Council Adopts Progressive Measures

Throwing of Hand Bills Prohibited—New Streets to be Resurfaced

Town Council at a special meeting Monday night passed a resolution making the throwing of waste paper in the streets or the throwing of circulars or price lists in yards, on porches or on the streets unlawful and subject to a fine of $5.

This action of the Council will be of great assistance to the recently appointed "Town Beautiful" committee in its work. Harlow H. Curtis, chairman of the latter committee was before Council and his committee was given authority to purchase five receptacles for waste paper to be placed at different points on Main street. John Pilling, John R. Chapman and George K. Casho were made additional members of the committee. Thursday and Friday have been designated as "Clean Up" days and circulars will be distributed asking every resident to place all rubbish in front of their properties to be hauled away.

Council awarded the contract for reculking the water mains on west Main street from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks to the town line, to Daniel Stoll at his bid of $7.35 a joint. Mr. Stoll was the only bidder. There are about 140 joints to be resulked. Later in the year this street will be macadamized. It was also decided to resurface all the new streets of the town.

E. Clifford Wilson, chairman of a special committee was authorized to have a siren fire whistle shipped here for trial test. If the whistle is satisfactory it will be purchased by Council.

SCHOOL BOARD CONSIDERS TEACHERS

Members of the Board of Education of the Newark schools, at two special meetings during the last week, have considered the appointment of teachers for the next school year. A great deal of time has been given to the subject each teacher's work having been considered separately and carefully. All the appointments have not yet been made. A complete list will be given in a later issue.

College Trustees Meet Monday

Mr. Henry B. Thompson, President of the Board of Trustees of Delaware College, has called a meeting for Monday, May 15 at the Hotel du Pont, Wilmington, for the purpose of accepting the offer of $25,000 for a pension fund. Two new members, Edward A. Evans of Cheswold, and Charles A. Barker of Milford have recently been appointed members of the Board by Governor Miller.

Accepts Position in New York

A. H. Dean, Class of 1914, Delaware College, is visiting friends in Newark. Mr. Dean who for the last year has been with the Aetna Chemical Company, of Drummondville, Canada, has accepted a position with Eimer and Amend of New York.

Agricultural Club to Present Play

On Monday evening, June 12, the members of the Agricultural Club of Delaware College, assisted by local talent, will present Pinero's popular comedy, "Dandy Dick," in the Newark Opera House. The play will be a part of the commencement program.

The "Ag" Club, which has been very successful in its dramatic activities, promises in "Dandy Dick" a play of the highest type and one that will redound to the credit of the college. With Mrs. Herman Tyson as the guiding figure it is not at all unlikely that this comedy will surpass in interest and enjoyability "The Jonah" or "Looking For Mary Jane."

High School Alumni Banquet June Tenth

At a joint meeting of the Advisory Board and Social Committee of the Newark High School Alumni Association, the date for the annual banquet was fixed for June tenth. Details were left in charge of the social committee, Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, chairman, Misses Alice Kerr, Etta Wilson; Messrs. Wilbert Ramsay and Paul Lovett.

Concrete Foundations Complete

The concrete foundations for the 50 x 200 extension of the Ritter Conserve factory was completed today. This addition will be used by the catsup-making industry during the summer, and will later become a part of the bean canning department to be installed late in the fall or early winter.

Walks Backward Across the Continent

Much comment was occasioned last Saturday by the appearance of a man walking backward through the streets of the town. The pedestrian proved to be none other than Patrick Harmon, champion backward walker of the world, accompanied by watchman W. H. Baltazar. Harmon who is aged fifty years is walking to decide a $20,000 wager, from San Francisco to New York. He is accompanied by a watchman to make certain that he walks backward every step of the way. Harmon performs his stunt with the aid of a mirror. His time allowance is 250 days, and at present he is twenty-one days ahead of his 15 mile per day schedule. The two men spent Saturday night in Newark. Harmon will receive for the successful conclusion of his undertaking the sum of $5,000.

Splendid Record At Newark Office

One hundred per cent clerks is the verdict of Postmaster Bowen. W. E. Hoover, Chief Clerk Railway Mail Service, of Washington was here last Thursday and gave an examination to the local clerks.

Best ever is the mark, with Miss Alice H. Davy 100 per cent; F. Irving Crow 100 per cent; William R. Lynam 98.13 per cent.

Agricultural Students Visit Chester Farms

The Junior and Senior classes of the Department of Agriculture will leave tomorrow morning, on the Pomeroy, for a two days stay in Chester county, where they will visit farms around Kennett Square and West Chester. The trip is under the direction of Professor A. E. Grantham, and Mr. Preston, County Agent of Chester county.

Notice---Town Cleaning Day

Council has designated Thursday, May 11th, as the annual Town Cleaning day. Mr. Evan Lewis, Supervisor of the Streets, will have teams out early Thursday to collect the rubbish set out by citizens. Have the material to be hauled away in receptacles on the side walk. Rubbish, tin cans, etc., but no ashes will be accepted. The carts will start at the East End of town Thursday morning. All material not collected on Thursday will be hauled away Friday.

Family From Wilmington Under Partial Quarantine

Contrary to the report circulated on the streets last Friday, no cases of smallpox exist in Newark. The local Board of Health is on the alert, and prepared to adopt all necessary precautionary measures. The rumor originated evidently in the fact that a colored family last week moved from near the infested district in Wilmington to Cleveland avenue. The Board of Health, hearing of the incident, immediately vaccinated the family, and put them under the surveillance of Dr. Ayres, the colored physician.

As a precautionary measure the Board at a meeting on Thursday night adopted a resolution prohibiting property owners from renting to families coming from an infested district, and recommended a general vaccination to the public.

OBITUARY

John W. Dayett

John W. Dayett, aged 79 years, one of the best known citizens of New Castle County, died at his home, Cooch's Bridge last Thursday. He had been in poor health since Christmas and confined to his bed for several weeks. The deceased is survived by his wife and five children, Elwood Dayett of Wilmington, Sherman Dayett of Yeatman's, Pa., Henry L. Dayett of Glasgow, J. Irvin Dayett, and Mrs. Lillie Garrett.

The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon, largely attended by friends and prominent citizens from Wilmington and throughout the county.

Mr. Dayett was born in Pender Hundred where he lived all his life. Learning the trade of miller, he worked with his father at the old mill near Glasgow until 1894 when he purchased the Cooch mill, which he conducted until his retirement a few years ago. The business here under his direction made a remarkable growth, its territory extending to all parts of the county. Aside from his business, he took a very active part in all public affairs of the hundred. Schools, and Salem church had always his interested attention. In politics, he was active and prominent, being for years a Republican leader in the district. He served as Assessor, Representative several years ago, and later as Levy Courtman from his district. Mr. Dayett was made president of that body, which position he held throughout his term. He was also a director of the Newark Trust Company since its organization.

Grading Grounds Of Elliott Property

The old Elliott property adjoining Purnell Hall is being converted into laboratories, for temporary use by Delaware College. The grading of the grounds under the direction of D. Lee Rose, promises to be of great improvement to that section of town.

Bids For Sewer Extension Opened

Smith and Ruggles of Baltimore Submit Lowest Figures

At a meeting of the Newark Sewer Commission held Monday afternoon bids were opened for the proposed sewer extension and Smith and Ruggles, of Baltimore were the lowest bidders. Their bid was slightly less than $10,000. The only other bidder was L. B. Jacobs, of Newark who built the sewer system and disposal plant two years ago. His bid is said to have been about $1,300 above that of the Baltimore firm.

A large portion of the cost of this extension will be paid by Delaware College as it is largely for the benefit of the college that it is to be built. The extension will start on Depot Road at the town limits and go south to a point between the home of Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell and the Women's College. It will then be extended across the college property to Academy street extended, then across to south Chapel street. It will be necessary to put in a pumping station on south Chapel street as the sewage will not run by a gravity there. All the college property purchased last year and also the Women's College will be cared for by this extension. Private property owners along Depot Road and also on south Chapel street will pay their proportionate share of the cost. The contract has not been awarded but the work is to be done during the coming summer.

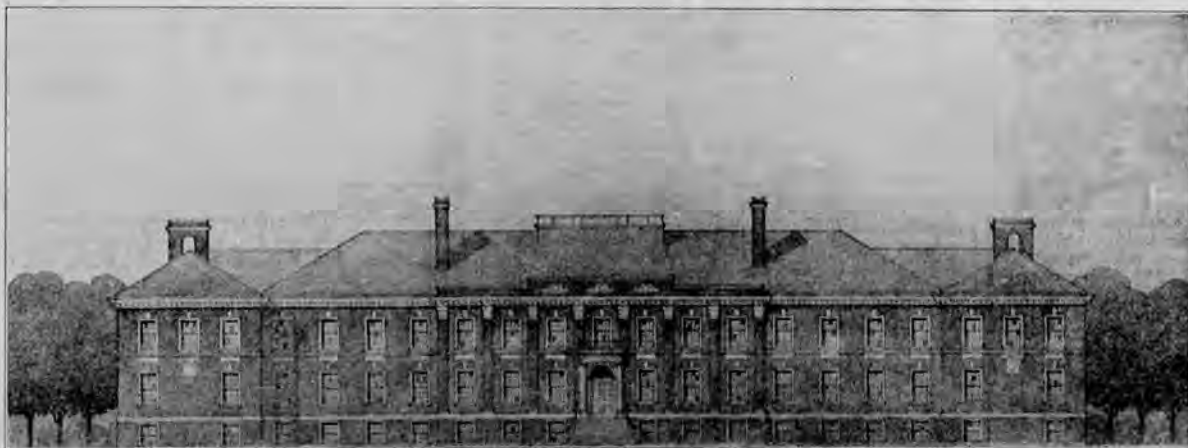

Work Preparatory To Building Begins

Workmen are busy this week razing the frame building adjoining the drug store of G. W. Rhodes, preparatory to the building operations which will be started by Mr. Rhodes in the near future. The new store and apartment will be of gothic type of architecture and one that conforms strictly to the ideals of the Town Beautiful. R. A. Whittingham of Newark is the architect. The plans will be in the hands of contractors within the next ten days.

County Agent Resigns

M. O. Pence, county agent of Kent county, Delaware, has resigned to accept the position of County Agent in Indiana. Mr. Pence has done splendid work in Kent County, and his resignation is accepted with regret. Mr. Pence is making the change on account of the health of his wife, which has not been good since coming to Delaware.

Register of Wills, Isaac R. Brown, of Wilmington, has appointed Thomas B. Haugh as deputy in place of William Lyons Jr., who resigned to become manager for the Morris Plan Company of that city.

VIEW OF WOLF HALL--NEW SCIENCE BUILDING AT DELAWARE COLLEGE

Work on the foundation of the new science building—Wolf Hall—located just off of Delaware avenue, was begun about ten days ago, by Contractor T. R. Claringbold, of Newark. The excavating, it is expected, will be complete by the end of next week, when Contractor Harrison, of Philadelphia will begin on the brick work and main building. The contract for the plumbing, lighting, and heating has not yet been awarded. Mr. Hendrickson, engineer for

Day and Klauder, architects, spent Tuesday of last week going over with the agricultural department, and Professors Penny and Houghton, the equipment of the building. The entire agricultural department, and the departments of Chemistry and Biology will be housed in the new building. The Committee on New Buildings in charge of the work is made up of the following members of the Board of Trustees of Delaware College: Governor Charles R. Miller, H. R. Sharpe, H. C. Bancroft, H. M. Barksdale, H. B. Thompson, and Dr. S. C. Mitchell. The building complete is to cost $250,000.

SAFETY FIRST SPECIAL PULLS IN AT B. & O.

Over Three Thousand Visit
Government Exhibit

Newark turned out in force, three thousand and fifty strong, to visit the government "Safety First" train, that pulled in on the B. & O. siding last Thursday. An additional two thousand witnessed the open air moving pictures given in the evening.

The government at Washington, realizing the inability of the masses of American citizens to visit the national capital, and see the work being done for their protection by the various departments, through the co-operation of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has adopted the plans of bringing the working of the government to the very doors of the people. It is a wonderful educational campaign, which cannot fail to win the appreciation of everyone.

The Government Safety First Special is composed of twelve modern steel coaches, furnished by the B. & O. railroad. It contains a quarter of a mile of exhibits illustrating the work of the government for the protection of its citizens. The car started from Philadelphia where it was inspected by thousands on Monday and Tuesday. Seven thousand visited the car in Chester on Wednesday.

The idea of the car originated during the Safety First Exposition held in Washington last February, when President Wilson and members of his cabinet expressed amazement at all the work that was being done, along this line by the government. The exhibits in one car were furnished by the Department of the Interior, especially the Bureau of Mines. All the rescue apparatus worn by miners and members of rescue crews were shown. There is the oxygen apparatus that permits men to go into gases that would otherwise be killing, also the canary birds that are sent ahead of the men to see if it is safe to venture in a certain zone. One veteran canary on the car had been partially asphyxiated eleven times.

The work of the Reclamation Service is represented by the model of a farm out in the plains. Beautiful colored transparencies show the irrigated country and the work of the department charged with reclaiming the great American desert. The National Park Service is represented by more beautiful transparencies. The exhibit emphasized the fact that Americans previous to the war have been spending $100,000,000 annually in Europe, a sum which is large enough to actually figure in trade conditions. The wonderful scenery of the United States is brought to the attention of the public.

One of the most interesting exhibits is that of the Health Bureau, under the supervision of the Treasury Department. The purpose of the exhibit is to show methods of sanitation in the rural sections. In the cities where there is careful supervision of the water supply, the sewage etc., the exhibit revealed, the death rate has been lowered practically fifty per cent in the last ten years. In rural districts where there is little supervision the death rate is practically at a stand still. Methods of eliminating yellow fever and reducing tuberculosis, were also demonstrated.

The Coast Guard service, under the Navy Department, is also an interesting feature. A full sized surf boat is exhibited, the beach cart, the breeches buoy, the gun that throws the rope etc. The Army and Navy Departments had two cars for their exhibits. A portable wireless was immediately installed, soon after the car pulled in at Newark and representatives reported at headquarters several times during the stay at the local station. According to a recent ruling every vessel carrying fifty persons, must be equipped with the wireless service. In these cars is the model of an aeroplane, the Whitehead torpedo, similar to those used by the German submarines, which cost from $4000 to $12000 each, a working model of a small engine, a miniature block signal system, and practically all of the safety devices by which the railroads have reduced the deaths from coupling cars alone, in the last ten years from 40 to 6 per cent. There is also a model of the pre-dreadnought, Vermont, an exhibit of the army engineering work, the portable appliance for purifying water, which can be packed on

Absolutely free from adulterants and fillers. Just like the feed you would mix for yourself, is a special combination of choice cottonseed meal, dried beet pulp, gluten feed, corn distillers' grains, wheat bran, wheat middlings and a little salt, that's all; each ingredient weighed by automatic scales and all thoroughly mixed in huge power-driven mixers, so that it is always absolutely uniform, and always good. An extra quart or two of milk daily from each cow may turn a loss into a profit. Try LARRO-FEED for more profits. Sold on a plan of "money back if you are not satisfied."

Planet Junior Service

THE PLANET JUNIOR is one thing that the whole world agrees upon.

In England, Germany, France, and Italy, peasant women are working with Planet Juniors, while the men are fighting the Battle of Kings. In Australia, South Africa, as well as all over this country, Planet Junior is a term known to all good gardeners.

What does this mean? Easy, why it means that time and service have proven it to be the best. Aside from its worth, it makes gardening a pleasure. Whether a small plot or a field of garden products, this Planet Junior is a leader.

War prices, scarcity of labor,---all call to the least amount of work.

Get a Planet---save money and enjoy yourself.

GLORY ENOUGH FOR ALL

In nearly all the discussions relating to the growth and development of Newark and its increasing influence, the College is forced prominently as the dominant figure. This is only in part true and its repetition will eventually react against the town.

This was brought very forcibly to our attention by a business visitor. "You must admit," said he, "that Newark is only a College town and will ever so remain. As such, it can be nothing else."

His statement shows very clearly he was a stranger. Being such, we did not resent his words but we did very strongly disagree. Newark is a college town, true, but decidedly something more. No one, we think, will accuse us of disloyalty to the College when we point out other institutions, upon which the wonderful growth of Newark is based. The increase of 62 per cent population at the last census, the largest of any town in the state, was not the result of College growth but due to the manufacturers, who by investment of capital, had offered work for high class mechanics. The Curtis Paper Mills, the Vulcanized Fibre, and more recently the Continental Fibre and Jacob Thomas Company—these are the staple institutions in greater part responsible for the growth of Newark. Again, several citizens have by investments developed real estate, attracting the home seeker. The town is improving the streets, the sewer, the fire department, and these improvements are being projected in major part by citizens who have little or no relations with the College. The business, the working man's dollar, the investments, the money passing over the counter and in the Savings Department of our Banks—these represent a very material part of the growth of Newark. And these, too, represent, in no small part, the movement for improvements. Take the Newark Trust Company, the activities of the Fire Company, the increase capacities of our industries—take the men back of these and you will find cause for much of our recent progress.

We do not wish to minimize in any way the importance and influence of the College. We express, not only our own opinion, but that of the general citizenship, when we say Newark is proud of the institution. We are glad that the community has the advantages of association with students coming from over the State and professors from over the country. With such, we should be an exceptionally broad-minded community, liberal in our views. But on the other hand, we do not want the College to overshadow the work of our other institutions and citizens. To them much credit is due in making the real Newark what it is. Upon them we must rely greatly on what is must become. These men are proud to have the College, and too the state is to be congratulated that the College is located in such surroundings.

So Newark is a town of institutions, among which the College is most certainly prominent. But in extolling its praises, let us not forget a word for those who are doing so much for Newark in other fields of endeavor and are active in making the life and surroundings befitting the modern idea of a growing and progressive community.

TOWN BEAUTIFUL CAMPAIGN

A Town Beautiful Committee is at least a concrete fact. Such a representative body has been urged for years, but until E. N. Vallandigham gave the movement the force of his personality, the idea never seemed to take.

The duties of this Committee are advisory. It will act as a sort of Clearing House of ideas tending to add to the beauty and cleanliness of the town. As such it can render valuable service. The real work, however, is to be done by the citizens themselves. A little co-operation, the kindly exchange of ideas, a little energy—and Newark will work marvelous results.

The Committee has met, organized and laid out a definite line of work. Not too ambitious at first, the campaign has brought out concrete things to be accomplished.

The Post has given space to the Publicity Committee which will edit its own Department. All comments and announcements made herein will be official. Other items, comments and observations will be on our own responsibility.

THE HONOR OF THE PARTY

The management and conduct of party affairs in Wilmington are of small interest to us in the rural districts, except in so far as they affect party principles and party success. We consider their differences as none of our business, unless their contests are so conducted as to reflect on the honesty and dignity of that party of which we pride ourselves as a member.

Reports from the squabble of the recent convention are more than local moments and are becoming too serious to pass unnoticed. While Wilmington may say this is their own fight, it is most certainly of vital concern to us and every Republican worthy of the name. The charges made against the recent primary there, reflect on the party as a whole, unless we nail those responsible. Law or no law, the Republican party certainly stands for no such methods as public accusations have placed on record. Nor have these accusations been refuted. It is no time for silence. The charge should be either answered or those accused forced from party councils. It is up to the Republicans of Wilmington to clear up this situation to the satisfaction of an honest voting public. Rural New Castle is firm in its conviction that the National Delegates going to Chicago do not represent the choice of the people. But that is neither here nor there—the question now is for Wilmington to clear up this situation, which to good Republicans, tends to lower party standards and hinders evil.

SAFETY FIRST EXHIBIT

The Safety First train, which attracted such attention here last week, came to Newark through the request of Dr. Harter. The crowd that attended expresses the appreciation of the community. One of the officials of the train expressed his surprise at the number who visited the car. Again he said, it was exceptional to find the people so alert and eager for all the information possible.

We should like very much to see such an exhibit here at the State College. Of course it could not be so complete, but much of the equipment would be easily available. It would certainly be both interesting and instructive to visitors.

KELLS

The finest hand illuminated book in existence is at the University of Dublin, Ireland. The work was done by a monk called Columba, in the sixth century. It consists of the Four Gospels and stories of the life and times in which it was written. The design, the colorings, the technique make it a masterpiece. It is called

THE BOOK OF KELLS.

Town Beautiful Sweepings

"Clean up your own back-yard" promises to be a popular air this season.

There are several properties in Newark that would justly be a credit to any Town Beautiful—and some that wouldn't.

In the Campaign, we should like to call attention to the Continental Fibre Company grounds. Here is a manufacturing plant that looks like the resident district except that the back yard is as clean as the front.

Don't think for a minute that the Committee is going to do it all. Council must back them up.

In response to inquiry of member of Council who has just heard of the term "Town Beautiful," we wish to go on record: "Yes the Post will support the movement."

Also, in order that a prominent citizen may the better sleep, who wanted to know what business we had on a Newark Committee, we wish to say, we resigned that we might the better express ourselves on the appearance of his back yard.

With Professor McCue and J. P. Wright on the Tree Committee, we see a halt on Tree Butchering.

The way they improve pavements down in Sussex towns is that Council passes an ordinance to put in cement pavements within the town limits. The work must be done within 30 days by the property holder or the town takes the job and places a lien against the property. It takes nerve. But then Sussex has nerve enough for anything. Newark can't expect to do that yet. This is only a refutation to the cry "It can't be done." It can, you know. It is, however, not wise here—just yet.

PEOPLES' COLUMN

Letters Forwarded To The Town Beautiful Committee

Newark has every encouragement in its aspiration to be the Town Beautiful. Lovely in location and encircled by a fine farming country, a College town with inspiring traditions, it may readily become, through co-operation, a community ideal from the standpoint of health, beauty and civic spirit.

A good beginning has already been made, such as the lawns about many gracious homes, and beautiful park places around the stations of both railroads. The Campus of the College with its pleasing approach of linden trees, is the center of enduring affections and memories. But the prospect of the new Court with its trees and walks and new buildings upon every side, is something to gladden the heart.

of every citizen of Newark, and make his share in all the joyous impulses leading to the development of Old Delaware.

I saw recently unrolled the long scroll of the complete plans for the new campus stretching from Frazer Field southward beyond the Women's College. The architect's drawings enabled one to forecast the loveliness that will become an everyday feature in the life of the students and citizens of Newark.

It delights one to think what progress our community has made in recent years, such as a fine system of water works, sewerage, and an excellent pavement on Main Street. Other improvements will follow as a matter of course. Few of us begin to appreciate what an asset to Newark is the old Academy with its precious history. Some day an architect may be called upon to model this historic building so as to preserve at once its traditions and yet adapt it to the needs of a modern high school. There are great possibilities in such a plan when the time comes.

In view of these developments, I congratulate our community upon the appointment of a Town Beautiful Committee consisting of such representative citizens as Harlow H. Curtis, Everett C. Johnson, Dr. W. J. Rowan, Professor Charles A. McCue, George W. Rhodes, J. P. Wilson, Professor C. A. Short, State Senator Harvey Hoffer, J. P. Wright, and Edward L. Richard. The committee faces a task that is feasible and attractive. Back of the committee stands the constructive citizenship of the community.

To the Editor of the Newark Post—

I want to express my hearty sympathy with the "Newark Town Beautiful Movement." I think it the finest thing that has claimed the attention of Newark since I have been associated with its interests. The committee appointed by the Town Council to direct this movement is an especially strong one and should commend itself to every individual citizen of the town. In behalf of the Public Schools I pledge these gentlemen the active support and co-operation of both teachers and pupils. During the remaining month of this school term we can do much, for our boys and girls, when once stirred will be proud to have a part in making Newark the model town it ought to be.

R. F. Friedel.

Hon. E. C. Johnson,
My dear Sir—

As you are one of the committee to make the town beautiful I take the liberty of making a few suggestions. First I want to congratulate you on building such a (continued on page 8)

SCOUTS IN ACTION

Meeting at Armory and Hike to Iron Hill

On May 5, local Boy Scouts held their first meeting in the Armory. After a little squad drill, Lieut. McKeon explained the use and care of the army rifle. The Signal Corps practiced sending semaphore and Continental Codes. First aid to the injured was also practiced.

The following officers were appointed: Senior Patrol Leader—Clarence Evans. Junior Patrol Leader: Johnson Rowan and Joe Willis. Scribe—Cleaver Price. Treasurer—James Longfellow. Musicians—Newman Rose.

On Saturday, May 6, twenty-seven members of Troop 2 hiked to Iron Hill, under the leadership of Senior Scoutmaster Tarr. The boys left the Armory at 2 p. m., arriving at their destination about 5 o'clock, after some time spent in practicing long distance signalling and other Scout activities.

Prof. Elliot accompanied the Troop and identified many wild flowers for the boys. A kildeer's nest, containing four eggs was discovered, but was left untouched by the Scouts. At dusk, a whippoorwill began to sing, calling "whip-poor-will" over a hundred times without intermission.

After the Scouts had eaten their supper, a couple of the boys secured a raft and paddled around in the pond, creating much fun, when the raft nearly upset.

The Boy Scout's knowledge of first aid proved valuable, when Scout Hayes tumbled down the side of the pit, and sprained his ankle. The injured ankle was bathed in cold water, and then, wrapped tightly with a roller bandage, after which it was again bathed in cold water.

The troop arrived at home about 9 p. m., tired but happy.

Cleaver Price, Scribe.

Activity Among S. S. Pupils

The Presbyterian Sunday School has been divided recently into three divisions designated as the Reds, the Whites, and the Blues. The object is a campaign for increased membership. "The Blues" were entertained by the officers of the school, on Monday evening. About one hundred were present and the delightful social evening was enjoyed by everyone. A musical program was furnished by Joseph Swartz, the Misses Ritz, and Miss Burnite.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served at the conclusion of the evening's entertainment.

The regular monthly social evening of the entire Sunday School will be held in the lecture room this Friday. The classes of Miss Jennie Smith and Mr. Herbert Hitchens will play hosts on the occasion. Contrary to the usual custom an admission of fifteen cents will be charged. A cordial invitation to everyone.

College Students Debate On Thursday

The first intercollegiate debate held in the Oratory for several years is that scheduled for Thursday evening, May 11th, when Delaware will meet St. John's for the second time this season, the local team having been defeated at Annapolis early in the winter. The subject for debate is "Resolved, That the Federal Government should compel every able-bodied male citizen between the ages of 18 and 24 years to take, under adequate provisions, at least one year military or naval training."

Delaware will defend the affirmative and St. John the negative side of the proposition. The debate is the result of a campaign by the Athanasian and Delta Phi Literary Societies, for a revival of interest in this form of student activity. The college will be represented by Messrs. Levey, M. Carswell, and Terry Mitchell. Alternate, M. R. Mitchell. A feature of the meeting will be the music under the direction of E. W. Martin. The orchestra will in-

NO DANGER IN THE BUSINESS SECTION

Shoppers Need Not Stay Away From Wilmington

Just a few words regarding the smallpox situation in Wilmington. It should be remembered there is not, nor has there been commercial, it is still more for an epidemic of smallpox in Wilmington. The total number of cases reported to the end of last week was thirty-one, and of these several have already been cured. Much publicity has been given to the outbreak to impress local citizens that they should co-operate to prevent the situation becoming serious in any respect. The medical authorities unanimously agree that the precautionary measures were entirely successful. The Health Officers with the assistance of the Police, worked night and day to maintain the quarantine regulations in every infected section and effectively checked the spread of the disease.

Further, it should be remembered that practically all of the smallpox patients have been removed to a properly quarantined hospital several miles from the city, and that this course was pursued as rapidly as cases of the disease were discovered.

It cannot be too clearly understood that the stringent measures which were taken, such as closing the schools, theaters and saloons were precautionary measures only. The best medical opinion of the city agrees that with such thorough effort to prevent the further spread of the disease there should be no hesitancy on the part of anyone to visit Wilmington at the present time for the transaction of business.

THE LANGUAGE OF THE HONEY BEE

By Rev. Joel S. Gilfillan

Note. The following article on "The Language of the Honey Bee," by the Reverend Joel S. Gilfillan appeared in the Post six years ago. The article attracted much attention at the time, and since then the author has received numerous requests for his one copy, which has quite worn out. A few days ago Dr. Gilfillan was visited by Mr. John J. Darg, Field Agent of the Department of Agriculture of Washington, who was in search of information on bees for the Department. A letter, written by Mr. Darg, indicating his appreciation has been received at this office. We therefore reprint the article in response to the interest of the public.

Can bees talk? Well, I should say they can. Some might argue that the bee's tongue does not swing right for speech or the lips are not flexible enough or some other lack of conformity to the requirements of speech. But all the same, the bee can and does communicate with other bees and with the bee-keeper. The bee-keeper will soon learn some of the expressions if he will keep his ears open and it will be well for him to make it a point to become acquainted with the language of the bee in the very early stages of his bee-keeping experience, or he may suffer on account of his ignorance. What language does the bee speak? Why, of course, the universal language. No, not Volapuk, nor Esperanto; a better universal language than either of these, and one that is more easily learned. I do not think anybody has yet analyzed the language or made any attempt to record its limitations or its extent. While the knowledge of the language is not merely commercial, it is studied more for the comfort and safety of the bee-keeper than for any monetary value that may be attached to it. Language is only a series of signs—thence signs have a certain significance to a certain number of people who agree upon these signs, and who use them often enough to keep them in memory. But they are nothing to other people outside of that circle. The different nations have a different set of signs. And the language of any nation changes until a later generation can scarcely understand the signs of their forefathers.

The language of the bee has come down through the ages in perfect purity. It is the same in America as in Italy or Egypt. And the same among all tribes of bees—the Italian, the Caucasian, the German—all speak the same language with the same accent and the same tone.

A colony of bees presents the most beautiful and perfect picture of a happy and prosperous kingdom. A kingdom where all take an active part in the administration of the affairs of the kingdom and where all agree upon an equitable division of labor and all partake of the general prosperity. Such a condition could not well exist in the colony if the bees did not have some way to communicate with each other. Every bee-keeper soon becomes acquainted with a few of the phrases which are of most frequent use among the bees. The first expression that it is wise for to know and understand is that of anger. An angry bee like an angry man or woman, should be alone. Whether the bee uses cuss words is not fully determined, but the sound is just as distinct as a man's swearing is on his words and tones of love. And when the bees are talking together in the words and tones of anger, it is best to get away and let them alone. Sometimes two colonies will get into a quarrel among themselves and are fighting their own troubles just as man beings sometimes get into trouble with one another, and the recent bee-keeper comes along at that time; now if he understands the language of the bees he will not tarry long, but if he could be ignorant of the language he might possibly get mixed up in the little quarrel before he knows it.

Another sound expressing a warning of impending calamity is distinct and easily recognized. It will be given when approaching a hive we drive a cloud of smoke across the entrance. The bees on guard at the entrance fly into the hive with a peculiar sound well known to every bee-keeper, and the whole colony is thrown into commotion. If calamity overtakes them their hope rests in being able to re-establish themselves after the calamity is past. To do this it will be necessary for them to be able to build comb. To build comb it is necessary for them to have plenty of honey. For honey is the material from which comb is built. Consequently, when the cry warning of calamity comes the worker bees dive into the cells and fill themselves up with honey. This is also the secret of being able to handle the bees. The worker bees are the ones that ordinarily would sting, but now they are so busy filling up with honey that they take no notice of you and there is little danger to be feared from the other bees that go on with the work of the hives as if nothing unusual was going on.

Another part of their language that is quite well understood is the expression of sorrow.

If you should take the queen away from a colony it would only be a few moments until every one of the 50,000 or more bees in the colony would know it, and there would take place immediately a most sad scene. The bees would set up a wail of sorrow—the sound of a sad and solemn dirge. They would run to and fro in disorder. They would run out of their hive, climb its sides and fly off as if seeking her in the air. Both the sound and the sight is clearly significant of deep sorrow.

Again their expression of joy is just as distinct. Should you return the queen to them, her return would be immediately heralded with evident delight. Their sorrow would be turned into joy, and the sound would indicate the change as distinctly as any words could express.

The language of activity is also clear and easily learned. We have heard of the busy little bee. He is not always busy. Sometimes there is little work to be had. Hard times press them. They must economize their stores of food. Probably it is the apple blossom season; the rains keep them in; the cold weather chills them. Their home is full of young brood that must be protected and fed. They are at their wit's end. They come out at the entrance look around and go back and report no work. There will be few apples this year unless the weather changes. Then the sun comes out and a few bees go out and come back laden with nectar, and the whole hive becomes a scene of intense activity and the sound of happy workers greets the ear.

Or it may be in white clover time. The weather is cold and chilly. No nectar is flowing. The bees go out and return empty handed. The activity of the bees ceases—the work stands still. Then a slight change in temperature. The nectar begins to flow. A few bees go out with a half hope, when lo, they soon are filled with the new nectar and hurry home; immediately the whole hive becomes active. Every bee that can be spared is sent out to gather the nectar and the sound of earnest work in the bee kingdom is apparent. The change is as different as the sound of the mill that has been standing idle because the mill race was empty now resounds with the sound of the whirling wheels as the water rushes over the driving wheel.

A little incident occurred once, which illustrates how bees talk. I went out on Sunday afternoon and noticed that one colony was having a grand time. The other colonies were all quiet. But this colony was all commotion. The bees were rushing out and making a bee line in a certain direction and coming back as heavily laden with honey that they could scarcely make the lighting board. A bee from that hive had discovered a feast over at a neighbor's apiary and had come home and reported the find and they were industriously carrying the honey home.

As the owner of that apiary came along the next morning, I called to him and said, "You had a picnic among the bees, yesterday." "Why," he said, "how did you know?" My bees told me," I said, "one of my colonies succeeded in getting an invitation." He could not understand, but acknowledged that one of his hives had melted down and the honey melted down and ran out on the bottom board and that was what my bees had found.

Probably the most delightful of all the sounds that express the feelings of the bees is that of harvest time. It is the "Hum,"

Sweet Hum" of the honey bee. When the nectar is flowing freely and all day long the bees are coming loaded down and the bees that are building comb can scarcely get the cells built fast enough to store the nectar, there is a continued song both day and night, expressive of happy contentment, and of peace and joy.

During the whole night the hive is a scene of great activity. The process of ripening the honey goes on; the testers examine the filled cells, and as soon as they are sufficiently ripened they are ordered sealed over. For no unripe honey is ever sealed. And the most accurate of all chemists must pass upon it before it is sealed. Spurred on with the hopes of a continued harvest the next day they industriously build more comb in which to store it. The deep sounded "hum sweet hum" can be heard throughout the night, during the height of the harvest at quite a distance from the apiary.

These are just a part of the wonderful language of the bees.

Dwelling Fired By Lightning

Lightning on Thursday night fired the home of J. H. Ellis at Woodland, near Seaford, destroying the dwelling with all its contents. The bolt entered through the roof and passed through the dining room where three persons were severely shocked but escaped serious injury. The flames spread rapidly and though neighbors rallied they could save nothing. The loss is put at $3000.

Night Blaze At Selbyville

Selbyville had another fire scare last Tuesday evening when a blaze caused by a spark from the smokestack broke out in the mill of the Delaware Lumber Company. The building was destroyed. The loss is put at $14,000, it is said, with no insurance. Two loaded freight cars on a siding were also destroyed. The business center of the town was wiped out by fire on the night of February 13.

Elkton's Chautaugua will open on June 6 and close on June 12. The town council has set this week for "Clean up Week" in view of the Chautaugua's approach.

fine printing establishment from which the Post is to radiate in the future, and to wish you great success. Should I in addressing you ever make the mistake in using the letter H in place of the broken back K, I hope you will not consider it intentional on my part, as we all know that your smooth and placid nature does not admit of the fiery elements which Mark Twain says so many possess on "their way to the everlasting tropics." The first step made toward making the town beautiful was in cutting down the trees on North College Avenue and widening the street, and making a macadam street and concrete walks to Prospect Avenue. I would suggest that you ask Council to grade Cleveland Avenue. When this street was laid out by Wm. Dean and the writer it was not all of it in the town limits, and was not graded. The trees were planted then by the writer. These will have to be cut down, and the pavement lowered several feet to conform to the grade of the town. This should be done at once and new trees planted and the Council should pass an ordinance that all pavements in the future should be made of concrete. A concrete walk on South College Avenue from the main street to the old depot should also be made and with proper effort I think the property owners would assist in doing it. The college I presume will do this on their land. The town of North East in Maryland has a concrete walk from the station to the town and we should have as much enterprise as North East. Trees of one kind should in my judgment be planted—the Norway, although of slow growth, makes a beautiful tree. The row of trees opposite the old depot I think are sufficient evidence of this. I wish the committee great success in helping to make the town beautiful.

Yours very truly,

T. F. Armstrong.
