Delaware's top corn crop was won by Philip Koelig of Newark and Wayne Hoffmaster of Harrington. Koelig's entry, a 100 bushel crop, won first prize in the Delaware State Corn Contest. Hoffmaster's entry, a 100 bushel crop, won first prize in the Delaware State Corn Contest. Koelig's entry, a 100 bushel crop, won first prize in the Delaware State Corn Contest. Hoffmaster's entry, a 100 bushel crop, won first prize in the Delaware State Corn Contest.

Placing first with his oats sample was Wayne Hoffmaster of Harrington. Carl Melein of Wyoming received first place ratings for wheat, barley, rye, soybean hay, crimson clover, lespedeza and red clover.

Winner for mixed hay was Philip Pierson of Hockessin, who also won first place for alfalfa-grass. David Robbins of Milford earned top rating for his corn silage.

Wayne Donaway of Laurel rated first for crimson clover, while Wayne Currey of Wyoming won first place for lespedeza.

Winterthur Farms, Greenville, received first place rating for alfalfa, and Anton Burger and Sons of Townsend won top rating for field-cured alfalfa.

Prospective teachers in this area will have an opportunity to take the National Teacher Examinations on Feb. 15, according to Dr. W. A. Pemberton of the University of Delaware, who will supervise test administration.

Application blanks and bulletins describing registration procedures and representing test questions, may be obtained from Pemberton. Applications must be received not later than Jan. 17.

Scoring on the National Teacher Examinations are used by school systems and teacher education institutions throughout the country as an aid in evaluating qualifications of prospective teachers.

Scoring may be useful to those taking the exam, who are interested in discovering their own strengths and weaknesses with respect to teacher qualifications.

At the on-site testing session, a candidate may take the examination in one of two optional examinations, one in professional information, general culture, English expression, and nonverbal reasoning.

In addition each candidate may take one or two optional examinations to demonstrate mastery of subject matter in the fields in which the candidate is prepared.

There will be two major Christmas programs performed by children of the Newark special school district this year.

Philip A. Toman, assistant superintendent for information services, reports that the reason for this doubling of programs is the second high school Christmas.

This is the first time in the history of the district that two major programs will be presented.

Both programs will be presented on Sunday, Dec. 15.

The Christmas High program will begin at 2:30, and at Newark High School at 4 p.m.

Carl A. Keim will direct Christmas programs while Jane Cooper will conduct the Newark High School program.

All parents and patrons of the Newark special school district are invited to attend both of these programs.

Revival Service By Missionaries Planned Saturday

The Rev. Wayne Myers, a native of California who has served 16 years as a missionary in Mexico, will present a special missionary service this Saturday night in the Newark Revival Tabernacle, Chestnut Hill Road.

Accompanied by international Evangelist J. Costello of Pachuca, Mexico, the Rev. Myers will serve as interpreter for him.

Touchdown Club To Honor Seniors At Annual Banquet

Trophies To Be Presented Next Thursday Nite at NCC To Yellowjackets, Vikings

Newark High School senior players on the Yellowjacket football team will be guests of honor at the annual banquet of the Newark Touchdown Club next Thursday night with a huddle period at 6, and dinner at 7 in the Newark Country Club.

Riley Gunnels, defensive tackle for the Philadelphia Eagles, will be the guest speaker, and Delaware Attorney-General David Buckson will be toastmaster.

William G. Murray, Jr., is president of the Newark Touchdown Club; Paul Jaquette is vice-president; and John Walls is treasurer.

Former Newark High School coaches Bill Gillespie and Horace Nunn are expected to attend the banquet, former TD president Vincent "Sheet Iron" Mayer has announced, and other special guests will include Sheriff "Whitney" Michaels; Coaches Harold Raymond, Roy Rylander, Jim Flynn, Ed Moley, and Irv Wisniewski, with Asst. Athletic Director Scotty Duncan and Football Capt. Paul Chesmore, University of Delaware Coaches Bob Hoffman, Bob Turnberger, and Bill Cole of Newark, Christiansa and William Penn high schools; George Saragison, RPKS director, former NYU star and football official; and Gerow, Bill Kelly, and Pete Lowe of the Wilmington Touchdown Club.

Four trophies will be awarded at the banquet — the Mayer Brothers Award for the outstanding senior football player at Newark High; the Newark Touchdown Club Trophy for the Newark High School senior squad member contributing most to team morale.

Duplicate trophies will be made by the Newark Touchdown Club to the two seniors selected for similar honors at Christiansa High.

Employees Offered Sweepstakes Kits By General Foods

Employees of the Philadelphia district sales and distribution center of the General Foods Corporation are receiving a sampler gift package of 16 General Foods products, marking the kick-off of a GF Employee Sweepstakes.

The sweepstakes, open only to General Foods employees, is designed to help them become more familiar with all company products.

A two-week trip to Europe for two is the first of more than 300 prizes to be awarded in the sweepstakes which involves matching advertising slogans with General Foods products.

Each GF product sampler contains a sweepstakes kit and an entry blank which must be submitted by Jan. 15. Winners will be announced the first week in February.

Men's Volleyball League Registration Set Monday

The Greater Newark Recreation Association announced registration for the Men's Volleyball League. A meeting of all managers for registration and league information will be held next Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the GNRA office, 315 Delaware Circle.

Any church, civic organization or business-sponsored team may be registered at this meeting.

The league will consist of six teams to play Monday evenings, and first games are tentatively scheduled to begin the second week in December.

Brownie Troop 675 Visits Headquarters For SPCA

Brownie Troop 675 of Brookside recently made a field trip to SPCA headquarters on Old Churchman's Road, where Mr. Anderson of the SPCA conducted the girls on a guided tour.

Members of the troop are Kathy Olin, Nancy Bonner, Patty Daniels, Yvonne Embert, Roxanne Fix, Christie Lemke, Sueleen Manley, Susan Messer, Andrea Moroz, Bobbie Starr, Barbara Thomas, Diane Vannan, Susan Roemer, Dawn Russ, Beth Weinmann, Debbie Wooten, and Janet Zaborowski.

Mrs. Marian Clifton, Grab-bag gifts will be exchanged. On Sunday, Dec. 8, the club will have a Christmas party for children at Governor Bacon Health Center, starting at 6 p.m.

Santa To Arrive In Newark This Friday By Helicopter With Gifts For Children

Santa Claus comes to Newark this Friday! At 11 a.m., Santa is to arrive at the Newark Shopping Center by helicopter with presents for the youngsters, and ready to set up quarters at the Center until Christmas.

Actually, he's expected in the area sooner than that. Plans call for him to fly over the Newark area in the Christmas helicopter for about an hour beforehand, announcing his presence to the younger set by means of a public address system.

He'll make his final aerial pass over the City of Newark about 10:50 a.m. and will land at the Center promptly at 11.

An innovation this year will be the introduction of Mrs. Santa Claus, who will accompany her husband on his trip to Newark.

Aside from the novelty of the double entry, Mrs. Claus will serve a very practical purpose — helping to speak to and distribute gifts to all of the children who will be on hand to welcome Santa.

Once he arrives at the Center, Santa will take up his post at the Santa Claus House in front of the bank office — Christmas headquarters in the Newark Shopping Center in recent years.

A Union Thanksgiving Service was observed at St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church, with Kingswood of Brookside Methodist congregation participating this Thursday at 8 a.m.

City Mourns President Slain By Assassin's Bullet On Friday

Schools, Business Establishments Closed On Monday In Honor Of President John F. Kennedy; Newark Mayor, Council Representatives Attend Evening Requiem Mass

Schools and most business establishments in the Newark area were closed Monday in a national day of mourning with funeral services for John Fitzgerald Kennedy, President of the United States, who was killed early last Friday afternoon by two bullets fired from an assassin's rifle in Dallas, Tex.

Mayor Carl S. Rankin headed a group of Newark City Council representatives, other city officials, and dignitaries attending a requiem high mass for the slain President at Holy Angels Catholic Church last Monday night at 7:30, as the requiem service of Newark City Council was postponed.

Special services were conducted for the late President at churches in the area, from Friday evening through last Monday, and a number of Newarkers joined the service at Newark City Council was postponed.

Scheduled events were canceled for the day, beginning Friday evening, and the Delaware-Bucks football game on Saturday was canceled, tentatively rescheduled for this coming Saturday, and yesterday, the university's final contest for an undefeated season was canceled.

The greatest needs in the future will be for veterinarians to fill increased demands that all must be inspected before it is sold, and for specialists in the treatment of small animals, Cover said.

Veterinarians also will be needed in governmental and private research organizations to conduct research in seeking new ways to combat animal diseases, and in working in the field of space travel.

At present, Delaware has about 20 veterinarians, but as the state's population increases, a greater number will be needed to treat the cats, dogs and other animals their families have as pets, Dr. Cover explained.

In some areas, not even the present needs for veterinarians are being met, he said.

At the University of Delaware, many students in the department of animal and poultry science are taking the pre-veterinary course, Cover reports. After completing additional years at a school of veterinary medicine, they will have four additional years of college and professional study.

Along with the need for more veterinarians is the need for more faculty members to teach them. The need for additional staff for research and teaching is evident, and will become an even more pressing problem in the years ahead, Dr. Cover said.

It is important, he added, for potential doctors and scientists early in the students' school careers so they can be given opportunities to work as assistants in research programs and thus start early in studying for their professional careers.

Many experts agree, Cover added, that students working toward the degree of doctor of veterinary medicine should receive basic knowledge in all fields of their profession, and postpone specialization until after they receive their degrees.

Austin Chidester To Discuss Safety For Century Club

The Newark New Century Club will conduct an address luncheon at 12:30 p.m. next Monday at the club house, with Mrs. Franklin Deck, chairman.

Reservations are being taken by Mrs. John Link.

Austin Chidester, field director of the Delaware Safety Council, will discuss "Holiday Safety," and be introduced by Mrs. Russell L. Hardy.

A member of the Safety Council's special hazards committee, Chidester is a consultant for driver improvement programs. He will cover Christmas and the New Year holiday period.

The art corner will be arranged by Mrs. Henry R. Folsom, Jr.

Yellowjacket Booster Club Plan Thanksgiving Dance

The Yellowjacket Booster Club will sponsor a dance this Thursday night for students of Christiansa and Newark High School after the Yellowjacket-Viking football game at Delaware Stadium on Thanksgiving Day morning.

An orchestra will be provided, and dancing will be in the Newark High School gym from 8 to 11:30 p.m. President Carson Roselle announced yesterday.

Cash, Space Cited As Research Need By Wm. A. Mosher

The chemistry department at the University of Delaware has two great needs — unfettered research money, and space. Dr. William A. Mosher told those attending the monthly meeting of the Delaware section, American Chemical Society in Wilmington last week.

Research funds for science are not as easy to obtain as many people think, Mosher said.

"If a man is well established and an effective research worker with timely projects, he can get support," the chemistry department head said, but it is difficult to get money for a new professor just starting work.

Mosher first described the tremendous growth and improvement of the department in the past two decades, but then said no chairman, including himself, is ever satisfied with the status of his department.

A Christmas program and installation of new officers for the Women's Association will take place next Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the church. Mrs. Lester B. Gorman, president of the Synodical Society, will conduct the installation service.

Union Grange and New London (Pa.) Grange held a joint corn and pie night meeting last Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mitchell, Mrs. J. Thomas Jarrell, and Norman Dempsey of Harmony Grange serving as judges.

Prizes were awarded as follows: apple pie — Mrs. Anna Buckingham, first; Mrs. Ralph Endriss, second; Mrs. Daniel E. Harris, third; Pumpkin — Mrs. Herman Bramble, Jr., first; Mrs. Ellis Astle, second; Mrs. Emmett Jones, third. All are of New London Grange.

Prizes for corn, single ear, were won by Herman Bramble, Jr., first and second; Robert Connell, third; best 10 ears — Robert Connell, first; Herman Bramble, second; and Mrs. Daniel Harris, third.

Paul McClean, acting master, named the following delegates to the New Castle County Pomona Grange on December 12 at West Branciford Grange: Mrs. Leslie H. Dempsey, Mrs. Daniel Harris and Mrs. Leslie McCormick. Alternates are Mrs. Mark Ayars, Mrs. Harold Dexter, and Mrs. Paul McClean.

The grange surprised Robert Connell by presenting him with a birthday cake in honor of his 79th birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Bramble, lecturer of New London, had the program as follows: skit "Accidents Will Happen" by Mr. and Mrs. Astle and Mrs. Jones; Thanksgiving readings by Mrs. Harry Swain and E. Jones; jokes by Mrs. Astle, and a quiz by Mr. Bramble.

Springer Lane Home Economics Club met last Wednesday night with Mrs. Edward Philbrick.

The group made 27 stuffed toys to be sent to the School for Mentally Retarded Children at Stockley at Christmas.

Women of Harmony Grange took over the meeting last Monday by filling the men's offices. Mrs. Norman Dempsey served as master with Mrs. Frank Cooper, overseer. Others serving were: Mrs. Edward Naudain, Mrs. J. W. Pennington, Mrs. Elma Marshall, Mrs. Paul Mitchell, Mrs. Steel Atwell, Mrs. Irvin Klair, and Mrs. Walter Gregg.

A Thanksgiving program was presented with Mrs. Thomas Jarrell, lecturer, as follows: pantomime of First Thanksgiving by Mrs. Howard Crosson and Mrs. Raymond Lombard; origin of Thanksgiving by Mrs. John H. Dennison; guessing contest and games.

AID FOR FARMERS

Congressman Carlton R. Sickles, (D-Ad) has announced that the Department of Agriculture has offered Government-owned feed grain at reduced prices to supplement feed supply in Cecil and Harford Counties, where droughts have reduced the corn crop this season.

Road, Hockessin, a member of the Book Club of Hockessin Community, gave a book review for the Waverly Club last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. Steel Atwell with Mrs. Alfred Morse co-hostess. The speaker gave a review of "Barabbas" written by Lagerkvist, a Nobel prize winner in 1951. She also read the short story, "Father and I."

Mrs. Henry C. Mitchell explained the meaning of the club collect. Mrs. Edward Naudain had a reading.

Youngsters Visit University Farm With Schabinger

New Castle County children — many of whom have never had a close-up view of a calf or a baby chick — have had the time of their lives visiting the University of Delaware experimental farm.

Here, under the guidance of New Castle County Agent Ed Schabinger, youngsters tour the farm and have a chance to see — and touch — the animals.

Favorites seem to be the calves, baby chicks, lambs and a pony — most of which are quite willing to be petted or cuddled.

Children are shown how the animals are cared for, and also see machinery, field crops and other farming operations.

Most children are in kindergarten, or the lower grades in elementary schools.

Tours are given each year during October. With five or six hour-long tours a day, more than 4,000 children have visited the farm this fall.

Although this year's tours have ended Schabinger already has been asked to schedule tours next October.

on the turkey, and Mrs. Granville Eastburn spoke of the state song "Our Delaware." Words were written by George Hynson.

The hostess had a birthday cake honoring the organization of this club on Nov. 12, 1896.

There will be only one meeting next month — on Dec. 18 — a luncheon at the home of Mrs. George Parrie with Mrs. Ralph Klair co-hostess. Mrs. Ernest Lomax will have a Christmas program.

Winodausis Home Demonstration Club had a program last Wednesday on "Care of Home Appliances" and stressing washing machines and driers given by Mrs. Warren Gregg and Mrs. Laurence Ulmer, the hostess.

The club gave $10 to the medical ship "Hope" and contributed 31 cans of vegetables, fruits, and juices to the home for Aged Women.

The annual Christmas luncheon and party will be held Dec. 18, at the Newark Country Club with a gift exchange. Members have the privilege of bringing a guest.

Mrs. Joseph Eastburn had an article relative to teenagers' conduct and why parents are to blame for it. Mrs. Carl Miller reported on civil defense and Mrs. Ulmer on international relations. Mrs. Hazel Norton spoke about the centennial celebration of the famous Gettysburg Address, and Mrs. Elmer Taylor praised the bill giving aid to retarded children.

Leftover Turkey Offers Family Problem At Mealtime — But Aids Are Suggested

Almost everyone enjoys Thanksgiving turkey, but a growing dinner table may give way to a blighting refrigerator a few hours after the meal is finished and your family has departed, contented and at peace with the world.

Just as Thanksgiving means turkey, the day after Thanksgiving often means lamenting to "Not turkey for dinner — again."

If your family is the type that would rather not see turkey for a while, you can freeze meal-size portions of leftover meat in moisture-vapor-proof containers, according to Janet Coblenz, nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware. Then, a week or more after the holiday, surprise them with turkey pie; turkey and waffles; or turkey divan.

Turkey meat should be stored no longer than one to two months, Miss Coblenz adds.

Don't make the mistake of letting hot meats stand out until cold before refrigerating them. This is a risky practice and may invite food poisoning.

Contrary to an age-old tale, meat doesn't lose its flavor when refrigerated at once. Refrigerate it immediately, or cool quickly and then refrigerate. Never let cooked meat stand out longer than two hours, and if not stored in the freezer, plan to use it within four days.

Dressing doesn't cool as quickly as the meat. To prevent spoilage, it should be removed and stored in a separate container.

Cooked sliced turkey is tastefully prepared many different ways. For a mouth-watering turkey divan, place a layer of cooked broccoli in an oblong pan or casserole, top with slices of turkey and then with cheese sauce. Slip under the broiler to brown, or bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 25 minutes. Cover with French fried onion rings and continue to heat for five minutes.

Serve creamed turkey made with gravy, cream sauce or a condensed soup in a number of tempting ways — on rice or noodle rings, cornbread, toasted English muffins, or Chinese noodles.

Diamond State Dairyman Chops Crop

Green-chopping forage crops is one method Delaware dairyman have adopted to maximize production. High land prices and the need for larger herds make greater production per acre a necessity.

State's Dairyman Boost Production With Forage Crop

Delaware dairyman are changing their ways when it comes to forage crops they grow, and methods they use to harvest them.

A survey of 100 dairy farmers conducted by the University of Delaware reveals that they are finding new ways to produce more feed per acre of cropland. Such things as green-chop forage and year-round use of silos are creating new systems of forage production.

Dr. W. H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the university, says that 10 years ago the average Delaware dairyman used one-acre of ladino clover-orchard grass pasture per animal. Silos were used in the winter for corn silage, and Sudan grass was thought of only as a pasture crop.

Today, Mitchell says, more and more farmers are shifting to green-chop — a system where forage crops are harvested while they are still green, chopped and stored in silos.

Fifty per cent of the farmers surveyed chopped some of their forages, and year-round use of silos was the rule rather than exception.

The average dairyman in the survey utilized three-fifths of an acre of ladino clover-orchard grass; one-

Children Of Deceased Vets Offered Pension Benefits

Unmarried minor children of deceased veterans may be eligible for pension payments even when their mother, the veteran's widow, is not eligible. Leon Fields, manager of the VA regional office in Wilmington, pointed out today.

The widow may be ineligible due to having remarried, or because she has income in excess of established limits. Her ineligibility, does not make the veteran's minor children ineligible.

Fields said full details as to how minor children may file pension applications, may be obtained at the VA office.

Fifth acre Sudan grass and one-fifth-acre small grain as grazing crops for each animal.

The rest of the animals' roughage diet was being supplied through green-chop, Sudan grass, alfalfa hay and corn silage.

Mitchell says these adjustments can be attributed to rising costs of farmland, thus, a need to get greater production per acre, and a need to expand herd size to create more economical production units.

While there are probably other reasons behind their actions, the survey makes it clear that dairymen are becoming more aware of the necessity of getting maximum yields from their forage acres.

Meat Terminology For Shopper Cited By Home Ec Agent

Restaurants and super markets call cuts of meat by so many different names that it is difficult to be sure just what you're buying, notes Suzanne Mattel, New Castle County extension agent in home economics.

She explains that, in general, steaks tender enough to broil come from the loin section of the beef. Club steaks are the smallest of these cuts and are somewhat triangular in shape. Occasionally a boned rib steak is called a club steak.

The T-bone is larger than the club cut and includes some of the tenderloin portion.

The porterhouse is still larger — is slightly triangular in shape, and includes a larger portion of tenderloin. The tenderloin, Miss Mattel explains, is the portion of meat next to the bone and farthest from the outer band of fat. Some other names for a boned porterhouse or a T-bone with the tenderloin part removed, include a New York or Kansas City steak, loin strip or top loin.

The tenderloin portion by itself is called file or filet mignon or chateaubriand steak.

The sirloin is quite large but contains more fat and bone than other loin cuts. It is located further down the backbone and is sometimes called hip or rump steak.

Another steak tender enough for broiling is the rib steak, which is cut from the same section as the standing rib or rolled rib roast. A boned rib steak may also be called Delmonico, Spencer, club or rib-eye steak.

Flank steak comes from another part of the animal and is not considered one of the tender cuts, Miss Mattel explains. It is often called London broil, cube steak, chicken steak or minute steak. If U. S. Choice or U. S. Prime grades of this cut are quickly cooked or broiled to the rare stage, these steaks will be tender.

Several other cuts of meat are often called "steak" but these come from different parts of the animal and are not tender enough for broiling.

Among these "steaks" which must be braised or cooked in liquid are round and Swiss steaks, blade steak, chuck and arm steak.

Christmas Cooking Recipes Offered In U. D. Booklet

One of the pleasures of Christmas — for youngsters and nostalgic adults alike — is the aroma of fruit cakes, steamed puddings and cooking wafting from the kitchen on a chilly afternoon.

And it isn't too soon to start making some of these Christmas favorites, says Janet Coblenz, food specialist at the University of Delaware. In fact, fruit cakes and some types of cookies should be made now so they can "age" until Christmas. Other items may be made now and put into the freezer so the days just before Christmas won't be so rushed.

Many of these Christmas goodies — cakes, nut breads, assorted candies, make excellent gifts, too, Miss Coblenz says. Gifts of homemade fruit jam or jelly can be a real treat for even the hard-to-please person on your list, she says.

A University of Delaware publication "Christmas Goodies" contains a variety of recipes prepared by home economists, and is available from the Department of Rural Communications, University of Delaware, Newark.

Army Pvt. David Saunders Completes Field Course

Army Pfc David L. Saunders, 25, son of Letroy B. Saunders, 106 East Park Place, Newark, has completed a five-week wheeled-vehicle field maintenance course at the U. S. Army school in Murnau, Germany.

During the course Saunders received instruction in tune-up and trouble-shooting procedures, use of power tools, and preventive maintenance.

A driver in the 87th Infantry near Mannheim, Saunders entered the Army in 1962 and received basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C. He was stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., before arriving overseas last July.

Autumn Harvest Of Leaves Provides Rich Compost

Autumn is the time when Mother Nature provides harvest with fallen leaves which enrich the soil, and it is the wise gardener who takes advantage of this gift, says Dave Tamm of the New Castle County extension service.

This he can do by simply gathering and storing leaves in a pile to form a dark, crumbly, organic substance called compost — the finest soil conditioner available.

by Dean Belt
4-H Club Agent

Eight of our 4-H'ers — state winners — are on their way to Chicago to attend National 4-H Congress.

These persons have worked hard to earn this trip and it is an honor to be selected.

Representing New Castle County are Jean Crum, Wilmington, state foods winner; Elaine Gibson, Newark, the state dress revue winner; Nancy Schafer, Bear, the home economics winner; and Lea Tamm, Newark, state poultry winner.

Boys are well represented by Ken Lomax, Newark, the entomology winner; Robert Moore, Jr., Bear, the dairy winner; Leo Tamm, Newark, state poultry winner.

These 4-H'ers were given an orientation at Agricultural Hall by Mr. Baker, the state leader. After a farewell luncheon for the 4-H'ers and their parents, they boarded a bus for the ride to Baltimore and the train.

The 4-H members should arrive in Baltimore Friday morning, just before President Kennedy was assassinated.

Report On Survey Of Proposed Site Expected By NHA

The Newark Housing Authority expects a final report of an engineering survey of the proposed site for its low-rent housing project on East Cleveland Avenue, within two weeks, and Avery H. Goddin, NHA chairman, said test borings and a surface survey are being conducted by Edward R. Richardson Associates, Inc., of Newark, for Architect Richard P. Fox.

Meeting last week, the NHA instructed its attorney John Van Brunt, to continue negotiations for property next to the 3.23 acres of land the city has agreed to sell.

to the authority for $5 if the adjoining property is acquired.

Adjoining land of the William Barnard estate, is administered by Mrs. Barnard and three daughters.

Wm. E. Duhadaway Dies In Hospital

William E. Duhadaway, 81, died Sunday in Wilmington General Hospital after a lingering illness.

Born in Odessa, he was a widower and lived with his daughter, Mrs. Chester W. Harden of Glasgow.

Mr. Duhadaway was a blacksmith with the Sun Oil Co. in Marcus Hook for 17 years before he retired in 1946.

In addition to Mrs. Harden, he is survived by a son, William Ernest Duhadaway Jr., Clifton Heights, Pa.

Services were conducted Wednesday afternoon in Townsend Methodist Church, with interment in Townsend Methodist Cemetery.

Friends called Tuesday evening at the William J. Warwick Funeral Home, 121 West Park Place, Newark.

Delayed Disability Claims Cause Loss In Benefits

Delay in filing a disability claim under the social security program can cause loss of benefit payments, according to Myron Milbourn, social security manager in Wilmington.

Many people with serious illnesses or injuries fail to inquire about disability benefits because they rely on information from friends and neighbors which may be incorrect or out of date, or think their condition isn't serious enough or will improve. These people risk possible loss of their social security benefits, Milbourn said.

For more information about the social security disability program, Milbourn suggests that people get in touch with the Wilmington office and ask for Pamphlets 29 and 871.

Thaw-Freezing Tips Offered By Expert For Frozen Foods

If frozen foods thaw, by accident or otherwise, it is not always necessary to discard them, reports Suzanne Mattei, county extension agent, home economics.

Foods that have thawed partially but still have ice crystals in the package may be safe to refreeze, but foods, which have warmed up to a temperature of more than 40 degrees F., are not likely to be fit for refreezing.

Meats, poultry, most vegetables, and some prepared foods may become unsafe to eat. Most fruits and fruit products soon develop an undesirable flavor after thawing.

Thawing impairs color, flavor and texture, she explains, and the refreezing period causes further loss in quality. However, if the total time of the thawing and refreezing period is short enough, quality may still be high enough to justify refreezing.

Miss Mattei suggests refreezing partially thawed foods as soon and as rapidly as possible. To get a quick freeze, it is best to take your food to a commercial cold storage or locker plant, she says.

The best way to save food in a home freezer if the electricity goes off for more than 12 hours is to use dry ice in your freezer and to open the freezer door as few times as possible.

A final reminder from Miss Mattei is to use the refrozen foods soon because they will not keep as long as foods which have remained completely frozen.

SPEAKING OF INSECTS

with DALE BRAY
ENTOMOLOGIST
University of Delaware

Long before man had mastered electricity, some insects were producing their own light. Most of the light-making insects are beetles in the firefly family.

There are over 1,500 species of "fireflies" in the world, but not all produce light.

When you see a firefly "blinking" while in flight it probably is a male. Usually the females don't fly, but most of them do "wink" back at the males.

The whole business of these blinking lights centers around romance for the fireflies.

Much of our knowledge of the various species comes from an amateur entomologist in Wilmington, Frank McDermott.

Most fireflies don't eat much as adults. Instead, the growing or larval stage is when most of the feeding is done. The food of these young fireflies often consists of snails and certain caterpillars. So they not only give us the pleasant flashes of light at night, but they feed on some of the pests which damage our gardens.

The glowworm is a firefly without wings. Actually, the male glowworm has wings but he doesn't glow.

In some parts of the world fireflies are captured in large numbers to be released for lawn and garden parties.

Each year during late spring and early fall I receive several calls concerning swarms of honeybees. In an average swarm there will be about 15,000 bees, and when this mass of potential stingers settles on a bush or tree in the yard it is no wonder that the homeowner becomes deeply concerned. Actually, the danger of being stung by bees which are swarming is very slight.

That's because they are all full of honey, which they store in their stomachs while searching for a new home. And when bees are full of honey they are most reluctant to sting.

Usually the swarm won't stay on a bush or tree very long. Shortly after a swarm appears, several bees called scouts leave to hunt for a new home in a hollow tree, an empty hive, or between the walls of a house. These scouts return to the swarm and tell the individuals in the swarm the location of the place they have found and its general quality. Yes, they really do! They do it by dancing and emitting little sounds, both of which can be interpreted accurately by man. In the dance, the scout bee will move in a figure-8 pattern. The number of turns made in a given number of seconds indicates the distance to the new home and the angle of the figure-8 indicates the direction.

It is common for more than one scout to report on different locations. When this happens it is the scout who dances most vigorously who is followed. In general, the more vigorous the dance, the more desirable the new home. Within a couple of days the swarm will take wing from the temporary quarters and head for the new home.

Insect pests that carry disease organisms have caused more wartime casualties than swords, bullets and bombs. One of the most spectacular examples of the role of insects in war occurred toward the end of the first World War in Russia where some three million people died of typhus, a disease spread by the tiny human louse.

Diaries of Japanese pilots in World War II frequently describe the wretched conditions of their ground forces which were plagued by malaria, a disease spread by mosquitoes.

During the Spanish-American War, 80 per cent of the deaths of soldiers was caused by typhoid fever, a disease which the common house fly can and does play a major role in transmission.

The Panama Canal is associated with the United States today because of mosquitoes. It was the yellow fever mosquito which drove the French from the Canal Zone in defeat. Before the arrival of U. S. troops, the death rate in this area was nearly one man in four, mostly due to yellow fever. American scientists proved that the disease was carried by a mosquito, and control of the mosquito led to completion of the Panama Canal.

Yellow fever is not limited to tropical countries. It has occurred in Boston and New York, and in 1793 it was responsible for the death of 4,000 people in nearby Philadelphia.

The largest yellow fever epidemic in this country occurred in the Mississippi valley several years after the Civil War when 13,000 persons died.

When Buick builds a LeSabre... Buick builds a high-priced car, and puts a low price on it.

Lots of cars are in LeSabre's price class, but that's where the resemblance ends. For instance: Does anybody else in LeSabre's class treat you to that gentle Buick ride or impressive Buick performance and new gas economy? No. And who else gives you 15-inch wheels, finned aluminum front brakes, extra cushioning for middle-seat travelers, and separate heat ducts and controls for the rear seat? Right again: Nobody in LeSabre's field but LeSabre. If all this makes you think a LeSabre would look awfully nice in your garage, you should see how nicely it fits a budget. You know who to see about it, of course: your Buick dealer. Who else? Above all, it's a Buick.
