15 PERCENT
GASOLINE CUT DURING
SEPTEMBERPleasure Car
Operators In Eastern States
Face Reduction

A 15 percent cut in the quantity of gasoline to be used in September loomed for pleasure car operators in the eastern states and a continuation of the 10 percent overall reduction in gasoline deliveries to retail outlets enforced during the last two weeks in August, was announced by the Office of Petroleum Coordinator this week.

Ralph K. Davies, acting coordinator, said, however, that commercial, agricultural, and emergency vehicles would get their full needs so that spreading of the remaining supplies would amount to a 15 percent curtailment for private cars.

It was also disclosed that eastern and western railroads have joined in a voluntary 50 percent crude oil freight rate reduction to speed up shipments from the Texas and Oklahoma oil fields.

According to Samuel B. Eckert, vice president in charge of sales of the Sun Oil Company, the reduction in rates will be helpful in relieving the shortage, although he estimated that not more than five percent of the total oil and gas consumed in the East could be transported by this means.

Commenting on the reduction, the Pennsylvania Railroad announced that it is already delivering to eastern refineries about 850,000 gallons of crude oil daily — enough to yield 420,000 gallons of gasoline and equal quantity of other petroleum products. This is sufficient to meet the daily requirements of about 280,000 motorists.

The freight rate, now five cents a gallon, even after the reduction becomes effective, will still be one and one-half cents a gallon over the steamship tanker rate of one cent. Eckert said the rail rate reduction would have little effect on retail prices because they are based on the tanker rate.

Since petroleum office sources had indicated the cut for non-essential automobile operations might be as high as one-third, the September curtailment was smaller than the public had anticipated.

Deliveries to service stations are to be spread proportionally throughout the month and the civilian allocation program requires that stations space their sales so that each will have gasoline to sell every day.

A meeting of the Retail Gasoline Dealers' Association of New Castle County to consider the effects of the September gasoline quota was being considered but had not definitely been arranged last night, according to John B. Reynolds, chairman of the association.

RECORD OF WAGES MAY
BE CHANGEDFour-Year Grace
Period Allowed
By Board

Workers whose wages for 1937 were not correctly reported to the Social Security Board have the remainder of this year to request a change in their wage record for 1937. Mr. Minker, manager of the Social Security office at Wilmington, Delaware, pointed out today. He explained that the law allows a period of four years after the year the wages in question were received, during which the worker can obtain a correction of any error that may occur in his wage record.

In calling workers' attention to this feature of the law while there is still time to have the first year's record cleared up, Mr. Minker stated that workers can obtain a statement of their wage records on request to the Social Security Board. All Social Security Board offices furnish post cards for use in making the request. The cards are free and require only a one-cent stamp.

Mr. Minker explained further that the Board's records of employee's wages are taken from employer's reports and that in some instances these reports may be incomplete or incorrect due to misspelling of a name, a mistake in copying the social security account number, or omitting a number entirely. Any worker who has reason to believe that his wages have not been correctly reported should check with the Social Security Board at once.

DEMOCRACY
FOR LOCAL
SCHOOLS1,380 Enrollment
Breaks Previous Records For First
Week Of School

Faculty members of Newark Public Schools assembled at the high school auditorium Tuesday morning to hear Superintendent Douglass stress the theme of "Teach the meanings of democracy by contrast with totalitarianism" for the current school term.

Addressing the first teachers meeting of the year, Mr. Douglass said he would expect teachers to give instruction in the rights and privileges of democracy in social studies and classes and to plan assembly programs affording a dramatic representation of life under democratic and autocratic rules.

Total enrollment of Newark Schools were set at 1,380 yesterday which is an increase of 142 students over the enrollment of 1,238 at the first week of school last year. Of the 1,380 enrollment 1,277 are listed in elementary and high school grades at the central plant with 103 listed in the New London avenue (colored) building.

The white student enrollment shows a substantial increase over last year whereas the colored enrollment shows a decrease of about seven.

All members of the central school faculty were present at the Teachers meeting with the single exception of O. E. Snyder, newly announced Industrial Arts teacher who declined the position on the local faculty after having accepted only last week.

M. James Parsons, assistant superintendent, is conducting shop work of the industrial arts program in the absence of an instructor. Present National Defense conditions have produced a decided shortage in men experienced in this type of work to a point where the industrial arts program has been abandoned in some schools, Mr. Douglass said.

Other applicants are being considered for the only existing vacancy, however, and Mr. Buckwalter's successor will likely be chosen in the next few days.

The Packs' monthly theme for September will be "nature study". The first meeting of fall will be held on Friday, September 26, at a place to be announced later.

Presently comprised of five "Dens", each den consisting of about six Cub members, the local Cub Pack has shown a steady growth since its formation here. Weekly Den meetings are held each Friday at the homes of respective Den Mothers.

Record Sale Of
Papers Last Week
At Local Newsstand

Students of the Newark Public Schools stormed the Newark Newsstand, operated by Irving Fisher, last week to boost the usual sale of the Newark Post from the normal figure of about 100 to more than 250.

Chief source of attraction was the complete list of pupils, teachers, and home-room assignments, a vital part of every youngster's educational career.

According to the records compiled by the Post and Mr. Fisher, the 250 total sets a new mark for sales at the local newsstand.

GAS TAX
9 PERCENT
OF INCOME
FEDERALMotorists Now
Contributing 34.38
Per Cent Of Total
Tax Revenue

Wilmington, Delaware, September 1, 1941 (SPECIAL). The federal gasoline tax is now siphoning from the motorist taxpayers of Delaware an amount equivalent to nearly nine per cent of the total tax revenue received from all sources by the state, H. V. Daniel, secretary, Associated Petroleum Industries of Delaware, said today.

"Motor vehicle owners are one of the state's star taxpayers. They contribute 34.38 per cent of the total tax revenue received by the state. Motor vehicle fees constitute 11.58 per cent and state gasoline taxes 22.80 per cent.

"The federal gasoline tax, the rate of which was increased last year, now is equal to more than one-third of the state gasoline tax. Accordingly, the amount of money taken by the federal gasoline tax from the pockets of Delaware taxpayers is equal to nine per cent of the total tax revenue received by the state from all taxpayers, including motorists.

"This stiff competition of the federal government for the available gasoline tax dollars of the motorists is causing concern to those interested in the continued development of highway transportation. This state depends upon its automotive taxes for revenue to improve and maintain its roads. If economic conditions during the period of readjustment after the war make it difficult for motor vehicle owners to meet the heavy burden of federal and state taxation, then a sharp curtailment of the state's revenue may result. If the federal government should increase its tax rate, as has been proposed by some in Washington, the financial stability of our state's highway financing might be placed in jeopardy. The more the federal government takes in gasoline taxes, the harder it is for our motorists to pay the heavy state taxes on motor fuel."

Center, Linden
Streets Appeal
To Council

A delegation of 13 property owners filed protest before the Council of Newark Tuesday night, to the proposed erection of a dairy house on New Street, opposite the Newark Cemetery, by E. F. Richards, local milk dealer.

It was pointed out by Claude Payson, spokesman for the delegation, that the original deeds for this tract of land, drawn by S. J. Wright, restricted all building to residences. Later deeds for parts of the tract, however, failed to include these restrictions.

Mayor Frank Collins stated that the town could take no action in the matter since the dispute should be carried to the writer of the later deeds. Council, however, tabled Mr. Richards' application for a building permit until the October meeting.

Included in the delegation were: Mr. Payson, Harry Jackson, Ralph Kee, Irwin Smith, Robert Davis, Roger Williams, Fred Gehrold, Howard Morris, Joseph Lutton, J. H. Rumer, F. A. Cain, Charles Cornog, and Maurice Overly. It was voted to lay a storm sewer, run a water extension, and grade and gravel Manns Avenue at an approximate cost of $1,000. Council also decided to pay half the cost of laying gravel on the Newark Post lane.

Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 17 and 18, were designated as clean-up days.

A cash balance of $11,836.37 as of August 31, was reported. Cash on hand on July 31 was $21,127.80 with receipts listed at $15,853.49 and disbursements, $25,144.92.

Receipts were as follows: Electric, $4,960.42; power, $2,516.96; water, $5,616.67; property taxes collected, $2,044.54; personal taxes collected, $1,900; tax penalties collected, $2,553; sale of light department supplies, $4.50; magistrate's fines, $237.50; light service charges, $150; repairs to water service, $400; water taps, $90; street breaking permit, $25; miscellaneous accounts receivable, $207.65; gasoline tax refund, $23.52; toll calls, $3.05; sale of maps, $3.75. A total of $110 in light deposits was received.

Chief of Police William H. Cunningham reported a total of 19 arrests during August, including 6 cases of reckless driving. Other arrests were for the following charges: Driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, 2; drunk, 2; drunk and disorderly, 4; unnecessary noise, 1; failing to stop at traffic signal, 2; assault and battery, 1; and improper conduct, 1.

One stolen car was recovered and returned to the owner. Two cases were held under bond for the Court of General Sessions, and one was held under bond for the Court of Common Pleas. One case was dismissed.

The department received 125 police calls. Overnight lodging was provided for seven transients and five accidents were investigated. The police car covered 2,367 miles during the month and the motorcycle, 315 miles.

Town Engineer George C. Price reported that four water taps and three connections to the sanitary sewer were made during the month. Two leaks, one in the main and one in a service, were repaired.

The contract for resurfacing streets was completed during the month. Patching was done on various streets to repair broken places and where openings had been made.

Removal of trees has been started in front of the home of Ira C. Shellender so that curb can be constructed, and notices have been sent out to property owners in that section about constructing sidewalks.

The chassis for the electric department's new truck has been received and is now at York, Pa., where the body is being installed.

Water consumption for August showed a 2.9 per cent decrease from last month and a 10.3 per cent increase over August, 1940. Consumption for August was 13,580,200 gallons or a daily average of 438,071 gallons.

Among those present at the session were: Mayor Collins, Engineer Price, J. P. Cann, town attorney, and Councilmen C. C. Hubert, C. Emerson Johnson, George Ferguson, John F. Richards, and Herman Wollaston.

Youth Makes Solo Flight

Robert Francois, 17-year-old junior at the Newark High School, made his first solo flight on Tuesday from the Elktion Road airport. He took the plane up himself after 8 1/2 hours of dual instruction by Waldo Lovett, local pilot. Francois is a resident of Strickersville.

SCREEN FOR NEW WELL OBTAINED

Work Held Up By Difficulty In Getting Materials

Newport, Sept. 3 — The Board of Commissioners of Newport have been successful through application to the Priorities Division of the Production Management in Washington, to procure the screen for their new well being developed in Stonehurst. Redpath and Potter, contractors, placed the 48 feet of screen on Friday. Through means of an air compressor, they will now develop the well and test it for its capacity. Work on the well had been held up due to inability to procure materials until the priority rating was obtained.

A contract has been awarded by the town of Newport to Julian Jones for the laying of curb on Marshall and Highland Streets, as well as the laying of a sidewalk in the vicinity of the new bank on Marshall Street.

New playground equipment has been installed on the Krebs School playground, and children of the community are enjoying the added facilities. A playground director will now be in charge with the opening of school sessions.

Women of the Newport community have continued their Red Cross activities during the summer, and have now just turned over to the Red Cross Headquarters in Wilmington 240 garments, including knitted garments, and wearing apparel. This makes a total of 1972 pieces turned in from this area during the past year.

The outstanding record here is that of Mrs. Ella Woodward, 81 years of age, who has made by hand nearly 200 garments, including men's pajama suits, baby blankets, booties and bibs, skirts and boy's shirts. Red Cross Headquarters, upon learning of Mrs. Woodward's efforts, issued to her a certificate of recognition for special service. Mrs. Woodward has also made cakes and sent to the local boys who are in camps as their folks go from here to visit them.

Mrs. Blanche Mahan is chairman of the welfare work in this community and reports that Troop No. 14 Girl Scouts, with Miss Margaret Steinbaker, leader, have enrolled for Red Cross work this season. Other sewing circles are being organized, with groups meeting one day a week in member's homes. Circles are also being organized at Silver and Woodcrest.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton Hopkins of River Road were hosts to about 75 members of Delaware Grange and their friends Wednesday evening at a watermelon and card party.

Miss Jane Lindsay of Lyndalia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Lindsay, entertained a few guests at her home at a luncheon party Thursday afternoon. The guests were Miss Lelia Lynam of Stanton, Miss Julia Nelson of Elsmere, Miss Evelyn Norris of Richardson Park, Miss Elizabeth Hemsath, Hockessin and Miss Betty Eckles of Tuxedo Park. This group of girls have been friends all during their school activities, and Miss Lindsay entertained before they return to their schools and colleges.

Newport Boy Scout Troop No. 73 was awarded the silver trophy at the Field Meet at Baynard Stadium this week, and the cup will remain the permanent property of this troop. Various permanent teams have been appointed to participate in events in the future. Charles Painter, Scoutmaster and Allan Spilcher, Assistant Scoutmaster will this week purchase a large camp tent to be used as headquarters for the troop, as well as First Aid quarters when the troop goes on camping trips.

The executive committee of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will meet on Sept. 16th at the home of Mrs. A. M. Craig.

A covered dish supper will be held on September 10th by the Sunday School of the Methodist Church. The supper has been planned as an opening affair for the fall schedule of meetings.

The Epworth League of the Newport Methodist Church held a business session this week at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. R. S. Hodgson, at which time a program of activities for the month of September was arranged. A supper will be held by the League on Sept. 5th, with the Misses Janice Peterson, Eleanor Freed, Irene Smiley and Fay Ruth in charge.

The Guild of St. James P. E. Church will meet on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. William H. Crawford. Mrs. Fredus Baldwin, newly-elected president, will preside, and officers of the guild will be installed.

FOOD IS LISTED AS FIRST EXPENSE

Rural Families Spend More For Dinner Table Than Anything Else

Rural Delawareans must use their food resources to better advantage if they are going to regain the reputation of being better fed than their city "cousins," states Miss Louise R. Whitcomb, home management specialist for the University of Delaware, who has just completed a survey with 56 farm families.

One of the startling discoveries coming out of Miss Whitcomb's survey is the revelation that these families have been spending more money for food than for any other one item. The average yearly food bill for a family of four was $245 — not a sizeable figure for a city family of four, but farm families who have every chance to produce many items of food right at home could likely do better. Miss Whitcomb finds from her survey that the families produced $180 worth of food per family, an average of 42 per cent of all the food consumed.

Some of the families included in Miss Whitcomb's survey actually produced most of their food at home. One of the four-member families obtained 72 per cent of its food needs from the farm. Another family of eight realized 84 per cent of its food from farm and home production — proving that producing two-thirds of the family food supply on the farm, set up by Miss Whitcomb as a goal for rural Delawareans, can be accomplished.

Farm families able to produce a good proportion of their food probably have more cash to use for farm and home improvement. Another advantage "food from the farm" provides is the availability of more fresh foods to give a varied appetizing diet.

The 56 families in the University of Delaware survey realized more money savings by producing garden vegetables than they did for any other one food item. Dairy products, meats, eggs and poultry followed vegetables in their importance as popular Delaware home-produced foods.

POULTRYMEN SEEKING PRIORITY

As a means of securing priority ratings from the State's giant poultry industry, the recently-organized Delaware Poultry Defense Committee will survey poultrymen to determine their supply and equipment needs.

The survey decision was made at a recent meeting where members of the committee also worked out plans for cooperating with the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council to forestall possible feed shortages due to traffic tie-ups. Leon Todd, managing director of the poultry council, met with the Delawareans.

Members of the defense committee, appointed by president Charles Conaway of the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association, include: Victor Lehtinen, Newark; H. L. Richardson, poultry specialist for the University of Delaware Agricultural Extension Service; Dave Green and Harold Short, Milford; William Murray, Ocean View; John Pitkin, H. R. Baker and Daniel Enterline, Dover; Norval Pepper, Seaford; E. A. Yutzi, Millsboro, and Harry Tubbs, Selbyville. The committee is made up of representatives of all branches of the industry.

Enterline was named as chairman of a sub-committee charged with keeping in touch with the feed situation, a vital assignment since Delaware's poultry industry is dependent on steady feed supplies for existence.

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

- Q. I would like to provide a regular income for myself when I retire. Can this be done by buying Defense Savings Bonds?
- A. Yes. If you purchase a Bond for $37.50 each month, each Bond will mature in exactly 10 years. Thus at the end of 10 years you will have $50 payable each month as each of your Bonds reaches maturity.
- Q. But I will need more than $50 a month.
- A. Then you should invest a larger amount each month. Every $75 you put into Defense Bonds will pay you $100 ten years from now. Meanwhile, your money serves your Government during this period of national emergency.

Note.—To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

The Commission has therefore announced a new examination for junior meteorologist positions paying $2,000 a year. No written test will be given, and applications will be accepted until June 30, 1942. Applicants must have completed a 4-year college course which included courses in differential and integral calculus, 12 semester hours in physics and 6 in meteorology. For the last course requirement, however, applicants may substitute one year of professional experience in appropriate meteorological work.

New examinations have been added to the list of office machine positions which the Commission is currently accepting applications for appointment in Washington, D. C., only. They are: for graphotype operator, $1,260 a year, and horizontal sorting machine operator, $1,260 a year. Three full months of paid experience in the operation of either machine is required. Applications for positions as sorting machine operator will be accepted until further notice; but for the graphotype operator, the closing date is September 30, 1941.

Script engravers are needed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in the Treasury Department. They are paid at the rate of $13.44 a day and $2.92 an hour for overtime. Completion of a 4-year apprenticeship as steel-plate engraver is required, as well as 3 years of journeyman experience in the skilled practice of steel-plate script engraving, including cutting and etching. The closing date for receipt of applications is September 30, 1941.

All applications must be sent to the Washington office of the Civil Service Commission not later than the closing dates specified. Full information as to the requirements for these examinations, and application forms, may be obtained from C. S. Crompton, secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, at the post office.

DAIRY OUTPUT INCREASES

Production Shows Five Per Cent Rise In 1941

Dairy farms throughout the country tallied up an all-time record for milk production during the first six months of 1941 when milk output jumped five per cent over the same six months in 1940.

This upsurge of milk production, led for by the government as part of the "Food for Defense" program, was tended by Delaware dairymen who done their share. The per cow production of milk in Delaware since the first of the year has increased six per cent over the production during the same time in 1940 according to the latest report of the Delaware Agricultural Defense Board.

Board chairman C. E. Ocheltree, Greenwood, advised Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard that the number of cows on Delaware farms had increased three per cent when a comparison count was made early this year. Today the dairy cow population for Delaware stands at 37,000.

FARMERS' PRODUCTION INCREASES

Rural Families Doing Part In National Defense

Delaware's rural families are doing their share in the currently-operating programs for national defense. A new circular issued by the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service reports Delaware farmers producing more milk, more chickens, more eggs and more canning vegetables, in line with last spring's request from the federal government asking for increases in production for defense.

The new circular — "Delaware Rural Families in the Current Situation" — contains suggestions for farm families as they make use of available resources in times like the present. Extension Service workers who prepared the circular — Mrs. Helen V. McKinley, assistant director, and K. W. Baker, farm management specialist — write:

"Today rural families are confronted with the task of maintaining morale and preserving their established standards in the face of rising living costs, higher taxes, labor problems, shortages, substitutes, individual family adjustments and increasing demands for community service and contributions."

Present conditions and what to do about them is summed up in the opening sentences of Circular 45:

"People in Delaware and throughout the nation are gradually beginning to realize that great changes in their present way of life are taking place. Each day something happens to make every family more and more aware that defense conditions are starting to affect its comforts, its luxuries and even its necessities. This situation means that every family must change some of its normal habits, make necessary adjustments and prepare for sacrifices in order to meet the national emergency and its accompanying influences."

Copies of "Delaware Rural Families in the Current Situation" may be obtained from the county agricultural, home demonstration or 4-H club agent.

CONGRATULATIONS

We are confident that we reflect the consensus of opinion of the citizenry of Newark when we extend sincere congratulations and best wishes to the ownership and management of the new, modern Acme Market which opened its doors to the populace of our community yesterday morning.

Especially do we extend congratulations to Manager Millard Ritchie and his efficient staff for their faithful years of service to local patrons. Always courteous and anxious to please, ever ready to give advice or service in their field of endeavor, the Acme Store personnel has done much to promote the interests of this chain organization in Newark.

We are happy for them that their new store will offer every convenience and comfort as well as provide ample room, facilities and stocks to more than merit the continuance of goodwill and patronage they have so established and so richly deserve.

The people of Newark recognize erection of the new Acme Market as another milestone in local progress and appreciate that the ownership of this store has enough faith in Newark and confidence in their manager to make such an investment in our own community.

SAVE GASOLINE — SAVE A LIFE

A national emergency has been declared by the President of the United States to bolster the productive power for defense. Because of the shortage of transportation facilities, motorists will be required to conserve wherever and whenever possible.

Probably the most important way in which motorists in Delaware can do their part and still not sacrifice any of the advantages of the use of the motor car is by driving safely and avoiding accidents.

Many may ask, "what part does safe driving play in national defense?" When a motorist drives safely he is operating cautiously; and when he operates cautiously he is bound to save money for he will use less gasoline and oil, conserve the brakes and tires, and thus cut down maintenance. Driving habits that are within control of the driver have much to do with economy.

Operating costs may be cut by operating at all times at moderate speeds, by refraining from riding the clutch or brake, and racing the motor when shifting gears, and by switching off the ignition when parked temporarily. By anticipating stops and avoiding sudden braking, by accelerating gradually and avoiding quick, jumpy starts, by rounding curves and corners easily and avoiding shrieking tires, by operating the car smoothly, and by patience and cool headedness in traffic and avoiding reckless haste and unnecessary chances — motorists will not only save money and conserve on vital defense materials, but will also prevent accidents.

Unless a vehicle is in good mechanical condition, it can scarcely be operated efficiently and it places an additional strain on the already overburdened driver.

Both economy and safety depend upon the habits of the motorist. A motor car is not a tank or military vehicle to be driven as though in army maneuvers. It is relatively fragile and will crumble when subjected to a severe blow such as a crash at 70 miles per hour.

There is no point in operating a vehicle in a reckless, indifferent, or inattentive manner, forcing traffic to take shelter. Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy — and caution. The person who operates at a reasonable rate of speed with proper respect for his fellow motorist, saves gasoline, money, trouble, human life and aids defense.

THE USE OF WORDS

How often do we find difficulty in thinking of just the right word to express a certain idea? Even the best writers must often stop to weigh their words in order to hit upon the most appropriate one, while few speakers can observe all the niceties of expression without writing out their speeches and memorizing them beforehand.

This is not due to any lack of words in the English language, however. Possibly it may be a result of our having too many to choose from. The latest unabridged dictionaries contain more than 400,000 words, and the list is increasing constantly.

Noah Webster's first dictionary, published in 1828, contained only about 70,000 words; the edition of 1864 included 114,000, and that of 1890 about 175,000, as compared with the 400,000 recognized words today.

Yet President Wilson, who was one of the foremost masters of English, in 75 public addresses used a total of only 6,221 different words. In three of his published books, however, he used about 40,000. This shows that vastly more words are used in writing than in speaking.

A leading lexicographer estimates that the educated person of fair ability understands on the average about 50,000 words, but uses only a small part of that number in either speaking or writing. Most people know and use less than 8,000 words out of the 400,000 available.

BERRY ADVICE GIVEN

Produced On Early Double Number Formed Plants

Farmers who care for plantings that provide Delaware's annual crop of strawberries are striking out into their strawberry beds now to make sure the strawberry plants are spaced properly. Proper spacing now means the plants will have plenty of room to grow and develop the rest of this year and next spring.

Horticultural specialists at the University of Delaware report there is actually more and better fruit produced in strawberry beds where the plants are spaced about six to eight every square foot than where runners are allowed to take root and develop as high as 26 plants to the square foot — a number of plants that isn't unusual when beds are allowed to grow without culling.

Dr. E. W. Greve, research horticulturist at the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, says he has seen early-formed runner plants produce twice as many flowers as plants formed later on in the season. When the culling is done, Dr. Greve suggests saving only the plants that have large crowns to leave a sturdy plant about every nine inches in the row, with the rows about two feet wide. Runner plants that form outside the two-foot row are removed.

A strawberry variety known for abundant production of runner plants is the Blakemore. Since the Blakemore is a popular strawberry in Delaware, growers are on the lookout now for unwanted plants that cut production of top-grade fruit unless they are removed from strawberry beds.

STANTON

Stanton, Sept. 3 — The Stanton School reopened for its fall session on Wednesday morning. An increased enrollment over that of last year is reported, with still more to be enrolled, some just moving into the community.

The Rev. Frank O. Baynard, pastor of the Stanton Methodist Church, returned to his pulpit on Sunday following his vacation. His subject for the morning service was "The Added Chapter." Miss Winnie Yarrington was in charge of the Epworth League Service. At the evening service, Rev. Baynard spoke on "The Book of Judith." Rev. Baynard will resume the weekly Prayer meetings on Friday evening, which will be followed by a song service.

Remodeling work on the Stanton Methodist church is nearing completion, although services on Sunday were again conducted in the basement of the building. The new ceiling in the auditorium of the building has been completed, and the church has been painted.

The St. James P. E. Church School will resume fall sessions on Sunday, Sept. 7th, with Albert Jeffries, superintendent, in charge.

The Parish Aid Society of the St. James P. E. Church resumed fall sessions on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. W. H. Hollett, president, presiding.

Safety Hints

You Can't Stop On A Dime

Are you one of the automobile drivers who brags: "My brakes are perfect. I can stop on a dime!"

Well, your brakes may be perfect and you'll still come a long way from stopping on a dime, the Delaware Safety Council says.

Here's the proof. If you are an average driver, it takes you three-fourths of a second to get your foot on the brake after you see danger.

That means that in approximately the time it takes you to say SIXTY MILES, your car, going at that speed, covers 66 feet, or more than the length of four cars standing in a row. There's 66 feet gone, and you haven't even got your foot on the brake yet!

Now — suppose your brakes are perfect and the pavement is in perfect condition. It will take 185 feet more to stop all that horsepower under the hood.

That's a total of 251 feet. And if the road is wet — if there is anything wrong with your brakes or tires or your driving skill — you can't come even close to that figure.

So the next time you're whizzing along at 60 miles an hour, remember that you need at least 251 feet to stop. You can't stop on a dime!

PARALYSIS SYMPTOMS DISCUSSED

Parents Cautioned To Contact Doctor For Ill Child

Absolute rest and immediate splinting to prevent the weakened muscles from over-stretching may mean the difference between almost complete recovery or serious crippling from infantile paralysis, (poliomyelitis) warns Doctor T. E. Hynson, acting director of Communicable Disease Control of the State Board of Health. He cautions every parent who has a child even slightly ill to call the family doctor immediately and if prompt recovery does not occur, have the doctor return soon for another visit, meanwhile keeping all well children away from the sick youngster.

Doctor Hynson cites one case recently reported where the doctor was called on the second day that a child seemed ill. He found nothing but symptoms of a cold so the family did not have him return for two weeks. When they did ask him to make another visit, paralysis had already developed and the chances for the girl's recovery were greatly reduced.

Symptoms of Disease

The early stages of infantile paralysis are often identical with "summer gripe", a cold, or other contagious childhood disease like measles, and the physician seeing the child early may, or may not, be able to make the diagnosis at once.

Many cases never show more than the initial symptoms of a cold, namely: headache, pain in the back muscles, fever, restlessness, and sometimes vomiting. From this the patient may go into complete recovery or directly into the paralytic stage with weakness in one or more extremities. Still others may apparently be recovering from the first symptoms and then, after a day or so, become paralyzed. Hence both early and continuous medical care is vitally important for all sick children now, first, to give the child the best chance for recovery and, second, to prevent the spread of infection to others.

Delaware has only had 4 cases of infantile paralysis so far this summer with one resulting death. A close watch on all ill children and prompt quarantine of suspicious cases can do much to prevent any spread of the disease in the state, says Dr. Hynson.

Travel with children is not wise now, especially toward central Pennsylvania where the disease has reached epidemic proportions. Some cases are also reported from Maryland and New Jersey.

Keep Them Home

Keeping children at home, particularly away from crowds, either in or out of doors is advisable. Swimming in itself is not dangerous, if the water is not contaminated, but the many people at the pools may be a means of spreading the infection. Motion picture houses, amusement parks, fairs and carnivals are also crowded places where it is not sensible to take children while there is any danger of infantile paralysis, warns the State Board of Health official.

A search of Delaware State Board of Health reports for the past five years reveals a total of 21 cases of infantile paralysis for the period resulting in 6 deaths.

In cases where the muscles of the chest are affected by infantile paralysis the use of the respirator or "iron lung" is often life saving because it produces artificial inhalation until these muscles can be strengthened. Three hospitals in Wilmington: Memorial, Wilmington General and Doris Memorial, are equipped with these respirators.

CONVERSATIONAL MATERIAL
for the next three months was furnished when the University of Delaware football squad initiated a series of pre-season workouts in preparation for the opening tussle with Juniata on Sept. 27.

No longer will followers of sport be forced to discuss Joe Louis' reign as heavyweight champion, the Blue Rocks tumble in the Interstate League, or the Brooklyn-St. Louis race for the National League pennant — all of which are much chewed topics and comparatively tasteless.

For once, Delaware grid enthusiasts can look forward to seeing the team in action and the optimistic feeling is one that can be relished for the first time in years. The gloomy outlook which has so long been a part of the local football fan's analysis was just about erased by the brilliant five-game winning streak last year.

FROM THE DEPTHS OF DESPAIR to boundless joy boomed the 1940 eleven, giving rise to the possibility of better things to come — and even Eddy Dooley says Delaware "should be better this year."

Most popular of the fan's queries is "How do the freshmen look?" but it is a question that may not have to be answered in the 1941 campaign — not with 24 members of last year's squad on hand to place bids for their old berths.

Coch Bill Murray is emphatic enough when he says the upper classmen will handle most of the heavy duty although it is very probable that a recruit or two may prove outstanding enough to pilfer a starting assignment.

With only four regulars lost from the squad, it is reasonable to assume that the 1941 contingent will be dominated by regulars, most of whom took part in last season's rebellion against rivals who had been kicking Delaware around for years.

THEY'RE MOSTLY JUNIORS AND seniors, well versed in the Hen mentor's system of play and what's more they're going to be more than a little enthusiastic about extending that five-game winning streak they compiled in the turnabout movement last season.

The prayer for a sparkplug was answered when 180-pound Bill (Red) Hogan, a hard-hitting ball carrier and a dime-hitting passer, turned up from Duquesne, Pa., and there is no reason to believe that the pile-driving red head will prove any less effective against 1941 opponents. Add to this the fact that every other member of last season's starting backfield, Melvin (Ripper) Brooks, Walt Paul, and Al Newcomb, are back in the fold and it adds up to an empty worry bag for the coach as far as backfield men are concerned. In addition to this quartet, capable replacements who are potential starters are: Conrad Sadowski, Lee Baer, Gerry Doherty, Jim Spillane, and Jim Buchanan.

ON THE FORWARD WALL, THE absence of John Grundy, who is now working in the New York Shipyard, creates a sizeable niche, but several capable candidates are working out for the vacant spot. If Jack Castevens, the other tackle, fails to return to school, a wholesale fight for these jobs should develop with Bob Furman, Marvin Zeitz, Marty Pierson, and Bob Papy slated to do most of the slugging.

Luke Selby's center post should be taken care of in fine style by Bill Hancock and Jim Mullen, while aspirants to Wilmer (Lunk) Apsley's old guard assignment are numerous and capable. Charlie Walton, Hugh Bogovich, Bill Laurelli, and Tony Stalloni form the nucleus for this spot and all are dangerous contenders for the job.

ON THE FLANKS, MURRAY HAS Norm Lord, Howard Jarvis, Milne Schmid, George Barlow, and Fred Sloan — just about the only position about which the Hens' mentor can really worry.

Last year, Jarvis proved to be the only end who could hang on to a pass consistently — an impressive factor in the team's victory march, but the heavens dropped by other Delaware ends would have filled an empty tank car. Aside from the offensive shortcomings, however, the terminal posts were taken care of in fairly good style.

You'll notice we haven't even mentioned a freshman — don't intend to — and the Hens would still field a fairly presentable team. But who knows? Maybe there's another Hogan among 'em???

BLUE AND GOLD GRIDDERS PACED THROUGH OPENING WORKOUTS; 38 MEN REPORT

25 Members Of 1940 Team, 13 Recruits
Included In Squad; Hens Pointing
For Opener Here With Juniata On
Sept. 27; Light Workouts Planned

Slated to open the 1941 campaign here with Juniata on Sept. 27, a squad of 38 University of Delaware gridders opened their pre-season practice routine under the direction of Coach Bill Murray yesterday morning.

Two workouts a day will be held until classes start on Sept. 22, the first at 9 a. m., the second, at 3:30 p. m. Although heavy equipment was issued on Tuesday afternoon, the sessions will be limited to conditioning exercises and signal drills until the boys are in better shape.

Included in the impressive array of candidates are 25 members of the 1940 squad and 13 freshmen and with the veterans back for a nucleus, a successful season is anticipated.

Headed by Bill (Red) Hogan, triple threat back from Duquesne, Pa., and Melvin (Ripper) Brooks, fast-stepping local product who is a senior this year, the ball-carrying department is loaded with sophomore power and with recruit reinforcements lined up, the Delaware eleven won't be lacking in offensive strength.

Still listed among the missing are: Ed Carullo, reserve center; Jack Castevens, a regular tackle, and Greg Hillman, a promising ball carrier who may not report this year due to an ankle injury received during baseball season.

Four centers, three guards, two tackles and four backs were listed among the freshmen who reported yesterday. They were: Don Dunstall, 170-pound center from Frankfort, Ky., who stands 6 feet, 1 1/2 inches; Fred Sposata, 188-pound ball carrier from Wilmington High School, who stands 5 feet, 11 inches; Johnny Messick, a Media (Pa.) high school center who scales 180 pounds, stands 5 feet, 10 inches; Walt Marusa, former Wilmington High School guard who weighs 283 pounds and is 5 feet, 8 inches tall; Frank F. Moderack, Jr., 160-pound center from Wilmington who stands at an even six feet; Wade L. Pitt, 172-pound, 6 foot, two-inch end from Rocky Mount, N. C.; Carmen J. Selvaggi, 180-pound, 5-foot, 9 1/2-inch back from P. S. duPont; Joseph Wasenavage, 212-pound guard from Kulpmont, Pa., who stands 5 feet, 10 1/2 inches; Ray Smith, former Smyrna end, who weighs 175 pounds, stands 5 feet, 11 1/2 inches; Phil Small, 190-pound, 6-foot, one-inch guard from East Orange, N. J.; Joe Coady, 185-pound, 5-foot, 9-inch back from Minersville, Pa.; Paul L. Hart, a 205-pound fullback from Folcroft, Pa., who stands at an even six feet, and Berry Wiggins, center, captain of last year's Newark High School eleven.

McSpadden (11) turned back Charles E. Grubb (19), 4 and 2, and T. S. Beck (10) handed Ralph Groves (13) a decisive 5 and 4 setback.

In other matches played, R. Y. Taggart (15) downed R. S. Morris (11) by a one up margin; Joe Julian (8) upset George Anderson (0), 3 and 2; and George E. Dutton, Jr., (6) downed Dr. L. A. Stearns (12), one up.

Charles (Bunny) Walters and Wayne C. Brewer turned in the feature bout of the opening round when they battled 18 holes without reaching a decision.

While hot summer days seem like a poor time to prow around in poultry houses collecting eggs, Professor A. E. Tomhave and W. C. Skoglund, poultry research workers at the University Farm of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, have conclusive proof that the quality of eggs is decidedly lowered when they are allowed to remain in nests for any length of time on

The Delaware poultry research men ran a test with 30 Single Comb White Leghorns that had been in production from seven to nine months. In fully equipped pens the birds received the regular University of Delaware all-mash laying ration, supplemented with natural pebble grit and oyster shell in separate hoppers. Tomhave and Skoglund discovered that when the eggs were allowed to stay in hot nests for eight hours the firmness and height of the albumen or egg white had been decreased. But when the eggs stayed in the nests only four hours there was comparatively little decrease in amount

FOXCATCHER STEEPLECHASE TO FEATURE PROGRAM OF RACES AT FAIR HILL SAT.

Gold Cup And $5,000 Purse To Go
To Winner Of Three-Mile Event
Over Grand National Brush Course;
Flat Races Also Listed On Schedule

The program of races on Saturday, to be featured by the Foxcatcher National Cup Steeplechase, most notable American event of its kind, has been completed by the National Cup committee and again will consist of four races with the first scheduled for 3:45 P. M., D. S. T. The Foxcatcher, which carries a cup as well as the $5,000 purse, will be third on the card. Again it will be at three miles over a Grand National brush course.

Many of the international sportsmen, who are so heavily engaged in Washington, will be in the "breathery" to see this American event. The Foxcatcher is a part of the famous Liverpool Steeplechase, which is run at Aintree. One of the members of the National Cup Committee is W. Plunkett Stewart, recently Lord Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States.

Other members of the committee are Charles S. Bird, James Cox Brady, George Clark, William duPont, Jr., Joseph Dean, Amory L. Haskell, M. Jackson, Walter M. Jeffords, Har- rington, W. Wallace Lanahan, and C. Mather. J. C. Murtaugh and C. Sands.

The opening event will be the Fair Hill Steeplechase at about two miles over a brush course. Second will be a 2 1/2 mile race, on the turf at a 17 furlong distance. The Foxcatcher will follow third on the card; then will come the Lewisville flat race, seven furlongs on the turf.

The program is run in conjunction with the Cecil County Breeders' Fair, which is a two-day carnival beginning September 5th. At Fair Hill, the William duPont Steeplechase, which the races are run, Maryland, the program has the approval of the Maryland Racing Commission. Chester F. Hockley, widely known chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission, was one of the subscribers to the National Cup last year when Don Hume's Stable's Cartmoores was the winner in 6:06 3/5. The big race first run in 1934 when the course was named the greatest thing of its kind in this country.

It has been kept up and improved through the years, so that now the turf race has been pronounced ideal footing for the horses, while the fences have met with the approval of the riders. It is a stiff course, and no race for weak horses. The roster of winners amply illustrates this. In the inaugural race, W. B. Street's Melita was first. Jim Duffy, Bill Voss, and M. Gould's What Have You Dunn, Har- rington's Campbell Weir's Soldiers Fate, and E. A. W. Baltazzi's Ad Lib in the following years.

The past crowds greater than have witnessed the race, and the committee already has received requests for routes to the Fair Hill Steeplechase. The course is located about 16 miles southwest of Wilmington on route 40. For those who come by train, special arrangements have been made for the Pennsylvania Railroad for fast service to make special stops at Elkton, on race day. Ordinarily these trains do not stop at Elkton. There is a taxicab connection from the railroad station to the course.

The conduct of the meet will be in the hands of experienced hands of other members of the committee. G. Dudley Gray is secretary of the Cecil County Breeders' Fair, as well as of the horse show committee. Haines F. Brennan, widely known racing secretary, is secretary of the National Cup committee of which Mr. duPont is chairman. Other members of this committee are Morris H. Dixon, C. C. Maglin, Donald P. Ross, Mrs. Mar- tinez Scott, and John P. Bow-
