BETA BETA BETA

Beta Beta Beta is a national honorary society in the biological sciences; it has chapters on numerous American campuses, our own chapter being the Alpha Psi Chapter. Tri-Beta has three main objectives. It attempts to stimulate sound scholarship; to spread scientific knowledge, especially in the biological sciences; and to promote student research in biology.

In its effort to meet these objectives, our chapter has many activities. We have a series of planned meetings, each with an interesting program. Our members have tagged many of the trees on campus, and every year we offer a free blood-typing service to the university community. Each year is highlighted by one or more field trips to places of interest.
