is here now - if not now, when?"

Planning commissioner Madeline Frame, a resident of Newark since 1947, said she was "very much" in favor of the bill. "Many neighborhoods are no longer livable in Newark since students moved in," Frame said.

Councilmember Gerald Grant was the only vote against the new ordinance. "I would rather see neighborhoods go rental by market forces," said Grant, noting that the exempted streets would be left with increased rentals. "Also, there are too many variables like development, housing incentives, a lot of new rentals coming on the market - which I wish we could see play out on their own without this ordinance."

But Jerry Clifton, co-sponsor of the defeated "rental cap" bill, said Newark, like other college towns, was "losing the fabric of community" because of the proliferation of student rentals and associated noise and disorderly conduct.

"This is our baptism by fire," said Clifton. "Nothing we've done to this point has worked effectively and we have neighborhoods crying out for relief."

Something had to be done about the rentals

Still faced with opposing views, even from one of their own members, city council nevertheless has approved an ordinance which will stringently limit the number of student rentals in single-family homes in Newark.

In casting their votes, council members were careful to note the time spent, not only this year, but in past years, debating this subject. Since January alone, the city has devoted portions of seven separate council and planning commission meetings to addressing some form of the ordinance.

In an effort to allow every possible public comment, council took the unprecedented steps of having three council meetings in one month as well as two planning commission meetings in one week.

On Monday, most people expected one last night of impassioned criticism, questioning and pleas for more input or alternatives.

Instead, a few landlords showed up with one last round of threats about litigation and constitutional rights based on age discrimination. Councilmembers rightfully observed they could not adjust their actions in response to threats.

Three students showed up, but no reporters from the school newspaper, to complain about their right to live anywhere they choose.

Ironically, in a week when the University trustees stated they would not be part of a proposed student housing complex here, these same students also suggested the city seek ways to make the University help in the rentals dilemma.

A few residents made comments for or against the impending vote. That was it.

The new ordinance does not stop all rentals in Newark. Some student rentals in single-family homes could still be approved for permits and anyone else can rent anywhere they can afford. Rentals of all other types continue to be available to everyone, including students.

City council appears prepared to face whatever consequences may come of their decision. The mood and the tone of their comments was calm and reasoned. It is obvious that all seven members have given many hours of thought to deciding what they should do.

We agree something had to be done. Even to people who have not lived here for generations, it is evident that the residential character of the town has been seriously frayed in recent years by the rowdiness of students living in the community.

No one expects miracles, but at least it's finally a start toward stability for neighborhoods which cringed as Labor Day approached or each time a sale sign went up.

ONE PARENT'S PERSPECTIVE

Let's reward more of our children

By RUTH KELLY

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

RECENTLY MY CHILD was privileged to go on a ski trip as a reward for achieving honor roll status for the first two marking periods this year. I was very proud of her. She worked hard to bring her grades up this year. She also had a wonderful time on the trip and she and the 130-plus others who chose to go were the envy of the rest of the school.

I value high achievement in education. A's and B's are wonderful to see on a report card. However, what I value even more than the grade are the comments from the teachers. "Participates in class" is music to my ears; "uses class time well" also excites me; "is a pleasure to have in class" is the comment I treasure the most. That tells me a lot. It tells me that my child is behaving appropriately in class, doing her work and allowing the teacher to do his/her job.

I don't pressure my child to bring home A's. If she received C's with these same comments, I'd be just as proud knowing she worked to the best of her ability.

Everyone who knows me knows how I feel about the honor roll bumper stickers from a past column. I still refuse to display one on my car.

I also have a problem with some folk who have Jesus stickers plastered all over their cars and are some of the biggest devils walking. I'm not anti-bumper sticker — some are really funny.

I would proudly display a bumper sticker that told the world that I am a proud parent of a child attending the Kirk Middle School community. Only a small percentage of a school's population will receive the coveted honor roll sticker and if that's all that's important to them so be it. I'd say display it prominently and proudly. There is nothing wrong with that.

I would encourage our schools to think about its entire school population and how success is valued and ultimately measured and rewarded? Is it just the grade alone that we value? I would hope not. I would like to see more children being recognized for effort. Some children will never get the A or B required to attain honor roll status, but because they don't get that "A" will never get any of the perks that the honor students are very visibly rewarded with.

We need to increase the self-esteem of all of our students. We need to utilize the various talents of all of our kids and reward them accordingly. We need to recognize hard work and sincere effort even if the

Lay Cornerstone of new public school

Impressive ceremonies accompanied the formal laying of the cornerstone of Newark's new $3000,000 school building on the Academy Street grounds Saturday afternoon.

About two hundred school children, parents and teachers were in attendance when the ceremonies commenced shortly after 1 p.m. headed by the Continental Band, a short parade formed on Academy Street and marched to the site of the new building.

Milk standard to be kept up by State Health Commission

Due to the efforts of the State Health and Welfare Commission, the Dairy Council of Philadelphia, ice cream companies which buy large quantities of milk in lower Delaware and the support of Delaware dairies which are seeking to make the standard of milk sold in the state on a par or superior to that sold anywhere else in the east, conditions concerning the sale of milk are steadily improving.

Fader walls soon to tumble

The walls of the historic old Fader building on Main Street will soon be tumbling down.

With a little help from Gridco Inc., that is.

Gridco, a King of Prussia, Pa.-based engineering firm which specializes in designing and constructing Gino's restaurants, is expected to begin demolishing the circa 1800's building "probably sometime next month," said Thomas Barr, construction manager of the project. The demolition process should take no more than a "couple of weeks," Barr added-clearing the way for the fast food restaurant firm's planned center city outlet.

Dial-a-ride program almost ready to roll

Newark residents who are 60 years of age or older will soon be able to get a lift to anywhere in or around the city just by using their telephones.

That's because members of Newark City Council Monday night unanimously approved an agreement between the city and the Newark Transit Cab Company which officially creates a Dial-a-Ride program for senior citizens. The program, a "brainchild" of the Community Service Committee of the Soroptimists International club of Newark, is designed to provide a "safe, dependable, low-cost method of door-to-door transportation" and is now set to get underway on July 1.

Possible twister hits Newark

Some Newark residents got a scolding from Mother Nature earlier this week when they experienced what they said appeared to be a tornado.

Residents of the 180 block of Scottfield Drive near Castle Mall said they saw "a cloud of dust" coming from the direction of the mall at about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday. The cloud was followed by gusts of wind and lightning.

Slight damage was noticeable at the construction site of a new Caldor department store. Metal roofing fell to the ground and an outhouse was overturned.

We must also recognize those children who come to school every day. Many parents are going to receive a 'wake-up' call this school year for allowing their children to miss too many days of school with unacceptable excuses for those absences. These parents must realize that the attendance patterns allowed while a child is in school will have that same child fired from a job for excessive absenteeism when they enter the workforce.

Delaware is asking much of our children and many of our students who have always been "A" students may not continue to get this grade as the standards are raised. They will be affected in a variety of ways.

Some of these honor students may get discouraged and depressed. Their parents will be shocked and many may be outraged.

The reality is that they will experience what it feels like for that larger school population who never received any of the recognition for effort which they so desperately yearn for and deserve.

Remembering the reason for Memorial Day

By BUTCH MILLER

NEWARK POST GUEST COLUMNIST

Memorial Day is the day we remember and honor those who lost their lives fighting for our nation. The men and women we remember on Memorial Day demonstrated the highest form of faith in the triumph of good over evil. Just as they had a mission, we, too, have a mission: To teach the young people of today to respect America's values.

History teaches us that our faith in freedom -- readily backed up by our resolve to defend freedom -- has made America -- and the world -- a better place. Today, 179 of the world's 193 sovereign states elect their lawmakers. That means the earth is covered by democracy in greater proportion than water; it's covered 93 percent democracy. Clearly, those who made the Supreme Sacrifice for freedom did so for a victorious cause.

History teaches us that the world will never run out of threats to freedom. Hitler is no more. We won the Cold War. But our world must contend with Milosevic in Kosovo and Hussein in Iraq. China has an up side and down side -- a growing appreciation for the free market, but a disturbing aspiration for nuclear and strategic supremacy. Clearly, future generation may be called upon again to sacrifice for freedom.

If we teach young people correctly, they will willingly serve in the U.S. armed forces, the defense of freedom will continue and democracy will flourish worldwide.

I often tell others about Danny Flynn, a young Marine. His story helps me reaffirm a young person's faith in the perseverance of a free people.

Private First Class Flynn drove a personnel carrier during the War in Vietnam. He had been in Vietnam for 19 days when he volunteered to take a sick buddy's tour of duty. On that fateful night, May 25, 1968, a Cambodian rocket killed Flynn. He was 20 years old.

Flynn was a native of Kings Park, New York. He was buried with full military honors at Pinelawn Cemetery there. He was awarded the Purple Heart posthumously. A Kings Park baseball field was named in his honor. But the most important tribute to Flynn is carried out by a local middle school. They keep hope alive by teaching young people how important Memorial Day is.

Every year, 5th and 6th graders write letters to Flynn's mother. Through the battlefield death of Danny Flynn new generations are learning about patriotic values. Their notes to Flynn's mother are short, but poignant. "When I say the Pledge of Allegiance, I will remember Danny Flynn," writes one student. "Bringing books to the Kings Park Library will help me focus on the sacrifice Danny Flynn made for me," reflects another.

The children of that middle school wouldn't understand Memorial Day if someone hadn't taught them that freedom isn't free. They continue to learn that America's fallen heroes expressed their faith in democracy by committing the most selfless act of all.

Each of us must instill in young people the importance of Memorial Day. We should also ask God -- in our daily prayers -- to continue to bless America. If we do these things, America's faith in freedom, justice and democracy will remain intact. So, too, will the blanket of freedom that our honored dead bequeathed to us.

Plan summer television time in advance

As the parents of two teenaged boys like many of you, my wife and I are wondering what to do to keep them busy this summer. They're too old to be campers at day camps but too young to really have a full time job.

They will be volunteering at 4-H camp, playing some baseball and taking a summer class, but there still will be plenty of free time on hand.

Unfortunately, some of that time will be spent watching daytime television.

There is some good programming on daytime television, but the chances of kids watching it are pretty slim. The other day my son was home sick. I went home to check on him and found him watching Jerry Springer. The topic was about women, who unbeknownst to them, their current boyfriends at one time were also women. This was not exactly quality fare.

By Mark Manno

Before summer starts, it's a good idea to sit down with your children and have a discussion on what is expected of them while they're home.

The most important thing is to set limits not only on what they watch, but how much they watch. You have to become familiar with what is on television and have a discussion with them about what is acceptable viewing and what isn't. You and your child can plan their viewing in advance.

Complement television viewing with other technologies such as videos, books on cassette and computer programs. Probably the single most important thing that you can do as a parent is to provide alternatives for your kids. We leave a list of chores each day that we expect them to do before we get home. It includes everything from mowing the lawn to sorting the recycle bin. Not only does this help us keep up with the house, but it reinforces the idea that they have responsibilities, too.

Another strategy that we'll probably use this summer is to insist that they spend some time each day doing some reading. I'm not going to insist that they read Ivanhoe, but keeping reading skills sharp is important, especially as a child gets ready to make the transition to high school, where the expectations are so much higher. There are plenty of things to do in the Newark area this summer. Encourage kids to play outside, ride bikes, play sports at a park, go to the library or volunteer. Just keep them away from television as much as possible.

Finally, practice what you preach. Don't expect kids to have self-discipline with television viewing if you don't. Set a good example for your kids by exercising, reading or just spending time talking to them.

Your summer will be some much more enjoyable if spent that way instead of in front of a television.

YO!

SHOOT-THE-MOON, GO-AROUND-THE-WORLD, rock-the-baby and walk-the-dog all in the same day without leaving home. To some it may sound like an amazing feat, traversing time and space, but the method of getting it all done is simple — pick up a yo-yo.

The age-old toy on a string comes in an array of different designs and colors and the tricks a yo-yo can do, including walk the dog, are only as limited as the skills of the hands controlling them.

With the latest revolutions in yo-yo technology, according to Mary Feeney, owner of I

Center, the toy that is thought to have been around since 500 B.C., is making a comeback.

The yo-yo has had a long, distinguished history.

The first mention of the yo-yo dates back to Greece in 500 B.C. The ancient toys were made out of wood, metal or painted terra-cotta according to Val Krantz of the American Yo-Yo Association. In the 1780's the yo-yo, often made of ivory and glass was a toy of the French aristocracy. A young King Louis XVII can be seen in a painting dated 1789 holding a yo-yo.

The first recorded reference to any type of yo-yo in the United States was in 1866, when two men from Ohio received a patent for an invention called "an improved bandalore."

In the late 1920's entrepreneur Donald F. Duncan was on his way to starting his own yo-yo company. By 1948 when the Duncan Company moved to Luck, Wis. It was dubbed the "Yo-Yo Capital of the World" producing 3,600 yo-yos per hour and by 1962 the Duncan company sold a record 45 billion yo-yos.

Other yo-yo highlights include Abbie Hoffman's citation for contempt of Congress for walking-the-dog while he was being investigated by the House Subcommittee on Un-American Activities and Richard Nixon's appearance on stage holding a yo-yo during the opening of the Grand Old Opry in Nashville in 1974.

On April 12, 1985, and on July 31, 1992, the yo-yo made its way into space as a part of various experiments.

"Last year the new yo-yos with higher technology came out," Feeney said. "They hit in Europe — right now they're extremely popular."

"It's definitely very large in our area."

Feeney said yo-yoing has seen greater popularity recently because the Duncan, or wooden yo-yos, had a fixed axle. "The new yo-yos have ball bearings and don't have a fixed axle, so they can sleep (spin at the extreme end of the string) longer. It's easy to get better faster."

Feeney said the toy has become so popular that she has decided to start a club for yo-yo hobbyists. Feeney said when I Qubed gave free lessons at night, hundreds of people wanted lessons. "We thought if we had a club, people could learn from each other."

The club will run from April to September with two meetings a month, instruction on how to perform tricks and repair yo-yos.

With the Independence Seaport Museum building in the background and the USS Becuna and USS Olympia in front, it's easy to see why this is a favorite indoor and outdoor museum on the Philadelphia waterfront.

Museum offers naval history

I HAVE BEEN WRITING this column for just over 30 years and you may have gathered by now that I enjoy actively visiting museums -- not passively, actively. I recently found more than I bargained for at a Philadelphia waterfront museum when I visited the Independence Seaport Museum, 211 South Columbus Boulevard at Penn's Landing.

The Independence Seaport Museum collects, preserves and makes available to us all art, artifacts and materials related to the maritime history and traditions of the Delaware River and Bay. Those two important bodies of water aren't far from Newark. Just go East!

You can climb aboard the cold, hard steerage bunks and imagine yourself a weary immigrant entering Philadelphia's "Ellis Island," Washington Avenue. You and your children can use a miniature crane to unload cargo from a container ship. You can enjoy a visit to the actual bridge of the USS Lawrence. You can even launch a ship with champagne on a replica shipway.

I remembered this museum by its earlier name and location, Philadelphia Maritime Museum at 321 Chestnut Street. Maybe you do too. If you do, forget everything and get to see what has transpired since the museum was founded back in 1961. There is simply no comparison.

In 1993 the museum was able to lease the old Port of History Building at Penn's Landing and spent more than $12 million for renovation, rehabilitation and new construction getting ready for its new mission and new name. It was worth every cent!

ISM is a multi-million dollar, 100,000 sq. ft. facility in the center of action on the waterfront in Philadelphia. It offers historic ship tours, hands on interactive exhibits, a working boat shop and many special exhibits to help visitors of all ages discover the history and traditions of our maritime past as well as the super ports of today.

There is a gigantic model of the Ben Franklin Bridge overhead in the museum. The replica took over a thousand hours to build and has 2,000 feet of aluminum tubing, 140 sheets of wood and took 150 gallons of paint to complete it.

The one photo with my column today, provided by PR director Cathy Engle, is great but it can do little more than serve to whet one's appetite to visit. There are many more great photos I could have used and many places in the museum where you can get some great photos for yourself.

All the excitement isn't inside the museum either. Summer is coming up with the children out of school and many parents want to enjoy the out-of-doors. Well, just outside the ISM's doors are some famous ships to visit. There is the United States Cruiser Olympia of Admiral Dewey fame. Next to that is one of our older Diesel submarines, the Becuna.

The Olympia was launched in 1892 and has the distinction of being one of our first steel warships. While it played a role in many events, certainly its place in history is guaranteed by the action in Manila Bay. That's where Admiral Dewey gave the famous command, "You may fire when you are ready, Gridley." Gridley did and we won!

The Becuna was commissioned in 1944 as the submarine flagship of the Southwest Pacific Fleet under Gen. Douglas MacArthur. It made five war patrols and is credited with sinking thousands of tons of Japanese naval and commercial ships.

Both of these ships are open for touring and you can get your tickets for these ships and all the attractions in the museum for just one price. Adult tickets are $7.50; seniors, $6 and children $3.50. If you decide to make a day of it, there are plenty of places to eat in and around Penn's Landing.

The Independence Seaport Museum is very easy to reach from Newark. Just go north on I-95 to exit 16 and follow the signs to Penn's Landing. There is plenty of parking within a few blocks. If you decide to cut out the driving, you can go up on the SEPTA trains from Newark, get off at 30th Street Station and take the Frankford Subway-Elevated and exit at the Second Street station.

ISM is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information you may call 212-925-5439.

Enjoy!

Natural Lands Trust
names program manager

David J. Athey, a registered professional engineer from Newark, was named river conservation program manager for Natural Lands Trust.

Athey is initially involved with the Schuylkill River Watershed Conservation Plan. The purpose of this project, being conducted in partnership with the Conservation Fund and the Academy of Natural Sciences' Patrick Center for Environmental Research, is to focus more resources on preserving the Schuylkill River and its tributaries.

Previously, Athey was a civil engineer and project manager at the office of Tetra Tech Inc., a nationwide civil and environmental engineering consulting firm. He attended school at the Georgia Institute of Technology where he received his bachelor's degree in civil engineering. He is currently working on his masters of public administration at the University of Delaware.

Natural Lands Trust is a nonprofit. See PEOPLE, 15 ▶

Honorees included state senator Steven Amick (Legislator of the Year), the Longwood Foundation (Foundation of the Year), Perdue Foods (Food Donor of the Year), Harvin Foods and Willey Farms (Produce Donors of the Year), Pathmark Corporation (Corporation of the Year/Leonard Goode Check Our Hunger Award), Info Systems (Volunteer Group of the Year), Burris Foods (Retha Fisher Founders Award), the Job Store (Small Business of the Year), the Solid Rock Church of Hartley, (Member Agency of the Year) and Anita Brinker and Andrew Thorpe (Volunteers of the Year).

County honors Foster Grandparents

Approximately 243 Delaware Foster Grandparents were honored by the Delaware Foster Grandparent Advisory Council.

Awards were presented to New Castle County Foster Grandparents Delsie C. Love for 30 years of service; Lucia Hayes, 27 years; Blanche Mason 26 years; Pauline Anderson, Vinetta Hill, and Amelia Mazutier, 21 years; and Elizabeth McKinney and Earlean Taggart, 20 years.

Foster Grandparents who have served 15 and 10 years also received awards.

For 32 years Delaware Foster Grandparents have been mentors, serving at 1,098 volunteer stations statewide and volunteer over 252,000 hours annually helping 1,200 children, youth and their families with special needs.

Arena wins scholarship

Tom Arena has won a $1000 McDonald's employee scholarship. The scholarship may be applied to his educational expenses at any two- or four-year accredited college, university, vocational or technical school in the United States.

Tom is a senior at Avon Grove High School. He is currently a swing manager at McDonald's on Main Street. He has been employed with McDonald's since August 1997.

UD library receives award for services

The University of Delaware Library received the annual Delaware Library Association Library Award, given each year to a library or institution in recognition of outstanding support for Delaware libraries and extraordinary services to the people of the First State.

Susan Brynteson, UD director of libraries, accepted the award from David Burdash, president of the Delaware Library Association and director of the Wilmington Institute Free Library.

Burdash said the University of Delaware was chosen for the award for providing access to information to all Delaware libraries; for being a state and national leader in information technology, for generous inter-library loan activity; and for supporting and implementing UDLIB Search in Delaware's schools.

Gutowski wins fellowship

Keith Edward Gutowski, a junior chemistry major at the University of Delaware, has been awarded a fellowship in excess of $10,000 to attend a Summer School in nuclear and radiochemistry to be held from June 21-July 30 at San Jose State University. One of just 12 fellowship recipients chosen nationally, Gutowski will participate in both lecture and laboratory work on the fundamentals of nuclear science and its applications to nuclear medicine and related fields.

Local residents join accounting firm

Sean T. Byrnes of Newark and Robert Goldberg of Bear have joined Wheeler Wolfendon & Dwares, P.A., Certified Public Accountants as a staff accountants. Goldberg is a 1991 graduate of the University of Delaware. Ann Burdall of New Castle joined the staff as a paraprofessional in the accounting department. She attended Delaware Technical and Community College.

Local students named to honor rolls

Cecil Community College announced the 1999 spring semester president's and dean's lists. Students can earn a place on the president's list by receiving a GPA of 3.75 or more for the semester. Students who achieve a GPA between 3.50 and 3.74 are placed on the dean's list. President's list honorees include Monique Brunsberg of New Castle, Moira Biddle of Newark, and Robert Ross of Bear. The dean's list honoree was Tina Serpe of Newark.

GARAGE SALE TO BENEFIT KOSOVAR

After watching the faces of the Kosovar refugees night after night on the news, Newark area resident Val Schulte of Cotswold Hills, held a garage sale on May 8, and donated all of the proceeds to the American Red Cross International Response Fund.

"I felt so helpless seeing pictures of the refugees," states Schulte. "I have a healthy 4-year old boy. When I looked at those children's faces, I felt I had to do something." With the help of her husband and her son, who contributed several of his toys to include in the sale, the Schulte family raised $300.

Coleman receives masters

A total of 1,949 students were awarded degrees during commencement exercises at Rowan University.

The University awarded bachelor's, masters, educational specialist degrees and certificates. Jennifer K. Coleman of Newark received a masters degree in Business Administration.

County will present program on heroin Wednesday

State representative Stephanie Ulbrich (R-Newark South) will host a presentation of "Heroin Hurts" at 7 p.m. on June 2 at Newark High School. The hard-hitting program created by New Castle County Police and others in the community is a must-see for area parents and anyone interested in the crisis of heroin use in Delaware.

According to Ulbrich, she has been appointed chair of the newly-created House of Representatives Substance Abuse Committee. "The Legislature is very concerned about this entire issue and plans to do all it can to address the problem," Ulbrich said.

Rabies vaccination offered for pets

The Delaware Humane Society and Delaware Department of Health and Human Services are offering free rabies clinics for pet owners in June.

Vaccination against the deadly, preventable disease will be done tomorrow at Glasgow High School and Saturday, June 5, at Talley Middle School from 10 a.m. to noon.

The vaccination also will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 19, at Cab Calloway School and 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, June 27, at Frawley Stadium.

All pets must be leashed or in pet carriers. For more information, call 571-0111, 4 to 7 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 11:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday or 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

PARADE BAND WINNERS ANNOUNCED

The city of Newark Memorial Day Committee announced high school marching band winners in the parade held here on May 16. First place went to Avon Grove High School which earned 83.5 points. Glasgow High School took second place with 73.5 points while Wilmington High School, making its last formal appearance under that name, was a close third with 73 points. Wilmington High School won first place for Best Appearing Drum Major.

Wynn Breslin to host annual Open Studio

Artist Wynn Breslin will host her annual Open Studio on June 5 & 6 and June 12 & 13 from noon to 4 p.m. at the Wynn Breslin Studio Gallery, 470 Terrapin Lane, Newark. Take Route 896 north approximately 1/4 mile past White Clay Creek State Park. See Historical marker "The Wedge" turn right onto Terrapin Lane (signs and pylons posted on days of Open Studio) From north, about 1000 feet from Pa/Del. state lines on left of 896. For more information, call 731-5738.

'Thinking Of Starting Your Own Business'

A "Thinking of Starting Your Own Business" workshop will be conducted by SCORE, Service Corps of Retired Executives, on Wednesday, June 16, from 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. at Concord Plaza, Plaza Center, Centennial Room, Silver-side Road near Route 202.

Executives will discuss the essential guidelines for starting or improving a small business. The workshop fee is $25 at the door or $20 if prepaid at the SCORE office. For further information and/or register for the workshop, call 573-6552.

Gardeners race for the roses

Starting at dawn tomorrow, the Concord Pyle Rose Garden tomorrow will be selling bargain-priced rose bushes, annuals, perennials, shrubs, and trees at the 13th Annual Charity Shrub Sale and "Race for the Roses." The benefit for the National Tuberous Sclerosis Association is held 6 a.m.-until-sold-out at the intersection of Old Route One and Route 796 in Jenessville, Pa., across from the Red Rose Inn.

Tuberous sclerosis is a devastating genetic disease, which triggers benign tumors in the brain and other internal organs, and is often undiagnosed or misdiagnosed as autism or epilepsy.

The greenery, mostly priced between $3 and $10, is donated by the Conard Pyle Company whose employee Burt Goodrich started the annual event 13 years ago after his daughter was diagnosed with the disease.

Jenessville is 25 miles from Newark, Route 896 N to 796 N and follow signs to traffic light at Old Route One.

Summer reading program to begin

The Summer Reading program begins on June 1 at all New Castle County libraries and continues through August 31. Participants receive a certificate and a prize if they successfully complete the program. For more information, contact your local library. The telephone number at Newark Free Library is 731-7550.

Sterck School celebrates 30 years

Delaware School for the Deaf will celebrate the 30th anniversary of the founding of Sterck School with a picnic on Saturday, June 5. From 10 a.m. to noon, school staff will host an open house at the school on East Chestnut Hill Road/Route 4. The picnic follows on the grounds of Our Lady of Grace School until 5 p.m. Cost is $5 for adults and $3 for children. For tickets and information, call 454-2301 or 1-800-292-9590.

Delaware faces Arkansas in NCAA tourney opener

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The University of Delaware, which rose from the ashes of defeat twice this season, began play Friday in the 64-team NCAA Division I baseball tournament.

The fourth-seeded Hens (35-23), who began the season with a 1-11 record but rallied to win the recent America East Tournament, faced No. 1 seed Arkansas (41-21) at the Razorbacks' new $9 million ballpark in Fayetteville. In the other game, No. 2 Clemson (32-24) faced No. 3 Southwest Missouri State (36-17).

The double-elimination first round ends Sunday. If the Hens survive, they would play in one of eight Super Regional tournaments June 4-6 at a site to be determined. That round is best of three elimination.

The Hens, who also made the NCAA Division I tournament last season, gathered at the Carpenter Sports Center to learn its first-round opponents Monday afternoon via ESPN network.

"The thing about baseball is you never know what you're getting into," said UD Coach Bob Hannah. "You could hit the buzzsaw on the mound at anytime. And if that guy on the mound is outstanding, school's out. (Delaware) is not a particularly strong offensive ballclub and real good pitching, regardless of whether you have aluminum sticks in your hand or not, gives this team some real difficulty.

"So I would expect that all three teams out there have good pitching. We'll have our hands full. To be competitive in this tournament, in any ballgame, we have to play at the very top of our game, whatever that might be. You've got to play pretty consistent defense, you've got to get reasonable pitching and if you have opportunities offensively, you've got to get a base hit."

Arkansas, which is coached by Norm Dibryn, earned an at-large berth and is one of six teams from the Southeast Conference to make it.

"I know (Dibryn) very well," Hannah said. "He's been to Omaha (for the College World Series) a lot of times and had some outstanding clubs down there. They play in a very tough conference.

"It doesn't make any difference. I happen to think this is as good a draw as we could get in terms of the team that you're playing. They play straight up. They're going to have good team speed because they play in that (artificial surface) field, so they design that team around that. They'll have real good pitching. It's a typical, good Division I college club."

The Hens played Arkansas in the 1979 Division I tournament in Tallahassee, Fla., and lost both games.

Virginia ends Hens' title hopes

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

It's tough to score when you don't have the ball.

The University of Delaware found that out the hard way in a 17-10 loss to the University of Virginia Sunday afternoon in a quarterfinal game of the NCAA Lacrosse Tournament at Princeton University.

The third-seeded Cavaliers dominated faceoffs (winning 26 of 31) and ground balls (69-35) and kept the ball away from the Blue Hens' explosive offense for much of the afternoon. That, plain and simple, was the difference in the game.

Virginia (11-3) advanced to the Final Four and will meet second-seeded Johns Hopkins in one of Saturday's semifinals. Georgetown will face Syracuse in the other. The championship game will be Monday.

Delaware ends its most successful season ever with a 14-3 record.

"It's a possession game for us," said Delaware coach Bob Shillinglaw. "The fact that they won so many of the faceoffs and ground balls mean they had a lot more opportunities than we did."

"We knew coming in that we could win faceoffs," said Virginia coach Dom Starsia. "We felt if we could do that, win the ground balls and wear them down, we could win."

Another big advantage for the Cavaliers came in the depth department. Virginia played 26 players while Delaware played only 19. The Cavaliers earned their victory with a much stronger second half.

"We really thought our depth would be a factor in the second half," Starsia said. "We

Glasgow, St. Mark's may meet

Several area teams began play this week in the softball and girls soccer tournaments.

In softball on Wednesday, No. 1 St. Mark's (17-1) hosted No. 16 Middletown (12-6); No. 9 Seaford (12-6) played at No. 8 Glasgow (15-3), and No. 13 William Penn (12-5) visited No. 4 Caravel (16-2).

If St. Mark's and Glasgow both won, they would face each other on Saturday at a time and site to be determined.

The winner of the William Penn-Caravel game faced the winner of the No. 12 Brandywine (15-3)-No. 5 Caesar Rodney (16-2) game also at a time and site to be determined.

Other first-round games were No. 15 Mount Pleasant (12-6) vs. No. 2 Padua (14-4); No. 10 Cape Henlopen (11-7) vs. No. 7 Indian River (13-5); No. 11 Milford vs. No. 6 Sussex Central (17-1), and No. 14 Smyrna (9-9) vs. No. 3 St. Elizabeth (14-4).

In soccer, besides No. 5 Newark (12-2-2) vs. No. 12 McKean (9-5-2), No. 2 St. Mark's (15-1) played No. 15 Sanford (8-5-2).

Other games were No. 1 Alexis I. du Pont vs. No. 16 Seaford (8-7-1); No. 8 Archmere (10-3-3) vs. No. 9 Dover; No. 4 Ursuline (12-2-2) vs. No. 13 Indian River (10-6); No. 7 Wilmington Christian (11-5) vs. No. 10 Concord (10-3-3); No. 3 Caesar Rodney (15-1) vs. No. 14 Dickinson (9-5-2), and No. 6 Tatnall (9-2-5) vs. No. 11 Mount Pleasant.

The championship games for both tournaments is June 5.

expected a close game early and thought it would still be close at halftime. But we thought we could wear them down late."

Starsia was correct in his pregame thought process. The Hens were certainly able to play with the Cavaliers in the first half.

In fact, Delaware jumped to an early 4-0 as the squad's big guns — John Grant, Sean Carney, Dennis DeBusschere and Justin Lavey — all notched early points. Grant, who finished the season with the second highest point total in NCAA history (110), was especially spectacular. The All-American scored some great goals and had some pretty assists during the Hens' first-half barrage. He finished the game with four goals and three assists.

Virginia, however, fought back with the next five goals to take the lead. The Cavs held a slim 8-7 lead at halftime.

The third quarter saw Virginia take over the game. The ACC champions scored five of the first six goals in the second half to build a 13-8 lead.

Delaware closed to within 13-10 with 14:11 still to play in the game and with the memory of the miracle comeback against UMBC still fresh, felt it still had a chance.

"I thought in the fourth quarter, even when we were down 15-10, that — hey — we had them right where we wanted them," Shillinglaw said.

Virginia would have none of it, however. It didn't allow another Delaware goal and closed out the game with four straight goals to provide the final margin.

"They've got more depth," Shillinglaw said. "I don't think that killed us, but it certainly didn't help us."

"I really don't think the faceoffs killed us either. Virginia has two outstanding faceoff men. What killed us was the ground balls. That's time of possession. That's less chance that we have to get the ball to guys like John Grant and Sean Carney."

HONORS — Grant was the America East player of the year for the second straight year and is a candidate for the national player of the year as well. . . Newark's own Marc Traverso was a first-team all-conference defense selection. . . Kevin Lavey and Jim Bruder were also first team all-conference selections. . . Sean Carney, Jeff Krafft and Ron Jedlicka were second team selections as well.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

LAKISHA MAYO — GLASGOW HIGH

Glasgow High senior LaKisha Mayo is literally a tough act to follow on the track.

But she topped even herself last weekend at the Delaware Girls Division I Track and Field Championships.

Mayo won the 100-meter hurdles in 14.25 seconds and the 300 hurdles in 45.49 seconds, and helped the Dragons win the 1,600 by running the anchor leg in 57.7.

Oh, by the way, she also finished second in the triple jump with a distance of 34 feet, 11 inches.

"I'm very satisfied with this season," said Mayo. "I broke two meet records (14.3 seconds in the 100 hurdles at the Lake Forest and Glasgow invitationals) and I made all-state in three events and second in the fourth one."

"For the hurdles I set the goal to be first in the state. I wanted to break the state record, but I was just a second or so away."

Mayo, a three-year varsity letter winner at Glasgow who turned 18 last Friday, also won the 300 hurdles last year and the Division II 100 hurdles as a freshman at McKean High.

Despite the thousands of times jumping over hurdles, Mayo, who is now five feet, 8 1/2 inches tall, said she's never been injured.

"Just some bruised knees," she said.

Mayo didn't play any other sports in high school, concentrating only on outdoor and indoor track. She said she loves the sport for one simple reason: "I love the challenge every time I step out onto the track."

Mayo began running track competitively for Wilmington Track Club when she was eight years old. Her favorite event as a child was the 400 relay, but she was running the 80-meter hurdles by the time she was 11.

Her coach then, as it is now at Glasgow, is Art Madric.

"He's like my second dad," said Mayo. "He's a great coach. He's very disciplined and determined."

Mayo will continue to compete with WTC, which travels to events across the country, this summer before beginning her track career at Alcorn State (Miss.), where she has a full athletic scholarship.

At Alcorn, she plans on running the 100 hurdles as well as try both the 400 meters and the 1,600 relay.

"I'm starting to like the 400 more now because my time is dropping," Mayo said. "I used to run around 60, 61 (seconds). Now I'm running 57, 58."

Sounds like a couple more acts opponents may soon have to follow.

UD baseball team NCAA tourney berth

► BASEBALL, from 22

They had beat Florida State, Florida and Seton Hall. After losing the first game to Arkansas, which they had to beat twice, the Hens blew a 3-1 lead in the bottom of the ninth of the second game and lost 4-3.

Hannah, who had been ejected earlier from the game for arguing, recalled peeking through a hole in the rightfield wall to watch the collapse. The game ended when a double-play that would have ended the game was broken up at second base. Arkansas went on to finish third that year.

Last weekend at Frawley Stadium, the Hens didn't collapse. After losing three of four games to Northeastern the weekend before, they entered the tournament as the No. 2 seed.

But they opened with a 7-3 victory over Northeastern. Starter Bryan Porcelli improved to 10-2 by going the distance, while second baseman Andrew Salvo drove in two runs.

The Hens dropped the next game, 4-1 to Towson, then needed to beat Maine to stay alive. The Hens triumphed 5-3 helped by a two-run double by leftfielder Ryan Preziosi.

Starter Rich McQuire (7-3) provided the Hens with their second complete game of the tournament.

On Saturday, rightfielder Kevin Mench sparked the Hens' 5-2 victory with a three-run homer over the wall in center field.

In the clincher, Hens' third baseman Frank DiMaggio singled home two runs in the first inning to get the Hens going.

Hens catcher Jamie McSherry, who caught all five games, said the season has already been satisfying no matter what happens in Arkansas.

"How far we came back, (Hannah's) 1,000th victory, catching so many games in so little time, it's just a great example of hard work paying off," said McSherry, who has caught more than 200 games without an injury.

"Not giving up, and that comes straight from coach."

“It's just a great example of hard work paying off.”

BLUE HEN BASEBALL PLAYER

Newark girls fall to McKean

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Some big dreams fell hard Tuesday night for Newark High's girls soccer team.

The fifth-seeded Yellowjackets, the Blue Hen Conference co-champions, found out how much of a tightrope walk the state tournament is as they were toppled by No. 12 McKean 2-1 in a first-round game at A.I.

Newark (12-3-2), which had beaten McKean (10-5-2) 3-1 early in the regular season, was ousted in the first round for the first time in four trips to the state tournament.

The Yellowjackets started off the first half in fairly good form. But even though Newark may have had a bit more of the play, both teams mostly huffed and puffed between the top of the goal areas without producing any serious scoring chances.

The game changed dramatically with just over four minutes left in the half. A cross from the right wing by McKean's Erin Ringstrom found a motionless hand of a Newark defender a few yards from goalkeeper Alexis Bastien.

A penalty shot was awarded, and Rachel Chadderton rocketed the chance into the upper right corner of the net.

Referees make a hand-ball call based first on intent. McKean Coach Bill Coughlin thought it was the right call; Newark Coach Hugh Mitchell did not.

Whatever, Newark played the second half as though its shorts were on fire, and it paid off with most of the play and several dangerous forays.

However, they never seriously tested McKean goalie Nadine Schuster with shots.

Schuster finished with four saves for the game, while Bastien made only two.

With Newark pushing its entire

“One game doesn't take away from what they've accomplished.”

HUGH MITCHELL
NEWARK SOCCER COACH

team upfield in the final minutes, McKean's Somer Parsons took advantage of a botched offside trap, went in alone on Bastien and made it 2-0 with 3:40 to play.

"I just wanted to get a goal," Parsons said. "I knew that was going to be it. I wanted to put it (near-post) because she was going down."

Newark didn't quit, however, and drew within a goal when fullback Erin Bastien deftly headed home a free kick from about 10 yards out.

Despite two more dangerous chances in the dying seconds, Newark was unable to beat Schuster and McKean was in the second round for the first time since 1996.

Mitchell said the inability of his team to finish was a problem most of the season.

"Unfortunately in all three of our losses that was probably the one consistent factor; not performing in the final third (of the field)," Mitchell said.

"This about as disappointed as I've ever felt as a coach, there's no doubt about that."

"But we've not shown a good, consistent upper level of play when we needed it. At times we did."

Despite the early exit, Mitchell was proud of his team's season.

"I told the girls before the game even started no matter what happens, one game doesn't take away from what they've accomplished," Mitchell said. "They were conference co-champions. They were fifth seed, they were ranked very high (by the media) and some kids got some good experience and development."

"But we don't have the speed or talent to do much; to put the ball in the net. Against the lesser teams, sure, but everybody does against them. Against teams that play hard and have speed, well..."

"Newark played very well," said Coughlin. "That's an excellent team and they have an excellent coach. The way we looked at when we came into here is that it was 3-1 and we were losing. So we wanted to try and go from there."

"We're really happy. They should all be very proud of what they've accomplished."

Spartans' Hall resigns

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

It wasn't the way St. Mark's boys lacrosse head coach Tom Hall wanted his time with the Spartans to end.

But even after his team had lost 11-5 to Tatnall School in a quarterfinal round game of the Boys State Lacrosse Tournament last Saturday, Hall took great pride in the St. Mark's teams he had coached for the past seven years and looked forward to a bright future with his family and business.

Hall's fourth-seeded Spartans finished with a 13-4 record, but mixed in with the disappointment of not advancing, the hugs and tears shared by players and Hall afterwards showed how much they're going to miss each other.

Hall's brother, Dave, and his son, Josh, who sat out this lacrosse season at the University of Delaware because of stress fractures, were Hall's assistants.

Hall, of Landenberg, Pa., was coach at Newark High for a year before taking over at St. Mark's.

Hall said he'll now be able to see his daughter, Kayte, play lacrosse, which he's never done. She's a sophomore on the Spartans' girls team and one of its leading scorers.

His son, Josh, will be back in action next season, and his other son, Matt, the Spartans' goalie for the past four years, has accepted a scholarship to play that position next season at University of Maryland Baltimore County.

The possibility exists that Josh and Matt could face each other on the lacrosse field next season.

"Next year will be a challenge," Hall said with a laugh about which team he will root for.

"The third reason is because I lost my dad (Chuck) in the fall to cancer, and I really enjoy spending time with my mom (Jeanne)," Hall said. "She's a sweetheart. She's hanging in there like a trooper. She's tough. She is really tough."

Hall also lost a brother - Chuck, Jr. - a stellar running back at Delaware, to cancer.

Finally, Hall said he needs to spend more time with his business, Cardio-Kinetics, Inc., in Newark, because it's expanding.

In his eight-year coaching career, Hall's teams never missed the playoffs.

"My brother is awesome and my son has helped us out this year because he's hurt," Hall said. "I can't say enough about Dave, my brother, because he doesn't have any kids out there and he's out there every day with me. He's been my assistant for all those years. And he coached at Christiana (High) three years before we started together."

"I'll tell you what, I can't say enough about the kids at St. Mark's. They work their butts off for the most part."

"I mean every team has kids that aren't all out there, but the corps of this team was solid. I thought we were going to go to the finals. We had played well enough in the last two weeks to just eat up anybody man-to-man."

"It's been fun, but you gotta move on. It's a shame it ends like this, but life goes on, right? I'm really looking forward to next year."

St. Mark's ousted from lax tourney

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Too many penalties by St. Mark's and too much precise ball movement by Tatnall School doomed the Spartans to an 11-5 defeat in a quarterfinal round game of the Boys State Lacrosse Tournament last Saturday night at Alexis I. du Pont.

The fourth-seeded Spartans finished with a 13-4 record. Fifth-seeded Tatnall had beaten St. Mark's 9-6 in the regular season.

The six-goal defeat was the largest of the season for the Spartans. Cape Henlopen, the defending state champion and No. 1 seed this year, beat the Spartans 8-3.

Jeff Mangat gave St. Mark's a 1-0 lead with one minute, 53 seconds gone in the game.

Two minutes later, on its first foray into the Spartans' defensive half, Tatnall's Chris Contompasis scored the first of his six goals on the night to make it 1-1.

With the Spartans a man down, Tatnall's Matt Fink scored at the 5:40 mark to make it 2-1. But the Spartans' Steve Mangat scored 19 seconds later with a solo effort to make it 2-2.

Justin Mason gave Tatnall the lead back at 7:55 on a counterattack.

With the Spartans a man down again, Mike Mooney pulled St. Mark's even, but Mason scored again with three seconds left in the penalty.

Contompasis scored again at the 5:34 mark to make it 5-3. But St. Mark's Corey Ingram made it 5-4 at the 8:15 mark with another long solo run.

However, with four seconds left in the half, Tatnall's Rich Gelman scored to make it 6-4.

"That hurt because we had shut down pretty much that whole three-minute (penalty)," said St. Mark's Coach Tom Hall.

Will Buckley and Contompasis scored on counterattacks in the first 7:39 of the third quarter to give Tatnall an 8-4 lead. Contompasis then scored again at the 8:08 mark - seconds after a timeout - to give the Hornets a 9-4 lead after three quarters.

Contompasis took all the wind out of the Spartans' sails by scoring 20 seconds into the fourth quarter.

Jeff Shahan scored St. Mark's final goal at the 4:55 mark.

St. Mark's goalie Matt Hall finished with 12 saves, while Tatnall's John Wigton made six.

"We were down (a player) about eight of the first 20 minutes," Matt Hall said. "Penalties killed us, but we played our hearts out."

"I thought everyone on the field gave everything they had, but we made some dumb mistakes. Sometimes we got a little out of position. I thought (Tatnall) played above and beyond what they normally play and they capitalized on our mistakes every single time."

"They did a great job, give them all the credit in the world. They played unbelievable."

Tom Hall, Matt's father, said Tatnall Coach Bryan McDermott deserves a lot of credit.

"They're extremely well-coached," Hall said.

"They've got solid stick skills; fundamentals are clear, they see guys down in the crease well, they move the ball through the air well, which is something that's learned early in lacrosse. They just don't teach it when kids are seniors."

As for the penalties his team had to kill, including six minutes in the first quarter, Hall said the effects were cumulative.

"The penalties, although they didn't really hurt us badly goal-wise, they hurt real bad because we were panicked," said Hall, who is stepping down as the Spartans' coach after seven seasons. "We were trying to make plays that weren't there to stay in it."

"(Penalties) put a lot of pressure on the goalie and a lot of pressure on the kids because even if you prevent them from scoring your kids are exhausted."

"And when the penalties finally settle up, they feel like they've got to quickly score to get back into the game even if you don't have to. It's a complex situation, but it happens."

Hall said his team was too often guilty of not making enough high-percentage passes.

"You try not to skip-pass," Hall said. "You try to hit the closest man, then to the other side quickly; try not to lob over defenders."

"We just got in trouble tonight and just kept going downhill. Tatnall's a good team though. They make you get in trouble. Once you get in trouble they take advantage of every opportunity they get."

"They really look downfield. They camp a couple of their attackers near the goal and just wait until they see which way the defense goes, then feed the opposite man. It's a beautiful thing. It's the way we all coach. It's nice when you have three or four guys who can do that."

Spartans' Hall resigns

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

It wasn't the way St. Mark's boys lacrosse head coach Tom Hall wanted his time with the Spartans to end.

But even after his team had lost 11-5 to Tatnall School in a quarterfinal round game of the Boys State Lacrosse Tournament last Saturday, Hall took great pride in the St. Mark's teams he had coached for the past seven years and looked forward to a bright future with his family and business.

Hall's fourth-seeded Spartans finished with a 13-4 record, but mixed in with the disappointment of not advancing, the hugs and tears shared by players and Hall afterwards showed how much they're going to miss each other.

Hall's brother, Dave, and his son, Josh, who sat out this lacrosse season at the University of Delaware because of stress fractures, were Hall's assistants.

Hall, of Landenburg, Pa., was coach at Newark High for a year before taking over at St. Mark's.

Hall said he'll now be able to see his daughter, Kayte, play lacrosse, which he's never done. She's a sophomore on the Spartans' girls team and one of its leading scorers.

His son, Josh, will be back in action next season, and his other son, Matt, the Spartans' goalie for the past four years, has accepted a scholarship to play that position next season at University of Maryland Baltimore County.

The possibility exists that Josh and Matt could face each other on the lacrosse field next season.

"Next year will be a challenge," Hall said with a laugh about which team he will root for.

"The third reason is because I lost my dad (Chuck) in the fall to cancer, and I really enjoy spending time with my mom (Jeanne)," Hall said. "She's a sweetheart. She's hanging in there like a trooper. She's tough. She is really tough."

Hall also lost a brother - Chuck, Jr. - a stellar running back at Delaware, to cancer.

Finally, Hall said he needs to spend more time with his business, Cardio-Kinetics, Inc., in Newark, because it's expanding.

In his eight-year coaching career, Hall's teams never missed the playoffs.

"My brother is awesome and my son has helped us out this year because he's hurt," Hall said. "I can't say enough about Dave, my brother, because he doesn't have any kids out there and he's out there every day with me. He's been my assistant for all those years. And he coached at Christiana (High) three years before we started together."

"I'll tell you what, I can't say enough about the kids at St. Mark's. They work their butts off for the most part."

"I mean every team has kids that aren't all out there, but the corps of this team was solid. I thought we were going to go to the finals. We had played well enough in the last two weeks to just eat up anybody man-to-man."

"It's been fun, but you gotta move on. It's a shame it ends like this, but life goes on, right? I'm really looking forward to next year."

St. Mark's ousted from lax tourney

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Too many penalties by St. Mark's and too much precise ball movement by Tatnall School doomed the Spartans to an 11-5 defeat in a quarterfinal round game of the Boys State Lacrosse Tournament last Saturday night at Alexis I. du Pont.

The fourth-seeded Spartans finished with a 13-4 record. Fifth-seeded Tatnall had beaten St. Mark's 9-6 in the regular season.

The six-goal defeat was the largest of the season for the Spartans. Cape Henlopen, the defending state champion and No. 1 seed this year, beat the Spartans 8-3.

Jeff Mangat gave St. Mark's a 1-0 lead with one minute, 53 seconds gone in the game.

Two minutes later, on its first foray into the Spartans' defensive half, Tatnall's Chris Contompasis scored the first of his six goals on the night to make it 1-1.

With the Spartans a man down, Tatnall's Matt Fink scored at the 5:40 mark to make it 2-1. But the Spartans' Steve Mangat scored 19 seconds later with a solo effort to make it 2-2.

Justin Mason gave Tatnall the lead back at 7:55 on a counterattack.

With the Spartans a man down again, Mike Mooney pulled St. Mark's even, but Mason scored again with three seconds left in the penalty.

Contompasis scored again at the 5:34 mark to make it 5-3. But St. Mark's Corey Ingram made it 5-4 at the 8:15 mark with another long solo run.

However, with four seconds left in the half, Tatnall's Rich Gelman scored to make it 6-4.

"That hurt because we had shut down pretty much that whole three-minute (penalty)," said St. Mark's Coach Tom Hall.

Will Buckley and Contompasis scored on counterattacks in the first 7:39 of the third quarter to give Tatnall an 8-4 lead. Contompasis then scored again at the 8:08 mark - seconds after a timeout - to give the Hornets a 9-4 lead after three quarters.

Contompasis took all the wind out of the Spartans' sails by scoring 20 seconds into the fourth quarter.

Jeff Shahan scored St. Mark's final goal at the 4:55 mark.

St. Mark's goalie Matt Hall finished with 12 saves, while Tatnall's John Wigton made six.

"We were down (a player) about eight of the first 20 minutes," Matt Hall said. "Penalties killed us, but we played our hearts out."

"I thought everyone on the field gave everything they had, but we made some dumb mistakes. Sometimes we got a little out of position. I thought (Tatnall) played above and beyond what they normally play and they capitalized on our mistakes every single time."

"They did a great job, give them all the credit in the world. They played unbelievable."

Tom Hall, Matt's father, said Tatnall Coach Bryan McDermott deserves a lot of credit.

"They're extremely well-coached," Hall said.

"They've got solid stick skills; fundamentals are clear, they see guys down in the crease well, they move the ball through the air well, which is something that's learned

Glasgow students in auto skills finals

A team of two students from Glasgow High School in Newark combined detailed knowledge of high-tech automobile repair and fast-paced teamwork to win the Delaware finals of the Ford/AAA Student Auto Skills contest.

Dan Stephenson and Jonathan Guiney, now advance to the national finals on June 21 in Washington, D.C. The students earned spots in the Ford Motor's Co.'s ASSET (Automobile Student Service Educational Training) program, including scholarships to associate degree automotive technology programs. They also won a Ford vehicle for use by their school's automotive technology program. The team's instructor is James Oetinger.

Greg O'Neill and Dana Brinkley from Hodgson Vo Tech High School in Glasgow took second-place honors. Their instructor is Les Humphrey. Finishing fifth was the team from Delcastle Technical High School in Wilmington, Jesse Walton and Lee Price. Their instructor is Paul Davis. Doug Narvel and A.J. Rydzewski of Dickenson High School in Wilmington took sixth place honors. Their instructor is Stanley Wolski.

The state title was determined by the combination of a written exam and the teams' performance in a hands-on competition to quickly and accurately repair a deliberately disabled Ford vehicle.

Stephenson and Guiney successfully completed the hands-on portion of the competition in just under 19 minutes, a state competition record.

"Dan and Jonathan are outstanding representatives of the next generation of auto service technicians," said Joe DeFrancesco, contest coordinator for AAA Mid-Atlantic. "They have high-tech skills and understand the importance of old-fashion hard work and dedication."

The student Auto Skills contest, held annually since 1949, calls attention to the need for automotive technicians to develop the high-tech skills required to service increasingly advanced automobiles. Currently, more than 85 percent of the functions on a new vehicle are computer-controlled and cars are becoming more complex with each passing year.

The Delaware contest, held on May 14 at Dover Downs, was one of 50 state competitions being held in May.

NEWARK POST ♦ OBITUARIES

► OBITUARIES, from 27

Mrs. Hinkle, 85, was the head bookkeeper at the former Newark A&P grocery store, retiring after 40 years. She had been a member of Newark United Methodist Church since 1954 and was a Charter and Lifetime Member of Aetna Hose Hook and Ladder Fire Co. Ladies Auxiliary.

Mrs. Hinkle's husband, Floyd Hinkle Jr., died in 1989. She is survived by her children, George D. Hinkle of Brevard, N.C. and Rosemary H. Greenwood of Newark; sisters Nona Adkins of Princeton, W.Va., and Audrey Rose of Smyrna, Ga.; six grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

A service was held May 15 at Spicer-Mullikin Funeral Home. Interment was in Gracelawn Memorial Park.

Rosalie Tawgin, bookkeeper

Newark resident Rosalie Tawgin died Wednesday, May 12, 1999, at Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Tawgin, 60, was a bookkeeper for Pearsons in Long Island, N.Y.

She is survived by her husband, Richard S. Tawgin of Newark; sons, Mark Gold of Culver City, Calif. and Eric Gold of S. Windson, Conn.; brother, Jerry Heimowitz of Long Island, N.Y.; sister, Edith Heilan of Huntington Beach, Calif.; four grandchildren.

A service was held May 14 in Wellwood Cemetery, Pinelawn, Long Island, N.Y.

In her memory, the family suggests contributions to American Cancer Society.

George W. Creighton Jr., NVF plant mgr.

Newark resident George W. Creighton Jr. died Saturday, May 15, 1999, at Christiana Hospital.

Mr. Creighton, 74, was a winter resident of Naples, Fla.

He was a US Army veteran of WWII, serving in Europe. He was a chemist and plant manager for NVF Company in Newark for many years, retiring in 1989. A member of First Presbyterian Church of Newark where he served as an elder and deacon. An avid golfer, Mr. Creighton was a member of Newark County Club.

He is survived by his wife of 52 years, Irene (Hinman) Creighton; daughter Kristine C. Bloom of Columbia, Md.; son, George W. Creighton III, of Boise, Idaho; brother, John B. Creighton, Sr. of Philadelphia, and five grandchildren.

A service was held Wednesday, May 19 at First Presbyterian Church of Newark. Interment was private.
