ACHIEVEMENT DAY A GREAT SUCCESS

More than two hundred rural home makers attended the second annual Achievement Day and Home Makers picnic at Wolf Hall, University of Delaware, on last Thursday. These home makers who attended are members of the various Home Demonstration Clubs of New Castle county and their friends, and in a few instances, the husbands came.

The morning session was taken up with very interesting reports from each club and reports from a few of the kitchen contestants. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Edward McGinnis of Hare's Corner.

The afternoon program was opened with a song contest which proved one of the features of the day. Each group sang a song that had been composed by a member of their club. After considerable difficulty, the judges decided the winners as follows: First, State Road; second, Wimdousis Club, Hockessin; third, Middletown Club. Honorable mention to Taylor's Bridge Club.

The talks were followed by the style show and this was another special feature. Representatives from eight different clubs throughout the county were contestants in this event. Each group was called to the platform separately and each wore dresses that they had made themselves and which were viewed by the judges. They were all house dresses and in some instances they were the first dresses the wearer had ever made. Prizes in this contest were awarded as follows:

First, Mrs. T. Arthur Evans, Middletown; second, Mrs. Wilson Keyser, Taylor's Bridge; third, Mrs. Frank Council, Taylor's Bridge; fourth, Mrs. Arthur Ginn, Taylor's Bridge; fifth, Mrs. Fred Trimble, Hockessin.

During the morning a radiogram was received from Dean Winifred J. Robinson of the Women's College, who is enroute to Europe, wishing success to the meeting.

It was announced that there will be a kitchen tour on June 19 and 23, when various kitchens entered in the better kitchen contest will be visited, and inspected.

JUNE 19, 1930

The New Graduates

The Newark High School turned forth forty-two young men and women, at the annual commencement exercises on Tuesday evening, to enter upon their new duties in life. For some it will mean entering upon another course of advanced education to further prepare themselves for their life's work while for others it was the beginning of their efforts to earn their livelihood on their own resources.

Fortunate indeed are these young men and women to have had an opportunity to prepare themselves for their next step in life at the Newark High School. Their state of preparedness depends largely upon themselves as the facilities of the local school were at their service throughout their school years and there are no better facilities for education in a high school in this State.

We congratulate the Class of 1930 upon their exceptionally fine scholastic record. May they be successful in their efforts to "Press onward and upward and sail beyond the setting sun." May they enter upon a new life of service to their fellow men.

A Mechanized Band

The United States Army is experimenting with a mechanical music box mounted on a three-quarter ton truck to see if possibly it cannot replace the traditional army band and army bugler; and if the army is wise it will presently report that the whole scheme is impractical and visionary.

Imagine a stirring military review led, not by a quick-stepping, inspiring band but a magnavox on a truck. Imagine the plaintive, haunting notes of "Taps" sounding over an encampment—not from a bugle at the lips of an immobile trumpeter, but from a tin horn connected with a set of electrical gadgets and gimmicks. How long would the glamour of military life survive?

The whole suggestion, really, sounds as if it had been cooked up by a group of pacifists. The band and the bugler are two of the best props the army ever had. If it substitutes for them a contraption that emits music through a loud-speaker the army will rob itself of about 60 per cent of its appeal.

A Nation of Tourists

You get something of a conception of the extent to which the American people go touring about in their autos every summer when you learn that the hot dog and soft drink stands along the roadside do a total business of around $500,000,000 a year.

This figure is furnished by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce. He finds that there are now between 110,000 and 125,000 roadside stands; that more than half of them keep open all the year round and that new ones are being added at the rate of 3,000 a year.

Half a billion dollars is a sizable turnover for any business. The hot dog stand is pushing its way up into the rank of major industries. Some organizing genius probably will come along presently and loop a few thousand of these establishments into one vast, coast-to-coast chain, meanwhile the industry, unique in a land of great mergers, is composed of innumerable small, one-man concerns—a new field for individualism in the business world.

It isn't the size of this business that is interesting, however, so much as it is the meaning back of it. The number of tourists must be simply stupendous for the hot dog and pop sales to rise to half a billion dollars. That sales figure reflects a spread of the vacation habit greater than anything the world has ever known before. The surface of the earth has been pretty well furrowed, in the course of history, by the migrations of its people, but was there ever anything like this annual migrations of Americans and Canadians? Millions of men, women and children go roving every summer. They make the wanderings of the romantic gypsies look puny. They cover a whole continent.

Dwellers in the interior go spinning off to see what the oceans look like, coast folk swing over the mountains and have a look at the midlands. Mountains and lakes and rivers and set beaches and deserts slide under the wheels of a million cars, and provincialism goes out of existence under a million sets of rubber tires. The whole nation shuffles itself each year, and Mr. Average Citizen perched behind his steering wheel, does more traveling in one month than his ancestors did in all their lives—and does it in incomparably greater comfort.

And—just to set the picture in its real proportions—the incidental food and drink bill of these roving tourists comes to half a million dollars.

There never was anything remotely like it before. Its ultimate effects can hardly be estimated; but you may be sure they will be profound. The American spirit, 50 years hence, will be infinitely the richer because of this background of wandering.

STRAWBERRY SEASON IS ALMOST ENDED

The strawberry season throughout lower Delaware is rapidly drawing to a close. To date, a compilation of shipments shows that the crop was about 50 per cent of last season. Freight, express and boat shipments from the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula to date total 862 cars as compared with 1,652 on June 14, last year. Delaware has sent out 202 cars this season as against 401 for the corresponding period a year ago, and a total of 418 for the entire season. The Eastern Shore of Maryland has shipped 410 cars as compared with 723 for the same period last year and a total of 784 for the season. The Eastern Shore of Virginia had a total of 500 for last year, while this year only 250 cars have been shipped.

Total truck shipments from the Peninsula up until June 14 reached 247,486 crates as compared with 494,907 last season.

The season in the two counties of Virginia comprising a portion of Del-Mar-Va, stopped shipments the first of the week. On Thursday the bottom apparently dropped out of the market for Delaware and Eastern Shore of Maryland, possibly due to the fact that fresh fruit from New Jersey was being trucked into New York, Philadelphia and other markets in Pennsylvania and New York State.

At Selbyville, the largest shipping point in Delaware, Gandys ranged from $2.50 to $4.00, mostly $3.00-$3.50; while at Bridgeville, the second largest shipping point, this variety sold from $2.00-$4.00, mostly from $3.25-$3.75. They were selling in Philadelphia for practically the same price as they were bought at the auction blocks in this section.

FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Lewis, Sr., on Sunday, June 15. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Sheppard and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Pierce K. Crompton and family, of Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Conrad K. D. Lewis and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Lewis, Jr., and family, and Miss Harriett Lewis, all of Newark. The reunion, which was arranged by the children, came as a very agreeable surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis.

JOHN P. NIELDS WILL BE NAMED

More Endorsements than Any Other Senator Hastings Declares; Would Accept Place

The name of John P. Nields, former United States District Attorney and war veteran, will be recommended to the Attorney General tomorrow for Judge of the United States District Court of Delaware, to succeed Judge Hugh M. Morris, unless the unexpected happens.

According to United States Senator Daniel O. Hastings, Mr. Nields had received, up until Wednesday night, more endorsements from members of the Delaware State Bar Association than any other person who has been mentioned for the place.

It is known that the Delaware representatives have taken up the naming of Mr. Nields with Attorney General William B. Mitchell.

He has also, been shown many endorsements and is satisfied that Mr. Nields is the man for the place.

Attorney's Voice Chose Following the announcement made by Judge Morris, that he had tendered his resignation, effective June 30, Delaware's representatives in Washington, prevailed upon the members of the bar association to assist them in making a recommendation.

This week Senator Hastings sent each member a letter asking them to inform him of their choice, and the answers were prompt.

For the most part, the choice of the attorneys was sent by telegraph or special delivery letter.

After receiving the recommendation from the Delaware Senators, the Attorney General will make the recommendation to President Hoover, who in turn will present it to the Senate which will refer it to a subcommittee. This subcommittee will favorably report it to the full committee and the name will then go to the Senate for confirmation. It is expected the appointment will be made and confirmed by the end of the month.

PLAN REDUCTION OF STATE DEBT

Seven Hundred Thousand Dollars of State Bonds to be Retired

Increased activity is reported in both the corporation and automobile departments of the Secretary of State's office. While the receipts from the charter business do not approximate those of a year ago, due to decreased capitalization, there has, however, been a gradual increase month by month for the last six months. Should the volume of business continue to show the same improvement during the coming months of the year, the total receipts for 1930 will be about $2,000,000. This will insure the anticipated available cash balance of $5,000,000 at the beginning of the fiscal year 1931.

Another call of State bonds is being made by the Sinking Fund Commission for July 1, 1930, at which time approximately $700,000 will be cancelled. This will make a total cancellation of $3,000,000 for the year, and bring the bonded indebtedness down to $5,000,000. It is the hope of Governor Buck that the General Assembly of 1931 will lend assistance to the cancellation of all the State's indebtedness before the close of his tenure of office.

During May $41,796.55 was paid to the State Treasurer for use of the State Highway Department from the auto license bureau.

High school farewell assembly was held Tuesday morning in the gym of the school. Rachel Sherwood was chairman. The seniors marched in to assembly in cap and gown and took their places while the rest of the school stood in deference.

A feature of the assembly was the giving of awards through the year. Members of the varsity baseball team were recommended for N's by Coach Thomas Mallin, and they were presented by Ira S. Brinzer. Those receiving them were: Paul Whitman, captain, D. Cole, Frank Mayer, John Edmundson, Victor Willis, Donald Handloff, manager.

Pierce, Roland Jackson and Isadore Mr. McMenniman, coach of the elementary baseball team which this year won the second leg on the cup, announced the letter winners. If the team wins the cup another year, the trophy will become the property of the school. The letters awarded this team were yellow N's on a black diamond-shaped background. Those winning this honor were: Raymond Beers, captain; Wallace Jordan, Paul Milligan, Bayard Perry, John Deal, Clifford Lumox, Clinton Kennedy, Vernon Coleman.

Certificates were given for perfect attendance for 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 year periods. In the higher classes, Viola Frazer got a certificate for 7 years perfect attendance, and Willard Grant got one for a record of 8 years perfect attendance.

Ninety-eight members of the Ninth grade received certificates granting them admission to the senior high school next year. This is the largest class ever to be admitted to the high school.

Members of the four classes of the high school held picnics Monday. The seniors went to Port Herman, the juniors and sophomores to White Crystal Beach, and the freshmen to Charlestown Beach.

Report New Dry Plan For State

While saloons in Camden, Atlantic City and other Garden State wet spots have made a practice of specializing in beer, Pennsylvania was famous as a whiskey State. It was the source of supply for liquor dealers as far West as Kansas City. Alcohol was another of Pennsylvania's chief products in those days and shipments of it were sent all over the East.

Then came Wynne. From Washington he received cooperation accorded to few other administrators. The politicians had orders to keep their hands off him. Sensational raids came in quick succession. Like birds before a storm the liquor interests took flight. In a few years he was credited with the greatest liquor cleanup in this part of the Union.

And that, his friends pointed out, is the record of the man who may within a few weeks start out to give New Jersey a mopping-up.

Dr. James M. Doran, prohibition greatly dissatisfied with the New commissioner, is known to have been in Jersey situation for months. One administrator after another has been put in charge of enforcement there and one after another they have failed to stop the gurgling flow of the beer flood. Since the Volstead act was passed 19 administrators have attempted the task, only to be "jerked."

It was this dissatisfaction of Dr. Doran that is reported to be behind the consolidation of the three States into one district.

total assessment of $216,604,760.96. The amount of taxes actually due will be $1,732,838.08, but it is estimated that rebates to prompt-paying taxpayers will amount to be about $78,000.

The receipts for the coming year are estimated at $2,177,838.08, which includes an anticipated cash balance of $150,000 as of June 30, 1930. As is done in all budgets, $200.00 is reserved for the operation of the county during July, August and September, 1931, when few taxes are paid.

The workhouse is allowed $25,000 for improvements and the trustees of the poor are allowed $10,000 for improvements. The Mothers' Pension Fund is allowed $26,500, an increase of $4,500.

Appropriations for unfinished construction and reconstruction of new roads will be greater next year than during the closing year, but the appropriation for new road construction will be less.

For unfinished construction, $110,000 is provided, as compared with $60,000 the past year; for reconstruction of improved roads, $160,000 as compared with $138,000, and for new construction, $152,000 as compared with $265,000.

As unappropriated funds there will be $30,288.08. The unappropriated funds set out in the budget for the closing year were $12,448.65.

POTATO PROTECTION

To protect potatoes in the home garden from early blight, late blight, and hopperburn, the foliage should be dusted with a copper lime dust or sprayed with Bordeaux mixture. The ingredients for Bordeaux mixture can be purchased in prepared form in the proportions for home mixing, or proprietary Bordeaux mixture may be obtained from seedmen. The application of liquid should be made with a sprayer, preferably the knapsack or pressure type, which is capable of thoroughly atomizing the spray. It is essential to coat both sides of the leaves with a fine mist.

For protection from insects, a mixture of dehydrated lime and Paris green at the rate of 1 pound of poison to 20 pounds of lime may be dusted over the plants. If used in liquid form, milk of lime should be added to the mixture to prevent injury to plants. Dry materials may be applied with a dust-distributing can, or even by putting the dust in a cheesecloth bag and shaking it over the plants. Liquid insecticide applications on a small plot may be made with a watering can or garden atomizer.

SUNOCO MOTOR OIL

"Almost every motorist can recall the time when relatively small deposits of hard carbon did little harm to automobile motors," says Mr. Robert Weir, Jr., who is the local branch manager of the Sun Oil Company. "But that was before the time of the modern high compression motor which has appeared during the last few years. In these motors even small amounts of hard carbon are serious problems. Research engineers have discovered that as little as one-thirty-second of an inch of hard carbon will cause up to 20 per cent loss of power. "Going further into this investigation these engineers found that hard carbon was caused primarily by motor oils which were not wholly distilled. Instead of burning away like a wholly distilled oil, a residue collects in a sticky mass, catches soot and dust and then is baked into hard, flinty carbon by the high heat of the motor.

"Many methods have been suggested for overcoming this formation of hard carbon but it seems that Sunoco Motor Oil is about the most sensible. This motor oil is 100 per cent distilled, and for that reason it does not contain any paraffine or cylinder stock and no hard carbon.

"There is a proper grade of Sunoco Motor Oil for every make of car and by using it you can avoid loss of power, unnecessary knocking and the repair bills that come in each time an old fashioned oil has necessitated carbon removal."

HELP FOR HAYMAKERS

Many farmers could save time and labor in haying by using stackers, in the opinion of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. With stackers, hay-makers can build larger stacks thus reducing the waste hay on the outside of the stack. Loading hay on a wagon by hand and unloading with slings or a fork, eliminates about half the hand labor. By using the sweep rake or the hay loader and also slings, fork, or a stacker, pitching is reduced to a minimum. Stackers are comparatively inexpensive and several homemade types are efficient and fairly easy and cheap to construct. Farmers' Bulletin 16-15-F, Hay Stackers and Their Use, describes the different types of stackers, their cost, conditions favorable for the use of the different types, the size of the stack that can be built with each, and the size and duties of the crews. This publication may be procured from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

KEEP REFRIGERATOR FILLED

Keep the refrigerator well filled with ice. When there is too small a piece the temperature of the entire box rises. This not only endangers the food kept in it but causes the next piece to melt more rapidly in chilling the box to a desirable degree.

STATE PLANS TO INSPECT AUTOS

All Cars Will Have to be Examined; May Revoke Licenses

A determined and more efficient inspection of automobiles has been decided upon by Secretary of State Charles H. Grantland. Within a short time, Mr. Grantland will issue a statement calling upon all motorists to go to the nearest "official" garage which will be selected in various parts of the State, and have their cars inspected.

Last year the insurance companies through a special organizer made an attempt to have all the cars inspected, but as Mr. Grantland admits, the attempt was a mere farce. Owners of expensive cars whose motor apparatus was probably in the best of condition, desiring to obey the law, had their cars inspected. But the ones who were really aimed at, that is owners of third and fourth-hand cars, evaded the issue and did not have their cars inspected. It is this character of motorists who pay ten to twenty-five dollars for a decrepit machine that this state-wide official inspection is seeking.

Mr. Grantland proposes to call for the official inspection under Section 24 (a) of the Motor Regulations of Delaware, which reads as follows:

"The Department shall rescind and cancel the registration of any vehicle which the Department shall determine is unsafe or unfit to be operated or is not equipped as required by law."

After the time limit announced by Mr. Grantland for the inspection of cars has expired, then clerks in the Titling Department at Dover will check up and determine the motorists that had failed to take this official inspection seriously. These persons will be notified that if they do not have their car inspected within a certain time their driver's license will be revoked.

"I propose to make this inspection as thorough as possible," said Mr. Grantland, "and if the citizens of Delaware do not like it, they will have the opportunity next winter of having this portion of Section 24 eliminated from the Motor Code."

H. S. GRADUATES SHOW INCREASE

Schools in Rural Delaware
Have Gain of Sixty-three

The high schools in rural Delaware will turn out 63 more graduates this year than they did during the commencement exercises throughout the State a year ago, according to the records available at the office of the State Board of Education.

When this year's commencement programs are completed, a total of 473 students will have received diplomas from the rural high schools in the State while last year a total of 410 were graduated.

This increase in the number of graduates this year is very pleasing to the State officials who have already indicated that the total number to receive diplomas in 1931 will be in excess of the number graduated this year.

There are a total of 35 four year high schools in rural Delaware. Thirteen of these high schools are operated in special school districts while the remaining twenty-five come under the supervision of the State Board of Education.

Many of the students who graduated from the rural Delaware high schools this year have already completed their plans to enter institutions of higher education next fall.

The season for commencement exercises in rural Delaware will come to a close next Tuesday, when the final graduation exercises will be held. The first commencement exercises were held during the week of Memorial Day.

Encourages the Competitive Idea

Thus the Grange Stimulates Rural Life and Pep

One of the ways in which the Grange during its long and useful career has been the means of injecting enthusiasm and courage into otherwise waning rural life has been by the development of the competitive spirit, inducing rural people to join in various groups, contests and similar activities for the improvement of the rural welfare.

These competitions have taken various forms and have been especially noteworthy the past few years, developing almost a variety of lines. In Massachusetts, for example, the community service competition each year among the Granges results in carrying out almost endless rural projects of an educational and community betterment character, with the spirit of pleasant rivalry setting many groups at work to win the prizes offered by the State Grange.

In Michigan state-wide song contests are annually staged, the county winners being ultimately brought together at the state university for a final tryout. The various competing teams are frequently accompanied by delegations of "rooters" as enthusiastic as ever attended a rural ball game and in consequence of these contests the musical standards of Rural Michigan have been materially raised.

In Delaware the Grange contests center around dramatic events and the annual state finals, in which all the Delaware counties competed with well drilled dramatic teams, have just been held, with generous cash prizes for the winners.

LEGION WOMEN SELL 20,400 POPPIES

The executive committee of the American Legion Auxiliary met in the Legion Home in Wilmington, Monday afternoon. Mrs. William N. Cann, presided.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the chaplain, Mrs. Park W. Huntington.

The committee in charge of the recent sale of poppies reported Delaware Auxiliary had sold 20,400 poppies, which was more than the State quota.

Mrs. William C. Speakman advised that a vice-chairman be chosen for the Pledge committee and Mrs. Edward R. Mulrooney was chosen for the office.

It was decided to hold the Legion Auxiliary convention on the same dates as of the Legion.

A prize of $5 will be awarded the auxiliary unit having the most new members from May 1 until July 1.

At the meeting Monday were Mrs. William N. Cann, president; Mrs. Leon Stayton, Miss Mary Lynch, Miss Harriet Rogers, Mrs. John Bader, 2nd, Mrs. C. P. Taylor, Mrs. C. M. Dillon, Mrs. Leonard Rhoads of Newark, Mrs. H. C. McSherry of Dover, and Mrs. William Garrison, of Smyrna.

JEANNE SMITH GETS PRIZE AT CLUB DINNER BUT IT ISN'T A CASE OF BEER

Many Novelties at Pete Give Convention a Christmas Atmosphere. Visiting Clubs Put On Acts and All Make Merry

Talk about loot! Lend an ear, boys and girls. You would have thought Christmas had arrived in June, if you had been a guest at the Club Hostess Dinner last week at the Du Pont Country Club. Never in a somewhat exciting life have I seen so many prizes gathered together in one place at one time—and each to be had if the official drawer drew the lucky number for you. This club was a woman's civic and social club. And what a Club! But it is even more. It is a national organization, and all the shouting last week was due to the fact that it was holding its first convention. The week was thronged with going places and doing things. There were breakfasts and eats and luncheons, and outings of every nature. As one of the prizes was a case of beer—well you can use your own imagination. Of course, it was near beer, they said. Unfortunately for the public which always wishes to know the truth, I wasn't able to get near enough to this prize to give first hand information.

I could tell you things about those prizes for hours. There were lamps, and leather week-end bags and candy and electric toasters, and beautiful leather pocketbooks, and kegs of soap and cartons of soap. I even got a prize myself. Mine was the magic number 13—1000 numbers drawn, which proves that you mustn't give up hope. My prize was a large elegant box of assorted cakes, and a huge box of tea bags. And here is a secret, I am on a diet. My prize points to a Tea Party, and if you watch these columns closely there may be more news along this line, but you mustn't tell. For instance, instead of coupons, anyone would be invited who had read two of my stories—if they promise not to tell what they thought of them. Something like that might be effective.

But to get back to the Club Dinner, you found your place at the table simply loaded with favors, handsome slabs of California red-wood suitably arranged to hang on the wall, small papers of lip sticks fixed like a paper of matches, darning silk for silk hose with needle, salted nuts in individual bags, fascinating little animals made of dried fruits, also from a California club, and a peculiar bug made of an almond with green eyes. I was delirious with joy when I made all these discoveries. All around the room the other guests were chortling with delight and a sound of happy cooing ascended to the gift chandeliers. As a matter of fact every one was so busy admiring her respective possessions that the food was almost neglected, and the program wasn't even read.

The dinner was progressive. This was a great mistake. Suddenly soft lights began to play about the room and there was a shifting of chairs. Fortunately the hostess at each table knew what it was all about. This was a new idea in dinners. The even numbered guests were to progress to the next table. Came the chicken a-la-king and vegetables. Came much conversation. Then the real suspense began when the chairman began the awarding of the lucky number prizes. The President of the Club presided at table one. The happy suspense of lucky number drawing and dinner lasted until 9.30, when the entertainment program started. Each visiting club had been asked to put on a little act of its own, but not all accepted. The President of our club decided to combine her act with a sketch put on by the Los Angeles Club on account of the lateness of the hour. But here, don't ask me what time the dinner broke up. Ssssssh! It's a secret. And besides, you know how your husband does when he attends his club dinner.

SUMMER CARE OF THE SKIN THAT IS FAIR

The girl or woman who has a delicately fair complexion is often the envy of others. But while such a complexion is indeed very lovely, it has its disadvantages. From now on I know my mail will contain many letters from my readers with sensitive skins who complain of having acquired a painful sunburn with the result rough, scaly and even cracked skin. In the first place remember that a thin, fair skin should never be exposed to the weather without first applying a thin film of cream and powder. This will not only prevent painful sunburn and freckles, but will keep the skin from becoming too dry and harsh. Here is a lotion which those with a delicate skin will find most helpful. Two ounces almond oil, two ounces cologne water and ten drops tincture of benzoin—shake well—apply to the skin night and morning after cleansing and also apply a thin film before applying foundation cream and make-up.

A fair skin usually freckles very easily, but these freckles are generally of the type which disappear with the passing of hot weather and fade entirely in winter. So instead of using a drastic freckle bleach to fade these temporary blemishes it is more satisfactory to give the skin a semi-weekly bleaching pack, which may be made as follows: One ounce carbonate magnesia, two ounces fuller's earth, one teaspoonful peroxide, ten drops simple tincture of benzoin, sufficient rose water or witch-hazel to make a smooth paste. If preferred, buttermilk may be used in place of the witch-hazel or rose water. In using the pack, first cleanse the face with cream, then apply the pack and allow it to dry on the skin. After twenty minutes or more, wash off the pack with tepid water and blot the skin dry. Apply cold cream or lemon cream and gently massage the face and neck. Remove excess cream, put on skin tonic and finish make-up, if going out of doors. If pack is used at bed time, apply soothing oil or tissue cream afterward and allow it to remain on the skin over night.

Jeane Smith.

Those whose skin burns easily will be glad to know that the following lotion used as a powder base does much to prevent burning. Mix one teaspoonful of quinine with twenty teaspoonfuls of almond oil. Shake well and apply to face and neck. When going bathing this lotion is splendid for the back and limbs where they are exposed by the bathing suit. Stearate of zinc or talcum powder may be dusted on the limbs after apply the base. Further to help prevent painful sunburn, in addition to taking all these precautions, milady must remember that she should use moderation in exposing her skin to the rays of the hot summer sun. Spend just a few minutes in the sun the first day, gradually increasing the length of time, giving the skin opportunity to adjust itself to the new condition—this will permit one to enjoy the advantages of the helpful rays of the sun and yet prevent a painful sunburn.

Letters to Jeanne

"Jeanne" answers all questions relating to problems of married life. Names and addresses should be added to letters, as a mark of good faith, but of course will not be published. Write "Jeanne" care of The Newark Post, Wilmington Office, 809 Tatnall Street, Wilmington.

Volumes have been written around the theme, "The first year of marriage is the hardest." It is during this period of adjustment that the foundation is laid for lasting happiness, or unhappiness. Much unhappiness could be avoided if each young love bird would accept the other "as is." Many young couples, however, are unwilling to do this. Close companionship brings to light many unsuspected faults, and the battle of the first year begins in earnest. Often it is the husband who gets the idea into his head that the young wife might be improved upon. Again it is the wife who appoints herself a committee of one to make the husband over into something more perfect than a human being. In either case the ball of discord starts rolling only to stop when the young people come to their senses and decide to let well enough alone. Sometimes it never stops. Emily D., after six months of marriage, has awakened to the realization that her lord and master is somewhat conceited. She has decided to take the matter into her own hands and make the young fellow over, using her darling brother as a pattern.

Jeane Smith.

Dear Jeanne Smith—

I have been married six months to the man I love. He is kind and attentive, but he has certain traits that puzzle and embarrass me. In the first place he is very conceited in spite of his other fine qualities. He is always showing off, especially in front of my family, which is very embarrassing to me. In fact the family jokes about the way he acts, and I am sure outsiders do the same thing. I have asked him to be less self assured and conceited for my sake, but he only grows angry and sulks. He is very ambitious, and has great plans for the future, but as my brother says, he would be much better off, if he would do less talking and boasting about what he expects to do. Now before I married I lived with my brother and his mother. My brother is a quiet type and not at all conceited. Perhaps that is why I can't understand my husband. I must admit his conceit is getting on my nerves. How can I change him?

Emily D.

Answer—Accept him "as is." I doubt if you can change him, and why do you feel that you must make him over? Why can't you accept him "as is?" He doesn't seem like a bad sort in spite of his conceit. Vanity, you know, is a universal trait, and all men have their share. You should learn to play up to your husband's little fancies, applaud his pet ambitions. When he says he is the best in town, go him one better and assure him he is the best in the world. It won't hurt you to encourage him, and men love that sort of thing. Why compare him with your brother? Your brother may be ever so quiet and unassuming at home where folks actually have his number, but I have an idea that he does his share of horn blowing when he's out with his girl friend. Don't let him kid you. He's given her to understand that he's a pretty fine fellow. I think you are making much ado about nothing, and you are on a fair way towards becoming a nagging critical wife. Let your husband put on his one-man-shows. They are perfectly harmless and natural.

Jeane Smith.

Dear Jeanne Smith—

I am a young man 24, and am married, but my wife and I have separated. She has gone home to live with her mother. In the meantime I have met a girl 22, who has been married eleven months. She has taken a liking to me, and I have done likewise to her. She is not going to remain with her husband as he does not treat her right. She has to go to work and support him and he beats her. My wife was married before. I tried to do all I could for her, but to no avail. I have not applied for a divorce, as at present I am not financially fixed for that. Do you see any reason why this young girl (a married woman) and I (a married man) should not go together, as long as we just remain friends, and in time, when divorces from both sides are obtained, marry and be happy—as we both have gone through plenty?

Joe K.

Answer—You are a supposed civilized human being, not an animal. You have no right to run around with this woman as long as you are married and she is married. You are inviting disaster and tragedy. When you and she are legally free you will have a perfect right to marry again if you are so anxious to get back into hot water again. In the meantime, for her sake and yours, let her alone.

Jeane Smith.

Dear Jeanne Smith—

For the last few months I have been troubled with falling eyelashes losing at least two every day. Previous to this my eyes were examined by an excellent optician who found the vision to be perfect. I have been using vaseline on the lashes every night, but with no favorable results.

Answer—Falling eyelashes are usually an indication that one's general health is below par. Have a thorough physical examination by a doctor. Make sure you are not overweight for age and height. A single eyewash that may be used daily may be made by dissolving a heaping spoonful of boric acid in a pint of water. Use an eyecup or a medicine dropper to wash out the eyes, using the lotion tepid—use the wash several times a day. Continue using white vaseline (or olive oil) on the lashes every night to promote their growth.

Luggage that comes from "Connors," 235-237 Market Street, Wilmington, insures you always looking your best and always being suitably apparelled for the occasion at hand. Among Connors' luggage you will find a wide variety suitable for every need from week-end trips to "around-the-world-travel." They are located at 235-237 Market St., Wilmington.

Holden's

Oil Process Wave 3"

You'll be walking on "pink clouds" over the 4th of July holiday if you don't get one of the "Holden's" famous permanent waves before you go to the seashore. This shop is busy every hour of the day putting in permanents. Did you know that they give the oil process wave? Well they do, and they look just so natural that you can hardly tell it is a permanent. Each wave is large and loose—all the way down to the end of the hair. Right now they are giving these waves very reasonable—but I would advise you to write and make your appointment early, and be assured of your wave for the holiday. Don't forget the address, 223 W. 9th St., Wilmington.

West Side Cleaner and Dyer

This is about the last call for my readers to take their winter draperies to the West Side Cleaner and Dyer, 4th and Adams Streets, Wilmington, and have them cleaned and repaired for next winter. They will also pack them so that the dressed moth will never get very close. You know last week, while I was out at this shop they had just completed the cleaning and dyeing of a pair of delft blue velvet drapes, and really it would take an expert to tell them from new, they were so lovely! If you have neglected bringing your draperies or winter clothing to have them cleaned, do not put it off another day, as this shop is rushed with work. You will find their prices very reasonable. The West Side Cleaner and Dyer, 4th and Adams Streets, Wilmington.

Cobweb Tea Room

Sunday Dinner

I'd need an adding machine to count up the friends I've made over telling them about the lovely "Cobweb" Tea Room at Centerville, Delaware. You remember I told you about their delicious Sunday dinner. Well the dinner they serve during the week is just as lovely. The hostess of this nice place has asked me to tell my readers that they would appreciate very much if you would make reservations. This is to insure the guest of no waiting and quick service. I could just write columns and columns about this attractive Tea Room—but my space will not permit me to do this. So I do hope that you will visit it yourself during the next week, and be convinced of its beauty. I know you will enjoy the food to the last crumb. Here are your directions: Straight out the Kennett Pike to Centerville, and about one-half mile beyond on the right hand side of the Pike—you can't miss it.

Rommel, Stationer

Greeting Cards 3"

You know I'm always interested in pretty greeting cards, and really I can think of no better place to buy them than at the Rommel Stationery Store, 105 W. 8th Street, Wilmington. They have cards for every occasion, and their collection is wide and varied. Another attractive feature of this shop is their lending library, where you can get the latest books for only three cents a day. You know I think that many of my readers will be glad to know this, because you know there's nothing better than a good book for your week-end trip. Stop here the next time you are in Wilmington and browse around. They also carry a nice line of bridge prizes, all marked most reasonable. Put down this address for future reference: Rommel Stationery Store, 105 W. 8th Street, Wilmington.

Annette Apparel Shop

The frocks, long sleeved or sleeveless, awaits your selection at the Annette Apparel Shop, 828 Market Street, Wilmington. All the imported patterns in the pastel loveliness of old French gardens, in smart modern designs, and amusing prints. Prices for this week will be $3.75 and $4.75. Any of these frocks would sell for much more. The frock sketched is a soft shade of blue and sells for $9.75. Put down the address—Annette Apparel Shop, 828 Market St., Wilmington.

Delaware Tea House

Fried Chicken

I have had many inquiries from people asking me about a reliable tea room that would not be too far away from Wilmington. Well I think it would be rather hard to beat the Delaware Tea House—on the Lincoln Highway between Newark and Wilmington. Really every time I eat there I am almost tempted to ask about the cook. Such delicious fried chicken. I am sure she must be a Southerner to know how to cook chicken like that—and their rolls are the last word in

Leshem Beauty Salon

Permanent Wave

What would one do without a permanent wave on a vacation? Well, we moderns just can't do without one. The Leshem Beauty Salon—Main Arcade of the DuPont Bldg., Wilmington, gives all the new modern methods of permanent waving. They have only the best operators, and will treat your hair before waving. Aside from this this salon also excels in every line of beauty and will help you to retain your youthful appearance. Pierre Dumond's Parisian Poudre—they will blend to suit your particular complexion. This salon is most conveniently located, Leshem Main Arcade of the DuPont Bldg., Wilmington.

Cann Bros. & Kindig

Printers

Last week I received an invitation to a very lovely garden party. The invitation was printed on the most exquisite stationery that I have ever seen. I just could not help but inquire where my hostess had found same. She informed me that they were printed at Cann Bros. & Kindig, 12 and Washington Streets, Wilmington. Really I feel that nothing I write could ever half explain just how nice this work was—but here is a bit of news news that I learned. This firm will send a representative to your home, and let you select your paper and type for your parties, weddings, in fact any social affair, and the price is most reasonable. The next time you are sending out invitations, give them a call—I know you will be pleased with their work. Cann Bros. & Kindig, 12 and Washington Streets, Wilmington.

Y.M.C.A.

Wholesome Food

Right here in the heart of Wilmington's Shopping District, there is just what I heard a party at last week. They were referring to Wilmington's new Y. M. C. A., 11th and Washington Streets. You know it is most convenient for motorists. Did you know that women as well as men may go to this dining room to eat. They have a most competent cook, who serves only the most wholesome foods. The next time you are in Wilmington drive out to the Y. M. C. A. and have a delicious dinner or lunch. You are sure to like it and want to come back. The address is 11th and Washington Streets, Wilmington—Y. M. C. A.

A bulletin that has been issued gives the following information as to the purpose of the school and other details of the school as follows:

"The summer school at the University of Delaware is maintained primarily to give teachers in service an opportunity to utilize a portion of the summer vacation in further study and preparation for their work. Its specific purposes are:

1. To make it possible for every teacher in the State, who has the required amount of high school preparation to obtain a first grade elementary certificate.

2. To enable experienced first grade teachers to satisfy the State Board requirements for an elementary principal's certificate.

3. To give teachers in secondary schools an opportunity to make a special study of organization and methods of teaching now being stressed by the State Department of Education with reference to Junior and Senior High Schools.

4. To give all teachers, and other persons as well, who have set graduation from college as their goal, an opportunity to use a portion of the summer in working toward that end.

"With the foregoing purposes in view the program of studies has been extended to include, (1) all of the subjects now required for a first grade certificate, (2) the additional subjects required for an elementary principal's certificate, (3) courses in junior and senior high school organization and methods, and (4) practically all of the courses definitely required and a considerable number that may be used as electives for the baccalaureate degree.

"There are no examinations or other regular requirements for admission to the summer school. All persons who hold a teacher's certificate or have passed, in whole or in part, the State board examinations are eligible to attend. All other persons must satisfy the director of the summer school that they are able to pursue with profit the courses for which they wish to register. Admission by the director is not a guarantee that the State board will reimburse the student for summer school expenses. Only those who comply with the rules of the State board concerning attendance at summer schools may expect such reimbursement.

"All courses offered in the summer session carry college credit. The credits earned are applicable, according to the aims of the student, toward the earning of an elementary teacher's diploma or a college degree. The normal amount of credit that may be earned in one summer session is six credit hours and the maximum is eight credit hours. No student is permitted to register for the maximum without the permission of the Director of the summer school and this permission is granted only to those students whose previous records demonstrate their ability to do a superior grade of work.

"The foregoing policy is in harmony with the regulations of the State Board of Education governing reimbursements for summer school expenses.

"For residents of Delaware tuition is free; non-residents are charged the nominal fee of $15.00 for the term. Owing to the large increase in the enrollment in recent years and the desire of the University and the State Board of Education to keep the standard of instruction and other services of the summer session up to the level heretofore maintained it has been found necessary to charge a small incidental fee of $2.50 to provide such service as can not be provided with the funds available from other sources. Room in the dormitories and board at the University Commons may be had at the rates stated in the following list of expenses:

Incidental fee (due from all students), $2.50; tuition fee (due from non-residents only), $15.00 room and board, for the term, $55.00; board without room, for the term, $40.00; Board, per day, $1.00.

Single meals: Breakfast, $.40; luncheon, $.40; dinner, $.75.

"The incidental fee, the tuition fee in the case of non-resident students, and at least half of the room and board fee must be paid at the time the student registers.

"Residence Hall, Sussex Hall, and New Castle Hall, the three large dormitories at the Women's College will be utilized for living accommodations for women students. With the exception of about thirty-five single rooms each bed room accommodates two students. Each student is expected to provide her own pillows, pillow-cases, blankets, sheets, towels and couch cover. A reasonable amount of room linen, if marked with indelible ink or woven tape with name in full, will be laundered free.

"All women students under twenty-five years of age are required to live in the dormitories or with relatives. Rooms may be reserved in advance by sending a deposit fee of $5.00 to the Director of the Summer School or the Dean of Women. This fee will be deducted from the amount charged for room and board. Accommodations in private homes will be secured for men students, upon request, by the director.

"Meals will be served in the new dining hall at the Women's College. All dormitories and the dining hall are under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Kelly as Dean of Women. Students who occupy rooms in the dormitories must take their meals at the college.

"The swimming pool in Taylor Gymnasium will be open each afternoon for the use of summer school students. The swimming instructor will be present at all times the pool is in use and will give instruction to all who wish it. To meet the expense of operating the pool, a fee of two dollars ($2.00) will be charged for the term.

"Students who expect to use the pool must provide their own bathing suit, cap, towels, and soap. Bathing shoes are useful but not a necessity.

The swimming instructor will be present on registration day to assist students for the swimming pool and to furnish any further information needed.

The University tennis courts are open, without cost to all students who wish to use them. Tennis balls and racket must be furnished by the student.

"Monday, June 23, will be devoted to registration and to the assignment of work for the first registration day, will be held the following morning. Classes will be conducted according to the regular schedule and textbooks have been secured and assignments prepared for those registered in their courses. State Department of Education requires an attendance of thirty days for certificate renewal and presence, including absence on registration day, will be excused on the most serious and unusual reasons.

"The daily programs of all students must be approved by the director of the Summer School. Wednesday, June 25, is the last day for changes in programs, except those occasioned by the Summer School authorities, may be made on the day of loss of credit in the taken up."
