

School Children Undergoing Test

Teachers Search For Physical Defects

Teachers in the Newark Public Schools have devoted much time during the past week to a test to discover eye, ear, throat, or nose trouble, in the children under their charge. This action is in compliance with a recent ruling of the State Board of Education. The object of the examination is not to determine just what is the trouble, but merely whether or not any trouble exists. The eyes are tested by means of charts, and the child's hearing, by the voice of a person standing at a distance of twenty feet. The child undergoing the test is blindfolded. The result is reported on cards made out in triplicate. One copy is filed in the office of the principal, a second goes to the State Commissioner of Education, and a third to the State Board of Education. The principal of the school will send cards to the parents of the pupils who have shown any weakness in the various tests. These cards, however, are advisory, and in no sense compulsory. Valuable data is anticipated from these reports.

SPECIAL EFFORT MADE IN READING ROOM

Association Adopts New Working Plan

Many inquiries have been directed at the Community Committee of the N. H. S. Alumni Association during the last month relative to the community meetings which have been held with marked success in the High School building for the last two years. The committee has replied that these meetings will not be held monthly as previously. The organization has never stood solely for the purpose of holding such meetings, helpful as they may be. These have merely represented the work of one committee and only one of the Association's activities. This season the special efforts of the organization are being directed toward the furnishing of a reading room for the use of the students of the high school. An attractive front room which was designated for the purpose by Principal Friedel has been painted, papered, wired, supplied with reading lamps, and fitted with curtains. A reading table has been ordered and book shelves will be placed later. The gift of a half dozen chairs from Mrs. R. A. Whittingham, has been a great help to the committee. Any person in the community who has magazines to pass on will find a ready appreciation awaiting their gift. Further information may be obtained from Miss M. E. Wright, Chairman of the committee.

It is planned to hold occasional evening meetings, an invitation to which will be extended to the entire community.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Cleaver, East Main street, was the scene of a pretty home wedding, last Wednesday night, when the marriage of their daughter, Miss Edith C. to Mr. Guy H. Chillas, was solemnized. The bride was attended by Miss Grace Ferguson, of Lansdowne, Pa., and the groom by the brother of the bride, Mr. Raymond Cleaver. Mrs. Nelson Gray of Collingsdale, Pa., a sister of the bride, and Mr. Arthur Chillas, brother of the groom, presided at the wedding. The bride and her maid wore dainty white frocks and carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums. The house was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and golden rods. Only the immediate families of the bride and groom were present.

Following a wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Chillas left for Washington. The young couple will live on the John Nivin farm, north of Newark, Mr. Chillas having contracted to farm the place.

BITTER CONTEST FOR POSTMASTERSHIP

SAULSBURY SHIFTS RESPONSIBILITY

The contest for Postmaster occupies the center of the stage in Newark and useless to say that an interested audience is in attendance. Last Saturday Senator Willard Saulsbury visited Newark and held a conference with the candidates. The candidates present were Mayor Joseph H. Hossinger, Democratic leader of White Clay Creek Hundred and prominent in county and State party councils; T. Roseby McMullin, for years active in party work in Pencader, Levi K. Bowen, editor of Delaware Ledger, Democratic newspaper; and Andrew L. Fisher, ex-Representative and prominent worker in the Eastern district.

The meeting was held at the home of J. Wilkins Cooch. Politically Senator Saulsbury had a delicate situation on hand. A similar situation probably does not exist in the State. Both White Clay and Pencader Hundreds are close districts. Both hundreds are gradually becoming more securely in the Republican column. The recognized leaders of both hundreds were present as candidates. Both Mr. McMullin and Mr. Hossinger claim and are considered in most part leaders of their party. Mr. Hossinger received his training in the circles of the old Democracy and upon the death of his father assumed the leadership, while Mr. McMullin was the chief lieutenant of D. C. Rose in his palmy days. Both, too, have run for office and met defeat, both have led their parties to defeat. A complication indeed! A sport or a statesman would have decided the issue and made the appointment, but not a politician. "We will hold an election," says the Senator.

"A second Daniel came to Judgment," echoed the candidates. The judges were appointed. The Senator smilingly left town. His car had scarcely reached Lumbrook when second thought revealed to Newark Democracy—"what is this that has been put over on us?" "Trapped" is the general version.

For years it has been thought that Hossinger would either be the man or the one to make the appointment. No man in Newark probably has been so close to Saulsbury. Two years ago, a prominent Democrat of the State in the secret confidence of the junior Senator, said Joseph Hossinger will name the next Postmaster for Newark. The question now is, is Hossinger in the Senator's confidence? Will he stand for election? Mr. Hossinger refused this morning to make any statement whatever. It is believed, however, that he withdrew immediately from the contest but is not announcing his decision for political reasons. The writer predicts the withdrawal at the political moment. If such prove true, the contest will be bitter between Fisher and McMullin, both of whom have large political following. It is difficult to reckon, however, as both have lost prestige during the past few years. Fisher will have to contend with the upper district dissatisfaction and explain away mistakes made at the Legislature. McMullin will face the defeats under his leadership. His political intimacy with D. C. Rose will both help and hurt him. Fisher has the loyal following of East Newark with many friends in the middle district and rural routes. With Hossinger out, and he will be, the bitterness of the contest makes Bowen prominent in the fight. Publisher of the Ledger for years, consistently Democratic, he has never allied himself with the factional fights. Nor has he been active in the inside councils of local politics. He recognizes his success is based on his freedom from party squabble. This will weaken his cause from the politicians, but likely aid him with the rank and file. Hossinger's following will go mostly to Bowen, the remaining to McMullin, thus urging Fisher men to greater activity.

In all, the action of an election will split the party in both hundreds. It is admitted freely that the real contest is for party leadership. This is a Democratic party. The Post, however, as a local paper interested in public servants will sketch the story in next week's issue. Meanwhile mutiny is threatening in the ranks of Democracy.

Delaware Players

Meet Lafayette

Confident of at least giving Lafayette a hard game this afternoon twenty-five members of the Delaware College football squad Coach William J. McAvoy and Manager John W. Jones, left here for Easton, Pa., at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. This game is part of a program arranged by Lafayette officials in connection with the inauguration of a new president at that institution today.

Considering the hard game that the Blue and Gold had on Saturday with Pennsylvania Military College the players are in fair condition. All the cripples have recovered sufficiently to get in the game if called on. It is the purpose of Coach McAvoy to make many changes during the game so as to save the players as far as possible for the hard Western Maryland game here next Saturday. A signal practice yesterday afternoon was the only work that the squad has had since the P. M. C. game.

Cadets Appear In Uniform

Uniforms for the cadet corps of the college arrived the first of this week and were worn at drill on Friday. The uniforms for fall and winter drill are of cadet blue, trimmed with black stripes and gold braid. The cadet battalion will consist of about 220 men, the largest number in the history of the college. These are divided into three companies. G. O. Smith, '16, of Narberth, Pa., is major of the battalion.

Temperances Workers Plan Fight For Prohibition

Rally Day, to assemble the temperance forces for the State-wide "dry" campaign, was observed last Sunday in many churches throughout Delaware. The big meeting of the day, held in Grace M. E. Church, Wilmington, was addressed by Dr. Thomas M. Hare, superintendent of the Delaware and Maryland district of the Anti-Saloon League.

Dr. Hare was superintendent of the West Virginia district when that state voted "dry." For twenty years he has been engaged in the fight against the liquor forces. Temperance enthusiasts freely predict that the fight which he is now conducting in Maryland will be successful.

Sad Death In Barrow Family

Unfortunate Consequences Presented

Trouble, in the guise of sickness and death—of the same nature that is sure to come to all of us—has overtaken the family of Roman Barrow within the last month. Both Mr. and Mrs. Barrow about two weeks ago were stricken with typhoid fever. On last Sunday Mr. Barrow succumbed to the disease, leaving the sick woman with three children—the oldest seven, the youngest 15 months—with no resources, to face the world. The unfortunate condition arises from no prodigality or carelessness on the part of the parents of the family. Mr. Barrow came to Newark to work in the Continental Fibre mill about a year ago. He moved his family into one of the houses in the Ferguson block on Academy street. A child, shortly after the change of residence, contracted typhoid fever. The father was struggling to recover from the financial strain of moving and sickness when his own illness frustrated the plans for the future. During the year, Mrs. Barrow, willing and eager to do her full share, has rented one room of the small dwelling, and boarded at times one or two men. When told on Sunday of the hopeless condition of Mr. Barrow, the sick woman bravely declared, "I must get well now, and care for my children."

Since the case was reported ten days ago, fellow-employees of the Continental Fibre Company have provided a practical nurse. The story is herewith told to the people of Newark, in the belief that nothing further than the telling is necessary. Every statement set forth has been verified before its appearance in print.

Mr. Barrow carried a small life insurance which will more than cover funeral expenses. It is the hope of interested friends that enough money can be raised among the townspeople to pay the bills for provisions contracted since Mr. Barrow's illness. At the request of Miss Elizabeth Grime, who has been a daily visitor at the home, a number of Newark merchants have extended credit, with the understanding that Mr. Barrow should pay, upon being able to resume work. Since the husband's death, this source of supply is cut off, however. The life insurance money would probably cover these debts, but leave Mrs. Barrow to face a tedious and financially hopeless convalescence. An appeal is made to the Christian neighborliness of this community. Further particulars may be obtained at this office.

Smyrna Women Own Debt Free Clubhouse

The New Century Club of Smyrna last Friday burned the mortgage on their new clubhouse. The building was begun nine years ago, and little by little the payments have been made until the last which freed it of debt. A feature of the program which marked the exercises was the tableau, "Burning the Mortgage." Mrs. W. W. Tschudy and Mrs. S. J. Reynolds, appeared kneeling by the fire on which they placed the mortgage; "Victory", Mrs. Harvey Farles, bowed over them; "Optimism," Miss Margaret Walls, took a stand on one side, and "Pessimism," Mrs. L. M. Price, appearing slinking away in the distance.

Club Women Hold Executive Session

About twenty-five members of the executive board of the State Federation of Women's Clubs met last Friday morning, at the home of Mrs. Selden S. Deemer, at New Castle. This was the first occasion at which the New Castle Club had entertained the State officers, and the social features were conspicuous on the program. At the conclusion of the morning business session the board was entertained at luncheon at the home of Mrs. J. Ernest Phillips. There they were greeted by officers of the New Castle Century Club, with Mrs. Francis de Hass Janvier, the vice-president of the club, Mrs. Samuel C. Connell, the corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Joseph A. Carlin, treasurer. The house was beautifully decorated with fall flowers and luncheon was served at small tables adorned with flowers. The menu was chicken a la king, potato salad, hot rolls, ice cream, cake, coffee, mints.

Miss Ray Heydrick of Bridgeville presided at the business session, which consisted principally of the report of State chairman.

Those who attended were: Mrs. Ella C. Emery, Seaford; Mrs. J. P. Saulsbury, Dover; Miss Elizabeth Aldridge, Milford; Mrs. T. L. Cannon, Bridgeville; Mrs. A. D. Warner, Mrs. W. D. An Appreciation

The following letter, recently mailed Mr. William Barton, for many years superintendent of the buildings at Delaware College, upon his resignation from that position, is an appreciation which might well be the envy of anyone.

Mr. William Barton, Newark, Delaware
Mr. dear Mr. Barton:

In severing your connection of your own accord with Delaware College, I should like for you to know how much all of us appreciate the services, long and faithful, which you rendered this institution and also how much all of us admire you personally for your conscientiousness and gentlemanly bearing for nearly a score of years in mingling with the faculty and students on the campus. Nothing has happened since my connection with the college that has brought more sincere sorrow to all in our circle than the thought of your leaving us. You were regarded as an integral factor in the life of the college and you will be sorely missed by every one of us. I think I could truthfully say that there is not a single member of the faculty nor officer of the college who would not be rejoiced to feel that in his own sphere of labor he had met his daily duty with the same steadfastness, courage and sense of responsibility that you displayed throughout your connection with the College. It is a signal tribute that the solid moral qualities in your character and career here have won the unstinted affection of every man on the campus. Hoping that the years may yet crown your life with increasing happiness, I am,

Sincerely yours,
Samuel C. Mitchell.

Residents of the Rockland section, near Wilmington, are organizing to hunt and kill a strange beast said to be a timber wolf thought to have escaped from a menagerie. TEACHING SCHOOL AND HOME TO CO-OPERATE

Work For Local Associations Outlined

A second step in the State-wide campaign to organize the parents and teachers of Delaware into associations to study the problems of the schools, undertaken by State Commissioner Charles A. Wagner, last year, is the publication of a pamphlet—Parent-Teacher Hand Book—filled with information relative to the successful working of these organizations. The bulletin emphasizes the idea that the Association to be valuable, should be entirely cosmopolitan; that it should be wholly and always constructive, never critical or destructive. A quotation from A. E. Winslip's "Journal of Education," sums up the work of these associations in the words:

"They strengthen the hands of the best members of the Board of Education; they lead in every good movement for the schools; they make for the improvement of all material conditions; they are boosters for the schools; they are a comfort and a joy to every one in authority educationally, and they place every home behind every phase of school life. It is nothing against the principle that some people misuse the opportunity. This is true even in religious organizations."

The pamphlet presents a series of questions and answers, which set forth in a clear way the purpose and scope of the organizations. A suggested Constitution is given, and the scope of activities in Delaware concretely defined. Special subjects assigned to the local organizations, with comments upon the importance of their development are, School Attendance, Health Inspection of School Children, Standardized Schools, Community Centres, School Equipment, School Embellishment, School Lunches, Detention, Home Gardening, Club Work, School Meets, School Savings Banks, Minimum Attendance, Consolidation, Neighborhood Resources, School Library, Holiday Celebrations, and School Sanitation.

Added to the local community problems, the bulletin recommends those of state-wide interest, that concern every citizen, for attention. Among such subjects are the School Tax Problem, the Feeble Minded, Consolidation, Standardization, State Health Inspection, Teachers' Pensions, Special Instruction, Good Roads, and Authority in School Matters.

Women's College News

Although the six-day schedule of recitations at the Women's College has been in effect only three weeks, there is no longer any doubt that it will prove far superior in every respect to the five-day schedule in force last year. This schedule together with the periods in place of the forty-five minute periods is resulting in a greater amount of work and work of a better quality. It is causing a larger number of the students to remain over at the college during weekends than ever before. In order to provide entertainment for these students, the social committee is arranging a series of entertainments for Saturday evenings in addition to the regular "at homes" held on Friday evening of each week.

Dean Winifred J. Robinson, formerly assistant professor at Vassar College, and Miss Alfreda Moscrop, instructor in physical training at the Women's College and a graduate of Vassar, attended the installation of President MacGradken at Poughkeepsie this week.

During the absence of the Dean, Miss Mary Rich, professor of Education, secretary to the Dean, have been caring for the details of the work at the college.

SOCIAL NOTES

The Misses Wright have issued invitations for a masquerade ball, to be given in the Newark Opera House on Friday evening, October twenty-ninth. The invitations, printed on old-fashioned butcher's paper, suggest an affair in keeping with Hallowe'en, so close at hand. The invitation is extended in rhyme, and the guests are bidden to come in odd coat or frock, and dance a measure to a lively tune, with friends they've known full many a moon.

Dean and Mrs. E. Laurence Smith entertained at dinner last Friday evening, the following guests: Dr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Mitchell, Professor and Mrs. Clarence A. Short, Dean Winifred J. Robinson of the Women's College, and Dr. Greenfield, of the Department of History.

The dancing class to be held every Thursday in the Armory, by Miss Catharine Maull, of Lewes, opened last week. About twenty-four children attended the afternoon class, and sixty, the adult class in the evening. Miss Maull has already, to the minds of those present, proved herself an up-to-date, and efficient instructor, and her class promises to be extremely popular. From the opening lesson it was apparent she had in mind a practical working outline, which will lead, before the winter is over, to definite and pleasing results. Miss Maull has studied in New York, and is thoroughly acquainted with all that is best in her line of work.

Owing to the size of the children's class, Miss Maull has found it necessary to divide the class into two sections. The younger children are requested to come on Thursday afternoon at three-thirty; they will receive special instruction until four-fifteen, when the older children are to come. All the children will receive line-work (calisthenics), for fifteen minutes, after which the younger ones will be dismissed and the older ones instructed until four-thirty. Any child in the town, whether having received special announcement of the course or not, is invited to attend.

FIRST HOME GAME A VICTORY

Delaware Outplays P. M. C. 13 To 6

The lively ding dong of the college bell last Saturday afternoon announced a victory for Delaware, on the occasion of her first home game of the football season. In a hard fought gridiron battle, the Delaware boys trounced P. M. C., for the second time this season, to the tune of 13 to 6. A large crowd of rooters cheered Delaware to victory. A battalion of cadets from Chester accompanied their team, and many friends of the visitors watched the game from automobiles which crowded the large parking place. Campbell starred for P. M. C., and "Bake" Taylor, "Vic" Handy, Crothers, and E. Wilson, for Delaware. The game in detail follows:

First Quarter

P. M. C. kicked off to Bratton. Delaware carried the ball to the middle of the field where they lost it on downs. P. M. C. was unable to gain through the line. Campbell, the clever P. M. C. quarterback, then took the ball around the end for 20 yards. Delaware held on the 30-yard line and gained the ball on downs. A 20-yard run by Bratton and another 15-yards by Handy brought the ball to P. M. C.'s 35-yard line. Here P. M. C. intercepted a forward pass. Kennedy kicked to O'Daniel. The quarter ended with the ball in the middle of the field.

Delaware, 0; P. M. C., 0.

Second Quarter

P. M. C. held and Taylor punted to Campbell who was dropped on his own 40-yard line. Campbell made a pretty run for 35 yards but a P. M. C. man was off-sides and the ball was brought back. Crothers by a pretty tackle threw Brodsky for a loss. With about 15 yards to go on the third down, Campbell skirted to the end and carried the ball to Delaware's 15-yard line. Rushes by Brodsky and Townsend carried the ball to the 3-yard line. It took three plays to put the ball over, Townsend making the touchdown. Campbell missed the goal.

P. M. C. kicked off. Delaware had carried the ball back to the 40-yard line when the half ended. Delaware, 0; P. M. C., 6.

Third quarter

P. M. C. kicked off to Fidence. Delaware fumbled on the first play and P. M. C. recovered the ball. Campbell made 15 yards on an end run. Delaware held and Campbell punted to Taylor. Delaware kicked on the first play and Campbell to Brodsky brought the ball to the 30-yard line. Campbell tried for a goal from the field but the kick fell short. Bratton recovered the ball and was thrown on the 20-yard line. A 15-yard penalty put Delaware in a bad position, but Taylor kicked out of danger, the ball going to P. M. C.'s 40-yard line. P. M. C. was penalized 15 yards, but a forward pass, Campbell to Brodsky, more than made up the loss. Another forward pass and a long end run brought the ball to the 30-yard line where Delaware held. Delaware blocked an attempt at a field goal and E. Wilson recovered the ball on P. M. C.'s 40-yard line. A long run by "Bake" Taylor and plunges by Handy and Fidence put the ball on P. M. C.'s 5-yard line. Here "Mike" Fidence completely fooled P. M. C. by pulling off a double pass and forward. Fidence to Handy to Smart, Smart making the touchdown. Taylor missed the goal.

P. M. C. kicked off to Bratton who by a pretty run carried the ball back to the 45-yard line. Delaware, 6; P. M. C., 6.

Fourth quarter

Taylor made a first down and on the next play went through the line for 40 yards and a touchdown. Taylor kicked the goal.

P. M. C. kicked off. Delaware made a first down and was then forced to kick. P. M. C. made several unsuccessful attempts at a forward pass, one of which Bratton intercepted, giving Delaware the ball on her own 40-yard line. The two teams saw-sawed back and forth, neither being able to gain, and the game ended with the ball in the middle of the field.

Director Hayward Disposes Of Stock

Director Harry Hayward made a trip last week to Orwell, Vermont, in the interest of Wilmington Security Trust and Safe Deposit Company, regarding the sale of Morgan horses belonging to the estate of the late Ashton R. Tatum. On the following week Mr. Hayward will go to Lexington, Kentucky, in the interest of the same company to dispose of the trotting bred stock from the same estate. The money received from the sales of this stock was willed by Mr. Tatum to the Animal Husbandry Department of Delaware College, to be used as a prize fund for encouraging the breeding of better stock and increasing interest in better methods of management. In addition to this bequest the Animal Husbandry Department received Mr. Tatum's complete library of works dealing with all phases of the breeding and management of horses and also a great number of fine photographs and albums of noted individuals of the Morgan, Thoroughbred, and American Trotting Horse breeds. These gifts will be of great value to the Animal Husbandry Department in its work.

Improving The Apple Market

The recently established Department of Foods and Markets of the State of New York is the result of attempts to lessen the cost of getting food products from the producer to the consumer. One of its first efforts was to improve the conditions under which the apple crop of the state is marketed. Under the system of private sales, so complicated a method of distribution has grown up that the fruit grower gets too little and the consumer has to pay too much.

In order to simplify the machinery, the Department of Foods and Markets arranged for the sale of apples at public auction, as they have long been sold in London, Paris, and Berlin, and as oranges, lemons, pineapples, and bananas are now sold in New York.

The plan provides that carloads of apples shipped to New York City shall be sold at the railway terminals and at the salesrooms of the auction company that has contracted to do the work. For that service the growers pay the department five per cent. of the amount of the sale. One-half of the five per cent. the department spends in advertising the auctions among retailers and consumers; the other half it uses to defray other necessary expenses. The plan provides for selling pears, and ultimately peaches, in the same way.

One of the obvious advantages of this method is that it saves the expense of handling. Another is that, since the prices are all made public, the grower knows exactly what his goods sell for in the open market. Moreover, his shipment is sold at once, and he gets the money for it immediately. But in carrying out such a scheme there are difficulties to be overcome that have freckled many other well-intentioned plans. They are the difficulties attending any enterprise that requires co-operation on the part of people who, besides being widely separated, are not used to working together. In connection with such matters as grading the fruit, making up the carloads, timing the shipments so that too many carloads shall not reach the city on one day and too few on the next, the growers of New York State will find a chance to exercise a forethought and a patience that are none too abundant anywhere. If they can learn to pull together heartily and intelligently, they will justify the establishment of the Department of Foods and Markets, and prepare the way for further efforts to bring producer and consumer together.

Plants To Beware Of

There are no beautiful poisonous flowers native to this country. There are only three plants that are really poisonous to the touch. They all belong to the Rhus family and resemble one another in their uninteresting clusters of dull greenish-gray berries.

Two of them, poison ivy and poison sumac, are found in the eastern part of the country, and poison oak grows on the Pacific coast.

Poison ivy is a common vine that climbs over rocks, and that in some shady places covers the ground with luxuriant leaves. Occasionally, in fertile spots, it will raise branches like shrubs up over the rocky supports; elsewhere it clings to the bark of trees and climbs high.

Its flowers and berries are always in dull clusters, but its leaves may become brilliant red and brown in the autumn sun. Do not pick leaves that grow in threes on a vine, but do not be afraid to gather leaves of the woodbine, which grow in clusters of five.

It is difficult to distinguish poison sumac from other sumacs. Do not call it dogwood; it does not look like dogwood; true dogwoods have beautiful flowers, and are not poisonous. Poison sumac grows like a small, branching tree; it is the cleanest and smoothest in leaf and branch of all the sumacs. The leaflets are long and pointed, five to eleven on one petiole. If you see little drooping clusters of greenish-white flowers, or later the greenish little berries, do not touch anything on that shrub or tree.

Poison oak does not look like any oak. It has clusters of three almost round leaves, which grow on a vine like poison ivy, or more often on a low shrub. If you see the clusters of white flowers, or berries, do not touch the plant.

There are many plants with sap that is more or less poisonous if it reaches a cut or abrasion. Do not let a plant drip on a wound. There are many plants with thorns and stings that produce painful irritation if they scratch through the skin. Pick their flowers carefully.

Many beautiful flowers sap that is more or less poisonous if swallowed. Do not ever hold flowers in your mouth. Do not give flowers to babies, for they are sure to put them into their mouths, and some of our families have poison enough to affect a baby's health.

There are others flowers and plants that are harmless to man but poisonous to animals, if eaten. Many who read these lines know the bad effects of the loco weed of the West or the lambkill of the East. In pastures where buttercups about cattle carefully graze around them, but will not eat the flowers or leaves, because of the bitter taste of the poison in them.

The botanist and lover of flowers should remember two things: first, it is safe to pick any beautiful flower; second, it is never safe to let its juice touch the lips or and flesh wound.

Sweet Potato Growers Adopt New Method

New methods of storage and means of improving old storage houses are being adopted by many sweet potato growers throughout the State. The work is being done at the suggestion of, and under the direction of the department of Plant Pathology of the Experiment Station, operating co-operating with the United States of Agriculture. During the past week Professor Connolly of the United States Department has been making a tour of the potato districts in which the work is being carried on with Doctors Manns and Taubenhau. Six hygro-thermographs for recording moisture and temperature conditions, are being installed in the storage house of Houston and Darby at Seaford. This apparatus, which has cost several hundred dollars, is being furnished by the Bureau of Plant Industry at Washington. The storage of sweet potatoes presents a very difficult problem to handle. This year, on account of the excessive moisture conditions are aggravated and the new apparatus will have a severe test. Several growers throughout the State have constructed new storage houses according to plans suggested by the department of Plant Pathology of the Experiment Station, and data will be taken upon the results obtained inasmuch as the work on improved methods of storage is in an experimental stage. One of the new storage houses of the best type, has been erected recently by Mr. Studley, one mile west of Laurel. Drs. Manns and Taubenhau have secured final data from several co-operative experiments with growers of the State, planned to ascertain the varieties of potatoes most resistant to the diseases which are prevalent in the potato growing sections of these diseases the most destructive ones are "stem blight," and the "Pit or Pox Disease." Much of this work on varieties has been carried out on the farms of Mrs. Ellis, near Delmar, Woodie Case, near Felton, and William Gordy, near Laurel.

The House By The Side Of The Road

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the place of their self content;
There are souls like stars, that dwell apart
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran—
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
When the race of men go by,
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Wise, foolish—so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorners seat,
Or hurl the Cynic's ban?
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife;
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears,
Both part of an infinite plan—
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.
—Sam Walter Foss.

For real delight in shopping go to a little store, presided over by people of taste and good judgment. And the writer has found one of this type right here within the limits of our own town, for the new store of J. Rankin Armstrong, west of the B. & O. on Main street, measures up to this description. The chance visitor discerns at once that the store has been stocked by a buyer of discretion. Progress side ideas and ideals stare at one from every shelf. To begin with there are the dressmakers' accessories—bias tape, collar frames, Girdelin, shaped and straight, fancy buttons, hooks, and lining nets—all the latest little devices which save time and worry when the dressmaker is on hand. Frankly, this little countrywoman for one, didn't know there were so many handy notions, to be purchased for a song, details which make such a marked difference in the neatness and general effect of the finished garment.

Then the white goods and embroideries are a genuine delight to anyone who loves to sew white goods. Beautiful plaid flaxons, and sheer white lawns, heavy piques, and new unusual weaves in gabardines! The laces are unusually attractive and represent the prettiest from Strawbridge and Clothier's assortment.

There are ribbons—velvets in every width and shade; attractive wash ribbons and braid runners for underwear; cretonnes and curtain goods, dress goods and outing flannels. The list isn't complete by any means. It only represents a fleeting impression of the store. The millinery department displays many new and nobby shapes, and a line of trimmings both rich and dainty. The corner stocked with shoes is also conspicuous. The second side of the store is filled with men's furnishings. The writer does not doubt the men's assortment is equally attractive. It cannot figure, however, in this—

Chapel Talks

In accordance with the plan inaugurated by President Mitchell last year, there will be talks in chapel on Monday and Friday mornings given by members of the faculty. These talks, which are about ten to fifteen minutes in length, treat some subject selected by the speaker. During the past two weeks the addresses have included "Points of Interest in the Past History of the College," by Professor George A. Harter, "The Value of Systematic Reading," by Dr. E. V. Vaughn, "What Some of Our Graduates are Doing in Graduate Work," by Professor A. E. Grantham, and "The Student's Responsibility to his College," by Assistant Professor G. E. Dutton. These talks will be continued throughout the year.

Choice Of A Profession

On Friday, October 15, Professor C. A. McCue spoke at the chapel exercises of Delaware College on "The Choice of a Profession." The speaker first said that failures in various professions were often not the result of lack of effort, but of lack of fitness. He then showed that one of the noblest functions of a college is to help young men to find themselves—to discover the profession for which they are best fitted. He discussed at some length the great influence of ancestry upon the ability of all men. Great musicians, he asserted, are descended from great musicians, or else from men whose latent musical capacities were never developed. In conclusion, Professor McCue said, "Young men, know yourself, not as your body and mind alone, but in the light of ancestral knowledge. Find your probable capabilities and develop them. Smooth the way for your boy's choice of a profession."

Defective Children In Delaware

The Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor has begun a study of mental defectives in Delaware at the invitation of the State Co-operative Educational Association. The agents will make a study of mentally defective children of whom there are about 400 in the State to determine what need there is of institutional treatment. Delaware is one of the few states which do not provide such treatment.

Suit Over Husband's Death

Mrs. William S. Matchett of 2347 West Seventeenth street, Wilmington, on Saturday filed suit in the Superior Court, through her counsel Andrew C. Gray, against William E. Voorhees of Kennett Square, for $30,000 damages for causing the death of her husband by running him down with an automobile on the night of October 8 on Pennsylvania avenue. Mr. Voorhees waived a hearing before Judge Churchman in the City Court on Friday morning on a charge of manslaughter and gave bond in $5000 with William Chandler of Centreville as surety for his appearance at the November term of the Court of General Sessions. Judge Churchman discharged Benjamin Bennett, chauffeur of the taxicab which on the same night collided with the auto of Ray R. Hammill of Kennett Square near Greenville, causing injuries to occupants of both cars, on the ground that Hammill was equally at fault.

My thorough eye examination will tell if glasses are needed.
