Council To Take Census Of Newark

$150,000 Bond Issue August 1; Discuss House Numbers And North College Avenue Grade Crossing

At a regular monthly meeting of the Town Council, held in the Council rooms on Monday night, it was voted to take a census of the town of Newark. This census is to list every inhabitant of the town. It was also decided to obtain the $150,000 necessary to finance the extension and improvement of the street, light and sewer systems by a bond issue, to be dated August 1, 1927. In the meantime $5,000 will be borrowed on a note to pay current expenses on the sewer extension.

The bond issue will be in the form of 150 bonds of $1,000 denomination, at 4 1/2 per cent payable August 1, 1927. These bonds will be redeemable at par on or after August 1, 1932. The note for $5,000 is to pay current and necessary expenses on the sewer extension until the money from the bonds is available.

The treasurer reported $2,639.52 as a balance in the treasury at the end of May.

A motion was made and passed that the approaches to the B. & O. station be repaired.

The secretary of the Council was instructed to write George Murray, of Cleveland avenue, to the effect that unless a pavement was laid in front of his property within 30 days, the Council would have the pavement put down, charging him with the cost, plus 10 per cent.

There was discussion on the vital need of a watchman at the B. & O. grade crossing at North College avenue. Mayor Frazer stated that a number of letters had been written the railroad company by the Council on this matter. Further action will probably be taken on this problem.

The question of house numbers was brought up and it is probable that the Council will act on this matter in the near future.

Mayor Eben B. Frazer presided at the meeting and the following were present: Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Laura Hossinger; Councilmen Lovett, Beals, Wilson, Handloff, Widows and Greer.

The milk report for the month of May, submitted by H. R. Baker, milk inspector, was as follows:

	Butter	Bacteria
	Fat	Count
Clover Dairy (A)	3.85	12,400
Clover Dairy (B)	3.60	32,000
E. F. Richards	4.55	13,600
H. S. Eastburn	4.15	2,700
S. H. Ewing	4.20	100,000
E. P. Ewing	4.45	5,000
H. C. Herdman	4.50	31,000
Jonathan Johnson	4.25	45,000
Harry Jones	5.30	3,100

The milk reports of the Town of Newark compare more than favorably with other towns in the State. There is no other community that has as safe a milk supply as Newark.

Chas. B. Evans Made a Member of Tax Board

Charles B. Evans, prominent attorney of Newark, has been appointed by Governor Robinson as a member of the newly authorized State School Tax Board. At the same time Daniel J. Layton, of Georgetown, was appointed a member. Mr. Evans is a Democrat, Mr. Layton, a Republican.

The board, created by the last Legislature, has the power to sit as a board of appeals and to hear all decisions and ruling made by Pierre S. du Pont, State Tax Commissioner.

The board, further, has the power to modify and reverse any or all of the Tax Commissioner's reports and rulings.

The third member of the board will be the Secretary of State, Charles H. Grandland, who will serve during his term as secretary of state. The other men will serve for four years.

They will receive $10 a meeting plus expenses.

The board will meet within a few weeks to elect a chairman. A secretary will have to be selected and it is probable a member of Mr. du Pont's tax office will be selected.

SILENT POLICEMEN

The Town Council are installing silent policemen, surmounted by a red light, at various dangerous street intersections, several of them have been completed and are in operation.

"Circus" for Charity

Several thoughtful members of Newark's younger set recently decided to do something for the relief of the Mississippi flood sufferers. The result of their planning was a circus staged at the Blue Hen Farm on May 28. We have not been informed that it was a three-ring circus; but we do know that there were three features to the afternoon's entertainment—a peanut hunt, a sale of candy and lemonade, and wonderful rides with a pony and cart. More important than all of the fun was the fact that six dollars and fifty cents was the amount cleared at the box-office. The company which managed the circus included: Betty Ford, Betty Hart, Margaret Emstrom, and Betty McKelvey, of this town, and Jane Herman, of Wilmington.

Ginther Just Misses Qualifying for Open

Eddie Ginther, professional at the Newark Country Club, played Monday in the qualifying round of the Philadelphia district for the National Open Championship, to be played this year at the Oakmont Club, at Pittsburgh. The qualifying round was played at Philmont.

Eddie's morning round of 77 put him in fourth place in the field of 58. In the afternoon, his putter failed to function in an effective manner, resulting in an 83, which just nosed him out of the list of qualifiers. Seven qualified; among them Al Heron, who topped the list with 146; Joe Kirkwood; Charles Hoffner and J. Wood Platt, the only amateur to make the grade.

In the Detroit district qualifying round, Wilfred Reid, formerly of the Wilmington Country Club, who laid out the Newark course, was among the seven who qualified.

The team match with the Kennett Square Country Club, which was to have been played Saturday afternoon, was postponed on account of rain.

H. A. Turner, Jr., on Sunday, won his third silver spoon of the season with a low gross of 82.

C.W. Hawke Awarded $13,700 From B. & O.

Win Two Suits As Result Of Crossing Accident; Hehl Gets $1,000

A jury of the Superior Court, last Friday awarded Charles W. Hawke $13,700 as judgment in his two suits against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, growing out of the fatal grade crossing accident at the North College avenue crossing on the night of May 8, 1926. The judgments were $11,000 as administrator for his son, John L. Hawke, who was killed in the accident, and $2,700 for personal expenses in bringing the suits.

Hearing of testimony was started Thursday and concluded Friday afternoon, the jury deliberating five hours before reporting a decision. Judges Rice and Rodney sat during the case.

Immediately after the verdict, John W. Huxley, Jr., counsel for the defendant company, moved for a new trial and arrest of judgment. Charles F. Curley and George L. Townsend, Jr., represented Hawke.

Early last week, a jury failed to agree on a verdict in the first two suits growing out of the same accident. (Continued on Page 5.)

DR. MATHEWS TO HAVE VACATION

Dr. R. B. Mathews has been granted a leave of absence from his duties as rector of St. Thomas' Church from the middle of June until September first. Dr. Mathews has not been in the best of health recently and hopes during the period of rest to regain his usual strength.

Next Sunday Dr. Mathews will preach as usual. Colonel S. J. Smith will preach on the remaining two Sundays in June. It is hoped that Bishop Cook will be with the church at least one Sunday in July.

ALUMNI BANQUET

On Saturday, June 18, at six o'clock standard time, in the High School Auditorium, the Alumni Association of the High School will sit down to one of Walter Powell's famous chicken dinners. The occasion will be the annual banquet of the Association.

Annual Services At Old Drawyers Sunday

Over 1000 Make Pilgrimage To 216th Anniversary Of Famous Church

Quaint Old Drawyers Church, near Odessa, was the Mecca of over 1,000 pilgrims on Sunday, who came from many sections of this part of the country to attend the services commemorating the 216th anniversary of its foundation. Among their number were Mr. and Mrs. George L. Townsend, Jr., of Newark.

Old Drawyers is known as the "Cradle of Delaware Presbytery," and the first building was erected in 1711. In 1769 the first building was condemned and a new church built in 1773.

The services were held under the auspices of the "Friends of Old Drawyers," who organized March, 1895, for "the care and preservation of the building and cemetery of the ancient corporation known as 'The First Presbyterian Church in St. George's Hundred'."

The speakers included United States Senator Thomas F. Bayard, who in addressing the afternoon services stressed the "spiritual value of history," paying great tribute to the "men who made the Declaration of Independence and the early history of Delaware and the Nation." Senator Bayard invoked the shades of Washington and a number of others, including Caesar Rodney, and quoted great philosophers, statesmen and poets, stirring the audience that packed the little church to the im-

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT

Last Wednesday Stanley Tupas was brought before Judge Thompson on a warrant charging aggravated assault. The warrant was sworn to by John Chacosky, who was acting in behalf of his brother, Emil Chacosky.

All parties are employed on a dredge working in the Chesapeake and Delaware canal. Tupas, a Pole, is alleged to have assaulted Emil Chacosky, a Russian, with a club while Chacosky was asleep in his bunk on the barge. Chacosky was injured to the extent that he was taken to the Union Hospital, Elkton, where he was confined several days. Apparently, the attack was the result of racial antagonism.

Tupas was committed to the Workhouse to await the outcome of Chacosky's injuries.

BLUE HEN DEDICATED TO PROF. CONOVER

The Blue Hen, the biennial student publication at the University of Delaware recently issued, is dedicated to Professor Elisha Conover, one of the oldest members of the faculty in point of service and one of the most popular. The following tribute is paid to Professor Conover in the book: "We, the members of the classes of nineteen hundred twenty-seven and nineteen hundred twenty-eight, in order that we may show the love and esteem that we hold for one of our most sincere friends and worthy teachers, respectfully dedicate this volume of the Blue Hen to Prof. Elisha Conover."

COL. SMITH BUYS PROPERTY

Colonel S. J. Smith has recently purchased a farm of fifty acres at Blackbird, Delaware, six miles from Middletown, on the du Pont Boulevard. The farm was purchased from Mrs. V. Lay Phillips, of Smyrna. Colonel and Mrs. Smith expect to remodel the house as soon as possession of the property is given and to move there in the fall.

CHANGE AT THE A. & P.

Howard Russum, who has been connected with the local branch of the Atlantic and Pacific Company, has been transferred to the New Jersey district and is located at Summer's Point, near Atlantic City.

Mr. Leon Blakeman, of Newark, who has been at the local store for several weeks, will take Mr. Russum's place as manager of the meat market.

AMBULANCE CALL

Last Friday, Mrs. Godfrey, living on Depot road, was taken to the St. Francis Hospital, Wilmington, in the Newark ambulance. Horace Null and Bert Crow attended.

OUR COUNTRY — OUR FLAG

What is our country? Not alone the land and the sea, the lakes and rivers, and valleys and mountains; not alone the people, their customs and laws; not alone the memories of the past, the hopes of the future; it is something more than all these combined. It is a divine abstraction. You cannot tell what it is, but let its flag rustle above your head, you feel its living presence in your hearts.—Sen. Newton Booth.

Choir Entertainment

Tomorrow night at seven-thirty, standard time, at the New Century Club, the choir of the Methodist Episcopal Church will give a musical and dramatic program. This program was to have been given this evening, but was postponed. It will be divided into two parts. The proceeds of the entertainment will go to repair the church organ.

Professor P. B. Myers, director of the choir, has selected for the musical part of the program, a cantata, different from anything the choir has attempted before. Its character is aptly reflected in the title, "Penitence, Pardon and Peace." It will be simple in harmony, calm and peaceful in tone. The soloists will include: Mrs. D. W. Jacobs, Mrs. E. C. VanKeuren, Mr. Kennedy Fell, and Professor Myers. In addition to these, the choir will be assisted by Mr. J. M. Barnes, of the Presbyterian choir, and Mr. A. A. Atchison, of Wilmington.

Mr. Atchison is also directing the dramatic part of the entertainment. He is being assisted by Professor E. C. VanKeuren. The play to be given, "The Sin of Ahab," has been characterized by the Drama League of America, as the finest one-act dramatization of a Bible story ever produced. Mr. Atchison is also playing the role of King Ahab. Possessed of an unusual stage voice and presence and a keen preception of the dramatic, Mr. Atchison gives a finished interpretation of the covetous king. He has played the part in several Wilmington productions of the play. The other roles will be taken by Mrs. Atchison, Mr. Earl F. Dawson, Mr. Ira Ellis, Mr. E. P. K. Meredith, and Professor E. C. VanKeuren.

PORTRAIT OF EVERETT C. JOHNSON

The oil portrait of Everett C. Johnson, recently painted by Stanley M. Arthurs, of Wilmington, has been hung in Old College. The portrait, which is the gift of the Alumni Association to the college, shows Mr. Johnson seated by a table, which is placed by an open window. The suggestion of the study is that he has paused in his reading to think of Old College, the portals of which are pictured as a background. It seems to be the general opinion of those who have seen the portrait that Mr. Arthurs has been very successful, not only in securing an excellent likeness of Mr. Johnson and in portraying his devotion to his Alma Mater, but also in a beautiful blending of colors.

ACADEMY TRUSTEES MEET

Last night the trustees of the Newark Academy held their annual meeting. In the absence of Dr. H. G. M. Kollock, president, N. M. Motherall, vice-president, presided. The trustees attending were: N. M. Motherall, George Griffin, Eben B. Frazer, Daniel Thompson, J. Pearce Cann, Charles B. Evans, and Mrs. Laura Hossinger.

The officers: Dr. Kollock, president; N. M. Motherall, vice-president; and Mrs. Laura Hossinger, secretary and treasurer; were re-elected.

A motion, made to paint the Academy building, was left to the discretion of a committee.

PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION

Dr. Walter Hulihan, president of the University of Delaware, will hold a reception Saturday afternoon from four to six o'clock, standard time, on the lawn at the Knoll, as part of the commencement activities.

The reception will be given to students who are finishing their courses, both four and two-year students, and their families; returning alumni and alumnae of the University; faculty members and staff of the University.

Pool Campaign

The student committee of the University of Delaware for the campaign to raise $40,000 to build an addition to the Gymnasium, housing a swimming pool, has started action. It has received pledge cards from 40 per cent of the student body of Delaware College, pledging $30 each, and is asking the faculty to contribute. Two subscriptions from the faculty have already been received, one for $200 and another for $50.

The committee for the campaign within the University is composed of John E. Harper, James Wilson, Fred Creamer and Edgar Reese. The trustees of the University will probably add members of the faculty and trustees to this committee, when the drive is taken outside of the University.

Dean Dutton Tells Uses Of Education

Tells Harrington Graduates College Education Is Worth $42,000

George E. Dutton, dean of Delaware College, gave a clear and comprehensive outline of the purposes and uses of education in his address to the graduating class of the Harrington High School at their commencement exercises, held last Thursday evening in the Harrington Methodist Church.

Dean Dutton in his address, "Some Thoughts on Education," said in part: "I propose this evening to present briefly some thoughts on education. We are living in an age of readjustment. We are facing a new day. It is well that we pause for a moment to take account of stock, to consider where we are and whither we are tending. Among the questions that should interest us is that of education. We want to know more about education. Parents are no longer content to accept the opinions of others as to what are the essentials of the training that should be offered our young people by schools and colleges. Now this fact is encouraging; it is a welcome indication to teachers and educators that people in general are taking an intelligent, or at least a curious, interest in what school and college authorities are doing to fit young people to become respectable, useful American citizens.

WANTED A JAIL

Apparently the Army is surfeited with recruits as it seems to be hard for a deserter to break into the brig. Last week, one Frank J. Damer, self-confessed deserter from Fort du Pont, walked into Judge Thompson's office, accompanied by Richard Sheaffer, and without formality of introduction said, "I surrender."

Upon questioning, it developed that he was a deserter from the Army and had disclosed the fact to Sheaffer, who had brought him to Judge Thompson. He was willing and anxious to turn himself in, but preferred a civil court. Judge Thompson called the Fort, where the authorities seemed to consider a mere deserter a matter to be treated with indifference. They suggested that the Judge assume the problem of transporting Damer to the fort, but finally agreed to pay the expenses. Sheaffer took him to the Fort, where he is apparently enjoying incarceration in the bastille.

WRONG TAGS

Isaac Vashell was arrested Thursday by Chief of Police Keeley for operating a truck with pleasure car tags. He was fined $10 and costs by Judge Thompson.

Baccalaureate Sermon Urges Clear Thought And Understanding

Service To High School Graduates Given Sunday; Class Day Wednesday; Commencement Friday

OBSERVE FLAG WEEK

The Reverend Diaston W. Jacobs preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Newark High School on Sunday evening in the Newark Methodist Church. He took as his text, "The Young Men of Schimmar Understood the Times."

Mr. Jacobs dwelt on the fact that the world in its present complex situation demands clear thinking and understanding. He also stressed the point of a vocation. The entire senior class attended arrayed in caps and gowns. The junior class acted as a guard of honor. The entire faculty of the Newark Schools were represented at the service as were the Board of Education. The church was so crowded that many had to stand.

The church was decorated in living green and a black shield with the letters, N. H. S., in gold, was hung in front of the pulpit.

The program for Class Day, which will take place at 8 o'clock, standard time, in Wolf Hall, on the evening of June 8, is as follows:

Welcome, Oscar Morris, president of the senior class; Class Will, Dorothy Stoll; "Nothing," Frances Butler; "Twenty Years from Now," Louise Brooks; Class History, Marion Singles; Gifts, Leonard Eubanks; Song, Class of 1927.

U. S. Representative Robert G. Houston will address the graduating class at the Commencement exercises, which will take place in Wolf Hall at 8 o'clock, standard time, on the evening of June 10. The rest of the program will be as follows:

Valedictory, "Ideals," Catherine Pie; Salutatory, "The Demand for Freedom," Paul McMurray; Class Oration, "The Duties of Tomorrow's Citizens," Charles Sylvester.

Reserve Officers Honor Capt. Morse

Given Dinner, Presented With Case of Silver

Captain William P. Morse, who is leaving Saturday for Plattsburg after five years as instructor in military science at the University of Delaware, was given a dinner last Friday night at the University Club, Wilmington, by the Reserve Officers in and about Wilmington. Captain Morse was presented with a case of solid silverware by Major Clarence Dillon on behalf of the officers in appreciation for his services as an instructor, that he has given for the past two years at their semi-monthly meetings.

The Reserve Officers school has been directed by Major K. B. Lemmon, officer in charge of reserve activities in Delaware. The dinner meeting Friday was the last one of the year. The committee which arranged the dinner was composed of Colonel A. E. Tanner, Major Clarence Dillon, Captain W. H. Kraemer.

Captain Morse will be stationed at Plattsburg as an infantry instructor until September when he will report to Fort Leavenworth, where he will instruct in the army school.

GIFT FOR DR. SYPHERD

The members of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity of the University of Delaware presented a handsome golf bag and sweater last Friday evening to Dr. W. O. Sypherd, head of the English Department of the University and a member of the fraternity. Dr. Sypherd has been granted a year's leave of absence for study in Europe, and will sail from New York City on June 18.

FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS

A contribution for the relief of the Mississippi flood sufferers which has not been previously reported is that of ten dollars from the Blue Hen Camp, Modern Woodmen of America. A number of the flood sufferers are members of the order.

The Codling Moth

Dr. H. L. Dozier, entomologist at the University, gives some startling information in a discussion of the sources of codling moth carry-over. Dr. Dozier's discussion is as follows:

"After a careful study of the various sources of Codling Moth infestation and carry-over during the past two seasons it was clearly demonstrated that the old picking baskets in the packing houses and sheds were the greatest source of carry-over. It was found that the old picking baskets were heavily infested with the worms which, upon leaving the picked fruit, form cocoons in the crevices and between the staves. Heretofore these baskets have been allowed to lie around in the open packing houses and sheds and have in this way served as an excellent and well-protected winter carry-over agency. It is therefore strongly advised that each grower should make a serious effort this year to help eliminate as far as possible this source of infestation. At present there is no satisfactory method of fumigating or disinfecting the baskets, but if conditions warranted it they could be disinfected by running through vats of boiling hot water. The simplest method is to place all baskets in a tight room, packing house or cellar and keep them there until all the adult codling moths have issued the following spring and perished. The adult moths with nothing to live on will soon die and the baskets can generally be used with safety for picking the early apple crop."

"In 1926 counts of baskets stored at the writer's suggestion in tight packing houses and cellars gave startling facts. Three hundred and eighty-nine out of approximately 3000 baskets stored in cellar at Camden contained 11,602 worms, an average of 29 worms per basket. Two hundred twenty-four baskets out of approximately 3000 baskets in packing house at Woodside showed 4,895 worms, an average of 21 worms per basket. One hundred baskets in the cellar of a grower at Rialing Sun were counted and contained 1,373 worms, an average of 13 worms per basket. These figures coincided very closely with the actual field infestation of the fall of 1925 on those places and shows what a large number of adult moths were prevented from escaping into the nearby orchards. Basket inspection on a number of properties this spring indicate a lighter initial infestation to start with this season and with concentrated efforts on thorough control of the first brood worms this year, it is hoped that there will be less wormy fruit."

A New Farm Crop

A suggestion that the agricultural problem might be solved to some extent if poor farm lands were converted into forests, was made by President Coolidge in proclaiming April 24 to 30, "American Forest Week," and recommending its observance to the Governors of the 48 States.

"One-fourth of our soil," the President said, "is better suited to timber growing than anything else. I cannot escape the conviction that our industrial and agricultural stability will be strengthened by bringing into full productive use this great empire of land."

"Although much progress has been made in public forestry, and hopeful beginnings in private industry, we still have a vast aggregate of idle or semi-idle forest land, and another large aggregate of poor farm land that might more profitably grow timber instead of adding to the problem of agricultural overproduction."

"Our migratory forest industries would be established and made permanent. Rural industry would be greatly strengthened and vitalized. Agriculture would find in silviculture a strong ally, providing markets for farm produce and for surplus labor. Our farms themselves contain nearly a third of our woodland—an enormous potential farm asset if handled for continuous timber crops."

The President said, he proclaimed the seventh annual observance of forest week, which Canada had decided to celebrate at the same time, in the realization that "no other of our internal problems is of greater moment than the rehabilitation of our forests."

The American Flag

The flag contains thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, representing the thirteen original states; and a star for each state in the Union. The field of the flag is the stripes, the Union is the blue and the stars. The colors of the flag are red, representing valor; white, representing hope; purity and truth; blue representing loyalty, sincerity and justice; and its stars, high aspirations and federal union. The flag is known as "Old Glory," "Stars and Stripes," "Star-Spangled Banner," and the "Red, White and Blue."

The arrangement of the stars on the flag is regulated by law and executive order. An executive order, issued October 26, 1912, provided for forty-eight stars to be arranged in six horizontal rows of eight stars each.

Starting in the upper left-hand corner and reading each row from left to right, gives the star of each state in the order of the state's ratification of the Constitution and admission to the Union, as follows:

First row: One, Delaware; two, Pennsylvania; three, New Jersey; four, Georgia; five, Connecticut; six, Massachusetts; seven, Maryland; eight, South Carolina.

Second row: nine, New Hampshire; ten, Virginia; eleven, New York; twelve, North Carolina; thirteen, Rhode Island; fourteen, Vermont; fifteen, Kentucky; sixteen, Tennessee.

Third row: seventeen, Ohio; eighteen, Louisiana; nineteen, Indiana; twenty, Mississippi; twenty-one, Illinois; twenty-two, Alabama; twenty-three, Maine; twenty-four, Missouri.

Fourth row: twenty-five, Arkansas; twenty-six, Michigan; twenty-seven, Florida; twenty-eight, Texas; twenty-nine, Iowa; thirty, Wisconsin; thirty-one, California; thirty-two, Minnesota.

Fifth row: thirty-three, Oregon; thirty-four, Kansas; thirty-five, West Virginia; thirty-six, Nevada; thirty-seven, Nebraska; thirty-eight, Colorado; thirty-nine, North Dakota; forty, South Dakota.

Sixth row: forty-one, Montana; forty-two, Washington; forty-three, Idaho; forty-four, Wyoming; forty-five, Utah; forty-six, Oklahoma; forty-seven, New Mexico; forty-eight, Arizona.

The dimensions of the flag are fixed by an executive order issued May 26, 1916. Its length should be just 1.9 times its height.

The union, or part of the flag on which the stars appear, should be seven stripes high and its length 0.76 of the height of the flag. The stars are five-pointed, with one point directly upward.

When a new state is admitted the star is not added to the flag until the Fourth of July next succeeding the date of admission.

The flag should be raised at sunrise and lowered at sunset. It may be raised at other times, but should never be left out at night, except during a state of war when it is under the fire of an enemy.

On Memorial Day the flag should be displayed at half-staff from sunrise until noon, and at the peak from noon until sunset.

In raising the flag to half-staff or half-mast, it should always be run to the peak and then lowered one breadth of the flag. In retiring it, it should first be run back to the peak and then retired. It should never be allowed to touch the ground.

When "The Star-Spangled Banner" is played or sung, stand and remain standing until it is finished.

When the flag is passing on parade, or in review, if you are walking, halt; if sitting, rise, stand at attention, and uncover.

The flag should never be worn as the whole or part of a costume. As a badge it should be worn over the left breast.

In decorating, the flag should never be festooned or draped; always hung flat.

If hung so the stripes are horizontal, the union should be in the left upper corner.

If hung perpendicularly, union should be in right upper corner.

When the national flag and another flag fly from the same pole there should be double halyards, one for each flag.

The flag should never be placed below a person sitting.

When carried in parade, or when crossed with other flags, the Stars and Stripes should always be at the right.

When the flag is used in unveiling a statue or monument it should not be allowed to fall to the ground, but should be carried aloft to wave out, forming a distinctive feature during the remainder of the ceremony.

When the flag is placed over a bier or casket the blue field should be at the head.

As an altar covering the union should be at the right as you face the altar, and nothing should be placed upon the flag except the Holy Bible.

The flag should never be reversed except in case of distress at sea.—The National Republic.

The Signing of the Declaration of Independence

John Hancock, President of Congress, was the first to sign the Declaration of Independence, writing his name in large, plain letters, and saying:—"There! John Bull can read my name without spectacles. Now let him double the price on my head, for this is my defiance."

Then he turned to the other members, and solemnly declared:—

"We must be unanimous. There must be no pulling different ways. We must all hang together."

"Yes," said Franklin, quaintly: "we must all hang together, or most assuredly we shall all hang separately."

We are told that Charles Carroll, thinking that his writing looked shaky, added the words, "of Carrollton," so that the king should not be able to make any mistake as to whose name stood there.—From "The Story of the Thirteen Colonies," by H. A. Guerber.

"Remember the steam kettle—tho' up to its neck in hot water it continues to sing.—Trotty Veck Messenger.

BOYS' CLUBS AND THE FUTURE

Coincidentally with the celebration in Syracuse, N. Y., of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Boy's Club Federation, come the campaigns in many American cities to raise money to enlarge the facilities for hundreds of thousands of underprivileged boys in the United States. While the delegates to the Syracuse meeting came from thirty states in America and from six other countries, and represented 220,000 boys who enjoy the privileges of boys' clubs, there are many more lads in the United States who would be benefited by having their leisure hours properly directed. Moreover such direction would be of inestimable benefit to the communities in which the boys live.

The welcome of the sixteen-year-old member of the Syracuse club, extended to the delegates was a splendid and candid plea for help. He said: "If men and women everywhere would only give us boys a chance to play and work and do the other things that are done in boys' clubs, we would much rather do them than do some of the things that boys are blamed for." It is reported that more than $11,000,000 is invested in boys' clubs in the United States, and when the "dividends" paid are considered it is not strange that the "interest" is increasing and that more money is needed for expansion.

The potential value of the boys' club is disclosed by a study of what a boy does with his time. Investigation shows that in the course of a year a boy spends 3650 hours in bed, 550 hours in eating, 1000 hours at school, and the rest, about 3560 hours, he has to himself to do with as he will. It is those hours of leisure that give concern and demand that right and constructive activity be provided, or at least made available. "Play the game fairly" is all the boys ask. To be told "Don't do this," and "Don't do that," has gone by the board long since. They ask for something to do! The granting of such an honest plea should not be denied.

Boys are not to be suppressed; they are to be aimed straight and encouraged to go. Then maybe the flight of many more will lead, metaphorically, to Paris.—Christian Science Monitor.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Resolutions of respect adopted by the members of Fourth District Auxiliary of Union Hospital, Elkton, Maryland, on the death of Mrs. Thomas B. Miller:

Inasmuch as our Heavenly Father has permitted the "Reaper" to enter the fold of our Auxiliary and remove from our midst our loved secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Miller,

Therefore, Be it resolved that our Auxiliary has met with a great loss in the calling "Home" of this most estimable woman, who was a great leader in this cause for humanity and always responsive to appeals made to our Auxiliary.

Resolved, That our Auxiliary has lost a valuable member and worker; one of the sterling characters; thus, passed a beautiful life to the "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the devoted family who sustained such a great loss.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy spread on the minutes of our Auxiliary, and a copy sent to the County papers and to the "Newark Post."

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

AS TOLD BY OUR CORRESPONDENTS

Elkton

Staff Sergeant David R. Perkins, of Hagerstown, Md., was an Elkton visitor Wednesday and Thursday. He was accompanied home by his wife and daughter, who have been spending the past two months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sparklin.

Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Carr and children, of Alabama, are spending sometime with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Atkinson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sparklin spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George T. Witworth, at Elmhurst, Del.

Miss Helen C. Reynolds, member of the graduating class of the Elkton High School, has been awarded the county prize of $20 given by the Eastern Shore Society for the best essay in the annual contest.

Monday, June 27, has been chosen as the date for the annual joint meeting of the Elkton and Chestertown Rotary Clubs at Betterton.

The Cecil County Commissioners announce the appointments of the following general assessors to make a reassessment of all property in the county as required by law every five years: Cecilton district, John Benson; Chesapeake City, George Thornton and George Conrey; Elkton, Manly Drennan and William T. Vinsinger; Fair Hill, William T. McAllister; North East, Lawson Tesh; Port Deposit, Philip R. Bond; Conowingo, Howard Logan; Calvert, Walter C. Martindell. At a conference of the assessors held in the county court room, M. J. Lindsay, inspector for the State Tax Commission, instructed the new appointees how to make the new assessment which must be completed for the levy in June, 1928.

Ralph Phillips and G. W. Johnson, who conduct a hotel at Conowingo, were arrested by Sheriff Logan charged with violating the Volstead act. The officers found several vats filled with home brewed beer, a bottling outfit, several gallons of whisky and brandy. Justice Scotten held each under $500 bail for the September term of court.

Miss Helen Nichols, for several years a clerk in the Elkton Banking and Trust Company, has tendered her resignation and accepted a similar position with the National Bank of Rising Sun.

The dairymen of Cecil county held a meeting in Elkton on Tuesday to plan with the county commissioners and the state tuberculosis eradication authorities for the testing of dairy cattle in the county.

Graduating exercises of the Elkton High School class of 1927 will be held Wednesday morning at 10.00 o'clock in the New Central Theatre. Class Night was held Monday evening.

Children's Day exercises were held in Elkton Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday evening by the Sunday School. A fine program was rendered. A large and appreciative audience was present.

WILSON L. COUDON DIED ON SUNDAY

Wilson Levering Coudon, aged 68 years, deputy State insurance commissioner, native of Cecil county, formerly of Elkton, and well known as a record breaking athlete, died Sunday morning from paralysis at his home in the Preston Apartments, Baltimore. Throughout his life he had been prominently identified with Cecil county, where the family has lived for several generations.

Mr. Coudon had been deputy insurance commissioner since 1900, having been appointed under the administration of Governor Austin L. Crothers. He established the Perryville Record, now discontinued, and was its editor and publisher for many years. Before that he was manager of the Cecil Fire Brick Works at North East, and while so engaged he assisted in the editorial management of the North East Star.

Mr. Coudon was born at Aiken, Cecil county, August 14, 1858. He was the son of the late Henry Stump Coudon and Martha B. (Levering) Coudon. His great-grandfather, the Rev. Joseph Coudon, was the first minister ordained by Bishop White, who was the first Protestant Episcopal bishop in the United States.

Mr. Coudon was twice married. His first wife was Miss Alice Wroth, of Camden, N. J., a member of the Eastern Shore family of that name. She died in 1899. His second wife, who survives him, was Miss Norma Worrell, of Philadelphia. He leaves three children, Miss Carolyn E. and Miss Elizabeth A. Coudon and Wilson L. Coudon, Jr. Miss Anna and Miss

Martha Coudon and Joseph Coudon, all of Aiken, are his sisters and brother.

The funeral took place at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, from St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal Church near Aiken, and the services were conducted by the Rev. Edward Adams, the rector. For nearly twenty years Mr. Coudon had been superintendent of the the Sunday school of that denomination at Perryville.

ARRESTED FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

A young man of 24 years, tanned from work on a Maryland farm, cried in the U. S. Marshal's office Saturday morning when he was taken to the New Castle county workhouse in default of a $500 bond placed against him by U. S. Commissioner Cann.

The man, Larry M. Smith, of Elkton, was arrested early Saturday morning by State Highway Policemen Hession and Carpenter, near St. Georges. In the car he was driving was found a 10-gallon keg of alleged rye whiskey that contained 49 1/2 percent alcohol.

With him were two boys, Charles Bedwell and Raymond Goodyear, who is the son of Luke Goodyear of Elkton. Smith told the Federal prohibition agents Goodyear had employed him to deliver and transport liquor. Goodyear himself has a record in Delaware of violating the Prohibition Act.

Smith was brought before U. S. Commissioner Cann Saturday morning on charges of transporting liquor. He was then brought before Magistrate Jones and charged with operating an automobile that had wrong tags on it.

Policeman Hession stated the automobile had two tags, one belonging to William W. Nichol and the other to W. D. Haller, both of Elkton. He was fined $50 and costs, but did not pay the fine since he had no money.

The defendant said he had been working for Goodyear for several weeks. He said he did not know the tags had been switched; and the liquor, he said, he had secured near Newark, where it had been buried for several weeks.

While being taken to the workhouse he cried and said if he knew he would have been caught, he would never have consented to transport the liquor.—Every Evening.

The First American To Greet "Lindy"

Newarkers have been interested in the recent newspaper report that Cyrus Keen, who is in Europe at the present time supervising various campaigns for the erection of various colleges and hospitals. He was chairman of the committee which built the American Hospital at Paris.

Mr. Keen, in a letter received by his wife, living between Newport and Stanton, told of the arrival of the lone sea flier, and of the great throngs gathered at Le Bourget field to greet him. The enthusiasm of the French as the monoplane circled over the field before landing was vividly described by Mr. Keen.

Gendarmes made frantic efforts to keep a space cleared about the plane, Mr. Keen said, but they were almost helpless in the face of the thousands who crowded onto the field, and hardly had Lindbergh settled his Spirit of St. Louis onto the soil of France than he was surrounded by a milling mass of excited humanity.

Mr. Keen was one of the first to reach the side of the trans-oceanic flier, and he was, so far as he has been able to ascertain, the first American to grasp the hand of Lone Slim. He described the flier as modest and unassuming, and every inch a man.

Mr. Keen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Keen, who live on the Newport pike between Newport and Stanton. He was at one time connected with the Wilmington Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and had his first charge at Claymont. He later gave up the ministry for a wider field of activity in mission work, and for several years has had his headquarters in New York, making frequent trips to Europe.

Mr. Keen is a nephew of Mrs. Frank Crompton of Delaware avenue, this town, and has many acquaintances here.

NEWARKERS GIVE PROGRAM IN WILMINGTON

A delegation from Anchor Lodge, No. 4, A. O. U. W., of this place, accompanied by some friends, visited Columbia Lodge, No. 21, of Wilmington, last evening, and gave the following program:

Duet, baritone horn and piano, Walker Fell, Sr., and Miss Alice Fell; ukelele solo and song, "Billy Boy," Miss Helen Tweed; sketch, "Pop and the Kids at the Shoe Store," Miss Edith Jackson, Lewis Fell, and several children; piano solo, "Darling Heart," Miss Augusta Kauffman; playlet, "Mrs. Doolittle and Silas on their Trip to Wilmington," Mr. and Mrs. Walker Fell, Mrs. Marguerite Balling, Miss Catherine Fell, Miss Dorothy Fell, Miss Edith Jackson, Miss Charlotte Jackson, Miss Helen Tweed, Lewis Fell, Miss Augusta Kauffman, Billy and Junior Balling, Miss Alice Fell and Miss Elizabeth Lindell; reading, Miss Charlotte Jackson; Charleston, Misses Helen Tweed and Catherine Fell; harmonica solo, Mr. Price Jackson, with Charleston by Miss Charlotte Jackson; playlet, "The Old Maid's Adventure," Mrs. Harvey Dickey, Miss Elizabeth Lindell and Miss Alice Fell.

On behalf of the Newark delegation, Miss Helen Tweed presented the Grand Master Workman a handsome bouquet of roses and peonies.

Beside those who took part in the program the Newark party included Mrs. Orville Little and two sons; Mrs. Price Jackson, Mrs. Robert Tweed, Mr. Robert J. Crow, Mr. Jonathan Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kauffman. The trip was made in one of Stiltz's big buses.

A large crowd was present, the occasion being a reception to Grand Master Workman Howard F. McCall and the other Grand Lodge Officers, given by Columbia Lodge. A number of prominent guests were present and short talks were given by a number of the members and visitors.

Coolidge and Publicity

Despite the invitations of some well intentioned but unthinking friends, and of trap-laying enemies, the President refuses to make a raree-show of the pitiful sufferings and privations in the flood area by visiting that territory. This again is one of the times that we can thank Providence that in Calvin Coolidge we have no self-advertising, publicity-seeking, tom-tom beating chief executive. This is the time to thank Providence that when a national emergency arises, the President picks men competent to handle the task, gives them every ounce of his support and encouragement, but trusts and demands that they do the work.

From a press agent's standpoint, a visit of the President to the Mississippi area could be made a world-beating publicity stunt. With the proper supply of movie cameras, he could be photographed on a hundred dikes in a hundred different poses. He could be shown comforting the weak, personally directing the toiling workmen, and even making direct rescues of people from the flood. Once again let us rejoice that his genuine anxiety for the safety, comfort and solace of these people makes such postures absolutely abhorrent to him.

In his office at Washington almost hourly he has reports of each development. From his office at Washington he is able to authorize instant relief of the stores of the army and navy depots and the employment not only of the material and supplies, but of the necessary men. Already, under his hands a program for immediate relief has been organized, but equally important he has already started the development of a comprehensive flood control program which Congress will later be called upon to develop.

PRAISE FOR C. A. SHORT

Newark friends of Major Short will be glad to read this reprint from the "Delaware State News," the editor of which paper has been in a good position to observe the work going on at W. C. L.:

"Too much credit cannot be given Professor C. A. Short, president of Wesley Collegiate for the fine, inspiring record he has made during his first year as the head of the grand old institution. The fact that the student registration at the school has increased almost one hundred per cent under Professor Short's administration of its affairs, while the graduating class of nineteen this year is the largest turned out by the institution in recent years, speak well for the energy and ability of the president.

Professor Short long ago endeared himself to the people of Dover by his fine personality and kindly spirit, and the interest he is taking in old Wesley and his efforts to place it foremost in the ranks of educational institutions in this part of the country, strikes a responsive chord in the hearts of all Delawareans who are loyal to the school and its rich traditions.

May the next year be an even more successful one for Professor Short and old Wesley."

Presbyterian Church Notes

Dr. H. Everett Hallman, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, who has been absent several weeks while he has attended the General Assembly at San Francisco, has returned and will occupy his pulpit at the Sunday morning service at 11 o'clock. The subject of his sermon will be "Stewardship." Dr. Hallman will administer the sacrament of infant baptism. At the evening service at 7:30, Dr. P. W. McClintock will speak on "Loyalty."

Sunday will be Visitor's Day at the church and every member is urged to bring a neighbor or friend to church with him.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the church will be held in the lecture room at 7:30 p. m., standard time.

DELAWARE CHAPTER OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS

The University of Delaware Chapter (Delaware College Branch) of the American Association of University Professors was organized last Monday evening. The Delaware Chapter is affiliated with the National Association, which includes at present, more than 6,000 members from 251 universities and colleges.

At the organization meeting Monday evening, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Dr. C. L. Benner; vice-president, Professor W. A. Wilkinson; secretary and treasurer, Prof. H. R. Baker.

FLAG-DAY INVITATION

Mincola Council, No. 17, Degree of Pocahontas, has received an invitation from Little Elk Council, Cherry Hill, Md., to participate in the celebration on June 14, Flag Day, of the sesquicentennial of the adoption of our flag. In no other lodge could the 150th birthday of our flag be more reverently and patriotically observed than in the Degree of Pocahontas and Independent Order of Red Men.

I strongly urge as many of our members as possible to plan to attend the ceremony which has been designed to mark the day of the year upon which our flag was given official recognition in the Congress of the United States.—Sara Tryens, Press Cor.

SPECIAL JURY DRAWN

Talismen for a special jury have been drawn to try the $100,000 damage suit of George A. Hendrickson against the Continental Fibre Company. The case will be tried on Monday, June 13, in Superior Court. The suit is being pressed by Hendrickson's next friend, Benjamin Hendrickson.

Damages are being sought for the alleged loss of the senses of smell and taste, loss of the sight of one eye, and such serious impairment of his other eye that he can only distinguish between light and dark, due, it is contended, to a certain chemical with which he had to work while employed by the company.

METHODIST MEN'S LEAGUE FESTIVAL

The Men's League Festival closed on Saturday night, showers falling to do more than have their effect on the general receipts. Optimistic until the last the men will be able to report a greater net balance this year than last, even though the rain and cold interfered.

Plans are being laid for the annual "Hot Dog" night at the Baptist green. This will be held on the evening of the 21st of June and is an evening when invitations do not have to be sent out. The men all know what to expect and always have a fine time.

portance of "doing their duty" by being worthy of the great spiritual and historical legacy "which is theirs." He also pleaded with his hearers not to allow themselves to be seriously affected by the efforts of certain writers to belittle great American heroes and historical characters, "but to always keep in mind the great things in their lives and you will find that you can easily afford to ignore the little things."

Rev. Ernest P. Janvier, a missionary from India, well known throughout the State, and at the present time spending several weeks in study at Philadelphia, preached the sermon at the morning services, dwelling on the greatness of the life of Jesus Christ and urging all to open their hearts to him.

Rev. W. T. McGuire, pastor of the Methodist Church of Odessa, opened both services with prayer and introduced the speakers.

The annual meeting of the "Friends of Old Drawers" held shortly before the afternoon service, resulted in the election of all the present officers and trustees, headed by L. Janvier Woods, of Mt. Pleasant, president. The finances for the care of the grounds and church were reported in good condition and large collections were taken at both services for the work, and a committee appointed headed by Clarence E. Pool, vice-president, from McDonough, to have the interior of the church repainted and renovated this year. The beauty and excellent condition of the grounds and church drew compliments from hundreds.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS AGAIN ENTERTAINS

Although most of the lodges have closed down on their activities with the approach of summer, Mineola Council, No. 17, is still planning several social functions. The entertaining committee, comprised of Mary Jane Devonshire, Lillian Messick, Georgianna Palmer, Cora Jackson, and Sara Tryens, have presented such excellent talent that the attendance has increased fifty per cent. Thereafter they have been requested to continue the social night through the summer months.

The stay-at-homes missed a rare treat on Wednesday evening, June 1st. After the transaction of some business, the lodge room was turned over to the entertaining committee. Mary Jane Devonshire presided. The opening number was a quartet by Helen Creswell, Anna Coover, Alberta Tweed, and Ruth Henderson. Florence Mercer, Mary Coover and Frances Brown presented a sketch entitled "Almost a Runaway." Helen Vansant played a piano solo entitled "Prince Imperial." Gertrude Jacobs gave an impressive recitation, "Papa's Letter."

Florence Mercer, Frances Brown, Margaret Devonshire, and Alberta Mercer sang "Drifting and Dreaming." Sara Tryens read a humorous story, "Mr. Dooley on the Grippe," by Finley Peter Dunne. Anna Coover and Margaret Devonshire presented a short comedy entitled "Plain Grown-up." Helen Creswell sang, "The East-bound Train." Mary Coover recited "Johnny's History Lesson." Helen Tweed sang "Billie Boy." Charlotte Jackson favored with a recitation. The closing number was the singing of "Our Delaware," by the assembly led by Sara Tryens with Helen Vansant at the piano.

Delicious refreshments were served by the social committee at the close of the program.

dent, those of James C. MacRoberts.

In the accident two young men lost their lives and two others were seri- ously injured. The two to succumb from injuries were John L. Hawke and Ernest MacRoberts. James M. White, Jr., and Carl Hehl were the two injured.

The four young men were passen- gers in an automobile when they were run down by a passenger train of the defendant company. Hawke, who was driver of the automobile, had ap- proached the railroad crossing but stopped within a distance of 15 feet to allow a northbound train to pass, it was testified.

Believing the track to be clear in that the blinker lights on the opposite side of the road failed to function, according to witnesses, Hawke started across the tracks in low gear only to be run down by a southbound train. Hawke and MacRoberts lived only a short while but White and Hehl re- covered from their injuries. The latter two were principal witnesses in the four suits.

The allegations were the same in the Hawke suits as in the two of MacRoberts. It was contended that the railroad was negligent in that it failed to supply proper warning, that the crossing was left unguarded, that the engineer failed to give a signal of warning upon the approach of a train, and that the train was being operated at a dangerous rate of speed. It was further contended by the plaintiff that the railroad crossing where the accident occurred is a "peculiarly danger- ous one."

The defendant company maintained that Hawke failed to use precaution in crossing the tracks and that the blinker lights were in operation when the accident happened.

Last night a jury brought in a ver- dict awarding $10,000 to Carl J. Hehl in a suit for $10,000 for injuries re- ceived in the accident. A suit brought by James M. White, Jr., will be tried later.

Happy Days

The end of school marks a happy moment in the mind of childhood. It means vacation, release from the respon- sibilities and restrictions of study.

To the graduate it is a happy time, but slightly fraught with a realized regret at the passing of the most contented period their lives will know. They have made the grade. They are to be marked as fit to meet the larger responsibilities of life; and they are eager and keen to encounter them.

The day of graduation will remain with them always as one of their happiest memories. You will want to give them something as a lasting memento of that occasion, that they will keep and prize for the memory and thought it recalls. Our list, this year, contains an unusually wide choice of graduation gifts, many of them quite modest in cost.

New Director Of Marketing Bureau Makes Bow To Peninsula At Milford Meeting

Dr. Franklin Bomberger Tells Del-Mar-Va Farmer What He Must Do To Combat Competition From West; Harvey Hill Outlines Work Of Eastern Shore Association

Dr. Franklin B. Bomberger, recently appointed director of the Bureau of Marketing of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association, was presented to the citizens of the Peninsula in a meeting held, under the auspices of the Milford Chamber of Commerce, in Milford, on the evening of May 31. Due to the unpleasant weather not as large a crowd as was anticipated attended, but 400 people, representing the various business and civic interests of the Peninsula were there to greet him.

Harvey J. Hill, executive vice-president of the Association, preceded Dr. Bomberger on the speaker's stand and outlined the activities of the Association. Dr. Bomberger, reviewed his recent tour of the Pacific Coast and spoke of the serious and menacing competition that the Del-Mar-Va farmer was experiencing from this point. He told what the local farmer must do to combat this competition. Dr. Bomberger's address was as follows:

Dr. Bomberger reviewed his recent tour of the Pacific Coast and Northwest and emphasized the fact that even from these distant points come a serious competition to the farmer and grower in Del-Mar-Va. He said: "Instead of enjoying non-competitive markets, which were once ours, to a limited extent at least, Del-Mar-Va products must now meet organized competition,—competition which has learned in the hard schools of experience the lesson of low cost production and effective standardization of products." He said that he was much impressed on his recent visit to the Coast and Northwest by the tremendous scope and highly organized character of this competition and that the careful observer is impressed by the fact that within a very few years there had been little or no competition from these areas. He cited cases of cantaloupes last year when the acreage on the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula was 8,000. In this same season the Fall River valley of Arizona, a region which but a few years ago was an arid desert, had nearly an equal area devoted to this crop; California and Arkansas were mentioned as two other areas of equally large production and he stressed the fact that every additional acre of land that is supplied with water by irrigation in these vast arid regions of the Northwest become a potential competition with Del-Mar-Va in the production of cantaloupes and other perishables.

"From California in early summer, come more Gravenstein apples to Eastern markets than are marketed of the early varieties on the Peninsula, while from the irrigated soils of the great Northwest comes a flow of fall and winter apples which fairly swamp our markets," he said. Dr. Bomberger mentioned that it was not only the fruits and vegetables from these distant points which compete with ours but that the egg and poultry situation reveals a similar condition. He called attention to Petaluma, California, the home of 9,000,000 hens, which one Association controls for the Eastern markets the eggs produced by nearly half this number. As illustration of the tremendous shipments made from that point to the Eastern markets, he quoted 376,150 cases shipped East while 134,042 cases were stored. This he said was approximately fifty per cent of all the eggs shipped out of California, and naturally makes Del-Mar-Va production seem insignificant. Dr. Bomberger said that there is a freight charge of seven cents per dozen and every egg must, from the nature of the case, be ten days or two weeks old when it reaches the Eastern markets. Yet in spite of handicaps such as these, the Western products enter our markets, displace the Del-Mar-Va products and capture the quality trade.

"There is nothing magical or miraculous about these transactions," Dr. Bomberger said, "for it is the outcome of sound business principles applied to these products. There are just two phases to the situation. First, rigid, ruthless standardization, and second, marvelous efficiency in the method of producing, handling and distribution of their products."

"They have discovered that production of high quality is a more difficult problem and yet a more important problem perhaps, than the actual sale and distribution of the product. Low cost and high quality products are their slogan."

Referring to the Hood River apple production, Dr. Bomberger had talked with the manager of the Growers' Association and the manager had made the following statement to him: "We can't afford," he said, "to grow cull apples. Whatever is grown in this Northwest region is rigidly graded and standardized both as to quality and package."

Dr. Bomberger stated that by adhering to this system they have captured and keep and the apple market of the East. Finally by organization and co-operation they eliminate competitive selling insofar as is humanly possible and by a sound marketing program, they distribute the crop throughout the entire year.

Concluding his address Dr. Bomberger said that the Del-Mar-Va farmer must imitate the example of his western competitors. He must cut his production cost; improve the quality of his products; standardize both products and containers and co-operate with his fellow farmer in order to achieve these ends.

Dr. Bomberger's address met with hearty and sincere applause and from general comment there is no question but what he made deep and favorable impression on his audience.

Following Dr. Bomberger's talk, Frank Branch Riley delivered a beautifully illustrated and intensely interesting lecture on the lure of the great Northwest. This was Mr. Riley's second appearance at Milford and he was royally received.

Harvey J. Hill's Address

"The Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association was not the result of an unbridled bit of enthusiasm. For three or four years prior to its formation the need for 'something that would pull us together' has been discussed by Peninsula business men. Business knows no State or County lines. Neither do the products of the Eastern Shore. Everybody recognized the fact that the 6,090 square miles of territory south of Wilmington are and always will be one big business community. We can't have failure or prosperity in one section of the Peninsula without influencing business favorably or unfavorably in every other section."

"The Pennsylvania Railroad and its subsidiary, the B. C. & A., hauled last year more than 120,000 carlots, not tons mind you, but carlots,—of eleven food commodities produced on the Eastern Shore. Every banker, merchant, and farmer was vitally concerned with the facts that some of these products were not sold at a profit. No one any longer makes the mistake of thinking that the farmer alone stands the loss when the products of his fields and orchards are sold in sinking markets. The banker, fertilizer manufacturer, seed man, merchant, and every property holder on the Eastern Shore is involved with his loss,—or helped by his profits, because farming in one form or another is the basic industry of this community. When farming is "flat" we are all flat.

"The first and probably biggest achievement of the Association during the past year is the unity of spirit which it has kindled. This promises unity of action, without which we cannot get along on the Eastern Shore. From the bankers, merchants and farmers viewpoint an orderly approach to the problems common to our Peninsula are almost as important as the lending rate of money and the prices for our crops. Indeed we can only make prices right by all of us pulling together. The ground work for this has been effectively laid by the Del-Mar-Va Association. Its support comes from absolutely every county on the Eastern Shore; and in working together during this past year for the common advancement of our community more than 300 different men have given time away from their regular business to the general business of the community."

"With reference to the six aims of the Association with which it started a year ago the following summary is interesting to those who have put their time, efforts and money into the work."

Marketing

"More emphasis and a larger amount of attention must this year be given to Peninsula marketing problems under the able leadership of our own Dr. Franklin B. Bomberger. The Association was not inactive in this field last year; but its work was largely to explore the dimensions of the problems it has to undertake. Dr. Bomberger will himself tell you that the present state of dis-organization and individualism existing in the field of agriculture would be disheartening did we not know what other sections of the country, no more intelligent than ours, have accomplished during the past ten years. One of the most interesting, if indeed not appalling facts discovered in the course of our work last year was that 'nearness to markets' is not a blessing where those who supply them remain unorganized. No one knows at this time what percentage of our crops is now rolling northward over our highways to be 'dumped' indiscriminately into the markets of New York, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore. No one knows what it is costing the Peninsula in dollars,—millions of dollars,—to supply these markets with un-standardized commodities. We do know that in a normal year's production the amount is so large that it menaces the welfare of every resident and worker,—no matter at what he works,—on this whole Peninsula. We know also that for the united business interests of the Peninsula to make but an appreciable beginning in the solution of some of our marketing problems will return to us in profits a score, yes a hundred times the modest sum we are expending annually in the effort to work together."

"We have had a full year. How hitherto the Peninsula got along without an organization like the Del-Mar-Va Association, I am only one of many who do not pretend to understand. But active and successful as the Association was last year, we all foresee even greater need for activity in this coming year. Co-operation in business has long ago passed out of the experimental state. It is the vital principal on which big business in every realm rests today. Without it we trail other sections and communities. With it, we can and will take our place in the fore-front of American agricultural communities."

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS STRONGLY INDORSED

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, recently gave a strong indorsement of the value of the country weekly newspaper.

In discussing this year's advertising campaign for General Motors Corporation, Mr. Sloan, among other things said:

"I believe in the country weekly newspaper. I believe that no printed matter in the United States is more thoroughly read, or has more influence than the pages of these home town newspapers."

Creamer Beats Hill For Tennis Title

Fred Creamer, letter man in football, basketball and tennis, won the tennis championship of the University of Delaware on Wednesday afternoon, beating Robert G. Hill in the final match. Creamer is captain of this year's tennis team and has been playing brilliant tennis all season. Hill, a member of the baseball team, gave Creamer a hard fight, considering that baseball has kept him from getting much practice on the tennis courts. Creamer won in straight sets, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

A large silver cup is to be presented to the University by a friend, and Creamer's name will be engraved on it. Creamer will also receive a smaller cup as an individual trophy.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kind expression of sympathy, flowers and the use of automobiles at the death of Mrs. Alice Aiken.

STATE TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The Delaware State lawn tennis championship will be held at the Wilmington Country Club this year beginning Monday, June 20. This championship is open to all amateur tennis players in the state of Delaware. From present indications, it will be one of the best tournaments ever held in this state. Such players as Manuel Alonzo, E. G. Chandler, Louis M. White, and Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., are entered. Among the women contenders will be Mrs. J. B. Jessup, Mrs. Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., Miss Penelope Anderson and Miss Margaret Blake. These players both men and women are among the champions of the country and rank in the first ten.

Players of Delaware who enter the tournament will probably have the opportunity of playing against some of these brilliant tennis stars and this alone is an unusual privilege. All entries should be sent to Alfred E. Bissell, chairman, tennis committee, Wilmington Country Club, Wilmington. Entries close Saturday, June 18, for singles, and at noon, Monday, June 20, for doubles.

Poultry Tour

More than 40 farmers attended the poultry tour held in northern New Castle county last Monday. The farms visited were those of Horace P. Dennison and Wilson T. Pierson, both of which are located near Hockessin. The tour was under the direction of H. S. Palmer and R. O. Bausman of the Extension Service of the University of Delaware.

The feature that impressed those on the tour was that although the brooder houses and laying house on these two farms were good, yet they were simply constructed. And as a result of the improved housing facilities and better management, the egg production per hen of these two flocks was more than double that of the average community. Those who took the tour went home feeling that there was nothing in the system of handling poultry on these two farms that they could not do on their own farms.

It was also pointed out that during the past few years that there had been somewhat of an expansion in the poultry business and somewhat reduced prices for poultry products. As a result of this condition it has become necessary for the poultryman to reduce his costs of production if he were to make the poultry enterprise return a profit. The improved methods of poultry management that had been adopted on these two farms made model demonstrations of practical means of reducing the cost of producing poultry products.

Strawberry Shortcake

When you want your strawberry shortcake to look extra festive, serve in individual portions. Either make rather large rounds of biscuit dough and split them, or cut sponge cake into squares of suitable size for one person. Crush part of the berries and sugar them at least an hour before they are wanted. If the shortcakes must stand before being served, pass the whipped cream separately.

Strawberry and Pineapple Conserve
Allow two quarts of berries to one medium sized pineapple. Pare the latter and cut in small pieces. Put over the fire with just enough water to keep the fruit from sticking, and cook for half an hour. Then add the berries which have been hulled and washed. Cook ten minutes, stirring often so that the berries will become broken, add an equal amount of sugar as the fruits are mixed, and cook till thick, stirring frequently.

Here are three fine points in frying potatoes: Use a heavy skillet; let the pieces brown on one side before turning them; and cook only enough at one time to cover the bottom of the skillet, in a fairly thin layer.

Children's Moral Standards Charted By Investigations Of Teachers' College

Show Majority Of Pupils Ready To Cheat; Girls Have Higher Standards Than Boys; Home Influence Strongest

Eunice Fuller Barnard, in an article in The New York Sunday Times, tells how a series of investigations undertaken by Teachers College, New York City, show that the majority of pupils in elementary school and college will cheat if the circumstances are propitious. The following conclusions summarized from her tests are both significant and interesting:

"Most students in elementary school and college will cheat when conditions are favorable; a minority even when the risks are great. Public school children cheat, on an average, four times as much as do pupils in private schools. Girls cheat more often in the classroom and boys more often in games—though girls' standards of right and wrong are, on the whole, higher than those of boys.

"Even among four and five year old children, those with the highest moral standards are likely to be the most popular; children with the lowest standards have the fewest friends. The moral teachings of school and Sunday school teachers seem to have little influence. In spite of the prevalent idea that the younger generation is in moral revolt, children's ethical codes are derived mainly from their parents, especially from their mothers, though the standards of mother and father generally coincide to a remarkable extent."

"Honesty is one of the most investigated traits of the long laboratory list. The scale the Teachers College inquiry is evolving consists of a graduated series of tests to show attitudes toward cheating in school. Dishonesty, for the purposes of scientific inquiry, is not to be thought of as either good or bad. It is simply a form of energy, like heat, and as such is to be measured by the work done. This work can be assumed to be measured by the resistance overcome in doing it. The measuring-scale tests must therefore have a series of obstacles to cheating ranging from the difficult to the negligible."

"The technique adopted by the investigators is simply to give children a series of ordinary written tests in information, language, spelling and arithmetic. These papers are then taken to the office and duplicated. A day or two later the original papers are returned to the children with answer sheets, and each child is allowed to grade his own paper. These are then compared with the duplicates in the office."

"In grading the first test it is made hard to cheat without detection, as it involves erasing a circle drawn in ink and adding another. Besides, there is no special motive for cheating, the child having been urged to guess at each answer he did not know. On the last tests it is easy to cheat, involving only the erasure of a pencil check mark or figure or adding another. Moreover, in marking the final test there is an incentive to cheat, the child being told that it will count in his monthly grade."

"These tests were tried out on 263 children from 8 to 16 years old in grades IV to VII. Eighty-four per cent made at least one change in their papers. Two per cent cheated even on the first test, where cheating was hardest and the risk greatest; 17 per cent on the second, 43 per cent on the third, and so on up to 80 per cent on the last, where cheating was easiest."

"Roughly, it did scale the children's classroom honesty. Some apparently cheated habitually, even under the most adverse circumstances, and the great majority cheated when conditions were favorable. Interestingly enough, while, as in all honesty tests, the duller children on the average did most of the cheating, the 2 per cent who took the risk of erasing the ink circle were among the more intelligent."

"But what are children's moral codes? Are they individual or more or less alike? Do they come from the home, school, Sunday school or club? To determine this, identical tests were given to 1,159 children and their teachers in Grades V to IX in seven schools located in different towns. More than half of these children took another form of the same test in their homes, in most cases one or both parents taking it with them. In the same way it was given in Sunday schools and clubs, teachers and club leaders participating."

"Five tests were used, two asking more or less abstract ethical judgments, the other three more personal. For instance, in one of the latter a list of 'duties' was given which the person taking the test was to mark 'Yes,' 'No,' or 'Sometimes,' according as he believed each to be a genuine duty. Some of them were:

"To take a temperance pledge.
"To sell tickets to your school entertainments."

"To keep every secret that you promise to keep."

"To keep quiet when older persons are talking."

"More significant, however, was the correspondence of the answers of the different groups. According to the figures, children's moral codes are based first on those of their parents, and secondarily on those of their friends, with little relation to the codes of school or Sunday school teachers or of club leaders. Again, the moral codes of the children resemble those of their mothers more than those of their fathers."

"The relation between the child's moral notions and those of his friends was obtained by asking the child to write down the names of three or four chums at school. Their average moral scores and his own code were compared. Mainly the children named classmates, but, contrary to the usual assumption, boys named girls and girls named boys as friends almost as freely as they designated members of their own sex. Seventy-nine children, or nearly 7 per cent, named no friends at all, while 145, or 12 per cent were not named as friends by any other child. Within the groups of friends, figures indicated that moral ideas tended to be more alike among the older children, showing friendship to be more and more influential with increasing years."

"Moreover, as the children grow older their moral knowledge scores improve. The scales show a steady rise, with a total of thirteen points of difference between the fifth grade and the ninth."

"In the Columbia graduate class 45 per cent marked it right, 42 per cent wrong but excusable, and only 13 per cent unqualifiedly wrong. In a sixth grade 85 per cent marked it right, 6 per cent wrong but excusable, and 9 per cent entirely wrong. The examiners, on the other hand, in scoring gave a credit of one to "excusable" and of two to "entirely wrong."

"Consistently through every grade the girls' scores are from three to four points higher than are those of the boys. Possibly this is due, the investigators think, to the fact that as a rule girls spend more time at home with the mother."

According to the findings of the investigators, it appears that home influence is the strongest factor determining the moral standard.

Flag Week

Inasmuch as the schools will be closed on Flag Day, a part of the program of each daily assembly this week is given over to Flag Week ceremony. Yesterday, William Doordan, '27, addressed the assembly on "Sacred Shrines in American History," taking as his example and theme, Cooch's Bridge. His address entitled "The Significance of the Battle of Cooch's Bridge," is as follows:

"On August 22 a messenger galloped into Washington's camp at Philadelphia with the news that the British fleet had been seen in Chesapeake Bay.

"Immediately Washington gave orders to break camp and march into Delaware to be ready to meet the enemy and to keep them from attacking Philadelphia, the Capital.

"By September the second, the army had moved to the highlands near Newport. In the afternoon of that day orders were given to cook provisions and to be ready to march at any time. The enemy was then near Newark, but Washington had not yet been able to learn how many there were of them, nor where they meant to attack. However, he sent about 720 men down in their direction. These men were to hide in the woods and hollows, and to act as outposts in case the British marched toward Newark.

"The next day, September 3, the British began to advance toward White Clay creek—a creek that lay between them and the Americans. For some miles above Newark the road was open, but when the army followed the path through the woods the bullets began to sing. For some miles this continued but just before the British reached Cooch's the shots stopped.

"The first company of the English had hardly set foot on the bridge, when a hot fire of bullets poured out from the thickets. A moment later the Americans sprang out into the road with cheers, and charged upon them. A sharp skirmish followed but the British were too strong and our men were driven back.

"This concluded the battle of Cooch's Bridge.

"If we should go there today we would see a monument, with Cannons on either side and the American flag, the stars and stripes chiseled in the granite.

"What does this bring into our minds? Is it the fact that the monument just stands there in memory of the battle? No. It fixes this as the place where the Stars and Stripes were just unfurled in battle September 3, 1777. The flag so unfurled, symbolized all the hopes of the infant nation, which was then founding the highest and best expression of human government, upon a responsible manhood unit. From that time the Stars and Stripes have been the silent banner of freedom; the flag of hope for all people. The Stars and Stripes of America have challenged the past and will invoke the future to meet the trials of the day as it has done in the past.

"Thus, the cloth designed by Washington, stitched by the hands of Betsy Ross, unfurled by the brave scouts of '76, has ever since and will until the end of time be our symbol of love, respect, and strength.

"This is the significance of the unfurling of the flag at Cooch's Bridge, September 3, 1777."

as these: What is the purpose of education? Is education worth while, or is it a waste of time? Does it help to make of our boys and girls better men and women? What kind of education is the best kind?

The purpose of education is, in general, to equip men and women to solve their own problems and the problems of others. Specifically, its purpose is to prepare boys and girls who are intelligent and industrious to earn an honest living for themselves and those dependent on them; to provide a means of making them happier and more useful; and to enable them, through their own efforts, to become better citizens of their community, their state, and their country. If education accomplishes these things, it succeeds; if it does not accomplish them, it fails and is a waste of time. But education should do more than merely teach a person to make a living.

"No boy or girl has a right to an education who is not willing to work as hard to get it as he or she would have to work to hold any other job. It costs money to run schools and colleges, money paid by the taxpayers, and no school or college is justified in spending time and money on incapable or frivolous students; and such students have no right to enjoy the privilege of education paid for by other people. A student at Delaware College pays approximately only one-fourth of what he costs the college as a student. Many apply who have no particular end in view, no serious purpose; many whose parents send them to college with the mistaken notion that a college education will give them greater social prestige, or will make it unnecessary for them to work hard later. Now, education will not make a living for any one; it is not a substitute for work; but if it is of the right kind, it will enable one to spend one's energies in a more useful and more profitable manner.

"Does education increase the earning capacity of men and women? Yes. And let me say here that no person is worthy of the respect of his fellow human beings, if he is in good mental and physical health, unless he justifies his existence by supporting himself through his own efforts. Statistics show that the value of each day spent in school is $8, and that the value of a college education is equivalent to $42,000.

"There is no such word as 'fate,'" wrote a young fellow on the school blackboard. "Why don't you correct him?" asked a visitor of the teacher. "His statement is absolutely correct."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
