Only 16 Newark teachers opposed a new teachers salary schedule proposed by the Newark Schools Education Association last week.

In voting at the separate schools, over 300 members of the local teachers association voiced their approval of the salary scale. It would raise to $5,000 the starting pay of a teacher with a bachelor's degree and no experience. A starting teacher now receives $4,800.

It would also raise the top teacher pay to $10,000.

Results of the balloting are expected to be presented to the school board at its next meeting.

Further provisions of the tentative pay scale include a $700 boost over the present scale to $6,000 for a teacher with 10 years experience.

School Board Approves Staff Additions For Elementary, Secondary "Enrichment"

In a move which Supt. Wilmer E. Shue cited as "one of the most significant strides toward quality education in the Newark special school district," the Newark Board of Education has adopted a plan to increase staffing at both elementary and secondary school levels.

The program which has already been started by Thomas Calhoun assistant to the superintendent for personnel services, provides for hiring five additional teachers in the elementary school enrichment areas; two language teachers in junior high; and a reading consultant to serve elementary, junior, and senior high schools.

Heading at every level of education, from kindergarten through the university, is a source of concern to educators, because it is the key which unlocks all of the other subjects, Shue said. It has become a source of a concern to the public school authorities than ever, because of compulsory attendance laws which keep children in school.

To help teachers help students in what is perhaps the most important single act in life—reading—the school board granted the district authority to employ a reading consultant to serve all schools, Shue reports.

Because of state unit requirements, teachers in art, music, and physical education in the element-

Richard P. Leedom, a first-time candidate, is opposing Hill in the election of a councilman for the second district.

In the fourth district, Councilman Henry H. Folsom, Jr., is opposed by William F. Vogel, Jr., in Vogel's first bid for public office.

Folsom was elected by a vote of council to fill the unexpected one-year council term of Carl S. Rankin after Rankin was elected mayor last April.

Quarry Approved By Superior Court For Newark Area

Superior Court has reversed a New Castle County Board of Adjustment decision banning a quarry on a 123-acre site southwest of Newark.

Pencader Corporation, owner of land leased to a quarrying firm, appealed a board ruling which turned down the operation on the ground that the zoning code does not permit use of rock crushing machinery greater than five horsepower in an R-2 (agricultural and general purpose) district.

Judge William J. Storey overruled this and other board findings in his opinion.

Concerning the five horsepower restriction, Judge Storey found there is no such limit on permitted uses in an R-2 district which permits quarrying.

Since quarrying is permitted without exception in R-2 districts, as well as M-2 and M-3 (industrial) districts, Judge Storey held that any attempt to limit quarrying in an R-2 district more restrictively than is allowed in industrial districts would be "unreasonable and void."

"I hold," Storey declared, "that the board erred in holding that power machinery used on a quarrying operation in an R-2 district could not exceed five horsepower." Noting that the board found rock crushing an accepted part of quarrying, the judge added that, with the erroneous five horsepower limitation removed, it is clear that a rock crushing plant is a permitted use in an R-2 district.

Higher Education Rejected By Youth McDaniel Reports

Nearly one-third of the youth in this country never finish high school, and almost another third stop their education right after high school, according to a report by Dr. William E. McDaniel, director of resident instruction for the school of agriculture at the University of Delaware, says these figures are even less encouraging in rural areas.

McDaniel says the demand for trained people is increasing at a rapid rate, and demand for professional and technical workers in the United States will be 40 per cent greater by 1970 than in 1960. "A college education opens the door to many challenging agricultural jobs in the plant and animal sciences, agricultural engineering, business, food-processing and distribution — and hosts of other positions," McDaniel emphasized.

He pointed out that the school of agriculture at the University of Delaware is prepared to educate people to meet this increasing need at both the professional and associate degree levels.

The two-year associate degree program, he said, is designed to give students a scientific background to hold technical positions in production and distribution of agricultural products.

R. E. Herbener Selected For Institute Of Science

Newark High School and University of Delaware graduate R. E. Herbener is among 24 college teachers of science and engineering selected to attend the eight-week summer institute in isotopes and radiation science at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y.

Professor Herbener is head of the department of chemistry at Hildebrand College.

A high school chemistry teacher for 12 years, Herbener received his MS in chemistry at Delaware in 1952, and also holds an MS for chemistry teachers from the University of New Hampshire.

Principal Gil Ott Seeks Magazines For Library

"Help us make the library at the new Christiana High School a valuable research tool," Principal Gilmore B. Ott requests.

"We have been allotted $48,000 by the district building commission for the purchase of library books and periodicals, but when we open in September we would like to have on hand, back issues of many magazines so that our library program may be well established from the first day of school," Ott said.

A new club has joined the county organization. This club is off to a fast start and I'm sure we can expect to see and hear a lot from this group. Their name is the Bayview Trail Blazers with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Seannell as local voluntary leaders. This is a pony club but they plan to work the safety projects along with ponies.

Their first big task is to clean up the roadsides along Bayview road. They hope to clean all cans, bottles and other trash to make it safe for riding, as well as more attractive. We certainly feel this is a great start and we wish you the best of luck.

The Delaware Bankers' Association honored the state's local 4-H leaders with a banquet in recognition for the work being done with Delaware's young people. The Rev. McCoy of the Newark Methodist Church was the main speaker with a very stimulating talk "Silent Harp."

Mary Kranz received second prize and is a Blue Hen 4-H'er from Newark. Also from the Blue Hen Club was Kai Schaumann who received third place.

Team awards went to the Green Leaf Club from Christiana which won first place and the Green Meadows from Newark for second place.

Remember to keep safety in mind for today and enjoy tomorrow. George Cole, a Hill 'n' Valley 4-H'er from Oglethorpe, has just returned from Ocean City, N. J., where he represented New Castle County in a South Jersey 4-H Leadership Council. George is helping as a junior leader in the Greenleaf Club at Christiana.

Magazine Author Bessie F. Collins Has Play Printed

Mrs. Bessie F. Collins, former Newark resident, again is among contributors to the Instructor Magazine, nationally-circulated publication used by 700,000 elementary school teachers and educators.

A free-lance writer of verse, stories, and plays for adults and children, Mrs. Collins has submitted a play entitled, "The Prize Covering," which appeared in the January issue of the magazine.

Suitable for use as a health unit, the play requires a simple setting and few properties. Characters include a small girl shading inside a large gift-wrapped box, a narrator, and any number of children.

The narrator discusses the various purposes of wrappings, using several objects as illustrations. Children participating in the discussion, finally decide as the girl steps out of the box, that the most perfect wrapping in the world is the skin.

The script provides much information concerning the skin and its care.

Pupils come to the conclusion that "If prizes were given, what would win? The perfect wrapper—our wonderful skin."

Mrs. Collins is a member of the National League of American Pen Women; has had her work published in popular magazines, and has lectured on creative writing at local schools.

Meat Tops Food Business

Katharine Jones Advises

The nation's meat industry is the largest food business in the world, says M. Katharine Jones, county extension agent in home economics. Americans spent $16 billion for beef, pork, veal, and lamb in 1961 — about one-fourth of all money spent for food, and averaging about $277 per family.

Rev. John W. Simpers, Jr., James Alexander, Jr., a student at Wooster College, is home for spring vacation.

THE VOICE THE REDS CAN'T STILL

FREE ENTERPRISE IN ACTION

Many of us may have justifiable doubts about the effectiveness of the whopping $97.6 billion the U.S. has spent to help foreign nations in a global effort to contain Communism.

None need have the slightest qualm, however, about the importance of fighting Communism through Radio Free Europe. That's because the proficiency of this private, non-governmental non-profit organization in bringing the truth to 100 million East Europeans behind the Iron Curtain has proved so damaging to Soviet aims that Russia is spending hundreds of millions of dollars in attempts, largely ineffectual, to jam RFE broadcasts.

It is primarily due to the fact that Radio Free Europe operates in the truest spirit of our free enterprise system that its daily broadcasts are completely accepted by the peoples of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria as the real voice of the very freedom they so fervently hope they someday may attain.

And it is precisely for the same reasons and because not a penny of taxpayers' money is involved that industry, its leaders and other individuals have voluntarily contributed to RFE's financing and given of their time to advance the cause. More donations are urgently needed. They may be sent to Radio Free Europe Fund, 345 East 46th Street, New York 17, N.Y.

Dear Sirs:

There are three bills in Congress that are intended to restrict equal-opportunity rights of minority party candidates on TV and radio. All Americans who are determined to defend the democratic freedoms guaranteed by the Bill of Rights and the U. S. Constitution should write to their Congressmen, Senators and Congressional committees, protesting and requesting the defeat of these bills; House Joint Resolution 347, Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, House of Representatives, and bills S.251 and S.252, the Senate Committee on Commerce.

Ex-Baseball Star Ray Elliott Dies

Services for Raymond A. Elliott of 1101 Capitol Trail, Newark, were conducted Monday afternoon in the McCrery Funeral Home, Wilmington.

Mr. Elliott died last Friday in Delaware Hospital after an illness of five years.

Interment was in Lombardy Cemetery.

As a young man, Mr. Elliott pitched for such local semi-pro baseball teams as Vandover and the Pennsylvania Railroad athletic club, and was given a tryout with the old Philadelphia Athletics under Connie Mack.

Mr. Elliott retired from the maintenance department at the University of Delaware, had conducted a service station in Newark, and was known for the flowers he grew in his garden and gave away.

A member of the Brandywine Last Man's Club, he was an avid hunter and fisherman; a member of Nur Temple, Shrine Club of Delaware, and J. Allison O'Daniel Post 10, American Legion, Newark.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Grace I. Elliott; a sister, Mrs. Florence Bryan, Clifton Park; and several nieces and nephews.

We should tell our congressmen and senators from Delaware, as well as the committees in body, each, that we strongly object to the monopolization of TV and radio for political use by the Republican and Democratic parties. Those of us who favor free political discussion on radio and TV must remind our elected representatives that the air waves belong to the people of these United States.

The broadcasting corporations are permitted to use these vastly profitable air waves only so long as they do so in the public interest.

Teaching Careers
For Local Pupils
To Be Encouraged

The annual effort to encourage qualified students to become teachers will be featured in April with the sixth observance of Teaching Career Month, according to Wilmer
E. Shue, superintendent of Newark public schools.

Teachers and school-related groups in Newark will join the National Education Association and other groups throughout the United States in projects to dramatize the importance of recruiting, preparing, and retaining qualified teachers.

"The teaching profession is employing more than 2,175,000 persons this school year," Shue said. "Here in Newark, more than 380 teachers and school administrators are at work educating the community's children."

"According to the latest NEA study, public schools alone have a net shortage of 75,000 qualified teachers this school year," Shue
continued. "With higher birth rates, increasing numbers of young people remaining in high school and going to college, and the influx of new families in the Newark special school district, our problems increase as time goes on," he added.

Assistant to the superintendent for personnel services, Thomas Calhoun will visit some 20 institutions of higher learning in an effort to get competent teachers to work in the Newark school system.

Early this year, Calhoun noted that he would need some 100 teachers before school opened next September.

Science Teachers Offered Program By Hallock DuPont

12 Scholarships Offered
For Research This Summer
At Ag Experiment Station

Delaware high school science teachers are invited to apply for the S. Hallock DuPont research participation program scheduled this summer at the University of Delaware.

The program was announced by Dr. Morris S. Cover, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station which is sponsoring the program along with the school of agriculture.

In a letter to some 200 science teachers, Cover said the program "presents an opportunity for 12 teachers to participate in research in the areas of entomology, agronomy, plant pathology and animal and poultry science."

Participating teachers will receive a $500 scholarship for the summer of 1963 from June 17 to July 27. In addition, there will be an allowance of $15 per week for up to four dependents. Three credit hours can be earned and tuition fees are waived.

The 12 participating teachers will be assigned to work with experienced university research personnel. Cover said, to learn research methods employed by scientists.

The program financed by Mr. du Pont is similar to research participation programs of the school of agriculture sponsored for the past four summers in cooperation with the National Science Foundation.

Further information about the program may be obtained by contacting Dr. Cover at the university school of agriculture in Newark.
