BENEFIT MOVING PICTURE FOR UNEMPLOYMENT WELFARE FUND

The Generosity of Louis Handloff, Owner of State Theatre, Makes This Possible

Announcement was made yesterday afternoon that a moving picture for the unemployment and welfare fund will be held in the State Theatre on December 21st and 22nd through the generosity of Mr. L. Handloff, owner. The entire proceeds will go to this fund.

This is sponsored by the Lions Club in conjunction with and co-operating with the Newark Welfare Society, whose chairman is Mrs. Helen Wilson. Mr. R. T. Jones heads the committee from the Lions Club as chairman, and he asks 100 per cent support for this benefit and should get it.

There is a general impression around Newark that there are several different welfare groups at work, but the Lions Club Welfare Committee works solely through the Newark Welfare Society and practically everything is O. K'd by Mrs. Wilson and her committee. This benefit is for a worthy cause and let's do our bit and support it 100 per cent.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE PHYSICAL EDUCATION BUILDING CONCEDED TO BE ONE OF FINEST IN THE U. S.

To Be Dedicated December 12th

The new Physical Education Building just finished on the campus of the Women's College of the University of Delaware is conceded by authorities to be one of the finest buildings of the type in the country.

The building will be dedicated December 12th, when the structure will be open for inspection and the public is invited to take this opportunity to see what the citizens of Delaware through their legislature have done for their children's health and happiness. The members of the legislature and friends of the college that made this building possible, are to be admired and congratulated.

The general scheme of the building is in accordance with the latest development in buildings of that type, and is the result of a rather long study of the modern requirements for Physical Education Buildings in American colleges.

The principles underlying the plan are: abundant sunshine, cross ventilation in the larger rooms, simplicity of movement on the part of the students, durability of materials, and low cost of up-keep and operation.

Nobody should die of tuberculosis. Yet it kills more people between the ages of fifteen and forty-five, than any other disease. Every one of these deaths is preventable. We must prevent them.—BRUCE BARTON.

MISS MARY LOUISE PLEASANTON

Miss Pleasanton, of Newark, who is well known as a soprano soloist, will take a leading part in the play, "Sixty Miles An Hour," which will be presented in Newark on December 14 and 15 under the auspices of the Newark Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Miss Pleasanton, who is a graduate of the Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore, has often been heard over the radio in Wilmington and has sung in Philadelphia. Miss Pleasanton appeared in the same show at Dover last spring and has appeared in other dramatic productions throughout the State, including Newark.

The War Veterans hope to make this the best show ever given in Newark by local talent.

LIFE LONG RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

Miss Letitia Wilson, aged 86 years, died at her home on East Delaware avenue, Friday noon. Her death was the result of complications due to her age. Miss Lou, as she was affectionately called by all who knew her, had lived in Newark practically all of her life, and her many deeds of kindness will long be remembered. She was a dressmaker by trade, and she was also an excellent nurse, and it was never any trouble for her to go to those who needed her.

Miss Lou is survived by one brother, Lindsay Wilson, and four sisters, Mrs. Anna Gillas, of near Newark; Mrs. Ray Kirk, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Clara Whitaker, of Swedesboro, N. J., and Miss Allie Wilson at home. Funeral services were held from the R. T. Jones funeral parlors, Monday afternoon, with Rev. Gunby officiating. Interment was made at the Head of Christiansa Cemetery.

PREPARING FOR LARGE CROWD AT BARACA SUPPER

AETNA HOSE COMPANY MEETS TOMORROW NIGHT

The regular monthly meeting of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Co., will be held Friday evening, December 4, at 8.30 p. m., at the Fire House.

BLOCK PRINTS ON EXHIBITION

The Art Department of the Women's College is giving an exhibition of Wood Block Prints by Blanche Lazelle at the Art Gallery, Memorial Library, University of Delaware, from December 2nd to December 17th. The Gallery will be open daily from 8.30 to 4.30 and on Sunday from 2.30 to 4.00. The public is most cordially invited to enjoy this exhibition.

The prints are in color and are inspired by the scenery of Province town, Mass. Miss Lazelle lives in this quaint town and has been able to put some of its charm in her prints. She has studied both in this country and abroad. Her prints are full of color and have been enthusiastically received by various groups of people. She has exhibited not only in this country but also in Paris, France.

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM ELKTON JAIL

Larry Smith and Walter Anderson, young white men accused of stealing cars, escaped from Elkton jail this morning about three o'clock, and Al Stokes, wanted for robbing railroad cars, had a leg broken in two places when the cable used to mount the wall fell with him. He was taken to Union Hospital for treatment.

The prisoners had sawed a lock and rotten out into the yard. They then used a long table and a rope made of bed clothing, two making their getaway, but the third was not so lucky and the crash of the falling table awakened Sheriff Albert G. Buckworth, who cared for Stokes and at once organized a hunt for the two men who escaped.

COUNTERFEIT SILVER MAKES APPEARANCE

Counterfeit half dollars bearing the dates 1917 and 1918 have made their appearance in Wilmington. Two of the coins were deposited with a local bank last week by a depositor who had taken them for change. The coins are thicker than genuine half dollars but both have a good ring when dropped.

"SHORTY" CHALMERS PLAYING LAST COLLEGE GRID GAME SATURDAY

Large Number of Newark People Planning to See Maryland's "Iron Man" Do His Stuff Saturday

George ("Shorty") Chalmers, wearing the colors of the "Old Liners" University of Maryland, will close his college gridiron career on Saturday, when Maryland meets Western Maryland at the Stadium in Baltimore. The game will mark the end of one of Maryland's most successful years on the gridiron, having suffered defeat but once and this defeat came after a long trip south and at the hands of a mighty Vanderbilt eleven. Included in their victories was Navy, which was defeated by Maryland 6-0.

He has established a record in the South for place-kicks and has been rated by two prominent southern conference coaches as one of the best passers ever seen below the Mason-Dixie Line.

"Shorty's" two appearances with Maryland in the Yale Bowl resulted in a tie game in 1929 and the defeat of Maryland in 1930, but "Shorty's" long passes, runs and general football ability was remarked about by the Cosmopolitan Press.

"Shorty" is one of the few football men in the country who has been noted for his ability to stand the gauntlet for 60 minutes of play, not for just a few minutes. No complete record is available but we believe he has at least played as many minutes of football in his career as any other back in the country and has never been taken from play on account of injury. If his passing, kicking, running and blocking does not rate with the best of them, then we never saw a football player. Probably the only reason that keeps him from All-American honors is the fact that he does not sport a "Y" or "H" or some other of the larger eastern team letters on his sweater.

"Shorty" was also a member of last year's Southern Conference Basketball Championship Team. In all sports "Shorty" is known as a hard player, eager to win, but a true sportsman, never deviating from the code of clean sports, a good fellow on and off the field and modest to a fault.

He has held a high scholastic rating while at Maryland and is a member of the Sigma Xi Fraternity.

Local football fans are sorry that his career in the gridiron has come to a close. At "Shorty" has given his local followers many a thrill on the gridiron, basketball court and on the baseball diamond—we hope he will be able to finish his career with a win over Western Maryland.

There are a large number of "Shorty's" friends in Newark planning to see this game Saturday in Baltimore.

LIONS TO LOAN MONEY FOR EDUCATIONAL PURPOSES

At the weekly luncheon meeting of the Lions Club at the Washington House, Tuesday night, Professor George L. Schuster, chairman of the Major Activities Committee of the club, outlined a plan for a Newark Lions Club Loan Fund under which it is hoped that two deserving boys of the community can be granted a loan of $100 each for educational purposes. It was reported that the club has donated $25 towards the expenses of the local health clinic. It was also reported that generous donations had been received for relief work.

CRUTIS ARTISTS TO APPEAR IN NEWARK

The first concert of this season to be presented by young artists of the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, will be given tomorrow (Friday) evening in Mitchell Hall. Three concerts by Curtis Institute Young Artists have been given here each of the past three years, a part of the musical program, sponsored by the Newark Music Society, that has been highly appreciated. The public is invited to attend.

Those appearing will be Miss Lily Matison, violinist; Miss Katherine Conant, cellist; and Eugene Helmer, pianist and accompanist. Miss Matison is a pupil of Edwin Bachman at the Curtis Institute, and has appeared frequently as soloist and an ensemble player. Miss Conant, a pupil of Felix Salmond, is a member of the Curtis Symphony Orchestra and has been heard frequently in broadcasting programs and in concerts. Mr. Helmer is a pupil of Mme. Isabel Vengerova, and has appeared as a soloist in addition to his work as accompanist.

Five organizations which have distributed food and money to the needy during last winter, organized the General Relief Committee of the Elsmere School District by electing Earl Keller, formerly on the Newark High School faculty and resident of Newark, president; George Shortess, secretary, and Mrs. Helen Ingram, treasurer.

The meeting was attended by representatives of the Brack-Ex M. E. Church, the Elsmere Presbyterian Church, the Elsmere Community Club, the Camp Fire Girls, the Elsmere Fire Company, Oak Grove Parent-Teacher Association and the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fire Company.

OSCEOLA PYTHIANS WIN AT QUOITS

The quoit team of Osceola Lodge, No. 5, K. of P., of Newark, won three out of five games from Calanthe Lodge, No. 23, K. of P., team of Wilmington, Tuesday night, in the opening quito tournament of the Knights of Pythias League in Pythian Castle, Wilmington. The scores of the five games follow: Osceola, 17; Calanthe, 21; Osceola, 21; Calanthe, 15; Osceola, 10; Calanthe, 21; Osceola, 21; Calanthe, 11; Osceola, 21; Calanthe, 16.

Next Monday evening Morningstar Lodge will visit Osceola and play quito. Everybody out.

POSTPONE SERVICE DUE TO ILLNESS OF SUPT. POWELL

Thomas Powell, superintendent of Red Men's Home, Newark, is seriously ill. A specialist of Wilmington was called in consultation today. The religious service to have been held next Sunday by Apache Tribe, No. 51, has been postponed indefinitely, by request of Mrs. Powell.

Twenty-eight baskets were made up and delivered and the balance stored for future needs.

Positive Proof of FORD ECONOMY

City of Detroit purchases 137 new Ford cars
Hundreds now in use prove low cost of operation

THESE 137 new Ford cars represent one of the largest deliveries ever made to a municipality at one time.

21 radio-equipped Ford scout cars were traded in on this purchase. They had been operated day and night for two years in heavy traffic and all kinds of weather.

Their individual records ranged from 78,134 miles to 143,723 miles with a grand total of 2,233,097 miles. The operating cost of the 21 cars was 2,234 cents a mile—less than 2 1/3 cents. This cost included all fuel, oil, tires, repairs and every other item except depreciation and insurance.

Of 577 Ford cars in Detroit City service, the 300 in the Police Department traveled a total of 6,591,937 miles during the past fiscal year, at an average cost of 2.9 cents a mile.

Many claims have been made on operating costs, but here in the carefully kept motor car records of the City of Detroit is positive proof of Ford economy.

In the paragraphs above, it is seen that 21 Ford scout cars averaged less than 2 1/3 cents a mile and 300 Ford cars in all branches of Detroit police work averaged 2.9 cents a mile!

Day and night, twenty-four hours a day, these Ford cars are in operation. Few branches of transportation demand such grueling service. The records show that low fuel and oil consumption is but one of the Ford's many economies. Ford materials, simplicity of design and accuracy in manufacturing provide unusual strength, stamina and freedom from replacements and repairs.

The individual car buyer as well as the purchasing department of a city or a business cannot afford to ignore the proved economy of the Ford car.

Another New Racket

Mounting gasoline taxes have led to the development of a new racket.

Tax evasion and tax fraud have become rampant in several states. It is said that profits from the racket have been divided with conniving officials—exactly as in the liquor racket. Gasoline bootlegging is common.

To meet these conditions it is suggested that the oil industry and motorists work together to secure such safeguards as licensing and bonding of all dealers, adequate provisions for checking shipments and sales, and so on. This might do a great deal of good. But the fundamental trouble is the fact that the states, through their attitude that "one cent more gas tax won't do any harm" have boosted the gas tax far beyond sound limits, and so have attracted the racketeer. In some states higher gas taxes have actually produced less revenue than did a lower tax.

Perhaps no tax has been so abused as that on gasoline. The motorist has been made to pay for schools, fish hatcheries and what not. And now the racketeer is putting in an appearance. It is time all motorists demanded quick and adequate relief.

MOTORS FROM NEW MEDFORD, MASS., TO WILMINGTON TO MAKE ADDRESS

Harold D. Wilson, deputy prohibition administrator for Delaware, drove over 400 miles, from West Medford, Mass., to Wilmington, to make an address Sunday night at the Swedish Baptist Church, Vandeventer avenue and Church street. Wilson left West Medford at 12:30 Sunday morning and arrived in Wilmington at about 2 in the afternoon. He was introduced at the Swedish Baptist Church, where he talked on prohibition enforcement, by the Rev. Martin Larsen. He averaged over 31 miles an hour on the trip.

Mr. Wilson had gone to West Medford with Mrs. Wilson, to visit his mother-in-law, who suffered a broken shoulder in a fall.

FOUR CASES OF HOG CHOLERA IN CECIL COUNTY

Cecil county, which has been practically free of hog cholera for the past ten months, according to the Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has jumped into the limelight during the past week, with four cases of the disease. One on the farm of C. B. Kibler, at Bacon Hill, the farm of S. C. Plummer, near North East, the premises of Sandy Tamargo, near Elkton, and the farm of Wilson Calvert, at Port Deposit.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL FOR TREATMENT

Miss Bertha Carroll, who fell several weeks ago at her home near Bayview, breaking her hip, has been taken to the Havre de Grace Hospital for treatment.

ELKTON HARDWARE STORE ROBBED OF $200

The first robbery to be reported to the police in Elkton for a year, took place some time between late Saturday night and early Monday morning, when the hardware store of Samuel H. King and Sons, on West Main street, was broken into and robbed.

The robbers, whom the police believe to be amateurs, gained an entrance into the store from the basement, and with a jimmy opened the safe, securing about $200 in money and several checks.

A single barrel shot gun and several boxes of shells were also taken.

Smoke Puff Nearly Kills Man As Friend "Helps" Him

A well-meaning acquaintance nearly caused the death of William Dion, twenty-eight, of Lawrence, Mass.

In 1909, Dion had diphtheria which caused collapse of his throat, so a tube was inserted in the lower part of his throat.

Last week he and the acquaintance were walking along Ridge pike at Seven Stars, two miles west of Norristown, when Dion lit a cigarette. The acquaintance saw smoke issuing from Dion's clothing and jerked the tube out, thinking Dion was on fire.

With his breath practically cut off, Dion, nearing collapse, managed to find the tube and insert it himself, but he didn't do a good job and fell exhausted in the ditch alongside the road. The acquaintance, very much frightened, ran off and left him there.

William Desimone, a passing motorist, saw him lying in the ditch, investigated and then called Norristown police, who sent a Montgomery Hospital ambulance to the scene. It was thought at first Dion had cut his throat.

On his arrival at the hospital, Dion was given artificial respiration for fifteen minutes and the tube replaced properly, and he was able to sit up and tell his story.

MD. STATE ROADS COMMISSION AWARDS CONTRACT IN ELKTON

The Maryland State Roads Commission opened bids Tuesday for the new overhead bridge across the relocated tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad, at Bridge street, Elkton. There were a number of bidders, the lowest being Henry L. Maas and Sons, Inc. This same company was awarded the contract for building a similar bridge across the tracks of the same railroad at North street, Elkton, two weeks ago, and has already started preliminary work on the structure.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD TO MEET IN ELKTON

Mrs. Carrie Brady McCullough, secretary, has issued a call for the Cecil County Branch of the Needlework Guild of America, for a meeting to be held in Elkton, Saturday afternoon.

1931 Christmas Seal

THIS year the Christmas seal celebrates its 25th anniversary with a special design to commemorate the quarter-century milestone of its fight against tuberculosis. A stage coach is shown, pulled by four horses prancing through the snow. One of the passengers is seen blowing a horn to trumpet forth the good news that the Christmas seal coach is coming.

And indeed it is good news that the coach and four bring with every letter and package they decorate at holiday time. It is good news that the toll of tuberculosis has been cut in half in the twenty-five years the seal has been at work to help make people well. It is good news that this progress is to be continued until it can no longer be said, as now is the case, that tuberculosis strikes down more people in the first decade of maturity than any other disease.

Don't forget your Christmas seals this year! They cost little, but they save human lives. They are as much a part of the regulation American Christmas as the stocking on the hearth. And you will have the silent thanks of a great army of people who need your help this year.

—"Buy Christmas Seal!"—

MORE AND CHEAPER

Though 85,000,000 Americans are served by electric lights, potential use of power in the home has barely been scratched.

Few homes include any number of those electric labor-saving devices which can add so much to the efficiency, comfort and leisure of domestic life. The electric refrigerator, ironer, fan, even the percolator, are used only by a small percentage.

Great progress has been made in extending service to rural localities and last year a new high record was established. But as yet only a small part of all farms are electrified—and those that are do not consume nearly as much power as they will in the future. The problems of farm electrification are mainly economic, dealing with the cost of building lines, and are rapidly being solved.

It is the electric industry that, in the past 20 or so years, has revolutionized our lives. And it will be the electric industry that, in the future, will give us almost unimaginable comforts and opportunities. Twenty years from now we will wonder how we got along with so small a use of electricity—exactly as we wonder how the people of half a century ago managed to do without the things we take for granted today. Each year we are using more power, in more ways and—it is interesting to observe—with more use it becomes constantly cheaper.

Black Walnuts a Source of Cash Income on Some Farms

Black walnuts, often left for the squirrels on pastures and other uncultivated farm lands, can be made to supplement the family income with very little expense or special equipment. There is usually a good demand for well prepared black walnut kernels.

Care in gathering and husking the nuts and in extracting the kernels, however, is necessary for best results, say U. S. Department of Agriculture specialists, who stress the importance of offering only clean, sound nut kernels on city markets or roadside stands. Culling the nuts and cracking nothing but the good ones is essential to success, they say. One way to keep out inferior nuts is to burn all those on the ground left over from the year before. Nuts that drop prematurely are usually of poor quality.

The whole crop of mature nuts, which usually ripen within a short period, may be picked up from the ground, often after only a little jarring of the trees. Promptness in gathering and husking is essential, for the husks blacken quickly, staining the shells and even the kernels of the nuts within. A hand-power corn sheller has been found an effective walnut husker. Rolling the nuts under the shoe while they are spread out on the ground also frees them from the husks.

The husked nuts should be immediately dumped into a large tub of water and churned with a broom until clean.

Curing, the next step, consists in spreading the hulled nuts on a clean floor in a well-ventilated loft, with daily stirring. It is best to spread the nuts thinly on the floor, not more than three layers deep.

At the end of a few days, as soon as they are thoroughly dry, the nuts are ready for cracking. In the absence of any of the inexpensive machines made for the purpose, an ordinary hammer and block of wood or a stone will serve the purpose.

The extracted kernels bringing highest prices are invariably those which are carefully graded. As black walnuts, unlike many other nuts, are seldom used for decoration, nothing is gained by separating halves from quarters or even somewhat smaller pieces. Very small bits, however, should be discarded along with all spoiled kernels. These may be used for chicken feed. Keeping the bright-colored kernels apart from the darker ones is part of the grading process and is good sales practice.

Since the walnut kernels are moist when first taken from the shell, they require drying before they may be safely packed for shipment. A drying oven over the kitchen stove is satisfactory for this purpose. The kernels should be kept only warm (not above 105 degrees F.) since a high degree of heat will roast the kernels and cause them to lose their oil. Unless they are thoroughly dry to the touch, molding in the package may occur. They should not be dried to the point of becoming hard and shriveled, however.

Clean containers, such as boxes, cartons, or bags lined with waterproof and oil-proof paper, are recommended by the Government specialists as containers in which the nut kernels may be shipped. If large quantities are being handled barrels are very satisfactory. Whatever the container selected, it should not be tightly closed until just before shipment.

ELKTON WOMAN HURT WHILE DRIVING IN DELAWARE

Mrs. Miller Jamison, of Elkton, met with a painful as well as a peculiar accident, while driving with her husband in Kent county, Del., Tuesday. As their automobile was about to pass a horse attached to a vehicle, the animal, frightened, reared up and struck the windshield of the car with its front feet. A portion of the broken glass struck Mrs. Jamison in the face, lacerating it in several places.

Mrs. Jamison was removed to Elkton Hospital, where it was found necessary to take eleven stitches to close the wounds.

A FAVORED GRANGE

Indian Creek Grange, located just outside the city of Topeka, Kansas, is very proud of the fact that it numbers in its membership, United States Senator Arthur Capper and Hon. Charles Curtis, Vice-President, the latter having joined at a recent meeting. Though not large in numbers, this subordinate Grange owns a large, commodious brick hall, maintains a fair association and does much community service work every year.

GRANGES IN CHURCH

November 15 is to be a nation-wide go-to-church-day all over the United States for Grange members, inasmuch as at the morning service that day the National Grange delegates in session at Madison, Wisconsin, will attend in a body one of the city churches, with the service program arranged especially in their honor. Hundreds of church-Grange services are held every year and throughout the nation Grange influence is being exerted in hearty support of the home church.

A recent Grange rally meeting in Faneuil Hall, Boston, was attended by 1100 members, representing 202 subordinate Granges, with National Master Louis J. Taber as guest speaker.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S TRAVELS

By James W. Brooks

Mrs. Washington and her son, John Parke Custis, came to Boston some months after Washington arrived to take command of the army. They lived in the Craigie House—afterward the home of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. With his family with him again, life was more cheerful for the general.

GEN. THOMAS GAGE, ENGLISH GOVERNOR OF MASSACHUSETTS

THE NIGHT OF APRIL 4, 1776, TWO THOUSAND MEN STRUGGLED UP DORCHESTER HEIGHTS WITH CANNON AND FORTIFICATION MATERIAL UNDER COVER OF A BOMBARDMENT—WASHINGTON WAS NOW IN A POSITION TO DESTROY BOSTON—THE ENGLISH GENERAL SAID THAT THE REBELS HAD DONE MORE IN ONE NIGHT THAN HIS SOLDIERS WOULD HAVE DONE IN A MONTH

A Glimpse of the Real George Washington

On this day, October 29, one hundred and forty-six years ago, there occurred a little incident that the busy world of today would overlook, but for a single fact. The fact is that the incident concerns George Washington, in whose every act we begin to be interested as the country approaches the celebration next year of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of his birth. This particular incident is worth recalling, moreover, because it gives us a glimpse of the real George Washington.

The year was 1785. The United States had been established under Washington's leadership, and the Commander-in-Chief had sheathed his sword, returning his commission to the Continental Congress, and retiring to his beloved Mount Vernon to enjoy a well-earned rest, and to interest himself in the farming and commercial projects which he had been thinking about for a long time.

One of these was the development of navigation on the James and Potomac Rivers. Now that peace had been restored, this development of navigation had reached the point of incorporation, and Washington's native State of Virginia wished to give him a block of shares in the navigation company, even more as a mark of affection than as a trifling reward for his public service.

Washington, we are informed by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, was deeply touched by both these considerations—and as deeply troubled by the problem of declining the gift without giving hurt and offense. Never before had he consented to receive payment for his labors in the public road, and he would not, even under these circumstances, break his iron rule in such matters. Being George Washington, he found the happiest way out of the difficulty—which was to accept the shares on behalf of the public. In the end, this gift of Virginia to George Washington was devoted to the establishment of free schools for poor children, particularly the children of patriots who had fallen in defense of their country.

Thus did Washington more than match, with his own grace, the good-will tendered him by his devoted and affectionate Virginians. Even the language he used in doing so is of interest, as a perfect example of the ceremonious courtesy that he observed in all his dealings. Patrick Henry was then Governor of Virginia, and to Henry the great soldier, statesman, and first citizen of the land wrote the following letter:

"Mount Vernon, 29 October 1785.

"Sir,

"Your Excellency having been pleased to transmit to me a copy of the act, appropriating to my benefit certain shares in the companies for opening the navigation of James and Potomac Rivers, I take the liberty of returning to the General Assembly, through your hands, the profound and grateful acknowledgements inspired by no signal a mark of their beneficent intentions towards me. I beg you, Sir, to assure them, that I am filled on this occasion with every sentiment, which can flow from a heart warm with love for my country, sensible to every token of its approbation and affection, and anxious to testify in every instance a respectful submission to its wishes.

"With these sentiments in my breast I need not dwell on the anxiety I feel in being obliged in this instance to decline a favor, which is rendered no less flattering by the manner in which it is conveyed, than it is affectionate in itself. In explaining this observation I pass over a comparison of my endeavors in the public service with the many honorable testimonies of approbation, which have already so far over-rated and overpaid them; reciting one consideration only, which supercedes the necessity of recurring to every other.

"When I was first called to the station, with which I was honored during the late conflict for our liberties, to the diffidence which I had so many reasons to feel in accepting it. I thought it my duty to join a firm resolution to shut my hand against every pecuniary recompense. To this resolution I have invariably adhered, and from it, if I had the inclination, I do not feel at liberty now to depart.

"Whilst I repeat, therefore, my fervent acknowledgements to the legislature for their very kind sentiments and intentions in my favor, and at the same time beg them to be persuaded, that a remembrance of this singular proof of their goodness towards me will never cease to cherish returns of the warmest affection and gratitude. I must pray that their act, so far as it has for its object my personal emolument, may not have its effect. But if it should please the General Assembly to permit me to turn the destination of the fund vested in me, from my private emolument to objects of a public nature, it will be my study in selecting these to prove the sincerity of my gratitude for the honor conferred on me, by preferring such as may appear most subservient and to the enlightened and patriotic views of the legislature. With great respect and consideration, I have the honor to be, etc., etc."

It only remains to add that the Virginia Assembly immediately yielded to Washington's wishes, and in the very act by which it did so it used this letter from Washington in the preamble. A more graceful exchange could scarcely be imagined, and one that leaves George Washington setting an example to modern times, even in these small matters, as in every other.

HIS ESSAY WAS PROPHECIC

Several years ago Paul V. Hurley, a Boston schoolboy won a prize for an essay favoring capital punishment as the proper penalty for murder. Last week Hurley died in the electric chair, having been convicted of the murder of a policeman. Just a coincidence, but some interesting conclusions might be drawn.—Capper's Weekly.

STOOD ON HIS RIGHTS

Little Frank while being reprimanded by his teacher sat down, leaving her standing. She reminded him that no gentleman should seat himself while the lady with whom he was conversing remained standing. "But this is a lecture," said the youngster, "and I am the audience."—Exchange.

THE YEAR'S RECORD QUITE REMARKABLE

Grange One of Few Fraternals to Make Membership Gain

To the Granges belongs the distinction of being one of the few fraternal organizations of the country that have been able to make a net gain in membership during the past 12 months; while also very much to the credit of this farm fraternity is the fact that nearly 500 new organizations of local units have been reported in 12 months from 28 different states. The net membership gain of the year will be in excess of 20,000, while an energetic campaign is already planned for further extension of the organization during the coming year, especially in Virginia, North and South Carolina, where a rapid growth has been made the past two years, and in Texas where the year has seen the beginning of organization.

During the eight years of the administration of National Master Louis J. Taber, 1478 new subordinate Granges have been organized in the United States; 91 Pomona Granges; and 883 Juvenile Granges. During the same period three new State Granges have been brought into the councils of the national organization—Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina—while the work has been thoroughly revived in Minnesota, which has become a very promising Grange state.

Rapid advances along the lines of education and community benefits have also been features of the Taber administration, while the achievements of the National Grange in legislation, both in Congress and at the state capitals, constitute a record highly creditable to the Grange as a whole. All rural interests are today expressed through the Grange organization as never before, and those in charge of public affairs everywhere recognize this organization as the most distinctive spokesman of the farm people. The Grange is just completing 65 years of continuous existence and evidences of its substantial condition are found in a paid membership roll of more than 800,000, in 3400 well-equipped Grange halls, and in a nation-wide program of progress which has won the approval of prominent leaders in all departments of national life.

FARM COOPERATIVES VITAL

In a recent address Charles S. Wilson, a member of the Federal Farm Board, emphasized the fact that to get benefits from farm relief, the individual producer must first belong to a cooperative association of some kind. The overwhelming surplus of farm products that have flooded the market and knocked the bottom out of price levels, must be overcome by unified action in all phases of production and sales. Mr. Wilson commented favorably on several cooperative organizations, such as the pioneer Dairy-men's League Association of New York, which have done good work for their members.

Those farmers who believe that the government, by passing a bill, can immediately bring unprecedented prosperity to agriculture, should pay attention to what Mr. Wilson—in company with many other authorities, public and private—has said. No artificial cure can permanently raise farm prices had established the industry on a sound foundation. No politician can repeal the law of supply and demand. Government may help, it is true—but the fundamental need is for cooperation among farmers themselves. They must band together into large and powerful organizations, if they are to control their destinies. The farming industry is basically no different than a manufacturing industry—and the principle of mass action which has given this country world industrial supremacy, will produce exactly the same result for the farm as for any other business.

PROF. JOHN M. EVVARD

HEIFERS SELL BEST

By Dr. John M. Evvard

When well fattened heifers, of choice to prime grade, reach the desirable market weight of 600 to 750 pounds, the proportion of fat to lean in the carcass is about right and the size of cuts most suitable for the housewife's demand.

If heavier, super finished weights of 800 to 1000 pounds are attained before shipping, the preponderance of fat becomes a cooking and table nuisance. Likewise, the cuts are too heavy. The proportion of lean to fat weights for near-best taste is approximately 70 to 30, that is 70 per cent of hand separable lean as contrasted with 30 per cent fat.

At the heavier weights, the heifer carcass may run over one-half fat, which means too much grease and waste. As compared to the lighter weights, the lean meat of heavy heifers is not improved in marbling, taste, color and tenderness by the longer feeding. And at the strong weights, the heifer ribs and fore quarters are super-laden with the wasty fat.

Steer calves, on the other hand, may well stand a longer feeding period than heifers, because after the 600 pound fattening stage is reached they put on much more lean meat in proportion to fat than do the heifers. But even with baby beef steers, nowadays, the heavier weights of 900 pounds or over are often sharply discounted in selling value, so much so that it is questionable in many cases, particularly when one figures the increased cost of gains at the heavier weights, whether the baby beef steers should exceed the 900 pound fat weight when sold.

In these modern days, cattle feeders must keep in tune with the market price trends, sell young well fattened cattle at light handy weights rather than make them over-ripe and overweight before bidding them adieu.

Shortleaf pine, in its region of natural growth on the uplands from Texas to New Jersey, grows rapidly and seeds abundantly, making a stand comparatively easy to maintain if it is protected from fire.

You can't cut your HEAT . . . but you can cut your cost

No one wants to save coal and sacrifice comfort.

Everyone wants adequate, even, dependable heat . . . with greater convenience . . . at lower cost.

Call us: we'll suggest the right coal . . . Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite for purity, uniformity and high heating value. Then we'll suggest the most economical size. And we'll gladly advise in the matter of heater condition and general heater management.

Service with us means more than coal delivery. Our interest is not in how much coal we can sell you . . . but in how much more heat you get from every ton you buy from us. We'd rather sell more coal by selling it to more people . . . and we do!

WALNUT TREES

State forest nurseries have furnished large numbers of black walnut seedlings for planting on farms this year, says the U. S. Forest Service. In North Carolina 42,000 walnut seedlings were reserved for use of the National 4-H Clubs for spring and fall planting. In Caldwell County 85 club members planted 45 trees each last year. Records will be kept on the plantings which were partly financed by a local chamber of commerce.
Foresters recommend that walnut trees be planted in rich, deep soil that is well drained. They are frequently planted in fence corners, field corners, ditch or stream banks, large openings in the woods, and deep pockets of soil about rocky outcrops in the field.

Chickens eat more feed in winter
if the poultry house is artificially lighted. This increases egg production when prices are highest. The U.
S. Department of Agriculture says that 40-watt lamps are best. Fit them with reflectors and hang them about 6 feet above the floor. If hung too low they will not light the roosts and the birds will not come down until daylight. Place the lights about 10 feet apart. Two good lights are enough for a poultry house 20 feet long.

Louisa May Alcott

Louisa May Alcott was born in Germantown, Pennsylvania, November 29, 1832, in her father's thirty-third year. The four sisters, whom the world knows as the Meg, Jo, Beth, and Amy of Little Women, did not have an easy childhood, for they were desperately poor. Their father, Bronson Alcott, was a Connecticut Yankee, but he had very little Yankee shrewdness. He was a philosopher, who longed to teach the world beautiful things of life. Since this was not a profitable business, he could not very well support his family. The burden of this rested mainly on his wife, who was a woman of rare courage and energy. But as they all loved each other, they usually laughed instead of crying over their troubles.

Much of the time they lived in Concord, Massachusetts. Louisa M. Alcott loved to get up plays from their favorite stories which she and others acted in the barn, and sometimes Ralph Waldo Emerson, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Bronson Alcott and other parents came to see them. Louisa always loved to sew. She helped with family burdens by cooking, scrubbing, and sewing.

She was paid $5 for her first story which was published when she was sixteen. Hospital Sketches was her first real success. It told of sympathy and humor which she had witnessed while nursing sick and wounded soldiers in the hospital at Georgetown in the District of Columbia.

One success led to another. Little Women was translated into French, German, and Dutch, and was very popular in England.

Andrew Carnegie

This week we celebrated the birthday of Andrew Carnegie. Andrew Carnegie, capitalist, manufacturer, philanthropist, and author, was born in Dumfries, Fifeshire, Scotland, on November 25, 1835. He came to America in 1848 with his parents and settled in Pittsburgh. Here he learned telegraphy and entered the employment of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as a telegraph operator. Step by step he advanced by promotions until he became superintendent of the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania system. Mr. Carnegie joined Woodruff, the inventor of the sleeping car, in organizing the Woodruff Sleeping Car Company. Through this Mr. Carnegie gained a fortune. He served as superintendent of military railways and government telegraphy during the Civil War. Andrew Carnegie developed iron works of various kinds and established in Pittsburgh the Keystone Bridge Works and Union Iron Works. He introduced into this country the Bessemer process of making steel, after which he retired from business. Mr. Carnegie has given much to the United States. He has given libraries to many towns and large sums in benefactions to many libraries and colleges. Andrew Carnegie died in 1919.

Wings of Vengeance

Tom Alroy sat at his packing-box desk in headquarters of Squadron thirty-three, United States Air Service, nervously drumming on the desk top with his fingers. Squadron thirty-three was only twenty-one miles from the front and the constant rumble of guns shook the room.

Tommy's younger brother, Michael, had gone out on a solo patrol over the German lines an hour before. Tom was anxiously waiting and listening for the drone of a returning S. E. 5.

He heard the whine and scream of struts and wires and ran on to the tarmac. Several mechanics and pilots were already out on the field, excitedly gazing up into the sky. Looking aloft, Tom saw Mike's shattered crate coming into the field in a flat glide the engine off. The prop was so still that Tom could almost read the trademark on it. The ship flattened out ten or twenty feet above the ground and then pan-caked onto the field. Tom rushed over to his brother's plane and found Mike slumped in the seat. A stream of warm, sticky blood was seeping through a hole in his flying suit and his mouth was frothing with blood. One arm was broken and hung limply by his side.

Mike feebly opened his eyes, and seeing Tom, gasped: "Von Bruen!—had his whole gang waitin' for me—twenty some fast Fokkers—never had a chance! . . . they drilled me—through the stomach and waist!" His voice trailed off, his head dropped, and his eyes closed. A convulsive shudder passed through his tall body and then he was still. . . . A gallant young warrior of the sky had gone West.

Tom Alroy was out for revenge! The sweet song of the faithful 220 H. P. Hispano-Suiza engine was music to his ears. Before him, mounted on the engine cowl, were two long black Vickers machine-guns. The S. E. 5 was making about one hundred twenty miles per hour and Tom was well inside the German lines.

He cruised back and forth, far within the enemy territory, but met no German aircraft. Disappointed, he turned toward the home dome. Five miles from the Allied lines he sighted about six specks off to the east. As he approached them they developed into enemy airplanes.

Then they struck, like a mighty thunder-bolt! It was the crack flying circus of Hermann Von Bruen! Six to one! The roar of strained engines, the scream of strut wires, and the ceaseless "brrrr-ra-ta-tat" of vomiting machine-guns split the sky asunder.

In a screaming vertical bank, Tom caught a Hun pilot napping and loosed the fury of his guns. His aim was perfect, and the enemy plane burst into flames. Tom was fighting and flying like one possessed.

In the meantime two Fokkers had secured a position above and behind Tom's plane, and were firing at him mercilessly. His wings began to take on the appearance of sieves, and the thud-thud of bullets in the fuselage behind him told him that he was in a dangerous place.

Tom roared up into a quick Immelman turn and found himself the pursuer. But the pilot of the Fokker hurled his machine around and met Tom face to face. Both planes were rushing head-on toward each other, and unless one turned out, they would surely crash together.

Tom grimly held to his course, and just when a few feet separated the two propellers, the Boche zoomed up above the S. E. 5. For a few seconds the belly of the German ship was exposed, and Tom let him have it with both guns. The Fokker belched smoke and flames and went spinning to the earth three thousand feet below.

Tom's instrument board suddenly shattered into a hundred pieces and a bullet plowed through his arm. It felt just as if someone had laid a red-hot poker upon his arm. Looking back over his shoulder, Tom saw a German ship right on his tail, its machine-guns vomiting orange and green fire. Another slug whizzed past Tom's ear and went through the windshield.

Cold terror clutched at his heart. He pulled the control-stick all the way back into his stomach and then at the top of a loop he rolled into an upright position.

The superior climbing ability of the

S. E. 5 put him in a position directly above the enemy plane. Almost before the Boche flyer could realize what had happened, Tom was diving down on him. The German tried to escape by a quick climbing turn but Tommy was on him. The twin streams of lead from his guns passed through the cockpit of the Boche ship and cut the pilot almost in two. The German plane went spinning toward the earth with a dead pilot at the controls.

The other three Boche fliers decided that Tom meant business and the battle ended as quickly as it had started. As Tom Malroy headed for the home tarmac in his bullet-riddled and battered plane, he murmured: "You can rest in peace now, Mike o' boy."

The case of Strode vs. Wheelless, a breach of promise suit for $50,000, came to trial Tuesday, December 1, with Judge Fatty on the bench. The plaintiff, Miss Strode, who has achieved fame as a motion picture actress, claimed that Mr. Wheelless promised to marry her and then broke her heart by refusing to see her any more. In fact, so great was Miss Strode's distress that she suffered a physical breakdown, was unable to act, and lost her job in the movies. The principal witness for the prosecution was Mr. Bidwell, who runs a prominent cafe in this city. Mr. Bidwell claimed that Mr. Wheelless and Miss Strode visited his cafe frequently and on the last occasion Miss Strode had showed him her engagement ring.

The counsel for the defense tried unsuccessfully to break down the testimony of Miss Strode and Mr. Bidwell. During Miss Strode's testimony the male contingent of the jury was visibly impressed although they scarcely heard her words. Never had Miss Strode charmed a cinema hero more thoroughly than she did the jury. During Miss Strode's testimony her lawyer, Mr. Biddle, produced letters containing proposals which he claimed that Mr. Wheelless had written.

When Mr. Wheelless took the stand he denied ever having visited the Bidwell cafe or ever having written to Miss Strode. The counsel for the defense claimed that Mr. Wheelless had not written the letters and supported this statement by showing that Mr. Wheelless' handwriting differed from that in the letters. He also said that since the letters proposed the rendezvous at Bidwell's and since Mr. Wheelless had never seen the letters, that consequently Mr. Wheelless was speaking truly when he said he never visited Bidwell's the night Miss Strode claimed to have become engaged.

The prosecuting attorney then made an eloquent appeal to the jury to secure justice for the innocent girl who had been led astray by the bad, bad Mr. Wheelless.

The jury was forced to come to a decision in the two minutes that remained of the period. The verdict was guilty. So Miss Strode took the fifty thousand dollars.

Value of Logarithms

Have you ever added two numbers to get a product? That is what can be done with logarithms commonly called "logs." These logs make much lighter work of arithmetic for by adding them we can multiply and by subtracting them we can divide. Logarithms also enable one to raise a number to a power by only one multiplication and to extract roots with only one division.

The study and uses of logs are taken up in the trigonometry courses. In trig it is necessary to work with very small decimal fractions. To simplify this work there have been introduced forms of slide rules and logarithmic tables and other calculating devices. The simplest, most practical, and most inexpensive of these are the logarithmic tables. These tables were compiled through the work of John Napier, in 1614, and later were improved upon by Henry Briggs.

Interesting Facts Concerning the Empire State Building

The Empire State Building rises to a height of 1250 feet into the sky of midtown Manhattan. This huge building weighs some 600,000,000 pounds, which is the weight of a rock pile 45 feet high that might occupy the same site. The structure is supported on 210 columns and never varies from the vertical by more than $\frac{1}{8}$ of an inch. Four hundred and fifty tons of aluminum were used to make the adorning friezes and the mooring mast exterior. Approximately 10,000,000 bricks and 200,000 cubic feet of Indiana limestone were used. 6,400 windows were placed in the structure, and 37,000,000 cubic feet of air is contained in the building.

Wilmington Newark's Last Fox

The Newark High School football team will play what will probably be its last game this season at the Tower Hill field at 2 o'clock on Saturday, December 10. The entire profit of this game will be donated to charity and the team's expenses will be derived from the sale of the booster tags now on sale by the student body. Remember that only through your co-operation can the team be present.

Ears

Mozart is said to have had the most sensitive ears ever known. He could catch a mistake in the playing of a selection to the nearest quarter of a tone, and could remember for several days the exact bar in which it was played. On one occasion during his youth, Mozart was standing with some other guests at the royal palace awaiting an audience with the king. As that monarch approached the trumpeter blew a fanfare on his instrument, and although some distance away, so delicate was Mozart's ear that he faintly with pain.

SONG OF THE WEEK

I Don't Know Why

I don't know why I love you like I do, I don't know why I just do. —

Reprinted by permission of the copyright owners.

SIMPLICITY has always been a virtue, a fact that is especially true of popular songs. When a composer gets too fancy, he may impress his friends, but he'll never have the country singing his melodies.

All of which is a way of patting the composers of "I Don't Know Why" on the back. Roy Turk wrote the lyric and Fred E. Ahlert wrote the music and they have turned out a real hit.

Here's a song that has a beautiful, simple, plaintive refrain. It is unaffected and easy to understand. And the lyric has just that appealing quality so necessary for a successful song.

Turk and Ahlert are another song writing team that turns out hits consistently. I have worked with them, and know what clever song writers they are. My friendship is no reason for picking this number as my "Song of the Week," however, and even less a reason for singing it on my Cremo programs for already the whole country is humming it, and it's not much of a gamble to predict that it will continue for some time to be what it is already, one of Tin Pan Alley's "best sellers."

Its smooth melody is particularly popular with dancers and dance orchestra leaders tell me that they get more "requests" for it than most anything they play.

New Industry for Delaware

Another new industry has been added to the Wilmington area with the establishment of the Delaware Paper Box Company at Third street and Greenhill avenue.

Coincident with the announcement comes the statement that the company has acquired the exclusive perpetual rights in the United States, Canada, England, France, Germany, Belgium and Japan for the White automatic paper box machine which automatically and completely manufactures collapsible paper boxes.

D. Stewart White, inventor of the machine, is president of the company; Roy E. Hamman, formerly of the engineering department of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, Atlas Powder Company, Pusey and Jones Company, Harlan and Hollingsworth Corporation, and Philadelphia Navy Yard, has been appointed vice-president; Thomas White, Sr., with the American Bridge Company 35 years, treasurer, and Joseph Handler, an attorney, secretary.

The White automatic paper box machine unit is designed so that in one operation it will cut, stamp, print, paste, fold and pack continuously 15,000 one-pound collapsible boxes per hour. The raw material is fed into the machine and the finished boxes are delivered and packed at the other end, untouched by human hands.

Officials of the company state that the new machine is expected to revolutionize the paper box industry, which ranks as one of the most important in the world and is expanding daily. It is pointed out that paper boxes are replacing wood because the former effects a saving in shipping through its lightness of weight as well as its ease and convenience of handling.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

Dear Mr. Editor:

Reading over the Post I see Officer Hill says he reported the fire of William Barnard's barn at 3.30 and the alarm did not sound for 15 minutes later. I would like to correct this with your permission. I woke up that morning and the reflections were shining in my window. I jumped out of bed and looked at the clock. It was just 3.25. I did not see any cars or any one around the fire, so I called the operator and asked if any alarm had been turned in, and she said no. I told her that William Barnard's barn was on fire. She asked me if I was sure. I told her I was. I walked back to the clock, it was just 3.30 when the alarm sounded, all within four minutes. Now let's give the operators and all others whatever credit is due them. My motto is a square deal to all.

C. W. Keith.

Note:—The article referred to was written from information given by Chief of Police William Cunningham and Officer Hill. It was 3.15 when the fire was discovered by Officer Hill while on Quality Hill. He ran to the police station at the Deer Park Hotel and telephoned the operator from there and when the alarm did not sound he immediately got in touch with Chief Cunningham, who dressed at once and upon reaching the street the alarm sounded. If the alarm did not sound until 3.29 it did not sound until 14 minutes after being reported. The Post article should have read the alarm sounded at 3.30.

The walking distances are cut down so that the activities are within easy reach of the locker room, which is common to everyone. The hall which the students enter on the ground floor is flanked on one side by the administration office and on the other side by an entrance that leads directly to the Attendant's desk. This desk is the point of control where the students are checked and registered and allowed to proceed to the various activities.

From this point the various groups divide themselves. The girls who use the swimming pool pass through a group of showers set aside for their use. After taking a shower the students proceed into the natatorium. As a sanitary precaution everyone who enters the swimming pool must walk through a foot-bath.

Those girls who use the gymnasium go directly upstairs from the lockers. On the return from the gymnasium they have the use of a special group of showers, independent from those for the natatorium, but so arranged that both groups can be thrown into one when the gymnasium classes or the natatorium classes are larger than usual.

Suits and towels are kept behind the Attendant's space, where a washing machine and dryer are installed. The water for the pool is sterilized by a chlorinator and filters. Experience has shown that water so sterilized and filtered has a smaller bacteria count than ordinary drinking water.

The Swimming Instructor's room is so placed that she has immediate access to the natatorium and yet is accessible from the locker room. As a means of safety, there are two lights above the swimming pool that are always on. If the circuits were to go out of commission while girls were in the pool, these lights would not be affected. Another safety device is the Drowning Alarm. No one is allowed in the pool alone. Anyone going to the assistance of another person in the pool would first ring the Drowning Alarm, which would sound a bell in the Attendant's space, the gymnasium and several other places in the building.

The second floor contains a large gymnasium, 59 x 82 clear, and has a novel feature in that the windows are very wide and extend to the floor. This is something new in gymnasiums. The architect's theory is that it should be possible for the students to get an abundance of sunlight, to see the trees and have a feeling of being out of doors. Special attention is called to the window opening devices. The windows may be opened by a turn of a wheel without removing the screens. They are so pivoted that the rain cannot come in. The wire screens are chromium plated and do not show against the outside light.

There is a small gymnasium, 29x49, for the use of smaller classes, for calisthenics and aesthetic dancing and corrective work. In order to facilitate instruction, two walls have been covered with mirrors.

There is a small Corrective Gymnasium, 21 x 22, adjacent to a small rest room. This is intended for those students who need guidance from the instructors to correct physical defects.

Inasmuch as this building will be used by spectators at times, it has been thought advisable to keep this special outside circulation away from the students. Visitors enter the building by a separate outside stairway and pass through the Trophy Hall and up to the Spectators' Gallery. The Trophy Hall is a long, wide corridor paneled on both sides. In times these panels will be inscribed with athletic records of the Women's College.

Taking it as a whole this building is the most compact and most complete physical education unit that can be found in any university.

Louis E. Jallade, the architect, whose plans were submitted to Supervisory Architect, Mr. Charles Z. Klauder, is the Adviser for the

NUMBER 45

ACTION BY NATIONAL GRANGE ON MANY IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

Taken at the 65th Annual Session, at Madison, Wisconsin

While the 65th annual convention of the National Grange was not as largely attended as the great gathering at Rochester, New York, last year, because of meeting in less thickly-populated territory, it was nevertheless one of the most significant sessions this big farm fraternity has ever held, and every one of the 32 organized Grange states was represented by its accredited delegates, these states reaching from Atlantic to Pacific, and from Minnesota on the north to South Carolina on the south.

The session was noteworthy for its emphatic pronouncements on big pending questions of the day, while its definite programs adopted on taxation, tariff, marketing and land policy will command widespread attention. Offering no new or radical remedies for present depression and ills, the National Grange points the clear pathway to the restoration of national prosperity by setting up sound economic principles, from which a wide departure has been made by the nation in recent years. General approval will mark the Grange demand that the American market be preserved for the American farmer, and that adequate protection be afforded him, both in the direction of reasonable tariff levels on imported agricultural products and the Export Debiture or similar plan to aid in the disposition of farm surpluses at fair prices.

Below is briefly summarized the general policy adopted by the National Grange at Madison, followed by a concise tabulation of specific measures which it favors and opposes; these to be followed up by widespread discussion and action in the 8,000 Granges throughout the land the coming winter:

Outstanding Action by the National Grange

1. The American market for the American farmer:—
 - (a) Growers of crops producing an exportable surplus to be accorded equalized tariff benefits, such as are proposed under the Export Debiture Plan.
 - (b) No tariff rates permitted which breed monopoly and enrich the few at the expense of the many.
 - (c) No imposition of tariffs upon such natural resources as cannot be renewed when once they are exhausted.
 - (d) Fixing at fair and reasonable levels import duties on commodities which the farmer must buy.
 - (e) Reaffirming the long-established policy of the Grange in demanding "Tariff for all, or tariff for none."
2. A very definite taxation program to include:—
 - (a) Increase in the estate tax, and the greater portion of amount collected to be retained by the states; with no reduction permitted in Federal income tax.
 - (b) A limited tax on luxuries and a Federal and state gift tax.
 - (c) Return to the states of a substantial portion of the Federal corporation income tax.
 - (d) A debt control law for states and local communities, with limitation of all special assessments against real estate.
 - (e) Extension of the budget system for handling current expenditures.
3. A specific land policy:—
 - (a) Coordination of the activities of Federal and state agencies.
 - (b) A better administration of the remaining public lands, through reforestation or otherwise, to insure sound conservation.
 - (c) The use of reclamation funds in refunding indebtedness of irrigation and drainage districts needing assistance. Oppose new irrigation or drainage or reclamation projects.
 - (d) Broadening the forestry laws of the nation and of states, to permit purchase of sub-marginal agricultural land for either forest purposes, recreational uses or game preserves.
 - (e) Creation of a Bureau of Conservation under the Department of Agriculture, with grouping of all conservation activities under one head.
 - (f) A continuing survey to determine the productive possibilities of land, and progressive steps to stop soil erosion.
4. A clear-cut program of rural finance and money stabilization:—
 - (a) Amending the Federal Reserve Act to provide for rediscounting Intermediate Credit Bank debentures.
 - (b) An increased purchase in large volume of securities in the open market by the Federal Reserve Banks.
 - (c) Reduction of re-discount rates by the Federal Reserve Banks.
 - (d) Reduction of the legal minimum gold reserve ratios of the Federal Reserve Banks.
 - (e) Increasing the capital stock in Federal Land Banks; more substantial reserves by both Federal Land Banks and National Farm Loan Associations; appropriation to enable farmers in distress to meet interest demands and to prevent foreclosures.
 - (f) An international monetary conference for the purpose of: (1) Stabilizing the gold price of silver; and (2) Stabilizing the purchasing power of gold in terms of the average of wholesale prices to commodities.
5. Changing Congressional representation from the basis of population to that of citizenship.
6. Strengthening the Federal Marketing Act.
7. An effort to secure a united program by all farm groups for promoting the agricultural welfare.

The National Grange Favors

- Distribution of a portion of Federal income tax among the states to relieve the tax burden on real estate.
- Adoption by every state of a state income tax.
- Substitution of the Export Debiture Plan for the stabilization corporation feature in controlling farm surpluses.
- Uniform Federal and state grading of all farm products.
- Extension of rural electrification on such reasonable rate basis as will greatly increase the service to farm homes.
- More uniform tax laws among all the states.
- Granting independence to the Philippine Islands at an early date.
- Developing cooperative marketing agencies as a means of supplanting produce exchanges.
- Increased outlay of gasoline tax and license fee money in building farm-to-market roads.
- Reduction of military budgets and further progress toward international disarmament.
- Drafting money and corporations, as well as men, in time of war.
- Vigorous development of internal waterways to increase national transportation facilities.
- Federal aid in financing small cooperative groups.
- Support of the Eighteenth Amendment and rigid enforcement of all laws.
- A Court of International Justice for settling disputes between nations.
- The early construction of a Great Lakes-to-the-Atlantic canal.
- Consolidation of railroads, in the interests of efficiency and economy,

An Important Stop on the Tour

Christmas shopping is not finished until the supply of Christmas seals has been bought and paid for. Their price fits every purse—whatever you can pay. For 25 years the public has imposed this voluntary health tax upon themselves for the benefit of the community. This year the need is great, and where the need is great, the heart is always willing.

Coast Guard Stations Will Aid
In Enforcement of Game Laws

All Coast Guard Stations on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts will receive instructions to report violations of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act regulations coming to their attention, according to information furnished to the Bureau of Biological Survey, U. S. Department of Agriculture, by the office of the Commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard at Washington, D. C.

In accordance with the amended regulations shortening the season to one month because of the drought, the season for ducks, geese, brant, and coot opened at 12.00 o'clock noon on November 16, on Long Island, in New Jersey and other Atlantic Coast States to the south (except Florida), and in the Gulf Coast States of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas. In Florida the season opened at noon on November 20.

The Coast Guard, says H. P. Sheldon, United States Game Conservation Officer, of the Biological Survey, is expected to prove helpful in efforts to apprehend persons shooting waterfowl contrary to the Federal regulations.

and to remove the necessity for raising rates. Operating Muscle Shoals as a Federal experiment station to develop data on the cost of generating and distributing electricity.

Federal supervision of motion pictures and distinct improvement in quality of same.

Duty on cotton to prevent foreign importations. Intensive campaign to eliminate objectionable billboards. Increased tariff on dried eggs and labeling of all products in which dried eggs are used.

Increased banking safeguards to check epidemic of bank failures. Careful separation of the control of milk and milk products, as between health and agricultural authorities.

Omitting pulp wood from the list of commodities upon which an increase in railroad freight rates shall be allowed.

Advancing the opening of Congress and inauguration of President to January following election.

Encouraging shade tree planting along highways and fuller protection for those now there.

Investigation of a national system of old-age insurance, as opposed to non-contributory old-age pension system.

The National Grange Opposes

Use of the gasoline tax for any expenditures other than on highways. All forms of short selling of stocks except for legitimate hedging purposes.

Issuance of bonds for current expenditures during the present crisis. Compulsory military training in Land Grant Colleges.

Any form of a general sales tax. Any reduction in income tax and inheritance tax rates.

Establishment of a national Department of Education.

The National Grange session was marked by harmonious action, nearly every policy being fixed by unanimous vote and not a single roll call required. National Master Louis J. Taber received nearly every vote for reelection and will continue for another two years his energetic leadership in behalf of Equality for Agriculture and a square deal for the rural interests.

Many speakers of prominence were heard, including Dr. Glenn Frank, President of the University of Wisconsin, and Governor Phil LaFollette, of Wisconsin. The address of National Master Taber and one full program hour were broadcasted over a nation-wide hook-up, and on Sunday morning the entire Grange delegate body attended service in one of Madison's largest churches.

The 1932 National Grange session was voted to North Carolina and an extension appropriation of $40,000 was made to push organization work, in the expectation of surpassing the 1931 totals, when 383 subordinates and 150 Juveniles were added to the Grange roll of the nation.

PENNINGTON FLAYS
JERSEY OFFICIALS

Lawyers for Illegal Traffickers in State Offices are Peril, He Asserts; "U. S. Not Village Cop"

The failure of prohibition in New Jersey was blamed directly on public officials entrusted with the responsibility of enforcing this law by Commander John D. Pennington in an address in Camden recently.

Commander Pennington, who is Federal prohibition administrator for Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, spoke at the Broadway M. E. Church, Broadway and Berkeley streets, under the auspices of the Citizens' Federation of New Jersey for Temperance and Law Observance.

The laxity with which the Eighteenth Amendment is enforced in the State, he said, can be attributed directly to the presence in the State offices of attorneys who represent illegal traffickers. "If what I have to say of New Jersey is treason here, they may shoot when ready and make the most of it," he added.

Camden, he charged, is one of the most intemperate of cities in his district, while Philadelphia is one of the cleanest, due to the efforts of Director Schofield.

"Director Schofield is driving the racketeers from Philadelphia to Camden, where they are welcome," he said. "I receive an average of 100 letters a month from Camden residents asking me to do the work of your prosecutor and police. However, the Federal Government is not a village cop."

"It is little wonder that we have lax law enforcement in this area when Walter Bacon, Assistant Attorney General of New Jersey, is attorney of record for the Camden County Cereal and Beverage Co., owners of the Camden brewery; when a Mr. Eckhardt, a Deputy Attorney General is attorney for the Union City Brewery, and when Congressman Benjamin Golder of Philadelphia, represents nearly all the 'important' gunmen and 'powerful' racketeers in this area."

He pointed to three sources where lawlessness and crime breed extensively.

"First," he said, "dishonesty on the part of officers, Federal and State, charged with detection of crime and apprehension of violators. The average police officer on the beat should not be condemned. He is generally as honest as his superiors will permit."

"Second, dishonesty on the part of prosecution officers charged with prosecution of offenses in court. There is entirely too much trading and fixing being engaged in by these officers."

"Third, the failure of some judges on the bench to award adequate punishment to those found guilty. Puny fines and sentences, such as ordinarily imposed, utterly fail as a deterrent to crime, and judges responsible are miserably negligent in their duty to properly protect and safeguard society.

New Jersey Seal Counterfeited

"It is not amazing, in the face of these circumstances, that my men found in New Jersey a counterfeiting plant in which the great seal of the State of New Jersey was being counterfeited, to say nothing of counterfeits of various State officials, automobile drivers' licenses and motorboat licenses."

"These things could be bought at a nominal sum as bootleggers and racket kings go. I have turned this material over to the superintendent of the State police for investigation."

"Mickey Duffy and his friend Mercer, tried to monopolize all transportation in New Jersey with the exception of railroads for his nefarious schemes. Without influence, this could not have been attempted."

"It is my intention to padlock every brewery in the State and I will not be compromised. When they ask for a compromise, and they are asking for it, I know they are licked."

Commander Pennington criticised Trenton officials for their delay in investigating the dynamiting of a building which his agents had raided.

"Four of my agents were maimed and one innocent man killed by a bomb which exploded the plant," he said. "That was several months ago and I am still awaiting word from the Trenton authorities as to who installed the plant, and who set off the bomb."

"Disloyal and Dishonest Officials"

"Today as wet propaganda sweeps over our land we see in many cities and areas widespread crime and disregard for all laws. The unholy alliance between corrupt politicians and the underworld, permitted by an indifferent public, is the main reason for the existence of this cancerous growth in our political life."

"Our social fabric is being threatened by those who are grasping at public power that they may turn it to selfish ends, men of known mercenary records are thronging the thrones and chairs of civil power, officers of the law are themselves breaking the law and the very fountainhead of justice is defiled. A highly organized underworld with millions of dollars at its call is delaying and defeating the processes of the courts. The call is just as loud and urgent as the call of war for lovers of this country to come to its aid and end the racketeering that is threatening the entire moral, social and economic structure of our nation."

A Record To Be Proud Of

In normal times the United States has the highest standards of living in the world. And the same is true of depressed times. Temporary conditions may cause unemployment and some decrease in wages—but it will be found that these effects are felt to a lesser degree here than elsewhere.

It is impossible to escape the fact that this is largely attributable to the greater availability of mechanical power per worker in this nation than abroad. In 1930 the United States produced about 41 per cent of the electrical power of the world. The world. The kilowatt-hour production was almost four times that of Germany, the second ranking country, and more than ten times the production of either Great Britain or France. In those countries it is well to point out, government has been an important factor in electrical development, in contrast to this nation where power has been developed through private enterprise.

The United States likewise enjoys an exceptionally low rate for its power. The cost of electricity to the average manufacturer is less than 2.5 per cent of the total value of his products—whereas 30 cents out of each dollar of corporate profits, on the average, go to meet the cost of government. Today one person out of ten is employed by government and in less than 40 years taxes have increased 13 times as rapidly as population, three times as fast as national wealth, and almost twice as fast as our increase in national income. During this period the cost of power has been constantly dropping.

The American electric industry, privately financed and operated, and regulated in the public interest by the states, has made a record to be proud of.

Can't or Won't Pay Taxes

It is claimed that 25 per cent of the real property in a north central state has reverted to the counties because of the inability or disinclination of property owners to pay high taxes. If another 25 per cent is abandoned, which may happen, one-half the land in this state will be taxed to support the other half. Perhaps that would convince state governments that taxation can become confiscatory.
