NEWARK POST, NEWARK, DELAWARE, MARCH 28, 1923.

NUMBER 8

STATE PRESIDENT IS GUEST OF CLUBWOMEN

Vice-President Also Visitor at Regular Meeting of Local Body

An unusually large number of members and some guests gathered at the New Century Club house on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Cann, Mrs. Blake and Mrs. Bowen were re-elected as officers of the Corporation.

Mrs. Houghton was elected to represent the Club in the Corporation.

The meeting on April 10 will be an important meeting. Election of officers for the coming year will be held. The matter regarding the number of meetings to be held during the year will be considered.

Mrs. Dutton, chairman of the Nominating Committee, reported the following:

For President—Mrs. Manns and Mrs. Houghton.

First Vice-President—Mrs. Wm. Evans and Mrs. Townsend.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Pilling.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Frank Cooch and Mrs. E. Frazer.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Florence Cook and Mrs. Stuart.

Library Committee—Mrs. F. M. K. Foster, Chairman; Mrs. Rankin, Mrs. Dougherty, Miss Spencer.

Membership Committee—Mrs. McCue, Mrs. Blake, and Mrs. J. P. Wright.

After the business meeting the president introduced Mrs. Waller and Mrs. Alexander to the Club. Mrs. Alexander spoke of the duties of club members to the program committee, urging members to be more considerate of all the work entailed in getting a program for even one day.

Mrs. Houghton read in her usual delightful manner, a short story from Kipling, entitled "Cupid's Dart."

Mrs. Waller, who spoke of herself as a mother of the club, gave some very helpful words regarding club study next year. She urged in particular that study of Citizenship be made one of the leading thoughts for the coming year. Mrs. Waller considers it the duty of every woman to render first aid in world questions, by making use of any political advantage as soon as it is given her.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the Hospitality Committee.

PROMINENT BANKER DEAD IN ELKTON

C. C. Strickland, Cashier of National Bank Fails to Recover from Breakdown

Elkton and Cecil county lost a prominent citizen yesterday when Clarence C. Strickland, cashier of the National Bank of Elkton died at his home in that town from a sudden relapse following a nervous breakdown suffered early in the winter. He was 69 years of age.

Perhaps no man in the county had the banking experience held by the deceased. Born and raised in Elkton, he attended the public schools there and at nineteen entered the employ of the First National, then the only bank for miles around Elkton. Gradually he worked his way along, learning thoroughly each step and phase of the business. For many years he was cashier. When the late Charles B. Finley became president of the institution, Mr. Strickland was appointed cashier, and has acted in that capacity ever since. The bank was at one time headed by the late Jacob Tome, founder of Tome School. All in all, Mr. Strickland spent 49 years in Elkton banking circles.

The deceased was a son of Palmer and Margaret Strickland, his father being a former postmaster in Elkton. He is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Anna Hilton, of Montgomery Co., Md., and by one daughter, Frances, a student in Elkton High School.

Among other relatives surviving are two cousins living in Newark; Miss Eleanor E. Todd and Mr. H. Edwin Insinger.

MAY LOSE EYE AS RESULT OF INJURY

Fred Snook Struck by Flying Steel Punch Sundty; In Hospital

Fred Snook, a member of the Rehabilitation Unit at the University and well known throughout town, was badly injured Sunday when he was struck in the eye by a steel nail punch. He consulted a local physician, who directed him to see a specialist at once. Mr. Snook then went to Wilmington and entered the Homeopathic Hospital. He was suffering greatly from the lacerated optic, which swelled in a few moments to three times its normal size. Latest reports give no assurance as to whether the sight will be impaired.

The accident happened in a most unusual way. Snook was watching James Campbell working on the brake bands of the latter's car when the punch which Campbell was using slipped under the impact of the hammer, and flew through the air striking Snook, who was at least six feet away. The piece of steel in some manner avoided striking the fender. Seeing the injured man doubled up in pain, Campbell rushed him to a doctor.

ANTHONY MASER WINS FOR SEDAN PRIZE

Car Goes to Local Man; Clear Neat Sum from Sales

Members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, most of whom are attached to the Rehabilitation Unit of the University of Delaware, brought their drive for funds to a close last night when a new Ford sedan was given to the lucky holder of the proper ticket. The event took place at Newark Inn about nine o'clock.

Anthony Maser, of Newark, held the winning ticket, and the sedan was at once turned over to him.

Mayor Frazer appointed Miss Gladys Clark, a well known young lady of town to select one number from the pile. She did not appear the least bit worried and calmly drew out the slip, the number being 4630.

The sale of chances started several months ago, and netted the Veterans upwards of $150 for their efforts.

EASTER MUSIC IN THE LOCAL CHURCHES

Large Attendance Expected at All Houses of Worship Next Sunday

The churches of Newark all have prepared special Easter programs for their congregations and friends, and as usual will be beautifully decorated for the occasion.

In practically every instance, the choirs have been rehearsing anthems, solos, and duets for Easter morning. The music will be a feature on every program.

WEBB CASE HEARING POSTPONED TODAY

Reported That Prisoners Will Soon Break Silence

A dispatch from Elkton to the Evening Journal today stated:

Attempts on the part of John Webb and his sister, Mrs. Dora Vaughn, to "squeal" on Charles Kassing, and reversal of the charges by Kassing were reported in the city jail here today by Sheriff Kirk Gifford.

All three are held on charges of complicity in the murder last Wednesday night of "Italian Joe" Dorein, on the Szmylyk farm, four miles north of here.

Preliminary hearing of the charges against the trio was postponed today when former State Senator Omar D. Crothers, counsel for Webb and Mrs. Vaughn was called out of town on business. It is thought he will waive examination when the preliminary hearing is held.

Solons Adjourn

The State Legislature will recess tonight until April 10th, according to reports emanating from Dover, last night.

The action came after both houses adopted a concurrent resolution yesterday afternoon.

SPECIAL MEETING OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MARKED BY CONSTRUCTIVE AND IMPORTANT ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Census of Town Ordered Taken, With Questionnaire as Basis; Housing Company Plans Given Boost; Committee Appointed To Interest Citizens in New Houses For Growing Town

OTHER BUSINESS OF MORE THAN PASSING INTEREST

In spite of the rain and chill wind, a small but representative group of members of the Newark Chamber of Commerce met in the Aetna Hose House last Friday evening in response to the call of the president, James C. Hastings. The meeting was called for the special purpose of coming to an agreement about the future of the Housing Company plan, as outlined at the Spring dinner a few weeks ago. The meeting, however, refused to be tied down to one particular piece of business, and before the evening was over real attainments had been reached in many other channels. To call the meeting a success would be putting it mildly.

Representative Crowd

There were possibly fifteen men grouped around the center table when the president opened the meeting. But those fifteen men adequately represented about every interest in the town. Men were there who had not attended a meeting in months; a few regulars were on hand. Every one, however, came to the meeting for the purpose of helping the Chamber accomplish something really worth while. And such was exactly the case.

Order Census Taken

Perhaps the most important of the many things discussed at the meeting was the question of taking a census of the town of Newark for the purpose of ascertaining by means of accurate figures information of value to the Chamber of Commerce now and in the future. Much discussion centered about this proposal, after it had been broached to the members by President Hastings. Pursuant to the adoption of the motion made by Mr. Dougherty, several opinions were voiced as to just what value the census would be to the town, the Chamber of Commerce and the business men. It was then explained that an accurate list of all the people, not only in Newark, but in the immediate vicinity would be the outcome. Mr. Dougherty's motion was passed unanimously. Mr. Hastings appointed Dr. George W. Rhodes to take charge of the census-taking. It is believed that he will employ one or two men to do the work, reporting back to him at the end. Then all the data will be compiled and checked and ready for use. The Chamber of Commerce appropriated a sum not to exceed $75 for the work.

A sample of the Census Card will be found in the Chamber of Commerce advertisement on another page of The Newark Post. It is the intention of covering all that territory lying between the Pennsylvania Railroad and the beginning of farm land north of town, and from Leak's garage to a point well out by the Country Club. To do this it is estimated that two men will be kept busy for a week or more. Dr. Rhodes was given full charge of the details and it is expected that he will push the work ahead to an early completion.

HOUSE PASSES BILL FOR NEW DORMITORY

Appropriate $150,000 For Kent Hall at Women's College

The bill presented by Representative Collins providing for the appropriation by the State of $150,000 for the purpose of erecting a new building on the campus of the Women's College here was passed Monday by the House with but two dissenting votes.

The appropriation takes the form of an issue of bonds covering the above amount. Of the total $140,000 will be spent for the building and the remaining $10,000 for equipment.

Name Commission

An amendment offered in the House and passed with the bill authorizes a Commission of three men to be appointed to take charge of the construction work. Governor Denney, Speaker Culver and President Pro Tem Murphy of the Senate have the right to appoint the three men.

ANNOUNCE NEXT P.T. MEETING FOR APRIL 5

Several Interesting Items on Program; Girl Reserves and Scouts New Topic

The Newark Parent-Teacher Association will hold its next meeting in the High School on the evening of Thursday, April 5th.

The subject for the meeting at that time will be "Recreation in the Education of the Child." Miss Gallaher is appointed head of a committee to present to the meeting the future plans of the Girl Reserves Unit in Newark. Representatives from the Boy Scout Troupe will also have a part in the program.

Mrs. Geist, an interested worker in the Girl Scout movement in Newark, is also expected to have her group represented.

After the feature part of the meeting, the regular order of business will be transacted.

AUTO RACE ON FOR NEW S. S. SCHOLARS

M. E. Sunday School in Midst of Animated Drive for New Members

Members of the Sunday School of the Methodist Episcopal Church, both big and little, are entered in a big "auto race," now going on at the church.

Each class has taken over one of the "cars" and is endeavoring to drive it along the "Lincoln Highway" just a little faster than the next one.

Whenever a member of a class brings in a new scholar to the Sunday School, the car which he is helping is pushed along a few "miles."

When a certain "city" is reached by one of the "cars" the rest of the school banquets the winning team.

Dr. Thomas F. Manns, aided and abetted by a number of other older workers, are pushing the membership drive in this way. It is a most unusual and effective method of increasing the attendance, and is being entered into with a great amount of energy by all.

MISS CAMPBELL BURIED TODAY

The funeral of Miss Sarah Campbell took place this afternoon from her late residence on Depot Road at 2:30 o'clock.

Many relatives and friends of the deceased were present. Elder Coulter of Philadelphia and Elder Eubanks, of old Welsh Tract Church, presided and conducted the services.

The body was buried in the cemetery adjoining the church she attended faithfully for so many years.

CLASS FIGHT

Residents of Main street and other central portions of Newark were awakened last night by sounds of battle raging along the thoroughfares.

The disturbance was caused by one of the perennial clashes between Freshmen and Sophomores of the University. No great damage was done, except to tender feelings.

LADIES AID MEETS

The Ladies Aid Society of the local Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. W. E. Brown, on Main street, on Thursday, April 6th, at 2:30 o'clock.

NORRIS WRIGHT BUYS FINE OLD ESTATE

Jex Mansion and Grounds Will be Extensively Remodelled

The big stone house adjoining the Newark Country Club grounds on West Main street, together with about four acres of land and other buildings was purchased a few days ago by Norris N. Wright, vice-president of the Continental Fibre Company of this place. Mr. Wright plans to make some extensive improvements in both the mansion and the grounds, the plans now being in the hands of the architects. Possession will not be taken until the latter part of the year.

The old house, known by older residents as the Murphy place and the Jex mansion, is one of the most substantial and attractive examples of early American architecture. Its location and the additional value of the large acreage around it makes it a very desirable estate.

The bungalow on Orchard Ridge, now occupied by Mr. Wright and family has been sold to Irving Walls, of Wilmington.

NEWARK BOYS FORM "WIN OR BUST" CLUB

Local Boys' Ag Club Elects Robert Jaquette President; Plans for the Season

NEXT MEETING APRIL 10

If a name means anything at all, members of boys' agricultural clubs from all over Delaware will have to look out for the boys of the Newark Community.

At a meeting in the office of State Club Leader A. D. Cobb, last Saturday, the boys formally organized the Newark "Win or Bust Club" and are already setting their stakes for the State Fair and Camp Vail contests.

Robert Jaquette, who has been a dairy club member for several years, was elected president. George Cook, who joined the potato club last year, received the most votes for vice-president, after a spirited contest with Herman McCarnes, veteran corn club member of Welsh Tract. McCarnes came back strong and secured the office of secretary-treasurer. George Cook is a brother of Wallace Cook, who was a former state champion in the corn club.

The boys expect a club membership of at least 15 boys, enrolled in corn, pig, poultry and potato demonstrations. As soon as five or more boys enroll in any one demonstration a sub-group will be formed, but will still remain a unit of the "Win or Bust Club."

Membership is open to all boys or girls over 10 years of age living in the vicinity of Newark. Members may enroll in the following projects: Corn, white potatoes, pig, soy beans, poultry. Boys desiring to join the club should see Robert Jaquette, George Cook, Herman McCarnes, or get in touch with State Leader A. D. Cobb.

CHANGE MEETING PLACE

All future rehearsals of the Newark Choral Club from now until the concert next month will be held in Wolf Hall, starting promptly at 7:15.

All members are urged to be present, for on these rehearsals rest the chances of success in the coming concert.

IT WASN'T THE POST

A recently arrived business man in Newark had occasion to see THE NEWARK POST. He inquired the location, "Turn down South College Avenue and THE POST is the first funny looking building you come to," were the explicit instructions given by the Main Street Loafer and General Information Bureau. Our new citizen started out one evening and following closely information given, stopped at the "first funny looking building he saw."

And it wasn't THE NEWARK POST but a disgraceful architectural, advertising-bedecked frame structure within town limits.

MAIN STREET SCENE OF IM- PROMPTU WEDDING PROCESSION, CANS AND ALL, LAST WEDNESDAY

Well-Known Newark Youth and Bride Seek To Surprise Their Many Friends, But the Cat
Comes Out Of the Bag. Riles A Resident

YOUNG COUPLE VERY COMPOSED DURING RIDE

Any resident of town happening to be strolling along Main street during the early hours of Wednesday evening last may remember hearing a musical tinkle of tin cans approaching from the East. A goodly number of Newarkers did hear that very sound and forthwith paused in their stroll to ascertain from whence came that strange sound.

A large touring car piloted by the redoubtable and energetic Clarence B. Dean, (but it wasn't Dean's car) slowly drove by. Dangling from the rear axle were three tin cans, bumping merrily along upon the paved street. Now everybody knows that a tin can behind an automobile or rice sprinkled on the street means only one thing—a wedding. But from a perusal of this article to date, one might be led to infer that Clarence B. Dean had gone and got married. Heavens, No. He was only helping along with the act.

Intended to Surprise

The car was merely used as a conveyance for two well-known local people.

Earlier in the evening Miss Florence McKinney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McKinney, of North East, Md., became the bride of Mr. Howard Robinson, son of Mrs. Gertrude L. Robinson, of Newark. The happy couple were joined in matrimony by the Rev. Frank Herson, Pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of town. The ceremony was held in the parsonage on East Main street. Two attendants, Miss Delena Leak and Mr. Dean were present at the ceremony.

The whole affair was arranged as a surprise. The secrecy was maintained up until the moment of the ceremony, when someone told someone else about it, and the news spread like wildfire. Clyde Robinson, a brother of the groom, and several others, managed to get the cans tied on the car, but other stunts planned fell through at the last minute.

It is said that a prominent lady resident of the East Main-street section became quite wroth at the display and jangle of tin cans and verbally expressed her opinions in no uncertain language. But that's quite apart from the wedding.

The bride was dressed in a dark travelling suit. No flowers or decorations were attempted. After a short wedding trip, the newlyweds will return to Newark, it is reported. Mr. Robinson is employed by the University of Delaware and looks after the plumbing in the various buildings.

The Climax

The following conversation was overheard on the occasion of the production of a new play:

"We have seen two acts, and there isn't a single really funny character in this alleged comedy."

"Have patience. Just wait until the audience calls for the author."—Public Ledger.

One Accident To Each 800 Cars in 1922

Life insurance companies point to the increasing death rate for automobile accidents. In 1922, in proportion to population, the number of automobile fatalities was higher than ever. But the great and encouraging fact from the standpoint of a motorist is that accidents are not increasing as rapidly as motor vehicles. Per automobile on the roads, fatal accidents are nearly 50 per cent fewer today than they were in 1914.

If you were an owner or an operator of an automobile in 1914, the chance was one in 356 that your car would be involved in a fatal accident. In 1922 the chance against you was but one in 800.

According to a study just completed by J. W. Perry, general manager of the automobile department of John-Manville, Inc., in 1915, one out of every 453 automobiles figured in a fatal accident; in 1916, one out of 468; 1917, one in 503; 1918, one in 670; 1919, one in 675; 1920, one in 780; 1921, one in 795; and 1922, one in 800.

Of-Told Tales

"I'll be detained at the office to-night."

"Please remit."

"You are the dearest girl in the world."

"I'm going home to mother."

"Lend me ten."

"I can get 20 miles on a gallon."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

RISING SUN ORGANIZES

To insure a Rising Sun team in the Susquehanna Baseball League this season, young men of that vicinity have organized an association, which will look after the financial affairs of the club. The officers follow: President, Clarence T. Dare; vice-president, Joseph T. Richards; secretary, Tawler R. Biles; treasurer, Walter E. Patton; manager, T. W. Biles. The association fixed a limit of $5 per game to be played players, and $25 for a battery per game. Under the league rules the salaries to be paid players is limited to $75.

Elkton was all excitement Saturday morning when an explosion of some kind occurred. The news rapidly spread that a boiler at the Pulp Mill had blown up. Upon investigation it was found that someone across from the High School had decided to get rid of a stump by dynamiting it. Consequently the "terrible" explosion.

Work was taken up last week once more upon the proposed theatre and business block partly finished by the William Pearce Amusement Company, and for some months standing to the weather with no one to lend a hand.

A Wilmington party has taken over the building and work will be rushed until its ultimate completion. After purchasing it at a mortgagee's sale a few weeks ago, the new owners state that they will produce results.

The estimated cost of the building is set around $70,000.

Reuben Deibert, aged about forty years, one of the best-known citizens of Elkton, passed away last Friday in a sanatorium near Baltimore after a brave fight to regain his health which broke down a few months ago. Until recently his health had somewhat improved and hopes were raised for his complete recovery. But he suffered a distinct relapse and his demise was expected at any time by his physicians.

For many years the deceased was an expert boat builder and carried on a very successful business in Elkton. Later he entered the automobile field and up until the time of his illness, was a junior partner in the Malin Garage in Elkton. He was genial and well-liked by all his fellow citizens and the news of his death came as a distinct sorrow to all in and around Elkton.

He is survived by a wife, the daughter of H. L. Dayett, Sr., of Glasgow, and one child. Glasgow residents were also very much saddened to hear of the death.

Funeral services were held Monday of this week, and interment was made in Elkton cemetery.

Congratulation were extended to the happy couple by the captain then another sound of the old tin pans, sleighbells and reports from guns were heard and the leader of the band ordered the musical implements to be carefully put away for the next wedding to take place in the vicinity.

Sarah A. Campbell

Interested in life, she was interesting. This is our comment on the character of Miss Sarah Campbell whose funeral services are being held this afternoon. She was a remarkable woman, the last of a remarkable family. Her death marks the passing of another of that "old school" fast becoming a fact only in recorded history. She, with her three maiden sisters, did a work in this section that will long be remembered. In our Book of Recollections, her smiles, cheer, service, gifts and interest color many a page. When her friends were glad she was happy, when sad she was a comfort, when in trouble, always present. Births and Birthdays, Weddings and Deaths found her sharing the joy and sorrow. She had character, plus kindness in thought and deed.

In events of the day, doings of this College town, anxieties of the work-a-day world—with all she had a sweetness and charm of interest that made Romance hover wherever she was present. As a part of Old Welsh Tract, her influence will remain while its history is recorded.

In personality and appearance, she resembled the Miniature of Yesterday with sun a shining. Such she was to us. A few days ago she was smilingly finishing a woven silken rug for a little girl and chatting over the Musical at the University. Now—Silence.

The Mystery of it all! But in the Shadow, her smiles are shining through.

Young People's League Services

The series of special services held under the auspices of the Young People's League, at St. Thomas P. E. Church closed last Sunday evening. Nothing like it has ever come to our experience or notice. No church or institution, to our knowledge, ever presented such an array of talent as has been enjoyed by this community. Creeds and sections were swept away and the Brotherhood of Man was truly assembled.

To George Carter, Program Director, comes the major credit for this work. Untiring yet happy in his efforts, he never had a greater success. It can be done—and The Church does live in the hearts of men. He deserves and is receiving the thanks and appreciation of not only St. Thomas but of the whole town. May this success be only an initial event in Newark and Delaware.

Mr. Carter expressing his appreciation spoke interestingly of the meetings. His words follow:

"When, last December, this series of special services, to begin in January and to continue until April 1, was planned at the suggestion of our esteemed rector, Dr. Edgar Jones, we had three prime objects in view:

"First—To organize the young folk of our parish and to stimulate them into constructive activity along definite lines.

"Second—To do something worth while for the benefit and the pleasure of our community and to build up the evening congregations in our church.

"Third—To bring together under one common roof, in one common fellowship and for one common purpose, men, women and children of all religions, in keeping with the desire of our bishop and our rector that no sectarian or denominational lines be drawn among those who are wholeheartedly and earnestly intent upon promoting the welfare of the world and the glory of the Kingdom of God on earth.

"With that general policy in hand and with those general objects in view, Dr. Jones appointed Mr. John S. Shaw and me program directors and left it to us to work out the detailed plans concerning the series. Unfortunately, Mr. Shaw's business engagements took him South for several weeks early in the year, and subsequently made it necessary for him to go West, with the result that the big bulk of this pleasant task devolved upon me, with Mr. Shaw co-operating to the full extent of his limited opportunity.

"And now, with the series on the eve of closing, let me say that all three objects sought have been attained. We have effected an organization of the young people of our parish, and that permanent organization is acquiring itself splendidly along constructive lines.

"We feel that we have done something for the benefit and the pleasure of our community and we know that we have built up the evening congregations in our church. Before this series started, the average evening congregations numbered perhaps from ten to fifteen persons. Since it started our evening congregations have run as high as 250 persons in the church and between 500 and 600 persons when service was held in the Newark Opera House last Sunday evening. Measured by percentages, I figure that the increase has been from 1500 to 2000 per cent.

"With respect to the third object sought to be attained, I can say that it has succeeded far beyond the thought of those who had to do with the management of the series. Talented Jews and Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics, Methodists, Presbyterians, Baptists, Swedenborgians, and Episcopalians have worked shoulder to shoulder, in the brotherhood of man, the sisterhood of woman and the common communion of children, to put this movement over by generous contributions of God-given talents, thrown into one common center for the glory of God and the well-being of man. If this series has done anything at all, it has shown that men and women and children know no one religion when called upon to enlist and carry on in the common interest.

"And, in conclusion, permit me to say that I feel sure that no church, great or small, in the town of Newark, the city of Wilmington, or the State of Delaware ever has had within it, as active participants in service, as much and as varied oratorical and musical talent, vocal and instrumental, in the same length of time as our own Little Church Among the Maples has had during the last three months, and let me add, that no speaker, no vocalist and no instrumentalist of the hundred or more who have come to us has asked for a cent, received a cent or would accept a cent for his or her services. With them all it has been a service of love of the highest quality, based upon a generous desire to do something worth while for God and man."

WONDERFUL QUARTER CENTURY FOR NATION

H. A. Kohlsaat's Review
Chronicles Chief Incidents

McKINLEY TO HARDING

What a quarter-century it has been—that period summed up in the title of H. A. Kohlsaat's book, "From McKinley to Harding." In its first two decades the United States fought two foreign wars, with Spain, and with Germany and its allies. It saw the sun of Roosevelt rise and set, and the star of Bryan blaze and die down to intermittent twinklings. It opened with the United States Navy at so low an ebb that President McKinley could say to the writer of these memoirs: "The Spanish fleet is in Cuban waters, and we haven't enough ammunition on the Atlantic seacoast to fire a salute." It closed with that navy the peer of any afloat. It opened with John Hay, Ambassador to the Court of St. James', and is closing with George Harvey there by way of complete antithesis.

To McKinley was intrusted the task of protecting the gold reserve—a task so onerous that Mr. Dooley protested against sending General Miles to Cuba lest the adornments of his uniform reduce the visible supply of the precious metal. To Harding the inordinate amount of gold in the national Treasury is a source of increasing embarrassment, and he is probably not nearly as proud as Mr. Kohlsaat of that gentleman's achievement in fixing the single gold standard. To the work of getting McKinley nominated came as a volunteer "a pale, slight figure," with a talent for card cataloging Republican workers. The quarter-century developed him into General Dawes, boss of the federal budget, who demanded of congressional committees in the name of "Hell and Maria" that they do his bidding.

In 1896, the beginning of this era, Mr. Adolph S. Ochs responded to Mr. Kohlsaat's suggestion that he buy the New York Times, that he did not think he was a big enough man for the job. "Don't tell anybody and perhaps they'll never find out," responded the sagacious Kohlsaat, and the close of the era found Ochs the owner of what is perhaps the most notable paper in the world, recreated from a ruin in twenty-five years. In 1896 Frank Vanderlip, a reporter on the Chicago Economist at $40 a week, accepted, against Mr. Kohlsaat's advice, the position of private secretary to Lyman J. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury. In 1909 he became president of the greatest bank in the United States. Mr. Kohlsaat's chronicles these two instances of fortune following alike those who accepted and those who refused his counsel. He avows that his one criticism of the Harding administration was directed against the appointment of Colonel Harvey—his book was published before the amazing selection of A. P. Moore of Pittsburgh to be Ambassador to Spain.

How curiously the presidency was thrust upon Roosevelt these memoirs attest. B. B. Odell, now almost forgotten in politics, was the choice of the all-powerful Hanna for the vice-presidency in McKinley's second term, but peremptorily refused. How different might have been the course of history had he accepted and succeeded to the presidency upon the death of McKinley! A somewhat similar misplay is said to have kept Hiram Johnson out of the presidency. When the Chicago convention of 1920 was deadlocked between General Wood and Johnson, powerful forces suggested to the latter that if he would accept the vice-presidency they would nominate, with his aid, Senator Knox of Pennsylvania for first place. Thinking himself sure of winning the leading prize, Johnson refused. The Harding administration was but a few months old when Senator Knox passed on, as doubtless would have been the case had he at that time been the occupant of the White House.

Some day somebody will write a book on the making of presidents—which will tell of the curious and often trifling incidents which have kept great men out of the White House, and not infrequently landed exceedingly commonplace ones in that highly desirable residence. The ball-bearing in "Bill" Inglis' vest pocket that saved Wilson, the ill-regulated California thirst that brought the unknown Bryan within sight of the political promised land, the elevator out of commission that delivered Roosevelt to the wiles of Quigg and Platt, the blunder of a subordinate that snatched certain victory from Lowden; Hughes' erroneous handshake by the Pacific waters—but these are matters of political gossip not pertaining to Mr. Kohlsaat's book.

It is a curious picture Kohlsaat draws of what went on in the coaches of the funeral train taking the mortal remains of McKinley to Washington. Roosevelt, thus suddenly made President, was there, "his brain working like a trip hammer." Mark Hanna was there, torn between dislike and distrust of the new President and grief for the one whom he had made, and who now was gone. "I told William McKinley it was a mistake to nominate that wild man at Philadelphia," he cried. "I asked him if he realized what would happen if he should die. Now look! That damned cowboy is President of the United States." And Roosevelt, equally dour and resentful, said: "Hanna treats me like a boy. He calls me 'Teddy.'" Mr. Kohlsaat relates the gentle stratagem by which reconciliation was effected, and describes the end thus:

Shortly after he (Hanna) disappeared into Roosevelt's car, I was very nervous, but as an hour passed, and thirty minutes more, Hanna came in, and I knew by his face as he limped toward my seat that it was "all right." With a smile which the late Volney Foster said "would grease a wagon," Hanna said, "He's a pretty good little cuss, after all."

There was peace between the two thereafter until 1903, when for a brief time Roosevelt was obsessed by the idea that Mark Hanna was seeking the presidential nomination for himself.

To newspapermen, many of whom suffered from Roosevelt's practice of denying an interview when he discovered that what he had said did not take well with the country, one of Mr. Kohlsta's anecdotes will have peculiar value. A young French correspondent, unversed in the Rooseveltian strategy, had cabled to his paper a highly indiscreet statement made by the President. To quiet the uproar it caused Roosevelt gave the Associated Press an interview denying the utterances in toto. "Two or three days after the denial I lunched with the President in the White House. He asked me if I had seen his statement denying the interview. I said 'Yes, and I believe you said what the Frenchman sent to his paper, because you have said the same thing to me.' Snapping his teeth, he replied: 'Of course I said it, but I said it as Theodore Roosevelt, and not as the President of the United States.'"

An Enterprising Burglar

The shadows lay thick beneath the tree, and where they were deepest a figure crouched. Suddenly he heard a sound, a light footfall on the grass. "That you, mate?" he whispered hoarsely.

"Yes," came the answer.

"What you doing with that dog?" he muttered as his burglar partner drew near. "Why," answered his confederate, "There was nothing worth taking in the house, and it's bad luck to come away without anything, so I pinched the watchdog and these burglar alarms!"—London Opinion.

Height of Laziness

A man travelling through the Ozarks of southern Missouri went into a small country store. The only man in sight, presumably the proprietor, was enjoying his ease at the back of the store, chair tilted back and feet on the counter, and made no move to come forward.

The prospective customer waited a few minutes and then called:

"Can't you come and wait on me? I am in a hurry to get started home."

The proprietor shifted his position slightly and drawled:

"Couldn't you come in some time when I'm standing up?"—Everybody's

WISDOM

At Wellesley, Mass., October 3, Miss Caroline Hayard was formally inaugurated as President of Wellesley College. In her inaugural address she said: "It must always be remembered that men and women are not a different order of beings. They find their fullest and completest development together, yet nature's law is growth and with that growth the position of woman has changed and with that change the cultivation of the individual becomes more important. The problem is not simply that of bringing children into the world, but what kind of children shall be born, what kind of a mother shall be educated? For I take it the eternal feminine is simply this: It is the power of love which has its throne in a good woman's heart. Call it altruism if you like; call it the mother sea; found a philosophy or a system of speculation upon it, it is simply this endless capacity of love and devotion which Mary of Bethany showed when she sat at Jesus' feet. Humanity without divinity is of the dust that perishes. Humanity joined to divinity can compass the impossible. Therefore, on this day, at this solemn hour of accepting a trust, I speak of wisdom, the gift of Heaven, profitable as is that great field, but I speak of wisdom, the gift of Heaven which must descend like the gentle rain to fortify and fertilize, or there can be no harvest fit for the nourishment of man." J. P. Dulaney.

Wiles of a Country Editor

"I've hit upon a great scheme," said the editor of a small local paper. "I nearly doubled our circulation last week." "How'd you work it?" "See that steel stamp? Well, I just cut out a paragraph in the society column of the whole edition." "How'd that help the circulation?" "Why, every woman in town bought an extra copy to see what had been cut out."—Fort Worth, Tex., Star-Telegram.

"SOUL" LAND SHOULD NOT WORRY FARMERS NOW; GROW LEGUMES AND SEE SOIL IMPROVE

Soy Beans, Cowpeas, Vetch, Etc., Are Real Soil Builders and Can Be Grown, It Is Said, On Sour, Unlimed Ground

MANY FARMERS ARE PROFITING THEREBY

Cowpeas, soybeans, velvet beans, vetch, alsike clover, beggarweed and some other legumes which are valuable for pasture and hay and for plowing under green as manure, can be grown successfully on sour or unlimed land. Some of these varieties are adapted to a wide range of territory.

Many farmers under present conditions cannot or will not buy ground limestone. They have been taught for years that legumes cannot be grown profitably on sour land. That is true in the case of some legumes, like alfalfa and red clover; but they have not been informed by the same advisers and teachers that some other legumes are reliable, profitable crops on that kind of land. The Gazette was the first farm journal editorially to take this position, which has been since abundantly justified by the practical experience of farmers in many regions.

We recommend ground limestone to farmers who can afford to apply it for the special purpose of preparing sour soils to grow alfalfa or red clover. We have tried to make it clear, however, that these are not the only valuable legumes, and that it is not necessary to wait until "good times" to sweeten sour soils before growing legumes every year on acid land.

The limestone "gospel" has been preached until many farmers believe that he must accept it in order to be saved from failure with legumes. Having accepted it, he has not, in thousands of instances, tried to grow any legumes, not knowing that he could grow some of them—and some of the best—on sour land.

We should be in a sorry plight indeed if every acre of acid farming land in this country required liming as a first step toward soil improvement. Practically all land of this class is markedly deficient in nitrogen, phosphorus and humus. We can grow legumes on it without applying lime, and, by plowing under the legumes, we can add humus and nitrogen.

This is effective soil-building procedure. Carried on for a few years it would make sour, worn soils grow grain and other crops that would pay for applying phosphorus. This element must eventually be supplied in some form in order to complete any soil-building program begun on most sour land. While the program is under way, dairy or beef-and-milk cows, a few sheep and hogs, some draught mares, and chickens, geese, ducks and turkeys can be maintained largely on home-grown feeds on the farm. Therefore, the poor man on sour land in "hard times" should not despair; a sure, clear "way out" is open to him. If he has the will and faith to enter it, and the steadfastness of purpose to stick to the legume road he will prosper and enjoy the struggle. What others have done he may do if he will.

COLONEL "JIM" WICKES CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Well Known Dover Editor and Publisher 55 Years Old Yesterday

Colonel James C. Wickes, one of the best known newspaper men on the Delmarva Peninsula, celebrated his fifty-fifth birthday in a quiet manner yesterday.

For thirty of those fifty-five years, "Jim" Wickes, as he is affectionately called, has been connected with newspaper work, first in the South and then in Delaware.

Twenty-two years ago, he came to Dover, where he started the State News. His paper has been coming out every Wednesday since that time. It is a power in Kent County, and enjoys one of the largest circulations in the State. He is known by every man, woman and child in Dover, and is a recognized authority on politics of the State and County.

Colonel Wickes and his wife live in a splendid home on State Street, in Dover. Congratulations from his many friends from miles around are pouring into the home and his office near the State House.

At fifty-five, Colonel Wickes is active and intensely interesting. He maintains keen insight into the affairs of the State.

"But if ye can't remember anything, Mike, how do you know that ye had such an illigant toime?"

"How do Oi know?" repeated Casey. "Well, Oi've just overheard a policeman telling the Magistrate all about it."—Los Angeles Times.

THE SPORTING TICKER

A Column Devoted to Clean Athletics and Sportsmanship, written by one who loves the Game.

There are time in all walks of life, in all manner of endeavor when, unknown to most everyone concerned, there appears the proverbial "fly in the ointment." And before that fly is extricated, the ointment is usually all messed up and disturbed and everything.

With this homely foreword, we proceed to consider once again the prospective Newark baseball team. There is no doubt about it; Newark is going to have a team, so the professional and hard-shelled pessimists may just as well save their breath for the games which start in less than a month.

To be perfectly frank the Ticker believes that there is a distinct fly in the baseball ointment of Newark. The fly is this: shall the members of the team play for the sake of sport and the interest of the town?

Shall they all be paid a certain amount of money each week, or shall a few of the players, evidently standing out among the rest, be paid a sum commensurate with their ability?

Such is the problem as it now confronts "Doc" Rhodes, the head of the organization this year.

"Doc" is just about the most conscientious, earnest and fair minded man who is interested in the club. And to do the right thing is his one passion.

The Newark baseball team has no Rock of Gibraltar in the guise of money to lean upon this year. The expenses are to be kept down to the minimum, the receipts accounted for and an adequate system of financing employed.

But it is also thought that some remuneration might be given pitchers or catchers or other players.

And there is the rub.

It is unfair to discriminate among players on a team representing a small town unless there is money enough behind the team to give the manager the right to handle his men in the way hired men are handled. That system cannot be in Newark.

Some prospective members of the team expect to receive five or six dollars per game for their services. Pitchers and catchers are worth it to the team. They should have it. But it is known that to pay nine men six dollars per game during the season would bankrupt the team under its present budget.

If a man says he is worth five dollars a game in the infield or outfield, he should play for nothing. If that is all he is worth, then his ambitions are not very high. If a boy in Newark is really a ball player of the first calibre, he should, if intending to enter professional ranks, command more than five dollars a game. Too many men either underrate or overrate their abilities. Such is the case here.

There isn't, we will venture to say, a man who will be on the team this year who could stand the pace of a Class B organization—a second rate minor league. And if he is a real, honest to goodness ball player, with brains, experience and natural ability, that's where he should start asking for money—not in Newark, Delaware.

If these men who want money, outside of the pitchers and catchers, would only stop and think for a moment of the fact that around them on the team will be men who are playing for the fun of it and for the welfare of Newark, and playing just as good a brand of ball as the paid players, it stands to reason that the five dollars per game is ill spent.

Why not try merging every available ball player in town into a club where every man is on an equal basis with his neighbor, and get out there and play as well as they know how. Then if the team makes a good showing in the league its will be an example of what Love of the Game will do; and if the team slips, with every man doing his best, there is still time to save the sinking ship. And there will not be a fifty dollar debt hanging over until next year.

It's either play for Newark, or play for Five Dollars.
You may write your own ticket.

FORE!

Once again that call is echoing over the crest of Quality Hill; once again, the driver and the mashie and the bad language are being polished up for the annual five month pursuit of the elusive white ball.

The Country Club is the daily Mecca for anxious golfers, who "just can't wait until the greens harden up."

In a week or two, the course will be in fine shape, and the local Golfers' Union will begin to function, and will be, as one P. Barnum oftentimes said "bigger and better than ever."

It is said that several converts will enter the fold this spring. There are still a few holdouts in and around town, who haven't forsaken their long trousers, and "darned if they will, either." But they say that when the little Golf bug once gets its tentacles fastened on a victim—well, it's knickerbockers and a bag of clubs, cold suppers and strange exercises in the quiet of the bedroom.

The caddies are looking forward to a very successful season, thank you.

How about a Marble Shootin' Tournament?

That fast disappearing Springtime Rite of the Small Boy needs encouraging. It don't seem right to see April come with so little marbles going on. Don't know whether such an event may be promoted but the kids may yet have a chance to show their wares.

SLAYERS IN NEWARK

It is held by Sheriff Gifford that John Webb and Charles Kessing, of Barksdale, Md., passed through Newark Friday evening en route from Wilmington. This theory is based on the fact that they had inquired in Wilmington for a bus to Newark.

Evidently they passed through Main Street, sauntered about town for a few minutes and either took a local B. and O. train to Barksdale or travelled there on foot.

Long Wait Fatal

A commercial traveller, having waited two hours at a sleepy little country station for a train, began to feel slightly bored.

"I suppose," said he, sarcastically, to the solitary man in whom was embodied the station staff, "nobody ever gets killed on this line, do they?"

"Don't be so sure, sir," said the old man in reply. "Only last year young Tompkins, who was jilted by his girl, committed suicide by laying himself on the rails just along here."

"But he did not get run over, did he?" asked the traveller.

"Why, of course, he did," returned the other. "How else do you think he was killed?"

"Well, I thought perhaps the poor chap died from exposure," answered the traveller.—Boston Post.

GUY BATES POST

IN
"THE MASQUERADER"

For six years the world has waited to see "The Masquerader" in films—just as Richard Walton Tully presented it on the stage, just as Guy Bates Post created the dual roles of John Chilcote, M. P., and John Loder. Now all those things have happened at once. "The Masquerader" has come to the screen with redoubled force. It is as outstanding among motion pictures as it was among stage dramas. It grips, and thrills and fascinates in a way few productions on the stage or screen have ever done. And, added to that, it is an artistic masterpiece. Directed by James Young with a cast of unrivalled ability to support Mr. Post, "The Masquerader" will be listed among the three finest pictures of the season... and it is doubtful if there will be any to surpass it.

Sarah Albina Campbell

Another shock to the community in which she lived occurred Sunday, March 25th, in the demise of Sarah Albina Campbell. Aunt Sarah, as she was affectionately known by all, and by whom were honored to know her, was the surviving member of a family of eleven, five brothers and six sisters. She was born on her father's farm in Cecil county, Md., located near Miller's Corner, May 10th, 1846, which was her home practically her life time. At the death of her father, the sisters inherited the farm, which was maintained by them, all having remarkable executive and administrative ability, caring for their brothers and sisters one by one in their declining years, all ending their days there except one brother. Each was tenderly cared for and nursed by their loving sisters as each one passed away.

During her early life she taught school at Iron Hill, Md., close to the farm, and at Hopewell, N. J. The past two years she and her then surviving sister, Miss Emma R. Campbell, now deceased, removed to Newark, Del., selling their farm to a Mr. Davis who married one of her grandnieces, the home farm still remaining in the family. She is survived by eighteen or twenty nephews and nieces, and grand-nephews and grandnieces and several great grand-nephews and great grandnieces. She was a faithful and consistent member of the Primitive Baptist Church at Welsh Tract, Iron Hill, Delaware, baptised in the Christiana Creek more than fifty years ago, close to the meeting house under the shadow of the old oak trees, the age of which are not known or recorded. She will be mourned and missed by young and old in her immediate community; and, by her separation, her visits to friends from New York to Virginia will create a vacuum that will never be filled in their friendship, fellowship and companionship. But our loss is her gain—she has gone to her reward.

One nephew, Mr. John Frazier, has been in the household for the past forty years, one of the truest and most faithful relatives of the deceased woman. He is greatly saddened by the death of Aunt Sarah, and the community joins in sending sympathy to the old gentleman in his grief.

William G. McDonald

William G. McDonald, one of the old line residents of Newark, was called by the Grim Reaper on Friday morning at 7:30 o'clock, after a week's illness caused by pneumonia. Death came quickly, as he was in his eighty-first year, and lacked strength to combat the dread disease. The deceased man had lived in Newark for the past sixty years, and had seen the rapid growth from little cross roads village with Newark Academy as its chief bid for fame to a prosperous and of his career he was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. He was retired from active service many years ago.

He is survived by three sons, L. D. McDonald, of Wilmington; William A. McDonald, of Memphis, Tenn. and Cecil C. McDonald, of Laurence, Long Island; a sister, Mrs. Emily Whitcraft, of New York; and a sister-in-law, Miss Kate Darlington, sister of his wife who died several years ago.

The funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence on Delaware Avenue. Interment at Head of Christiana Cemetery.

Thomas Mullin

Thomas A. Mullin, aged eighty years, died last Thursday in Red Men's Home here, after a lingering illness of several months.

Mr. Mullin, the third elderly resident of the town, who died during the past week, was well known in this vicinity. He was a prominent leader in affairs connected with the local tribe of Red Men.

For most of the winter the deceased was confined to his room. Several times his life was despaired of, but he rallied nobly and managed to improve slightly. A few weeks ago a change for the worse took place and he sank rapidly to the end.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from Red Men's Home. It was attended by a large number of Red Men and Odd Fellows, both lodges attending in a body. Interment was made in Newark Cemetery.

George B. McManus

The funeral of George Bright McManus, who was killed in an auto accident last week, was held Saturday morning in Wilmington and Philadelphia.

Many Newark people attended the services in the Sacred Heart Church, in Wilmington. The pall bearers were his classmates, all members of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. Escorting the body from the Chandler funeral parlors to the church was a group of some twenty or thirty of the dead boy's chums, from college, fraternity and town.

For an hour previous to the sealing of the casket in the undertaking parlors, a steady stream of friends of the deceased came to pay their last respects. Flowers were sent from all over the State from the many friends he had.

Interment was made in the afternoon in Holy Cross Cemetery, in Philadelphia.

Ephraim Myers

Ephraim Myers, 66 years old, a life-long resident of Newport, died at his home on Thursday, March 22, 1923, following several weeks illness. Mr. Myers was a native of Delaware and for years was a tax collector of that section of Christiana hundred. He also worked as a clerk in the office of the recorder of deeds at one time. He is survived by his wife and three children, they being Mrs. Essie G. Long and Mrs. J. P. Gray and Herbert Myers. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from his late home with interment in Newport cemetery.

Next Sunday Easter
Despite Full Moon

Next Sunday will be Easter, the event falling this year on April 1. Strange to say, there is a full moon on that day, which the Episcopal Prayer Book Rule says can never happen.

This apparent contradiction is due to the fact that the prayer book omits to mention that the moon that decides Easter Sunday is not the moon of the heavens, but a purely imaginary body called the Ecclesiastical Moon, the uniform movements of which are regulated by a set of tables. The deciding phase of this artificial moon happens, according to the tables, this year on March 31, and because of this Easter Sunday falls on April 1, in spite of the real moon being full on the same day.

The tabular moon, being full on the same day all over the world, insures a simultaneous observance of Easter Sunday wherever the Georgian calendar is used; whereas, if the full phase of the real moon were the deciding factor, it could happen on different days, in, say, Europe and America, owing to the difference in time, and would occasionally mean that there would be a month's difference between Easter here and in Europe.

That's Asking a Lot

"Darling," cooed the blushing girl. "I need just two things to make me completely happy."

"What are they, dearest?" the enraptured youth inquired.

"That you love me as much as you do yourself, and that you get to be as great as you think you are," she whispered.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Good Indian's Prayer

OH POWERS that be, make be sufficient to my own occasions. Teach me to know and to observe the Rules of the Game. Give to me to mind my own business at all times and to lose no good opportunity of holding my tongue. Help me not to cry for the moon or over spilled milk. Grant me neither to proffer nor to welcome cheap praise; to distinguish sharply between sentiment and sentimentality, cleaving to one and despising the other. When it is appointed for me to suffer, let me, so far as may humanely be possible, take example from the dear, well-bred beasts, and go away quietly, to bear my sufferings by myself. Give to me to be always a good comrade, and to view the passing show with an eye constantly growing keener, a charity broadening and deepening day by day. Help me to win, if win I may; but—and this, Oh Powers! especially—if I may not win, make me a good loser. Amen.

Damages Asked

"You say this man means nothing to you?"

"Nothing whatever," replied the fair plaintiff, haughtily.

"If it please your honor," interrupted her lawyer, "he has a certain financial value to her and we propose to show that it is approximately $50,000."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

ARTIST SERIES ENDS WITH KIPLING TALK

Prof. Pearson, of Swarthmore, Gives Splendid Lecture on Noted Englishman

Wolf Hall was the Mecca for all lovers of Kipling last Saturday evening, the occasion being the final number of Artist Series entertainments for the current season, at which time Prof. Paul M. Pearson lectured on the famous British bard.

Prof. Pearson is known throughout the East as one of the pioneers in Chautauqua work. His fame as a lecturer and lyceum organizer is also well recognized. He came to Newark Saturday and charmed a large audience by his clever talk, and commendable readings from Kipling.

The first part of the evening was taken by the speaker in delivering a formal lecture on the author, his work, his life, his attainments. Then, after the termination of that part of the program, he recited several selections from the works of Kipling, each number of which was enjoyed by all in the audience.

The lecture Saturday evening closed the current Artist Series at the University. The entertainments were very well patronized, not only by those connected with the University but by the townspeople. The Committee in charge will no doubt plan for a similar list of attractions next winter.

CONSIGNMENT SALE IS GREAT SUCCESS

$420 Paid for Winterthur Farms Entry. Other Prices Good, Bidding Spirited

The fourth annual Consignment Sale of Registered Holstein-Friesian cattle was staged last Thursday at the State Fair grounds near Wilmington. The sale was promoted by the Delaware Holstein Breeders' Association, composed for the most part of New Castle County dairymen.

The sale was a marked success, according to the reports of various men of attendance. Prices, while a little low at first, gradually mounted as the interest and spirited bidding increased. Col. George Baxter, of Elmira, N. Y., one of the best known cattle auctioneers in the country was in excellent form, and he disposed of the registered beauties with clocklike precision.

The highest price paid for an animal at the sale was $420, coming from Cornicopia Cedarcrest, a prize cow from the Winterthur Farms. The all bringing the highest bid was King Ormsby Sadie Vale Pontiac, another product of the Winterthur Farms. The price paid for him was $310.

Pennsylvania buyers ruled along the enclosure. They bought a good percentage of the cattle offered at prices averaging about $175 per head. Among them were the Delaware Land and Development of Martinville, Pa., and H. C. Cook, of Langhorne, Pa. J. Reynolds, of Middletown, well-known cattle breeder of the county was also a spirited bidder and took several head back home with him.

A larger crowd was present at the event, and while a comparative few bid upon the entries, sufficient interest was shown by everyone to make the sale anything but monotonous. Prices hovering around $200 were bid for the milch cows. "Countess Angerveld Butter Boy," the pride of the B. V. Armstrong dairy farm, Middletown brought $195, while Boxy Clothilde of Aldine, from the farm of J. Irvin Dayett of Cooch's Bridge was sold for an even $200. J. Dayett had the largest number of cattle entered in the sale. The diversity of Delaware had one entry while Winterthur Farms came close at the Dayett Farm for the number put under the hammer.

The committee in charge of the sale were entirely satisfied with the results and it is expected that it will be a yearly event among the farmers of the State. The members of the committee are: H. B. Clark, Elkton, chairman; L. C. Hoffecker, J. D. Reynolds, Middletown; L. Dayett, Cooch's Bridge; R. O. Luman, Newark; J. R. Danks, Winthur; J. C. Mitchell, Hockessin; E. Pleasanton, Mt. Pleasant.

A CORRECTION

The Post begs to acknowledge an error in connection with the publication last week of the story "Increasing Tomato Yields," a feature for the farmers of the vicinity.

The authorship of the article is divided between Dr. T. F. Manns and Prof. L. R. Detjen, of the Agricultural Staff of the University.

Credit was not given to Prof. Detjen for his efforts in getting out the publication in bulletin form, from which The Post reprinted.

We regret very much the error and trust that this correction may in part straighten the matter out.

JOHN WEBB, ALLEGED SLAYER OF CECIL FARM HAND, ARRESTED AT HOME OF SISTER

Sheriff and Deputy Wair for Return of Fugitive To Adjoining Farm; Charles Kessing Also Held

EARLY TRIAL IN ELKTON COURTS

The tragic circumstances surrounding the death on Wednesday last of Joe Dorian, an employee on the little farm of John Szmylyk, near Barksdale, were cleared up Saturday night when John Webb and Charles Kessing, neighbors and known by all in that vicinity were arrested on the farm adjoining the scene of the murder by Sheriff Gifford and Deputy Sheriff Kirk. The alleged slayers were suspicioned from the outset and had been traced to Delaware City and Wilmington. There the trail was lost. Under cover of darkness the fugitives attempted to slip back to the home of Webb's sister, Mrs. Dora Vaughn. They offered no resistance to the arrest and together with Mrs. Vaughn are now being held without bail in Elkton jail.

It has been reported that the shooting affray which resulted in the death of Dorian grew out of trouble over money alleged to have been due the dead man from Mrs. Vaughn. Several altercations between Dorian and Webb had occurred in the past, and the relations between them were very strained.

A quick trial for the alleged slayers is expected. As soon as the machinery of the law can swing into action, the culprits will be tried in the Court House at Elkton. One of the star witness for the State will be one of the little Szmylyk tots who was trapped for a whole day by the dead body of Dorian. She told the Coroners' jury that Kessing and Webb stood outside the tumble down house Wednesday and dared Joe to "come out and fight."

Neither the two men nor Mrs. Vaughn would make a statement concerning the murder.

The dead Italian who kept the household together since the death of the mother last Fall, was buried Sunday in Cherry Hill Cemetery, at the expense of the county, he having no relatives. Great sympathy is felt for the five children, as nothing was known of their mode of living until the shooting revealed the fact that they were existing under the most unsanitary conditions. The county will, in all events, take charge of them, until they are grown up.

Woman Known Here

Mrs. Vaughn, held as an accomplice after the fact was known to many people in Newark and Elkton, often came to the former town bringing farm produce which she sold from door to door to the housewives. She also was known to have driven a large touring car of several years' vintage.

The farm where the murder oc-

ELKTON SHOCKED BY WEEK'S DEATH TOLL

Three Prominent People Pass Away in Four Days. Strickland Death Great Shock

Elkton was deprived of three very well-known residents during the past week by the Grim Reaper.

Seldom has the town suffered so many losses during one winter. As Spring approaches and all wake to the beauties of the season, the pall of death again comes down on the town.

On Friday Rueben Deibert died in a sanatorium near Baltimore. On Monday Mrs. Sarah Deibert, widow of Henry Deibert, a pioneer in boat building along the Chesapeake and founder of the boat yard below Elkton, died in Union Hospital from a sudden attack of pneumonia. She was 70 years of age.

Yesterday news came of the death of Clarence C. Strickland, cashier of the National Bank of Elkton, and known by everyone in Cecil County and the Eastern Shore. Mr. Strickland was one of the very successful business men in Elkton. His death was a shock as previous reports held that his recovery from a recent operation was almost assured.

Elkton Home Sold

Joseph H. Perkins, of Elkton, sold his home on East Main street of that town last Friday, to Victor S. Taylor, of Philadelphia, Pa. The price is said to be upwards of $9,500. The residence is very substantial and good looking. It is perhaps the largest single residence sale of the past month or two in Elkton.

Mr. Taylor will move into the new home during the early part of May.

Elkton is only two and a half miles from Newark and about three miles from Elkton. The house is part frame and part wood and very bare looking. The roads approaching the house are inches deep in mud.

Quick work on the part of Sheriff Gifford was undoubtedly responsible for the capture. He was on the job a few minutes after the plight of the children was discovered by the father. From then he trailed the alleged slayers closely.

Webb and Kessing evidently came through Newark on their way back to the farm.

K. G. E. WINS EXCITING QUOIT MATCH HERE

Heptasophs Walloped Last Saturday Evening. Ivy Castle Goes to Christiana

A large and enthusiastic gallery witnessed a most exciting quoit match last Saturday night in the lodge rooms, when Ivy Castle team, K. G. E., defeated the team representing the local order of Heptasophs by four games to one.

Each game was close and keenly contested and the players were the center of attention. The games are expected to continue between the various lodges of the town and more reports will be heard next week.

Grand Castle Meets

The Grand Castle, K. G. E. meets on the evening of April 2d at Christiana, Del., where special ceremonies are in order. It is requested by local members of the order that all past chiefs residing in the vicinity arrange matters so that they may be there. An unusually large and enthusiastic representation is anticipated.

Automobiles will leave the Hall promptly at eight-thirty Monday evening next.

HACKENDORN GETS 10-YEAR SENTENCE

Pleads Guilty to Assault and Battery on Little Avis Martin

After entering a plea of guilty to the charge of assault and battery on Avis Martin, 10 years old, Harry Hackendorn was sentenced in the Superior Court Thursday afternoon to ten years' imprisonment and a fine of $1000.

Hackendorn was brought into court shortly after 2 o'clock. One of the largest crowds that has been seen in the courtroom for many years was present to hear the decision of the court.

In sentencing the prisoner, Chief Justice Pennewill said: "A fact has come to the court's attention that is not generally known, namely, that the purpose of the assault was not accomplished. It is this fact that has influenced the court to be lenient in your case."

Hackendorn is alleged to have led the little Martin girl, who lives at Hamilton Park, into a secluded part of a nearby wood while on her way to school, under the pretext that he wished her to take his own child to school. It was while in this wood that the attempted assault was made, it was brought out.

INDEPENDENT PHONE LINES TO BE BOUGHT

Report Says Eastern Shore Companies Will Be Absorbed by Chesapeake and Potomac

It has just become generally known in Elkton and upper Maryland that the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, a subsidiary of the Bell system, is negotiating for the purchase of two independent Eastern Shore companies. They are the Cecil Farmers' Telephone Line and the Dorchester Telephone Company.

A conference was held between representatives of the two companies the latter part of last week to conclude arrangements.

These two companies are two of the few existing independent phone or telegraph companies in the country. The Bell system stretches its wires in a network across the nation. The two Eastern Shore companies as well as the Chesapeake and Potomac Co. are under the supervision of the Maryland Public Service Commission and upon the decision of that body rests the proposed merger.

MARYLAND DAY

March 25th is celebrated throughout that State as Maryland Day. This year the date fell on Sunday so in most cases the ceremonies were held on Monday, and it was declared a State holiday. Special programs in the schools feature the day throughout the State.

Frank B. Evans, Esq., a member of the Cecil County bar and at present engaged in scientific farming near Elkton, made the Maryland Day address to the students of Cecilton High School last Friday afternoon.

Cadillac Is Leading The Field In High School Subscription Drive

At the half way mark in the High School Race for Funds for their Athletic Association, the Cadillac team captained by Albert Strahorn, is enjoying a lead over all other competitors amount to about FIFTEEN POINTS

Second place is being held down by Ida MacMurray's Pierce-Arrow crowd, but the persistent efforts of the Ford team, captained by Aileen Shaw, makes the difference between them a very few points.

The townspeople are responding nobly to the drive, and now that the teams are really finding out just how much rivalry exists, they are putting on full speed ahead and the last half of the race is expected to be close and exciting.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THE NEWARK POST ARE COMING IN EACH DAY. MANY OF THE WORKERS HAVE NOT SEEN ALL THEIR PROSPECTS.

ALL THE TEAM MEMBERS ARE WORKING HARD TO MAKE THEIR TEAM ELIGIBLE FOR THE BANQUET TO BE GIVEN BY THE POST AT THE END OF THE DRIVE.

HOW A LITTLE ADVERTISING SOLD CRANBERRIES TO AN EAGER PUBLIC

Market For Berries Approached Low Ebb Now 47 Per Cent Gain in Sales Since 1915

PRINTERS' INK HELPS ANY BUSINESS

An exceedingly interesting test of the value of advertising has been made during recent years by the producers of cranberries. During the ten years from 1906 to 1916, the production of cranberries increased 200,000 barrels, but consumption was small and growers were hard pressed to meet expenses.

That year the American Cranberry Exchange started advertising in Chicago. By the close of the season the sales in Chicago were 47 per cent more than in 1915, 27 per cent more than in 1914 and 57 per cent more than in 1913. At the same time in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Cleveland, where no advertising was done, there were decreases in sales running from one to 57 per cent.

In 1918 the first national advertising campaign on cranberries was attempted. It was a bad year to boom the trade. The mild fall and winter was considered detrimental to consumption. The regulation of sugar at that time was an unfavorable factor. It was the general opinion that cranberries would not sell.

But the advertising worked wonders. It began in the United States, October 15th. A broker wrote October 25th: "The brokers seem to have it in their heads that cranberries are not going to sell here to any extent." On December 4th this broker telegraphed: "Jobbers all out of cranberries. Can't you possibly divert or ship car." So the story came from many places and on this unfavorable year cranberries sold better than ever before.

The net result of the campaign was to increase consumption to a point where the increased production was inadequate for the demand, and the cost of marketing has been reduced to a minimum.

Any business man ought to learn from such an experience that his production and sales can be greatly increased if he will push his goods with printer's ink.

A Program For The Control Of Disease And Insect Pests In Delaware Orchards

Being A Bulletin Published By The Extension Service In Agriculture And Home Economics Of The School Of Agriculture Of The University Of Delaware And Released For Publication In The Post By The University Authorities

The production of clean and marketable fruit by the orchardist is dependent upon the successful control of fungous diseases and insect pests. Good equipment, uniform pressure, thoroughness of application, and the quality and strength of the fungicides and insecticides are of first importance. A spray schedule is next of importance as a guide in securing timely applications. The following spray schedules have been prepared for the orchardists as the result of investigations and experiences under Delaware conditions. No set dates should be followed as a guide to applying fungicides and insecticides as seasonal conditions will effect the growth of trees from year to year. Protracted rainy periods will often necessitate the use of additional sprays in order to secure the maximum protection of the developing foliage and fruit. The orchardist to a great extent must be guided by the conditions in his own orchard in regard to the timely applications of fungicides and insecticides in order to secure the maximum efficiency and protection.

Spray Schedule for Apples

1. Delayed Dormant:—Lime sulphur, commercial, 20 gallons to 180 gallons of water. When aphids eggs are present add 1 quart of 40% nicotine sulphate to every 200 gallons of spray. Apply when tips of bud scales are spreading and buds show green, and complete this spray before tips of the leaves separate. For scale, aphids, clover mite, leaf-roller eggs, blotch, and scab.

*2. Pink or Scab Spray:—Lime sulphur, commercial, 5 gallons to 195 gallons of water adding 5 pounds of dry arsenate of lead. Bordeaux mixture may be used in place of lime sulphur. Apply when blossom clusters are spreading so as to complete spraying before one-fourth of the fruit blossoms open. For curculio, canker worms, tent caterpillar, leaf roller, bud moth, scab and frog-eye leaf spot. If aphids are still troublesome add 1 quart of 40% nicotine sulphate to every 200 gallons of spray mixture.

(*) A "pre-pink" spray is often found practical as an aid in scab control when growth is slowed up because of unfavorable weather. It should be applied when the blossom clusters first show.

NOTE 1:—The use of dusts on apples has not given as thorough control of fungous diseases and insects as liquids in Delaware. When used they should be timed in application as closely as the liquid sprays. In the use of dusts the orchardist should attempt to keep the growth as thoroughly protected as with the liquids.

3. Petal Fall Spray:—Materials the same as pink spray. Bordeaux mixture at this time may increase the danger of fruit russetting. Apply immediately after the petals have fallen, but before the calyx lobes have closed. For codling moth, curculio, tent caterpillars, canker worms, scab and frog-eye leaf spot.

4. First Summer Spray:—Materials the same as pink spray. Bordeaux mixture at this time may increase the danger of fruit russetting. If leaf hoppers are present add 1 quart of 40% nicotine sulphate to every 200 gallons of spray mixture. Apply so as to complete spraying two weeks after petal fall is completed. If curculio are troublesome the same materials should be applied seven days after petal fall is completed. If hot weather and drought conditions occur during this period and subsequent periods, for spray applications use self-boiled lime sulphur (8-8-50) or dry-mix-lime sulphur, in order to prevent possibility of fruit russetting. For codling moth, curculio, tent caterpillars, blotch, frog-eye, leaf spot and scab.

5. Second Summer Spray:—Materials same as pink spray. Apply three weeks after petal fall is completed. If heavy rains subsequent to this application repeat in order to carry fruit completely protected until the last summer spray is applied. Where bitter-rot is prevalent use Bordeaux mixture, 3-6-50, on susceptible varieties. For codling moth, scab, sooty blotch, fly-speck, bitter-rot, and blotch and fruit spot.

6. Third Summer Spray:—Materials same as Pink Spray. Apply eight weeks after petal fall is completed or complete during first week of July. Where bitter-rot is prevalent use Bordeaux mixture 3-6-50 on susceptible varieties. For same pest as in fourth summer spray. This spray is important for second brood of codling moth.

7. Fourth Summer Spray:—Materials same as last spray applied at discretion of orchardist in order that fruit may be protected properly until harvest. Weather conditions should determine this application for the first part or middle of August.

Spray Schedule for Peaches

(Destroy all Mummied Fruit Before Growth Starts.)

1. Dormant Spray: Lime Sulphur, commercial, 20 gallons to 180 gallons of water. Apply in spring before the buds swell. For scale and leaf curl.

1A. If "Blossom Blight" (Brown Rot) appears use self-boiled lime sulphur or a sulphur lime dust mixture 80-20. In some sections lime sulphur 1-50 has been used with safety. This application is called a "pre-pink" and if applied in time will often check any rapid or extensive spread of the disease.

2. Curculio Spray: Self-boiled lime sulphur 8-8-50 strength and 6 pounds of dry arsenate of lead to each 200 gallons of spray mixture. Apply about ten days after petal fall or when the shucks or calyces are being shed. For curculio, scab and brown rot. (See Note 1.) Some orchardists prefer to use only the arsenate of lead at this spray.

3. First Summer Spray: Materials same as used in curculio spray, except that arsenate of lead may be omitted. Apply three weeks after curculio spray. For curculio, scab, and brown rot.

(*) NOTE 1:—Where orchardists are equipped for dusting four or five dustings will be necessary. Use a sulphur, lead arsenate, lime mixture 80-10-10 for the curculio application, and a sulphur lime mixture 80-20 for the remaining dust applications. Where growers desire to use 80-20 for the summer sprays a sulphur, lead arsenate, lime mixture 70-10-20 will prove safer in preventing possible leaf and fruit injury.

4. Second Summer Spray: Self-boiled lime sulphur 8-8-50 strength. Apply three to four weeks before fruit ripens. It should be applied at discretion of orchardist in order that fruit may be properly protected from brown rot infection. For scab and brown rot.

Grape Spraying Program for Delaware

PRUNING:—To insure control of grape diseases prune out before the season of growth begins all mummied fruit, canker and dead wood, and also any excess of vine growth and burn. Tie up firmly and space well.

CULTURE:—Before growth takes place, but after all danger of frost is over, it is advisable to plow under all diseased fruit and leaves on the ground.

DORMANT SPRAYING:—In badly infected vineyards a dormant spray is necessary to control scale and to help control brown rot and black rot. Apply this dormant spray just before growth starts. Use commercial lime sulphur, 20 gallons in 180 gallons of water. If no scale insects are present use Bordeaux 6-10-50.

Summer Spraying Schedule

The following are the most important sprays:—

FIRST APPLICATION:—About a week or ten days before the blossoms open or when shoots are six to ten inches long; spray with Bordeaux mixture 3-6-50 formula; for black rot, brown rot, or other fungous diseases. Pressure 175 to 200 pounds. In badly infested vineyards two pre-blossom sprays should be given; one when growth is 2 to 6 inches, a second when vines are 8 to 12 inches long.

SECOND APPLICATION:—Just as the blossoms fall. This is a very important spray, use Bordeaux mixture 3-6-50, adding 1½ pounds of powdered arsenate of lead; to control black rot, brown rot and other fungous diseases; also insect trouble; the grape berry moth, the grade folder, the rose bug and adults of the grape root worm. If the rose bug is plentiful add one pint of cheap molasses to 50 gallons of spray. Pressure 175 to 200 pounds.

THIRD APPLICATION:—About 10 days later, just before the grapes touch in the cluster; use Bordeaux mixture 3-6-50, and powdered arsenate of lead 1½ pounds, should leaf hopper, or other sucking insects be present add ½ pint of 40% nicotine sulphate to 50 gallons of spray. If rose bug appears add one pint of molasses. Growers having orchard outfits should use the "trailer" method. Pressure 175 to 200 pounds.

LATER APPLICATIONS:—Watch vineyard closely; sometimes a rainy week, or a week of fog will start black rot or brown rot. Such weather conditions may call for extra sprayings. For such late sprays use Bordeaux 2-3-50 formula. This will not color the clusters much; use the "trailer" method and thoroughly penetrate the clusters, sweeping the foliage out of the way with open hand. Neutral acetate of copper is probably a better spray in dry weather. (3 lbs. to 50 gallons of water).

METHODS:—WHEN FOLIAGE IS HEAVY, THE SET NOZZLE METHODS HAVE AT TIMES FAILED TO FULLY CONTROL THE INSECT AND FUNGUS TROUBLES. WE RECOMMEND THE "TRAILER" METHOD FOR THOSE HAVING ENGINE DRIVE PUMPS. USE PRESSURE OF 175 TO 200 POUNDS. USE NO SULPHUR SPRAY ON GRAPES IN SUMMER AS THESE INJURE THE FOLIAGE.

HOME-MADE SPRAYS

Bordeaux Mixture

The standard formula for this fungicide is as follows:
Copper Sulphate (bluestone) ..... 3 pounds
Stone Lime (Hydrate Lime about 8 pounds) ..... 6 pounds
Water ..... 50 gallons

Bordeaux mixture may be prepared as follows: Dissolve the copper sulphate in a wooden bucket or barrel, by suspending same in a sack just below the surface of the water. In spraying large orchards, a stock solution containing 2 lbs. of copper sulphate to the gallon of water is handy. Such a stock solution is made up in a barrel by suspending 50 lbs. of bluestone in 25 gallons of water. An equal quantity of stone lime may be slaked into a putty. Many fruit men are having success with a high grade of hydrated lime, using 8 lbs. in place of 6 lbs. of stone lime. Bordeaux mixed more than 12 hours is not safe to use on account of burning. Many growers use as high as 12 lbs. of hydrated lime in 50 gallons of Bordeaux.

Self-Boiled Lime Sulphur

This home-made preparation is very valuable for peach; commercial lime sulphur as used on apple greatly injures peach foliage. The following is the formula:

8 lbs. of stone lime
8 lbs. of sulphur
50 gallons of water.

Slack the lime in water, adding only enough at first to start heat, then more till it boils rapidly. The sulphur should be added as the lime is boiling to a paste. Keep lime covered with a half inch of water; do not drown as the quality of the spray will not be as good. As soon as the lime has slacked (usually 10 to 15 minutes) add 25 to 30 gallons of water; strain and make up to 50 gallons.

"Dry-Mix" or "Wettable Lime Sulphur"

This spray has proven successful in experiments conducted this season in the commercial orchards in the east and northwest for control of fungous diseases and insects of the apple and peach. This mixture has been substituted for the summer sprays of commercial lime sulphur and self-boiled lime sulphur. For the preparation of a spray tank of 200 gallons capacity the following materials are needed:

32 pounds dusting sulphur (finely ground)
16 pounds hydrated lime (free of magnesium)
2 pounds calcium caseinate (commercial dry spreader).

The home-made spreader may be substituted for the commercial caseinate spreader using 3 quarts for each tank of 200 gallons capacity. The home-made spreader is first added to the water in the tank and the agitator run and then the other materials are added. Arsenate of lead (powder) may be added with the lime and sulphur as the last step in the preparation of the tank of spray. The commercial "dry mix" costs more than lime sulphur commercial or self-boiled lime sulphur. Mixing one's own ingredients as well as using the home-made spreader will materially lower the expense. Where orchardists experience fruit russetting as a result of commercial lime sulphur, this mixture may prove a very practical substitute.

Concentrated Lime Sulphur

Dry Lime Sulphur or Barium Sulphide

The following table will assist in diluting concentrated lime sulphur and dry lime sulphur barium tetra sulphide and soluble sulphur.

| Material                 | Soluble Sulphur Percent | Amount of Material in 200 Gal. Gallons | Summer Spray Gallons | Pounds    |

Dusts

The commercial dusts have proven very satisfactory for control of fungous and insect pests on peach in spring and summer. The following formulas are now used.

For an insecticide and fungicide use the following. Sulphur, lead-arsenate, and lime mixture 80-10-10. For a fungicide only use sulphur and lime 80-20 mixture. The sulphur should be superfine and the lime a high calcium hydrate. Copper lime arsenic dusts are promising on apples and are worthy of trial.

Spreader

A substance added to the liquid sprays to increase the distribution and adhesiveness. A "Spreader" has been recently commercialized for general use with orchard sprays. The most successful "spreaders" on the market are those with a calcium caseinate base which come in a dry powder form. The past year investigations by the Department of Plant Pathology have proven the economy and efficiency of the home-made spreader. The following formula may be made up in any equivalent.

5 pounds of casein (granulated)
1 pound of salsoda
10 gallons of water.

This stock solution may be prepared in any type of receptacle such as a wash boiler or lime-sulphur kettle. Pour the water into a receptacle and then add the salsoda and while heating this mixture stir in the casein slowly. It is not necessary to heat to boiling point as usually ten minutes heating will facilitate the casein to dissolve. Any clumping of the casein can be easily broken up by pressing the lumps against the side of the receptacle with the paddle. When casein is all dissolved the stock solution is completed and should be placed in some convenient closed receptacle to prevent evaporation and collecting dirt. The final product is of a yellow or tan color and slimy and sticky to the touch. Two quarts of this solution is added to each tank of 200 gallons of spray material. In adding the casein stock solution have agitator operating and if gun is also opened up inside of tank immediate mixing is secured and results in a soap sud like condition appearing on surface of spray fluid. The above formula will make sufficient stock solution for 20 tanks of 200 gallons capacity. The orchardist should determine if 2 or 4 quarts give the most efficient results as this part is dependent upon the spray equipment and thoroughness of application. Two quarts of the stock solution contain practically the equivalent casein as in one and one-half pounds of the commercial dry calcium caseinate spreaders which vary from 22% - 25% casein in the form of protein.

† In case of severe San Jose infestation increase these amounts 10 percent.
‡ Soluble Sulphur should never be used as a summer spray, save with a great excess of lime.

Commercial Sprays and Dusts

The number of brands of commercial sprays and dusts on the market makes it impossible for most Experiment Stations to try out such products. The Federal government is active in testing commercial sprays to see if they meet the government's requirements. In using any commercial brand we advise growers to follow the directions carefully.

ROBERT MANTELL AT THE PLAYHOUSE NEXT MONDAY

It really does not matter whether people go to see Mr. Robert B. Mantell because he plays Shakespeare or to see Shakespeare because Mr. Mantell plays him. The thing is they do go, and going find enjoyment for an evening and a pathway to enjoyment for many evenings. Shakespeare continues to be read not because it is the thing to know something about him, but because his plays are a resource of life.

"The Merchant of Venice," "Julius Caesar," "Macbeth," "As You Like It"—perhaps one or two other plays, are used in most high schools. But men who study Shakespeare a great deal find so much in his work that when they try to help others to understanding, they tend to overlay him with a mass of erudition which does much to rob youth of the delight of drama and even of the delight of reading. Mr. Mantell uses Shakespeare's plays to provide an evening's entertainment. And one evening will make things obvious which the most conscientious teachers can not make plain to a class. It is for this reason that the veteran actor has had such wonderful support from the leading educational institutions throughout the country.

So, whatever your age, go and see what Shakespeare was trying to do—when Mr. Mantell comes to the Playhouse, Wilmington, next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. It is like putting money in the savings bank; you will draw large interest later.

SPECIAL MEETING OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The value of these statistics will be seen in an instant; in the first it will give an accurate, up-to-date list of all the people in the area, the number of wage earners, the number of school age children, occupations of the wage earners, a glimpse into the renting situation in town; the number of tenants and various other information of extreme importance not only to the business men but a valuable aid in laying before prospective firms an outline of the advantages of Newark as a building site.

Incidentally it will be when completed the first census of its kind ever taken in the town.

There was estimated to be about 600 to 700 houses within the limits of Newark and the adjacent territory, but no adequate estimate of the number of people has been made. A large map used for assessment purposes is available to the authorities in charge of the work, and as the census of each household is established the results will be checked against the map, and every house in town will be thus card cataloged for future reference.

Gas Question Important

Perhaps one of the major objects of the entire census proposal is to determine how many owners or tenants within the above territory are in favor of running gas into Newark. Many citizens have been urging action upon this question. It appears that firms in Wilmington would be willing to run mains into town if they thought sufficient subscribers would be ready to use gas, and that Council give them support in the project. Neither condition has been settled, and it is with this object in view that Chairman Hastings thought of the census scheme. When the broader aspects of the undertaking became evident, the means for gathering other important information became all-important.

Thus, at the end of this week of census-taking, Newark will have given her answer to the gas question and will have unburdened herself of information which will be almost invaluable to all concerned.

The Housing Company

Next in order came the housing problem, having bobbed up as was expected. Chairman Hastings offered a few views on the matter and called for open discussion. Opinions were voiced by George L. Medill, J. E. Dougherty, Dr. Walt Steel and others. It was found imperative that such building operations, if really assured must not be held up during the summer. It was therefore to begin action at once. The action was that:

1. A committee of three was appointed to represent the Chamber of Commerce in the matter. That committee is composed of J. E. Dougherty, chairman, W. H. Evans and J. C. Hastings.

2. That this committee is to have the following work to do:

Circulate among the citizens of the town, including authorities connected with the three large mills now existing; business men of the town, farmers and anyone else whom they may choose, with a view to interesting them in the proposition of forming a stock company and building more houses for the town of Newark, said company to be on a purely investment basis, with a return of their money invested in a manner entirely up to them.

That is, the Chamber of Commerce Committee is the instrument by which it is hoped that men of means in and around the town may be shown the business soundness and assured success of such a company.

The next step would be, logically enough, the selling of sufficient stock to adequately finance the company; then, the company shall take charge of the concern from then on.

Such was the action taken Friday night, and the Housing problem today looks as though it shall be rescued from the battering from pillar to post for several weeks, and be placed upon its two feet, a healthy object for investment.

Minor Matters Heard

The meeting last Friday night was unusual in that it had before it no less than five issues which were above ordinary importance. The Housing and Census questions, of course, overshadowed all else, but listed among the minor matters were a few worthy of attention.

The Chamber was of the undivided opinion that powers of the Law should be brought to bear upon hucksters, fake salesmen and other of their kind who prey upon the unsuspecting housewife each week of the year. All vendors who enter the town for the purpose of doing business are required to pay a license fee, and pay it after the validity of their scheme has been proven. The exception to these are milk dealers, farm produce vendors and fruits. Attention was called by several present to cases within their knowledge where drygoods, shoes, jewelry and other things were sold last year without licenses. It was urged that the town through the office of the Magistrate keep a sharp lookout for the vendors from now on.

Committee reported that signs had not been assured as yet, several voiced an opinion regarding writing to tire companies relative to the placing of road signs at each end of town. No action was taken on this subject.

Three new firms, or at least, representatives of three firms, have inquired and inspected two sites in Newark. One firm is the Baldwin Mills of Elk Mills; they seem to be well pleased with one site in town, but no definite word has been heard from them. It is reported that they would install looms for weaving and that 20 to 30 girls would be employed.

A letter has been received from a boiler making firm by officials of the Chamber which inquires as to Newark's advantages for a factory. Then a mysterious gentleman has been hovering about town with a self-confessed intention of starting a paper mill or a machinery repair plant or something of the kind. These announcements, however, conclusively show that the town is attracting attention as a possible site for more industries.

and that it is up to the Chamber of Commerce to allow nothing to slip through its fingers, figuratively speaking.

The meeting adjourned upon motion shortly after 10 o'clock.

Self-Evident

A young man was walking along a lonely stretch of seashore when the incoming tide washed up a bottle. He picked it up and saw a slip of paper inside.

For several minutes he refrained from extracting the message, while toying with the idea that it must have been scrawled by some wreck survivor in an open boat or on a raft.

Finally he broke the bottle's neck, cut his finger on a piece of jagged glass and read: "Whoever discovers this bottle will find all the beer gone." San Francisco Chronicle.

Needed Sleep

Among the members of a fashionable country club are a doctor and a minister, who delight in the exchange of repartee.

As they met one day the minister observed that he was "going to read to old Cunningham," adding (as he was aware that the old man was a patient of his friend, the doctor): "Is he any worse?"

With the gravest of expressions the physician replied:

"He needs your help more than mine."

Off his guard, the minister asked, anxiously: "Poor fellow; is he as bad as that?"

"Yes; he is suffering from insomnia."—Living Church.

LOCAL CONTRACTOR IS THE LOWEST BIDDER

Cleveland Ave. Paving Contract Awarded at Special Meeting of Council

ONLY TWO BIDDERS

The contract for the paving of Cleveland avenue, from North College avenue to Chapel street, will cost the town of Newark the sum of $11,018.30.

Such was the information gained at the special meeting of Town Council last Wednesday evening in the Office, on Main street.

The contract for the work was awarded to F. W. Lovett, a local contractor, who has done a considerable amount of such work in and around the town. The above bid of Mr. Lovett's was accepted.

The only other bid was offered by Daniel E. O'Connell, of Ridley Park, Pa., the contractor who did a major portion of the work on the Lincoln Highway near here, and who aided in the widening of Academy street. Mr. O'Connell's bid was $12,877.96.

When the two bids were submitted to Council, the contractors were asked to leave the room. While they were out, the Councilmen opened the bids, discussed them briefly, sent for the bidders and announced the awarding of the contract.

The paving of the street will be finished before August 1st, according to the terms of the bid. Mr. Lovett, however, said that the date in the bid was the maximum figure and that he had reasons to believe that the street would be finished some weeks before the 1st.

Grading and preliminary work will commence next week, and will be pushed along rapidly.

WEDDING

Miss Florence H. Boyer and Mrs. Ellsworth B. Moore were quietly married on the 17th instant, at the home of Rev. Frank Herson, of this town. Both young people are residents of Wilmington.

No attendants were present, the ceremony being quietly performed about 7 o'clock in the evening.

Not a Heavy Beard

The son and heir, aged sixteen, had come home after his first experience at boarding school. One morning he rushed into his mother's room demanding to know what had been done with his razor.

Mother was not aware that he had any use for a razor, but, being a wise woman, she controlled her curiosity and hunted up the missing article. "How often do you have to shave?" she inquired casually as she left the room.

"Oh, about once a month," the young hopeful answered, seriously.—Boys' Life.

YOUR

NEWARK IS AN IDEAL TOWN IN FACT, AS WELL AS ON PAPER

CAUSE

DURING the rapid growth of Newark and community, no accurate information along the lines mentioned above has been compiled. For the information of every citizen, for the value it will be in introducing prospective firms to Newark, and finally, for its general all-round usefulness this census was deemed necessary.

EFFECT

It is expected that the completion of the census will make clear to everyone:

THE PREVAILING RENTS
THE EXACT POPULATION
THE GAS QUESTION
AVAILABLE LABOR IN TOWN

With these facts compiled in clear, concise form, Newark will have taken a Most Progressive Step.

CENTER OF FARMING DISTRICT
