NEWARK POST, NEWARK, DEL., SEPTEMBER 8, 1920

NUMBER 30

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPEN

LARGEST ENROLLMENT IN HISTORY

STRONG FACULTY IN CHARGE

Local schools opened yesterday with a total enrollment of 552 which is the largest in the history of the schools. This number will no doubt be increased to some extent by the end of the week but very few more can be admitted owing to the crowded conditions. The primary and high schools are especially crowded to capacity.

J. H. Owens, the new superintendent who succeeds Phineas Morris, resigned, spent a busy day meeting his teachers and getting the work for the year organized. Mr. Owens was principal of the Havre de Grace, Md., high school and comes to Newark highly recommended.

The crowded conditions on the opening day is another illustration of the urgent need of a modern school where all children who desire to attend can be properly cared for. The County Board of Education recently requested the local board to take in about 85 pupils from several outlying districts, but the request had to be refused because of lack of both room and equipment. Mr. Owens says that an effort will be made to take care of all pupils who were in the schools from the rural sections last year but that because of conditions it will be impossible to take in many more. There is already a waiting list of rural children who would like to enter.

Of the total of 552 enrolled yesterday 118 are in the high school, 214 in the grammar school and 220 in the primary grades. There are 42 in this year's freshman class in the high school; 41 in the second year class; 21 juniors and 17 seniors. The enrollment in the primary school includes 43 beginners.

The faculty is apparently a strong one, being made up as follows: High School—Vice-principal Mrs. Mary C. Houston, instructor in English; Miss Anna E. Galloway, history; Miss Helen E. Miliken, Latin and Greek; Miss Madeline Baby, eighth grade and demonstration teacher; Miss Charlotte M. Smith, home economics, and Harry M. Donald, agriculture and athletics.

The new teachers in the high school are Misses Miliken, Penny packer and Smith, and Mr. Donald. Grammar School teachers—Miss Madeline Baby, eighth grade and demonstration teacher; Miss Charlotte M. Smith, seventh grade; Miss Madeline Baby, seventh and eighth mixed grade; Miss Mary E. Conner, sixth grade; Miss Mary E. Conner, ungraded class; Miss Mary E. Conner, fifth grade and demonstration teacher; Miss Olive Heiser, fourth grade. The new teachers in this school are Misses Nekerson, Conner and Heiser.

Primary School teachers—Miss Harriet Wilson, third grade; Miss Verna Brown, third and fourth grades in primary building; Miss Kathryn Heiser, second grade; Miss Pauline Rutledge, critic teacher; Miss Sarah Brown, first grade; Miss Rutledge and Miss Brown are new teachers this year for Newark.

On the opening day there was only one session of school. Starting today there will be the usual two sessions but it will take all week to get the work entirely organized.

Maryland Has Extra Session

Governor Ritchie has sent out a call for a special session of the Legislature for September 20. The call is necessitated, the Governor announces, in order to provide further needed facilities for registering the women voters. It seems to be generally conceded that the present registration days and officials (provided by law) could not care for the great number of additional names. Hence the call of the Legislature to meet the necessary legislation.

O'Daniel Post Holds Interesting Meeting

The Lieut. J. Allison O'Daniel Post, No. 475, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held a meeting last night with a very large attendance at their room at Center Hall.

A special invitation was extended to all veterans of the G. A. R. so as to place their names upon the honorary membership roll.

Mr. Upton, Counselor for the Service Men of Delaware College, made a stirring address in which he outlined a few things that the organization could do during the next few months.

There were fifteen members to join the Post, among them being Thomas Mullin, a G. A. R. veteran, whose name was placed on the honorary roll.

Among the many things intended for the next few months will be minstrel shows, socials and dancing, the dances to be held every week with an instructor in attendance.

Through the kindness of the Minnehaha Band music was furnished which will also furnish the music for all occasions connected with this organization.

It is earnestly requested that relatives of the late Comrade Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel communicate with the officers of this Post as they would like to get acquainted.

In conclusion, as the Post would like to have all G. A. R. veterans on their honorary membership roll they would like to hear from any of them in case they are unable to be present, so they could make proper arrangements to place their names on the roll.

Big Game at Elkton

A special train of seven coaches has chartered to bring 500 baseball fans from Chester to Elkton on Saturday afternoon to witness the game between the Scott Paper Co. nine and the Elkton team. The game will begin at 3.15.

ROUNDS SELLS FARM

Arthur Rounds, Delaware's Tomato King, has sold his farm near Welsh Tract to Alfred Harvey Davis. Mr. Davis will take possession sometime during the late fall. Mr. Rounds has purchased a place just outside of Camden, Kent county.

Rounds has attracted considerable attention these last few years in growing tomatoes. By some trick in seed selection, manuring, cultivation or other agricultural slight of hand, he has succeeded in the popular yield of 10 tons plus to the acre. This year, he has two acres that will test a few pounds around 15 tons per acre.

Rounds' tomato seed and explanation were last winter Farm Institute topics. And judging from his increased yield this year, he's in for it again.

A CARD FROM GREECE

Manuel Panaretos of the Newark Kandy Kitchen, sent the Post an interesting card from Piraeus, Greece, this week—wishing everybody well. This fine fellow was a good citizen and Newark can well look forward to his return.

Missionary Society Begins Work

The Auxiliary of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Newark M. E. Church will begin the fall work by a meeting at Mrs. Norris Worrall's on Choate Street, on Friday, September 10th, at 2.30 p. m.

Interesting Exhibit

Albert G. Averson, better known as "Bert," who sometime ago made a model of the Continental Fibre Co., has completed an aeroplane known as a "Curtis Military Tractor," which is on exhibition in the window of the Newark Inn.

Coach "Mack" Off for Drexel

William J. McAvoy, former coach at Delaware College, who has been spending the summer near Newark, will take up his duties in a short time at Drexel Institute, where he has been appointed athletic director. This fall Mr. McAvoy will put the first football team that has ever represented Drexel in the field and his many Newark friends wish him success.

DEDICATE 3 NEW RURAL COLORED SCHOOLS

Dedicate Three New Rural Colored Schools

Ceremonies attendant upon the dedication of the three new schools built for Negro children from the $500,000 fund given by P. S. duPont especially for education of the Negro people of the State were held yesterday afternoon at Christiana, Hockessin and Marshallton. These schools are models of architectural arrangement and equipment and form object lessons of what can be accomplished in the way of educational advancement along modern scientific lines.

The dedication party journeyed from school to school in motor cars and held brief exercises at each. Among those in the party were Mr. duPont, who, besides being the donor of the buildings, is also vice-president of the State Board of Education; George B. Miller, president of the State Board; A. R. Spaid, State Commissioner of Education; Mrs. William K. duPont, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Scott, Dr. Joseph H. Odell, director of the Service Citizens and of the Delaware School Auxiliary; George L. Medill, president of the New Castle County Board of Education; Wilbur H. Jump, county superintendent; Dr. J. C. Jason, president of the State College for Colored Students, near Dover, and Dr. Conwell Banton, of the Wilmington Board of Education.

The party was met at the various schools by parents, teachers and pupils residing in the neighborhood so that there were more than 100 persons present at each different dedication ceremony. Mr. duPont made brief addresses at Christiana, Hockessin and Marshallton. Mrs. William K. duPont presented the deeds for the buildings in behalf of the Delaware School Auxiliary, and they were formerly received on behalf of the county by Mr. Medill, president of the county board.

At Christiana, Mr. Miller and Mr. Scott made a brief address as did also C. M. Smith, secretary of the Negro Civic League. At Marshallton, Dr. Banton spoke and at Hockessin, Dr. Jason spoke briefly.

Former Newark Teacher Dies

Reuben F. Friedel, for several years principal of the local public schools, died at his home near Viola, Kent county, early this week. Mr. Friedel after serving for a number of years as head of the Newark schools left here four years ago to manage a farm near Viola that he owned. His health failed him soon after leaving Newark and for about two years he has been seriously ill and most of the time confined to his bed. He is survived by his wife and several children. The funeral will be held from his late residence, Viola, at 1.30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and interment made in Odd Fellows Cemetery, that town.

Century Club Carnival

Members of the New Century Club are making elaborate plans for the carnival to be held at the clubhouse on Delaware Avenue September 25th to October 2nd, inclusive. Several special features are being provided for. There will be dancing each evening on the main floor in charge of Mrs. Annie Armstrong. The bazaar will be held in the basement but there will be several booths on the main floor. The various committees are now hard at work with plans for the booths, etc. One special feature on the opening evening, September 25, will be a supper to be served in the basement under the direction of Mrs. James A. McKelvey.

Local Democrats Meet

Democrats of White Clay Creek Hundred held a meeting last night at the home of Mayor Eben B. Frazer when the matter of naming a hundred campaign committee on which women will be named at a later date. Other details relative to the campaign were discussed.

UNUSUAL INTEREST IN REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES

Official List Not Yet Announced

More than usual interest is centered in the Republican primaries to be held next Saturday owing to the large number of contests. Several contestants who filed their names have since withdrawn, but the official list of candidates has not yet been announced by the County Committee. There are said to be about twenty contests including both the county and legislative tickets, but some of these may be eliminated by withdrawals before Saturday.

There is a contest for Representative in the Legislature from White Clay Creek Hundred between William D. Dean, the present incumbent, and Charles L. Medill. There is also a contest for the Levy Court in the Fifth district between Thomas R. Claringbold, of Newark, and George L. Batten of Red Lion Hundred. In the Sixth senatorial district there is also a contest between Representative William C. Brooks and William H. Evans, both of Pender Hundred.

Among the candidates who are said to have filed for the different offices are the following:

For Clerk of the Peace, John L. Wright.
For County Comptroller, Edwin C. Clark, James G. Shaw, Harry W. Weninger.

For Prothonotary, Irvin L. Ball and Harvey Hoeffcker.
For Receiver of Taxes and County Treasurer, Walter S. Burris and Thomas S. Fouracre.

For Clerk of the Orphans' Court and Register in Chancery, Norman P. Crouch.

For Sheriff, Joseph H. Gould, Reuben Hall, S. A. McDaniel, John T. Spring, and Elmer G. Thomas.

For Coroner, Isaac S. Bullock, William J. Cathcart and John Levey.

State Senators, Second district, William J. Lutz; Fourth district, Merritt Burke, Irvin H. Eastburn, Lewis B. Guest, John M. Walker and Henry C. White; Sixth district, William C. Brooks and William H. Evans.

Representatives, First district—Nicholas Gross and Harry H. Matr.

Second—Andrew J. Cross, Edwin R. Logan, W. Henri Pipes and David M. Salter.

Third—Henry C. Downward, Henry Wilson and Clarence M. Wright.

Fourth—William G. Galiema and William E. Virden.

Sixth—Wm. H. Danzenbaker, Frank C. Miller, Charles Simon, Jr., and William C. Van Trump.

Seventh—Lewis S. Cloud, William Lord and John J. Shoemaker.

Eighth—Richard G. Buckingham, Charles P. Dickey and Aaron F. Blair.

Ninth—William D. Dean and Chas. L. Medill.

Tenth—Sam S. Harris, Joseph H. King and Edward S. Megginson.

Eleventh—Henry C. Milliken.

Twelfth—William B. Jester and Edward Lester.

Thirteenth—Alexander P. Corbit.

Fourteenth—Jacob V. Hill, Benjamin G. Lockerman and J. C. Hutcheson.

Levy Court, First district—Charles E. Anderson, Howard M. Ward, Frank B. Jones, Walter Rash, John C. Kersey and Charles H. Burns.

Third—James Ball and Everett B. Hollingsworth.

Fifth—George L. Batten and Thos. R. Claringbold.

Seventh—William C. Mooney.

Guild Meeting Postponed
Owing to the stormy night the regular meeting of the Vestry and the Guild of St. Thomas' P. E. Church, was postponed until Monday evening, September 13th.

Water Pipe Being Placed
Pipe for the new water main is being delivered and work is being pushed rapidly. It will probably be the first of the year before the plant will be in operation as delivery of manufacturers of the pumps could not be promised under six months. It is thought, however, that everything will be in readiness for their installation on arrival.

CARNIVAL RECEIPTS

BEAT RECORD

MOST POPULAR EVENT OF THE COUNTY PROVES A FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Following the slogan adopted years ago, the Firemen's Carnival makes its report this year with the largest receipts of its history. Fire Chief Wilson, originator of the idea, is still in command. He by his energy and the firemen and citizens by their cooperation have made the Newark Carnival almost a state event.

The receipts from the various booths and events are tabulated below, amounting to $15,063.89. The expenses total $6,197.93, leaving a net profit of $8,865.96, the largest amount yet received, being about $2,000 above last year.

Jeannette Eckman Accepts Position on State Committee

The political event of the week was the announcement of Charles Warner, chairman of Republican State Committee of the appointment of Miss Jeannette Eckman, of Wilmington, as Assistant Secretary of the State Committee. This action, by authority of the Committee was taken, to take care of additional work incident to the passage of Woman's Suffrage Amendment. Miss Eckman's appointment is meeting with general approval. Her work for the past several years has been with civic affairs in city and estate. She was one of the originals of the Public Service Board and its executive secretary until it was taken over by the Service Citizens. During the war she was Secretary of the Women's Committee of the State Defense Council, as well as Secretary of the Health Committee of that organization. At the close of the war she was chosen Assistant Secretary of the Delaware State Program and has had practically entire charge of this work for the Five State Commissions.

In legislation pertaining to Health, Education, Charities, she has been an effective leader. She has probably a wider acquaintance with Delaware men and women than any woman in the State—all of which makes her especially qualified for her new position. She is a practical idealist and knows the game of politics. In her new position, she will be subject to call from the various women's organizations and communities, interested in the registration of the women voters.

Her resignation from the State Program has been accepted and she will begin her new work at once.

September

Neath the harvest moon the stricken Summer lies Still smiling bravely in her brightest bloom,
Her heart yet holds no hint of gloom,
No trace of sadness in her sunlit eyes.
We love thee, Summer child of Paradise—
A myriad host announce thy coming doom, Chanting the requiem of thy wintry tomb.

With lovingly look down the tender skies,
A holy hush is in the hazy air,
As in thy radiant beauty thou dost sleep!
Nature, arrayed in rainbow colors fair,
Is strong of heart her vigil long to keep:
We know the secret thou dost seek to tell—
Thou art immortal, Summer, fare thee well.

BANK OF ENGLAND FOUND ERROR BY TELEGRAPH

In the days when the electric telegraph was a new idea, and consequently a mystery to the masses, there was trouble one evening in the Bank of England. The business for the day had closed and the balance was not correct, there being a deficit of a hundred pounds sterling. It was not the money but the error that must be found, and for the officers and clerks there could be no sleep until the mystery was cleared. Throughout the night and all the next day a force of men was busy. The money was surely gone from the vaults, but no one could discover how.

The following morning a clerk suggested that the error might have occurred in packing for shipment to the West Indies some boxes of specie that had been sent to Southampton to be placed on the vessel Mercator. The clerk's suggestion was acted upon. Here was an opportunity to test the powers of the telegraph—lightning versus steam, with steam having forty eight hours' start. Very soon the telegraph asked a man in Southampton: "Has Mercator sailed?"

"Just weighing in," came the reply.

"Stop her in the Queen's name," flashed back the telegraph. "She is stopped," was the response.

"Have on deck certain boxes (marks given); weigh them carefully and telegraph result," was the next message from the bank.

These instructions were obeyed and one box was found to be something like a pound ten ounces heavier than the others—just the weight of the missing sovereigns.

"All right. Let the ship go," was the last message. The West India house was debited with the hundred pounds and the Bank of England relapsed into its customary routine.

ENGLISH PURE AND UNDEFINED

She was apparently a lady of refinement. She had all the hallmarks of the elect. Her clothing was faultless and there was a look of keen intellectuality in her face. With her was a beautiful little boy—not exactly a Little Lord Fauntleroy, but a little chap with big eyes and a wealth of tousled hair.

I noticed them, the lady for her dignified bearing and the boy for his bright face, as I sat down just in front of them in the suburban train. Pretty soon I heard the little boy say, evidently referring to me:

"Ain't that a funny hat that man has got on? Ain't it an old hat, Mom?"

No reply.

"Ain't he a funny looking man, Mom, ain't it?" (He happened to be looking at me.)

No reply.

"Ain't is funny when a man has got a boil on the back of his neck, Mom, ain't it?" (We happened to have one that morning.)

No reply.

"Ain't there nothing to do about boils on the back of the neck, Mom, ain't there?"

"Shut up!" came the voice of the lady. "If you use that word 'ain't' again I am going to soak you on the bugle, no wtake it from me. How often have I got to tell you not to use that word 'ain't.'"

SCIENCE BAFLED BY SCENTS

Some time ago there was held in England a "Wonders of Science Exhibition" which served to reveal many marvels to the public unfamiliar with the work done with the microscope, the microphone and the micrograph.

The microphone magnifies sound as the microscope does things seen. The micrograph is the instrument used by the scientist in taking pictures of things shown by the microscope. More people are familiar, to some extent, with the microscope than with the microphone. They know it is possible to make objects entirely outside of the range of natural human vision visible by the use of the telescope for great distances and by the microscope for minute things close by; but few have any knowledge of the device by which it is possible to hear a fly walk or a caterpillar crawl.

Many other wonders of science were shown at Sturton, but neither there nor anywhere else has science demonstrated its ability to help the sense of smell. It can do marvel for sight, hearing and touch, but not for the humble and useful nose. In that field the accomplishments of science have been nil.

Let a man stand two miles, say, to the windward of the point where a herd of caribou will cross an open plain over which a fresh breeze is sweeping and it must be apparent that only an infinitely minute particle of whatever matter may be given off from his body or clothing can possibly reach the nostrils of any one deer in the herd. Yet, if the man is completely screened from sight by a rise in the surface of the ground the caribou will nevertheless catch the taint in the air. They would be warned of the presence of a wolf in the same way.

Yet science is utterly unable to detect anything which the olfactory nerve of the deer senses and identifies. It cannot see with a microscope anything in the air which came from the man. It cannot find any such substance with a chemical test of any kind. Instead of aiding the sense of smell, it is entirely incapable of match ing it. Here is another realm for science to invade and subdue; but would the conquest be altogether desirable? It is a question whether the average man needs to smell more things or sense more acutely the things he smells already. It is thought that the gains would not offset the losses under the prevailing conditions of life.

THE women should certainly be thankful for the automobile. It has given them a chance to see a lot more of their husbands.

II

But it has done a great deal more than that.

It has brought people closer together, given them new interests, swept away old prejudices.

What affects one man now generally affects a good many of his neighbors in the same way. And they have a better chance to get together and talk things over.

III

It's had its effect on the tire business.

When automobiles were new people were willing to buy any kind of a tire. Now they're beginning to insist on knowing what they are getting.

And the more they insist, the better it will be for us.

IV

We want our customers to know what they are getting.

That's why we represent U. S. Tires—so there will be no doubt about it.

Whatever the size of your car, you know that the U. S. Tire you put on it is the best kind of tire its makers know how to make.

U. S. Tires are guaranteed for life, without any limitation of mileage.

That ought to mean something to the man who has thought about tires.

How Much Is Your Party Worth To You?

Do you belong to church? If so, you help support it financially by contributing your share.

Are you a member of a lodge? If so, you pay dues. You don't expect two or three or half a dozen rich men to put up all the money.

Do you belong to a city club of a farmers' bureau? If so, you pay your proportion of the expenses.

As a self-respecting, independent citizen you do your share in whatever organization you are a member. You don't expect and you wouldn't want to belong to organizations supported wholly by rich men while you enjoyed the benefits through the charity of those who paid the bills.

Why should you make an exception of your political party? If it is a party worthy of your support, it is worth something to you. If you believe in it, you should be willing to back up your belief with your money. If you think it is the party which should be in power, you should be willing to contribute your share of the expenses necessary to make a winning fight.

Legitimate Expenses of Political Campaign Are Heavy

It takes money to run an honest political campaign, just as it took money to run a Liberty Loan or a Red Cross campaign. It takes everybody doing his bit and giving his share, rather than a very few people doing and giving it all, to make a political campaign a success, just as this was true with the Liberty Loan and Red Cross campaigns.

The necessary and legitimate expenses of a political campaign are heavy and varied.

One of the first and most necessary expenses is that incident to making a "block" or "poll" of the voters of the state. To prevent fraud in the form of "repeaters" and other illegal voters, it is absolutely necessary that the party know the names and residence of all voters in the state, how long they have lived in the state and in their present election districts. It takes money to make this political census.

It takes money to maintain state and county headquarters. There are the office expenses of rent, light, telephones, etc. Furniture and typewriters must be rented or purchased. Stenographers and clerical help must be employed and paid. Stationery and stamps must be purchased. There are approximately 50,000 Republican voters in Delaware (counting the women voters). To send each of these Republicans only one letter during the campaign would cost $1,000 in stamps alone; in addition there would be the cost of stationery, the envelopes, the payroll of the stenographers who wrote the letters, folded, enclosed, sealed and mailed them.

In this connection, it should be stated that no official connected with the state and county headquarters or committees receive any salary or compensation. Although they are men who have private business to conduct and their living to make, the various chairmen, secretaries, treasurers and other officials of the state and county committees are serving the party absolutely without pay. The only payroll in connection with these headquarters is that of the clerical and stenographic forces.

It Costs Money to Keep Public Posted on Campaign Issues

Every citizen is entitled to know for what the Republican party and its candidates stand. The Republican party is particularly anxious that the fullest and freest publicity attend the campaign issues; that the people be given all the facts. To do this requires the printing and distribution of literature; the use of advertising in the newspapers; the holding of public meetings for which halls must be rented and music and speakers provided. The speakers donate their service, but their traveling expenses must be paid. To do all this requires a great amount of money.

Men must be obtained to act as poll book holders, challengers, watchers, etc. They cannot be asked to leave their work at the factory or at the desk or on the farm to work all day, and maybe into the night, at the polls unless they are paid a day's wages. Very frequently the result of the election depends upon which party has the best and most efficient organization for getting out the vote. This is a perfectly legitimate expense that must be met.

In short, to run a Republican campaign in Delaware means "blocking" and the organizing of 50,000 individuals, placing in their hands all possible information regarding the issues and the candidates, and seeing to it that on election day all legal and rightful Republican voters reach the polls, cast their ballots and have them honestly counted. This cannot be done without expense by a political party organization any more than it could be done for nothing by a business organization.

Old Methods of Raising Funds Out of Spirit With New Americanism

Formerly the bulk of money needed to finance political campaigns was raised by a comparatively few men. Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, recently made the public statement that in previous national campaigns 75 percent of the funds to finance the entire national fight were raised in New York City. This applied to both political parties. It was a practice which the present Republican National Committee thought should be abandoned.

The county and the people are entering upon a new era. The spirit of true democracy, where every citizen feels a personal interest and responsibility in his government, is abroad in America as the result of impulses which were quickened by the war. The long established method, customary in all political parties, of having a comparatively small number of men assume the financial burden of presidential and congressional campaigns, appealed to the Republican National Committee as being out of key with the spirit of the times, which call for a more active participation of each individual in the affairs of his government—and his party.

The plan to decentralize the financing of the Republican party was proposed at a special meeting of the Republican National Committee held in Chicago, January 1919. "Decentralized financing" is a new term in the dictionary of politics. It signifies financing by the many instead of by the few. It means instead of a few very rich men in a few commercial and industrial centers putting up the money to meet the necessary expenses of a campaign that every citizen—in village as well as the city, in farmhouse and factory as well as the bank and corporation office—will be given opportunity to give according to his means to the support of his party. It also means the elimination of any foundation for the charge, which was frequently made, that those who financed the campaigns placed the party candidates and leaders under undue and improper obligations to the monied interests.

Every American Citizen Wants to Hold Up His End of the Stick

In order to bring about the "decentralization" of campaign fund collections the Republican National Committee at its meeting in January 1919 unanimously adopted a resolution authorizing the National Chairman to appoint a Ways and Means Committee which should devise and organize a system of raising campaign funds that would make the financial support of the Republican party as broad and representative as its membership.

This Ways and Means Committee outlined a plan which created a general or national committee; a state committee for each state, in charge of a chairman and a woman vice-chairman; and authorized state committees to sub-divide the work in their states by the appointment of county or city committees, which would extend the work of raising funds into every town, village and school district.

The plan proved popular with the rank and file of the party, who welcome the opportunity to become an active, contributing member of the party—even though in a small way. Every Republican in Delaware who likes to hold up his end of the stick, fight his own battles, ask no man to pay his bills, assume his responsibilities or makes his party the object of charity, is urged to become an active, contributing member of the Republican party in Delaware.

The Republican party calls on all true Americans who wish to see their government at Washington returned to the people to lend a hand and do their bit.

The Primaries

Upon the selections made by the Republican Primaries, next Saturday, depend the success or failure of the ticket at the election. Every man qualified to vote should go to the polls and cast a thinking ballot. Never was this so critically true as this year. With the introduction of the women voter, the old theory of reward for party work will not suffice. For the county office, for the representative to the General Assembly, the new voter is going to ask very definitely: "Is he qualified for this particular position?" She has no political past, no party debts to pay, no work to reward and will vote accordingly. Let us not deceive ourselves that she will how to compromise and party whip. Especially will this be true on State and local candidates and those directing the campaign will do well to keep this in mind. Nominate the man who will make the sensible and business appeal—Representative of the Community and Qualified for the Job.

School Interest

Politics, Poland, McSweeney or McNabb, League of Nations or High Cost of Living, Woman's Suffrage or Women's Clubs, Lincoln Highway or Levy Court, Babe Ruth or Jack Dempsey, Cox or Harding, Wilson or Colonel House—nothing is so important this week as the opening of our Public Schools. Upon our interest and our energy in this Institution depend all the Institutions of our land. Spread Eagle as it may sound, America is founded on the Public School and upon it rests the future.

Exhibition horses, prize cattle at the State Fair, political men and parties, European wrangles, and the usual rush for greed and gain, competition of labor and capital, are topics of the moment's interest—yet none compare with the great problem of schools and teachers fittingly trained.

As was recently said, the Liberty Bell never pealed Independence and Liberty with the effectiveness of the Public School Bell heard today all over this land. The ideal proclaimed in '76 can be made a truth, only by our individual and cooperative attention to the schools. This applies concretely to every resident in this community—to Leading Citizens, so called and admitted, and to the rank and file—to all.

Newark's Public School should stand first in Delaware. It doesn't. The fault is ours and yours. The State, Newark, and our children suffer. In all the campaign for better things, let's remember our schools.

Why Delaware Women Will Register

Whether all the women of this State have desired suffrage or not, they all want to be good citizens. They do not wish to avoid responsibility, nor are they willing that their new privilege of citizenship should go unrecorded.

Registration is merely the recording of the right to vote. It is very simple—just the writing of the citizen's name (by the legal registrar) together with the length of residence in State, county and election district, and the statement that his or her age is twenty-one years or over.

But this simple act of registration has great significance. It protects by a legal record the right and privilege of the citizen to have a voice in determining how and by whom his local community, his state and section shall be governed. It prevents duplication of votes and keeps the ballot pure.

Only those who are registered may vote. Some of our newly enfranchised women citizens may feel that they have not had time to inform themselves on party principles and the men who represent these principles, but by the time election day comes, knowledge and events may combine to make every woman desire earnestly to cast a vote on the right side.

Therefore, every woman should register to insure herself the opportunity to vote. To be on record as a qualified voter in her election district, she should register on Saturday, the 18th of September, at the place of registration advertised in her district.

On this date Delaware will make the first official record of her woman voters. The record of state development to be written in the years that follow will make Delaware woman proud of her first act of responsible citizenship.

Common Sense

"America's present need is not heroes but healing; not nostrums but normality; not revolution but restoration; not agitation but adjustment; not experiment but equipolse. My best judgment of our needs is to steady down, get squarely on our feet, to make sure of ourselves."

This is Mr. Harding's benediction of Commonsense as expressed in a recent address. And it is seriously and vitally true.

The first thing our country needs is to sober up and get to work. The day of Dramatics is past for the time. We have had a beautiful dream and

It made us feel good. We really enjoyed our War sacrifices. They enabled us to work up quite a bit of patriotic piety. But, in peace, even a great nation can not get along by simply feeling good. Dreams about wealth without work and the ushering in of the millennium by legislation may serve to lighten the tedium of the voyage in the steerage and saloon, but unless the ship's officers and crew keep on their job—meanwhile, such dreams are apt to end in tragedy. Aubrey Eaton expresses well the trend of conditions:

We must shake off the hypnotic fascination of an imaginary abstract virtue which we do not possess and which we could not practice if we did possess it, and bring ourselves under the discipline of those simple homely virtues by which normal men work and live. We must take hold of our thorny problems with bare hands and, by practiced, honest, united effort, cleanse our minds of the delusions of an inhuman greatness.

MR. TENANT FARMER:

You dread to go in debt for a farm, yet if you and I could sit down and figure it out I believe that I could show you where you are in debt for a farm today which you will never own.

Why not pay for your farm as you go along so that in later years you and your family can enjoy the leisure and satisfaction, so well earned, that comes from owning your farm. Here is a description of two properties that are the right size for a man and his family and it is my honest opinion that both will increase in value in the next five years.

The first is a 158 acre farm near Glasgow, and adjoining the State Road. It has 115 acres of tillable land, the balance in woods and permanent pasture, with a young fruit orchard of 360 trees. The barn is 40x50 with a 25x16 offset, the granary, wagon shed, chicken house and other outbuildings are in good repair. The house is large and comfortable. The farm is well fenced with barbed wire, watered with a running stream and will carry thirty head of stock. It is one and one-half miles from R. R. and milk station, there is a school house across the road from the farm and the present owner will seed 45 acres of wheat this fall which is included in the price, $10,000, on favorable terms, and immediate possession given.

The second is a 74 acre farm six miles from Wilmington on the Lincoln Highway and only three-fourths of a mile from churches, school and electric line. The land is a good loam, slightly rolling, well drained and has a stream running down one side of the farm. The buildings are in good shape with the exception of the granary which needs some repairs. Price $10,000 and immediate possession given.

For the Homemaker's Eye

To Make Ground Glass Windows

To make the window opaque it may be done very cheaply by dissolving in a little hot water as much epsom salts as the water will hold, and painting over the window while the mixture is still hot. When it dries you will have a fair imitation of ground glass.

An Excellent Varnish Remover

An excellent varnish remover is made of one quart of sal soda to two quarts of water. While boiling hot, apply to the varnish of the floor, or whatever it may be, and let it remain an hour. Then wash with hot water and soap powder.

Selva of Curtains

Curtains made of serm, marquisette or cheese cloth frequently sag in the selva side after a few washings. To prevent this on new curtains turn the selva once over and sew it down so that it will not pull in laundering.

Sewing Lace on a Centerpiece

In order that the centerpiece may always lie smooth after it has been washed, roll the lace in a tight roll and dip the inner edge about half way up in water, being careful that the outer edge does not get wet. Allow it to dry while still rolled up and then sew the edge that has been wet to the linen.

To Avoid Burning of Fat

Put a cube of bread in with the fat. As this burns first, the odor of the burned bread will call the housewife's attention to it and she can lower the flame before the fat burns.

To Freshen Meat

Salt meat may be freshened so that it can hardly be distinguished from fresh meat in this way: Slice it and cover with warm water to which has been added one teaspoonful of baking soda. Let stand over night and in the morning drain, add fresh water and boil for ten minutes. Pour off liquid, add a teaspoonful of brown sugar and tablespoonful of butter and fry. It will fry quickly to a beautiful brown.

An Improved Coffee Grinder

Use the smallest disk of your meat grinder for your coffee if you have no regular grinder.

Use Feet of Fowls

Never throw away the feet of a fowl, as they are excellent for making soups, broths and jellies. You can buy extra feet from the butcher. Dip them in boiling water for a few seconds and they may be readily skinned. Boil with the chicken until they fall to pieces. A good broth may be made of about a dozen chicken feet. Put into a kettle, cover with about three pints of cold water, add salt and one onion and simmer for two hours; then strain.

To Mend Granite Pans

Granite pots and pans may be mended by scraping a hollow in a piece of laundry soap a little larger than the hole in the utensil. Hold the dish firmly over the hollow and pour a small amount of melted babbitt metal in the hole and let it harden. This will answer in place of rivets, and if the hole is high up on the dish the latter may be used to cook in.

Dainty Finish for Chiffon Edge

Instead of hemming it (a tedious job and one hard to do neatly), fold the edge over once, take three small running stitches and then make a button hole stitch; continue along the edge, alternating the three running with one button hole stitch and you will have a dainty scalloped edge.

Skillful Garnishing Makes Attractive Dishes

Skillful garnishing can make even a plain dish attractive, and what appeals to the eye will appeal also to the appetite. It takes such a little extra time to decorate the meat platter, or the vegetable tureen, or the pudding dish that the splendid result will more than make up for it.

For fish steaks, such as halibut, salmon or cod, lemon slices cut very thin are the simplest garnishing. Parsley may be added, or used instead of lemon. Or the steak may be served covered with a cream sauce, in which case one or two olives, sliced and sprinkled over the top, will be better than lemon.

Meat may be garnished with parsley. A very effective way to serve chops is to put them on a big platter and arrange the potatoes and other vegetables around the edge or at either end. Mashed potatoes, if served with lamb chops, might be piled into a hill in the center of the platter, with the chops laid around the potatoes, standing upright. Little paper frills can be twisted from crepe paper and stuck on the narrow edge of each chop. This makes a particularly dainty looking dish for a company dinner.

Spinach and other greens, or even string beans, will have an added attractiveness if a hard-boiled egg is cut up and dropped on top after the vegetable is in its tureen. A plain dish of boiled rice, too, will look very tasty if just a little tomato sauce—a tablespoonful will do—is warmed up and put on top of it, with a small piece of grated cheese added on top of the tomato.

Strips of bacon, although not an economical garnishing, are a most effective one. They will decorate well a dish of fried potatoes, macaroni, corn pudding or hominy.

Care of the Clothing

If dresses, waists and other outer garments are carefully placed on hangers as they are being aired, many wrinkles will disappear. Sponging the pressing will in many cases freshen cotton and woolen fabrics, but frequent pressing of partly boiled white washable garments will tend to yellow them and colored ones may be permanently discolored in this way. Sponging with thin starch or gum arabic water will make some fabrics look like new. Success lies in having the garments evenly dampened so that no water-rings are formed or an uneven stiffness produced.

Cotton and linen suits can be pressed and laundered at home. Dust can generally be shaken from them. This makes them look more like new and prevents shine on seams and marks of the iron.

Embroidered garments should be pressed face down on an old bath towel or thick soft pad.

When Removing Spots

with gasoline, add a little salt to the gasoline and it will not leave a ring.

Lime-water For Indigestion.

Put as much lime as you can hold in one hand in one gallon of water. The sediment settles pour off the clear liquid from time to time as required. A tablespoonful of this solution in a glass of milk will not affect the taste and makes it more digestible.

MICROPHONE DETECTIVE

The microphone is applied to the detection of fire in damp mines. This is its principle: If sound waves from two pipes of equal pitch impinge on microphones connected in series with a telephone, a clear note is heard, but if one of the pipes emits a slightly different note, beats will be heard in the telephone. Here is the application. One pipe is placed in the mine, the other above the ground and they are blown simultaneously. If the air in the mine is charged with fire damp, it will produce a different note from that produced by clear air, owing to the difference of density, and in consequence, a series of beats in the telephone gives warning of the presence of fire damp. The same apparatus is very sensitive to the presence of coal gas.

DELAWARE COLLEGE

AT STATE FAIR
 The Delaware College Building at the Delaware State Fair, which attracted more than 50,000 visitors last year, will be brimming full of instructive exhibits for men, women and children this year, for city people as well as farmers.

The exhibits this year will be furnished by the following departments and organizations: New Castle, Kent and Sussex County

 Farm Bureaus; Delaware College
 Horticultural and Agronomy Departments; Boys' and Girls' Vocational Schools; Delaware Holstein Friesian Association, and the United States Dairy Division.

This building which was erected for the exclusive use of the College and which was first occupied last year, has already been outgrown. A temporary building 40x75 feet with awning roof has been erected for the exhibition of the boys' and girls' pigs in the Pig Club. The champion heifers of the Boys' and Girls' Dairy Calf Club will be shown in the main building as of last year.

Demonstrations of boys' and girls' club work by the boys and girls themselves will be given on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. A platform has been erected in the College building for these demonstrations and seats will be provided for the public who are interested.

The Dairy Cow's Pantry

An exhibit never before shown in Delaware is entitled "The Dairy Cow's Pantry." In this pantry 20x40 feet, is shown a cow and along with her the amount of milk she produces in a year. Here is shown also the boy, feed, bedding, fodder, etc., required to help this cow for a year and the man and horse labor required to take care of her. This exhibit is based on actual records kept in the Mid-deltown Cow Testing Association by the United States Department of Agriculture, Dairy Division, in charge of Ralph Hotis. The con-vining public is shown graphically what items enter into the cost of production.

AT CAMP

Paling of stars in the eastern sky.
 Stirring of birds in the trees.
 Uneasy movement where low mists lie,
 Wood-smoke scent on the breeze.

Glimpses of khaki in forest aisles.
 Flashes of brown in the vales.
 Chirp of a blackbird where water
 smiles,
 Padding of feet on the trails.

Drifting of fleecy clouds overhead.
 Dallying breezes that pass,
 Droning of bees in the clover bed,
 Drowsy sounds in the grass.

Laughter and shouts at the river's brink,
 Naked bodies that gleam, Poised for an instant, then plunged to drink,
 Delight in the clear, cool
 stream.

Lengthening shadows out of the west,
 Notes of a bugle shrill,
 Bacon diffusing alluring zest,
 Tumult down from the hill!

Horned owl bent on his mission dire,
 Winging in muffled flight,
 Red glowing coals of a dying fire,
 Burning a hole in the night.

RED CROSS EXHIBITS

AT STATE FAIR

Delaware Chapter of the American Red Cross has one of the most extensive exhibits at the State Fair at Elsmere ever displayed in this State. The exhibit is divided into three sections.

The First Aid tent and Rest Room free for the use of the public, are directed by nurses who will care for any one who may be taken ill at the Fair or be in need of first aid treatment. Doctors are in attendance to render whatever expert aid is needed by the patients.

In the Women's and Children's building there are three booths.
 One booth displays a layette outfit and there will be surgical dressings made and displayed such as are used at hospitals here and also knitted articles. The need of the children of Poland has given the Red Cross women workers an opportunity to show their patriotism for the needy in peace times as well as war. Another booth shows the work of the home nursing service and lectures on public health are given daily. The third booth is devoted to information service.

The third exhibit is under a large tent next to the Women's and Children's building where motion pictures and lectures on hygiene and health are delivered. The pictures are shown three times daily at 10 A. M., 2 P. M., and 6:45 P. M.

Everything is free, and the exhibits, lectures and motion pictures provide both interesting as well as educational entertainment for all who embrace this opportunity of seeing what the Red Cross does in peace times.

MY CREED

I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
 I would be pure, for there are those who care;

I would be strong, for there is much to suffer;
 I would be brave, for there is much to dare;

I would be friend to all—the foe,
 the friendless;
 I would be giving, and forget
 the gift;

I would be humble, for I know my weakness;
 I would look up—and laugh—
 and love—and live.

STAGE LETTER WRITING

"One thing that I never could understand," said a playgoer, "is the manner of writing and addressing letters on the stage. The hero's pen fairly flies across the page and when he comes to address the envelope one sweep of the pen from left to right suffices for that, though the address thus produced must be one that no post office clerk in the world could ever decipher.

"I suppose, of course, the purpose of this manner of letter writing is to give the air of action, despatch; to avoid any sense of lagging in the movement of the play; but would it not be more realistic and striking if it were done with a sufficient measure of precision to make us feel that the letter and address could actually be read?"

Why the Republican Party looks with Confidence for Support of the Woman Voter

The enfranchisement of.....women in Delaware in the midst of a great national and state campaign suddenly imposes a very serious duty upon both the women who are standing at the threshold of participation in their first election and upon the political parties that are asking the endorsement and votes of the new women citizens.

Women have asked for the ballot not only as their right as individuals whose lives, homes and families are vitally affected by the practices of federal, state and local governments, but they have asked for the ballot upon the ground and in the belief that they could and would bring to the administration of public affairs the strength of high ideals and the purification of unselfish devotion to the common good. Certainly there never has been a time in the history of American politics—since the Civil War period—when these qualities were more needed in public affairs. It is not only opportune but Providential that at such a time womanhood has been translated into terms of the ballot and made a very concrete and determining force in our national and state affairs.

American government, by reason of its Constitution and its underlying principles, is a government of parties. Party organizations are the medium through which the sovereign citizens of the United States act; they are the medium of representative government. It is group action rather than "flocking by one's self" that determines the policies and practices of our government. It is essential, then, that the newly enfranchised woman voter align herself with one of the great parties of the country, if she is to make her influence count.

Republican Party Asks Support Because of Record of Things Done

The Republican party asks the support of the women voters. It asks this support not upon a long list of promises yet to be fulfilled, but upon the strength of a long record of achievements of justice, quality and upliftment in the social and industrial world. The record which the Republican party presents for the favorable consideration of the women voters is not the product of a few brief months or years. It is not an accidental record, due to one administration. It is not the record of a few ambitious men who seek to attract attention and dazzle the beholders by a brilliant flare; it is the record of decades of performance by men who sought to furnish a steady light that would serve as a beacon leading the masses of people to higher ground and easier and safer paths in the performance of their daily routine and the living of their lives.

The record which the Republican party submits to the women voters is the long, consistent record of a party whose first achievements were the prevention of the dissolution of these United States and the emancipation of a race of bondmen. It is the record of a party that has wrought tirelessly and constructively for half a century to place this nation at the head of all the nations of the world not only in a material way, but as the shining exemplar of a great popular government, whose people ruled, where the rights of the humblest were respected and the welfare of the poorest was sought; a nation which sought no quarrel with any other nation, whose honor was unquestioned, whose friendship was eagerly sought and whose flag was respected to the uttermost corners of the earth; a nation to whose shores the oppressed and persecuted of all lands looked for sanctuary and assistance, freedom and opportunity.

Republican Party Appeals to All Red-Blooded Up-Standing Americans

Patriotism, nationalism and Americanism have been watchwords of the Republican party through all these years of constructive effort at home and untarnished honor and commanding respect abroad. No Republican administration ever thought the American flag was not broad enough to symbolize the rights of humanity or sought to substitute for it some international insignia. No Republican administration ever permitted the American flag to stand for a symbol of autocracy at home or tyranny abroad. On the other hand, no Republican administration ever permitted the American flag or any American who lawfully claimed protection of that flag to be flouted or maltreated by any other nation—however powerful or however irresponsible. Republican administrations were not so much concerned about making the world safe for democracy as they were to make the world safe for Americans by making the name and the flag of this nation stand for honor, justice and integrity in international dealings. No Republican administration ever permitted American citizens who had committed no offense to be held as hostages in prisons by foreign nations and dickered like a street peddler for their release while the incumbent of the White House sweetly protested the beauties of internationalism.

The Republican party confidently asks the support of all red-blooded, upstanding, patriotic American women.

Turning to the administration of domestic affairs, the Republican party makes an appeal for the support of the women by a notable record of achievements in those things which make for a better, happier, healthier, more prosperous people.

Nearly half a century ago the Republican party enacted the Homestead law which gave rural homes to tens of thousands of families who met the qualifications of the law. No other one piece of federal legislation ever did so much for the agricultural interests of the country. The Country Life Commission created and functioning under President Roosevelt raised the standard of farm life throughout the nation and furnished the inspiration and the ideas for every piece of legislation which has since been enacted for the betterment of rural conditions and the promotion of agriculture.

When a mail carrier delivers a letter at your city door, or leaves your mail in the R. F. D.

box, or drops a package at your place of business from the Parcel Post wagon or the clerk at the postoffice accepts your Postal Savings and pays you interest on them—whenever any of these things, which have become commonplace to you, are done, remember they are things which the Republican party thought out, enacted into law and put in operation.

Republican Party Has Looked After Welfare and Health of American Household

Do you feel secure from adulterated or contaminated food and drugs? It is because the Republican party proposed, enacted and put into execution the pure food and pure drugs act! When you buy meat or meat products do you see the stamp of the federal inspector on it certifying that it has been inspected and passed as free of all disease? That stamp is placed there by virtue of the federal meat inspection law, proposed, enacted and put into execution by a Republican administration. Do you have faith when you read the labels on canned, bottled or package goods that the goods are as represented on the label both as to quality and contents? That is because of the Honest Label Law enacted by a Republican administration.

The Republican party makes an appeal for the support of the women voters upon its record of having thus looked after the interests of the household, of having protected the health and promoted the comfort of the family circle. Are you a working woman? In order that the 12,600,000 women engaged in industry may have their interests continually looked after and their physical welfare zealously guarded, the Republican party in the Congress just recently adjourned proposed and enacted a law providing for the maintenance of a permanent Woman's Bureau in the Department of Labor. So far-reaching is this provision in its possibilities for promoting and safeguarding the interests of all women engaged in industry that the Democratic party already is trying to steal the credit for it. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, in his speech notifying Governor Cox of the Democratic nomination, endeavored to claim credit for this law because it was enacted during the incumbency of a Democrat in the White House. The record is clear and unimpeachable. The bill to create this Woman's Bureau was introduced in the House by Representative Campbell, Republican, of Kansas. It was introduced in the Senate by Senator Kenyon, Republican, of Iowa. It was passed by the House and Senate, both of which are Republican.

Republican Party's Record One of Many Achievements for Women's Welfare

The Woman Bureau for the present year will expend $75,000. Its duties are to promote the welfare and protect the health and life of wage-earning women everywhere. Some of the details entrusted to this Bureau are: Seats in industrial establishments where women work so that they will not have to stand on their feet for hours at a stretch; rest rooms, drinking facilities with good water, proper ventilation and sanitation, separate toilets; guarding against dangerous machinery; proper fire protection and adequate escapes; in short the supervision and regulation of all the environment surrounding women at work.

This last act of the Republican Congress is only typical of the attitude of the Republican party.

Minimum wage for women engaged in industries is provided in nine Republican states and in only two Democratic states.

Mothers' Pensions are provided in 22 Republican states and in only 6 Democratic states. In four Republican states women workers are granted a legal leave of absence, without loss of wages, preferment or position, in case of disability by reason of childbirth; no Democratic state makes any such provision.

Women are not permitted to work in mines in 19 Republican states, but only 8 Democratic states have such a prohibition.

Twenty-seven Republican states have limited the number of hours per week women may work in a factory, but only 16 Democratic states have such a law.

Ten Republican states prohibit women from working at night in certain industries, but only two Democratic states have such a prohibition.

Let these facts speak for themselves. Upon this record the Republican party asks for the support of the women voters.

Republican Party Has Made America Safe for Children

The Republican party doesn't talk big about making the world safe for democracy. It has acted largely, however, in making America safe for children. The child cannot protect itself; therefore, it must be protected. This is Christianity, "for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." It is civilization, for the home and fireside are the corner-stones of civilization, and the child of today is the parent of tomorrow. It is democracy, for the children of today are the citizens of tomorrow who will be largely determined in their attitude toward government by the government's attitude of today toward them. It is good political economy, because the child of today is the man-power of industry tomorrow.

That is why no greater duty could be performed by our government than the safe guarding of the health, lives, limbs and morals of children. What is the record?

The Republican party was the pioneer in the campaign for enactment of a child labor law. The fight in Congress was lead by former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Republican, of Indiana, who fathered the bill to prevent child labor in industries. He was opposed bitterly by the solid southern Democracy, representing the mill interests, turpentine camps and other industries which fattened on child labor. The first child labor law was passed by reason of Republican support. In the House it was reported favorably out of committee by unanimous Republican backing, while a minority report was filed against it by Democrats. It passed the House with 98 percent of the Republicans voting for it. It was attacked in the federal courts Democratic mill owners in South Carolina and other southern states and declared unconstitutional upon a technicality they raised.

The second federal child labor law,—the one now in effect—was passed as an amendment to a revenue bill with no roll call in the House. In the Senate the Democrats fought its passage, and one third of their number—all from the South—voted against it, while every Republican in the Senate voted for it.

Republican Party's Record in State and Nation in Behalf of Child Welfare

The Republican party, during President Taft's administration, established the Children's Bureau as a division of our federal government. The Democrats bitterly opposed its creation. Again, later on, the Republicans in Congress saved the life of this Bureau by standing for appropriations adequate to keep it alive. In the second session of the 64th Congress (1915-16) the Democratic-controlled House Committee on Appropriations deliberately omitted appropriating money to the Children's Bureau for the purpose of investigating and preventing infant mortality. It remained for Representative Good, Republican, of Iowa, to wage a fight on the floor of the House for such an appropriation, which he proposed in the form of an amendment to the Committee's report. Of the 28 votes against the amendment, 27 were Democrats. The Republican contributed 100 percent of their voting strength in support of the amendment which saved the Children's Bureau. Again it should be stated that this record is not exceptional.

Twenty-seven Republican states have laws prohibiting children under certain age from working in certain industries; only 13 Democratic states prohibit it.

Fourteen Republican states prohibit children working in certain industries over 8 hours a day, but only five Democratic states have such provision.

Twenty-seven Republican states prohibit night work in industries by children; only 15 Democratic states make such provision.

It is upon this record of achievement in protection of children that the Republican party appeals with confidence for the support of the mother voters.

Republican Party Wherever in Power Is Staunch Supporter of Better Schools

The child and the school are intimately associated. A child's future is largely determined by his schooling. A state's literacy is an index to its school system, and school systems are for children. Think over the following figures:

Twenty-seven Republican states have compulsory school attendance during the entire school year; only seven Democratic states have such laws. Eight Republican states provide for evening and "continuation" schools; no Democratic states make such provision.

Among all the states, the least literacy is in the solid Republican state of Iowa. The greatest illiteracy is in the solid Democratic state of Louisiana.

Only six Democratic states have less than 12 percent illiteracy. Only two Republican states have illiteracy as high as 12 percent.

Sixty-four percent of the Republican states have less than 5 percent illiteracy. Sixty four percent of the Democratic states have more than 12 percent illiteracy.

The Republican party asks for the support of women voters upon its record as the friend of free education and the active supporter of the public school system which gives to the child of today his equipment and training for tomorrow's battle.

The Democratic party, through its literature, its newspapers and its speakers, is calling attention to the many things the Democratic national platform promises the women. These promises are the basis of the appeal the Democratic party makes for the support of the women voters. Therefore, it is well to analyze these promises.

In the first place, the platform does not pledge the Democratic party as a national organization or a Democratic congress or president to do a single thing or enact a single federal law in behalf of those reforms in which women are interested. All the platform does is to "urge co-operation with the States" for the accomplishment of certain reforms.

Insincerity of Democratic Platforms Proved by Records of Democratic States

The first of the reforms mentioned is the protection of child life. Referring back to the record given above, what chance is there for promotion of child protection reforms if it depends upon the cooperation of Democratic states?

The second reform mentioned is the prohibition of child labor. In view of the solid opposition of the southern states to all child labor legislation, what sort of cooperation may be expected from the block of 14 states which form the "solid South" and always constitute at least two thirds of the Democratic strength in Congress?

The third reform promised through "co-operation with the States" by the Democratic national platform is "adequate appropriations for the Children's Bureau and the Women's Bureau in the Department of Labor." The sincerity and value of this promise may be judged by recalling that the Democrats from the "solid South" bitterly opposed the creation of the Children's Bureau by the Republican Congress during President Taft's administration, and the Democratic House Appropriation Committee under President Wilson's administration deliberately refused to make any appropriation for this Bureau, and the Bureau was saved by the efforts of the Republicans on the floor of the House under the leadership of Representative Good, Republican, of Iowa.

The next reform promised through the medium of "co-operation with the several states" is the removal of illiteracy, increase in teachers' salaries and general improvement in the educational system. The percentages of illiteracy in Democratic and Republican states, as cited above, furnish the most conclusive answer to this promise. How much faith can be placed in a promise of better education and removal of illiteracy, when those Democratic states which must be depended upon to redeem the promise have the highest percentage of illiteracy of any state in the nation? If that is the attitude of the Democratic party, why, then, have not the solid Democratic states put the reforms in practice in their own commonwealths? How can Democratic states which bring up the tailend of the procession in literacy assume leadership over Republican states which have always stood at the head of the procession in educational matters?

"Solid South" Against All Reforms in Heart of National Democracy

The plain truth is that the "solid South" is against all these reforms. Their laws prove it. The conditions within their states prove it. The attitude of their representatives in Congress prove it. Yet the "solid South" is the heart of national Democracy. National Democracy cannot exist without the "solid South." Out of the 266 electoral votes necessary to elect a Democratic president, 157 of them come from the "solid South."

Whenever the Democratic party controls Congress, the Democrats from the "solid South" control every committee and furnish a majority of the Democratic votes in both Senate and House. How, then, can the promises made in the Democratic national platform be relied upon when it is a matter of record and a national scandal that the votes needed by the Democrats to redeem these promises must come from states which are against the things promised? How can a Democratic president, elected by reason of 157 electoral votes from the "solid South" be expected to stand for reforms which are opposed by the states which furnish these 157 votes?

The new woman voter must ever keep in mind that the Democratic party is controlled by the "solid South" and if she would learn what to expect of the Democratic party in power at Washington she should first learn the attitude of the "solid South." A stream cannot rise higher than its source.

The Republican party made no such pledge as contained in the Democratic platform, for the very obvious and sufficient reason that Republican states have already accomplished the reforms which the Democratic platform promises to bring about; the Republican party when in control of Congress during the last 20 years has already performed the deeds which the Democratic platform promises to do. In other words, the Republican party asks for the support of the women upon a record of accomplished facts, backed by the public sentiment and long established practices of Republican states. The Democratic party asks for the support of the women upon a list of promises which are made in the face of the determined opposition of states which represent two-thirds of the Democratic strength in Congress and the electoral college.

Which appeals more to the women voters—false promises or truthful performance?

Republican Party's 60 Years of Constructive, Progressive Statesmanship

Women are just entering into citizenship into politics. Politics has usually been a bad name. Politics is neither good or bad; it is the science of government, the art of getting along with one's fellow men. As to whether this is done in a bad way or good way, as to whether it is done in a bungling way or an efficient way, as to whether it is done in a broad, national way with a thought of all the people or in a narrow, sectional way with a thought of only one party and a group of interests in a few states,—all depends upon the personnel of those who are entrusted with the administration of our government.

The Republican party believes its record of 60 years justifies its claim to being the party which handles the affairs of government from the viewpoint of all the people—because it draws its strength from all sections of the nation and all classes of people—which administers public affairs in an efficient manner that works for the upliftment and contentment of all citizens and safeguards all legitimate interests. Two facts are indisputable. The first is that the United States during the last 60 years has developed into a nation which stands first in the world in power, wealth, industry, commerce, agriculture and all the material things, and first in the world in the liberties, opportunities, living conditions, wealth and contentment of its working classes. The second is that during four-fifths of that period either a Republican Congress or a Republican Congress and Republican President have administered the affairs of the nation. The conclusion is inescapable. The wonderful national development in a material way and the unequalled prosperity and contentment of its people could not have been possible had not the administration of the government by the Republican party been characterized by common sense, economic justice, fair play to all classes and square dealing with all interests.

The Republican party submits its long record of constructive, progressive statesmanship to the new woman citizen and awaits her verdict with confidence.
