Bachelors Go Down
In Defeat 40 to 7Pretty Wedding, too, Precedes
Married Men's Victory

On Friday last, the married members of the faculty and those who are lucky enough not to have wives, staged one of the greatest basketball games ever seen in the college gymnasium. Before the game however, one of the prettiest weddings in years was "committed," when Mr. Loose married Miss Phyllis Marvel, a budding young society belle from Newport. The bride was dressed in a white "crape de chinny" dress with georgette sleeves. The ceremony was performed by the "right reverend" "Scott Levey, K.P., P. D. D., etc., while the beautiful strains of a wedding march floated through the hall. Then, to fill a gap in the ranks of the married men, the newlyweds dressed in their basketball suits and played against those who had never gone through the agony of taking unto themselves a wife.

As for the game itself much could be said. It was fast from whistle to whistle and showed the earnestness with which each player took his part. The addition of Loose and Marvel to the married men's team gave that side the distinct advantage in that these men have played basketball more than the others. Undaunted, however, the single men fought through the entire game, only to go down in defeat by the score of 40 to 7. The game started off with a rush when Dr. Manns jumped and tapped the ball to himself, following which he made a beautiful pass to Prof. Morris who rang the bell for the first two-pointer of the game. Dr. Manns' ability to outjump his opponent, Dr. Greenfield, counted

Engineers Visit Hilles & Jones

Through the courtesy of Mr. Charles E. Thomas of the Hilles and Jones Co., Wilmington, Del., the Junior Mechanical and Electrical Engineers were afforded the opportunity of visiting the company's plant last Tuesday. The class was accompanied by Mr. J. L. Coyle.

In the pattern shop, they saw the making of large patterns and core boxes. In the foundry, moulders were at work making moulds from punch, engine cylinder and other large patterns. The class also saw the molten metal being poured into the moulds. Many of the castings weighed several hundreds of pounds apiece. In the machine shop, they saw the erection of large metal cutting machinery, and in the tool room, the operation of gear cutting machinery.

The trip was of much value to the engineers, in that it acquainted them with the actual work as executed by experienced tradesmen. It is hoped that the class may have the opportunity for more such trips in the future.

TRACK TEAM
GOES TO BALTIMORE

Relay Team Finishes Third

Delaware inaugurated her spring program of athletic activities Saturday evening, March 22nd, when the track team participated in an open competition at the First Regiment Armory in Baltimore, Md. Although, perhaps, not quite as auspicious a beginning was made, as we should have liked, the team, nevertheless, made a good showing, and it seems that the Blue and Gold will be strongly represented on the cinder path this year.

The first hitch in Saturday night's event was encountered when Manager Ewing learned that the relay team were to have no competitors. At the last minute Western Maryland, Maryland State, and St. John's withdrew from the meet and this left Delaware alone in this class. After many attempts were made to enter another class of competition, no other arrangements could be made than that Capt. Craig and his cohorts should run against the representatives of the Meadowbrook A. C., Baltimore A. C., and other organizations of similar high calibre. Even against such teams as these the Delaware lads annexed third place. Our men were particularly handicapped in this race, and in all of the events of the evening by the strange floor. None of the turns on the track were banked and as a consequence our men lost time in making the corners. We were represented in the relay by Graves, R. H. McMullen, Smith, and Capt. Craig. The latter ran an especially good race and seemed least hindered of any by the turns. The other relay team composed of Hearne, McMullen, Brown, and Kite failed to place.

In the individual events, Arbuckle displayed the best form, gaining fifth place in the half-mile and negotiating the distance in 2.12 minutes. Bunten crossed the tape in 7th place. "Mike" Wilson covered the mile in 4.46 but failed to gain a place.

There were many star performers at the meet, including such personages as Pollard, Penn's dusky athlete, and Frank Shea of University of Pittsburgh. Several records were equaled and a few broken. Considering Delaware's lack of previous experience in indoor running, and the trying circumstances faced at Baltimore, her showing Saturday night is as well as might be expected.

Henry B. Thompson Returns

Mr. Henry B. Thompson, president of the Board of Trustees of Delaware College, has just returned from France where he took part in arranging for American students to have the advantages of French and British universities under the auspices of the University Union in Europe. Mr. Thompson is treasurer of the Union and received from the city of Paris the gift of a lot valued at one hundred thousand dollars for a suitable building as headquarters for the Union.

Basketball "D" Men

Nine Letters Awarded to Varsity Men, Bright Prospects for Next Year

The following men were awarded varsity D's by the Athletic Council in recognition of the fine services they rendered as members of the varsity basketball five: Captain Henry W. Marston, F. Bayard Carter, Howard B. Alexander, Hugh McCaughan, G. Gray Carter, Allison Barnard, Fred Lord, John C. Pierson and Manager Garrett Cantwell.

The new staff of the Review wishes to take this opportunity of congratulating Coach Shipley and his battle-scarred "vets" for their splendid record the team turned in.

Captain Henry W. Marston, 1919, is the only man on the squad who will be lost by graduation. "Heine" as he is called is a fine basketball player and put up a game this year which won him universal recognition abroad and at home. He will be greatly missed and we can only say that he has done his part very nobly in his athletic career at Delaware College.

"Bess" Carter, Heine's running-mate, who played a steady game will be with us next year as he is a Junior.

"Big Alex" is only a Sophomore and with the form he showed the past season we can hope for even bigger things next year. A fast aggressive player who dribbles and shoots with equal skill is our Alex.

McCaughan is also a Sophomore. He played a star game all season. Always on hand with a field goal when it was needed and with his coolness and confidence Sank did much to keep the scoring machine in action and too much credit cannot be given him.

The only Freshman on the team was Gray Carter who proved to be a good foul shot as well as a field goal tosser. For several years Delaware has lacked a capable foul shot but "Little Carter" filled that position with great skill. With four years ahead of him Carter should develop wonderfully.

"Dick" Barnard who alternated at center and forward is a boy who gives promise of a star. Tall and rangy "Dick" helped to round out a squad of big men. A hard, clean player with lots of promise for next year is the way we size this one up.

"Husky" Lord could play either the forward or guard position with equal skill and proved himself a valuable man all season. Steady and reliable Fred did much to carry the team through a successful season.

"Jinks" Pierson, the smallest man on the squad proved to be more aggressive than his looks suggest. Full of pep and fight "Jinks" "stuck it out" and made good.

Again to these heroes the Review extends its congratulations and as Coach Shipley says, "Wait 'till next year." We can only hope to publish an even better account in the years to come.

BASEBALL MEN
PRACTICING HARD

Prospects for Team Are Good

Since the first call for practice last Thursday, Coach Shipley has had the candidates working out every day. There are about 35 men out for the team and prospects seem bright for an unusually good year in this branch of sport. Each day the Coach gives the outfielders a thorough drill in chasing the "hot" ones, after which the men are divided into two equal groups for batting practice. One by one, the men are getting their eye on the ball and are fast rounding into shape in this department of the game.

Following batting practice the infield receives a fast intensive workout. With most of last year's men back and several new men, who show up well, we expect to have one of those "million dollar" infields that you hear of now and then.

The pitching staff warms up every night, loosening up the arms of the Blue and Gold "hopes." There are ten men out for pitching and there is every reason to believe that the staff will hold up its end when it comes to tossing the goods over the plate.

The boys with the padded mitts who knock the momentum off the pills which the pitches serve up are "Art" Spaid and "Walt" Ritz. Gray Carter, who comes to Delaware with a good record, will be on the job in a few days. Lynch is also trying out for this position.

In the infield, "Bess" Carter and Olcott are out for first base, Capt. McCardell and "Phil" Marvel shake the dust off their shoes around second, and "Jinx" Pierson and Burbage hold down third base. Dantz and Wilson are trying to place for shortstop.

In the outfield, Madden, Mitchell, Donoho, McKinney, Wills, Stewart, Magee, and Lord are out for varsity berths.

The pitchers are Alexander, Work, Anderson, Cantwell, Sipple, Barnard, Rothrock, Jackson, Reynolds, and Carll.

Footlights Club Meets

A meeting of the recently organized dramatic club, now known as The Footlights Club of Delaware College, was held in the Societies' Room in Old College Hall, on Tuesday evening last, March 18th.

The adoption of a name for the club was the cause of much discussion, but after a lengthy debate it was decided to use the title "Footlights Club." This name was considered especially appropriate because, besides being original, it at once suggests the purpose of the club. After the routine business was disposed of, Dr. Moore, the faculty advisor, outlined plans for the premier production which will take place in a few weeks. A few parts were assigned to various members, and everyone felt enthusiastic over the prospects of the performance. The charter membership roll has now been closed, and the club now boasts of 35 members. Without doubt, the Footlights Club is the liveliest organization in college.

Lt. J. C. Hastings
At Sorbonne

Former '17 Man Attends Paris University While Over There

Lieutenant J. C. Hastings has just written a friend of the faculty of the Delaware College most interestingly of his work at the Sorbonne University in Paris. Lieutenant Hastings is from Laurel and was graduated from Delaware College in the class of '17. He volunteered at the opening of the war with the Delaware troops in the 59th Pioneer Regiment and made his way to the front in France. His letter is as follows: "I am now at Sarbonne University—back to student life again. I suppose you have read of the plans how American students have been given four months on detached service in order to attend French Universities. I put in my application and was lucky enough to get the appointment. Of course the number is limited and hundreds were turned down.

"We had to 'sign-up' until June 30th. If my Regiment goes home in the meantime I will have to remain here until June 30th just the same.

"But what I will be able to get out of the University will be worth while and I will at the same time have the time to review some of my work. I am taking most of my subjects at the 'Ecole Des Hautes Etudes Sociales.' All of the lectures are on subjects that I am interested in. The general course is known as 'Cours D'Economie Commerciale.' Most all the work or lectures are given in French. They are also giving a course in French. I have 'picked-up' some French over here and I was put in the class for advanced students and we are surely getting 'French.'

"We are also getting lectures on 'The Peace Conference.'

"Four months of such study and work as we will have is, I think, a grand opportunity, and when traced back, I find that what I am now getting—this opportunity—was made possible by the training that I had at Delaware College."

Lieutenant Hastings' address is Surbonne Detachment, 76 Rue de Faubourg St. Honore, A.P.O. 702, Paris, France.

Concert Friday Night

The J. Helffenstein concert which was to have been given on Friday last will be presented this Friday evening at Wolf Hall. The postponement was due to the illness of Mr. Mason. No changes have been made in the splendid program arranged for the evening. Three other noted artists, Helen Penrose Donlevy, harpist; Bertrand A. Austin, cellist, and William Silvano Thunder will add to the splendor of the program. The press of the country wherever the artists have appeared resounds with praises of their talent. This is what the Philadelphia Press says of Miss Donlevy's part in the program:

"Her thorough technique, her splendid tone, and her winning personality are gaining her a worthy place on the concert platform."

Chapel

OUR chapel exercises as they stand today are indeed "weird exhibitions," if we may be permitted to use that term. The purpose of this article is to throw a little ray of light upon the conditions which make chapel so uninteresting and so ineffective in carrying out its purpose.

In the first place, the chapel exercises are hurried to such a degree that attending chapel has become a mere duty because the college rules say we must attend every chapel. We rush in (most of the time late); we hurry thru our religious devotions, and then hurry to classes. As a result any message or information given out in chapel does not remain with us very long. Whenever a speaker is "just getting warmed up" the bell sounds ending his short speech and many things have been left unsaid. We have had the pleasure of hearing many fine speakers in chapel this year, and yet every one of them has had to condense his or her thoughts and hurry through the speech in a way which does not appeal to the students. In fact, the chapel period is too short to allow any big speakers with real messages a chance to "put them across" in a clear and forceful way. Whenever the student body knows that the speaker for the day is a good speaker chapel will be jammed with an enthusiastic audience. And yet many men who are good speakers have failed on our platform to give any thing really and truly big, for the simple reason that in five minutes no big thing can be presented in a true light. Why not then try and fix up some system whereby the speaker be given a longer time limit? The students would then be getting something to carry away with them. Instead of Chapel every day in the week from 8.30 to 9.00 a. m. why not have two or three chapel hours a week from 8.15 to 9 a. m. or from 8 to 9 a. m. The every day chapel is not appreciated as it stands. With only two or three chapel periods a week, and these good ones, chapel would take on a new lease of life. We would not want chapel every day because then it would soon become tiresome. But we should like to have chapel periods once or twice a week to which we can look forward in eager anticipation.

In the second place, the music and singing of our chapel exercises are very poor indeed. Any Junior or Senior in college knows every hymn in the hymn book from start to finish without a glance at the book. In short we are tired of the same old music day after day, year after year. Why not put in some good musical selection in place of that second hymn which always drags and "grates." With a few college songs and other pieces the students like to sing so well, the chapel would indeed be made much better. A modern college song book would do much towards helping our chapel exercises. One hymn and then one song or chorus, would be the way in which the music would make its appeal. Within our student body we have many fine musicians. Why not enlist them in an effort to allow our student body to enjoy their talent. Any thing would serve as a stimulant in reviving interest in the chapel exercises.

In the third place, student questions are not brought up enough in our discourses in chapel. If once or twice a month some vital student question were brought up and discussed we should be greatly benefitted. The chapel exercises and our college paper are the two main agencies in college in arousing interest in all student affairs. Why not make them even stronger? The students would appreciate student discussion once in awhile.

In the fourth place the conduct of the students in chapel is very poor. This fault is not confined to any one class but is prevalent throughout the whole student body. Talking, laughing, and all sorts of noises are heard when the student body walks into chapel to listen as every one knows, to the regular service. If we were looking forward to something which typified the spirit of Delaware College, we would go into chapel with our actions and appearances in accord to the opinion we wish our visitor to have of Delaware College. In short the general attitude is not good. The slouchiness of the whole student body is more in evidence in chapel than in any other place. Why not remedy this through our own personal pride?

In conclusion we wish to say that this article is written with a constructive purpose. We believe that there is a very real place for chapel in our student life. We hope that steps will be taken to make chapel more interesting, more dignified, and more typical of Delaware College. Something should be done by those in charge of the chapel to make the exercises more interesting, and if something is done, every man should feel that it is his duty to help make chapel "worth while" for Delaware College.

Legs or Brains?

Editor

Delaware College Review:

It seems that a member of the faculty, commenting in his classroom on the small number of students who turned out to hear Mr. Christopher Ward, remarked with a caustic accent that the poor patronage of such a lecture signified to him the deplorably slight interest of Delaware students in things intellectual. This was only to say what must have occurred to everyone present. Professor — was right; but the remark raised the question in the mind of at least one hearer whether the professor, whether the faculty and college, was not partly to blame for the condition.

Of what type of student does the college make the most? The man who comes up from high school with an athletic record? Or the one who shows early signs of independent intellectual interests? Perhaps the grind deserves nothing better than the cold winds that blow upon him, until he learns how to put his brains out to interest in the market of affection.

But it is not the lot of the grind that leads to discussion. Can it be denied that the Freshman who is an athlete and nothing more has an immediate entree, is at once received, recognized, and encouraged, while the Freshman who strikes out straight for the goals of the mind finds that he has to work uphill for recognition and for warm appreciation, even from the faculty? Freshmen Athlete proceeds from the start with the freshening consciousness in his sails that he is regarded as being full of promise, the kind of man who is almost certain to produce the desirable Delaware type before he graduates. Consequently, he receives every encouragement as his by right. He is rushed by several fraternities, and is assured of

"REVIEW RUST"

From our Harter Hall correspondent comes this very prudent suggestion that the fire hose be allowed to remain unfolded "for good" and that a fine of $10 be imposed upon the culprit who dares to put it up. Proctor in chief O'Rourke seems to be in high accord with this suggestion. Both our correspondent and Chief O'Rourke have considered the problem from a purely psychological point of view. That the men will always do that which they are told "Thou Shalt Not" being an accepted axiom, there's hope of having the hose in its place by ordering it unfolded in the hallway.

A more substantial suggestion, however, and one which is likely to have a more persuasive effect is that made by a member of the faculty: "twenty-five dollars fine for taking the hose down." The "Roaster" thinks this suggestion highly practical in the case of individual offenders, but what class be it even the Freshmen would have sportsmanship enough to spend $25 for the honor of having partaken of the expensive treat as a class.

The fire hose problem leads the "roaster" to place this ad. in the "Review":

"WANTED—Definite and vigorous policy on the question of hazing."

We have been altogether too hazy about hazing. Freshmen hazing is either absolutely right or absolutely wrong. It can not be bought at the same time, and no neutral jokes by our chapel speakers will solve the problem. If hazing is right and justifiable because of the disciplinary effect it has on Freshmen, let us have a "Faculty Committee on Hazing." Let that committee cooperate with a student committee and carry the hazing out with the same order and decorum as is any other legitimate college activity. To be sure, the Sophomores do not have to be deprived of the pleasure of taking vengeance for the misery to which they have been subjected. To please our sense of justice, let us call that committee, "The Committee on the Democratization of Freshmen," and be done with it.

If on the other hand, hazing is wrong, let us have the courage of our convictions and "say so."

The scene on the campus last Monday noon and Wednesday evening were characterized not by sportsmanship and college spirit, but by sheer anarchy and mob spirit. Are we to compromise with it? Is "law and order" made only for foreign consumption?

1919 "Blue Hen"

Better Than Ever

A college is judged in a large measure, sometimes by the type of college annual which it issues. Annuals oftentimes find their way into places where no other literature of the college ever penetrates, and they are immediately held up as a type of "thing" for which the college stands. The judgment may be erroneous, but when there is nothing else by which to judge the college, one may feel justified in forming a definite opinion.

The success of a college year book depends largely on its make-up; whether it is in good taste, or no. If the book is excellent except that it contains poor illustrations, or badly placed printing, it is immediately condemned and is said to be "no good." In some of our own "Blue Hens" we have seen this fault, and some of them we do not hesitate to call "punk."

In the "Blue Hen" which the class of 1920 hopes to issue this year, most of the faults due to lack of "taste" have been overcome. The art work, which is a rather prominent feature of the book, is of the highest standard, and in keeping with the excellent make-up of the book. The main illustrations, which mark the divisions of the book, are in color; this is something new in the "Blue Hen," for heretofore color cuts have been used but sparingly. The subdivision of the book will each have a different introductory illustration, but these will be in more subdued tones and will not "clash" with the main illustrations. Even the jokes this year will be illustrated, and will rival the comic supplements of the Sunday newspapers.

This "Blue Hen" it is hoped, will be artistically perfect in its make-up; and in order that sufficient funds may be raised with which to publish the book properly, it is the duty of every Delaware student to SUBSCRIBE TODAY. Delaware cannot be judged now by a poor "Blue Hen."

much for the married men, for it was by this method that many of their plays were worked. Besides his ability to jump, Dr. Manns played a good floor game and materially increased the perfection of the teamwork of his side. Coach LeCato, who was also in the game as a married man, played a wonderful guarding game. Time after time Prof. LeCato broke up the plays of the opposing team when it looked like a sure field goal for them. Prof. Morris counted for many field goals, his ability in shooting overshadowing his worth as a floor man.

Little can be said of the single men individually. Prof. Thomas several times started down the field with the ball under his arm only to be stopped by Mr. LeCato. The other members of the team were just as aggressive but all lacked the knowledge of a defensive game. Coach Shipley added zest to the game by several startling end runs and line smashes through the ranks of the married men. We can well imagine after seeing this game, that the said Mr. Shipley would be a hard man to stop on a football field.

The gym was packed and the contestants were cheered from the beginning to the end of game. Taking it all together it was a good game and we hope that sometime in the future the single men will have the chance of a return match with married members of the faculty.

In a preliminary game the Sophomores defeated Newark H. S. by a large score. Although the Newark boys played well, they could not withstand the onslaught of the Delaware College Class Champions.

LEGS OR BRAINS?

the brotherly support and bolstering which the dormitory Freshman has to make shift to do without. His slips in scholarship are pardonable, even attractive. Freshman Brains, to be sure, gets A's, but at smokers it does not appear that even the faculty are for him; and if he has faults which isolate him from his fellows, who is there to point them out and help him to mend? Sometimes he loses heart and drops out of the ranks, and one may wonder whether he is greatly lamented even by the faculty.

There are one or two considerations that one must not overlook in deciding whether such a characterization of our system justifies overturning it.

(1) Freshman Brains is more likely to get wise to his faults and develop legs, than Freshman Legs is to develop brains. Therefore, Legs deserves to be helped along with encouragement. If the faculty succeeds in making friends with him, attaching him to the college, they may after a while succeed in blowing the spark in his noddle into a little flame.

(2) Athletics, smokers, etc. are means, not the end, and the man who attains success in these things finds himself in due time, not at the giddy top, as he anticipated when a Freshman, but only a rung higher on a ladder which goes on up indefinitely. Ask Loose, or Marston, or Downing, or McMillan if they feel as big as the seniors looked to them when they were freshmen. When a man is trying out for the football team, he is learning, not football, but teamwork, and the value of clean-cut, honest, hard-hitting personal effort; when he is fighting on the basketball floor, he is learning how good loyalty is, and finding out for himself that to save life a man must be willing to lose it. Unless Freshman Brains is taught such radical lessons in college, he is likely in after life not to know why he failed. Without them his brains will avail him nothing at all.

(3) There is a word for the Wise Freshman, who may be inclined to whine a little over the disadvantages of the present system, and one of warning for the athletic Freshman who may be inclined by his various and subtle encouragements to think too well of himself, in a few sentences which I quote in closing from a great, a truly great and understanding American: "Our strength grows out of our weakness. Not until we are pricked and stung and sorely shot at, awakens the indignation that arms itself with secret forces. A great man is always willing to be little. Whilst he sits on the cushion of advantages, he goes to sleep. When he is pushed, tormented, defeated, he has a chance to learn something; he has been put on his wits, on his manhood; he has gained facts; learns his ignorance; is cured of the insanity of conceit. * * * Men suffer all their life long under the foolish superstition that they can be cheated. But it is as impossible for a man to be cheated by any one but himself, as for a thing to be and not to be at the same time. There is a third silent party to all our bargains.

* * * If you serve an ungrateful master, serve him the more.

Put God in your debt."

Our Twenty-fifth year.

What Would You Give Us

if we should place in your hands a first-class Security containing a pledge to pay you the face value thereof, within a specified time, with a good rate of interest, payable semi-annually; or, in the event of your death, to immediately pay the principal and interest to your wife, your children, or any one else you may name, what would you give us? Why, of course, you would give us the full value of the Security.

WELL, our Four Per Cent Trust Certificate is just the kind of Security we have described, and we can let you have any number you may desire at par and accrued interest. This certificate is what you have been looking for, and we hope to have the pleasure of issuing one or more to you during the New Year. Denominations: $100, $200, $500.

Live Clothes for Live Young Men

LET us give you an earful. There is a certain type of Snappy Young Men who'd rather be dead than look like "dead ones." They want suits and overcoats with lots of snap in 'em. Style stunts and patterns that look more like Broadway on New Year's Eve at 12, than at 5 o'clock church tea in Sussex. You might laugh all over your face at them—but they want 'em. D'y'e get us?

For that young man you must sell clothes that wouldn't be fit exactly for an undertaker. You got to give them value also, 'cause most of 'em haft'a dress on less than a thousand a week.

THE demands of the moving picture monopoly drove us into producing photoplays in 1918. Pictures then contracted for are now being produced and the monopoly is crumbling—its stars are realizing its crushing methods, and merit gives promise of righting matters in time.
