JAMES PENDLETON (COLORED) GOES ON RAMPAGE SAT. NIGHT

Chased Over Maryland Line When Captured in Stolen Car

A combination of liquor and jealousy, last Saturday night, started James Pendleton, negro of this town, on a rampage that ended in a police chase to the Maryland line and a tangle of fines, charges and jail sentences with ramifications in two states.

Pendleton was arrested by Captain Ray, of the State Police, and Officer Cunningham, of the Newark police, after a chase to a point just over the State line in Maryland. Pendleton, among other things, is accused of having assaulted William Lloyd with a fork, commandeering an automobile and driving while drunk.

He was fined $100 and costs in Elkton when arraigned on charges of driving while drunk and operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner. In default of fine, he was committed to the Elkton jail for 130 days, after which, it was stated, he will be returned to Newark to answer at least four charges growing out of his escapade. He was recently paroled from the New Castle County Workhouse in a shooting episode in November of 1930, when he shot James Burton, negro, of Newark. Violation of his parole and consequent recommitment is but one of the difficulties he faces on his return to Delaware.

The affair last Saturday, started, police said, at the home of Sarah Gaston, negress, with whom Pendleton is said to have been associating. It was stated that he resented the attentions to the Gaston woman of Bill Lambert, negro. After calling on the woman, he encountered William Lloyd in the street in front of the home and, mistaking him for Lambert, attacked him with a fork, cutting Lloyd's lip and inflicting serious lacerations to his face.

He then ran down the street, it was charged, and accosted William Miller, negro, who was driving an automobile.

"I'm the law," he yelled. "Get out; I want this auto."

Miller obeyed and Pendleton drove off in the direction of Elkton. During the chase to the State line, it was charged, Pendleton's car forced one operated by C. W. McPowell, of Elkton, off the road, causing it to overturn twice. McDowell was uninjured. Damage to the car was estimated at $50.

Elkton police, who had been notified, met the Delaware police just as they were arresting Pendleton. They took him to Elkton where he was immediately given a hearing. Before his arrest he also struck a car owned by Isaac N. Buchanan, Chesapeake City.

Upon his return to Newark, Magistrate Thompson stated, he will probably be charged with larceny of an automobile, assault and battery, driving while under the influence of liquor and driving a motor vehicle without an operator's license, in addition to the parole violation.

The Newark end of the affair was investigated by Officers Cunningham and Hill.

Prof. Broadus Mitchell Cites "Backward Conditions" of Eastern Shore

Results of an investigation of the lynching at Salisbury, Md., December 4, were made public Monday by the Federal Council of Church of Christ in America.

The investigation was made by Prof. Broadus Mitchell, of the department of political economy, Johns Hopkins University, acting in behalf of the Federal Council's Commission on Race Relations. Professor Mitchell is a son of Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell, former president of the University of Delaware, and is a graduate of that institution.

His investigation, which reveals what the report terms "backward conditions" resulting from "geographical isolation," "lack of civic morality," and need of an "active local interracial committee," was made during a Friday to Sunday visit in Salisbury, two weeks after the lynching.

The press release of the Federal Council of Churches follows:

"The investigation had to do with the hanging and burning of Matthew Williams, a mentally defective Negro, who had shot and killed his employer and who, after trying to kill himself, was taken from the Salisbury Hospital, hanged and burned. Professor Mitchell's study, according to the report issued, attempted to discover the conditions in the community which made a lynching possible and the effects of the lynching upon the attitudes of the citizens.

"As a contributory factor, Professor Mitchell cited the geographical isolation of the community, resulting in rather backward conditions. The chief explanation given by the residents of the community for the lynching was that two serious crimes in which Negroes were accused had occurred in the locality shortly before, and had aroused public feeling.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom to call from our midst Mrs. Lillian H. Bunting, a beloved and helpful member of the Societies of Fline Hill M. E. Church, we have suffered the loss of a beautiful Christian character, a life full of loving service to others.

"Her thoughts were all so full of us, She never could forget; And so I think that where she is She must be watching yet."

Waiting till we come home to her, Anxious if we are late— Watching from Heaven's window, Leaning from Heaven's gate."

Therefore be it Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family who have sustained such a great loss, and send them a copy of these resolutions, and sometimes feel that we have heard the invisible door.

As they passed where life's problems uncertain

Will follow and vex them no more;

We lingered and wept on the threshold,

The threshold each mortal must cross;

Then we laid a new wreath down upon it

To mark a new sorrow and loss."

Mrs. Geo. W. Bland,

Mrs. Mary J. Pierson,

Mrs. H. I. Garrett.

ENTER VALLEY FORGE THE VALE OF EXTREME SACRIFICE. IN THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION / WASHINGTON WENT INTO WINTER QUARTERS JUST BEFORE CHRISTMAS IN 1777. HIS MEN WERE POORLY CLOTHED AND MANY WERE SUFFERING FROM WOUNDS RECEIVED AT BRANDYWINE AND GERMANTOWN. BLOOD STAINED FOOTPRINTS MARKED THE WAY FROM WHITEMAN'S AND THE MEN TOOK REFUGE FROM WINTER BLASTS IN HUTS.

THERE IS A STORY TO THE EFFECT THAT WASHINGTON, TOUCHED TO HIS VERY SOUL BY THE SUFFERING OF HIS MEN WENT INTO THE WOODS TO PRAY FOR AID. JOHN POTTS, THE OWNER OF A FINE HOUSE IN VALLEY FORGE CAME UPON WASHINGTON AND UNSEEN HEARD HIS PLEA. POTTS WAS SO STRUCK BY THE SINCERITY OF WASHINGTON THAT IN TELLING OF THE INCIDENT HE SAID, "THAT MAN MUST CONQUER IN THE END." HE THEREUPON OFFERED HIS FINE HOUSE TO WASHINGTON AS HEADQUARTERS.

Benjamin Franklin, One of America's Greatest Sons

On January 17 occurred the 226th anniversary of a great American who should not be forgotten amid the nation's tribute to George Washington this year; for this noted American was not only a glory to our history but without him Washington might not have been able to achieve our independence.

This great American was Benjamin Franklin, who became, next to George Washington, the best known American of the 18th century. Wherever enlightened men gathered during Franklin's lifetime, they accounted him foremost in philosophy, politics, and diplomacy, and to this day his name is secure in history as that of a pioneer in science.

Franklin was one of the most versatile men of our history. His clear thinking and good common sense won him from everywhere. As for his winning personality, it proved a tremendous asset to the American cause. The final victories of Washington on the battlefield would never have been possible but for Franklin's skill in the field of diplomacy and his ultimate winning of the French nation to America's side.

Benjamin Franklin was born in Boston, on January 17, 1706, the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission reminds us. His father wanted him to learn the trade of candle-making, an occupation that he disliked so much that he threatened to revolt. To forestall his running away to sea, the boy Franklin was apprenticed to his half-brother, James, a printer; and here Franklin's rapid self-education got its start. In his brother's shop he met intelligent people, he eagerly read the best books, and he soon tried his hand at writing for his brother's newspaper, called the "first sensational sheet in America."

Quarreling with his brother, Franklin set out for Philadelphia at the age of 17, to make his own way. There he soon caught the attention of Governor Keith at whose suggestion he went to London. There, in spite of many hardships, he soon obtained employment and his agreeable personality brought him many influential friends. One of them, a Quaker merchant named Denham, offered Franklin a job in a store that he planned to open in Philadelphia. Within a short time Denham died and Franklin again was without a job, but his next step was important.

With Hugh Meredith he established a printing shop in Philadelphia and in ten years he had made it the most important business of its kind in the country. Next he bought the Pennsylvania Gazette, which soon gained a circulation of 10,000 and became one of the outstanding papers of the time. In this paper he began those pithy maxims to be gathered under the title of "Poor Richard's Almanac," which lives today in lasting fame.

Meanwhile Franklin's interest and activities had broadened in every direction. He founded the American Philosophical Society, organized the first fire company in Philadelphia, and became the city's postmaster and clerk of the Pennsylvania Assembly. His interest in science also developed, and he invented a stove and began those experiments in electricity which have made his name a household word in the scientific world.

Every schoolboy knows the story of Franklin's suspicion that the lightningbolt was simply a larger specimen of the spark he drew from a Leyden jar. He proved the likeness with his historic experiment of the kite and the key during a thunder-storm. The invention of the lightning-rod soon followed.

Franklin's diplomatic feats make too long a list for a newspaper column, but it was he who first sought to bind the Colonies together in union. He performed many saving services for the Colonies before the Revolution, and during that struggle his influence in France provided the factor that turned the Revolution to victory for America.

Even at 81, Franklin's deeds for his country were not yet ended, for in 1787 he performed the culminating service of his long and great career with the fitting act of becoming a member of the Convention that wrote the Constitution.

Throughout his life he was a devoted admirer of George Washington, and the friendship of these two men is one of the fairest pages in early American history. On his death, on April 17, 1790, Franklin willed his name to Washington, with the famous words: "My fine crab-tree walking stick, with a gold head curiously wrought in the form of a cap of liberty, I give to my friend and the friend of mankind, General Washington. If it were a sceptre, he has merited it and would become it."

ALWAYS KEEP YOUR EYES AND MIND ON TRAFFIC

"Safety Sally" in her weekly appearance before the Delaware public says, "You'll smash your finger if you try driving a nail without keeping your eye on it. Driving a car requires the same concentration. Always keep your eyes and mind on traffic—or you'll smash more than your finger."

First and foremost, constant attention to the business of driving is paramount. The lapse of one second's vigilance may wreck your car, kill a person or cause serious property damage. Keep your hand on the wheel, your mind alert and focused on the job of driving. If you must talk with your companion don't take your eyes off the road.

Become thoroughly experienced in driving before you drive in traffic. Ability to drive one car does not necessarily qualify you to drive other cars. If you have to change cars from day to day get sufficient experience with each one to drive it well anywhere. Never permit an inexperienced companion to drive in traffic nor let anyone drive from the side seat.

Small children should sit in the rear of the car. They should never be held in or between the arms of the driver. Safe driving demands your full and undivided attention.

Don't dream while driving. Inattention causes accidents.

Berlin Considers Naming Street For George Washington

Through the Department of State, the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission has been notified by Honorable Frederic M. Sackett, American Ambassador, at Berlin, that the officials of the German capital are considering a plan to name one of the principal squares or streets of the city in honor of George Washington.

An article in a recent issue of "8 Uhr Abend Blatt," one of Berlin's prominent newspapers, contains the following statement:

"The Berlin Carl Schurz Association has requested the City of Berlin to name a square or street in Berlin for George Washington. The Underground Construction Department of the Municipal Council proposes the square in front of the Lehrter Bahnhof for the purpose. The Tiergarten District Court, which is competent in the matter, has given its approval."

"The Lehrter Bahnhof is located near the future site of the American Embassy and is also the railway station most used by travelers to America, as the lines to Hamburg, Lubeck, and Bremen start from this station. Therefore this square is best suited for the new name. Probably the Municipal Council of the City of Berlin will have no objection to naming the square for George Washington either."

Living Cost Farmer $50 In 300 Days

A family living on a farm near Bozeman, Mont., lived well for ten months on a cash outlay of $50. Their farm provided the rest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Holmes, of Benched, Judith Basin county, are not troubled by the fluctuations of the grain market. They make their farm produce their living.

Up to November 1 of last year, their cash living expenses totaled $50.03. They live well, too. For use this winter they have stored 143 quarts of canned vegetables, 126 quarts of canned fruit, a good supply of canned meat, and a quantity of root crops.

Has Large Garden

Holmes is a wheat farmer on a fairly large scale. He farms entirely with machinery. But in addition he has a large garden and many chickens.

The flock of chickens, in addition to supplying the family with eggs and meat, brought $20.61 from eggs.

The fruit and meat, which was canned, was bought when prices were low and quality high.

Even the wheat, which was a drug on the market last year, played a part in the Holmes larder. When the scoop in the flour bin at the Holmes home began to scrape the bottom, Holmes loaded a truck with wheat and drove to a nearby mill, where he exchanged it at the rate of three bushels for 100 pounds of flour.

Turkey growers usually hold back from the holiday markets about 4,000-6,000 birds to use as breeders for the next crop of 20,000,000 or more turkeys.

THEY'VE got to be good to last like this song has. It was written a long time ago by Abe Lyman and Gus Arnheim together with Arthur Freed, and its background is as colorful as its melody. It first became popular when Abe Lyman was creating such a furor at the Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles, Abe featuring it on nearly all of his programs. Its popularity spread, and at one time it was numbered among the country's leading songs.

The years rolled by and Lyman journeyed East to even bigger triumphs. The song stayed on at the Cocoanut Grove, however, becoming a regular tradition and each successive baton wielder or singer has, by popular request, included it in his repertoire.

Y. M. C. A. State Institution

That the Wilmington Y. M. C. A. is of value to the whole state is evident from General Secretary A. E. Lindley's recent report, which states that last year the "Y" extended its educational, religious and physical activities to more than 2,000 individuals in all sections of Delaware.

The "Y" not only offers a community center, where mental, physical and spiritual health is fostered and social activities enjoyed, but has become an institution of genuine service to the State as a whole. This tendency to broaden its activities and increase their scope of usefulness is to be commended, and shows again that the Y. M. C. A. is entitled to full support and encouragement from the public.—Every Evening Editorial.

THIRD BIG ROBBERY IN ELKTON THIS WEEK

Goods Worth Thousands Stolen Tuesday Night

With three big robberies reported in Elkton within 24 hours, police have started an investigation in an attempt to bring about the arrest of a robber gang believed to be operating in that section.

The latest robbery occurred some time Tuesday night, when the automobile store of J. J. Jamison, at High and Bridge streets, was stripped of all its contents, valued at about $3,000. The goods were later recovered in an old building about 300 yards from the Jamison place, on the Elkton-Middletown railroad tracks, which was formerly used as a storage house for lumber.

Benjamin Pinor, an aged Negro, noticed when he passed the building that it was filled with automobile tires and other accessories, and knowing that it has been deserted for some time, informed policemen.

Thieves' Cache Found

Constable James Short upon an investigation found all the goods taken from the Jamison store in the deserted storage house.

The stolen goods included about 500 or 600 tires, inner tubes and other accessories, and a cash register, which contained a small amount of money. The money had not been taken out.

The robbery was discovered in the morning by the proprietor when he went to the store to open it for the day.

The goods are thought to have been hauled away in a large truck, as there are tracks in the mud where a truck was backed up to the store.

SECURITIES WORTH THOUSANDS STOLEN FROM ELKTON INSURANCE OFFICE

John H. Terrell, president of the insurance firm of John H. Terrell and Son, with offices in People's Bank, reported to the Elkton police Tuesday that several thousand dollars worth of securities in stocks and bonds had been stolen from the safe in his office.

The securities are kept in a safe deposit box in the bank, Mr. Terrell said, but a few days ago he removed them from the bank to go over them, and placed them temporarily in the safe. He had neglected to lock the safe, he said, as he was not accustomed to keeping anything of value there. He did not discover that the securities were missing until Tuesday morning when he went to look for an insurance policy. The insurance policy and other papers were not touched.

Mr. Terrell was unable to give the exact value of the securities.

ROBBER LODGED IN ELKTON JAIL

The arrest Monday night of James Bowen, 24-year-old Negro, whose home was said to be in Reading, Pa., has led police to the discovery of an unusual robbery at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parker Wilson, wealthy residents of East Main street, Elkton, who are spending the winter in Washington at the home of Mrs. Wilson's sister.

Bowen, it was found, has been spending the winter at the Wilson home in the absence of the family, and at intervals has been transporting valuables in a suitcase and selling them. When taken into custody he had a suitcase containing articles of all descriptions, ranging from jewelry to preserves and jellies, which he was evidently taking to Delaware for sale.

The Negro was taken to Elkton jail and the Wilsons were notified immediately. Just how much the Negro has stolen from the home is not known, but it is said that the house has been ransacked from cellar to garret.

Bowen was arrested by the Delaware State police on suspicion near the State line.

Coaxing Overdue Taxes

Tax delinquency being a country-wide source of embarrassment to local governments, and enforced payment through tax sales in these times being repugnant to the public sense of justice, the Texas Legislature has sought to stimulate inflow of tax revenue by enactment of a law remitting all interest and penalties provided delinquents make settlement prior to February 1, 1932. On submission to the Supreme Court of the State this measure, which does not apply to cities and towns, has been declared constitutional and valid.

The Legislature based its right to absolve taxpayers of added charges for non-payment on the existence of a "great public calamity," meaning financial depression. The Court holds that when the Texas Constitution gave the Legislature special powers in times of calamity its framers referred to natural and not economic phenomena; but that the law makers need no extra powers to remit tax penalties. Interest on delinquent taxes, it says, is no part of the taxes themselves, but a penalty for failure to comply with the law; and the authority which has power to provide a penalty has equal power to dispense with it. It also sustains that provision of the law which declares that interest and penalties paid prior to September 30, 1931, the effective date of the measure, shall be retained by government.

In this city means of persuading delinquents to pay up have been energetically canvassed, but abatement of penalties has been regarded as of dubious justice, both to those who have met their tax bills promptly and to those who, being delinquent, have made settlement included added charges. The nearest approach made in Pennsylvania to legislative relief for delinquents is in the Frazier bill to permit the postponement of land tax sales, vetoed by the Governor because it would not take effect immediately, and the Moore bill to the same end, the fate of which is to be decided today.

A month hence Pennsylvania should know how penalty remission works in Texas in revenue production. If any large proportion of delinquents should find means to meet their overdue taxes by February 1 under the stimulus of abated charges the rest of the country would doubtless sit up and take notice.—Evening Bulletin.

INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF THE BATTLE OF COOCH'S BRIDGE

Written by William Reynolds, of Newark, Published in Harkness' Magazine

The interesting article on the Battle of Cooch's Bridge, printed below, was furnished The Post through the courtesy of Mr. Edward W. Cooch. This article was written nearly sixty years ago by William Reynolds, of Newark, and we believe contains considerable information not known generally.

An account of the battle of Cooch's Bridge contained in a history of "Old Iron Hill Meeting House," written by William Reynolds, of Newark. Published March, 1873, in Harkness' Magazine, on file in Wilmington Public Library.

"On Welsh Tract soil, within a mile of the Church, commenced the 'Battle of Brandywine,' and the doors and windows of the old Church bear many scars, received in the contest between Cornwallis and the corps of light infantry, selected from the brave Delaware and Maryland troops under Maxwell. The British fleet, under General Howe, having sailed up the Chesapeake, entered the Elk River, and proceeded up it as far as it was safely navigable, landing their troops, 18,000 strong, August 25th, 1777, at the ferry opposite Cecil Court House (now called Town-Point), on the 28th inst. One division under the command of Howe, in person, took post at Elkton with its van resting on Gray's Hill (now called Red Hill), commanded by Cornwallis. The Second Division, under General Knyphausen, crossed the ferry to Cecil Court House and marched up the Eastern side of the River to a point at or near the Universalist Church, above Frenchtown. On the 24th of August the American Army marched through Philadelphia and Wilmington, taking position between Franklin Flinn's farm and Kiamensi Factory, with the divisions of Generals Green and Stephen resting upon Polly Drummond's Hill, near White Clay Creek Church. The Delaware Militia, commanded by General Rodney, were on this date stationed at Elkton, protecting the public stores, and were visited by Washington on the 27th inst. With the advance of Howe's Army they retreated past Iron Hill Church, to the corps of Greene at White Clay, abandoning the public stores, consisting of several thousand bushels of corn and oats.

On the first of September, Washington directed General Maxwell to take position upon Iron Hill, one mile West of the Baptist Church, upon the farm now of Charles Walton. On the third, Howe directed Cornwallis and Knyphausen to move forward and form a junction at Pencader, or Atkins' Tavern (now called Glasgow). On their route the column led by Cornwallis, fell in with and attacked Maxwell's corps, who retreated down the Iron Hill, fighting as they went, past the old Church, across the farm of John W. Evans (now owned and occupied by Frank W. Moody—Ed.), through Oglethorpe to the corps at White Clay Creek, closely pursued by the enemy, as far as Wilson's Agricultural Works, when they withdrew, massing their entire Army upon Iron Hill, upon the lands of the Baptist Church, stationing a picket force at Cooch's Mill. It was in this fight the old Church received her scars, as at this point General Maxwell made a determined stand, forming a body of riflemen in ambuscade behind the Church, who for a time held the advancing army in check. While the British lay encamped upon Iron Hill they wantonly persecuted the Baptist people, driving off their horses, butchering their cattle and plundering their barns. Many of the old people now living can tell how their parents suffered at the hands of the British. On the 8th of September the British Army was again put in motion; one column proceeding by Cooch's to Christians and thence to Stanton; the other and main body past the old Church and through Newark, crossing White Clay Creek at the Roseville ford. On the 9th the American Army was massed near Newport, expecting and awaiting an attack. The British, however, halted at Milltown. Washington, in his letter to Congress, under date of November 9th, 1777, says: "Upon reconnoitering the enemy's situation it appeared probable that they only meant to amuse us in front, while their real intent was to march by our right, and by suddenly passing the Brandywine, get between us and Philadelphia and cut us off from that city. To prevent this, our army moved at two o'clock this morning and will take post on high ground behind the Brandywine, near Chadd's Ford, this resulted in the battle of Chadd's Ford and Brandywine. Thus fully establishing the fact that the first engagement or skirmish of the Battle of Brandywine occurred at the Baptist meeting house by the Iron Hill."

On Shooting the Pianist

Since March 4, 1929, when Herbert Hoover stood on the front steps of the White House and swore to enforce the laws and maintain the Constitution of the United States, every mean thing possible has happened to this country. Came the dawn of the devil's own day. Drouth, depression and calamity upon calamity rose up for which he had no more responsibility than he has for the wind or the tides. As a result, this country is in a sad way and so is the world. It is a phase of the war. We don't organize and murder ten million men on this planet and put out of commission fifteen million more and saddle fifty billions of debt upon the world, without consequences. Wars of that magnitude do not stop when the boys cease firing. The late war will be going on pretty well through into the 1940's when Hoover is gone from the White House and his successor is in his second term.

But Herbert Hoover has done in this great emergency the thing for which he was sent of Heaven.

He kept an even keel at the White House.

He has organized the world for peace.

He has cut down taxes as no other president has ever cut them down.

Under his counsel and at his suggestion, the hourly wage scale of labor was maintained even though the annual wage was cut down by the depression.

He did all that could be done, which was precious little, in the world wide crash of agriculture, to stabilize agricultural prices.

He has kept a banker's panic from devastating the country in time of depression.

He has organized the latent credit of the land in one ministering corporation.

Under an organization set up by his leadership in every American city funds are growing into the hundreds of millions of dollars to furnish emergency work for every unemployed American this winter.

And his latest act is to further mobilize that latent credit into a home building corporation to put life into the building trades.

Everything that man can do he has done. He has done it bravely. He has done it wisely, with an intellectual honesty that shrank from demagoguery. History will mark him for a great figure in this world of these times.

It is the American habit to shoot the pianist when we don't like the tempo or the tune. Now is a good time to break the habit. For heaven's sake gentlemen, quit shooting the pianist, he is doing his best.

And let the dance go on.—William Allen White in Emporia Gazette.

Lodge Notes

I. O. R. M.

Last Tuesday evening a large crowd was on hand at a meeting of Minnehaha Tribe, when the team that will visit with the Great Junior Sagamore, when he raises up the Chiefs under his jurisdiction, practiced. While a large number was on hand, there are still a few openings, and it is hoped that more will be out on next Tuesday evening. The committee that has charge of the services at the Red Men's Home on Sunday, February 7th, is making plans to receive a large crowd. Rev. Walter Gunby will have charge of the services, with Prof. Myers, director of the M. E. Choir, in charge of the singing.

The Booster Committee, M. E. Ritchie, chairman, is making plans for a bingo party to be held on Tuesday, February 9th, in Fraternal Hall. The public is invited to attend.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS

Mincola Council, No. 17, D. of P., held a large meeting last evening when Great Sachem Benjamin Cooper made his official visit to the Council. Addresses were made by Great Sachem Cooper, Great Junior Sagamore Frank H. Balling, Past Great Sachem Milton Ferguson, Chairman of the Propagation Committee William S. Armstrong, Past Deputy Pocahontas Della Bowers, and Past Pocahontas Della Hill of Union, and others. After the business session a social hour was spent, ending up with refreshments.

JR. O. U. A. M.

The 35th anniversary of the American Flag Council No. 28, Jr. O. U. A. M., was observed in a creditable manner last Monday evening, in the New Century Club building. Four hundred and sixty-three people being present. The program was as follows:

Music, High School Orchestra; Remarks of Welcome, Henry F. Mote; Singing, "America"; Three-reel motion picture of Orphan Home, State Vice-Councilor Sweeten; String music, Taylor Brothers; Solo, Rae McMullin; Address, Chas. Semken, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Guitar music, Poole and Lyman; Uke and songs, Ed. S. Shakespeare; Recitation, Geo. Alcorn; Solo, W. W. Dempsey; Address, Jas. Wilmet, of Philadelphia, Pa.

At a late hour the guests were called to the dining hall, where a tempting banquet was served.

The Council appreciates so large an attendance at this event and feels encouraged to higher goals. The High School Orchestra made an impression upon the audience in the manner in which they rendered the musical program. These boys should be encouraged in their musical ability.

Next Monday night Councilor Devonshire desires a large attendance as he has something up his sleeve.

A. Neal Smyth, Pub. Com. Chr.

PYTHIAN SISTERS MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

On Friday evening, January 29, Friendship Temple No. 6, Pythian Sisters, will hold a public bingo party in their room, Fraternal Hall, beginning at 8.30. Prizes will be awarded. All members are requested to be present at 7.30 so as to hold a short session before party. Last Friday evening the monthly Birthday Party was held, our Grand Deputy, Sister Cochran, and Brother Cochran were present, also a very good attendance of our own members.

Those whose birthdays came in January and first part of February and served a very pleasing collation were: Marguerite Ramsey, Ethel Morris, Marguerite Balling. A very pleasant time was spent. Members who have not been out recently, come out and show our new officers that you do appreciate them.

OFFICERS WRECK STILLS

Last Thursday night Deputy Sheriff Elwood Boyd of Elkton, and two Federal officers destroyed a 350 gallon still and 1300 gallons of mash near Charlestown. The outfit was apparently a new one. They also destroyed a still of the same size between Perryville and Port Deposit. This equipment was loaded on a truck ready for removal to another location.

Saturday night Deputy Sheriffs Wilson Coudon Reynolds and Elwood Boyd went to North East, Md., to serve a warrant on Chester Russell. When they went to his premises they found 15 gallons of liquor, and he was placed under arrest on that charge and turned over to the Federal authorities. After questioning the accused told where a still was stored, and it was destroyed on Monday.

Have Discussion Over Closing Draw Bridge

The interest of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association in transportation facilities throughout the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula was manifested at a hearing before Major J. D. Arthur, Jr., District Engineer for the War Department, at a hearing in Denton on the application of the Maryland and Delaware Railway Company (through its receivers) to make their present railroad draw bridge over Choptank River at Denton a closed bridge.

The Del-Mar-Va Association, through its Special Committee on Traffic and Transportation, filed formal protest presenting reasons why the application should not be granted and former Senator Louis A. Drexler, of Dover, Del., a member of the committee, presented an oral statement covering the far reaching detrimental effect which would be created by closing the bridge.

Senator Drexler explained of the Del-Mar-Va Association in urging that all transportation facilities not only be retained but where possible improved. He had personally investigated the conditions at Greensboro and Denton where the closing of the bridge would be felt most severely and stated that from this investigation he learned that the effect would extend even through Delaware as rates for shipping such commodities as fertilizer to Greensboro were from $1.00 to $1.30 less than at other points where they do not have water competition.

J. Owen Knotts, Denton Attorney, representing the Mayor and Council of Greensboro, presented detailed facts as to conditions which have existed throughout that section from the first establishment of the present Railway line and drew a graphic picture of the serious effect closing the bridge would have.

Senator L. B. Towers, also an official of the Del-Mar-Va Association, offered the suggestion that an arrangement might be made whereby Greensboro would give advanced notice as to expected shipments so that the bridge draw might be opened and by this method relieve the necessity of the Railroad maintaining full time care for the bridge. This suggestion appeared to meet with approval throughout and completed the hearing.

This Happened Ten Years Ago

From the way some Democratic leaders preen themselves, getting ready to make the next campaign on Republican hard times, one would be led to think that there never were Democratic hard times. But we do not have to go further back than ten or eleven years to find some rather startling figures. Dr. Wilfred King, recognized financial authority, declares that the deflation and downfall of prices during 1910-20 cost the people of the United States not less than 40 billion dollars. He says that a million farmers lost their farms as a direct result of this deflation. And that was during the Wilson administration.

McCLELLANDSVILLE SCHOOL NOTES

On Tuesday evening January 19, the Parent-Teacher Association of the McClellandsville school held a card party at the school. This party was the first of a series to be given each month in the community. The proceeds are to be used for the purpose of installing electric lights in the school. The first party was a great success and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. After the games were over, the ladies served coffee and sandwiches. It is hoped that there will be a large turnout at the next of the series which will be held on the third Tuesday in February. Worthwhile prizes are offered and refreshments will be served.

On Thursday evening the 21st, the monthly business meeting of the P.-T. A. was held. There were 65 people present. The meeting was addressed by Miss Elizabeth Mench of the Delaware P.-T. A. She gave a very interesting discussion on nutrition and health as applied to school children.

The entertainment committee, composed of Rebecca Smith, Louisa Willis and Clarence Smith, gave a humorous sketch entitled "Henry Hires the Cook." They also presented several musical numbers which were enjoyed by all.

The refreshment committee consisting of Mrs. Gus. Smith, Mrs. Carl Galyen and Mrs. Floyd Atkinson served a goodly supply of lemonade and cake. The balance of the evening was spent in dancing.

Each Monday evening the Adult Education Class in Music is held at the school. A large class is attending for worthwhile instruction. It is not too late even now to join this class, as the series of lessons are to be held each Monday for the next five weeks. Rebecca Smith, Pub. Chairman.

FORMER NEWARK RESIDENT MAKES REPORT TO CHURCH COUNCIL ON EASTERN SHORE CONDITIONS

Rife With Excuses

"Professor Mitchell made a frank criticism of the attitude of the community as a whole, saying that two weeks after the lynching the place was rife with excuses for the hanging, if not, indeed, full of justification of it.

"This attitude of self-defense was stimulated by the criticism of Salisbury which came from other parts of the State. The sectional feeling was increased when a local newspaper stated that the Eastern Shore, on which Salisbury is located, feels 'that the greater part of the responsibility for it (the lynching) results from the interference of Baltimore city in the affairs of the Shore. . . . The sectional feeling ran so high that several Salisbury merchants even canceled orders with Baltimore firms.

"Professor Mitchell found only two citizens who had made any effort to prevent the lynching and comments that the most sorrowful reflection is not that some ignorant countrymen and townsmen gave way to violence, but that no one from among the intelligent and fair-minded citizens exerted himself with spirit and determination to stop the lynching.

"The conclusions of Prof. Mitchell's study are summarized as follows:

Geographic Isolation

"In a sense, the Chesapeake Bay contributed to the lynching in Salisbury. That is, the Eastern Shore is isolated geographically, and has become backward in its mental and spiritual development. It is probably true, as one of the writers prominent in the controversy over the lynching has said, that the Eastern Shore has suffered from the removal of many of its ablest young men. Allowing this to be true, it still must be said that the most sorrowful reflection is not that some ignorant countrymen and townsmen gave way to violence, but that no one from among the intelligent and fair-minded citizens exerted himself with spirit and determination to stop the lynching.

"Credit should be given to the two citizens (mentioned in the full report) who opposed the mob—one by protesting before the hanging occurred, the other by trying to prevent the barbarism of the burning.

"If it be said that it occurred too quickly, it is to be answered that there was probably knowledge in the town an hour or more beforehand that trouble was brewing. And if private citizens are to be excused the officers of the law have no excuse. It may fairly be concluded that the chief of police, his three patrolmen who were on duty and the sheriff and his deputies offered no resistance to the lynching.

"The impression was received by the inquirer that the public spirit of Salisbury is far below what is desirable. Those whom one would expect to be leaders in a crisis decided to fall in with the ignorant, the prejudiced, the frightened, the sullenly boastful.

"Salisbury has given proof of its lack of civic morality—not only in the lynching and burning but even more pointedly in the childish defenses offered for the lynching afterward. One feels that the business organizations stand for nothing better than mere town boosting, the churches have neglected the application of religion to life.

"The town of Salisbury needs an active local interracial committee."

48-Hour Investigation

Dr. Mitchell said that he had made a trip to Salisbury for the purpose of the inquiry two weeks after the lynching of the Negro.

He spent from Friday to Sunday in the Eastern Shore town, he said, and talked to approximately a dozen persons who claimed to have intimate knowledge of the lynching. Among them, he said, were ministers, several Negro residents, Sheriff G. Murray Phillips, members of the police force and two bank presidents.

While his original report contained the names of the two persons who made efforts to halt the mob from the hanging and the burning, Dr. Mitchell said that he did not feel at liberty to make them public since the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America had omitted them from the publication of the abstract of his report.

Last summer Dr. Mitchell conducted a party of economics investigators on a tour of Russia to make a study of the Soviet five-year plan, which he hailed as the greatest challenge to the capitalist world today, adding that he hoped for its success.

Criticism Resented On Eastern Shore

The indignant protests follow the publication by the Council of a report on the recent lynching of a colored man at Salisbury, Md. The report is based on a survey made by Professor Broadus Mitchell, of Johns Hopkins University. The protests are against that section of the report which refers to the Eastern Shore as "backward in its mental and spiritual development."

The Federal Council in recent years has been the center of stormy protests against reports on "birth control" and "prohibition." On these previous occasions the Council has disclaimed any intention of speaking for its constituent Protestant bodies.

The report follows an inquiry by the Council's representative, Professor Mitchell, into the conditions surrounding the recent lynching of Matthew Williams, colored, after he had killed his employer. Williams attempted to kill himself. He was taken by an indignant crowd from the Salisbury Hospital and hanged.

Sheriff Luther Daugherty declared that law enforcement in Somerset county would be easier if Baltimore city Communist organizations and church leagues would attend to their own affairs.

W. Clyde Ford, member of the board of county commissioners for Somerset, said he resents the interference of outside influences. Mr. Ford asserts that all right thinking people deplore the recent lynching at Salisbury, but states that he fails to see how Dr. Mitchell or any other man can learn after a 2-day residence in one locality on the shore the attitude and outlook of an entire section comprising nine counties. He says Dr. Mitchell distorts the truth when he refers to the man hanged as being "mentally defective."

C. Edwin Hayman, president of the Rotary Club at Princess Anne, said: "The Shore is not isolated. Its people are not backward, but rank with any section of the country in intelligence, public morals, and common decency. Of course, the Shore as a whole regrets the lynching, but I fail to see how the meddling of church organizations which ought to know better will help the people of the Shore. We need no help and there is enough intelligence on the Shore to enable us to work out our own problems."

The Rev. George A. Morris, pastor of Grace Methodist Protestant Church, Centreville, said:

"The unjust criticism by Dr. Mitchell relative to the Salisbury lynching does more harm than good. He says that he visited Salisbury from Friday until Sunday. What a short time it takes some men to grasp the mentality and spirituality of a people! If Dr. Mitchell does not know any more about political economy than he does about the Eastern Shore and the intelligence and morality of its people, then he is zero. The Council devotes its time and talents to constructive endeavor. No possible good can come out of such statements. We can attend to our own business here on the Eastern Shore without meddling from either Dr. Mitchell or the Council."

Citizens of Cambridge said they felt a survey could have been compiled better by someone wholly from without the State and not from Baltimore city, where prejudice is felt to exist against the Eastern Shore.

Milton L. Veasey, State Senator from Worcester county, said:

"I am somewhat disposed to ignore all the diatribes that has been launched against the Eastern Shore, because our traducers have manifested a woeful ignorance of this section of the country. We have here, of course, many differently constituted people, but the best, most conservative, the real bone and sinew of the Shore, should not be blamed for the outbursts of a few uncontrolled individuals."

Colmore E. Byrd, cashier, Citizens National Bank, said:

"The conclusions of Dr. Mitchell as to the isolation of the Eastern Shore and its mental and spiritual development are manifestly false."

State Senator Beauchamp said that the murder of Daniel Elliott in Salisbury and subsequent lynching of William Matthews is directly traceable to the activities of the International Labor Defense League and its representatives.

"All Eastern Shore men regret the unfortunate occurrence," he said, at Salisbury, "but we people of the Eastern Shore know that it was brought on by the delay in bringing to justice Euel Lee and the activities of an anarchistic and Communist group in Baltimore."

affairs outside its realm" and issuing "an unfair report based on a 3-day survey."

TWO BILLIONS OF DOLLARS FOR RELIEF OF AGRICULTURE

Financial relief for agriculture, commerce and industry in the sum total of two billions of dollars is the purpose of the newly enacted Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, which forms the hub of President Hoover's twelve-spoke program for the rehabilitation of the nation.

Reduced to simple terms, the act is designed primarily to bolster the faltering banking structure by aiding both solvent and insolvent banks; to prevent a collapse of the rail transportation systems of the country which find themselves unable to carry on necessary refinancing because of unfavorable security market conditions, and to aid intermediate Credit Banks, Agricultural Credit Corporations, building and loan associations and insurance companies.

With the failure last year of 2,290 banks with deposits of $1,759,000,000 it is apparent that swift and effective action must be taken if relief is to be afforded in time to prevent a most serious and far reaching development. The outstanding difficulty confronting the country springs from the loss of confidence and the general state of fear that has been created by these widespread bank failures.

Meantime, banks that are members of the Federal Reserve System find themselves without such negotiable paper as can be offered for re-discount at the Federal Reserve Banks and so are unable to find the necessary assistance from this Federal system. As a consequence of these developments deposits in large amounts have been tied up in banks now solvent; confidence has been seriously shaken and there has been a break-down of local credit facilities with widespread decreases in values and general demoralization of business.

In this situation there must be an improvement in the banking system before there can be an expectation of a return to normal conditions in the nation's economic life. With this end in view the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act will provide credit facilities that will afford relief to many banks that are worthy of credit and are unable at this time to command necessary accommodations.

In addition to the relief which will be given to these institutions, provision is made for loans upon the assets of any banks that are closed, insolvent or in process of liquidation to aid in the reorganization or liquidation of such banks. It is the hope that this provision will afford a large measure of relief to communities that have been deprived of normal banking accommodations and so aid such communities in attaining economic recovery.

The depression has hit the railroads hard, causing tremendous decreases in both their freight and passenger traffic income. In addition, the condition of the financial market affects their ability to refinance maturities that are coming due and which are in some instances most pressing. The total amount of maturities which fall due this year is $110,782,506.

With refinancing of these obligations made impossible under present market conditions the whole transportation system is threatened with disaster if relief is not afforded. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to make loans to such carriers as are unable to obtain funds upon reasonable terms through banking channels or from the general public.

With this vast aid to banking institutions, agriculture credit organizations and to the railroads, it is the confident belief that the credit situation will be eased all along the line with adequate facilities provided for the large refinancing of agriculture, commerce and industry. And it is the purpose to get the new corporation functioning without delay. An initial capital of $500,000,000 will be furnished by the Treasury so that immediate pressing loans may be made. In addition the corporation would insure one billion, five hundred million dollars of its own securities to be used in making additional loans in the next year or two.

The great necessity at this time is the restoration of credit and confidence. It is the hope and the belief alike of public officials and the heads of the great agricultural, industrial and labor organizations that this measure will accomplish this result.

AN ALL-WOOD FENCE INDUSTRY

North Carolina farmers are developing wood fences on a commercial scale, using a local industry of making all-according to W. R. Mattoon, extension forester. The fences are usually built of half-round juniper (white cedar) rails and mortised juniper posts and are very durable. They are manufactured in heights and strengths suitable for any farm or stockpen purpose and can be set up without wire, nails, stretching, or special equipment. The rails, it is expected, will last a lifetime and the post for at least 20 years. Similar fences of cypress, eastern red cedar, or chestnut grown on the farms also are advocated by the extension forester. Sales of this type of fence for shipment to distant States where timber is scarce have been made and a new source of income developed for farmers owning woodlands.

WHEN TO HATCH CHICKS

By Prof. Paul G. Riley

The Commercial poultryman, who must make a profit from his flock, usually tries to plan ahead on the basis of several years of experience. The average poultry raiser, however, who is not so deeply interested in poultry production too often does not plan, or if he does plan his hatching time, he bases the time of hatching on last season's prices and results.

In order to make maximum profit out of raising chicks, it is necessary to remember two years instead of one. During the 1931 brooding season, price of broilers for early chicks was good, and somewhat to a great many people's surprise the price remained good on chicks hatched late in April and May.

In 1930, the price of broilers on early hatched chicks was fair, but the price of late hatched broilers was comparatively low. In 1932, it is more likely that we will see a repetition of price conditions in 1930 than in 1931. Speaking strictly from a price standpoint, it would seem to be better business to hatch chicks comparatively early, preferably in February, March and April, in 1932.

A difference of two or three cents per chick in the initial chick cost is not nearly as important as a matter of two to five cents per pound on the poultry sold. Also it takes the early pullets to produce the high priced fall and winter eggs. Poultry profits in the last four months of 1931 have been good. Poultry profits for the good poultrymen are always good for the last four months of every year. All poultry profits are determined by the time the chicks are hatched, care and management, and feeding program during the summer time.

Let's hatch chicks early this year.

GRIND FEEDS TO SUIT THE ANIMALS

By Prof. W. B. Krueck

With an abundance of grains in most communities, many farmers are having their grain ground locally. Farmers having their feed ground and men operating grinders should give careful consideration to the kind of

FACTS FOR FARM FOLKS

Many scales weigh inaccurately in winter because water or ice accumulates on the parts or in the pits. If the beam works too quickly or is stiff in cold weather, something is wrong and errors in the weights are possible.

In general, if a grinder cannot be regulated for each separate run, a medium ground feed will answer the demands of most animals more efficiently than a finely ground feed. Dairy cattle and beef cattle, especially do better on a feed that is ground to a medium texture. Finely ground feeds have a tendency to become pasty and unpalatable and, therefore, are not utilized as efficiently as feeds that are medium or coarsely ground.

Hogs may utilize a finely ground feed more efficiently than cattle. Here again, however, if the feed can be ground in such a way that the digestive juices can readily attack the ingredients of the feed, the animal will use them in most cases more efficiently. The capacity of grinders can also be increased and consequently the cost of grinding reduced, if feed is not ground too finely.

POULTRY MASHES SHOULD CONTAIN VITAMIN D IN WINTER

By J. H. Bodwell

It is hard sometimes to realize why Cod Liver Oil should be added to the poultry mixtures in the winter and why it is not very essential in the summer to poultry flocks.

To begin with Vitamin D is very necessary to control rickets or leg weakness and to get good hatchability of eggs. There are very few feeds that contain sufficient Vitamin D, which are practical to feed in the winter, except Cod Liver Oil. Of course the Ultra Violet Rays of the sun help to prevent leg weakness, but think of the short hours of sunlight each day compared to summer time. Also think of the many days in winter that we do not see any sun at all. Furthermore, very few flocks are let out doors in the winter. Therefore, to insure sufficient quantity of Vitamin D to poultry flocks in the winter time one should buy poultry mashes that contain one per cent Cod Liver Oil or buy the Cod Liver Oil and mix it with the mashes.

Ham, Bacon Offer Many Possibilities

All over the world are ham and bacon lovers, but according to Inez S. Willson, home economist, Americans are especially fond of these foods. There is something about the taste of smoked meats that they like. Everyone's appetite is stimulated by the smoky flavor of the hickory from the north woods.

Ham or bacon with eggs seems to be the usual method of serving these meats. Ham or bacon with eggs is good, but why use them only in that way when smoked meats offer an endless variety of combinations with other foods which are equally as good?

With a cooked ham and a piece of bacon in the refrigerator, one need never worry about the preparation of a hasty meal nor the arrival of unexpected company. The economical housekeeper can save money by purchasing a whole ham, and then using it as she needs it. She may bake the ham in the usual way, or she may bake it as suggested below by Miss Willson.

Baked Ham

Select a ham of the desired weight. Wipe it with a damp cloth, and place it with the fat side up in a roasting pan. Place in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) and cook until done, allowing 25 minutes per pound for cooking. About 45 minutes before baking is completed, take the ham from the oven and remove the skin. Score the fat top in crisscross fashion with diagonal gashes about 1 inch apart. Insert whole cloves at each cross-section. Rub the fat with 2 tablespoons mustard, then cover with a half-inch layer of brown sugar and very fine bread crumbs which have been moistened with pineapple juice. Set the ham back in the oven and finish baking at a moderate temperature. Serve with rings of canned pineapple halves.

Ham en Casserole

Ham en casserole is an excellent way of cooking slices of ham. Cut the ham about an inch and a half or two inches thick. Put it in a casserole, cover with milk, and bake for 1 1/2 hours in a slow oven. In addition to these, there are hundreds of ways of using small amounts of ham in appetizing combinations. The last bits of the ham can be made into such combinations as ham croquettes, ham loaf, or ham mousse.

NEWARK SCHOOL NEWS

Senior High School Notes

THE MUSIC COMMITTEE

The Music Committee of the Newark High School, under the direction of Miss Hinkle, has devoted its half hour every Monday to a music appreciation period.

Several selections have been heard by the members, including: "The Waltz of the Flowers," by Tchaikowsky, taken from "The Nutcracker Suite; "Largo" from "New World Symphony," by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. These selections have been enjoyed by the majority of the members of the committee.

Hugh F. Gallagher, Jr.

Senior Plays

"The Seven Chances" in the "Charm School" with "The Gossipy Sex,"—"Who Wouldn't Be Crazy!" It's Senior play time again. We don't mean a recess from studies. We mean that we, the Seniors, are trying to decide what play we would like to give this year. All things considered, it must be good, very good. We must have a play worthy of the Senior class. Our play must be up to the standard set by last year's class who gave "Nothing But the Truth." You see we have quite a task trying to suit these qualifications.

After the play is selected comes the real fun and work. Committees must be picked for such interesting things as make-up, properties, programs, ushers and etc. Every person in the Senior class will have something to do. Each must do his bit and all these bits put together make the big bit that makes the play a success, and hence a glorious trip to Washington. Again we have a standard to keep-up. Last year's class did everything so well and co-operated with the faculty and directors so well that we know how well it can be done. It can be done and we are going to do it. Are you with me, Seniors, when I say "We will show them?"

Editorial

The committees of the General Association have definite work assigned to their respective members. This work cannot be properly done unless the member is especially interested in the things for which the committee is striving. The music committee should be composed of pupils who either play musical instruments or who like to sing; the art and decoration committee should be composed of the artistically inclined; in fact, any and every committee must be competently represented by students who are capable and fitted for their jobs if the committees are to function to their maximum capacity for the best interests of the school as a whole, and the pupil as a nindividual.

Ross McVey.

Finance

The Finance Committee meets each

Monday afternoon in Mr. Boone's room. We are practicing for a play on thrift. This play is to be given some sixth period.

There are not many people banking in the home-rooms so we making posters to encourage people to bank and to tell them when to bring their money. There is a banking banner awarded to the home-room having the highest percentage of all people banking. Last week it was awarded to Grade 8A, Mr. Boone's home-room.

Kathryn Stafford, 8C.

Wednesday's Assembly

Miss McKinsey had a speaker to day, it was the President of the Senate, James Hall. He asked for the cooperation of everyone to help have a tidy and orderly study hall and lunch room. Then the program was turned over to Miss Wilkinson. The speaker, Dorothy Mitchell, told about the Journalism Committee. They said their business was to write up articles about the school and to interest the other home room pupils to write jokes, stories, poems, or anything of interest. She asked for the cooperation of the pupils of the Junior High School in helping them to receive enough material to have a full page of Newark Junior High School news. The Assembly was dismissed by a quick march.

Dorothy Mitchell, '36.

The Junior High School Assembly

On Monday the 25th, Mr. Barker had charge of the program. There was one speaker, "Bob" Hancock, who told about Lewis Carroll, author of "Alice in Wonderland." "Bob" revealed a new phase of Carroll's works when he said that Carroll wrote volumes and volumes of books on "Higher Algebra." He wrote his fairy tales under the name of Lewis Carroll, but his real name was on the Algebra books. It was Charles Dodgson. We sang the song, "The Home Road," and the assembly was dismissed.

David Cronhardt.

The Seven Wonders of the World

Every day people talk about the Seven Wonders of the World and yet few people can name them.

Before reading farther in this article name them to yourself. Most likely you cannot do it. Continue your reading and learn them as it will not take long and is probably worth your time.

The original Seven Wonders of the World were: the Pyramids of Egypt, the tombs of the Pharaohs; the Mausoleum of Artemisia, which is a sepulchral monument erected in honor of Mausoleum by his wife, Artemisia; the temple of Diana at Epheaus, the largest and most perfect model of Ionia architecture in the world; the Hanging Gardens of Babylon; the Colossus of Rhodes, a brass statue of Apollo, god of the sun; the statue of Jupiter Olympus and the Pharos of Alexandria, a famous lighthouse. These wonders have changed with history. Today the Great Wall of China and the Leaning Tower of Pisa have replaced some of the older ones.

Two Basketball Games Scheduled for Newark High School

The Newark High School basketball team has two games scheduled at home for the immediate future. The first, to be played this Friday, is with Delaware City, and although Newark has the odds, a good game can be expected. For this game the two preliminaries will be between the Junior and Freshman boys in the Intramural League, and a girls' game between the Seniors and Sophomores. The boys' game will break the existing tie for first place now held jointly by each.

A game with Goldey College is marked up for Wednesday, February 3rd, with games between the Senior and Sophomore boys, and a girls' preliminary. This Goldey team, although it has not yet been seen by "ye scribe," has been said to be very good. It therefore follows that reservations should be made early.

In both dates, the first game will start at 6.55 promptly.

New Castle Defeats Newark

New Castle High, in a close battle, succeeded in getting the higher side of a 34-22 score last Friday night at the Wm. Penn School at New Castle. Although Newark never led, almost every New Castle counter was met by one of a like kind from the men of Newark, and the New Castle rooters were at times anxious as to the result.

The New Castle team did not look so good; they continually made bad breaks, that, we believe, might easily be assigned to the high speed of New Castle's game. Their entire method of play hinged on speed, quick break, and pivot. As opposed to Newark system we believe Newark has the better team and our rooters may well expect a turn of events at the return game—New Castle, however, is confident.
